—Mr. and Mrs. John Miller, of Chicago Junction, Ohio, are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Dr. Stamets.

—One may go around the world in 34 days when the great Trans-Siberian railway, of which we give a picture, is completed.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jay Love are the proud parents of a fine girl baby, born this morning. Dr. Vesta Swarts reports all well.

—John Lochner, at Argos, has put a cylinder press into the Reflector office. We are glad to note this evidence of solid success in business.

—Mrs. A. B. Richards and Mrs. H. E. Trout visited their father at Fairfield township today. Mr. Buss' health is in very poor condition.

—The Sanitarium at the Leedy Springs near Pierceton, was destroyed by fire the other day. The buildings were new and cost about $7000. Insurance, $5,000.

—Miss Margaret Ford, of the COURIER staff, went over to Hicksville today to remain a week or two with her grandfather, G. W. Lewis. We hope she may have a pleasant visit.

—Levi Treesh of Richland, was here Thursday and ordered the Old Reliable COURIER sent to his son C. L. Treesh, who is an employe in the big Flint-Walling plant at Kendallville.

—Dr. Baxter, Miles Baxter and John Baxter left this morning on the early Lake Shore freight for Hamilton, where they will have a day's hunting. They will return tomorrow at 10:20.

—Soothing, healing, cleansing, De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is the implacable enemy of sores, burns and wounds. It never fails to cure Piles. You may rely upon it. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—There was another break in the pipes last evening. The pressure was put up to 125 lbs., and a break accurred just in front of the Auburn House property. Workmen began repairing it this morning.

—Mrs. Barns returned from Albion yesterday, after a pleasant visit with the friends there. J. J. Martin's folks are in fairly good health. Mrs. M's sister, Mrs. Steve Martin was also there and reports her people well.

—L. D. Nelson has thanks for subscription sent in today by his son Frank. The latter is following in the steps of both his parents and is a teacher. He is in charge of the Junction school, and reports have it is doing good work.

—W. J. McGee of Idaville, Ind., is in town on business. Mr. McGee was a member of Co. K. It will be remembered that he was working in the interest of the Climax Fence Co., in this county when a call for recruits was made for Company K, and enlisted then.

—MARRIED:—yesterday at the Lutheran parsonage at 4 p. m. by J. D. Brosy, Wesley Carper and Lola Provines, Mr. Carper is one of DeKalb's able corps of teachers. He is teaching in Dis. No. 2, in Jackson township. We extend our best wishes to this worthy couple.

—Mrs. Ehlers started on her southern trip today on the Wabash forenoon train. She will stop over Sunday at Franklin, where the Baptist college is located, and from that place go on to Memphis, Tenn., where she expects to remain three or four months. The good wishes of all our people will go with her during her absence.

—W. C. Hartman reports that the company with which he is connected made a Thanksgiving present of 72 turkeys to the employes at the Roann factory. This included only the married men, and as they have a good many unmarried ones, it shows they have a large force at work. It also shows a liberal spirit on the part of the company.

Not a Campaign Lie

The horrible news comes from Kansas that a young man climbed a cornstalk last Monday to see how the ears were getting along, and now the corn is growing up faster than he can climb down. Three men have undertaken to cut down the stalk, but owing to its rapid growth it is feared they will not succeed in time to prevent the young man's death by starvation. He is subsisting on raw corn and has already thrown down four bushels of cobs and it is now thought that his supply is almost exhaueted.

A CASE OF KIDNEY DISEASE GIVEN UP BY FOUR DOOTORS.

Beaver Dam, O.

My daughter, after being treated by four doctors and given up for lost, a neighbor recommended Foley's Kidney Cure. Today she is able to walk several miles without fatigue. I feel we would have lost her if it was not for your medicine.

Respectfully,

MRS. J. M BAILEY.

A Spanish Turkey

The Turkey to the Executioner: "Just one moment please."

Executioner: "What is it?"

Turkey: "I wish time to prepare an ultimatum on such a vital question."

Saturday's Daily.

—At present, the state of Indiana has not a single soldier in the state service.

—The Corunna Farmers' Institute is held Dec. 2 and 3, Friday and Saturday of next week.

—The water in Lake Wawassee is higher than it has been at this time in the season for many years.

—Fort Wayne Journal:—Mrs. J. Y W. McClellan of Auburn spent Thanksgiving with friends in this city.

—The first sleigh of the season was on our streets this forenoon. But we can say the sleighing was very good.

—Mrs. F. A. Borst went over to Columbia City today, to visit a short time with her cousin, ex-sheriff John McNabb.

—Options are being taken lands about the lakes at Middlebury, by parties interested in cement works, says the Independent.

—The first order filled by the Auburn Foundry & Machine Works was today, it being a lot of sled soles for bobs, and goes to Pleasant Lake.

—Prof. Johnson and Herb Waterman of Ashley were in town today for a few hours. They have been attending Teacher's Association at Garrett.

—This weeks Press speaks more unkindly of gamblers than it has for some time. We tried hard to get it into this way of thinking before the election, but failed.

—Charles Eckhart and M. T. Bishop reached home on the Wabash train last evening. They had been at Indianapolis attending the state prohibition meeting in session there.

—The 27th Battery the only Indiana company that got into actual service, has been mustered out. It is an Indianapolis organization, and they are already talking up a new company.

—A man who took a city paper because he could get more reading matter than in his home paper, read an advertisement of a pocket fire escape. He sent a dollar and in a few days received a New Testament.

—Isaac Smith, the ten year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith of East Auburn, died this forenoon at about 10:30. The cause, we are told was some trouble resulting from a recent attack of scarlet fever.

—T. W. O'Brien, formerly of Pierceton, died recently at Pasadena, Calif, as a result of a surgical operation. Many readers of the COURIER knew the O'Briens, who were a prominent family in Kosciusko county.

—Those who thought there was a break in the pipes by the northwest corner of the public square were mistaken. It was the apparatus for cooking feed for stock. We are told that farmers are using cooked food a good deal now.

—Mr. and Mrs. Loucks of Montpelier, Ind. ate Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Dickenson. Also, Mr. and Mrs. Enance of Spencerville, and Geo. Hensinger and wife of Mooresville, and Walter Dickinson of Lincoln, Neb.

—The buildings of the Indiana Medical College at Indianapolis burned yesterday morning. Dr. Morgan Shobe of Ligonior was in the building at the time and was seriously, perhaps fatally burned. We believe he is a son of Taylor Shobe, the horse dealer so well known to many in Auburn.

Surprised Him.

Harry Rainier was 32 years old yesterday, a very lucky number for anybody, but especially so for Harry. His wife planned a surprise on him, and on some excuse sent him down town On his return, a houseful of faces greeted him, to his utter dismay at first, but to his delight when he had caught his second breath and got his eyes back into his head. Then followed a good time and a sumptuous dinner, all of which was enjoyed greatly. Harry received a number of gifts, one that was especially acceptable was a life size picture of the baby. Harry now wants a birthday every week or two.

To Boom Wawassee

(Avilla News)

The Wawassee Inn company has been organized to develop a modern watering place at Syracuse lake. Shares have been issued to the number of 888, from the sale of which it is expected to raise over $20,000 which will be expended in erecting buildings and improving the grounds. The backers of the project are Chicago and Indianapolis men adn the resort will open next season.

Not a Cast Iron Stomach.

Of course you haven't. No one need have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a remedy prepared on purpose for stomach troubles, weak stomach, sour stomach, big stomach, little stomach, or any irregularities caused from indigestion or constipation. They can be permanently and thoroughly cured by the use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which is made in three sizes, 10cts, 50cts, and $1.00, and is sold by Davenport the druggist.

Watch to be Given Away.

I will give a ticket with every dozen Cabinets in Platino or Dull finish on a Lady's or Gentleman's Gold watch to be drawn on Xmas eve, as a Xmas present to the lucky holder. Now is the time to have your Xmas Pictures taken, don't wait until one or two weeks before Xmas, to have your Negatives made. To take effect at once.

HOFFMAN, The Artist,

Cor. 7 & Jackson-st, Auburn, Ind.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 13, 1898.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 00 pm	5 55
New Era	12 12 pm	5 17	6 40
Auburn Junction	12 26	5 28	7 10
Auburn	12 29	5 32	7 35
Waterloo	12 41	5 43	8 15
Summit	12 52	5 53	8 25
Steubenville	12 56	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	8 56
Angola	1 13	6 14	9 35
Jackson	2 25	8 35	2 40pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	6 00 am	11 20 am	7 15 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	9 35
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 29	9 55
Steubenville		2 36	9 51
Summit	11 50	2 39	9 56
Waterloo	12 4[illegible] pm	2 55	10 10
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 20
Auburn Junction	1 35	3 08	10 22
New Era	1 54	3 18	10 [illegible]
Fort Wayne	2 50	3 50	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

City Comforts for Country Homes

CHEAPER AND BETTER THAN ELECTRICITY, CITY GAS, OIL LAMPS

Will light the house, cook, broil, roast, bake, wash, iron, heat rooms, pump water supply, run gas engines etc.

Send for free Catalogue

LIGHT FOR EVENING HOURS.

DETROIT HEATING and LIGHTING CO.

DETROIT • • • MICH.

OLD FRIENDS ARE BEST.

Handsome. Durable.

TRADE MARK.

No Place like Home.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT

still stands first for quality. If your dealer does not sell it, be sure and write us for SPECIAL PRICES. We make everything you need in Paints, Colors, Varnishes, Brushes, Etc.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT CO., CHICAGO.

WANTED:

FARM PRODUCTS IN EXCHANGE FOR BICYCLES OR HARNESS.

Money not a necessity. You produce what we can use. We make what you want.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 1, one-piece crank, latest model, the equal of the best Bicycle made, your own specifications, $50.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 2, three-piece crank, your own specifications, $45.

"Marlo" Racer, a very fine machine, $60.

We sell Bicycles for cash or on the monthly payment plan, anywhere in the United States or Canada. We make very liberal allowances for old wheels. We also sell second-hand wheels at from $3 to $20. Don't fail to write us if you want a wheel or harness on the best terms ever offered.

We allow ruling Buffalo prices for all kinds of farm products that can be shipped economically to Buffalo. Tell us what you have to exchange and we will quote prices we can offer. Enclose stamps for further information or for price list of our Handmade Harness and Horse Collars.

MARLO CYCLE CO.,

61 Terrace, Buffalo, N. Y.

IT BURNS GAS?

THE "SOLAR"

The New Acetylene Gas Bicycle Lamp.

No More SOOT, SMOKE, GREASE nor DANGER

It can't jar or blow out like an Oil Lamp.

ABSOLUTELY NON-EXPLOSIVE.

Light costs ¼ of a cent an hour. Thrown a clear, white light 100 feet ahead. Send for circular and learn about the . . . .

Greatest Bicycle Lamp of the Year

From your dealer or sent prepaid for $4.00.

BADGER BRASS MFG. CO.

KENOSHA, WIS.

A QUEER (?) MEDICINE.

There is a medicine whose proprietors do not claim to have discovered some hitherto unknown ingredient, or that it is a cure-all. This honest Medicine only claims to cure certain diseases, and that its ingredients are recognized by the best for Kidney and Bladder Diseases, It is Foley's Kidney Cure.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

Volume XXVIII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, December 8, 1898. | Number 49.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2	6:25 am—Daily
No. 10	8:46 am—ex Su
No. 6	4:10 pm—ex Su
No. 4	4:19 pm—Daily
No. 70 (local freight)	5:20 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1	1:14 am—Daily
No. 7	10:21 am—ex Su
No. 9	6:17 pm—ex Su
No. 3	7:18 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	11 00 am—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen'l Manager.
C. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96
Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	3:53 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:30 a m
No. 5 Daily	5:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday	12:25 a m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No 41 Daily	11:41 p m
No 16, Daily, except Sunday	12:25p m

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind
THOS. H. SPROTT CHAS. H. KNAPP

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier,

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

T.G. Matheny, M.D. J.B. Casebeer, M.D.
Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
have again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE

Office	No. 9
Matheny's residence	" 88
Casebeer's "	" 175

S. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy buildin northeast corner of Square Western Phone 108
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works. Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physcian & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUGSTORE
In the National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Calls Answered At All Hours,

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

LONG TRIP ENDED.

The McIraths Reach the end of Their Journey Chicago December 1.

They are Glad it is Over, Are Received With Glad Hands

The Chicago Record of Dec, 2, says of the famous pair of bicycles:

"I'm so tired. It all seems strange and I want to cry." She leaned her bloomer-clad figure against a '95 model and smiled as a few tears dropped on her sweater. She was home and trying to shake a thousand hands that were held out in the drizzle to greet her. Her husband was by her giving a jerky twist to every arm that passed him. They were the McIlraths back on their native cobblestones after a 30,000-mile turn around the world. It took them three years seven month twenty-one days two hours and fifty seven minutes.

The travelers and bunch of bluecoats were cheered, in fact the McIraths and their whole procession were a howling train of joy as they pedaled home from that long distance ride. The man who was buying a '99 model looked as if he were on a loser as the '95 make went by, For these riders came back on the mounts they floated away on April 10, 1895.

ENDS LONG TRIP IN BLOOMERS.

They had plunged into Japan, China, flew across the Mongolian continent, drifted into Lenares, "did" Lucknow Bushire, plodded through Persia, Russia, Turkey, Roumania, England, New York and when they got here Mrs. McIlrath was wearing bloomers.

"I couldn't ride in a skirt," she whispered to a relative, who was asking questions. She had dimples accompanying her smile and her blue eyes flashed good-naturedly in the shadow of her hat brim.

"But what did Pauline say when she saw you in New York?"

"Oh, she thought the bloomers were dreadful—unwomanly, you know, and all that."

"Did you give in?"

"Not till I got to Buffalo Then I tried a divided skirt. I did my best, but oh, the roads were bad, the skirt got in sprocket and I turned to the bloomers again."

Mrs. McIlrath wore mittens, too—black ones, made of woolen stuff. She covered her ankles with thick black gaiters and also wound some worsted stuff around her neck. A brown coat of the same material as the bloomers hung looseley about her with a bulging pocket or two and a torn strip of lining resting over the hip. Everybody that went by her said something sounding like this: "Am so glad you're here." with the response: "Thank you. I'm so glad you're glad. Yes, I'm weary. No! I didn't know Jessie was married. I haven't tried thirty-inch wheels. What kind of creams did you say was good for the complexion? I never rode a high gear. Perhaps I'il go to housekeeping."

The trip of the doctor and his wife began with a "westward ho" spirit. San Francisco was reached in fifty-two days After eleven weeks had been spent at San Francisco they took passage for Yokohama. Jan. 12 they sailed for Shanghi, and spent four weeks studying that city and its people.

March 3, 1896, they started directly across Mongolia. After climbing mountains and traversing plains for a distance of 4,200 miles they reached Burmah, just about a year after their departure from Shanghai.

Then they went through India, Persia, Russia, Turkey, Ronmania Austria, Germany and England, and took passage for New York where they arrived in October. There they rested for a short time, and then took up their final journey for Chicago.

Little People

Little people are liable to have cute ideas. A case in point is that of Mr Seiler's little girl. She is six and her brother Paul is ten. They had been down at her grandpa's, Jerry Andrews' for two or three weeks, while her people were moving down here from Ashley. On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Seiler drove down there intending to bring one of them home. They could bring only one, and the little girl was getting anxious to be at home with her mamma. So when the question came up as to whether she or Paul should come. she decided it by saying, "Well, you see, mamma, Paul is older than I am, and he is better acqainted with grandpa and grandma." The argument was irresistible. She got to come home

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT OF ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Fred Groscop deceased to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 16th day of January 1899 and show cause if any, why my Final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 17th day of Nov. 1898.
GEORGE W. CROOKS.
J. F. Shuman, Att'y.

Two Weeks Until Christmas!

NOT LONG, IS IT?

No doubt you are intending to make at least a few presents on this occasion. Again you may not have been able to decide just what you would like to buy. Now we've been thinking for you these many weeks and as a result we are nicely prepared to assist you. We have gathered together by far the largest and prettiest assortment of articles suitable for Christmas presents we have ever shown. We mention some lines on which we have made an extra effort to excel.

UMBRELLAS.

We don't believe you could find a handsomer lot of umbrellas in Fort Wayne than we are showing this year.

HANDKERCHIEFS.

Last year we were paid a great many compliments on our exceptionally fine line of these goods. This years' supply is much larger and far handsomer.

GLOVES.

We have a fine selection for Men, Women or Children—lined with silk or unlined as you choose.

FURS.

Nothing nicer for presents. We have just received another large assortment purposely for the holiday trade.

NECKWEAR and MUFFLERS.

All the new shapes and colorings and a plenty from which to choose.

RUGS.

More patterns twice over than were ever shown before.

CARPET SWEEPERS.

We have the celebrated Bissell's Gold Medal and American Queen. There is nothing better to be had.

SMOKING JACKETS.

We have cuts and sample swatches from which to order for you. Make your selection early and we will not disappoint you.

We are Saving You Money.

Schaab & Bro.

SORE LUNGS

Sore lungs, pain in the chest and painful breathing are quickly relieved and cured by the old reliable specific, Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. This remarkable remedy breaks up a cold in one night and is, without doubt, the very best medicine for all affections of the throat and lungs. It has cured thousands and will cure you. It never disappoints. Try it at once.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Will quickly Heal Sore Lungs.
Doses are small and pleasant to take. Doctors recommend it. Price 25 cts. At all druggists.

Samples Free.

The great number of newspapers, magazines, etc., that are now being published have made it very hard for the readers to decide just what one they wish to subscribe for. The American Subscription Agency, of Indianapolis, Ind., have compiled a list of 100 papers that they offer to send a sample copy of each to any address upon receipt of 10 cents to pay for mailing. They do this so that you may see and read a copy of each paper before subscribing. If you decide to subscribe to any of their papers to the amount of $1 they offer to deduct the 10 cents sent from the subscribtion. Send 10 cents to the American Subscription Agency, 653 Arch St., Indianapolis, Ind., and you will receive one hundred papers. j23

Endorsed by the Governor

West Virginia's chief magistrate recommends Pe-ru-na, the National Catarrh Remedy and Nerve Tonic.

REPRESENTATIVE MEN are slow to speak for publication. This is because their influence is so great. The endorsement of Governors, Senators and Congressmen guarantees merit. Public words of praise from such prominent officials must be based on positive knowledge. The recognition which the catarrh remedy Pe-ru-na is constantly receiving by men of national fame is very gratifying. Among recent letters from persons of eminence is the following from Governor Atkinson of West Virginia. The governor says:

Gov. G. W. Atkinson of West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, West Va., March 9, 1898.
The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.
GENTLEMEN:—"I can recommend your prescription Pe-ru-na as a tonic. Its reputation as a cure for catarrh is excellent, it having been used by a number of people known to me with the very best results."
Very truly,
GOV. G. W. ATKINSON.

Catarrh is the national disease. Not an American family is free from it. The search for relief and cure is constant. Experiments of all kinds are continually made without result for good. Ignorance of the causes and nature of catarrh is universal. Catarrh is elusive, persistent, penetrating. It may exist in any organ of the body. For this national malady there exists the national scientific remedy Pe-ru-na which for forty years has been doing a grand work.

Pe-ru-na is the unflinching foe of catarrh and overcomes it wherever it may exist. It is the prescription of Dr. Hartman, President of the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, O., who gives personal attention, without charge, to a voluminous correspondence on the subject of catarrhal diseases. Dr. Hartman's books on catarrh are mailed on application. All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

B. & O. WRECK.

Nine Men Seriously Hurt In a Rear End Freight Train Collision.

Walkerton, Ind., the Scene of the Terrible Catastrophe.

A bad wreck occurred up the B. & O. at Walkerton, this morning between six and seven o'clock. A double header freight was following up another freight train, and ran into the rear end of the latter, smashing the caboose and several cars and injuring the locomotive. There were several men in the caboose, and these as well as the men on the two engines were more or less injured. Nine men were seriously hurt, mostly with broken limbs, and it was a remarkable thing that the most of them had their legs broken at about the same place, some of them in two places. Others not so badly injured were seriously bruised. Among the injured is Theo. Shoman, of Garrett, his chances of life being doubtful. Shoman is known here in Auburn, and was a schoolmate, we believe, of McDonald, of the Dispatch office. When the mail train that gets here at 11 a. m., coming early out of Chicago, reached the scene, it was a pitiful sight. Father Juraschek, of Summit, was on the train and he described it as a harrowing scene, with the wrecked and torn cars and bleeding men. Those hurt were all taken into one of the cars and he says the entire car seemed filled with sufferers. They were brought to Garrett, for care and treatment.

Important Business Change.

One of the most important changes we have reported lately, will go into effect now in a few days. The Eckhart Carriage Company has rented the greater part of the Bradford Hotel building, and will fit it up for use as a carriage repositary and salesroom. They have secured the south part of the basement and all of the first floor, and the necessary changes will soon be made. This will give them all the two large rooms now used as a dining room and the north part, used as an office, and the rooms back of both, for the partitions will be taken out. Then these rooms will be filled as full as they can be with samples of every kind of carriage made by that great manufactory. And it is the intention to keep this splendid stock always full. Their local agents, Culbertson and Boland will have the privilege of taking out such carriages as they need in their line of the business, and the vacant place will be at once filled by new work. It will all be kept up in city style and will be one of the most business-like places in the town, The lease begins tomorrow, Dec. 1, and is for two years, with the privilege of five years. Mr. Ralston, of course, retires from the hotel, giving up the building next Monday. We have not learned what he will engage in, but hope in common with many others that the lines of himself and wife may be found in pleasant places and that prosperity may be theirs, They leave the hotel with many kind remembrances on the part of their guests.

Lost.

Many have lost confidence and hope as well as health because they have been told their Kidney disease was incurable. Foley's Kidney Cure is a Guaranteed remedy for the discouraged and disconsolate.

Double Wedding.

Two couples were married at about the same time at the rooms of Rev. W. L. Meese at the west end of Ninth-st. yesterday afternoon. The first couple that came was Geo. Putt and Miss Ollie Skelley of Hudson, and to their surprise another couple followed them right in. Business was lively, and the good minister proceeded at once, making each couple witnesses for the other. In a few minutes there were four happy hearts in that little home, yes five of them, for Mr. Meese, himself is never so happy as when doing good in the line of his clerical duties. We might add, that here are four more young people who will be glad to unroll their names next year at the Meese Matrimonial Reunion. The COURIER hopes their married life may be as happy as that of the other members of that association.

Millions Given Away.

It is certainly gratifying to the public to know of one concern in the land who are not afraid to be generous to the needy and suffering. The proprietors of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds, have given away over ten million trial bottles of this great medicine; and have the satisfaction of knowing it has absolutely cured thousands of hopeless cases Asthma, Bronchitis, Hoarseness and all diseases of the Throat, Chest and Lungs are surely cured by it. Call on H. B. McCord, druggist, and get a free trial bottle. Regular size 50c and $1. Every bottle guaranteed or price refunded.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Office Changes

Mrs. LaDue who has so ably assisted her father, Clerk Long, in his office, is going to retire and assume the duties of housekeeping. This was contemplated on her marriage, but she has gone on with her work, till her father could make suitable arrangements for other assistance. This is now all settled, and she goes out today, giving place to Miss Blanche Shilling, who was in the office under Mr. Moody and for a short time under Mr. Long. Miss Shilling has for a year or so been employed in keeping books in the sheriff's office, but her long experience in the clerk's office will make her a valuable assistant. Her place in the sheriff's office will be taken by Miss Nettie Ernest, who used to help there, and in the recorder's office. She has lately been in Washington City, where she was employed in the big pension office of P. J. Lockwood But she preferred to return and work here in Auburn. Mrs. LaDue has been a bright and faithful deputy and her work was eminently sattefactory. She has always been pleasant and accommodating, and these desirable conditions will be continued under her successor.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

The Kidney Complexion.

The pale, sallow, sunken-cheeked, distressed-looking people you so often meet are afflicted with "Kidney Complexion."

Their kidneys are turning to a parsnip color. So is their complexion.

They may also have indigestion, or suffer from sleeplessness, rheumatism, neuralgia brain trouble, nervous exhaustion and sometimes the heart acts badly.

The cause is weak, unhealthy kidneys.

Usually the sufferer from kidney disease do s not find out what the trouble is until it is almost too late, because the first symtoms are so like mild sickness that they do not think they need a medicine or a doctor until they find themselves sick in bed.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root will build up and strengthen their weak and diseased kidneys, purify their diseased, kidney-poisoned blood, clear their complexion and soon they will enjoy better health.

You can get the regular sizes at the drugstore, at fifty cents and one dollar, or you may first prove for yourself the wonderful virtues of this great discovery, Swamp-Root, by sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co, Binghamton, N. Y. or a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. When writing kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in the AUBURN COURIER.

HEAVY BURGLARY.

Pleasant Lake is Touched For At Least a Thousand.

Chadwick, Ransburg & Co., are the Chief Sufferers in Cash and Property.

Last night, or rather about 2 o'clock this morning, the big general store of Chadwick, Ransberg & Co., at Pleasant Lake was broken into by a gang of five men, who pried open the front door, and gained an entrance into the room occupied by a watchman who sleeps in the store. They overpowered him, bound and gagged him, leaving him secure, and yet able to see and hear a good deal of what followed. They went at the safe next, and blew it open with dynamite, using two charges, tearing it all to pieces. The noise of the explosion roused the people near by, but by the time they could come to the store, the burglars had secured their plunder and gone. It is supposed they had a team. They got all the money and valuables in the safe, There was about $300 cash belonging to the firm, and all the money and stamps belonging to the postoffice. And it seems that there was a considerable money deposited in the safe by outside parties, as there is no regular bank there. These deposits, were taken, also, of course. It is believed that altogether the thieves got at least $1000. They also took several overcoats and other things.

The watchman begged them not to let him lie helpless so near the safe, when it would explode, and they carried him into another room. The safe door was blown through the heavy plate glass front and a good deal of injury done. There is no clue. The robbers all wore masks but the watchman thinks he might know one of them.

For Hoarseness.

Benj. Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind., says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers.

The Corn Market.

We are and have been shipping great quanities of corn to Denmark and other North Europe countries, where it is used to fatten hogs and cattle, as it is even there cheaper than any other fattening food. But the complaint now comes that we are too careless in cleaning it, leaving a good deal of broken cobs and dirt in the grain. If we hold this market, we should take pains to give them a first-class article. The world has great markets for our corn if we prove deserving.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and Substitutes are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Harmless and Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1898. DECEMBER. 1898.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

L. Q. 5th. N. M. 12th. F. Q. 19th. F. M. 27th.

HISTORY OF A WEEK.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS OF THE WORLD.

News of Crimes and Criminals, Accidents, Fires, Etc., from North, South, East and West, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

Thirty-seven Lost.

Lisbon special: Thirty-seven people were drowned who were on board the British steamer Clan Drummond, from Clyde via Liverpool for Cape Good Hope, wrecked in the Bay of Biscay. The remainder of the ship's company saved numbered twenty-three, who are on board the British steamer Holbein, Capt. Shurlock, from London and Antwerp for Rio Janeiro, anchored off Cascaes, fifteen miles west of here. The Holbein has her propeller shafting in the tunnel broken. The Clan Drummond hailed from Glasgow and belonged to the fleet of Irvine & Co.

Gave Himself Up.

Thomas C. Beckwith of Boston, Mass., walked into the Harrison street police station, Chicago, the other day, and asked to be arrested. He confessed to the embezzlement of $15,000 from Niles & Co. of Boston. His request was promptly complied with. Beckwith, who had but $2.50 of the $15,000, said that he chose to give himself up rather than commit suicide, which course he had first decided upon. Beckwith broke down completely and cried like a child.

Warship to Havana.

A special from Washington says: Orders have been issued by Secretary Long to the armored cruiser New York to proceed to Havana, Cuba.

The New York will be the first armor clad of the United States to enter Havana harbor since the battleship Maine arrived there.

Upon her arrival Rear Admiral Sampson will hoist his flag on board and it is expected will come north in her the last of next month.

The Carlist Revolution Promises Soon to Materialize Now.

Count Urbain de Maille, the Carlist chief, said: "Our cause is growing daily. The people of Spain are with us; also the lower orders of the clergy. We can count on the support of the Pope, if successful." The Count further states that Don Carlos is in Vienna, waiting an occasion for the uprising.

Storm Causes a Wreck.

A landslide, brought on by rain and melting snow, caused a wreck on the New York, Susquehanna and Western Railroad, near Swartwood, N. J. Three trainmen were badly injured, and the road blocked to traffic. Engineer Herbert Wayne was thrown down the hill, sustaining internal injuries. Firemen Jerome Posten was badly scalded.

War Ships on the Lakes.

The sub-committee of the Anglo-American Commission, in session at Washington, has reached an agreement that war ships to be built by Canada and the United States on the great lakes must be able to pass through to the ocean. Two 1,000-ton gunboats, carrying six-inch guns, will be allowed on the lakes for naval reserves.

Masonic Temple Attractions, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Dec. 14—"For Her Sake."
Dec. 15—"Shanty-town."
Dec. 17—"In Old Kentucky."
Dec. 26—"A Hired Girl."
Dec. 28—"Why Smith Left Home."
Dec. 31—Julia Marlowe.

A Hundred Thousand.

General Miles, commanding the army, has prepared the draft of a bill providing for a regular standing army of 100,000 men. Chairman Hall of the House Committee on Military Affairs, intends to present the measure in Congress at the first opportunity.

Worst Blizzard on Record.

St. Louis special: The worst blizzard ever known in the southwest raged Sunday night. A tremendous fall of sleet and snow blocked the street railways, and the mines were forced to suspend operations.

Scratched by a Kitten.

At Maysville, Ky., the 6-year-old daughter of A. T. Sloop was scratched on the foot by a pet kitten, and died in great agony from blood poisoning.

B. & O. Collision.

In a rear-end collision of two B. & O. freight trains near Walkerton, Ind., two men, names not learned, are said to have been seriously injured.

Will Sell Spanish Rifles.

The Secretary of War has directed that 9,000 Mauser rifles taken from the Spanish at the surrender of Santiago be disposed of.

Revolution Ended.

A cablegram received at the War Department says the revolution in Salvador is ended.

$75,000 Salvage.

The safe of the Maria Teresa, which has lain for some time in the Navy Yard at Norfolk, was opened recently, and found packed with bags of Spanish and American gold and silver coin. It is estimated that $75,000 in money will be turned over to the proper authorities. The safe will be sent to the National Museum.

Towa Wiped Out.

Nearly the entire business portion of Eufala, I. T., was destroyed by fire. The loss is estimated at $150,000.

Hale Will Oppose Treaty.

Senator Eugene Hale of Maine announces his opposition to the peace treaty which is being formulated at Paris. He is opposed to the acquisition of the Philippines and his antagonism to the treaty will be based upon that section of the treaty which deals with the Philippine question.

Will Advance Rates.

New York special: As a result of heavy losses by the recent storms, the marine underwriters are talking of advancing rates. A meeting will be held here next week and the question will be considered.

Depot Robbers Foiled.

Mr. Isaac Schultes, Grand Rapids and Indiana station agent at Martin, Mich., and his assistant, Marshall Wickes, had a wild west battle with two robbers at the depot recently. Wickes and one of the robbers were wounded. The robbers had blown open the depot safe. A burglar alarm ran from the depot to Schultes' house, and when the robbers began work Schultes and Wickes appeared with Winchesters and ordered the bandits to throw up their hands. Instead they opened fire and a fusillade of shots was exchanged. Wickes fell badly wounded, but will recover. One of the robbers was shot in the leg, but both escaped. The unwounded man stole a horse from a farmer's barn and rode to Grand Rapids. When his horse became exhausted he stole another. Both the Martin robbers were easily captured later, one at Gunn Lake and the other at Wayland. Both were tracked through the snow by posses of citizens.

Dreadful Fire Averted.

The timely discovery by a special officer of a miscreant in the act of starting a fire in the basement of John Wanamaker's extensive department store in Philadelphia, no doubt saved a serious conflagration and possibly the lives of many persons. The building was crowded with thousands of shoppers and employes, about ninety per cent. of whom were women. The flames were seen suddenly to spring from a pile of wicker baskets, and at the same moment an officer seized the man, who was stooping over the baskets in the act of striking a second match. The man gave his name as Michael Morgan and was locked up in default of $2,000 bail. Two boxes of matches and a bottle of turpentine were found in his pockets. Morgan said he had no home.

The Union Broke.

A special from Managua, Nicaragua, says: The attempt to effect a coalition between Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador, to be conducted under a common administration and to be known as the United States of Central America, has failed completely. The federal organizers have formally declared the union dissolved, the three States resuming respectively absolute sovereignty. The collapse was due to the failure of the troops of Honduras, acting on behalf of the federal organizers, to suppress an outbreak in Salvador against the proposed federation and force Salvador into the union.

Choate for the English Mission.

Washington special: Among the visitors at the White House Wednesday was Joseph Choate of New York. Mr. Choate called to pay his respects to the President and remained only a few moments. His presence here, however, has revived the rumor that he will be appointed Ambassador to London. Nothing conclusive could be learned as to the President's intention with regard to the matter.

Filipnos to Fight.

Advices from the Philippine Islands say the insurgents there have decided not to recognize the cession of the islands to the United States and they will resist to the last. It is also claimed that the United States will require 70,000 troops to put down the rebellion, and it is alleged that the insurgents hold 10,000 Spanish prisoners whom they will force to serve against the Americans.

Want Divorce Laws Changed.

The Indiana State Ministerial Association is in session at Anderson, Ind. Rev. U. C. Wade, Presiding Elder of the Muncie district of the Methodist Church, is President. Many delegates are present. The interest centers in the movement to get ministers to refuse to remarry divorced persons and to have the Indiana divorce laws revised.

Convicted of Arson.

A. Lincoln Landis, a member of the firm of Mayer, Landis & Co., whose file works at Twentieth street and Allegheny avenue, Philadelphia, were burned in September, 1897, was the other night convicted of arson, the jury finding him guilty of having set fire to the establishment.

To Be Stationed at Havana.

Information has been received at the War Department of the sailing from Savannah of the transport Manitoba, with the Twenty-second New York Regiment. It will be stationed in territory surrounding Havana.

Steamer Lost.

Nelson (B. C.) special: The Ainsworth, a small steamer plying between Nelson and Bonner's Ferry, was wrecked during a storm on Kootenai Lake, six of her crew and three passengers being drowned.

Bank Quits Business.

The Board of Directors of the Second National Bank of Springfield, Ohio, has decided to go into voluntary liquidation. The bank is one of the oldest in the city.

A Family Cremated.

The home of Hiram Biggs, a farmer living near Perry, O. T., caught fire, and Biggs, his wife and three small children burned to death. The family was asleep.

Threaten to Riot.

A cablegram from Havana says that the revival of talk that riots may again be precipitated by unpaid discontented soldiers is rife on the island.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 66c; corn, No. 2, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2, 26c to 27c; rye, No. 2, 52c to 53c; butter, choice creamery, 21c to 22c; eggs, fresh, 22c to 24c; potatoes, choice, 28c to 40c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $3.00 to $3.50; sheep, common to choice, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 white, 31c to 32c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 29c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2, 26c to 28c; rye, No. 2, 51c to 53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.25; hogs, $3.00 to $3.50; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 33c to 35c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 58c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.25 to $3.75; sheep and lambs, $3.00 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 30c; rye, 55c to 57c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 33c to 35c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 55c; clover seed, new, $4.65 to $4.70.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 3, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 1, 53c to 54c; barley, No. 2, 43c to 50c; pork, mess, $7.50 to $8.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, common to choice, $3.50 to $4.00; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.75; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.75.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 77c; corn, No. 2 40c to 42c; oats, No. 2, 31c to 32c; butter, creamery, 16c to 24c; eggs, Western, 25c to 27c.

NEW BISHOP OF IOWA.

Rev. Dr. Morrison Steps to the Head of the Diocese.

Rev. Dr. Theodore N. Morrison of the Church of the Epiphany, Chicago, was elected bishop of the diocese of Iowa on the second ballot at the diocesan convention in session at Cedar Rapids. Dr. Green was nominated by George A. Goodwell of Cedar Rapids, the nomination being seconded by the Rev. Dr. Morrill of Clinton, who demanded that if any one had charges to make against Dr. Green they should be made in open convention.

DR. MORRISON.

George F. Henry of Des Moines opposed the election of Dr. Green by charges, the evidence in support of which was in the form of a long typewritten manuscript which Mr. Henry admitted to be the report of the detective who had been hired to investigate the life of Dr. Green. It was a mass of alleged evidence gathered at Shawneetown, Ill., at Chicago and at Cedar Rapids.

After the reading of the so-called testimony Mr. Henry concluded his argument against the election of Dr. Green by declaring that this evidence had not been presented as facts which had actually happened, but as tending to show that there were many rumors of misconduct on the part of Dr. Green, and that he was therefore not a fit man to elect to the sacred office. He urged the convention to elect some man whose whole life had been above the taint of suspicion.

In answer to the report read before the convention by George F. Henry Dr. Green arose and addressed the convention as follows: "Standing here in the presence of this altar of Almighty God, standing here before you, friend or foe as you may be, I simply make the one denial that an innocent man dare make, invoking on himself the judgment of the advent God. Of each, of every allegation you have listened to, on the honor of a Christian man, I declare myself absolutely innocent, and may God judge between my accusers and myself."

DR. GREEN.

Col. Charles A. Clark of Cedar Rapids spoke early in the afternoon for two hours in defense of Dr. Green, and produced additional evidence to show that the statements of the detective were not founded on facts, and that neither were the statements of the persons quoted.

Dr. Theodore N. Morrison and Dr. R. C. McIlwain of Keokuk were then nominated, and the balloting was begun. The first ballot resulted: Morrison, 89; Green, 75; McIlwain, 7; Cornell, 4. The second ballot stood: Morrison, 102; Green, 70; Cornell, 3. On motion of Dr. Green, the election of Dr. Morrison was made unanimous.

REGULARS FOR GARRISONS.

Few Volunteer Regiments Likely to Be Sent to Cuba.

If Congress early in the session should make provision for the increase of the regular army it is quite probable that none of the volunteer regiments now in the service will be sent to do garrison duty in Cuba. The troops first to be sent to Cuba will be composed largely of regular regiments, so far as they are available. Plans are maturing for the muster out of as many volunteers now in service as is possible. The demand of the enlisted men to go home and leave the service is growing greater and greater every day. It is well known that the volunteers at Manila desire to come home, and the War Department is considering the question of sending regular regiments to replace those volunteers as soon as arrangements can be made. The regulars who are available for this service comprise those regiments on the western coasts which saw service at Santiago.

CUBANS USE AMERICAN FLAG.

The Insurgents Maintain Order Until United States Troops Arrive.

The Cuban insurgents who took possession of the city of Pinar del Rio upon its evacuation by the Spanish troops under Gen. Velasco on Monday carried the American flag alongside the Cuban banner as they entered the town. The inhabitants made a great demonstration in their honor. The insurgent commander declares that he took possession of the city to maintain order until the arrival of American troops.

GAVE AWAY $50 BILLS.

Insane Man Makes Free Distribution of Money.

An old man with Santa Claus whiskers appeared in Battery Park, New York, and began distributing $20 and $50 bills to laborers and park hoboes. He was soon lost to view in a mass of men fighting for claims on the human Klondike. A policeman stopped the free money party and arrested the philanthropist. At the station house he refused to talk or give his name, but checks were found on him drawn in favor of Daniel Feutz by an Oregon (Mo.) bank. The man had over $1,500 in bills on his person.

WHEELED AROUND THE WORLD.

The McIlraths of Chicago Have Ridden 30,000 Miles.

Dr. and Mrs. H. Darwin McIlrath of Chicago have girdled the globe on their bicycles. They reached Chicago and ended their 'round-the-world tour on Thursday afternoon.

The McIlraths started on their long journey from Chicago Oct. 10, 1895, and wheeled their way to San Francisco in 55 days. They took a steamer for Japan, where they spent four months wheeling, and then crossed to China, where their real trials began. They went 1,600 miles up the Yang Tse Kiang valley to the province of Hunan, into which foreigners are not permitted to go. A number who have attempted it have been massacred, but in ignorance of the fact the McIlraths entered the forbidden ground. They were set upon and stoned, but were eventually rescued by officials and provided with an escort to safe territory.

MR. AND MRS. M'ILRAITH.

Then followed the journey through Burmah, India, Persia, Russia, Austria-Hungary, Germany, France and Great Britain. While crossing the Kuhrud Pass in Persia Mrs. McIlrath had her great toes frozen, and her husband was obliged to amputate a portion of the one on the left foot. The McIlraths say that they have traveled 28,000 miles on land alone, and the expense of their trip was nearly $12,000.

Mr. and Mrs. McIlrath are both members of the Century Road Club of America. The thousand miles between New York and Chicago were covered by the McIlraths awheel. They were accompanied throughout this distance by members of the Century Road Club, who escorted them in relays. Receptions were given them at the principal cities en route.

WHEAT NOT FIT FOR MARKET.

Snow and Rain Cause Loss to North Dakota Farmers.

Thousands of acres of wheat in shock was caught by the recent snowstorm in North Nakota, and will be of no use except for feed. James H. Wilson made this statement in St. Paul. Speaking of the loss of grain to farmers in the northern part of North Dakota, he said that about 10,000,000 bushels of wheat lies under snow there now. It was not stacked, and the rain came and prevented thrashing for several weeks, and was followed by snow, which prevents its being thrashed at all. None of it will be fit for market for flour purposes. This wheat is all owned by farmers in a small way, who did not have the money or inclination to hire help to put it in stacks or buy machines to thrash it before the wet season came on.

STEAMER CITY OF PORTLAND.

Lost off Cape Cod with all on board.

MAP OF NEW ENGLAND COAST.

Showing the track of the terrible gale which destroyed nearly three hundred lives and did financial damage beyond estimate.

BLANCO CALLS WAR UNHOLY.

Says Spanish People Will Ratify Any Treaty Offered Them.

The New York Herald prints an interview between its Havana correspondent and Gen. Blanco just before the latter sailed for Spain. Gen. Blanco said the Spanish people would accept any treaty entered into with the United States and would abide by all agreements.

After denouncing the United States for causing "an unholy war," Gen. Blanco said he could see many benefits that Spain might derive from defeat. He said that the people of Cuba and the Philippines were Spanish in sentiment, and soon all bitter feeling would wear away. Commercial relations would be revived and Spain would find in her old colonies a greater market than ever before. "Spain's prosperity may dawn to-morrow," said Gen. Blanco. "I believe it will."

Gen. Blanco said the United States had taken the Philippines, but he thought the American people were not really in favor of it.

PHILIPPINOS ARE UGLY.

Insurgents Decide Not to Recognize Cession of Islands.

Madrid has advices from the Philippine Islands saying the insurgents there have decided not to recognize the cession of the islands to the United States, and that they will resist to the last. It is also claimed that the United States will require 70,000 troops to put down the rebellion, and that the insurgents hold 10,000 Spanish prisoners whom they will force to serve against the Americans.

A delegation from the Spanish chambers of commerce had an audience with the Queen Regent and presented to her majesty a petition in favor of reforms. The delegation also asked the Queen Regent to intercede for the release of the Spanish prisoners in the Philippine Islands and to pardon the Filipinos who have been transported to Spain.

Notes of Current Events.

Two hundred lepers are at large in Manila, and smallpox has become epidemic there.

Fourteen Texans, commanded by Lieut. Gates, have gone to Cuba for Government police duty.

Japan has agreed to co-operate with Great Britain in an effort to restore conditions in China to their former status.

Miss Sue Parberry of Sedalia, Mo., dropped dead at White Sulphur Springs, Mont., where she was visiting her brother.

The labor problem is now presenting a serious phase in Cuba. The freeing of the island does not stimulate the native out of his naturally indolent habits or cure his indisposition to labor.

It is announced that Jamaica will decline to join the proposed federation of West Indian colonies, and will hold out for reciprocity with the United States as the only remedy for present commercial stagnation.

At the Lord Mayor's banquet in London, Premier Salisbury said that the United States is a new and disturbing factor in European politics, and may not conduce to the interests of peace, but to the detriment of Great Britain.

ALGER'S WAR REPORT

SECRETARY REVIEWS MILITARY OPERATIONS.

Without Criticism He Traces the Movement of Army and Navy—Makes Recommendations and Gives Cost of Operations.

The annual report of Secretary of War Alger, reviewing the work of the year, and especially the operations in the Philippines, Cuba and Porto Rico, has been made public. It gives a general summary of the military operations during the war.

"Soon after the declaration of war," it says, "a movement was contemplated looking to the investment of Havana, and orders to that effect were issued, and also for a reconnoissance in force along the south coast of Cuba, but the movement of the enemy's fleet changed these plans and culminated in the campaign of Santiago."

Of Gen. Miles' share in the Santiago campaign the Secretary says:

Maj. Gen. Miles arrived off Santiago July 11, and that evening communicated with Gen. Shafter by telephone, and on the 12th arrived at Gen. Shafter's headquarters. July 13 and 14 he, with Gen. Shafter, met the Spanish commander under a flag of truce between the lines to discuss the surrender of the Spanish forces. On the afternoon of July 14 Gen. Miles left Gen. Shafter's headquarters and soon thereafter went on board ship, preparatory to sailing for Porto Rico. July 17 the Spanish commander, Gen. Toral, surrendered the city, including the troops in Santiago and the surrendered district, over 23,000 men, upon our terms, and at noon of that date the American flag was, by order of Gen. Shafter, hoisted over the Governor's palace.

After briefly outlining the operations in Porto Rico and the Philippines the report continues:

Aug. 18 an order was issued to muster out 100,000 volunteers, which is being carried out. Thus an army of about 250,000 volunteers and recruits for the regulars was called into existence from civil life, which, with the regular army, made a total of 274,717 men. It was organized, armed and equipped (no supplies being on hand other than those of the regulars, save the Springfield muskets), and 50,000 men of this force were transported by land and sea to battlefields in the tropics 12,000 miles apart, where they won their victories without a single defeat, and all within the period of 113 days from the declaration of war to the signing of the protocol. This great achievement can be credited to no individual: it belongs to the nation. It was accomplished through the intelligence and patriotism of all who served, from the commander-in-chief to the private in the ranks. It also speaks volumes for the prompt, patriotic and intelligent assistance of the people who furnished in so short a period the supplies necessary to prepare this great army for the field. To the heroic men who serve in distant fields the country will ever offer a true meed of praise, but the mighty army in camp, ready and eager to take the field, should also be given equal credit. It was their presence, ready at an hour's notice for any emergency, that overawed the enemy and proved to him that further resistance would be in vain.

Smallest Death Rate in History.

The deaths in the army from May 1 to Oct. 1, including killed, died of wounds and of disease, were 2,910, the smallest death rate recorded of any army in history, a most gratifying fact when it is considered that over 50,000 of our troops, born and reared in the temperate zone, were campaigning in tropical climates, subject to rain and heat almost unprecedented.

The volunteers mustered out were granted one and two months' furlough before discharge and final payment. In the summer months this was an indulgence. To do so in winter months would, in many of the States, be a hardship. In order that all may be dealt with alike, it is recommended that the officers and men of the volunteer troops yet to be mustered out be given two months' pay at the time of discharge. This would admit of their prompt discharge in their present camps in the South.

In view of the needs of a military force in the islands occupied by the United States it is earnestly recommended that the regular army be permanently increased to 100,000 men and the requisite officers; that a portion of this army be recruited from the inhabitants of those islands, to be mustered into the service of the United States and commanded by officers of our army, discretion, however, to be given to the President to make appointment of officers from the force so recruited.

These men are acclimated, understand the language and habits of their countrymen, and their enlistment will not only give them employment, but also have a tendency to enable the Government to get into closer touch with their people than it would otherwise be able to do. This would also relieve our people from serving in those climates to a large extent, and would, moreover, enable the volunteers to be mustered out of the service and return to their vocations of civil life. The distinction between the regular and the volunteer is very sharply drawn. The regular enters the service because he prefers the life of a soldier. Not so the volunteer. He enlists for an active campaign; when that is over and the enemy has laid down its arms he at once desires to return to civil life.

In the cities of Cuba, Porto Rico, and the Philippines there should also be employed and sworn into the service of the United States a constabulary force for police duty—men who have had experience and can speak the language of those islands, thus relieving our soldiers from that work.

To supply food for the destitute, especially in Cuba, is a question that must tax this Government greatly, for a time at least. The effort should be made to aid those people by giving them work, so that they may feel that they are earning their own bread instead of living upon charity. Would it not be wise economy for the Government of the United States to construct a substantial railroad, practically the whole length of the island of Cuba, with branch roads to the leading cities on the coast? Such a road would, of course, cost a large sum, perhaps $20,000,000, but it would give employment to the people of Cuba, teach them habits of industry, be an inducement for them to cultivate their farms and thus furnish supplies for the laborers and for market when the road is constructed.

This, in my judgment, is absolutely essential to the pacification and development of that great island. It will bring its minerals, lumber and agricultural products to market and open up communication with all parts of the island with the least possible delay. The road would be a good property, and when it had served its purpose for the Government could be sold for its cost. If such an improvement is not made the Government will, no doubt, expend fully that amount in charity. Even if this road be built, there is immediate necessity for a large appropriation to relieve the destitute.

The report says the supply of powder was a most troublesome question at the outbreak of the war. There are only two establishments in this country which manufacture smokeless powder, and they own patents upon the process. These, however, like all other companies called to aid the Government, responded with alacrity, ran the works day and night, and produced in a short time an ample supply.

The report continues:

The Krag-Jorgensen, or a similar thirty-caliber magazine gun, should be manufactured until we have at an early date at least 500,000 stands of those arms in our arsenals, and an ample supply of ammunition for the same. The sea-coast defenses should also be brought to completion without delay, so that hereafter no emergency will find us unprepared to meet it. In this connection attention is called to the difference in the caliber of the heavy guns and small arms. In my judgment they should be alike in both branches of the service (army and navy), to enable either arm to supply the other with ammunition. The reasons for this are too patent to need elaboration.

The expenditures from ordinary appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1898, aggregated $62,534,784, and the ordinary appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, aggregate $55,652,035. The estimates of all amounts required for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1900, aggregate $195,250,377. The extraordinary war appropriations made available until Jan. 1, 1899, amounted to $221,828,112, of which $22,564,744 had been expended prior to July 1, 1898. The estimates of extraordinary appropriations required for the six months ending June 30, 1899, aggregate $90,177,539. There was allotted to the War Department from the $50,000,000 national defense fund the sum of $18,794,627.

VIRDEN JURY REPORTS.

Indictments Returned Against Both Gov. Tanner and Manager Lukens.

The grand jury called in special session at Carlinville to inquire into the cause of the Virden coal miners' riot, which took place in the city of Virden Oct. 12, finished its labors Thursday and made a report to Judge R. B. Shirley, who came down from Springfield. The jury indicted fifty-four persons, among whom were Manager Lukens of the Chicago-Virden Coal Company and John R. Tanner, Governor of the State of Illinois. There are three counts against Mr. Lukens for alleged murder and manslaughter, and those against Gov. Tanner are "for palpable neglect of duty as an officer, and malfeasance in office." This latter indictment recites the whole trouble at Virden, how the sheriff called for troops, the appeal the manager of the Chicago-Virden Coal Company made to the Governor to send troops, the riot that followed, and the killing of the fourteen men. F. C. Lukens, superintendent of the Chicago-Virden Coal Company, is indicted on two counts on a charge of "willfully killing and murdering Ellis Smith," and with manslaughter, in the case of Joseph Gitterlie, Frank Wilder, J. E. Sickles and J. H. Smith.

One hundred and seventy-five witnesses were examined by the grand jury. Nearly 1,000 pages of the coroner's jury evidence was read and reread, and many prominent men were examined, many of them conflicting in their statements. The grand jury was in session twenty days and the coroner's jury fourteen days. The vote on indicting the Governor stood thirteen to ten in favor of the indictment. The vote on the indictment of F. W. Lukens stood the same in number as that of Gov. Tanner. Judge Shirley fixed the bond of Gov. Tanner at $500 and that of Mr. Lukens at $1,000 in each case. In the minor cases the bonds were made merely nominal in amount.

The closing scenes in the grand jury room were full of dramatic interest, and the jurymen were glad that the work was at an end. During all the time the jury was in session each witness was rigidly examined and cross-examined, and every word uttered was minutely sifted.

DEATH BLOW TO NEW REPUBLIC

Failure of Troops to Suppress Outbreak Responsible.

The attempt to effect a coalition between the States of Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador, to be conducted under a common administration and known as the United States of Central America, has failed completely. The federal organizers have formally declared the union dissolved, the three States resuming respectively absolute sovereignty. The collapse is due to the failure of the troops of Honduras, acting in behalf of the federal organizers, to suppress the outbreak in Salvador against the proposed federation and to force Salvador into the union.

Gen. Tomas Regalado, the head of the revolutionary movement in Salvador, has usurped the presidency and proclaimed himself chief executive of the republic. Regalado, who had been a general in the artillery service of Gutierrez, president of Salvador, was dissatisfied with the plan and during Gutierrez's temporary absence from Salvador Regalado managed to gain control of the Government. The first outbreak occurred in Santa Ana, where the "quartel" or presidio was seized. The city was forced to surrender and subsequently San Miguel capitulated.

Not long ago Cajutebeque was surrendered to Regalado's army, after which President Gutierrez managed to check the advance of the rebels. A conference between the presidents composing the triumvirate was suggested. Accordingly Zelaya, Sierra and Gutierrez met at Corinto. After a lengthy discussion of the situation President Zelaya refused to employ his troops in putting down the insurrection in Salvador.

FUNDS FOR THE NAVAL MILITIA.

Congress Asked for an Annual Appropriation of $200,000.

Lieut. W. H. Southerland of the United States navy, who was in general charge of the naval militia during the late war, asks Congress for an annual appropriation of $200,000 to foster this branch of our reserve force.

In his report, submitted to the Secretary of the Navy, Lieut. Southerland gives a comprehensive history of the work performed by the naval militia in the operations against Spain. Of the total force of 24,123 enlisted men employed in the navy, 4,216 were mustered in from the naval militia organizations, of which number about 2,600 served in the regular navy, the remainder in the auxiliary naval force and coast signal service.

The lieutenant praises the troops more for their zeal than efficiency. The war clearly demonstrated, he believes, the imperative necessity for the maintenance of a national naval reserve in the organization of which too much reliance must not be placed upon the merchant marine alone.

GRANT GILLETT RUN DOWN.

Kansas Cattle King Said to Have Been Arrested.

Grant C. Gillett, the Kansas cattleman who, after a meteoric career, skipped out after floating $2,000,000 worth of valueless paper, is said by the representatives of the creditors to be under arrest at Chihuahua, in Old Mexico. It is stated that a message received from the northern border of Old Mexico conveyed information of Gillett's whereabouts and asked what proportion of the money found on him would be given his captors if they turned him up. An officer was sent to Mexico to take charge of Gillett on a charge of forgery and an application for extradition papers was made.

Mayor Edward Hoos of Jersey City expects to be a candidate for re-election next spring on a platform favoring Sunday theaters.

Among the items in the campaign expense bill of Hon. P. S. White, New York State Senator, is "$60 for renewing old acquaintances and $20 in making new ones."

U. S. Grant, son of the dead general, is a Republican candidate for United States Senator from California. His candidacy is opposed by some of the Republicans of that State.

Georgia is wrestling with a deficit of $1,500,000 in the State treasury and the tax rate is the second highest in the South. The trouble is the State is long on government and short on revenue.

According to their sworn statements Col. Roosevelt's election expenses were $2,000, while Judge Van Wyck's were a little more than $400, but the latter gave up a $10,000 position to run for the office.

FRUITS OF THE FIELD

SECRETARY WILSON'S ANNUAL REPORT.

Head of the Department of Agriculture Discusses Various Subjects with Which He Has Had to Deal in His Official Capacity.

The Secretary of Agriculture, in his annual report, presents some considerations relating to the general work of the department which serve as the basis for special recommendations and explain more fully the estimates already presented for the ensuing fiscal year.

On the practicability of exporting dairy products, Secretary Wilson says it is not commercially profitable to send butter to Europe just now, as the home demand at present absorbs the supply. For the purpose of obtaining for dairymen all the facts relating to the export of this article, the department sent an agent to Paris to ascertain what encouragement there would be to ship butter to that port, and an agent to Hamburg to ascertain the facts regarding customs duties, as well as prohibition and other difficulties that might meet exporters of butter to Germany. It was found that no line of steamers sailing to French ports direct could furnish refrigerator space, so shipments could not be made during hot weather.

Whenever our home supply of finest butter exceeds the home demand it can be profitably sent to both France and Germany. The American farmer is now selling cheap grains and mill feeds to the European dairymen, who meet us in European markets with products made from raw material furnished by us. But there is no reason to believe that there is a growing tendency toward the consumption of grains and mill feeds at home and exporting the products of skill and intelligence.

Growing Trade in the East.

The trade in American farm products is growing in the China seas, and in order that markets may be opened up in Japan, China and other countries of the Pacific ocean, an agent is now in that region establishing agencies, to which the department will make trial shipments and gather all information possible for the American producer.

The Secretary recommends the extension and adoption of the provisions of the law regarding the inspection and certification of means and meat products for export, so as to make them apply to butter and cheese. The brands of "pure butter" and "full-cream cheese" should then be affixed by United States inspectors to such products as come up to the required standard of quality.

This would place the good butter and cheese of this country in foreign markets under the identifying label and guaranty of the United States Government. The dairy products of Denmark and Canada, which are the chief competitors of the United States in the markets of Great Britain, bear the inspection certificate and guaranty of quality from their respective governments.

The Secretary enlarges upon the need of nature teaching in the common schools. He says that there is a growing interest in education that relates to production, and all classes of intelligent people favor it. More knowledge by the farmer of what he deals with every day would enable him to control conditions, produce more from an acre, and contribute more to the general welfare.

The Secretary calls attention to the necessity of his department undertaking an investigation of the agricultural conditions of the insular dependencies of the United States, emphasizing the fact that the department should as soon as possible put itself in a position to extend to the producers of these new regions, largely dependent for their prosperity upon agriculture, the benefits which it now admittedly confers upon our own farmers. He also advises the careful study of the insect pests and plant diseases in these islands, with a view not only of discovering preventives or remedies, but of guarding against their introduction into the United States.

The report then reviews at length the operations of the several bureaus, divisions and offices of the department, reports of some of which have already been made public. In conclusion, Secretary Wilson expresses the opinion that a review of this work for the past year shows it to have been one of satisfactory growth and development.

REVENUES AND EXPENDITURES.

Comparative Statement of Receipts and Disbursements.

The monthly comparative statement of the Government receipts and expenditures shows that during the month of November the receipts aggregated $38,000,915, as compared with $43,363,605 for November last year. In that month, however, is included about $18,000,000 received on account of the Pacific Railroad settlement.

Independent of these payments the receipts exceeded those for November, 1897, by about $13,500,000. The receipts from customs last month were $15,335,200, an increase of about $5,500,000; from internal revenue sources, $21,336,743, an increase of nearly $8,000,000. The disbursements during last month amounted to $49,090,980, an increase on account of the war of $11,000,000. Since July the receipts have aggregated $204,557,093 as compared with $148,113,875 for 1897.

FIGHT OVER CANAL PROJECT.

Maritime Canal Company Will Oppose Concessions Made.

A hot fight is promised over the control of the Nicaragua canal. The contending parties are the Maritime Canal Company, whose ten year concession from the Nicaraguan Government expires October next, and the new Grace-Eyre-Cragin syndicate, said to be backed by $100,000,000 capital. The Maritime Company expects an extension of its concession. The syndicate claims its rights are unassailable. The fight will become three-cornered when Congress takes a hand.

Sentiment is being aroused throughout the country in favor of the canal being completed by the Government, and a bill will be reported to Congress advocating Government absorption of the Maritime Canal Company. The Grace syndicate is certain to fight such a measure.

WOMEN PRAY AT THE POLLS.

Use Their Influence for Prohibition, but Lose the Fight.

In Macon, Ga., 500 women threw aside their domestic duties and assembled at the election precincts to use their influence for prohibition. They formed choirs and sang hymns and prayed at the voting places, and their presence at the polls made a spectacle never before seen in the South.

The battle was between white women on one side and anti-prohibitionists and negroes on the other. The women carried church organs to the middle of the street, the choirs sang, and dozens of exhorters prayed to God to wipe out bar-rooms. But the women's work was unsuccessful, as the town voted prohibition down by 1,000 majority. The women charge fraud and they propose to contest the election.

DON'T LOOK FOR FLAWS.

Don't look for flaws as you go throug
life;
And even when you find them
It is wise and kind to be somewha blind,
And look for the virtue behind them
For the cloudiest night has a hint o
the light
Somewhere in its shadows hiding;
It is better by far to hunt for a star
Than the spots on the sun abiding.

The current of life runs ever away
To the bosom of God's great ocean;
Don't set your force 'gainst the'river's course
And think to alter its motion.
Don't waste a curse on the universe—
Remember, it lived before you.
Don't butt at the storm with your puny form,
But bend and let it fly o'er you.

The world will never adjust itself
To suit your whim to the letter;
Some things must go wrong your whole life long,
And the sooner you know it the better.
It is folly to fight with the Infinite,
And go under at last in the wrestle.
The wiser man shapes into God's plan
As the water shapes into the vessel.
—Progressive Age.

WAS IT MURDER?

Some years ago I was well off, and received the education and bringing up of a gentleman; but partly through my own folly and partly through unfortunate speculations, I gradually lost all my capital, and about two years ago I found myself penniless, and saw starvation grinning at me within measurable distance. Then I determined to attempt no longer to keep up appearances, but to try to earn a bare existence in any walk of life that was open to me. After some fruitless efforts I obtained, through the kindness of a gentleman connected with the Great Junction Railway, England, the position of locomotive fireman. I never was given to drink, so that I was well enough able to fulfill the duties of my new position. I am now a station master, and it is during my few hours of leisure that I prepare this plain narrative for the decision of a discerning public.

It is a great point for the "stoker" to be on good terms with the engineer, and I generally found little trouble in making friends with my nearest traveling companion.

On the day when I went through the most disagreeable experience of my life I was traveling from Paddington to Cowchester on the well-known—to railway employees—engine named "Pluto." She is a fine, upstanding, bold sort of engine, and when in good temper does her work right well. The engine driver on this occasion was a man named John Morgan. I had not often traveled with him before, only two or three times, and I never could get on comfortably with him. He had been many years in the company's service, and bore an excellent character for steadiness, but was considered rather taciturn. He seemed to be always in the sulks, and was, I suppose, of a surly temper. Before we started he hardly answered any remark I addressed to him, and seemed more surly than usual. When the head guard gave the signal, and Morgan turned the handle, we moved slowly and steadily out of the station. When we got well out into the country Morgan turned to me and said, shortly: "More coal."

Now, in my opinion, no more coal was wanted, as there was quite enough in the fire to keep up the usual speed. However, as a stoker, I was only an underling, and must obey reasonable orders. So I stoked as bidden and then curiously watched to see if the engine driver would turn on full speed. He did nothing of the sort, but sat with his back to the boiler and began to talk to me quite affably. Among other things he said he was quite tired of this perpetual traveling, and that he meant to look out for a wife with a little money and never set foot on an engine again. We had before us a run of an hour and a half and by that time were due at Blinton, a big junction, at which every train must stop, so we had plenty of time to talk.

About an hour after leaving Paddington Morgan stopped suddenly in the middle of a sentence and said: "Well, I must get to work now." Then he opened the firebox and called out to me: "More coal."

I expostulated with him and pointed out that we were going at a high rate of speed, and would not need more coal before Blinton; but this seemed to excite him terribly. "Shovel it in!" he roared, with an oath; "I'm going to make her travel."

To satisfy him, I took up a shovelful, and managed to upset a good deal of it before I reached the firebox.

"You clumsy fool!" he called out; "here, give it to me;" and snatching the shovel out of my hands, he crammed on as much coal as he could get in.

I was beginning to get alarmed; and looking out over the well-known country—for I had traveled that journey many and many a time before—saw that we were much nearer to Blinton than we ought to be at that hour.

In a few minutes our speed inreased enormously, and I calculated we were traveling at the rate of seventy miles an hour. I called his attention to the fact, and begged him to reduce the speed, or we should run into Blinton without being able to stop.

"Ha ha!" he cried in reply. "Stop! I'm never going to stop again! I told you I'd make her travel. What do you want to stop for? Get on, old wench, get on!" Then he burst into a hideous peal of laughter.

A cold sweat of absolute terror broke out on me as I realized the state of things. Here was a raving maniac, a far stronger man than myself, in charge of a train full of people. The train rushed on with incredible speed, not steadily and evenly, but with leaps and bounds, that threatened to cast the engine off the line at every yard. There was no doubt the man was as mad as a man could be, and he was also master of the situation. I made one effort to reach the handle by which the steam is turned it; but the madman was too sharp for me. "No you don't!" he shouted. He brought his shovel down with a tremendous blow on the rail at my side, just missing my head. It was plain I could do nothing by force. Would stratagem be of any use?

I looked out to the country; time was running short; we were not more than twenty miles from Blinton Junction; and if we did not stop there the whole train must inevitably be wrecked, and probably not one passenger would escape uninjured, and but few with their lives. I looked back to the train. Outside the windows were hands gesticulating and frightened, alarmed faces. At the end of the train the guard was waving a red flag. Something must be done, and by me, or we should all be inevitably lost. I made up my mind. I turned to Morgan with a smile on my face, and I said: "Old boy, you're quite right; this is a fine pace; but it ain't quite fast enough. Look here!" and I caught him by the arm and led him to the side of the engine next to the double rail. "See," I cried, "there is another train coming up faster than us, and she will pass us; we must go faster; but let's see first who is driving her. Lean out and look. Can you see?"

The poor maniac stepped outside the rail and leaned forward to look for the imaginary train, when I gave him a sudden push and he fell in a heap on the side rails and was killed on the spot. With a gasp of relief I sprang back to the engine and turned off the steam. It was not a moment too soon. We were well in sight of Blinton Junction before I had the train properly under control. I pulled up at the platform all right, and then I fainted.

When I came to I was lying on a bench in the waiting room, and the inspector was standing over me, with his notebook in his hand, prepared to take down my statement. What I stated was, that the engine-driver had gone mad, and that, to save the lives of the passengers, I had knocked him off the engine just in time to get the train under control before running into the station. This was corroborated by the guard and several passengers, and the case was brought before the solicitors of the company. I gave my evidence at the inquest and heard no more of the matter until one day the passenger superintendent handed me ten sovereigns and a letter appointing me station master at Little Mudford. It was evident the directors condoned my conduct, and I hope that my readers will agree with them, and, in consideration of my having saved a trainful of people, will acquit me of murder and bring in a verdict of justifiable homicide.

GREAT BAPTISM OF FIRE.

The Scourge of the Land is the Annual Burning of Forests.

In 1871 Wisconsin had its greatest baptism of flame. In four hours Peshtigo, Oconto and Menekaunee were obliterated, 400 square miles of territory were converted into a smoking waste and 1,200 persons perished. Yet in the face of these appalling conflagrations, and those of 1881 and 1894, and to-day's tragedy in the Gogebic, there's not a doubt that in 1899 history will repeat itself.

In Finland, where the French custom of sartage is largely followed under the name of kaski, wood is regarded as one of the elements, like air or water, and is burned without stint. The forest is fired to prepare the ground for tillage. In a year or two the land becames hopelessly barren. In India the practice prevails under the name of koomaree. In the district of Mysore alone 90,000 men are annually engaged in the grim work. One or two crops, then a cessation of all vegetation. In Ceylon the condoned offense is known as chena. In Sweden, under the title of sved, it is officially permitted once in twenty years.

It would seem that sved has become a state ceremonial in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota. In 1840, in twenty-seven counties of northern Wisconsin there was 129,000,000,000 feet of standing pine. Up to the present time about 86,000,000,000 feet of this has been cut and 26,000,000,000 feet destroyed by fire. Fifty years ago Michigan boasted of her 150,000,000,000 feet of waving conifers. Today but one-fifth of that remains. In Wisconsin, while the cut proceeds at the rate of 2,000,000,000 feet per annum, the regrowth is but 2,000,000. Nothing so far has been done to restock or protect these denuded lands in our abutting state and of the 17,000,000 acres of remaining forest, over one-half is brule and practically a howling desert. The annual cut of timber in the three states named would load a train of full-sized cars nearly 7,000 miles in length. Michigan pine is the most valuable of any—$4.67 per 1,000 feet, against $4 for Wisconsin and $3.21 for the Minnesota product. Out of the 28,000,000 acres of privately owned timber lands in this country, nearly 11,000,000 acres are located in the lake group of states.

That fire is the scourge of the land the facts recited prove beyond a doubt. During the last three decades there has been a compounding increase of forest loss by fire throughout the entire country of 30 per cent. for each ten years. The farmer must shoulder the chief responsibility. Of 3,000 cases reported nearly one-half were the result of brush fires in clearings; one-fifth were caused by careless hunters; one-sixth by locomotives, and thirty-two only were traceable to lightning.

Tod Sloan's Riding.

The topic in London is the riding of the American jockey, Sloan. Thousands who only take the most casual interest in the turf, but are always attracted by great horsemanship, are asking expert advice on the intrinsic merits of the American style of riding. A sportsman has written an instructive letter on the subject. He says:

"Let me see whether I can give an explanation of Sloan's success. In the first distance I should say he is a man of absolute courage; and it is this which, combined with kindness, wins the confidence of all the lower animals and is the first essential of a good jockey. Horses are wonderful judges of character. Secondly, Sloan's position, exactly that of a monkey on a stick, does offer less opposition to the air than the ordinary seat of a horseman. In scientific phraseology, it diminishes the friction to a minimum. Again, this position enables him to grasp the reins within a foot of the horse's mouth, and the nearer the object to be guided the more accurately can be applied the directing force. Thirdly, Sloan, I am convinced, recognizes the great fact that if we are either in a train or in a conveyance or on horseback we can become one with the moving mass if we sit still. This is proved by the well-known fact that a circus rider does not jump over the banners; he simply lets his body become a moving mass with the horse, and as he approaches the banner he jumps into the air. The impetus which he has obtained from the horse carries him over the banner nearly as quickly as the horse has traveled, but if we watch the bareback rider we shall see that he does not keep interfering with the horse's movements. He in effect says the animal will do his part of the work if left alone. Those who have watched Sloan in his races will have noticed how he jumps off rapidly, and at once settles down on his horse, and is not constantly changing his position in the saddle, or interfering with the special step of the horse; because it must be remembered that each horse, like each man, has his or her special mode of progression. Sloan simply makes himself one with his horse in movement; he does not offend the naturally sensitive temperament of such a beautiful creature as a thoroughbred horse; he does not sacrifice a race for the sake of making an artistic finish, but with unequaled skill and judgment, and with a cool, intelligent head, he wins his races when and how he can, always remembering that friction means loss of energy, and that interference with a horse's method means loss of power and opposition to nature. For my part, I am glad to see Tod Sloan on our race courses. It will, I hope, be the cause of young men who are of light weight, good traditions and intelligence making jockeyship their calling. There is ample room for them, and they might serve a good purpose."

Benjamin Franklin's Nepotism.

In the Century Paul Leicester Ford writes of "Franklin's Family Relations," the first of a series of papers on "The Many-sided Franklin," which he will contribute to that magazine. Of Franklin's grandson, Benjamin Franklin Bache, Mr. Ford says: When Franklin went to France in 1776, he took his grandson with him, to "give him a little French language and address." With still other ends in view, so soon as he was settled in Paris, he "sent him to finish his education at Geneva," as "I intend him for a Presbyterian as well as a republican." Here the boy remained four years, and then returned to live with his grandfather, who wrote the mother: "I have a great deal of pleasure in Ben. He is a good honest lad, and will make, I think, a valuable man." "He gains daily upon my affection," and "we love him very much." Young Bache came to America with his grandfather, and by his aid was established as a printer, Franklin supplying all the equipment for the office, which he left him in his will, together with other property. In his behalf, also, he asked Washington for some public office, an application which shared the same fate as that he had made for his other grandson, by being refused. It was the common feeling of the time that Franklin had used his civil office to serve his family more than to serve the public, and so there was sufficient prejudice to make exclusion of his relatives almost a policy with the new government. This discrimination, in time, led to ill feeling, and eventually Benjamin Franklin Bache became the standard-bearer of the journalists who abused Washington.

Insects and Disease.

Nothing could more strikingly illustrate the importance of small things than the large role which is now attributed to the mosquito in the etiology of some of the most serious and widespread diseases to which the human race is subject. It is truly said that what prevents the successful colonization of many tropical countries, and what throws the great obstacle in the way of civilization and good government in the vast regions of Central Africa, is not climate, not distance from home, and not unfriendliness on the part of the natives. The obstacle is malaria, and now we find that the prevalence of malaria, so far as man is concerned, depends on the mosquito, and that this pestilent little insect, in addition to irritating and annoying is the means by which the poison of malaria is propagated and distributed. For years past botanists have known the important part played by birds in the scattering of seed, and of insects in the distribution of the pollen of plants, and it seems not unlikely that pathologists will have to recognize in a much larger degree than has till lately been done the large part taken by the subordinate forms of life by which we are surrounded—our cattle, our horses, our dogs and cats, our flies, our mosquitos, and perhaps even our fleas—in distributing disease from man to man, and, as is stated in regard to our mosquito and malaria, in deciding whether the extension of our empire over great areas of the globe's surface shall be possible or not.—Hospital.

The Siamese Twins.

Eng and Chang, known as the Siamese twins, were born of a Chinese father and a Siamese mother in Siam, April 15, 1811. They died in North Carolina January 17, 1874. They were joined to one another by a short tubular cartilaginous band, through which their livers and hepatic vessels communicated. They were brought to America for exhibition in 1828, and after making a competency in various countries settled in North Carolina. They married sisters in 1842. In 1869 they again exhibited themselves in Europe. The one survived the other two hours and a half.

SHEEP BATH WHICH KILLS BACTERIA.

One of the unique sights at the Union stock yards in Chicago is the sheep "dip." The "dip" is divided into three sluices arranged alongside each other forming the letter "S." Each is thirty feet long and twenty inches wide—just wide enough for an ordinary sheep to get through. The depth is five feet, so that the animal must swim, when he strikes the bath, a distance of eighty-nine feet. At one side of the plant is a stationary boiler, with two wooden vats, holding 1,000 gallons each of nicotine solution, used in the bath to kill the crab and bacteria, which infect the animals' bodies and hoofs. The boiler is used to heat the solution in the vats to a temperature of 112 degrees before it is turned into the bath, also to keep the bath at the same uniform temperature during the process of dipping the sheep. The animals approach the bath in single file through a narrow chute, which is connected with the pens. When they get to the mouth of the "dip" a driver pushes them down a slide into the hot solution. They then swim about the S-shaped sluices and leave the bath, after many duckings, administered by the drivers with long pronged poles. About eighty run the gantlet at one time. Then another lot is driven in. The solution in the dip is sufficient to bathe 1,000 sheep. It is then turned out and another solution, from one of the vats, turned in. About 1,100 sheep are bathed per hour.

KEELY, OF MOTOR FAME.

Man Who Promised the Working of Miracles Is Dead.

John Ernest Worrell Keely, of Keely motor fame, who died recently in Philadelphia, was a strange character—a genius according to some, a humbug according to others.

Keely and his motor have been before the public for a generation. He was to have accomplished wonderful things with this motor and he interested capitalists to the extent that the Keely Motor Company was formed and poured out money lavishly for the inventor. Even yet those who have been in closest touch with Keely believe in the strange invention. In the last few years Keely has worked on a manuscript revealing the mystery of his peculiar motive power and Mrs. Keely now has it in her possession. It is not known, however, whether the inventor made disclosures sufficient to permit others to go on with the work.

Keely surrounded himself with a halo of mystery and worked for a long time in absolute secrecy. But he made the most extravagant claims and promises as to the miracles which he would perform with his mysterious "inter-etheric liberator" and marvelous vapor. Speaking in 1875 he said:

"I propose in about six months to run a train of thirty cars from here (Philadelphia) to New York at the rate of a mile a minute with one small engine, and I will draw the power all out of as much water as you can hold in the palm of your hand." And, as though this were not sufficiently startling, he added: "A bucket of water contains enough of this vapor to produce a power sufficient to move the world out of its course. An ordinary steamship can be run so fast with it that it would split in two."

Keely gave some exhibitions in his little workshop. He at last succeeded in puzzling everybody. Aside from the mechanism, which was not taken apart, Keely operated with a couple of tuning forks and a fiddle bow. He struck his tuning forks and set a brass ball rotating at 600 revolutions a minute. He rasped the fiddle bow across a tuning fork and raised a heavy weight at the end of a long lever, the power exercised, it was said, being equal to a pressure of 25,000 pounds to the square inch.

Though he never accomplished any practical results with his motor, he made a very comfortable living out of it. To the last many persons believed that he was a genius of the highest order, and he succeeded in getting the financial support of solid business men who consider themselves armor proof against any species of humbug.

The late Mme. Blavatsky said that Keely had really made a wonderful discovery, but that the "Mahatmas" would never let him develop it, because in the present state of civilization nations would use the terrible force for mutual extermination. And so the "Mahatmas" kept the motor from "moting."

JOHN E. W. KEELY AND HIS LATEST MACHINE.

Could Not Shoot.

A Hindu looks upon the slaughter of an animal with the same dread and horror with which he would witness the taking of a life of a human being. It would be well for some of the hunters of our own country to learn from such pagans a lesson in humanity. Rev. B. Fay Mills tells the story of a hunter who employed as a decoy for deer a peculiarly constructed whistle, which closely imitated the voice of a young fawn calling its mother.

With his rifle in hand ready for instant action, he was one day blowing his whistle, when sudenly a mother deer thrust her head out of the bushes and looked straight toward him. There she stood, trembling with fear, yet looking this way and that in search of the little one, which she supposed to be in danger. The hunter said:

"As I looked into those eloquent eyes, anxiously glancing here and there with maternal fear, my heart melted. I could not shoot."

Young deer that have not been chased or fired at by hunters will frequently come very near to unarmed travelers. The writer, while driving along a road in northern Maine, has had a deer walk just in advance of the horse for some distance; and it is well known that wild deer often come into pastures and feed with the cows. To take advantage of this confidence seems very near to murder.

TESTING THE AGE OF EGGS.

An Apparatus Patented in Germany Will No Doubt Be Welcome.

Egg-candling is a very profitable business if the judgment of the operator can be relied upon by the dealer employing him. Mistakes are galling, because nowhere does good faith play such an important part as with egg dealers. At the best the examination with the naked eyes is difficult and doubtful, and therefore a new little apparatus patented in Germany quite recently will be very welcome. It consists of a tube for the inspection, with springs to hold the egg at one end and has a lens at the other. Looking through the lens the good eggs will appear quite clear, the bad ones are darker and black ones are altogether unfit for use.

A GERMAN APPARATUS.

New Use for Steel.

A new use has been found in steel by a Sheffield (England) firm, which is making a steel harness trace, consisting of a narrow ribbon of steel, from three-fourths to one inch wide, rolled very thin and cased in leather. A single trace of this kind, when tested at the Sheffield testing works, recorded a tensile breaking strain of 4,575 pounds, while an ordinary leather trace of the best quality, tested at the same time, broke at a strain of 2,700 pounds. In addition to being lighter and stronger than the ordinary trace, the steel article is about 20 per cent cheaper. The steel is necessarily of the very finest quality, and is so pliable that it can be twisted in any direction. This kind of steel is being used in bicycle tires. The ribbon cased in rubber is placed inside the ordinary tire, thus making punctures practically impossible, and, it is claimed, increasing the speed of the cyclist.

Geography for Women.

The introduction of Parkenton's "Modern Atlas," published in 1815, has a reference to "the sex" which ought to be very interesting to our modern college girl. The learned author says:

Geography is a study so universally instructive and pleasing that it has, for nearly a century, been taught even to females, whose pursuits are foreign from serious researches. In the trivial conversation of the social circle, in the daily avidity of the occurrences of the times, pregnant, indeed, above all others with rapid and important changes that affect the very existence of states and empires, geography has become an habitual resource to the elegant female, as well as the profound philosopher.

Words.

There are now over 250,000 words in the English language, acknowledged by the best authorities, or about 70,000 more than in the German, French, Spanish and Italian combined.

A man can go into any town, buy a chair and desk and rent an office, and get unlimited credit on his prospects. We are a nation of chumps.

WHITE POLAR BEAR.

HABITS AND CHARACTERISTICS OF THE ANIMAL.

General Greely Writes Interestingly of This Largest and Strongest Member of the Bear Family—Lives Among the Drifting Ice-Fields.

THE aquatic member of the bear family, the Thalassarctos maritimus of naturalists, is also the strongest, largest and most interesting species, writes General A. W. Greely, of the United States army. While its shuffling gait leaves its broad trails along the northern continental coasts of Asia and America, yet this animal's favorite hunting fields are rather among the drifting ice-fields or open water-holes of the Parry, Spitzbergen and Franz Josef archipelagoes, and the bordering islands of continental Greenland.

The polar bear is an animal of striking contrasts. The snowy whiteness of its fur is sharply set off by the blackness of its snout and claws; its short, rounded ears make its long head and neck most pronounced; its tiny tail seems a most ludicrous ending of its immense haunches, which are in keeping only with the enormous teeth and ponderous claws. Some of these contrasts are but faint in the specimens in captivity, whose abnormal methods of life naturally modify their characteristics.

The most northern latitude in which the track of a bear has been observed is that noted by Lieutenant Lockwood, of my expedition, in eighty-three degrees, three minutes north, near Cape Benet; and strangely enough this animal was traveling to the northeast.

Occasionally a polar bear, luxuriating in rich hunting afforded by an ice-pack, is carried by drift far into southern latitudes, and thus this species sometimes reaches the coasts of Labrador and the southern shores of Hudson Bay, or meets its fate in the North Atlantic as the disintegrating floes finally dissolve.

ON THE WATCH FOR SEALS.

It was long asserted that these bears could swim neither very far nor fast—an opinion arising, doubtless, from the awkwardness that marks their movements—but it is now held that the animal is almost amphibious. Payer says that four men, on one occasion, could not pull a boat fast enough to catch either of two swimming bears. Capt. Sabine, while with Parry's expedition, midway in Barrow Strait, forty miles wide, saw a bear swimming strongly; no ice was visible from the ship, and the circumstances seemed to indicate that the animal was crossing the strait from shore to shore.

No systematic effort seems to have been made to obtain data as to the largest animals killed by hunters, but Sir John Ross measured sixteen bears killed in Boothia Felix, North America, of which nine were males and seven females. The average length from snout to end of tail was ninety-four inches for the males and seventy-eight and seven-tenths inches for the females. The largest measured one hundred and one and a half inches, and weighed ten hundred and twenty-eight pounds, the animal being in poor condition.

The largest specimen of which I have personal knowledge is one killed in Bering Sea, whose skin is owned by Senator William P. Frye, of Maine. It measures nine feet seven inches, exclusive of the tail of two inches, and its girth around the body just back of the forelegs is ten feet.

The largest specimen recorded by a scientific observer was one of the many bears killed by the expedition of Leigh Smith, which was shipwrecked on the southwest part of Franz Josef archipelago, 1881-'82. Dr. W. H. Neale, the naturalist of the expedition, says that some of the bears were very large; that one measured eleven feet exclusive of the tail. There is, then, no reasonable ground to question the veracity of the statement of Gerit De Veer, a companion of Barentz in his third voyage, that there was killed in Nova Zembla, in 1597, a bear which was twelve feet long, possibly including the tail.

A GOOD SIDE VIEW.

While the polar bear is by preference non-vegetarian, living upon fish and the flesh of the seal, when he can procure it, nevertheless he will occasionally eat seaweeds, and in cases of necessity has been known to subsist for some time on land vegetation. Nordenskiold relates that Dr. Theel shot at Port Dickson an exceedingly fat old bear which had evidently been living on grass for some time.

The skill and caution with which Bruin does his sea-hunting are described by the Eskimos as follows: The bear slips quietly into the water and swims to the leeward of the seal, from whence he silently approaches by a series of dives, the last being so timed that he rises in front of the spot where the seal is lying. If the alarmed victim attempts as usual to roll into the sea he falls into the clutches of the bear, and efforts to escape on the ice are equally futile.

The polar bear, while rarely attacking man, has frequently visited the tents, ships and houses of Arctic travelers; but as a rule he speedily retreats, doubtless through caution, at hearing unfamiliar sounds.

The most notable of all the fatalities resulting from an unprovoked attack on man by the white bear is that which occurred in connection with Barentz's voyage to the Arctic regions. It is said that the beast seized one man by surprise, killed another who came with a party to rescue the first, mangled both, and was finally killed by shots fired by other members of the party.

It is not unusual to hear the polar bear stigmatized as a coward—no more dangerous to meet than an old sheep. Others liken him to a North American Indian for his treachery, cowardice and intractibility. The polar bear is not a dashing, impulsive animal, but he is endowed with caution and sagacity to an unusual extent. In nearly every instance the success of the bear in obtaining sustenance depends upon stealthy and concealing methods whereby he is withdrawn from the view of his victim until he is ready to strike.

While it is true that a skillful hunter, with good firearms, stands in no great danger from the polar bear, which he usually attacks at a disadvantage to the animal; nevertheless it requires a man of iron nerve and dauntless courage to face one which has been wounded or otherwise enraged. And yet many of the Eskimos, without firearms, and provided only with their bows and arrows, lances or knives, do not hesitate to attack a defiant female, she being ravenous with hunger and ready to die for her cubs.

SYMPATHETIC KIPLING.

How He Cheered the Spirits of a Sick Elephant.

A writer in the San Francisco Argonaut tells the following anecdote as coming from the lips of an American traveler who spent some time in the company of Rudyard Kipling in London lately:

One afternoon we went together to the Zoo, and while strolling about our ears were assailed by the most melancholy sound I have ever heard, a complaining, fretting, lamenting sound proceeding from the elephant house.

"What's the matter in there?" asked Mr. Kipling of the keeper.

"A sick elephant, sir; he cries all the time; we don't know what to do with him," was the answer.

Mr. Kipling hurried away from me in the direction of the lament, which was growing louder and more painful. I followed and saw him go up close to the cage, where stood an elephant with sadly drooped ears and trunk. He was crying actual tears at the same time that he mourned his lot most audibly. In another moment Mr. Kipling was right up to the bars, and I heard him speak to the sick beast in a language that may have been elephantese, but certainly was not English. Instantly the whining stopped, the ears were lifted, the monster turned his sleepy little suffering eyes upon his visitor and put out his trunk. Mr. Kipling began to caress it, still speaking in the same soothing tone, and in words unintelligible to me at least. After a few minutes the beast began to answer in a much lowered tone of voice, and evidently recounted his woes. Possibly elephants, when "enjoying poor health," like to confide their symptoms to sympathizing listeners as much as do some human invalids. Certain it was that Mr. Kipling and that elephant carried on a conversation, with the result that the elephant found his spirits much cheered and improved. The whine went out of his voice, he forgot that he was much to be pitied, he began to exchange experiences with his friend, and he was quite unconscious, as was Mr. Kipling, of the amused and interested crowd collecting about the cage. At last, with a start, Mr. Kipling found himself and his elephant the observed of all observers, and beat a hasty retreat, leaving behind him a very different creature from the one he had found.

"Doesn't that beat anything you ever saw?" ejaculated a compatriot of mine as the elephant trumpeted a loud and cheerful good-by to the back of his vanishing visitor, and I agreed with him that it did.

"What language were you talking to that elephant?" I asked when I overtook my friend.

"Language? What do you mean?" he answered with a laugh.

"Are you a Mowgli," I persisted, "and can you talk to all those beasts in their own tongues?" but he only smiled in reply.

Friendship for Friends.

The dogs of Constantinople are the scavengers of the city. For this reason, as well as from innate humanity, the Turks are tolerant of them, although visitors to the city find them unamiable. As a proof of their intelligence and recognition of friends, Major Johnson relates an experience of his own.

One evening I was walking with an English officer, when a dog came up and licked his hand. He told me to notice that she would follow us to the boundary of her district, as he had once petted her and she had never forgotten it. Exactly as he had said, she followed us a little way, and stopped short in the middle of the street. She wagged her tail and looked wistfully after us, but did not stir when we called her.

A few nights afterward, returning alone to my hotel, I passed the same spot, when I suddenly felt a cold nose put into my hand and a tongue licking my palm. I looked down and saw the same dog. She had recognized me as having been with her friend, the officer, and as before she followed me to the boundary of her district.—Youth's Companion.

Cold Water as a Stimulant.

According to a high authority, cold water is a valuable stimulant to many if not all people. Its action on the heart is more stimulating than brandy. His own experience is that sipping half a wine glass of cold water will raise his pulse from 76 to over 100.

Many people are like the boy who cries longer over a piece of work than it would take to do it.

The only place some people have to go is back to work.

OUR GOODS FOR YOUR CASH.

!!Slaughter Sale of Boots, Shoes and Rubbers!!

We have entirely too large a stock of Boots, Shoes, Felts, Mackinaw Sox and Rubbers. Therefore we are going to reduce our stock $3,000 in the next sixty days, and to do this we realize that we will have to "Slaughter Prices" and are prepared to do it.

Our Loss is Your Gain.

We can be of mutual benefit to each other in this way: "You need our goods, we need your cash." Let's dicker. Remember our entire stock is included in this sale.

"Some Money Saving Prices on Your Winter Foot Wear."

Sample No. 1. All our Men's Patent Leather and Enamel Shoes, coin and pointed toes, go at $2.00 the pair, former price $5.00 to $6.00.

Sample No. 2. All our very newest Patent Leather Shoes, the latest last and toes, go at $3.98, former price $5 00.

Sample No. 3. Our entire stock of Men's Box, Caribou, Willow, Titan and Russia Calf Shoes, in black or tan shades, calf and kid lined, go at $3 95, former price $4 50.

Sample No. 4. Every pair of our $3.00 and $3.50 Winter Shoes in tan and black, go at $2 58.

Sample No. 5. Men's Felt Boots and good high rubbers at $1.98 worth $2.25. Best Felt and Best Rubber the outfit for $2.35, worth $2.75. Best Knit Boot made with the genuine "Lambertville Rubbers" the original and only "Snag Proof" Rubbers made, go at $3 00, some stores ask $3.50. Rubber Boots $2.40. Non Snag's $3.00.

Sample No. 6. Men's French Kip, custom made "Walker Boots" go at $3 00 for single sole and $3 50 for double sole and tap. You could not get a better boot made to order for $5 00. High and low instep.

Boy's "Walker Boot" $2 50 for single sole, $2.75 for double sole and tap, same stock as the Men's.

Our $3.00 Kip Boot go at $2.50, Oil Grain $3.00 Boot for $2.50.

Boy's $2 25 Kip Boot for $1.75. Good Boy's Boot $1.50. Child's $1.25.

Sample No. 7. Ladies' warm lined and Felt Shoes, all Felt or Leather Foxed, six kinds in this lot at $1.38.

Sample No. 8. Ladies' warm house Slippers. Quilted, Fur Trimmed, the warmest, prettiest and most comfortable you have ever seen for 97c.

Our $1 50 line, handsome Juliets, Fur Trimmed, tan and black at $1.25.

Sample No. 9. 200 Pairs Ladies' "Common Sense" Hand Turned Shoes, go at $1.95, former price $3.00 to $3 50 Now is your chance to get a good Home Shoe, "Komfort for Korns," at less than the cost of manufacture.

Sample No. 10. 150 Pairs Misses' and Children's Winter Shoes, heavy and substantial at 75c and 98c, former price $1.50 to $2 00, sizes 8, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½ and 2. Better shoes for wear never were made.

Sample No. 11. The balance of our stock of the celebrated "Crack Proof" shoes for Misses, go at $1.25, former price $1 50. Ladies' and Boys' sizes $1.50, was $1.75.

Ask Your Neighbor About Them.

We mean every word of this advertisement, bring it with you and see for yourself. You will be kindly and courteously treated and we will appreciate your trade as no one else can.

Our Motto: Good Quality, Hones Quantity;
Sell Cheap, Sell a Heap,
And Keep Everlastingly at it.

Bishop & Beidler,

(Raut & Co.'s Old Stand.)

Auburn, Ind.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY....DECEMBER 8, 1898.

OBITUARY

Ida, daughter of William and Laura J. Dawson, was born near Corunna, Indiana, July 2, 1896, and died Nov. 3, 1868, aged 2 years, 4 months and 1 day. Little Ida came to her death by being accidentaly scalded by water. The news of the event spread rapidly and soon brought a host of friends from town and surrounding neighborhood who with helping hand aided by best medical aid put forth every possible effort to relieve the little sufferer but but all was of no avail and death soon came to its relief. Although so young in years this little child manifested a spirit of gentleless and obedience seldom seen in children of riper years. She was the only daughter of five children, of which three survive her, the oldest having preceded her to the land of rest. She was the queen and joy of home, a dower seemingly too fair for this cold world but better adapted to flourish in a fairer clime.

J. D. SNYDER.

More Than All Others.

ROME CITY, IND.

Dr. C. D. Warner, Coldwater, Mich.

Dear Sir—It gives me great pleasure in recommending your White Wine of Tar Syrup to the public as an excellent cough cure. I have sold over a gross within a short time and I always warrant a cure and have never had a bottle returned. I sell more of your White Wine of Tar Syrup than all other cough remedies I keep in stock. I sold one dozen bottles to one of my customers. Resp'y yours, J. P. CHAPMAN.

NEW COMMISSIONERS

The Board of county Commissioners met this forenoon for the regular December session. Mr. Bateman was present at the first and when Mr. Shultz took the office he retired. The Board reorganized by making Mr. Shoemaker president. C. M. Phillips resigned as county attorney, and D. M. Link was appointed to the place.

The Maine Victims

One of the first bills introduced in congress, is to have a monument erected to the memory of the men who went down in the ill-fated Maine in Havana Harbor. If the bill passes, as it probably will, the monument will be erected in a prominent place in Havana. The bill should pass, by all means.

THE OLD JAIL

That is what the old town hall really is. Brandon & Long are busy fixing it over, so that the large, unoccupied room can be used for a council chamber. The small room they used to occupy, did not give room enough, and so they have for several months been using a room in the Gandy Block. Now, however, when the new room is fixed up, they will have one much better than ever before. The rough sides of the room will be fitted up with wainscoting and new ceiling, and a partition will be run across, cutting off the north part of the front, so as to make an office for the Marshal. This will be a great convenience both for that officer and the council. Both offices will be neat and tasty.

But the old jail building itself is a curiosity. The walls are now exposed and show they are made of 8-inch plank, each 1½ inches thick piled on one another and each plank nailed down solid on the one below, and so on till the desired height was reached. The floor was built in the same way. In preparing the side walls for finishing up, they are taking off an additional plank that is put on perpendicularly and nailed fast with an abundance of twenty-penny cut nails. In one of these planks, 8-inches wide and 8 or 9 feet long, they counted 67 of these spikes. It takes hard work with a heavy crowbar, to get them off. It would have been hard work, to cut through such a wall to escape. Yet, they evidently had tried. At one point in the outer wall, when the upright planks were torn off it was discovered that the old wall had some holes started in it, evidently burned in with a red-hot poker. This place had also been covered up with a plate of thick sheet iron. But A. J. Ralston who remembers a good deal of the old building says, prisoners now and then got out. Once they cut a hole through the heavy floor, and got out in about twenty minutes. Others got out by forcing the door. The jail, he says was built in 1851 and he says that Streight was the first sheriff who used it. The grandfather of W. J. Wallace the tinner, built the old jail.

"It's a Wonder We Ain't All Dead."

We eat too much, we eat too fast, we eat too often, and we take too little care of how our meals are prepared, and we would have been dead long ago but for the medical skill of Dr. Caldwell, who formulated Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Since its introduction, we find a great deal less complaint about constipation, indigestion, sick headache, sour stomach, short breath, and all the ills that come from a disordered digestive apparatus, such as some people have, but all may get rid of by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Colts For Sale

I have two good colts, coming three next April, for sale at reasonable price. Call on me at my residence northeast of Auburn on the Morning Star road.

50 JAS. L. FERGUSON.

SEVERELY HURT.

Little Dorsey Hines May Be Crippled by a Sewing Needle.

Dorsey, the 13 year old son of Dr. Hines, was severely hurt yesterday. He was on the floor playing with his little sisters, when in some way not understood, he ran a sewing needle into his leg just above the knee cap. It went down under the cap and was broken into several pieces. Dr. Hines sent for Dr. Casebeer, and they cut a gash above the cap and a side gash so as to get under the cap. All the pieces were removed except the eye part of about half an inch long, that could not be found, though the two surgeons worked about five or six hours. The little fellow stood the severe work like a hero, only local treatment to dull the pain at that place being administered. He is resting well but no one can tell how much trouble the lost piece of steel may yet give him.

Corunna Poultry Show.

The Poultry Show at Corunna was a rousing success considering the time the fanciers had to prepare their birds Some of the birds were short in weight, but were very good. Some of them were as good as we find in any show. There were two black breasted Red Game cockerels that were as good as the writer ever saw, One is owned by G. H. Miles, which scored 98, and the other owned by Amos Luttman, which scored 97½ points. That is getting them away up in the world, but nevertheless, they are worth it. One bad feature of the show was the exhibition coops—they were all shapes, sizes and colors. Now I think a good plan would be for the fanciers and all others that intend to exhibit birds next year to make exhibition coops of regulation sizes, which can be made cheap and with little work. The frame, front and bottom is made of wood; the sides, top and back is covered with muslin, which can be bought cheap, from 3 to 4 cents per yard. The regulation size is 24x24 inches and 30 inches high, for single coops for about three birds. The exhibitors were a jolly set, everything passing off harmoniously and in good spirit, There were about one hundred birds on exhibition. J. W. Smith of Kendallville, did the scoring and judging, which gave general satisfaction.

L. D. MISER.

THE ENTRIES.

At the Corunna Poultry show, the following are among the many entries.

BARRED PLYMOUTH ROCKS.

Scored by J. W. Smith.

David Shaffer's entries scored as fellows: Cock 87½; cockerel, 89; pullet, 85½; hen, 88½; hen, 94.

J. B. Childs' entries: Cockerel, 82½; pullet, 85: pullet, 89.

John Gray's entries: Cockerel, 92; pullet, 89½; pullet. 87; cockerel, 92; pullet, 87½, pullet, 90.

John Stearns' entries: Cockerel, 90; pullet, 88½; pullet, 89; pullet, 87; hen, 90; pullet, 88.

Vene Snellbaker's entries: Cockerel, 91½; pullet, 86½.

SINGLE C. B. LEGHORNS.

Albert Harding's entres: Cock, 87; hen, 92; hen, 94; hen, 94; cockerel, 90, pullet, 91½.

Verne Harding: Cockerel, 90; pullet, 90½.

ROSE COMB B. LEGHORNS.

John Lipsett: Cockerel, 87; pullet, 91½; hen, 90.

A Luttman: Cock, 93.

WHITE PLYMOUTH ROCKS.

John Lipsett: Cockerel, 89; pullet, 89.

BLACKBREASTED RED GAME.

A. Luttman: Cockerel, 97½; pullet, 94.

G. H Miles: Cockerel, 98.

M. F. Wright: Cockerel, 94½; pullet, 92½.

Hal. Strouse: Cock, 95; hen, 92½.

Marcus Miles: B. B, R. Game bantam cock, 94½; hen. 89.

Lafe Miser; Black Langshan cock, 93; hen, 91½; hen, 94; light Brama cock, 94; hen, 94; hen, 90; white Wyandotte cock, 92; hen, 95; pullet, 94; pullet, 93.

PREMIUMS AWARDED.

Frank Rosenberry, pigeons, first: Herby Harding, second.

Jake Luttman: Blue Andalusian, 2nd; Black Langshan chicks, 2nd; Rose Comb White Leghorn fowls, 2nd.

Frank Rosenberry: Pair black Minorcas, 2nd.

Dell Harding: Black Minorca chicks, 2nd.

Wm. McGiffin: Holland turkey, first.

W. H. McCullough, Bronze turkey chick, first

David Darrow: Bronze turkey fowls, first.

Frank McCullough: B. B. Red Game chicks, first. Same, for ferret, first.

G. H. MILES, Sec.
J. W. SMITH, Judge.

$50 for One Bottle of Medicine.

This is to certify that my wife was for years afflicted with asthma, and was so far gone that several physicians decided that her case must terminate in consumption. I was induced to try a bottle of Dr. Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup. To our great satisfaction it gave almost immediate relief, and two bottles completely cured her. She is now well and healthy, but I would not be without the medicine if it cost fifty dollars a bottle. WM. H. FARRIS,

Chn Bd Tp of Wilton, Monroe Co., Wis.

Congress in Session.

Congress began its regular session at noon yesterday. There is much important work to do, a great part of which grew out of the recent war. There are to be arrangements made for the temporary government of our new possessions and for the increase of the army and navy, as a result of our need of greater armed forces abroad. The attendance of members when the opening prayers were made, was larger than usual, there being 67 in the senate and 267 members in the House. This is the "short session" and closes March 4.

L. S. HOLIDAY RATES

The Lake Shore will give special holiday rates from all its stations of one and one-third fare unlimited single round trip tickets, Dec. 23-24-25-31 and January 1. Tickets not good after January 3. Children of proper age, have similar reductions on their regular fare.

THE L. L. C. MEETING

Mrs. Cal. Husselmam Pronounced a Splendid Hostess

Saturday was another red letter day in the calendar of L. L. C. Mrs. Husselman one of the members who lives out of town invited the club to meet with her on that day and added to the usual invitation, one to remain and take tea with her. Of course her invitation was joyfully accepted, as the club had been invited to Mrs. Husselman's before, and the members knew in advance of the pleasant time in store for them. By half past two o'clock, all had gathered at the commodious home north of town, and the program for the day was taken up and carried out. It was "Indiana Day" and one of special interest. Mrs. Emanuel, as leader brought to the club many interesting facts as to the history and resources of Indiana also calling upon others to give items of information.

"The schools of Indiana," was the subject assigned to Miss Hague but she was not present.

"Indianapolis and its points of interest" was the theme given to Mrs. Ensley who resides in that city. She was unable to be present, but sent her work which was read and found full of interesting information and enjoyed very much by the members.

Mrs. Hortense Robbins, the newly elected member had for subject 'The Noted Men and Women of Our State." Her paper was nicely arranged and brought to notice in such a delightful manner, the men and women of note in history, poetry, and music, literature and statemeanship This was followed by the current news items of the week which were of unusual interest. The program was then closed and was followed by a social visit until refreshments were served. It is not necessary to say that they were delicious for that "goes without saying," They were served in three courses and most heartily enjoyed. The hostess had given the club another pleasure by having as visitors for the day, Mrs. F. W. Willis and daughter Dora, of Waterloo, and Mrs. J. W. Y. McClellan, of Auburn.

Mystery Cleared.

Columbia City Post.

Curt Anspaugh is in receipt of a letter from F. F. Ross, of Michigan City, in which he inquires for Washington Long. Mr. Ross says that while he was cleaning out a stove that had stood back of the store all summer he found a pocket book containing three deposit checks, two on the Farmer's Bank and one on the Whitley County Bank at South Whitley all amounting to $165.

A few months ago Mr. Long, who resides in Washington township went on an excursion to Michigan City and while there had his pocket picked. Besides the certificates of deposit mentioned, the pocket-book contained a little money. For some time after the loss, the bank was afraid to pay Mr. Long the money for fear that the certificates would turn up in the hands of innocent purchasers, but the money was finally paid over, after Mr. Long secured the bank against loss.

The finding of the certificates now clears up the matter.

Stranger Than Fiction

The Laporte Argus has a strange yet authentic story, that is far ahead of the famous "East Lynn" case that was dramatized. It says:

Mrs. Mary Keasy, of South Bend, died at the Polyclinic hospital, Chicago, after having lived for two years under the roof of her former husband, acting as servant for him and his wife, and seeing her children petted by another. She married Charles M. Keasy at South Bend in 1880. Then they separated and Mrs. Keasey obtained a divorce. She began working as a domestic to maintain herself and her husband married his present wife Mr. Keasy lives at 491 Twenty-ninth street, Chicago. Two years ago the first Mrs. Keasy, being unable to find employment, asked to be taken into the house of her former spouse and lived there until stricken with her fatal illness.

"Every Advertiser Lies."

Is the general impression among people who do not read. Fortunately there are very few people who have eyes and do not read. The more one reads, the more one knows, and the more one learns. Now, if we failed to put this advertisement where you may read it, we would be doing you an injustice, for like as not you are this moment suffering and maybe do not know what is the matter with you. After you have read this advertisement go and spend 10c for a trial bottle of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs 10c a line to tell you any more about this, so we will not enlarge on this subject. Try us in this. You can get it of Davenport, the druggist.

Quick Returns.

As prompt a case of payment on a fire loss as we ever heard of was that of Wm. Miser. He had a policy on his household goods in the German Fire insurance Co., of Indianapolis, of J. N. Wilson's agency. Sunday night about ten o'clock the Lockwood and the Hoff buildings burned and Mr. Miser had some losses on his goods in the next building. Mr. Wilson did not get down town till Monday noon, when he heard of the fire for the first time. He at once reported it to Indianapolis, and Wednesday noon Mr. Miser got his money.

Township Trustees.

There is talk of many changes in the law governing trustees and their duties. It will be well for legislators to examine bills of this kind very carefully. It is becoming the custom for interested parties about Indianapolis to have bills passed that will give them advantages that one outside the deal never dreamed of. Our laws are now very good. If they are not administered properly the fault is in the trustee. It is more likely we need a change in trustees rather than in the laws governing their work.

For Sale.

A good top buggy, Eckhart make. Will sell at a bargain or trade for wood

Also, will sell a good Norman mare coming 6 in the spring, at reasonable figures. Call at home half mile north of Auburn.

FRANK SHULL.

Save All You Can...

We will make your money go farther than any other clothing house in the county. We have an established reputation of dealing honestly and farely with our customers. Goods bought of us can be returned if not satisfactory. Our unusually large stock of Ulsters and Dress Overcoats compells us to slaughter prices. Men's, Boy's and Children's Suits are heaped too high on our tables for convenience. We are going to lower them. We always aim to give our customers the best quality and make for the least money. Once trading with us, with the assurance of your money back if goods are not as represented, surely is an inducement for all to make G. H. Yesbera's Clothing Store your trading place.

See Our Prices.

$3.25 Buys a good Overcoat.
$6.00 Buys a Beaver Dress Overcoat.
$1.50 Buys a Child's Cape Overcoat.
$1.00 Buys a Knee Pant Suit that is warm and heavy.
$3.75 Buys a Black or Mixed Suit, 14 to 19 years.
$10.00 Buys the Best Kersey Overcoat sold in the county.
$5 75 Buys a heavy Chinchilla Overcoat.
$2.25 Buys a Child's Vestee Suit.

Men's Suits.

$5 Buys a Heavy Cheviot Suit.
$6 Takes a Cassimere Suit that will wear like iron.
$8 Buys a Scotch Tweed.
$9 Buys a genuine all-wool Scotch Cheviot Suit.
$10 Buys an all-wool, genuine Washington Mills Clay Worsted Suit.

The Mens and Boys Pant Tables are over loaded with heavy weights and will go at a sacrifice price from $1 00 to $3 50 in pears. Genuine Bargains.

The Genss Furnishing Department embraces everything that is up-to-date.

UNDEDWEAR, DRESS SHIRTS, WORK SHIRTS, JERSEY SHIRTS GLOVES, MITTENS, NECKWEAR, HANDKERCHIEFS, SWEATERS, SUSPENDERS, OVERALLS, KNIT JACKETS, MACKINTOSHES, everything that man needs to wear we have got. Our hot and Hat and Cap department is overloaded also, with the cream of good things. New Stiff Hats, New Fedoras; New Pasha Shapes,

CAPS for Men, Boys and Children, we have given the line our special attention and can please the most exacting, we appreciate your trade and are always glad to show goods. Hoping to see you while our line in complete.

G. H. Yesbera,

The Clothier and Furnisher.

BUTLER.

Lewis Moore has been seriously ill for a number of weeks, with some fears of his recovery.

The G. A. R, ladies, assisted by the G. A. R. boys rendered the "Deestrick Schule," at the opera house last Tuesday evening to a good house.

Mrs. Hamilton is making a temporary stay with her daughter, Mrs. R. C. Campbell.

The Canning Co. have put up several car loads of sour kraut, and are meeting with quite a sale for it at home. The company recently held a meeting and decided to materially improve their plant, to add large additions to finish the second story for use in manufacturing, so as to have all the first floor for storage of finished goods. A few car loads of the summer product remains unshipped.

Mrs. William Olds has rented her farm and moved to Butler, and occupies her own house on East North Street.

Phillip Walters has gone to Lagrange to spend the winter with his brothers and sisters. His wife remains in Butler.

OBITUARY.

Died at her home two and one-half miles north east of Butler, Ind., Dec. 2, 1898, in the seventy-fourth year of her age, Lydia Cather.

Lydia Norris was born in Canal Dover, Tuscarawas Co. Ohio, March 27, 1825, where she received her education, and grew to womanhood She removed with her parents to DeKalb county, in 1842, settling on the south west corner of the present site of Butler. In 1852-3 the Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana R. R., was projected this way and Bradford's corners bid fair to become a junction, as it did twenty years afterwards, and her father, Charles Norris laid out a small part of the north-east corner of his land in town lots, which today is known as Norris' addition. Upon these lots the first houses were built and the town that grew up was for many years called Norristown.

On the first day of January 1847, she was united in marriage to James Cather a graduate of the Lutheran college at Gettysburg, who at the time was employed by that institution in establishing churches in North-eastern Indiana and North-western Ohio.

To them were born nine children, but three of whom are living. She united with the Methodist church at the age of 16, but after her marriage united with the Lutherans, and in later life again came back to her first choice.

Her funeral took place last Sunday at Big Run Chapel, Rev. Frech of the Butler M. E. church officiating.

Mrs. Cather was a devoted christian woman, a tender and loving wife and mother, an obliging neighbor, and her good deeds and noble acts of kindness will live long after her.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Only Place In Town

Where you can buy everything in the Fruit and Candy line at most reasonable prices. We can sell you at retail goods as cheap as most of wholesale dealers.

When You Want: Bananas, Lemons, Oranges, Apples, Cream Candies, French " Chocolates, Nuts, Cigars, Etc.

of every variety, and a line to select from that no house in Auburn can compete with. Call and see me at South 7th street, Kiblinger block.

FRANK ROSE,

THE FRUIT MAN.

Winter Is At Hand.

You don't need to wait until the thermometer registers 25 degrees below zero before you are convinced that winter is near at hand. You may as well acknowledge it at once! Winter is here and you need something in our line. We have them to sell at

PRICES THAT WILL SATISFY YOU

And when in need of

Stoves
Stove Pipe
Stove Boards
Dampers
Registers
Saws, Axes
Wedges, Sledges
Meat Cutters
Lard Presses
Loaded Shells
Shot Guns
Horse Blankets
Weather Strips
Oil Cloth Rugs

Snow Shovels, Hand Sleds, Burton Logging Bobs, Sleighs, Sleigh Bells, Sled Runners, Sled Soles, Corn Shellers

We would be pleased to have you call and see us. We are the sole agents in Auburn for the Celebrated Wilson Heating Machines, the latest and most economical stove out.

Culbertson & Boland,

AUBURN, IND.

Goods At Wholesale Prices!

At Yesbera's Jewelry Store During the Month of December Actual Cost Is All We Ask for any of our goods, and a good many things will be sold at a price Much Less Than Cost. Remember our stock is most all new and the quality good. Everything guaranteed to be just as represented. A lot of New Clocks Just Received. Odd Pieces of China that are just the thing for a Christmas present. If you are looking for bargains come early and make your selections.

Yesbera's Jewelry Store.

One Door North of Davenport's Drugstore.

CHRISTMAS GREETING!

1898

1898

The Druggist.

Its going to be a GREAT CHRISTMAS and we want you to be with us. Come in and rest your wistful eye on

Our Beautiful Holiday Display!

It will suggest toyou at once the proper present AT THE LOWEST PRICE EVER MADE.

It is impossible for us to tell you all that we have. You must see the line to appreciate it.

Medallions

We have the line of the choicest selections at WAY-DOWN prices, just see them! We have them from 25c up.

Toilet Cases

We have the largest line ever shown in Auburn for

75c Up

Collar and Cuff Boxes

We have the best assortment to select from in the city.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS

We have more than 2 wheelbarrow loads of the prettiest Albums you ever saw and the bottom has fallen out of the prices.

Shaving Sets

Some new designs at

$1.50 and $1.75

Gent's Toilets

We have some very Handsome Sets—Leather Cases, suitable for traveling

Work Boxes

These make very suitable presents. We have 'em for little girls—full Celluloid for 50c

Music Rolls.

We Have Them From 50c to $1.75.

OUR CELLULOID NOVELTIES

Consisting of Necktie Boxes, Handkerchief, Jewel, Photograph, Glove, Etc., Etc., are Simply Beautiful, at prices ranging at 25c, 50c 75c and $1.00.

Our Doll Depart=ment

This is our

Big 25c Kid Body, Bisque Head Doll

We have a large line of others larger, ranging in price up to $2

This is our 25c Unbreakable Doll.

We also have larger ones for

50c

Our Line Of Doll Cabs

We have them for

25 Cents
50 Cents
75c Cents
$1.00 & $1.25.

We also have Carts Wheel Barrows and Hobby Horses.

Our Line of Toys is Complete:

Our Stock of Toy Books speak for themselves. In fact, to cut a long story short, if you are a money saver it will pay you to trade with.....

H. B. McCORD

THE DRUGGIST, Auburn, Ind.

MUSICAL CONCERT EACH DAY and EVENING.

SUPPLEMENT TO

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVIII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, December 8, 1898. | Number 49.

TIKO

THE WONDERFUL REMEDY FOR

Rheumatism

It is not a CURE-ALL, but it is a Specific for RHEUMATISM.

One hundred and forty-four bottles Cured 100 cases of RHEUMATISM.

TIKO is a medicine taken INTERNALLY, the only method by which RHEUMATISM can be successfully treated. It cures the CAUSE, and therein lies its remarkable success. Its price is $1.00 per bottle, or three bottles for $2.50, and if your Druggist has not got it, it will be sent to you, by Express, ALL CHARGES PAID, on receipt of price.

Address, PURINTON MEDICINE COMPANY, Detroit, Mich.

THE HABIT OF SULLENNESS.

It Often Throws a Happy Life All Askew.

Speaking of sullenness, by the way, nothing is so beneficial for these "dumb devils" who sometimes enter into and possess certain folk as a good, rousing ruction, whereby the offending demon is shaken out of them as you would shake snakes and vermin out of a box, says the Philadelphia Times. Nothing else touches them. Kindness leaves them unmoved; gentle remonstrance leaves them obdurate; of gratitude they know not the first letters which spell the word, and they are as ignorant of those which make out the form and substance of their own advantage.

They are like a watch which has stopped by reason of a hitch in the wheel which only a shake-up can release. And in like manner, when they are shaken up by a good, rousing ruction they come out of their demoniacal dumbness and the wheels of their humanity turn as it is right and fitting they should. With the fiery on their own side a counteracting ruction may answer at times and rarely, but it will be only at times and very rarely. Two storms meeting each other create more havoc than beneficent clearance and two scolding wives or rageous men are apt to come to mutual grief. On the whole, we repeat the phrase and the sentiment with which we began. Like fire, the use of ructions is a good servant and a bad master. To the wise, who understand time, seasons and occasions, it is a most valuable instrument. To the foolish, who employ it foolishly, it is destruction to all concerned. But, then, fools do make havoc of all they touch, bad or good as it may be.

LAUGH THRICE A DAY.

It's a Sovereign Remedy for Chasing Away Melancholy.

It has been said that we grow in face as we grow in thought, and that our faces are mirrors of our souls, but do we ever stop to think that our faces affect our souls? And if they affect our souls they also affect our health, for health is, to a greater or less extent, controlled by the mind and soul. It is a fact, as we have found out, that a woe-begone expression will drive every one away from us. Even fortune deserts us. If we sink in melancholy and indulge ourselves in our fancied or real ills of mind or body we become diseased. While on the other hand, a cheerful view of life is better than medicine. A bright smile is always a winner, and its possessor can guide fate wherever she chooses, says the New York Herald. On the other hand, if a woman sits down and broods over her own ugliness, longing for beauty, she will grow uglier and uglier every day. She should cultivate a smile and practice it frequently, no matter whether she feels like smiling or not, and laugh. It is a tonic. Laugh methodically, if you cannot laugh any other way. Make it a business to laugh three times a day, no matter whether there is anything to laugh at or not. Laugh with the others even if you do not see the joke. If there is no joke this fact merely makes one, and laughing being contagious every one around you feels exhilarated and more cheerful, and laughter as a duty becomes a habit, and one forgets to frown and groan and sigh. Laugh whenever seized with a desire to cry or scold. One woman not long since cured herself of chronic ills which no doctor seemed able to reach by simply making up her mind to treat herself in this manner. Her first prescription to herself was a good, hearty laugh at each meal, and the entire family circle were in league to help her. Her health improved, of course, as the return of health made her really happy, and happiness is the keynote to beauty.

Moscow's Costly Cathedral.

Moscow cathedral, next to St. Peter's, at Rome, is the costliest cathedral in the world. On the exterior of the building alone 900 pounds of gold were used. Of its thirteen bells, the largest weighs half as much again as "Great Paul," in London, and the doors of the cathedral, of which the largest weighs thirteen tons, cost $310,000.

Why Birds Remain Perched.

The reason given that birds do not fall off their perch is because they cannot open the foot when the leg is bent. Thus, a hen, while walking, will close its toes as it raises the foot and open them as it touches the ground.

Wages of Maids of Honor.

The wages of a maid of honor for Queen Victoria were formerly $1,500 a year, but the pay is now raised to $2,000.

An Abundant Metal.

Aluminium is the most abundant metal in the world. It enters more or less into the formation of almost every kind of soil on the globe, while clay of different kinds contains from 30 per cent to 40 per cent of it. This metal, which, singular to say, was undiscovered seventy years ago, is the lightest known. It is white and does not tarnish on being exposed to the air. When first produced it is soft, but after hammering becomes as hard as the softer kinds of iron. One-third of the total product of the world is American, the rest being divided between France, Switzerland and Great Britain. It has been called the metal of the future, and the principal obstacle to its being the metal of the present is its somewhat high price. This has been greatly reduced of late years, but the great desideratum—a cheap method of obtaining the metal directly from the clay—has not yet been attained. If the metal were to become cheap, the existing age of steel would be succeeded by an age of aluminium.

Bernhardt's Eccentricity.

Sarah Bernhardt has developed a new eccentricity in the seclusion of her summer home in the abandoned army barracks at Belleisle. She will insist upon taking her daily bath on the roof of her chateau. At the appointed hour, whatever it happens to be, the bath is prepared on the roof. Then the actress ascends and performs this function of the toilet. The advantage of the situation are to be found in the sun and air, which Mme. Bernhardt declares are adjuncts of a bath that she is unwilling to do without so long as the state of the weather and the isolation of her establishment enable her to enjoy them. Her chief diversion at Belleisle, apart from the luxury of bathing on the roof, is found in hunting. All day she tramps over the country in hunting dress, and the disproportion between the number of shots she fires and the game she brings down has never been known to interfere with her enthusiasm at the chase.

He Emptied His Pockets.

The Comte de Corbieres, minister of the interior to Louis XVIII., while working in the king's cabinet, one day, became absorbed in his work, and so far forgot himself as to place his snuff-box on the king's desk after taking snuff. The king observed his unheard of familiarity from the corner of his eye, but said nothing. Presently the minister whipped out his pocket-hankerchief, and placed it beside the snuff-box. "Monsieur de Corbieres," remarked the king at last, "you appear to be emptying your pockets." "Perhaps so, sire," was the calm response, "but that is much better than filling them." The king smiled at the clever hit at the corruption of some of the minister's predecessors. Corbieres was noted for his scrupulous integrity.

Fireproof Drop-Curtains of Aluminum.

The Paris opera is to have such a drop-curtain. The proscenium arch will require the curtain to be about 60 feet wide and high. The aluminum is to be in the form of plates less than one-tenth of an inch thick. Steel or iron would be very much heavier than aluminum, and this is one principal motive in adopting the rarer metal.

His Ideal.

Missionary—"What sort of a position would you like to have?" Weary Raggles—"Well, a place to keep the sidewalks clear of snow in summer time, and the lawns mowed through the winter, would be a good one, to begin with."—Somerville Journal.

City Comforts for Country Homes

CHEAPER AND BETTER THAN ELECTRICITY, CITY GAS, OIL LAMPS

Will light the house, cook, broil, roast, bake, wash, iron, heat rooms, pump water, supply, run gas engines etc.

Send for free Catalogue

LIGHT FOR EVENING HOURS.

DETROIT HEATING and LIGHTING CO.

DETROIT • • • MICH.

EVOLUTION OF A PARIS GOWN

It Is the Result of Almost Infinite Collaboration.

The Paris gown that bursts full-blown on the eye of the client is not, as the public believe, a creation of the great dressmaker himself, nor is the great dressmaker responsible for the fashion, says Scribner's. This model gown is the result of an almost infinite collaboration. Up in the garrets of the criss-cross streets live a modest class of artists that make projects. They get their inspiration from old portraits at the Louvre, at Versailles, from elegant women in the driveways of the Bois, or from some hazard. They modify, develop, combine, following a drift which they do not control, till they have produced a novel idea that the public is likely to accept, and that is, therefore, salable. Their projects are fixed in sketches and they are known as marchands de croquis. Others of these specialists make up their projects in cloth, and are known as marchands de modeles. These occupy a more important rank than the first, since the models form a demonstration that the ideas can be realized. The model merchant is in relation with the manufacturers, who provide her with the new materials they have imagined, and whose interest it is to have their "truck" presented to the great dressmaking houses and so launched on the market.

How to Wash Chiffon.

This is such a flimsy and expensive material that many people refrain from wearing it on that account. Many do not know that it can be washed and made to look equal to new by a very simple process. It is washed in much the same way as muslin, and after rinsing put through very clear, thin starch. Care must be taken not to twist it in any way; it should be enclosed in the folds of a towel and be beaten with the hands until dry. Chiffon must be ironed almost immediately, it dries so quickly. After being stretched to its proper shape it should be ironed on the right side with a moderately hot iron. If it is a large piece, too much should not be exposed to the air at a time, and on no account be made stiff; it ought to fall softly, and just have sufficient stiffness to prevent it from looking limp. A boiled white chiffon veil or tie, subjected to this process, is made to look like new.

The Heat of the Sun.

It is impossible except by illustration and comparison to grasp the idea of the heat of the sun. According to calculation, based upon the energy of the sun's rays on the earth, the temperature at its surface is computed as about 18,000 degrees Fahrenheit. No artificial temperature of this degree can be created by any known means. Efforts have been made to collect and utilize the tremendous heat power of the sun, but cloudiness, mist and darkness have prevented anything like marked success. At the Columbian exposition an apparatus was shown consisting of a reflector and proper attachments, which utilized the heat of the sun to such an effect that a two-horse-power engine was run by it. It is proposed to try experimenting with reflectors where the sky is free of cloudiness and the sun shines almost uninterruptedly nearly every day in the year.

Flints Are Still in Use.

It may surprise you to hear that in spite of the millions of modern guns and rifles nowadays turned out the ancient flintlock is not quite a thing of the past. There is still in England at least one manufactory of flints for this use. The flints are all made by hand, being placed on the operator's knee and chipped with a hammer to the proper shape. Of course a number of these flints are for firemaking. These go principally to countries like Spain and Italy, where the duties on ordinary matches and wax matches are so high as to convert them from the absolute necessity they are in Great Britain to a positive luxury, so that flint and steel are used.

Doing an Annual Business of Billions.

Revised returns concerning the foreign trade of the United States during the fiscal year ending June 30 last show a larger balance in our favor than was anticipated, although it was known a month before the year closed that the aggregate would reach a figure of impressive size. The exports of specie and merchandise amounted in value to the large sum of $1,210,274,015, and the imports to $616,052,844, giving us a trade balance of $594,221,171, an amount one hundred per cent greater than that of the preceding fiscal year. Such a result and a subscription of $1,365,000,000 to a $200,000,000 war loan testify unmistakably to our national and popular financial soundness.

Watch the Pig's Tail.

In certain English fairs and markets the pig's tail is said to unerringly indicate the condition of the animal. If it hangs loose and flabby it shows that the animal is out of condition, and that its food should be changed. If, on the other hand, it is coiled tightly, the pig is healthy and in good condition.

Just What She Didn't Want.

Poor Lover—I'd always treat you like an angel. She—Yes; with nothing to eat, and still less to wear.—Harper's Bazaar.

The Object of Solicitude.

"Do you really think the peace of Europe is threatened" "No," replied the Chinese diplomat; "what is really in danger is a piece of Asia."—Detroit Free Press.

Mr. Smith's Business.

F. Hopkinson Smith, the artist and author, is also a very busy civil engineer, and his firm makes a specialty of building lighthouses. Some time ago, Mr. Smith was one of four traveling men seated in the smoking compartment of a Pullman. All had avowed themselves "drummers," and three told of the trouble they had in getting orders. "Why, gentlemen," said one, after the other two had unburdened their sorrows, "I'm going to be discharged for sure, because I haven't sold a bill of goods for a week." The fourth man of the party, Mr. Smith, crossed his legs nonchalantly, and remarked that he hadn't made a sale for two months. The others looked at him in utter amazement. "And your people keep you on the road?" asked one. Mr. Smith nodded. "May I ask," broke in another, "what in the name of conscience you are trying to sell?" "Lighthouses," replied Mr. Smith, and then the other three collapsed.

OF MANY TRADES.

Shoemaker, Doctor, Lawyer, Druggist, He Is Dead at Last.

A very odd character died at Cawker City the other day in the person of Dr. George W. Chapman, who had been a resident of Mitchell county for many years, says the Kansas City Journal. At the start-off he was a shoemaker by trade, and sat at his bench from morning until night, but in a few years he put in a small stock of drugs and commenced the study of medicine, and a little later blossomed out a full-fledged doctor. About this time he studied law, and was admitted to the bar and elected justice of the peace, and then, not content with all these employments, he took up the study of geology, and made a splendid collection of the specimens to be found in Northern Kansas. Between mending shoes, practicing medicine, serving drugs and practicing law, he found time to deliver lectures against Christianity and the Bible, and he became noted as the most contentious infidel in all his section of the country. About ten years ago he presented to the Women's Hesperian Library Club of Cawker City his fine collection of mineral and other specimens, and became instrumental in building the house which is now owned and occupied by that club. When he came to die the women of the club carried his body down to their library rooms and held some public exercises in his honor, at which a number of the prominent people of the town made speeches. One of the speakers was the Rev. Aller, the Presbyterian minister, who said he came as a citizen and not as a gospel man, for he felt sure that if Dr. Chapman had been consulted he would have stipulated very earnestly that no minister should be present at his funeral. All of the people said Dr. Chapman had his good points, and the preacher said so, too, not forgetting to express the belief that maybe he had repented before it became everlastingly too late. The dead man had no family about him, and lived in his last years the life of a hermit.

HOW CHILDREN SHOULD SLEEP

Hints Concerning Requirements of the Young for Their Upbuilding.

Frequent naps are as much a necessity for young children as food. Young mothers are apt to overlook this salient feature in the care of their babies. In fact, the little ones require much more sleep than is necessary for adults, as the child's nervous, impressionable system is not able to withstand the strain of long waking hours and the accompanying waste. Mainly, however, children require more sleep because while sleeping all the vital powers are concentrated on building them up, instead of being diverted to muscular movements and other influences which would interfere with this concentration. If children are wakeful and restless it is an indication that something is wrong; this wrong the mother should endeavor to put right rather than stupefy the child for a time in order to gain rest for herself. The "something wrong" will often be found to be improper or excessive feeding, too tight or too warm clothing or confined and impure air.

In Tunis.

The Arabs of Tunis give their children opium to prevent their crying. It is estimated that each child consumes, on an average, an infusion of one poppyhead every evening of its life up to two years. No ill effects are noted as resulting from this singular practice. The men of Tunis who are not Moslems are often hard drinkers. There are shops in the town where a subscription of five shillings a month gives the right to come every day and drink as much as one likes. This is possible, as palm wine is very cheap and very strong. The Moslems are, of course, forbidden to drink wines or spirits, but in Tunis they frequently contrive to reach the same ends by smoking a preparation of hemp flowers. The milder kind is called kif, and when used in moderation, has no more effect than wine, but the concentrated essence, known as chira, produces intoxication as quickly as raw spirits and leads to delirium tremens.

The Recruit's Defeat.

A recruit was brought up for medical inspection, and the doctor asked him: "Have you any defects?" "Yes, sir; I am short-sighted." "How can you prove it?" "Easily enough, doctor. Do you see that nail up yonder in the wall?" "Yes." "Well, I don't."—Pick-Me-Up.

What Causes It.

"Say, now, what makes bread raise so?" asked a woman of her baker. "It is the new yeast of ours here," he replied. "Won't you try a package?"—Denver Times.

CHRONOPHOTOGRAPHY.

What Has Been Accomplished in Photographing Objects in Motion.

One of the most interesting features of photography is called chronophotography. By means of a special camera, pictures of moving objects are taken at exceedingly short intervals, and later the same, made into transparencies, are thrown upon a screen in such quick succession that they display the motions of the original. As the eye is capable of receiving only a certain number of impressions during a given time, and the pictures appear and disappear rapidly, no one is seen distinctly, but being of the same subjects, they blend together and produce the appearance of motion. The pictures are photographed at the rate of fifteen hundred per minute, and the ease and sureness with which they are made and finished is no less remarkable than the pictures themselves. In England, on the evening of the last Trafalgar day, there was shown at the Palace theater a series of pictures of Trafalgar Square. In the center of each picture appeared the Nelson Column, with the famous lions at its foot garlanded with laurels, while across the screen trooped the pictured images of the thousands of people who at midday had streamed through the square and taken part in the memorial ceremonies. One of the latest feats of chronophotography is that of Camille Flammarion, the great French astronomer, who, with a cinematographe (as the French call the apparatus), displays on an immense screen the moon and stars pursuing their nightly courses across the sky. Having succeeded in cinematographing—if any one may use so awkward a word—the movements of other heavenly bodies, he is now using the same apparatus in photographing the sun, and expects before very long to represent by it the motions of the whirling outbursts of gases, familiarly known as sun-spots, as correctly and plainly as is now shown the rush of water over the precipice of Niagara.

RESULTS OF THE WAR.

Hon. Whitelaw Reid Sees Some Incalculable Advantages.

Hon. Whitelaw Reid contributes an article to Century on "The Territory with Which We Are Threatened." After arguing as to the inadvisability of giving up much of the captured or invaded territory, Mr. Reid concludes his paper as follows: The candid conclusions seem inevitable that, not as a matter of policy, but as a necessity of the position in which we find ourselves and as a matter of national duty, we must hold Cuba, at least for a time, and till a permanent government is well established for which we can afford to be responsible; we must hold Porto Rico; and we may have to hold the Philippines. The war is a great sorrow, and to many these results of it will seem still more mournful. They cannot be contemplated with unmixed confidence by any; and to all who think they must be a source of some grave apprehensions. Plainly, this unwelcome war is leading us by ways we have not trod to an end we cannot surely forecast. On the other hand, there are some good things coming from it that we can already see. It will make an end forever of Spain in this hemisphere. It will certainly secure to Cuba and Porto Rico better government. It will furnish an enormous outlet for the energy of our citizens, and give another example of the rapid development to which our system leads. It has already brought North and South together as could nothing but a foreign war in which both offered their blood for the cause of their reunited country—a result of incalculable advantage both at home and abroad. It has brought England and the United States together—another result of momentous importance in the progress of civilization and Christianity. Europe will know us better henceforth; even Spain will know us better; and this knowledge should tend powerfully hereafter to keep the peace of the world. The war should abate the swaggering swashbuckler tendency of many of our public men, since it has shown our incredible unreadiness at the outset for meeting even a third-rate power; and it will secure us henceforth an army and navy less ridiculously inadequate to our exposure. It insures us a mercantile marine. It insures the Nicaragua canal, a Pacific cable, great development on our Pacific coast, and the mercantile control of the Pacific ocean. It imposes new and very serious business on our public men, which ought to dignify and elevate the public service. Finally, it has shown such splendid courage and skill in the army and navy, such sympathy at home for our men at the front, and such devoted eagerness, especially among women, to alleviate suffering and humanize the struggle, as to thrill every patriotic heart, and make us all prouder than ever of our country and its matchless people.

The Largest Sun-Dial.

The largest sun-dial in the world is Hayou Haroo, a large promontory extending 3,000 feet above the Aegean sea. As the sun swings round the shadow of this mountain it touches, one by one, a circle of islands, which act as hour marks.

Quick Postal Delivery.

It is said that letters dropped in the postoffice at Paris are delivered in Berlin in one hour and a half, and sometimes within thirty-five minutes. The distance between the cities is 750 miles, and the letters are sent by means of pneumatic tubes.

Uruguay to Have a New Harbor.

Uruguay has determined to deepen the harbor at Montevideo.

Value of William's Gewgaws.

A Berlin newspaper says that the orders of decoration borne by the emperor of Germany are worth over 1,000,000 marks (a little over $230,000). His principal and most valuable decorations are the insignia of the Black Eagle, the Order of St. John, of the Garter and of the Toison d'Or. In all he has over 200 crosses, stars, badges and other insignia. It is said that he takes them with him on all his journeys and voyages, his hunting expeditions excepted. The coffer containing the decorations is in the constant care of an officer of the court, who accompanies the kaiser everywhere. On returning to Berlin the coffer is locked up with the crown jewels in the treasury.

USES OF WOOD PULP.

Now a Substitute for Steel, Stone, Glass and Many Other Things.

From the Lewiston Journal: It almost looks as if the old saying, "Cotton is king," might be revised to apply to wood pulp. Wood pulp has been used as a substitute for iron, steel, wood, stone, glass, ivory and innumerable kinds of animal and vegetable fiber. As a material for car wheels the manufacturers have found it superior to any kind of metal, being about three times as durable as steel and much more elastic. It has been found available as a material for paving bricks, drain tiling and conduits for electric cables. For ivory, which is becoming scarcer every day, cellulose is the best substitute which has yet been found. When properly treated it is practically proof against heat and moisture; hence it has been found superior to timber as a material for telegraph poles and screws. Cannon, too, and bicycles are made out of wood pulp in Germany and Chicago, respectively, while a Frenchman has succeeded in producing a thread from the same substance, which he declares can be worked up into all kinds of fabrics. A Vienna inventor declares that his wood pulp leather is superior to animal leather in fineness and durability. Among the other articles made of wood pulp are boats, canoes, cuspidors, pails, flower pots, tables, chairs, bureaus, barrels, wagons, horseshoes and imitation porcelain ware. The manufacture of silk from wood pulp is now an important industry in England and France. And in wood pulp the resources of Maine seem to be almost limitless.

ORIGIN OF THE CAKE WALK.

First One Took Place on the Randolph Plantation in Virginia.

The cake walk was first inaugurated some sixty years ago on the great Randolph plantation near Richmond, Va. It was the custom at that time to make a great deal upon this plantation of the Christmas time for the negroes who worked upon the plantation. Just before the 40s there was a large house party given at this hospitable mansion, and it was decided to get up something original for the entertainment. So upon Christmas eve the guests all assembled upon the broad verandahs and the gifts of the servants were piled before them. Then the servants formed in line and marched around, each receiving his gift as he passed before the veranda. Then Miss Randolph thought it would be a nice thing to have the negroes walk for a prize, and as nothing more tempting to the southern darkey could be found than something good to eat, it was decided to put up a great cake. The first walk was a great success, and the idea was immediately taken up by the other planters, and soon the cake walk came to be an established event at Christmas time, and the negroes looked forward to it for many weeks.

A New Idea.

Irate Customer—That bug exterminator you sold me the other day is no good. The cockroaches fatten on it. Affable Salesman—Yes, sir. That's the first stage. They get fat on it and then they die of apoplexy. Come around next week and report again. Anything I can do for you, ma'am?—Chicago News.

Extra Work for the Mints.

One of the provisions of the war revenue law requires the coinage of 1,500,000 silver dollars a month out of the bullion of the treasury. The results are that the mints at New Orleans, Philadelphia and San Francisco are working sixteen hours per day and are unable, at present, to supply the demand for other coin without some delay.

IT BURNS GAS?

THE "SOLAR"

The New Acetylene Gas Bicycle Lamp.

No More SOOT, SMOKE, GREASE nor DANGER

It can't jar or blow out like an Oil Lamp.

ABSOLUTELY NON-EXPLOSIVE.

Light costs ¼ of a cent an hour. Throws a clear, white light 100 feet ahead. Send for circular and learn about the . . . .

Greatest Bicycle Lamp of the Year

From your dealer or sent prepaid for $4.00.

BADGER BRASS MFG. CO.

KENOSHA, WIS.

BOODLERS RULE SPAIN.

Catalonia's Complaint Against Political Cliques at Madrid.

Not only are the traditions and customs of Catalonia (and what is true of one province is true of the others) different from those of Castile, but the economic interests of each of these units which compose the Spanish state are occasionally opposed to each other. It is a mistake, therefore, to suppose that the abrogation of our special laws is a sentimental grievance. It is also a material loss which may be estimated in pesetas and centimos. Administrative centralization means economic centralization, which in the case of Catalonia is tantamount to ruin. The few dozen greedy stump orators who compose the central government garner in all the riches of the country for the purpose of "administering" it. And they do; but it never gets much beyond the point at which charity begins. Millions upon millions are collected for the army and navy, but are they spent on these defenses? Ask Toral in Santiago de Cuba, Admiral Cervera or General Augustin. Yet the money has gone somewhere. Politicians who came to Madrid with a carpetbag full of impedimenta a year or two ago possess palaces and country villas and extravagant mistresses today. But the soldiers have not leather boots that will keep out the water! And Catalans pay more, far more, of that maladministered money than any other province of Spain. The government appropriated the funds belonging to the churches, universities, hospitals, savings banks and pawnbrokers of the kingdom on the ground that the capital was necessary to the state, which would in future pay interest upon it. Perhaps it was necessary. Let that question pass. What the Catalans object to is that the capital has vanished, no man knows whither, while the obligation to pay the interest remains, and the government is at its wits' ends to find the means of discharging that obligation.—Contemporary Review.

MEN'S AND WOMEN'S GOWNS.

Early English Garments Were Much Alike for Both Sexes.

In the long ago our Saxon ancestors, equally with their women-folk, wore gowns. The early Saxon called this garment a gunna, while the Welsh contemporary spoke of it as gwn. A little later there crept into our language the word cote, although a coat as we understand costume did not make its advent in the realms of fashion until the second half of the seventeenth century, says Lloyd's Weekly Newspaper. But just as we of today use indifferently the terms frock, dress, costume, gown, so the Anglo-Saxon and Norman Danes spoke of their cotes, surcotes and robes. When the Normans came over and polished our manners and—as an attendant sequence—our costumes, they found the Romanized British female wearing two tunics the upper one shorter than the lower. A bishop of Winchester describes a present he sends as "a short gunna sewed in our manner." Female costume in the tenth century was classical in its simplicity. The women wore long, loose, flowing skirts reaching to the feet and a draped cote or upper garment. Chaucer, who died in 1400, when Henry IV. was king, frequently uses the word cote. In the "Canterbury Tales" he depicts the sergeant-at-law as wearing "a medley cote," which no doubt means a coat of many colors; while the miller he describes as wearing "a whyte cote." It was in the fourteenth century that the word "gown" first came into use. An anonymous author in no mild words finds fault with the fashion of his days. He writes that "the commons were besotted in excess of apparel, in wide surcoats reaching to their loyns; some in a garment reaching to their heels, close before and strowting out on the side, so that on the back they make men seem women, and these they call by a ridiculous name—gown." As early as the thirteenth century women's cotes were made with trains and in the first quarter of the thirteenth century a bishop sadly moralizes on their vanity for wearing trained cotes, some of which contained "seven ells and a half."

The Rock of Refuge.

In the Sandwich islands there is a spot called the Rock of Refuge. If the criminal reaches this rock before capture he is safe, so long as he remains there. Usually his family supply him with food until he is able to make his escape, but he is never allowed to return to his own tribe.

Doesn't Like the Ballet.

The governor general of Canada does not like the ballet girls, and for this reason Montreal society is greatly depressed. Her Majesty's theater will be opened on November 7 amid a dazzling blaze of light and brilliant display of jeweled beauties. All the swells from swelldom were to be at the opening, as it had been noised around that the vice regal party had taken a box, and that their excellencies would be on hand to grace the opening of the new theater. The play for the opening night will be "The Ballet Girls," and it was expected by the management that Lord and Lady Aberdeen would come at the asking. However, the representatives of Her Majesty's theater went to Rideau to invite the representatives of her majesty, and here the trouble began. Lady Aberdeen told the envoy that her husband did not take kindly to the performance of ballet girls, and that consequently they would be obliged to withhold their patronage. There are long faces in the old town tonight.—Ottawa Free Press.

THE BISHOP & LACKEY CO.

AUBURN, IND.

CONTEMPLATING a change in the firm at the close of the year we will commence a Stock Reducing Sale,

Thursday, Dec. 1, 1898,

and continuing during the entire month. Prices have been adjusted on many lines without regard to profit. We have given many successful Special Sales, but propose to make this a RECORD BREAKER. We are not offering a job lot of trashy merchandise, but new dependable goods such as this firm has made its reputation by handling, and at a time when they are wanted.

Special provisions made for prompt service.

Ladies' Suits and Wraps

This has been one of the busy departments during the past month. But fresh arrivals have filled the gaps. We are showing perhaps 300 garments. Can not describe them all. The stock consists of Children's Jackets, 4 to 12 years. This seasons latest production.
Regular price.....2 00 to 6.75

Misses, 14 to 18 years, in rough and smooth goods in black and colors.
Regular price.....3.50 to 10.00

Ladies' Jackets in Black Kersey and Astrakhan. Late styles.
Worth.....6.50 to 15.00

Ladies' Astrakhan, plain and crushed Plush Capes.
Regular price....5.00 to 18.00

On all the above stock we will give during this sale a discount of 25 per cent.

Hosiery

Ladies' fast black fleeced lined Cotton Hose.
Per pair..... 15 and 25c

Ladies' black ribbed and plain Wool Hose. Extra quality.
Per pair.....25c

Children's fast black heavy ribbed Cotton Hose. All sizes.
Per pair.....10c

Children's black Wool Hose. Narrow and wide ribbed. All sizes 5 to 8½; good value at 25c.
Now.....19c

Men's heavy Wool ½ Hose in grey and blue mixed. A 35c value.
Sale price.....25c

Holiday Handkerchiefs

No time in the year when you can find such values and selections as now.

See our line of Men's white and colored borders at 8, 10, 12½ and 15c The best your money could buy.

Men's all Linen Hemstitched Handkerchiefs in wide and narrow hems at 10, 12½, 15, 20, 25, 35 and 50c. The best we have ever sold at these prices.

Dainty Embroidered Handkerchiefs such a variety at 5, 10, 12½, 15, 20c, and on up to $1.00 each. Just perfectly lovely. You will be carried away by their attractiveness.

Carpets

Half wool Carpets. Nice patterns. Regular 60c goods.
Sale price per yard.....40c

5 rolls all wool extra super Ingrain Carpets. Regular 50c goods.
Now.....45c

4 rolls Tapestry Carpets. worth 75c.
Sale price.....50c

3 rolls each Axminster and body Brussel Carpets. Cheap at $1.00.
Sale price.....75c

Underwear

Children's Pants and Vests; sizes 16 to 34 Each.....10 to 25c

Ladies' ribbed fleeced lined Vests and Pants; a bargain at 25c.
Now.....21c

Ladies' Jersey Ribbed Vests and Pants; sizes 4 to 7's. Regular 50c goods
Each.....33c

Ladies' Natural Wool Vests and Pants; $1.00 value. Now.....75c

Child's Cotton Flannel Drawers; lace trimmed; 10 cent values. Now...6¼c

Child's Union Suits; worth $1 00.
Now.....50c

Child's Jersey Ribbed All Wool Pants and Vests; worth 50c. Now.....35c

Men's Grey Random Shirts and Drawers; worth 35c. Now.....23c

Men's Natural Half-wool Shirts and Drawers; worth 50c each.
Now per suit.....75c

Men's Cotton Fleeced; worth 50c.
Now 45c each or per suit.....85c

Men's Natural Wool Shirts and Drawers; all sizes; worth each 75c.
Now.....55c

Ladies' and Gents' Outing Gowns. in neat stripes, large collar, good value at $1.00. Now.....75c

Misses Outing Gowns, the 75c kind.
Now.....50c

Children's Gowns sold all season at 50c. Now.....39c

Silk Waists

We have just received another lot of those beautiful Silk and Satin Waists. Just in time for the Holidays. See them while making your selections for Christmas presents.

"Flannelette" Waists and Wrappers. Good assortment at low prices.

Blankets

10-4 Cotton Blankets in Grey; worth 50c. Sale price.....40c

11-4 Blankets in grey, tan and white; worth $1.25. Sale price.....1.00

11-4 Grey Half-wool Blankets; weight full five pounds; $1.75 values.
Now.....1.25

10-4 All-Wool Blankets.....2.50

11-4 All-Wool Blankets, in white and colors.....3.00 3.50 & 4.00

Domestics

Nice line dark Prints, 5c quality.
Goes during this sale at 3½c

Good heavy yard wide unbleached Muslin. Price 3c

Dark and light Outings; 6c value.
Price per yard.....4c

9-4 Sheeting; 16c value.
Per yard.....12c

5-4 Table Oil Cloth.
Per yard.....10c

Gloves & Mittens

Children's Mittens 10, 15, 20 & 25c.

Ladies' Mittens in plain and fancy.
.....15, 25, 35 & 50c.

One lot Men's gloves in calf and hog skin; lined and unlined; values 75c to $1.25. Now.....50c

Calf Skin Mittens; warm lined; regular $1.00 quality. Now.....50c

Pontiac Mittens; buckskin covered; worth $1.25. Now.....75c

Heavy Fulled Mittens, worth 50c.
Now.....39c

Holiday Novelties

Pillow Covers in new and pretty designs.

Dresser Covers,
Pillow Shams,
Lunch Cloths,
Table Linens,
White Quilts,
Jewelry,
Fancy Combs,
Ladies' and Gents' Purses and Pocketbooks,
Ladies' and Gents' Ties, Scarfs, Bows, Scarf and Hat Pins,
Fur Collarettes,
Muffs,
Ladies' and Gents' Umbrellas, etc.

It pays to trade at the big store of

The Bishop & Lackey Co.,

AUBURN, IND.

IDEAL MUSIC,

"Sweet as the angel Israfil's,
When every leaf on Eden's tree
Was trembling to his minstrelsy."

can be produced from an EBERSOLE PIANO. The Ebersole possesses a tone that no other maker has been able to imitate—being full and deep, yet with that clear singing quality which stamps it the peer of all upright pianos for homes of culture and refinement.

Frank B. Long,
119 Calhoun-St cor Washington,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

E. P. SHERWOOD 2 miles west of Waterloo, has the thoroughbred O. I. C. hogs ready for breeding purposes. The pair $60 in Cleveland.

Shoes...

NOT TO BURN, BUT TO SELL.

...Shoes.

We have the leading styles in all widths and the largest and best selection we ever had, which means the best in town.

We have purchased a lot of Women's Calf Skin Shoes in button and lace, cap toe and common sense plain toe, regular $1.50 quality which we offer for $1.19. If you want a pair come early; they won't last lohg at that price.

Yours respectfully,

Shull's Shoe Store.

—WANTED:—Fifty new subscribers who wish to pay for the COURIER in wood. Tell your neighbor about it, and if he wants the best paper in the county, and pay in trade, tell him we are ready for him.

—Baby photographs a specialty at Lybarger's Gallery North Main, Auburn.

Monday's Daily.

—The finest line of opal jewelry we have ever seen is now on exhibition at Hodge's jewelry store.

—Mrs. Ora Knisely, of Butler, came over on the forenoon train and was a guest of her relatives of the COURIER.

—Our Concord friends, B. A. Hadsell and J. E. Dermott, were on the program for work at the Corunna farmers' institute. Both are practical and successful farmers.

—When you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve don't accept a counterfeit or imitation. There are more cases of Piles being cured by this, than all others combined. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The Press is "quite a few" off, in speaking of Mrs. McIlrath's visiting in Auburn, "with her sister Mrs. Charles Pommert." Mrs. Pommert is a daughter of the late ex-sheriff John C. St. Clair, and was brought up in sight of Waterloo.

—J. H. Zeis, who at one time taught the Cedar Creek school in this county, committed suicide at Lake Geneva, Wisc., Thanksgiving day, by drowning. He had taught in Chicago for several yerrs and was highly regarded. It is supposed he was deranged.

—A Goshen attorney, last week left his overcoat in a saloon, while he went over to try a case in the justice's court. He won his case, then went back to get his overcoat and found a constable had levied on it to satisfy a laundry bill. He had to go home without it.

—It is said that the city of Wabash was the first in the United States to light their town by electricity. The lights were located on the court house tower, Now they are talking up acetyline gas, and will be the first city in this state to adopt it, It is said to be much cheaper.

—Constipation prevents the body from ridding itself of waste matter, DeWitt's Little Early Risers will remove the trouble and cure Sick Headace, Biliousness. Inactive Liver and clear the complexion. Small, sugar coated, don't gripe or cause nausea. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The commissioners of Allen county, have agreed to pay their attorney, J. M. Barrett, $1500 for the coming year. In DeKalb county, the work is much less, and probably not so difficult. Our county attorney gets only $100, and has to act as counsel for all the county officers who need his assistance.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Amos Friend of Jackson did the COURIER a favor this stormy Tuesday.

—Milton Carnahan is one of our latest new subscribers. We are pleased to have him again on our list.

—Mart Apple of this township brought in a nice load of wood for this office today. It takes lots of fuel this kind of weather.

—C. H. Moltz an old veteran of Butler has had his pension increased from $6 to $8. Not a very big increase, but better than none.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Arthur Cupp got his eye hurt last week by having the whip lash fly around in such a way as to strike him in that particularly tender spot.

—Ex-coroner, Lafe Miser was a caller today. He has spent the summer at Helmer, working at his trade. He has built several houses there the past season.

—Abner Giffin, a Fort Wayne man has returned from Alaska. He is boring oil wells, having discovered the oil while prospecting for gold near Cook's Inlet.

—Mrs. Emma Helwig, widow of the late Isaac Helwig is welcomed again to the COURIER subscription list, We are always glad to see the old familiar names again.

—Ex-Sheriff Plum came came down from Waterloo today to see Wash Askew, who is sick. He brings word that Mrs. Plum, is still in poor health, some days better and some days worse.

—We have lately made arrangements to do all kinds of carriage repairing. When in need of such work give us a call. Corner Fifth and Jackson streets.
THE SPECIALTY BUGGY CO.
d2w-w6 WM. ECKHART, Mngr.

—Indiana schools, have so far sent $738,50 to Washington, for the Lafayette Monument fund. South Bend heads the list with $67.77; Goshen sent $24.64; Peru $30,80; Laporte,$20. Several of the larger towns have not yet reported.

—A cough is not like a fever. It does not have to run a certain course. Cure it quickly and effectually with One Minute Cough Cure, the best remedy for all ages and for the most severe cases. We recommend it because it's good. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The cruiser New York, will be the first American warship to enter Havana harbor since the loss of the Maine This is the big ship that was launched and named when Judge McClellan was in congress. He was one of those who was invited to be present and he and Mrs. McClellan were there. They did not then know how soon this iron monster would become famous.

—The President's message, read in both houses yesterday, is one of the longest on record. It took two hours and eighteen minutes to read it. It was listened to attentively, not only by members, but by full galleries, and by an unusual number of members of foreign diplomatic representatives. There was a good deal for the President to say. He makes but few suggestions, but leaves the most of it to Congress.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Faust at the Opera House Friday evening.

—Sterling silver novelties of every description at Hodges.

—Peter Loutzenheiser is cutting wood for Mr. Kethcham out west of town.

—A Kodak makes an elegant Christmas Gift. D. A. Hodge, the jeweler, has them, all prices.

—Willis A. Dannells made the COURIER a pleasant call today and our cash box is the better for it.

—Davenport the Druggist, has books for everybody, old and young. Prices are right too, call and see.

—The Laporte Argus claims that city is overrun with rats. Send for the "Pied Piper of Hamelin."

—A fine girl baby is reported by Dr. Vesta M. Swarts, born to Mr. and Mrs. Chaney on West Ninth-st, last evening.

—McCord's drugstore is literally filled with toys and all sorts of holiday goods. They attract a good deal of attention.

—Miss Clara Williams of Auburn, was the guest of Miss Gertrude Schrader of Fort Wayne for the past few days.

—Dr. Chas. E. Miller the optician, will be at Yesbera's jewelry store Dec. 14. Those in need of spectacles should not fail to see him.

—STOVES FOR SALE:—A good coal stove and a good cook stove. Inquire of Mrs. Wm. McIntyre at W. H. McIntyre's, South Main-st.

—Smead, the inventor of the heating furnaces of that name has gone into bankruptcy. He was at one time one of the wealthiest men in Toledo.

—Keep your eye on our show window as we have something out of the ordinary to show you soon.
D. A. HODGE, the jeweler.

—Judge John Morris, of Fort Wayne has just celebrated his 82nd birthday. He is a pretty lively old attorney yet. He lived in Auburn from 1844 to 1857.

—S. A. Karns, the music dealer, well known over this county, suffered quite a loss by fire Sunday. His residence in Riverside, Fort Wayne was nearly destroyed.

—A large body of sailors about 700 in all, are on the way to join Dewey at Manila. They take the place of such of his men as have served out their enlistment.

—Nothing makes home more attractive to young people than plenty of good books. Don't buy paper backs when you can get good binding, all standard authors, for 15 cents at Davenport's.

—The Seventh Army Corps 16,000 strong was reviewed yesterday, by its commander, Gen. Lee at Savannah. They go at once to occupy Cuba and expect to all be there by a week from Saturday.

—Soothing, healing, cleansing, De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is the implacable enemy of sores, burns and wounds. It never fails to cure Piles. You may rely upon it. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Dr. Hines had no trouble to get his $200,000 bond. It was finished early last week, and after it was up to $204,300 parties representing over $15,000 more came in and ready to sign their names.

—Supt. Coe has been setttling with the trustees this week, on matters connected with the text books used in schools. There is a good deal of work connected with this, but a large sum is saved for the people.

—The compulsory education law, has done some good, at least. State Supt. Geeting reports that 21,000 pupils have been brought into the pubic schools in the past year, who would not have otherwise attended.

—TO RENT:—The three office rooms on second floor Kiblinger building entered direct from stair landing, at your own price. Also the Cool dwelling on North Main-st. Walter C. Hartman. Leave word with D. A. Hodge.

—We now have on sale the largest and best selected stock of books ever brought to town. Lovers of books are invited to call early while the list is complete.
DAVENPORT, the Druggist.

—Overcome evil with good. Overcome your coughs and colds with One Minute Cough Cure. It is so good children cry for it. It cures croup, bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and all throat and lung diseases. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—We give a pretty full account of Corunna Poultry show this week. With eggs at 20 cents a dozen, poultry is a pretty important thing. And the managers were enterprising enough to furnish good copy of their proceedings. Other societies should do the same.

—St. Joe News:—Geo. Bleeks will have a public sale at his residence three and a half miles east of St. Joe on Saturday, Dec. 10th, at ten o'clock. He will sell cows, sheep, horses, harness, hay and other articles. Phil Carr, of Ligonier, is to be the auctioneer.

—R. B. Showers is as faithful an the sun in paying his subscription. We have an old-time deal with him, that he will bring each year a half dozen of his brooms, which are always good ones, and we never fail to get them. A newspaper office has to be kept clean and tidy.

—The sooner a cough or cold is cured without harm to the sufferer the better. Lingering colds are dangerous Hacking cough is distressing. One Minute Cough Cure quickly cures it. Why suffer when such a cough cure is within reach? It is pleasant to the taste. At Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

AT ITS VERY BEST!

The Bazar Store

Auburn, Indiana.

BARGAINS THIS WEEK! Sometimes its good store-keeping to cut down profit. Just now for instance, getting the stock ship shape for Christmas. Clearing up the little lines that steal valuable space from the Holiday Show. Willing to stand a little less profit for the sake of fnture gain. The prices talk plainly. This week buyers will find it a pleasant, saving conversation.

Underwear Bargains:

Children's Underwear size 16, sold at 20 cents A Suit this week for	10c
Children's Underwear size 18, sold at 24 cents A Suit This Week for	16c
Children's Underwear size 20, sold at 28 cents A Suit this Week for	20c
Children's Underwear size 22, sold at 32 cents A Suit This Week for	24c
Children's Underwear size 27, sold at 36 cents A Suit This Week for	28c
Children's Underwear size 26, sold at 40 cents A Suit This Week for	36c
Children's Underwear size 28, sold at 44 cents A Suit This Week for	36c
Childsen's Underwear size 30, sold at 44 cents A Suit This Week for	42c
Children's Underwear size 32, sold at 50 cents A Suit This Week for	48c
Children's Underwear size 34, sold at 55 cents A Suit This Week for	50c

Misses Wool Underwear, all sizes sold for $1.50 a suit, this week $1.00 suit, the biggest offer ever made.

Ladies' Union Suits, half-wool, never sold less than 75c, this week for 48c suit.

Misses Union Suits, half-wool, never sold less than 50c, this sale 24c.

Men's and Boy's Mittens and Gloves for 19c.

Ladies' and Children's Mittens from 8c to 23c.

The Bazar Store

Auburn, Indiana.

Thanks!

We wish to thank the people of Auburn and DeKalb county for the very liberal patronage they have given us so far for the year 1898; especially during the month of October—our sales last week being more than double the amount of the same week last year as well as over $100 better than any week in October '97. Week before last also showed a nice little gain of $85; hence we are highly gratified to know that the people appreciate our efforts to keep just what they want in footwear at prices to suit. We shall aim to merit a continuance of a trade that is so flatteringly satisfactory and ask you one and all to call again. Yours for trade,

WILSON,
The Shoe Man.

Some people complain about the wear of their Shoes, but they are not those who wear those waterproof Dongola Shoes sold by Wilson.

A Fair Proposition.

If ladies will go to each shoe store in town and take home a pair of their $2 50 or even $3.00 shoes marked in plain figures and go to Wilson's and ask for a pair of his famous $2.00 shoes. Then if you do not believe that Wilson can and does save you from 50c to $1.00 a yair on such shoes why then its our treat.

Warm Slippers.

We bought a lot of Ladies, Misses and Childrens slippers and notice our seven is before the nine—79c is the price at Wilson's.

Rubber Footwear

is often a source of much annoyance. Buy them at last years prices of Wilson, who keeps more rubbers than any one else hereabouts having sold over 4,000 pairs last year. Wilson has the goods as well as the prices.

Felt and Knit Boots.

Buy them where you have an assortment to pick from, the best makes guaranteed and prices are right. Wilson is the man who keeps them.

Arctics and Overshoes.

Tis often difficult to get a fit. Don't go in to any store and accept of a poor fit. Come to us and we are right in the swim with more styles and more toes than can be found in the county. Wilson's is the place and prices are right.

School Shoes.

Mothers and Fathers often worry about the large amount of cash it takes to buy school shoes for their children. Come in and let us pick you out what is needed and our word for it your money back if they don't wear, at Wilson's.

Wilson's Short Shoe Price List.

Ladies and Gents Fine Shoes	$3 00
Ladies and Gents Fine Shoes	2 00
Ladies and Gents Fine Shoes	1 50
Ladies Waterproof Shoes	2 00
Ladies Goat any style	1 50
Ladies oil grain for heavy wear	1 50
Ladies Felt Shoes	$1 00 to 1 50
Misses Shoes	1 00 to 2 00
Childrens sizes 8 to 12	85 to 1 50
Childrens sizes 5 to 8	60 to 1 00

A complete line of rubbers, felts, sox arctics, in fact everything in medium priced footwear. Come and see us.

Wilson,

SHOEMAN,

Auburn.

FARMERS' WIVES

or any other ladies who wish to work

Can Earn Lots of Money

working for us in spare time at home on our cloths. We offer you a good chance to make plenty of spending money easily, leisure hours. Send 12c. for cloth and full directions for work, and commence at once. Cloth sent anywhere. Address
WINOOSKET CO. (311-M) Boston Mass'
Mfg. Dept.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

Notwithstanding the added burdens rendered necessary by the war, our people rejoice in a very satisfactory and steadily increasing degree of prosperity evidenced by the largest volume of business ever recorded. Manufacture has been productive, agricultural pursuits have yielded abundant returns, labor in the fields of industry is better rewarded, revenue legislation passed by the present Congress has increased the treasury's receipts to the amount estimated by its authors, the finances of the Government have been successfully administered, and its credit advanced to the first rank, while it has been maintained at the world's highest standard. Military service under a common flag and for a righteous cause has strengthened the national spirit and served to cement more closely than ever the fraternal bonds between every section of the country. A review of the relations of the United States to other powers, always appropriate, is this year of primary importance, in view of the momentous issues which have arisen, demanding in one instance the ultimate determination by arms and involving far-reaching consequences which will require the earnest attention of the Congress.

Failure of Autonomy in Cuba.

In my last annual message very full consideration was given to the question of the duty of the Government of the United States toward Spain and the Cuban insurrection as being by far the most important problem with which we were then called upon to deal. I concluded it was honestly due to our friendly relations with Spain that she should be given a reasonable chance to realize her expectations of reform to which she had become irrevocably committed.

The ensuing month brought little sign of real progress toward the pacification of Cuba by the autonomous administration. No tangible relief was afforded the vast numbers of unhappy reconcentrados, and by the end of December the mortality among them had frightfully increased. With the acquiescence of the Spanish authorities a scheme was adopted for relief by charitable contributions raised in this country. Thousands of lives were thus saved, but the war continued on the old footing without comprehensive plan. No alternative save physical exhaustion of either combatant and therewithal the practical ruin of the island lay in sight.

Destruction of the Maine.

At this juncture, on the 15th of February last, occurred the destruction of the battleship Maine, while rightfully lying in the harbor of Havana—a catastrophe, the suspicious nature and horror of which stirred the nation's heart profoundly. Yet the instinct of justice prevailed and the nation anxiously awaited the result of the searching investigation at once set on foot. The finding of the naval board of inquiry established that the origin of the explosion was external by a submarine mine, and only halted through lack of positive testimony to fix the responsibility of its authorship.

All these things carried conviction to the most thoughtful, even before the findings of the naval court, that a crisis in our relations with Spain and toward Cuba was at hand. So strong was this belief that it needed but a brief executive suggestion to the Congress to receive immediate answer to the duty of making instant provision for the possible and perhaps speedily probable emergency of war. The details of the hurried preparation for the dreaded contingency is told in the reports of the Secretaries of War and of the Navy. It is sufficient to say that the outbreak of war, when it did come, found our nation not unprepared to meet the conflict.

Negotiations with Spain.

Still, animated by the hope of a peaceful solution and obeying the dictates of duty, no effort was relaxed to bring about a speedy ending of the Cuban struggle. Negotiations to this object continued actively with the Government of Spain, looking to the immediate conclusion of a six months' armistice in Cuba, with a view to effect the recognition of her people's right to independence. Negotiations continued for some little time at Madrid, resulting in offers by the Spanish Government which could not but be regarded as inadequate. Grieved and disappointed at this barren outcome of my sincere endeavors to reach a practical solution, I felt it my duty to remit the whole question to the Congress. In the message of April 11, 1898, I reviewed the alternative course of action which I had proposed, concluding that the only one consonant with international policy and compatible with our firmset historical traditions was intervention as a neutral to stop the war and check the hopeless sacrifice of life.

In view of all this, the Congress was asked to authorize and empower the President to take measures to secure a full and final termination of hostilities between Spain and the people of Cuba, and to secure in the island the establishment of a stable government.

Congress Declares War.

The response of the Congress, after nine days of earnest deliberation, during which the almost unanimous sentiment of your body was developed on every point save as to the expediency of coupling the proposed action with a formal recognition of the Republic of Cuba as the true and lawful government of that island—a proposition which failed of adoption—the Congress, after conference, April 19, by a vote of 42 to 35 in the Senate and 311 to 6 in the House of Representatives, passed the memorable joint resolution, declaring war.

This resolution was approved by the executive on the next day, April 20. A copy was at once communicated to the Spanish minister at this capital, who forthwith announced that his continuance in Washington had thereby become impossible, and asked for his passports, which were given him. He thereupon withdrew from Washington, leaving the protection of Spanish interests in the United States to the French ambassador and the Austro-Hungarian minister. Simultaneously with its communication to the Spanish minister, Gen. Woodford, the American minister at Madrid, was telegraphed confirmation of the text of the joint resolution and directed to communicate it to the Government of Spain, with the formal demand that it at once relinquish its authority and government in the Island of Cuba and withdraw its forces therefrom, coupling this demand with announcements of the intentions of this Government as to the future of the island, in conformity with the fourth clause of the resolution, and giving Spain until noon of April 23 to reply.

The demand, although, as above shown, officially made known to the Spanish envoy here, was not delivered at Madrid. After the instruction reached Gen. Woodford on the morning of April 21, but before he could present it, the Spanish minister of state notified him that upon the President's approval of the joint resolution the Madrid Government, regarding the act as "equivalent to an evident declaration of war," had ordered its minister in Washington to withdraw, thereby breaking off diplomatic relations between the two countries, and ceasing all official communication between their respective representatives. Gen. Woodford thereupon demanded his passports and quitted Madrid the same day.

Spain having thus denied the demand of the United States and initiated that complete form of rupture of relations which attends a state of war, the executive powers authorized by the resolution were at once used by me to meet the enlarged contingency of actual war between Spain and the United States. April 22 I proclaimed a blockade of the northern coast of Cuba, and on the 23d I called for volunteers to execute the purpose of the resolution. By my message of April 25 the Congress was informed of the situation, and I recommended formal declaration of the existence of a state of war between the United States and Spain. The Congress accordingly voted on the same day that act approved April 25, 1898, declaring the existence of such war, from and including the 21st day of April, and re-enacted the provision of the resolution of April 20, directing the President to use all the armed forces of the nation to carry that act into effect.

Due notification of the existence of war as aforesaid was given April 25 by telegraph to all the governments with which the United States maintains relations. In further fulfillment of international duty I issued April 26 a proclamation announcing the treatment proposed to be accorded to vessels and their cargoes as to blockade, contraband, the exercise of the right of subjects and the immunity of neutral flags and neutral goods under enemy's flag. A similar proclamation was made by the Spanish Government.

Preparations for the War.

Our country thus after an interval of half a century of peace with all nations found itself engaged in deadly conflict with a foreign enemy. Every nerve was strained to meet the emergency. The response to the initial call for 125,000 volunteers was instant and complete, as was also the result of the second call of May 25 for 75,000 additional volunteers. The ranks of the regular army were increased to the limits provided by the act of April 26. The enlisted force of the navy on the 15th of August, when it reached its maximum, numbered 24,123 men and apprentices. One hundred and three vessels were added to the navy by purchase, one was presented to the Government, one leased and the four vessels of the International Navigation Company—the St. Paul, St. Louis, New York and Paris—were chartered. In addition to these the revenue cutters and lighthouse tenders were turned over to the Navy Department and became temporarily a part of the auxiliary navy.

Much alarm was felt along our entire Atlantic seaboard lest some attack might be made by the enemy. Every precaution was taken to prevent possible injury to our great cities lying along the coast. The auxiliary navy patrolled the coast and performed the duty of a second arm of defense. Under the direction of the chief of engineers submarine mines were placed at the most exposed points. The aggregate number of mines placed was 1,535, at the principal harbors from Maine to California.

The national defense $50,000,000 fund was expended in large part by the army and navy, and the objects for which it was used are fully shown in the reports of the several secretaries. This fund, being inadequate to the requirements of equipment and for the conduct of the war, the patriotism of the Congress provided the means in the war revenue act of June 13 by authorizing a 3 per cent. popular loan not to exceed $400,000,000, and by levying additional imposts and taxes.

Salient Features of the War.

It is not within the province of this message to narrate the history of the extraordinary war that followed the Spanish declaration of April 21, but a brief recital of its more salient features is appropriate. The first encounter of the war in point of date took place April 27, when a detachment of the blockading squadron made a reconnaissance in force at Matanzas, shelled the harbor and forts and demolished several new works in construction.

The next engagement was destined to mark a memorable epoch in maritime warfare. The Pacific fleet, under Commodore George Dewey, had lain for some weeks at Hong Kong. Upon the colonial proclamation of neutrality being issued and the customary twenty-four hours' notice being given, it repaired to Mirs Bay, near Hong Kong, whence it proceeded to the Philippine Islands under telegraphed orders to capture or destroy the formidable Spanish fleet then assembled at Manila. At daybreak on the 1st of May the American force entered Manila Bay, and after a few hours' engagement effected the total destruction of the Spanish fleet, consisting of ten warships and a transport, besides capturing the naval station and forts at Cavite, thus annihilating the Spanish naval power in the Pacific Ocean and completely controlling the Bay of Manila, with the ability to take the city at will. Not a life was lost on our ships, the wounded only numbering seven, while not a vessel was materially injured.

The effect of this remarkable victory upon the spirit of our people and upon the fortunes of the war was instant. A prestige of invincibility thereby attached to our arms, which continued throughout the struggle. Re-enforcements were hurried to Manila under the command of Major General Merritt and firmly established within sight of the capital, which lay helpless before our guns.

Only reluctance to cause needless loss of life and property prevented the early storming and capture of the city, and therewith the absolute military occupancy of the whole group. The insurgents meanwhile had resumed the active hostilities suspended by the uncompleted truce of December, 1897. Their forces invested Manila from the northern and eastern side, but were constrained by Admiral Dewey and General Merritt from attempting an assault. It was fitting that whatever was to be done in the way of decisive operations in that quarter should be accomplished by the strong arm of the United States alone.

Following the comprehensive scheme of general attack, powerful forces were assembled at various points on our coast to invade Cuba and Porto Rico. Meanwhile naval demonstrations were made at several exposed points. May 11 the cruiser Wilmington and torpedo boat Winslow were unsuccessful in an attempt to silence the batteries at Cardenas and Matanzas, Worth, Bagley and four seamen falling.

Meanwhile the Spanish naval preparations had been pushed with great vigor. A powerful squadron under Admiral Cervera, which had assembled at the Cape Verde Islands before the outbreak of hostilities, had crossed the ocean, and by its erratic movements in the Caribbean Sea delayed our military operations while baffling the pursuit of our fleets. Not until Admiral Cervera took refuge in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba about May 9 was it practicable to plan a systematic military attack upon the Antillean possessions of Spain.

Several demonstrations occurred on the coast of Cuba and Porto Rico in preparation for the larger event. On May 13 the North Atlanic squadron shelled San Juan de Porto Rico. On May 30 Commodore Schley's squadron bombarded the forts guarding the mouth of Santiago harbor. Neither attack had any material result.

Hobson's Daring Act.

The next act in the war thrilled not alone the hearts of our countrymen, but the world, by its exceptional heroism. On the night of June 3 Lieutenant Hobson, aided by seven devoted volunteers, blocked the narrow outlet from Santiago harbor by sinking the collier Merrimac in the channel, under a fierce fire from the shore batteries, escaping with their lives as by a miracle, but falling into the hands of the Spaniards. They were subsequently exchanged July 7.

By June 7 the cutting of the last Cuban cable isolated the island. Thereafter the invasion was vigorously prosecuted. On June 10, under a heavy protecting fire, a landing of 60 marines from the Gregon, Marblehead and Yankee, was effected in Guantanamo Bay, where it had been determined to establish a naval station.

This important and essential port was taken from the enemy after severe fighting by the marines, who were the first organized force of the United States to land in Cuba. The position so won was held despite desperate attempts to dislodge our forces. By June 16 additional forces were landed and strongly intrenched. On June 22, the advance of the invading army under Major General Shafter landed at Balquiri, about fifteen miles east of Santiago. This was accomplished under great difficulties, but with marvelous dispatch. On June 23 the movement against Santiago was begun. On the 24th the first serious engagement took place, in which the First and Tenth Cavalry and the First United States Volunteer Cavalry, General Young's brigade of General Wheeler's division, participated, losing heavily. By nightfall, however, ground within five miles of Santiago was won. The advantage was steadily increased, On July 1 a severe battle took place, our forces gaining the outwork of Santiago; on the 2d El Caney and San Juan were taken after a desperate charge, and the investment of the city was completed. The navy co-operated by shelling the town and coast forts.

Destruction of Cervera's Fleet.

On the day following this brilliant achievement of our land forces, July 3, occurred the decisive naval combat of the war. The Spanish fleet, attempting to leave the harbor, was met by the American squadron, under command of Commodore Sampson. In less than three hours all the Spanish ships were destroyed, the two torpedo boats being sunk and the Maria Teresa, Almirante Oquendo, Vizcaya and Cristobal Colon driven ashore. The Spanish admiral and over thirteen hundred men were taken prisoners, while the enemy's loss of life was deplorably large, some 600 perishing. On our side but one man was killed, on the Brooklyn, and one man seriously wounded. Although our ships were repeatedly struck, not one was seriously injured.

Where all so conspicuously distinguished themselves, from the commanders to the gunners and the unnamed heroes in the boiler-rooms, each and all contributing toward the achievement of this astounding victory, for which neither ancient nor modern history affords a parallel in the completeness of the event and the marvelous disproportion of casualties, it would be invidious to single out any for especial honor. Deserved promotion has rewarded the more conspicuous actors—the nation's profoundest gratitude is due to all of those brave men who by their skill and devotion in a few short hours crushed the sea power of Spain and wrought a triumph whose decisiveness and far-reaching consequences can scarcely be measured. Nor can we be unmindful of the achievements of our builders, mechanics and artisans for their skill in the construction of our warships.

With the catastrophe of Santiago Spain's effort upon the ocean virtually ceased. A spasmodic effort toward the end of June to send her Mediterranean fleet under Admiral Camara to relieve Manila was abandoned, the expedition being recalled after it had passed through the Suez Canal.

Capitulation of Santiago.

The capitulation of Santiago followed. The city was closely besieged by land, while the entrance of our ships into the harbor cut off all relief on that side. After a truce to allow of the removal of non-combatants, protracted negotiations continued from July 3 until July 15, when, under menace of immediate assault, the preliminaries of surrender were agreed upon. On the 17th General Shafter occupied the city. The capitulation embraced the entire eastern end of Cuba. The number of Spanish soldiers surrendered was 22,000, all of whom were subsequently conveyed to Spain at the charge of the United States. The story of this successful campaign is told in the report of the Secretary of War, which will be laid before you.

The individual valor of officers and soldiers was never more strikingly shown than in the several engagements leading to the surrender of Santiago, while the prompt movements and successive victories won instant and universal applause. To those who gained this complete triumph, which established the ascendency of the United States upon land, as the fight off Santiago had fixed our supremacy on the seas, the earnest and lasting gratitude of the nation is unsparingly due. Nor should we alone remember the gallantry of the living; the dead claim our tears, and our losses by battle and disease must cloud any exultation at the result and teach us to weigh the awful cost of war, however rightful the cause or signal the victory.

Occupation of Porto Rico.

With the fall of Santiago, the occupation of Porto Rico became the next strategic necessity. General Miles had previously been assigned to organize an expedition for that purpose. Fortunately, he was already at Santiago, where he had arrived the 11th of July, with re-enforcements for General Shafter's army. With these troops, consisting of 3,415 infantry and artillery, two companies of engineers and one company of the signal corps, General Miles left Guantanamo July 21, having nine transports convoyed by the fleet under Captain Higginson, with the Massachusetts (flagship), Dixie, Gloucester, Columbia and Yale, the two latter carrying troops. The expedition landed at Guanica July 25, which port was entered with little opposition. The Major General commanding was subsequently re-enforced by General Schwann's brigade of the Third Army Corps, by General Wilson, with a part of his division, and also by General Brooke, with a part of his corps, numbering in all 16,973 officers and men.

July 27 he entered Ponce, one of the most important ports of the island, from which he thereafter directed operations for the capture of the island.

With the exception of encounters with the enemy at Guayama, Hermigueres, Coamo and Yauco, and an attack on a force landed at Cape San Juan, there was no serious resistance. The campaign was prosecuted with great vigor, and by the 12th of August much of the island was in our possession, and the acquisition of the remainder was only a matter of a short time.

The last scene of the war was enacted at Manila, its starting place. Aug. 15, after a brief assault upon the works by the land forces, in which the squadron assisted, the capital surrendered unconditionally. The casualties were comparatively few. By this conquest of the Philippine Islands, virtually accomplished when the Spanish capacity for resistance was destroyed by Admiral Dewey's victory of the 1st of May, victory was formally sealed. To General Merritt, his officers and men, for their, uncomplaining and devoted services, for their gallantry in action, the nation is sincerely grateful. Their long voyage was made with singular success, and the soldierly conduct of the men, most of whom were without previous experience in the military service, deserves unmeasured praise.

Total Casualties of the War.

The total casualties in killed and wounded in the army during the war was as follows: Officers killed, 23; enlisted men killed, 257; total, 280; officers wounded, 113; enlisted men wounded, 1,464; total, 1,577. Of the navy: Killed, 17; wounded, 67; died as result of wounds, 1; invalided from service, 6; total, 91.

It will be observed that while our navy was engaged in two great battles and in numerous perilous undertakings in blockades and bombardment, and more than fifty thousand of our troops were transported to distant lands and engaged in assault and siege and battle and many skirmishes in unfamiliar territory, we lost in both arms of the service a total of 1,668 killed and wounded; and in the entire campaign by land and sea we did not lose a gun or a flag or a transport ship, and with the exception of the crew of the Merrimac not a soldier or sailor was taken prisoner.

Aug. 7, forty-six days from the date of the landing of General Shafter's army in Cuba, and twenty-one days from the surrender of Santiago, the United States troops commenced embarkation for home, and our entire force was returned to the United States as early as Aug. 24. They were absent from the United States only two months.

It is fitting that I should bear testimony to the patriotism and devotion of that large portion of our army which, although eager to be ordered to the post of greatest exposure, was not required outside of the United States. They did their whole duty and earned the gratitude of the nation. It is my regret that there seems to be no provision for their suitable recognition.

In this connection it is a pleasure for me to mention in terms of cordial appreciation the timely and useful work of the American National Red Cross, both in relief measures preparatory to the campaigns, in sanitary assistance at several of the camps of assemblage, and later, under the able and experienced leadership of the President of the society, Miss Clara Barton, on the fields of battle and in the hospitals at the front in Cuba.

In tracing these events we are constantly reminded of our obligations to the Divine Master for His watchful care over us and His safe guidance, for which the nation makes reverent acknowledgment and offers humble prayer for the continuance of His favor.

The annihilation of Admiral Cervera's fleet, followed by the capitulation of Santiago, having brought to the Spanish Government a realizing sense of the hopelessness of continuing a struggle now becoming wholly unequal, it made overtures of peace through the French ambassador. On the 26th of July M. Cambon presented a communication signed by the Duke of Almodovar, the Spanish minister of state, inviting the United States to state the terms upon which it would be willing to make peace. July 30 the terms of this government were announced, substantially as in the protocol afterward signed. Aug. 10 the Spanish reply, dated Aug. 7, was handed by M. Cambon to the Secretary of State. It accepted unconditionally the terms imposed as to Cuba, Porto Rico and an island of the Ladrones group, but appeared to seek to introduce inadmissible reservations in regard to our demand as to the Philippines.

Signing of the Protocol.

Conceiving that discussion on this point could neither be practicable nor profitable, I directed that in order to avoid misunderstanding the matter should be forthwith closed by proposing the embodiment in a formal protocol of the terms in which the negotiations for peace were to be undertaken. The vague and inexplicit suggestions of the Spanish note could not be accepted, the only reply being to present as a virtual ultimatum a draft of the protocol embodying the precise terms tendered to Spain in our note of July 30, with added stipulations of detail as to the appointment of commissioners to arrange for the evacuation of the Spanish Antilles. On the afternoon of Aug. 12 M. Cambon, as the plenipotentiary of Spain, and the Secretary of State, as the plenipotentiary of the United States, signed a protocol.

Immediately upon the conclusion of the protocol I issued a proclamation on Aug. 12, suspending hostilities on the part of the United States. Aug. 18 the muster out of 100,000 volunteers, or as near that number as was found to be practicable, was ordered. Dec. 1, 101,165 officers and men had been mustered out and discharged from the service; 9,002 more will be mustered out by the 10th of the month.

The military committees to superintend the evacuation of Cuba, Porto Rico and the adjacent islands were forthwith appointed. For Cuba, Major General Jas. F. Wade, Rear Admiral William T. Sampson and Major General Matthew C. Butler; for Porto Rico, Major General John C. Brooke, Rear Admiral Winfield S. Schley and Brigadier General George W. Gordon, who soon afterward met the Spanish commissioners at Havana and San Juan respectively. The Porto Rican joint commission speedily accomplished its task, and by Oct. 18 the evacuation of the island was completed. The United States flag was raised over the island at noon on that day. The administration of its affairs has been provisionally intrusted to a military governor until the Congress shall otherwise provide. The Cuban joint high commission has not yet terminated its labors. Owing to the difficulties in the way of removing the large numbers of Spanish troops still in Cuba, the evacuation cannot be completed before the 1st of January.

Pursuant to the fifth article of the protocol, I appointed William R. Day, lately Secretary of State; Cushman K. Davis, William P. Frye and George Gray, Senators of the United States, and Whitelaw Reid to be the peace commissioners on the part of the United States. Proceeding in due season to Paris, they there met on the 1st of October five commissioners similarly appointed by Spain. The negotiations have made hopeful progress, so that I trust soon to be able to lay a definite treaty of peace before the Senate, with a review of the steps leading to its signature.

I do not discuss at this time the government or the future of the new possessions which will come to us as the result of the war with Spain. Until the Congress has legislated otherwise, it will be my duty to continue the military governments which have existed since our occupation and government of the people, security in life and property, and encouragement under a just and beneficent rule.

As soon as we are in possession of Cuba and have pacified the island, it will be necessary to give aid and direction to its people to form a government for themselves. This should be undertaken at the earliest moment consistent with safety and assured success. Until there is complete tranquillity in the island and a stable government inaugurated military occupation will be continued.

Relations with Other Countries.

With the exception of the rupture with Spain, the intercourse of the United States with the great family of nations has been marked with cordiality and the close of the eventful year finds most of the issues that necessarily arise in the complex relations of sovereign states adjusted or presenting no serious obstacle to a just and honorable solution by amicable agreement.

A long unsettled dispute as to the extended boundary between the Argentine Republic and Chili assumed an acute stage in the early part of the year, and afforded to this government occasion to express the hope that the resort to arbitration, already contemplated by existing conventions between the parties, might prevail despite the grave difficulties arising in its application. I am happy to say that arrangements to this end have been perfected.

I have found occasion to approach the Argentine Government with a view to removing differences of rate charges imposed upon the cables of an American corporation in the transmission between Buenos Ayres and the cities of Uruguay and Brazil of through messages passingg from and to the United States. Although the matter is complicated by exclusive concessions by Uruguay and Brazil to foreign companies, there is strong hope that a good understanding will be reached.

In this relation I may be permitted to express my sense of the fitness of an international agreement whereby the interchange of messages over connecting cables may be regulated on a fair basis of uniformity.

The sympathy of the American people has justly been offered to the ruler and the people of Austria-Hungary by reason of the affliction that has lately befallen them in the assassination of the Empress-Queen of that historic realm.

The Lattimer Affair.

On the 10th of September, 1897, a conflict took place at Lattimer, Pa., between a body of striking miners and the sheriff of Luzerne County and his deputies, in which twenty-two miners were killed and forty-four wounded, of whom ten of the killed and twelve of the wounded were Austrian and Hungarian subjects. This deplorable event naturally aroused the solicitude of the Austro Hungarian Government, which, on the assumption that the killing and wounding involved the unjustifiable misuse of authority, claimed reparation for the sufferers. Apart from the searching investigation and the peremptory action of the authorities of Pennsylvania, the Federal Executive took appropriate steps to learn the merits of the case, in order to be in a position to meet the urgent complaint of a friendly power. The sheriff and his deputies, having been indicted for murder, were tried and acquitted after protracted proceedings. A representative of the department of justice attended the trials and reported its course fully. With all the facts in its possession, this Government expects to reach a harmonious understanding on the subject with that of Austria-Hungary.

Despite the brief time allotted for preparation, the exhibits of this country at the Universal Exposition at Brussels in 1897 enjoyed the singular distinction of a larger proportion of awards, having regard to the number and classes of articles entered, than those of other countries.

Hardly a year passes that this Government is not invited to national participation at some important foreign center, but often on too short notice to permit of recourse to Congress for the power and means to do so. My predecessors have suggested the advisability of providing by a general enactment and a standing appropriation for accepting such invitations and for representation of this country by a commission. This plan has my cordial approval.

I trust the Belgian restriction on the importations of cattle from the United States, originally adopted as a sanitary precaution, will at an early date be satisfied as to their present and future of hardship and discrimination so as to admit live cattle under due regulation of their slaughter after landing. I am hopeful, too, of a favorable change in the Belgian treatment of our preserved and salted meats.

The year's events in Central America deserve more than passing mention. A menacing rupture between Costa Rica and Nicaragua was happily composed by the signature of a convention between the parties, with the concurrence of the Guatemalan representative as a mediator, the act being negotiated and signed on board the United States steamer Alert, then lying in Central American waters.

United States of Central America.

In my last annual message the situation was presented with respect to the diplomatic representation of this Government in Central America, created by the association of Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador under the title of the Greater Republic of Central America, and the delegation of their internal functions to the diet thereof. While the representative character of the diet was recognized by my predecessor and has been confirmed during my administration by receiving its accredited envoy and granting exequatures to consuls commissioned under its authority, that recognition was qualified by the distinct understanding that the responsibility of each of the competent sovereign republics toward the United States remained wholly unaffected. A convention of delegates framed for them a federal constitution under the name of the United States of Central America and provided for a central federal government and legislature. Upon ratification by the constituent States, the 1st of November last was fixed for the new system to go into operation. Within a few weeks thereafter the plan was severely tested by revolutionary movements arising, with a consequent demand for unity of action on the part of the military power of the Federal States to suppress them. Under this strain the new union seems to have been weakened through the withdrawal of its more important members.

Nicaragua Canal Commission.

The Nicaragua Canal Commission, under the championship of Rear Admiral John G. Walker, has nearly completed its labors, and the results of its exhaustive inquiry into the proper route, the feasibility and the cost of construction of an interoceanic canal by a Nicaraguan route will be laid before you.

The Government of Nicaragua as one of its last sovereign acts before merging its powers in those of the newly formed United States of Central America has granted an optional concession to another association, to become effective on the expiration of the present grant. These circumstances suggest the urgency of some definite action by the Congress at this session if the labors of the past are to be utilized and the linking of the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans by a practical waterway is to be realized.

A convention providing for the revival of the late United States and Chilian claims commission and the consideration of claims, which were duly presented to the late commission but not considered, was signed May 24, 1897, and has remained unacted upon by the Senate. The term therein fixed for effecting the exchange of ratifications having elapsed, the convention fails unless the time be extended by amendment, which I am endeavoring to bring about, with the friendly concurrence of the Chilian Government.

American Interests in the Orient.

The United States has not been an indifferent spectator of the extraordinary events transpiring in the Chinese empire, whereby portions of its maritime provinces are passing under the control of various European powers; but the prospect that the vast commerce which the energy of our citizens and the necessity of our staple productions for Chinese uses has built up in those regions may not be prejudiced through any exclusive treatment by the new occupants has obviated the need of our country becoming an actor in the scene.

In this relation I refer to the communication addressed to the Speaker of the House of Representatives by the Secretary of the Treasury on the 14th of last June, recommending an appropriation for a commission to study the commercial and industrial conditions in the Chinese empire and report as to the opportunities for and obstacles to the enlargement of markets in China for the raw products and manufactures of the United States. I cordially urge that the recommendation receive at your hands the consideration which its importance and timeliness merit.

Meanwhile, there may be just ground for disquietude in view of the unrest and revival of the old sentiment of opposition and prejudice to alien people which pervades certain of the Chinese provinces. As in the case of the attacks upon our citizens in Scochuan and at Kutlen in 1885, the United States minister has been instructed to secure the fullest measure of protection, both local and imperial, for any menaced American interests, and to demand, in case of lawless injury to person or property, instant reparation appropriate to the case.

Following close upon the rendition of the award of my predecessor as arbitrator of the claim of the Italian subject, Cerruti, against the republic of Colombia, differences arose between the parties to the arbitration in regard to the scope and extension of the award, of which certain articles were contested by Colombia, while Italy claimed their literal fulfillment. The award having been made by the President of the United States, my best efforts were lent to bringing the parties to a harmonious agreement as to the execution of its provisions. A naval demonstration by Italy resulted in an engagement to pay the liabilities claimed upon their ascertainment; but this apparent disposition of the controversy was followed by a rupture of diplomatic intercourse between Colombia and Italy, which still continues, although fortunately without acute symptoms having supervened.

A claim of an American citizen against the Domingan republic for a public bridge over the Ozama River, which has been in diplomatic controversy for several years, has been settled by expert arbitration and an award in favor of the claimant amounting to about $90,000.

Participation in the Paris Exposition.

There is now every prospect that the participation of the United States in the universal exposition to be held in Paris in 1900 will be on a scale commensurate with the advanced position held by our products and industries in the world's chief marts. By a provision in the sundry civil appropriation act of July 1, 1898, a sum not to exceed $650,000 was allotted for the organization of a commission to care for the proper preparation and installation of American exhibits, and for the display of suitable exhibits by the several executive departments, particularly by the Department of Agriculture, the Fish Commission and the Smithsonian Institution, in the representation of the Government of the United States. Pursuant to that enactment I appointed Ferdinand W. Peck, of Chicago, Commissioner General, with an assistant commissioner general and secretary. Mr. Peck at once proceeded to Paris, where his success in enlarging the scope and variety of the United States' exhibit has been most gratifying.

Friendly Relations with Great Britain

Our relations with Great Britain have continued on the most friendly footing. Assenting to our request, the protection of Americans and their interests in Spanish jurisdiction was assumed by the diplomatic and consular representatives of Great Britain, who fulfilled their delicate and arduous trust with tact and zeal, eliciting high commendation.

The long-standing claim of Bernard Campbell for damages for injuries sustained from a violent assault committed against him by military authorities in the Island of Hayti, has been settled by the agreement of that republic to pay him $10,000 in American gold.

Annexation of Hawaiian Islands.

Pending the consideration by the Senate of the treaty signed June 16, 1897, by the plenipotentiaries of the United States and of the republic of Hawaii, providing for the annexation of the islands, a joint resolution to accomplish the same purpose by accepting the offered cession and incorporating the ceded territory into the Union was adopted by the Congress and approved July 7, 1898. I thereupon directed the United States steamer Philadelphia to convey Rear Admiral Miller to Honolulu, and intrusted to his hands this important legislative act to be delivered to the President of the republic of Hawaii, with whom the Admiral and the United States minister were authorized to make appropriate arrangements for transferring the sovereignty of the islands to the United States. This was simply, but impressively, accomplished on the 12th of August last, by the delivery of a certified copy of the resolutions to President Dole, who thereupon yielded up to the representatives of the Government of the United States the sovereignty and public property of the Hawaiian Islands.

Following the further provision of the joint resolution, I appointed Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois, John T. Morgan of Alabama, Robert R. Hitt of Illinois, Sanford B. Dole of Hawaii and Walter F. Grear of Hawaii as commissioners to confer and recommend to Congress such legislation concerning the Hawaiian Islands as they should deem necessary or proper. The commissioners having fulfilled the mission confided to them, their report will be laid before you at an early day.

The questions heretofore pending between Hawaii and Japan growing out of the alleged maltreatment of Japanese treaty immigrants were, I am pleased to say, adjusted before the act of transfer by the payment of a reasonable indemnity to the Government of Japan.

Under the provisions of the joint resolution the existing customs relations of the Hawaiian Islands with the United States and with other countries remain unchanged until legislation shall otherwise provide.

Controversies with Mexico

The interpretation of certain provisions of the extradition convention of Dec. 11, 1861, has been at various times the occasion of controversy with the Government of Mexico. An acute difference arose in the case of the Mexican demand for the delivery of Jesus Guerrera, who, having led a marauding expedition near the border with the proclaimed purpose of initiating an insurrection against President Diaz, escaped into Texas. Extradition was refused on the ground that the alleged offense was political in its character, and therefore came within the treaty proviso of non-surrender.

The Government of Peru has given the prescribed notification of its intention to abrogate the treaty of friendship, commerce and navigation concluded with this country Aug. 31, 1887. I have invited suggestions by Peru as to the particular provisions it is desired to annul, in the hope of reaching an arrangement whereby the remaining articles may be provisionally saved.

His Majesty, the Czar, having announced his purpose to raise the imperial Russian mission at this capital to the rank of an embassy, I responded, under the authority conferred by the act of March 3, 1893, by commissioning and accrediting the actual representatives at St. Petersburg in the capacity of ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary.

The proposal of the Czar for a general reduction of the vast military establishments that weigh so heavily upon many peoples in time of peace was communicated to this Government with an earnest invitation to be represented in the conference which it is contemplated to assemble with a view to discussing the means of accomplishing so desirable a result. His Majesty was at once informed of the cordial sympathy of this Government with the principle involved in his exalted proposal and of the readiness of the United States to take part in the conference.

The arbitral tribunal appointed under the treaty of February, 1897, between Great Britain and Venezuela to determine the boundary line between the latter and the colony of British Guiana, is to convene at Paris during the present month. It is a source of much gratification to this Government to see the friendly resort to arbitration applied to the settlement of this controversy.

Bureau of American Republics

I have the satisfaction of being able to state that the Bureau of American Republics, created in 1890 as the organ for promoting commercial intercourse and fraternal relations among the countries of the Western Hemisphere, has become a more efficient instrument of the wise purposes of its founders, and is receiving the cordial support of the contributing members of the international union which are actually represented in its board of management.

During the last year the important work of collecting information of practical benefit to American industries and trade through the agency of the diplomatic and consular officers has been steadily advanced, and in order to lay such data before the public with the least delay the practice was begun in January, 1898, of issuing the commercial reports from day to day, as they are received by the Department of State.

We desire, in common with most civilized nations, to reduce to the lowest possible point the damage sustained in time of war by peaceable trade and commerce. This purpose can probably be best accomplished by an international agreement to regard all private property at sea as exempt from capture or destruction by the forces of belligerent powers.

Condition of the Treasury.

The Secretary of the Treasury reports that the receipts of the Government from all sources during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896, including $84,751,223 received from sale of Pacific railroads, amounted to $405,321,335, and its expenditures to $443,368,582. There was collected from customs $149,575,062 and from internal revenue $170,900,641. Our dutiable imports amounted to $324,735,479, a decrease of $58,156,690 over the preceding year, and importations free of duty amounted to $291,414,175, a decrease from the preceding year of $90,524,068. Internal revenue receipts exceeded those of the preceding year by $24,212,068. The total collected on distilled spirits was $92,546,999, on manufactured tobacco $36,239,522 and on fermented liquors $39,515,421. We exported merchandise during the year amounting to $1,231,482,330, an increase of $180,488,774 over the preceding year.

On the 1st of December, 1898, the amount of money of all kinds in circulation or not included in treasury holdings, was $1,836,879,504, an increase for the year of $165,794,966. Estimating our population at 75,194,000 at the time mentioned the per capita circulation was $25.09.

The provisions made for strengthening the resources of the treasury in connection with the war have given increased confidence in the purpose and power of the Government to maintain the present standard, and has established more firmly than ever the national credit at home and abroad. A marked evidence of this is found in the inflow of gold to the treasury.

I renew so much of my recommendation of December, 1897, as follows:

"That when any of the United States notes are presented for redemption in gold and are redeemed in gold, such notes shall be kept and set apart and only paid out in exchange for gold. This is an obvious duty. If the holder of the United States note prefers the gold and gets it from the Government, he should not receive back from the Government a United States note without paying gold in exchange for it. The reason for this is made all the more apparent when the Government issues an interest-bearing debt to provide gold for the redemption of United States notes—a non-interest-bearing debt. Surely it should not pay them out again except on demand and for gold. If they are put out in any other way they may return again, to be followed by another bond issue to redeem them—another interest-bearing debt to redeem a non-interest-bearing debt."

In my judgment the present condition of the treasury amply justifies the immediate enactment of the legislation recommended one year ago, under which a portion of the gold holdings should be placed in a trust fund from which greenbacks should be redeemed upon presentation, but when once redeemed should not thereafter be paid out except for gold.

It is not to be inferred that other legislation relating to our currency is not required; on the contrary, there is an obvious demand for it. The importance of adequate provision which will insure to our future a money standard related as our money standard now and to that of our commercial rivals is generally recognized. The companion proposition that our domestic paper currency shall be kept safe and yet be so related to the needs of our industries and internal commerce as to be adequate and responsive to such needs is a proposition scarcely less important.

Prompt Adoption of Maritime Policy.

The annexation of Hawaii and the changed relations of the United States to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines, resulting from the war, compel the prompt adoption of a maritime policy by the United States. There should be established regular and frequent steamship communication, encouraged by the United States, under the American flag, with the newly acquired islands.

Prevention of Yellow Fever.

In my last annual message I recommended that Congress authorize the appointment of a commission for the purpose of making systematic investigations with reference to the cause and prevention of yellow fever. It is my earnest desire that these problems may be considered by competent experts and that everything may be done which the most recent advances in sanitary science can offer for the protection of the health of our soldiers in Cuba and Porto Rico and of our citizens who are exposed to the dangers of infection from the importation of yellow fever.

Increase of Army Recommended.

The importance of legislation for the permanent increase of the army is manifest, and the recommendation of the Secretary of War for that purpose has my unqualified approval. There can be no question that at this time and probably for some time in the future 100,000 men will be none too many to meet the necessities of the situation. It is my purpose to muster out the entire volunteer army as soon as the Congress shall provide for the increase of the regular establishment.

Sale of the Union Pacific.

In my last annual message I stated: "The Union Pacific Railway, main line, was sold under the decree of the United States Court for the District of Nebraska the 1st and 2d of November of this year. The amount due the Government consisted of the principal of the subsidy bonds, $27,236,512, and the accrued interest thereon, $31

Catch Cold Easily?

Are you frequently hoarse? Do you have that annoying tickling in your throat? Would you feel relieved if you could raise something? Does your cough annoy you at night, and do you raise more mucus in the morning?

Then you should always keep on hand a bottle of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

If you have a weak throat you cannot be too careful. You cannot begin treatment too early. Each cold makes you more liable to another, and the last one is always harder to cure than the one before it.

Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plaster protects the lungs from colds.

Help at Hand.

If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can possibly obtain, write the doctor freely. You will receive a prompt reply.

Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

SYRUP OF FIGS

NEVER IMITATED NEVER EQUALLED

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.
LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

DO YOU COUGH DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS. JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D. C. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty. since

How John Bull Got His Name.

Comparatively few people know how the name John Bull came to be applied to the English.

Dr. John Arbuthnot, one of the many royal physicians to whom the Scotch city of Aberdeen has given birth, was the author of John Bull's being. Arbuthnot christened the British nation in bulk as John Bull in the political strife incidental to the dismissal of the Whig ministry of 1710, when the able and avaricious Marlborough saw the beginning of the decline of his brilliant fortunes.

The history of John Bull was a satire on the political events preceding the treaty of Utrecht in 1713, written by Arbuthnot. In 1704 he had been created physician extraordinary to the Queen in recognition of his services in saving the life of Anne's husband, Prince George of Denmark. He had become the Queen's confidential medical attendant, a position of no mean importance at a time when so much depended on the succession to the crown, and he was closely in touch with court life of that period. He wrote:

"For the better understanding of the following history the reader ought to know that Bull, in the main, was an honest, plain-dealing fellow, choleric, bold, and of a very inconsistent temper. He dreaded not old Lewis, either at back-swords, single fashion, or cudgel play; but then, he was very apt to quarrel with his best friends, especially if they pretended to govern him; if you flattered him you might lead him like a child. His temper depended upon the air; his spirits rose and fell with the weather-glass.

"John was quick, and understood his business very well, but no man alive was more careless in looking into his accounts or more cheated by his partners." So well does this description fit the English character that John Bull came to typify English.—Saturday Evening Post.

The Mysterious Temple of India.

The great mystery about Indo-China, and one which must ever be insolvable, is the story of the lost race and the vanished civilization of that strange country. The mighty walls of Angkor-Vat, rising in the midst of sparsely populated jungles, remain as the memorial of a great empire which has utterly disappeared and is altogether lost to history. No one will ever know who planned this gigantic temple, or what tyrant hounded on his myriads of people to build up those immense blocks of stone and cover them with the most elaborate of sculptures.

Angkor-Vat is one of the most astonishing monuments in the world, and this forgotten temple was built so as to endure as long as the earth itself, where it not for the irresistibly destructive effect of plant life on the strongest walls that man can raise. Only a highly civilized and very wealthy people could have erected Angkor-Vat—a very different race from the Annamite of modern days. The whole nation has disappeared as completely as the busy myriads who once populated the wastes of Memphis.—Saturday Evening Post.

THEY WANT TO TELL

These Grateful Women Who Have Been Helped by Mrs. Pinkham.

Women who have suffered severely and been relieved of their ills by Mrs Pinkham's advice and medicine are constantly urging publication of their statements for the benefit of other women. Here are two such letters:

Mrs. LIZZIE BEVERLY, 258 Merrimac St., Lowell, Mass., writes:

"It affords me great pleasure to tell all suffering women of the benefit I have received from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I can hardly find words to express my gratitude for what she has done for me. My trouble was ulceration of the womb. I was under the doctor's care. Upon examination he found fifteen very large ulcers, but he failed to do me good. I took several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, also used the Sanative Wash, and am cured. Mrs. Pinkham's medicine saved my life, and I would recommend it to all suffering women."

Mrs. AMOS TROMBLEAY, Ellenburgh Ctr., N. Y., writes:

"I took cold at the time my baby was born, causing me to have milk legs, and was sick in bed for eight weeks. Doctors did me no good. I surely thought I would die. I was also troubled with falling of the womb. I could not eat, had faint spells as often as ten times a day. One day a lady came to see me and told me of the benefit she had derived from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, and advised me to try it. I did so, and had taken only half a bottle before I was able to sit in a chair. After taking three bottles I could do my own work. I am now in perfect health."

Fatal Ignorance.

"Yes, indeed, the courts hold that ignorance of the law is no excuse. I learned that by bitter experience."

"You were ignorant of the law?"

"No, but my lawyer was."—Tid-Bits.

5 DROPS [TRADE MARK.]

TOO GOOD TO BE FREE! But send 25c and we will mail you a trial treatment of "5 Drops."

Cured Nervous Prostration, Rheumatism, Catarrh and Stomach Trouble.

MOTHER AND 3 DAUGHTERS CURED BY "5 DROPS."

Swanson Rheumatic Cure Co., Chicago, July 25, '98.

I think "5 DROPS" is the best medicine in the world: it has done me so much good. Before using "5 DROPS" I could hardly lie in bed long enough to go to sleep. I would have to get up and walk around, or sit up in bed. I don't know what was the matter with me, but I was suffering all through me and my body was so tender that part of the time I could hardly lie on the softest bed. As it has benefitted me so much I have recommended it to my neighbors. Three of my daughters have sent to you for "5 DROPS;" also two of my lady friends. One of my daughters was suffering terribly with her stomach, and was all bloated up until she weighed 174 pounds, but after she took "5 DROPS" her weight came down to 146 pounds—her normal weight—and she is all right again. She thinks there never was such medicine made. I myself think it is splendid.

MRS. M. A. MATTINGLY, Collbran, Col.

Mr. Ira Sargent, Dunbar (Neb.), also writes under date July 25, '98, that he is cured of Rheumatism, Stomach Trouble and Catarrh. "I want to write you in regard to my case of STOMACH TROUBLE and RHEUMATISM. I commenced one year ago to take '5 DROPS' and I can tell you to-day that though I am 75 YEARS OLD and past, I feel like a new person. I don't want to be without '5 DROPS.' '5 DROPS' has the praise of being the best medicine on the market. It has cured a bad case of CATARRH here and has another almost cured. Please accept my thanks for the favors I have received at your hands.

IRA SARGENT."

If you have not sufficient confidence, after reading these letters, to send for three large bottles for $2.50, which will surely cure you, then send for a $1.00 bottle, which contains enough medicine to more than satisfy you of its wonderful curative properties. Prepaid by mail or express. This wonderful curative gives almost instant relief and is a permanent cure for Rheumatism, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Dyspepsia, Backache, Asthma, Hay Fever, Catarrh, Sleeplessness, Nervous and Neuralgic Headaches, Heart Weakness, Toothache, Earache, Croup, La Grippe, Malaria, Creeping Numbness, Bronchitis, and kindred diseases.

"5 DROPS" is the name and dose. Large bottle (250 doses) $1.00, prepaid by mail or express; three bottles $2.50. Sold only by us and our agents.

AGENTS APPOINTED IN NEW TERRITORY. WRITE TO-DAY.

SWANSON RHEUMATIC CURE CO., 167 Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

THE HUSBAND'S FRIENDS.

THERE is nothing so absolutely false in this whole domestic menage as the fiction which the young wife generally voices soon after her marriage, and which at the time she absolutely believes in, namely, that her husband's friends will be welcome at any and all times. Every husband believes it, and, poor, rash man, acts upon it, thinking that he is wedded to the most perfect woman on earth and that his home is unlike any other founded on this mundane sphere. Alack and alas! he, like thousands of others, discovers sooner or later—generally sooner—that they were words, idle words, and that there are times and seasons when his friends are not only distinctly not welcome, but absolutely and horribly de trop.

Now when this fact is borne home to him with due emphasis, there is no reason why he should put all the blame on the poor little woman, who undoubtedly feels ten times more put out by the contretemps than he himself. Of course, remembering only her cordial sentiment, how would he keep in mind that Monday they always ate leftovers, or that she told him in the morning the cook had decided to leave that day. There is no use when this annoying thing occurs for the wife to be so overwhelmed with embarrassment that she sits silent and almost tearful through the entire meal, giving the visitor the impression that he is participating in a funeral feast and imbedding in his heart a rare pity for the poor fellow tied for life to such a stern and stony-faced disciplinarian.

Every man, be he bachelor or benedict, knows that "company" meals are not on tap in any save the household of a millionaire, and if the wife is only wise enough to realize this she can with her own bright welcome and a little tact make the plainest meal appear a veritable epicurean delight to the outsider. She ought to consider that what she deemed good enough for her husband should be good enough for any one else on earth. If she has so forgotten her wifely obligations as to palm off a really meager or unpalatable meal on the one who provides for her support, so that by stinting the table she can swell the pockets of her dressmaker, then she ought to be made to feel ashamed of herself and no lesson can be too severe for her to learn. Hospitality is a keynote to domestic happiness, and it need not be lavish to act its proper part at making the home the first place a man thinks of taking his friends, sure that no sour looks will greet him if he happens to issue the invitation on wash day or the maid's day out.—Philadelphia Times.

Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens.

The successor to Frances E. Willard as president of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

Dressing for At-Home Parties.

For at-home dancing parties young ladies are expected to be suitably gowned, which means in thin gowns of organdy, net, chiffon, etc., over silk linings, or light silk gowns with belts and sash ends of velvet edged with tiny frills of black or white mousseline. Silk at 75 cents a yard is pretty, and would be economical, as it would answer another season for lining. White, pink, turquoise, light yellow and lavender are the favorite evening colors in the order named. White forms a convenient dress, as different accessories may be used with it and the skirt worn with odd waists. If merely a looker-on, a light dress or waist, made high in the neck and long-sleeved, in silk or chiffon, or a light-weight veiling trimmed with three gored ruffles around the low neck and a removable yoke of white lace over pink, or of pin-tucked taffeta, with collar, belt and sash ends of the silk, would be appropriate. Another suitable toilette is a black silk or nice white wool skirt, with a full gathered waist of light-colored chiffon, having collar and sash of silk or velvet. One more advanced in years might wear a light waist and black skirt or an entire black silk costume with lace yoke or vest.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Head of Home Affairs.

A woman's home must be an expression of her own taste, and must prove the fact of her economy of time and strength and money. She must not feel herself superior to the most careful planning, nor reject the most trifling means toward accomplishing success in home management; indeed, she should be proud of an ability to make a nickel go as far as possible, and so oil the machinery of service that it seems to run itself.

When the head of home affairs can arrive at this point of experience she has reason to be proud of her management, says an exchange. It is possible for one who at the start did not possess the faculty of running things without fuss to become through training so sure of swift and certain effort that she can stand serene and happy, a very queen, whether in her kitchen or in her parlor.

The wife and mother who thus conquers does not reach her secure position without much discipline, many drawbacks and frequent discouragement; but if she keeps always the great and blessed end in view—that of creating and holding home happiness, comfort and love—she must win in the end.

And this running will not mean necessarily the sacrifice of any worthy ambition or of her most delicate tastes.

Tight Lacing.

Beyond the fact that a small waist is as out of date as hoops, and is very ugly, tight lacing destroys the contour of the bust and hips, and is ruinous to the complexion. If the digestive organs cannot have room to perform their functions, dyspepsia—one of the worst things flesh is heir to—ensues. Then follow the red nose, watery eyes and blotchy complexion. If a woman is inclined to be stout, lacing her waist makes the hips roll away in shelf-like and uneven lumps, for the flesh driven from one part of the body must seek another. The waist of the Venus de Medici, that accepted model of feminine loveliness, is twenty-two inches, though she is just a trifle above 5 feet in height. Our grandmammas boasted of their eighteen-inch waists, but the girl of the period, even if she is dainty enough "to step upon a lily leaf and not bend it," never allows her waist measurement to fall below twenty-two inches.

Amiability Attracts.

Many a man has been scared off from asking a woman to become his wife by the assertion from her lips that she has a bad temper and is proud of it. Men are selfish creatures, and, above all things, like physical and mental comfort. Perhaps the average man does not hope to attain happiness in this world, though in truth he never ceases to seek it, but he does believe that there is such a thing as harmony, and he knows that a bad tempered woman and harmony don't go hand in hand. Amiability is power, if women only knew it. By being always cheerful and amiable she can get a hold on men that the bad-tempered woman, no matter how beautiful, rich and alluring she is, never dreamed of in her philosophy. Amiability is not only power. It is health. It is mental progression. It is long life to one's self and to others.

Laugh and Grow Lovely.

One's general physical condition is so closely allied to the mental that laughing is a good, invigorating tonic for the entire system.

A long, hearty laugh expands the lungs, making the blood course through the veins quickly, and this simple process gives a peach-like complexion to the woman who laughs. And when she laughs her eyes twinkle and the brightness lingers there after the laughter has died away.

Laughing, too, strengthens the muscles of the face and banishes that drawn look so familiar to the sad-faced woman.

The women who have adopted the laughing cure claim that they have never felt so cheerful and thoroughly good-natured before in their lives, and their friends tell them they are positively growing beautiful.

The Gentlewoman.

I sometimes think, when I am all alone looking out on the great world with nothing between us but a sheet of glass, says a writer in an exchange, whether the roughest and most ordinary looking man, possessing even a bit of sense or feeling, does not know the difference between a big-hearted, gracious, loving woman and one who is coarse in appearance, lacking in love and all the charming attributes that make one say of the former: "She is a gentlewoman." I wonder if you think, as I do, that a gentlewoman is one who likes to make people glad to meet her and regret to leave her? She seems to me to be one who gives courage to those who are tired and to quiet the loud, unpleasant argument, changing it into interesting talk. It is a talent seldom possessed by men and an art belonging to women.

Wear Trousers by Grant.

They allow women to wear male attire in France, but they are taxed for the privilege. The French government charges women $10 to $12.50 per year for wearing the trousers. This, however, does not give every woman who is willing to pay the tax a right to wear such garments. The government confers the right as a tribute to great merit, and makes it, in fact, a sort of decoration given to women, as the ribbon of the Legion of Honor is given to men.

Feminine Personals.

Mrs. Jefferson Davis, though in the seventies, is a well-preserved woman and a fine type of the old-school Southern woman. The routine of her life has for years remained unchanged, but her famous wit is as brilliant as ever.

In Vienna telephone girls are required to change their dresses and wear a uniform when on duty, as the dirt they brought in from the streets affected the instruments. Their costume is a dark skirt and waist, with sleeves striped black and yellow, the Austrian national colors.

Mrs. Lillie Devereux Blake announced at the convention of the Federation of Women's Clubs in New York last Thursday that the American eagle is a hen, and she wants it to be known henceforth as "the hen bird of American liberty." This is indeed carrying the woman's rights question into entirely new fields.

Mrs. Adelia A. F. Johnston, dean of the women's department of Oberlin College, first woman professor in this first college to practice co-education, has inspired her friends to raise a sum of $50,000 to found a permanent Adelia A. Field Johnston professorship, whose incumbent shall always be a woman.

A movement has been started in Georgia to honor the memory of Miss Winnie Davis by establishing an industrial school for girls. The movement is headed by the Daughters of the Confederacy and will have the hearty support of the Georgia Legislature and of Georgia's people. The idea originated with Mrs. Hallie Alexander Roundsaville.

Bruin's Sweet Tooth.

The warmest meal on record on Puget Sound was eaten Saturday night near Buenna, on the east shore of the sound between Tacoma and Seattle. The feaster was a member of the Bruin family, and beehives loaded with honey and living, stinger-loaded honey makers was the bill of fare.

The hives belonged to Dr. Oliver and were standing in his yard near Buenna. Their delicious honey attracted the bear and tempted him beyond resistance, bees and their weapons notwithstanding.

Mr. Bruin was not at all backward at helping himself, and when the feast was done he had swallowed the honey and bees of one hive and part of those of a second. He left nothing to tell the tale except his footprints on the sand, the partly demolished hive and the home and the remainder of the homestead, together with the doctor, who is busy explaining how it happened and congratulating himself upon his fortunate escape.—Tacoma Ledger.

Railroad Trains to Run Slower.

Railroad officials claim that it is very expensive to run their express trains, and are talking about reducing the speed. It is likewise expensive to the health to struggle and compete in business affairs as men do nowadays. The whole system gives out. For restoring strength Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the proper remedy.

General Lack of Education.

An astonishing lack of education prevails in Spain. Any knowledge of modern languages and of contemporary history is extremely rare among even statesmen, courtiers, politicians and journalists. When the government of Sagasta introduced the censorship of foreign telegrams, it could find no censor who understood German, and hence it decided to transmit German messages without examination, while identical messages written in French were often suppressed.

In Winter Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. During winter your feet feel uncomfortable, nervous, and often cold and damp. If you have perspiring, smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It warms and rests the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and is a certain cure for chilblains and frost bites. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Trial package mailed FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

It All Depends.

"The doctor," said the young mother, "says baby ought to have one cow's milk for his daily drink. Now, really, isn't that entirely too much?"—Indianapolis Journal.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Classed as Millionaires.

To be classed as a millionaire in the United States a man must be worth at least $1,000,000; in England he must have five times as much, or $5,000,000; in Germany 1,000,000 marks, or $250,000.

Feel the Influence.

Cold and heat alike aggravate neuralgia, because the nerves feel the cold and heat sensitively, but nerves are sensitive to treatment and feel the influence of St. Jacobs Oil, which cures the ailment promptly.

The Victoria lily of Guiana has a circular leaf from six feet to twelve feet in diameter. It is turned up at the edge like a tray, and can support, according to its size, from 100 to 300 pounds.

Coughs Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Sold in 25 and 50 cent bottles. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

The site of Christ's Hospital, London, is about to be acquired by the Midland Railway Company for the erection of a central railway station.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

Experienced.

Lawyer—Are you a married man?

Witness—No, but I was run over by a trolley car once.

Make It a Point

To Get the Best Every Time, When You Buy Medicine.

Health is too valuable to be trifled with. Do not experiment. Get Hood's Sarsaparilla and you will have the best medicine money can buy—the medicine that cures when all others fail. You have every reason to expect it will do for you what it has done for others. Remember

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. Price $1.

Hood's Pills are the favorite cathartic. 25c.

Sour Stomach

"After I was induced to try CASCARETS, I will never be without them in the house. My liver was in a very bad shape, and my head ached and I had stomach trouble. Now, since taking Cascarets, I feel fine. My wife has also used them with beneficial results for sour stomach."

JOS. KREHLING, 1921 Congress St., St. Louis, Mo.

CANDY CATHARTIC Cascarets TRADE MARK REGISTERED REGULATE THE LIVER

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken, or Gripe. 10c. 25c. 50c.

... CURE CONSTIPATION. ...

Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago, Montreal, New York. 318

NO-TO-BAC Sold and guaranteed by all druggists to CURE Tobacco Habit.

ASTHMA

POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC

Gives relief in FIVE minutes. Send for a FREE trial package. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Six boxes $4.00. Address THOS. POPHAM, PHILA., PA.

Forcing Bulbs in Winter.

Forcing bulbs for winter flowering may be hastened or retarted by the amount of warmth used. To hurry them along use more heat: to keep them back put them in a cool place. Those forced by excessive warmth are inferior to those allowed a longer time to develop and their flowers will not last as long.—December Ladies' Home Journal.

Deafness Can't Be Cured

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

He Confided Trouble.

"By George, I just hate to go home to-night."

"What's the trouble?"

"My wife told me when I started away this morning that she was going to put up preserves."

Will Get Down to It.

It is certainly true that as deeply imbedded as the sciatic nerve is, St. Jacobs Oil will get down to it and cure it. It is a proof of how penetrating and efficacious are its curative powers.

All earthly delights are sweeter in expectation than in enjoyment, but all spiritual pleasures more in fruition than in expectation.—Feltham.

Makes the Spot Vanish.

A slight rap may cause a bruise, or a slight blow a black one, sore and tender. But it is easy to cure a bruise by the use of St. Jacobs Oil, and make the spot vanish and the soreness heal.

Discouraging.

"What makes you think she doesn't love you?"

"I've been taking my meals there every Sunday for the past six months, and she still has to ask me how I take my tea."

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

Turkish Sultans.

Of the thirty-eight Sultans who have ruled the Ottoman Empire since the conquest of Constantinople by the Turks thirty-four have died violent deaths.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

To live is not to live for one's self alone; let us help one another.—Menander.

Piso's Cure for Consumption is the only cough medicine used in my house.—D. C. Albright, Mifflinburg, Pa., Dec. 11, '95.

Twenty languages are spoken in Francis Joseph's dominion.

SISTERS OF ST. FRANCIS

Use Pe-ru-na for Coughs, Colds, Grippe and Catarrh—A Governor's Letter.

ST. VINCENT'S ORPHAN ASYLUM, EAST MAIN ST., COLUMBUS, OHIO.

ST. VINCENT'S ORPHAN ASYLUM, EAST MAIN ST., COR. ROSE AVE., Columbus, O.

Dr. S. B. Hartman:

"Some years ago a friend of our institution recommended to us Dr. Hartman's 'Pe-ru-na' as an excellent remedy for the influenza, of which we then had several cases which threatened to be of a serious character.

"We began to use it and experienced such wonderful results that since then Pe-ru-na has become our favorite medicine for influenza, catarrh, coughs, colds and bronchitis.

"SISTERS OF ST. FRANCIS, St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum."

GOVERNOR ATKINSON.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., March 9, 1898.

The Pe-ru-na Drug M'f'g Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen—I can recommend your preparation, Pe-ru-na, as a tonic. Its reputation as a cure for catarrh is excellent, it having been used by a number of people known to me with the very best results. Very truly,

G. W. ATKINSON.

Dr. Hartman, one of the best known physicians and surgeons in the United States, was the first man to formulate Pe-ru-na. It was through his genius and perseverance that it was introduced to the medical profession of this country. Send to The Pe-ru-na Drug Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio, for a free book written by Dr. Hartman.

Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

YOU WILL REALIZE THAT "THEY LIVE WELL WHO LIVE CLEANLY," IF YOU USE

SAPOLIO

A Sure Cure.

"They say Tom Twitters has finally got completely over his infatuation for Miss Dolbie."

"Yes; his father finally got him cured of it."

"How did he do it?"

"You know, she had refused him four times, and he was nearly crazy. Well, the old man went around and got her to promise Tom that she would be his. As soon as she had done that, of course he came to his senses and found that he didn't care for her, after all."

To California.

Attention is called to the excellent service of the North-Western Line to California and the favorable rates which have been made for single and round trip tickets for this season's travel. Best accommodations in first-class or tourist sleeping cars, which run through every day in the year. Personally conducted tourist car parties every week to California and Oregon. Choice of a large number of different routes without extra charge.

Particulars cheerfully given upon application to agents Chicago & North-Western Railway, or connecting lines.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED.—Case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. Send 5 cents to Ripans Chemical Co., New York, for 10 samples and 1,000 testimonials.

WABASH

THE WABASH LINE.

H-andsome equipment,
E-legant day coaches, and

W-agner palace sleeping cars
A-re in daily service
B-etween the city of St. Louis,
A-nd New York and Boston.
S-pacious reclining chair cars
H-ave no equal

L-ike those run by the
I-ncomparable and only Wabash.
N-ew trains and fast time
E-very day in the year.

From East to West the sun's bright ray,
Smiles on the line that leads the way.

Route of the Great

"CONTINENTAL LIMITED."

MAGNIFICENT VESTIBULE EXPRESS TRAINS, having free reclining chair cars and palace sleepers to St. Louis, Kansas City, and Omaha. The direct route to all points in Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, Indian Territory, Arkansas, Colorado, Utah, Wyoming, Washington, Montana and California. For rates, routes, maps, time of trains, etc., apply to any ticket agent, or address

C. S. CRANE,
Gen. Pass. and Ticket Agent,
St. Louis, Mo.

Established 1780.

Baker's Chocolate,

celebrated for more than a century as a delicious, nutritious, and flesh-forming beverage, has our well-known

Yellow Label

on the front of every package, and our trade-mark, "La Belle Chocolatiere," on the back.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.

MADE ONLY BY

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd., Dorchester, Mass.

$3.00 to $10.00 PER DAY

Can be earned selling our Patent Volute Nut Locks. They sell at sight to everyone using Farm Implements and other machinery. Write at once for liberal terms and exclusive territory, if you want a

SURE MONEY-MAKER.

THE VOLUTE NUT LOCK CO., Fort Wayne, Ind.

SORE EYES Dr. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE WATER

PATENT secured or money all returned. Search free. Collamer & Co., 3 F St. Washington, D.C.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. Trade Mark. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. $1.00

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

F. W. N. U. - No. 50—'98.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

Advice to Consumptives

There are three great remedies that every person with weak lungs, or with consumption itself, should understand.

These remedies will cure about every case in its first stages; and many of those more advanced. It is only the most advanced that are hopeless. Even these are wonderfully relieved and life itself greatly prolonged.

What are these remedies? Fresh air, proper food and of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. Be afraid of draughts but not of fresh air. Eat nutritious food and drink plenty of milk. Do not forget that Scott's Emulsion is the oldest, the most thoroughly tested and the highest endorsed of all remedies for weak throats, weak lungs and consumption in all its stages.

Scott's Emulsion

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

FOR COTTAGERS ONLY.

The Island Park Assembly Is Closed.

The Rome City Summer Attractions Winds Up Its Affairs—A Boom is Now on.

[Fort Wayne News.]

Last evening Attorney Will O'Rourke returned from a short business trip to Rome City. In conversation with a News representative today, he says from all indications the Island Park Assembly, which has been a feature at Rome City for so many years, is a thing of the past. The assembly association has passed entirely out of existence, and the Island Park attractions will possibly be closed permanently in the future.

Mr. O'Rourke says that he is of the opinion that it will boom Rome City and Sylvan Lake as a summer resort chiefly for cottagers. The citizens at the resort are of the opinion that the removal of the assembly will attract even more cottagers to the shores of Sylvan Lake than ever before. The assembly has had a tendency to attract many people to Rome City for a few days each year, but it has at the same time kept others away who would have erected cottages and made it their permanent summer home.

The Spring Beach hotel will be greatly improved before it is opened by Mr. O'Rourke next spring, and there will be many other improvements. Mr. O'Rourke is now preparing to erect at once an ice house of 300 tons capacity, to hold ice for the cottagers during the summer months. He says that since the ice houses burned down there has been a scarcity of ice each summer.

OBITUARY.

Lucy Emaline Oathout Davidson, was born August 11, 1809; died Nov. 22, 1898, aged 89 years, 3 months and 11 days.

She was married to Paul Davidson in the home of her childhood in York State, in May, 1836, in which year they moved to Grand Blance, Mich., and resided in that vicinity until the death of her husband nine years since, when she came to live with her son, O. S. Davidson, where she died.

She was the mother of four children. Otis S., Rufus N. and Rachael J. and and two promising grandchildren, Mrs. Blanche Michael and Adelbert Davidson, survive her. Since coming among us she has endeared herself to all with whom she came in contact and her sudden death came as a shock. Her life-time was spent in faithful effort to be a christian. Her church relations were always with the Presbyterians. Cottage services were conducted by Rev. W. O, Butler and the dear old body was borne away by her son to be laid beside that of her husband in Michigan.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at H. B. McCord's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Mary C. Chaffee deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 19th day of December 1898, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 23d day of November, 1898. GEORGE W. MAXWELL, Administrator.

Get Your Coal.

G. A. Mader has just received a large stock of the finest quality of hard coal which he is now delivering to customers. Prices right. Don't wait till cold weather is on us. Leave orders with him early. d&w.

THE ORDER OF RED MEN

The Braves With Their Squaws ane Pappooses Gather at the Totem Pole.

At 8:30 last evening Dec. 1, occurred the first annual meeting of the order of Red Men in Auburn. It is known as "Tyadoghton Tribe Ko. 236.

The members and guests met in the A. O U. W. Hall, and in a short time adjourned to the Red Men's Hall, which is on the same floor. It is the hall occupied several years ago, by the G. A. R. who now have the room just below, on the second floor. When all were seated in the hall, the Great Prophet E. M. Fischler took the place of honor in the council and rising greeted the tribe with "Boozhoo! Welcome Red Men Welcome Schmokee man. Welcome all pale face. Tustenuggee, Wahoo bosh, E. Pluribus Unum; soc et to um."

The audience cheered the sentiment so eloquently put forth, and then the regular order was called. The first was a short "talk" by Harry Richwine the Worthy Sachem. He was followed by Mrs. J. P. Staggers of Garrett, who spoke more fully, and set forth the plan and benefits of establishing an order of ladies, auxiliary to the Red Men It is called the order of Pocahontas, and bears the same relation to the order, that the Rebekahs, and the Eastern Stars do to the Oddfellows and the Masons. All the speeches of the evening tended to favor this plan.

Then followed a solo by Mrs. Chas DuWan, sweetly sung as she always does. Nellie Franks played the accompaniment. Later on, Miss Franks sang a fine solo and Mrs. DuWan played for her. Both were heartily cheered.

Mrs. Judd Taylor, of Auburn, gave two excellent recitations which were highly appreciated. She has evidently had training in this line.

J. P. Staggers, also was called on and spoke in a strain similar to that followed by the others. He said the Order of Red Men, though but a year old here, was one of the oldest in the country It had its origin in the Revolution, when the "Sons of Liberty" threw the tea into Boston harbor.

Mrs. O. L. Marsh of Garrett was called up and spoke very ably, and gave her experience as a delegate to the state meeting of the order of Pocahontas.

The last exercise of a literary character, was Mrs. Taylor's second recitation and when called back by repeated cheers, she arose and said:

"The rose is red
The violet's blue
I am left
And so are you"

and then sat down amid wild applause,

This being the end of the literary program, tables were brought in, and an hour or so spent in progressive pedro. And in this as in all else on the program, all entered with the spirit of the fullest enjoyment. No more enjoyable scene could be imagined than this room full of people. And when the bell rang for a change of places, there went up a general laugh. The arrangement was that the lady who won the most games should have a free initiation in the order of Pocahontas, and the gentleman who won the least, should pay for her. At the close, it was found that Mrs. C. C. McBride stood highest, and she will have the free initiation when the order starts. Several gentlemen, were found to be equally low, and they had to "draw cuts" to see which would "go below," like the two Irishmen who were sawing ice J. W. Brown was the unlucky one, and he must pay that initiation fee, we suppose.

The next on the list was supper. The Red Men, had with their lily fingers provided a splendid lunch, and all enjoyed this heartily. At midnight when the lights began to "wink," they began to leave for their homes, after a most enjoyable gathering.

NOTES.

This was the first day of the Red Men's second year. They number about 70 and are evidently prospering, Including guests, a considerable over 100 were present.

The council of Pocahontas will be instituted in a short time. Any lady can join, though her husband may not be a member, if she is over eighteen and of good standing.

Geo. Tomlison is chief totem climber

Geo. Bishop is head music and mystery man.

W. R. Vann is the medicine man of the tribe.

Wes Reed is keeper of the scalps.

As Mrs. McBride is to be the first Pocahontas we presume C. C. will be Capt. John Smith. But as an officer, he will have charge of the war paint.

SOME OF THE NAMES.

E. M. Fischler, the "prophet, is "Elsk-wa-ta-wa." W. R. Vann is "On-sa-hy-e" or Dancing Feather." Al. Treesh, is "Ki-an-ge-wa" or Big Tree. Charlie Picker is So-nach-show-a," the Full Moon. Andy Murphy is O-tac-sa-ka," the Broken Tomahawk. Clint Potter is "O-we-ne-wa," or "Thrown in the Water," D. C Caruth is "Gy-ant-wa-i-a" or Cornplanter. Frank Joliff is ca-chun- was see," or twenty Canoes.

—And so on, and so on. We have to cut the list short on account of the great length of the names. The braves are all right however and we stand ready to finish the list whenever provided with it.

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Foley's Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this.

Pokagon's Letter.

So many of our people have heard noted chief speak at Albion, and at other Old Settler's meetings, that they will read with interest the following which we clip from a paper published at Hartford, Mich., near his home. It says:

Chief Simon Pokagon of the Pottowattomies received an invitation from Ray school at Chicago to attend an entertainment given by them. He sent the following letter in reply:

"To the Ray school, Chicago, Greeting—My Dear Children: Pokagon's heart rejoiced to receive the invitation to your entertainment, but on account of sickness in his family he could not well attend. It is the one great desire of his heart that the young may know his people better, and thereby remove from their minds that prejudice which has existed against us for generations past. Dear children do not forget this: Your play-ground was mine 60 years ago. It was wild uncultivated land, but I loved it for it was the land of my fathers. May you hold sacred the rich heritage which has fallen to to you. I expect great things of you. Please do not disappoint Pokagon. His pride is in Chicago, the city of his fathers. The greatest curse that stands with brazen face to lead aside the young in Chicago is "ish-ko-te-in-bush" (fire water,) which like "gin-e-big" (the snake,) lures to destroy, but without the warning rattle. My dear children this is perhaps the last advice Pokagon can give you. Hear me: Do not taste—no, nor touch the accursed fire-water. Promise me you will not?

May Kiyi Manito (God) bless you all, and help you always to stand for the right, and never forget that the red man and white man are brothers and God is the father of all. Good by.

CHIEF SIMON POKAGON.

EXECUTOR'S SALE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned executor of the will of Caroline Lindoerfer deceased by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, will offer for sale; at auction, at the door of the court house in Auburn, in said county on Saturday the 31st day of December, 1898, the following premises in DeKalb County in the State of Indiana, to-wit:

The north-east forth of the north-west quarter of section twenty-eight (28) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east.

Terms:—One-third cash, one-third in nine months, and the remaining one-third in eighteen months. The deferred payments to be evidenced by promissory notes, with interest, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws, and secured by a mortgage on the premises sold Sale to commence at 2 o'clock p. m.

SAMUEL J. TARNEY, Executor.

J. E. & J. H. Rose, Attys. for Estate.

Notice of Stockholders Meeting.

Office of First National Bank,
Auburn, Indiana, November 29, 1898

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank, of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 10, 1899, at their banking house in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven (7) directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before such meeting.

D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, December term, 1898, Emanuel Burns, Clara B. Burns, Sarah E. Rhodes, Larned state Bank of state Kansas are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said Court, on Note and Mortgage by Hanna Brunson and that the same will be heard and determined on the 23rd day of January, 1898, being the 31, juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences December 19, 1898.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 26 day of November, 1898.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

Red Hot From the Gun

Was the ball that hit G. B. Steadman of Newark, Mich., in the Civil War. It caused horrible Ulcers that no treatment helped for 20 years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him. Cures Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Boils, Felons, Corns, Skin Eruptions. Best Pile cure on earth. 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist.

Correct Solution

WATERLOO, IND., Nov. 28, 1893.

MR EDITOR: Please insert in the COURIER the answer to H. A. Winslow's problem in your paper date of Nov. 10, as follows:

12 turkeys	$5 00 each	$60.
13 geese	$2 50 "	$32 50
75 chickens	.10 "	$7 50
100		$100.00

There was no duty on the chickens, I am a firm believer in free trade.

Our friend J. H. Thomas is wrong on our revenue laws

M. H. WEINHOLD.

No Humbug.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma, but it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by those afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases.

Large Shipment of Turkeys.

Goshen Democrat.

Beyer Bros. & Morningstar last week shipped 117 barrels of turkeys to New York. The consignment weighed 29,250 pounds and brought a good price. Their house in this city is doing a flourishing business and the receipts of produce from now until after the holidays will be unusually heavy.

CARELESS SHOOTING.

Hunters Should Look out and See Where They Shoot

There is some complaint among farmers that there is not enough care exercised by those who go out to hunt quails and rabbits. They say that now and then a locality is liable to be dangerous for a man to be at work in. It is only a few days ago that Peter Miser, living northwest of Auburn received in his face, neck and hands several small shot. He was pulling corn in his fields, when he heard a gun discharged and the shot came rattling that way. One hit him near the eye and both cheeks and the back of one hand had two or more shot. Had he been closer by, the accident would have been worse. As is was, the force of the shot was nearly spent, and they only entered the surface and he squeezed them out with his fingers. Other shot struck his thick coat and vest but could not penetrate. He believes it was an accident, but objects to another trial.

Accidentally Shot.

A pretty serious case of accidental shooting occurred down in Wilmington township Monday. Two men, Ed. Johnson, an old veteran, and "Doc" Krontz, were in the woods hunting on the Swarts farm. Johnson was ahead and told Krontz to keep his gun cocked, as they were near game. Krontz said he did not dare to do that as his gun went off so easy. Just then a limb that Johnson had pushed aside flew back and struck Krontz' gun in such a way as to spring the trigger. Most of the load of shot struck Johnson in the shoulder, right side of the neck and the right arm. Though his hurts are not serious, he is not believed in danger. The shot in his arm are not removed but 17 were taken from his neck. Frank Johnson, of this place, was told by Mr. Maranville of the accident, and as it had happened near where Frank's brother lives, he feared it was his brother who was hurt. He drove over there last evening, and learned the facts as given.

Such Is Fame.

A Philadelphia firm writes to the "Auburn COURIER Publishing Co." for copies of latest songs, and says they believe they can use a large number to good advantage. We hardly think they can. Our "latest songs" were made when we had a bad cold, and would not be appreciated in Philadelphia. The only way you could use them, as far as we see, would be to distribute them among the old sailors at the League Island Shipyards. They have ears and voices for songs like this:

Cease rude Boreas, boisterous railer,
List ye landsmen all to me;
Messmates hear a brother sailor
Sing the dangers of the sea.

Hark! The bos'n's hoarsely bawlin'
"By top-sail sheets and halyards stand;
Down topgallants quick be haulin'
Down your staysails, hand, boys, hands."

But we might add, frankly, that those who sing our songs are saddest when they sing, and so are their audiences.

Philippine Tariffs

The rates of tariff in the Philippines has been a source of some difficulty, but it appears, we are going to fix on some rates or plan to charge all nations the same prices. Even ourselves when we ship goods into those islands, will be taxed the same rates as other nations, although it will be substantially our own country But after we cease to hold it by military power, and if it should then be made a regular territory of the United States, the same as New Mexico, or Alaska, then the tariff rates will be the same as those at New York, SanFrancisco or other places.

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globule of health, that changes weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fag into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by H. B. McCord's drugstore.

BIGGEST SHIPMENTS

The biggest shipments of stock and grain probably ever recorded at Auburn, was that of yesterday. L. J. Miller reports that he loaded and shipped off, four car loads of hogs and sheep, and one car load of grain, all from the Lake Shore freight station. He paid out on stock some thing near $2500. It is plain that Auburn has become the leading shipping point in the county.

Close Call

—Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolton had a close call for a fatal accident last evening. They had just come home, and on starting the coal stove, left something wrong, probably, in fixing of the dampers, probably, and the result was that both came near being suffocated. Dr. Hines was called and they are all right today excepting a severe headache.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the Auditor's office in DeKalb County, Indiana, until 2 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, December 13, 1898, for furnishing Blank Books and Stationary as per requisitions on file in this office.

Separate bids will be received for Blank Books and for Stationary.

The Board of Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and old bids.

FRANK P. SFILER, Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Nov. 28, 1898.

Thursday's Daily.

—Jacob E. Loehner remembered the old COURIER handsomely today.

—Mrs. Ab. Kelley of Waterloo came down on the 10:20 train and remained here through the day.

—Charlie Comesky and Wm. Carr two old Jackson township pioneers, were on the streets today.

—Dunlaps, a station between Goshen and Elkhart, wants to start an artificial ice plant, so it can get the trade of both cities.

—A. C. Liens and James Banta, of Kendallville, were in town on business today. Mr. Liens called on the COURIER and paid his subscription to 1900.

—Auditor Seiler came up from Newville today, bringing home his two children who had been there with the family of their grandfather, Jerry Andrews.

—The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing, is requested to call on the druggist and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, which always gives relief.

—Thieves stole a valuable overcoat and fur robe from a team at Goshen last Friday. The owner had left them for an hour or so while he did some trading. No trace of them has been found so far.

—Parties at Youngstown, Ohio, had a case in court, involving the division of a large estate. But when it called up up the judge, all were astonished to be told by the parties that they had settled it peaceably at a prayer meeting the night before.

—Many a household is saddered by death because of the failure to keep on hand a safe and absolutely certain cure for croup such as One Minute Cough Cure. See that your little ones are protected against emergency. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Mankato, Minn., must be a pretty good town, judging by the holiday papers they can get out up there. We have received a copy of the Daily Review of that city, a finely illustrated edition in colors, for Thanksgiving. It is a beauty, full of fine cuts good reading matter and most generously patronized in the way of ads, by the Mankato business men. It also bears the "imprint," of our friend J. J. Zent with his compliments. We passed through Mankato several years ago, and remember it as then, a bright looking and evidenty progressive town.

Friday's Daily.

—Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

—Willis Bishop our old Jackson township patron remembered us today with a call.

—The Indiana Legislature will meet on Thursday, after the first Monday in January that being the regular time.

—Will Rakestraw is slowly gaining, but has had a pretty severe time. He will no doubt be all right now in a few weeks.

—Congress meets the first Monday in December each year. So it will convene in regular session next Monday, Dec. 5.

—There were sixty divorce cases in the Goshen court the last term. They are sure up that way that marriage is a failure.

—B. A. Hadsell and his son, Irvin, of St. Joe, went throught Auburn today on their way to attend the farmers' meeting at Corunna.

—Agent DeLapp informs us that a good deal of grain, etc., is now coming in from Allen county. This makes increased business at the Lake Shore freight station.

—Mr. Brosy has a letter from Frank Campbell, who says he is feeling better and has been out hunting jack rabbits since reaching Kansas. He got three that together weighed 50 lbs.

—Late to bed and early to rise, prepares a man for his home in the skies, But early to bed and a Little Early Riser, the pill that makes life longer and better and wiser. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The recent new federal union of the Central American states, has already fallen to pieces. There were not enough big offices to satisfy all who had been chief men in the several original states. So they are all separate again.

—S. J. Tarney was in town this forenoon on business connected with the Lindorffer estate, of which he is administrator. The land is sold to Ernest Peters, and all that is needed now is the formality of publishing the notices required by law.

—European nations generally seem to be glad that we have got Spain's island colonies. They say, that while we have driven a hard bargain and have not paid enough for them, our rule will result in improving the condition of the people and increasing trade with all nations.

—We had a call this morning from Rev. E. P. Hoyt of the Baptist church accompanied by Rev. A S. Merrifield, of Grand Island, Nebraska. He is financial secretary for the Baptist college located at that place and is going over this part of the Union to secure financial help and patronage. The college was founded in 1892 and already has ten teachers and over 150 students.

—Hudson Banner:—Clair Woodford returned last Thursday from South Bend where he had been to obtain work. We published a statement last week, copied from another paper, that Col. Studebaker would furnish work for all members of his regiment, but Mr. Woodford states that the Studebakers have shut down and there is no work to be had. Somebody must have misquoted the Colonel as he would hardly seek to perpetrate so serious a joke on the boys of his regiment.

Saturday's Daily.

—O. H. Widney of St. Joe, came up on the noon train.

—Henry Emme and wife went to Fort Wayne today, to visit their daughter, Mrs. Luhman, over Sunday.

—Col. Bryan is so far recovered from his sickness that he has joined his regiment, the Third Nebraska, which is soon to start for Cuba.

—Mr. and Mrs. Henry Korff went to Fort Wayne today to stay over Sunday with their daughter Mrs. Lena Hilgemon, who resides there.

—Mrs. Roby up at Chicago is still in active society life. She gave a grand banquet last night at her home, to the football team of the Chicago University.

—Goshen Democrat:—Beyer Bros. pay out $75,000 per year at Kendallville for poultry. Fully that amount is distributed among the farmers from their Goshen house.

—Misses Ellen and Laura Keeran and Mrs. John Keeran spent the day yesterday, with Mrs. Fremont Smith, south of the Junction. The ladies are old-time friends.

—W. T. Bope of Badax, Mich., is here, a guest of John W. Baxter. They were at one time partners in the practice of law at Waterloo, a profession that Mr. Bope is following.

—Wm. Amsdank got a joke on himself when reported to several farmers that he had a cow that would furnish fourteen pounds of butter a week. That is two pounds a day, Sundays included.

Sylvester Scovel, the war correspondent who slapped Gen. Shafter, says the general slapped him first. He says he has affidavits from those who witnessed the episode to the effect and is going to Washington to prove it.

—Quite a number of the Maccabee ladies formed a surprise party last eveing and visited the First Commander, Mrs, Loveland, who lives a short distance out of town. They presented her with an elegant pin emblematic of that order.

—Word comes from Waterloo, that the same night the burglars broke into the store at Pleasant Lake, a buggy, two horses, harness and robes were stolen at Hammond's brick yard in Smithfield and have not been heard from since.

—Gov. Tanner of Illinois has been indicted by the grand jury of Macoupin county, in which the Virden riots occurred between striking coal miners and the imported negro miners. Several lives were lost, and it is charged that the governor was criminally negligent or he would have prevented the trouble.

—There are some curious facts about our calendar. No century can begin on Wednesday, Friday or Sunday. The same calendar can be used every twenty years. October always begins on the same day of the week as January, April and July; September as December, Feburary, March and November on the same days. May, June and August always begins on different days from each other and every other month in the year. The first and last days of the year are also the same. These rules do not apply to leap year, when comparison is made between days before and after Feb. 29.

—Bremen Enquirer:—Jonathan Myers, an old man who lived alone in a small hut near Millwood, Kosciusko county, died one day last week. He was nearly seventy years old and was supposed to live in poverty. He usually cut wood and worked at grubbing thickets for the neighbors. On last Monday a couple of neighbor went to Myers' hut to look over what possessions he had left and in rummaging through an old tool chest that Myers had always kept under his bed, they found a tin box that was wrapped in a piece of old oil cloth. On opening the box, they found that it contained $195. It was in paper money and silver coin. Why the old man did not tell some friend of his money before he died remains a mystery. The money found in the tin box, no doubt, was his savings duaing the past ten or twelve years.

New Harness Shop.

In connection with our feed store and in the same room, we will have a harness shop in charge of a skillful harness maker. New harness made to order and on short notice. Harness repairing a specialty, and all work skillfully and promptly done. When you want any thing in this line, or in the feed line, give us a call at our room south of the jail.

CARMER & GILL.

Western 'Phone 148.

Watch to be Given Away.

I will give a ticket with every dozen Cabinets in Platino or Dull finish on a Lady's or Gentleman's Gold watch to be drawn on Xmas eve, as a Xmas present to the lucky holder. Now is the time to have your Xmas Pictures taken, don't wait until one or two weeks before Xmas, to have your Negatives made. To take effect at once.

HOFFMAN, The Artist,
Cor. 7 & Jackson-st, Auburn, Ind.

For Pneumonia.

Dr. S. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich., says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the past month with good results"

Dr. Bull's COUGH SYRUP

Will cure Tonsilitis and Bronchitis. A specific for incipient consumption. Doses small. Price 25 cts. at druggists.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 13, 1898.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 50 pm	5 55
New Era	12 12 pm	5 17	6 40
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 28	7 10
Auburn	12 29	5 32	7 35
Waterloo	12 41	5 43	8 15
Summit	12 52	5 53	8 35
Steubenville	12 56	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	8 56
Angola	1 13	6 14	9 35
Jackson	3 25	8 35	3 4 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	5 55 am	11 30 am	7 15 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	9 35
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 29	9 45
Steubenville		2 36	9 51
Summit	11 50	2 39	9 56
Waterloo	12 41 pm	2 55	10 10
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 30
Auburn Junction	1 35	3 07	10 32
New Era	1 54	3 18	10 40
Fort Wayne	2 50	3 50	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn

Get Your

Structural Iron and Steel of Jacob Shull.

Stove Repairing

Promptly attended to at reasonable prices. Work guaranteed first-class.

Jacob Shull,
AUBURN JUNCTION, IND.

HUMPHREYS'

WITCH HAZEL

OIL

CURES
Piles or Hemorrhoids
Fissures & Fistulas.
Burns & Scalds.
Wounds & Bruises.
Cuts & Sores.
Boils & Tumors.
Eczema & Eruptions.
Salt Rheum & Tetters.
Chapped Hands.
Fever Blisters.
Sore Lips & Nostrils.
Corns & Bunions.
Stings & Bites of Insects.

Three Sizes, 25c, 50c. and $1.00.
Sold by druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., 111 & 113 William St., New York.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS—IMPORTANT.

The Quaker Valley Mfg. Co., of Chicago, have requested us to announce that they have several thousand sets of the finest coin silver-plated War Memorial Spoons left over from their recent distribution. They will mail, postpaid, a full set of six of these spoons to every subscriber to the COURIER, who will send name and address—a postal card will do. If, on receipt of the spoons, you find them the most exquisitely beautiful specimens of the silversmith's art you ever saw, and worth $3.00, remit 78 cents, as payment in full, within 30 days; if not pleased return spoons immediately. Each spoon is of a different design—after-dinner coffee size—showing soldiers in camp in Cuba, Morro Castle and four U. S. Battleships. They are imperishable mementoes of the late war, and every subscriber should accept this most remarkable offer and obtain a set before it is too late. All that's necessary is to say you're a subscriber to the COURIER (this is important) and that you accept Memorial spoon offer. Address QUAKER VALLEY MFG. CO., 357 W. Harrison St., Chicago.

WANTED:

FARM PRODUCTS IN EXCHANGE FOR BICYCLES OR HARNESS.

Money not a necessity. You produce what we can use. We make what you want.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 1, one-piece crank, latest model, the equal of the best Bicycle made, your own specifications, $50.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 2, three-piece crank, your own specifications, $45.

"Marlo" Racer, a very fine machine, $60.

We sell Bicycles for cash or on the monthly payment plan, anywhere in the United States or Canada. We make very liberal allowances for old wheels. We also sell second-hand wheels at from $3 to $30. Don't fail to write us if you want a wheel or harness on the best terms ever offered.

We allow ruling Buffalo prices for all kinds of farm products that can be shipped economically to Buffalo. Tell us what you have to exchange and we will quote prices we can offer. Enclose stamps for further information or for price list of our Handmade Harness and Horse Collars.

MARLO CYCLE CO.,
61 Terrace, Buffalo, N. Y.

OLD FRIENDS ARE BEST.

Handsome. Durable.

TRADE MARK.

No Place like Home.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT

still stands first for quality. If your dealer does not sell it, be sure and write us for SPECIAL PRICES. We make everything you need in Paints, Colors, Varnishes, Brushes, Etc.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT CO., CHICAGO.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

Volume XXVIII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, December 15, 1898. | Number 50.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2	6:25 am—Daily
No. 10	8:46 am—ex Su
No. 6	4:40 pm—ex Su
No. 4	4: 9 pm—Daily
No. 70 (local freight)	3.20 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1	1: 4 am—Daily
No. 7	10:21 am—ex Su
No. 9	6:17 p.m—ex Su
No. 3	7: 8 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	11 00 am—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
C. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '96

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	3:53 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:30 a m
No. 5 Daily	5:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday	12:25 a m

EAST BOUND.

No. 4 Express	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily	8:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No 41 Daily	11:41 p m
No 18, Daily, except Sunday	12:25p m

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.
G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind
THOS. H. SPROTT CHAS. H. KNAPP

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

T.G. Matheny, M.D. J.B. Casebeer, MD.
Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
have again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE.

Office	No. 9
Matheny's residence	" 88
Casebeer's "	" 175

S. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy buildin northeast corner of Square Western Phone 103
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19
D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works. Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physcian & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUGSTORE
In the National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Calls Answered At All Hours,

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Night Before Christmas,

Many of our readers do not know the origin of this popular nursery poem, though it appears every year in more or less of the Christmas literature so abundantly scattered over the land. It was composed by Dr. Clement C. Moore of New York City, as a Christmas entertainment for his own children, and recited to them at the time, on Christmas of 1822. A young lady friend of the family happened to be visiting with them, and she was so struck with the pleasing character of the little poem that she copied it into her album, and the next year, had it published Dec. 23, 1823 in the Christmas edition of the "Troy Sentinel." This gave it to the public, and the public old and young, have owned it and enjoyed it ever since. And as each returning Christmas holiday comes to us, we look for the familiar lines.

'Twas the night before Christmas,
And all in the house,
And nothing was stirring,
Not even a mouse.

Paying It Back

It now appears that county officer all over the state, did not fully obey the new salary law that requires them to turn over to the county, all the fees that come into their hands. The total thus withheld, all over the state, is estimated at no less than half a million been kept back by these officers. In Marion county, the sums so kept back are very large. The election struggle brought out most of the exposes, and though, the defaulting officers were generally sustained, yet as soon as election was over, they began to be called on to explain or pay back, and a great many walked up and voluntarily paid back, what they had wrongfully taken. We believe this particularly valuable part of the salary law has been lived up to in DeKalb county as well as in any part of the state. We believe the only officer in this county, who failed to obey this law, was sheriff Strob, and he finally gave up and paid his shortage. The law is very plain.

May Not Be Ratified.

Some leading republicans like John Sherman and Seator Hoar, are opposed to the expansion policy especially against taking the Philippines. Ex-president Cleveland is also opposed to it. But the trouble is going to be when the new treaty reaches the Senate. A part of the republican senators, as already stated, oppose "expansion" in any form, and still more of the democratic members are opposed to it. So it looks as if more than half the senators would not vote to ratify the treaty. And as it takes a two-thirds vote to ratify a treaty, it looks as if this one will not be agreed to. This would leave the president in a pretty awkard fix.

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give her no help; but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidney and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion builds up strength Only 50c. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist. Guaranteed.

"The Old Masters."

The paintings, even small ones, by the "Old Masters," are highly prized and scarce. Some bring fabulous prices. An old Mexican war veteran at Lawrenceburg, Ind., named Daniel Woelker, while in the Mexican war, cut an oil painting of three angels out of a frame in a Mexico City cathredral and brought it home for a souvenir. A few years afterward, a Louisville man bought it from him for $15. It was presented to the catholic church at Celestine, Dubois county. Recently an art collector visited the church and was refused an offer of $3000 for it.

Notice to Non Residents.

State of Indiana, DeKalb County, ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, December term, 1898, Emanuel Burns, Clara B. Burns, Sarah E. Rhodes, Larned state Bank of state Kansas are hereby notified that an action has been commenced against them in said Court, on Note and Mortgage by Hanna Brunson and that the same will be heard and determined on the 23rd day of January, 1898, being the 31, juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences December 19, 1898.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 26 day of November, 1898.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

For Hoarseness.

Benj Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind, says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers.

"The Clothes that Fit and Stay in Shape."

Made of the finest materials money will buy, all seams sewed with heavy silk thread, each suit fitted to a living model in the making and made to conform to the natural lines of the figure. The Prince Albert Suits made by Hart, Schaffner & Marx are worn by good dressers everywhere. Not one custom tailor in ten can equal them in style and fit. We sell them under the guarantee that goes with all clothing bearing this trademark:

HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX.

H.S.&M.

GUARANTEED CLOTHING.

PRINCE ALBERT FROCK SUIT.
Copyright, 1898, by Hart, Schaffner & Marx.

This is the kind of Clothing you should give for Christmas presents. Not neccesarily this particular style of coat. We have the same excellency to show in any style coat, for the wee little fellows, the school boys, the young men, the middle aged and old. What makes them more attractive to you is the price; so low that you can't possibly find fault.

Christmas buying has opened up in good shape with us. We have quite a goodly lot of packages sold and laid away to be called for just before Xmas. Several lines we have found necessary to re-order on, so that we may be able to keep our stock right up to snuff.

Dress Patterns.

It pleases us to see the number of nice Dress Patterns going out. no doubt many of them for presents.

An Umbrella...

Makes the finest kind of a present. We have by far the handsomest assortment ever shown in town.

Handkerchiefs...

Are always a most acceptable gift. We show in this line is head and shoulders above anything you've ever seen here. Special prices on half dozens or over.

Our Stock of Furs...

Is going at a rapid rate. We wouldn't be surprised if every garment was gone several days before Xmas. We again urge you to come early and get your pick.

Shield Mufflers.

This week we open two more lots of new Shield Mufflers. Be sure to see them before making yonr purchase.

We are showing an extensive line of White and Fancy Shirts which merit your consideration. We have Neckwear of all kinds and at all prices.

Rugs, Portieres, Lace Curtains and Carpet Sweepers make fine presents. We are headquarters for these goods. Come early and often.

We are Saving You Money.

SCHAAB & BRO.

REPORT OF THE CONDITION OF

The First National Bank at Auburn, in the State of Indiana at the Close of Business, Dec. 1st, 1898.

RESOURCES.

Loans and discounts		$103916 41
Overdrafts, secured and unsecured		875 83
U. S. bonds to secure circulation		12500 00
U. S. bonds on hand		12500 00
Stocks, securities, etc		7074 16
Banking-house, furniture and fixtures		6500 00
Due from National Banks not Reserve agents		47771 77
Due from State Banks and Bankers		2249 05
Due from approved reserve agents		15486 79
Checks and other cash items		534 07
Notes of other National Banks		28.0 00
Fractional paper currency, nickels & cents		113 93
LAWFUL MONEY RESERVE IN BANK, VIZ:
Specie	9 891 00
Legal tender notes	4 521 00	14412 00
Redemption fund with U. S. treasurer 5 per cent of circulation		562 50
Total		$227326 54

LIABILITIES,

Capital stock paid in	$ 50,000 00
Surplus fund	10,000 00
Undivided profits, less expenses and taxes paid	2,967 [illegible]
National bank notes outstanding	11,2 0 00
Individual deposits subject to check	58,933 28
Demand certificates of deposit	94,175 60
Total	$227,326 54

State of Indiana. ounty of DeKalb, ss:

I, D. A. Garwood, Cashier of the above named bank, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge and belief.

D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 7th day of Dec. 1898.

JAMES E. ROSE, Notary Public.

CORRECT—Attest:
J. H. Ford,
Jas. McClellan } Directors.
Charles McClellan

Indiana's Share

There is usually not much show for Indiana on the River and Harbor bills in congress, but it seems we are not to be altogether left out.

Secretary of the treasury has asked these appropriations for improvements in Indiana; Improvement of the Wabash river above Vincennes, $40,000; below Vincennes, $20,000 Marion soldiers' home, $227,750. Arsenal at Indianapolis, viz. at pump house $3,000; for paving Michigan-st., $8,820; for sidewalk on Clifford-ave, $2,016. Evansville marine hospital, $6,000.

Samples Free.

The great number of newspapers, magazines, etc., that are now being published have made it very hard for the readers to decide just what one they wish to subscribe for. The American Subscription Agency, of Indianapolis, Ind., have compiled a list of 100 papers that they offer to send a sample copy of each to any address upon receipt of 10 cents to pay for mailing. They do this so that you may see and read a copy of each paper before subscribing. If you decide to subscribe to any of their papers to the amount of $1 they offer to deduct the 10 cents sent from the subscribtion. Send 10 cents to the American Subscription Agency, 653 Arch St., Indianapolis, Ind., and you will receive one hundred papers. j23

Discovered by a Women.

Another great discovery has been made, and that too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly, and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery, by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night; and with two bottles, has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N, C. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Foley's Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this.

Capt. Lee Linn.

Lee Linn, was for some some years editor and publisher of the Wabash Times, an extreme democratic paper, and later on took a notion to "flop" and became as rank a republican. He was a slasher in all ways, and often got into trouble. Some times he got licked. Once, he laid for an enemy and shot and killed him on the streets, and in a public place in Wabash. Later on, he drifted into Texas journalism, but the way they do things down there, prevented his staying a great while. When the Spanish war broke out, Lee found a new opportunity and using some sort of a political pull, got a commission as captain to serve as a commissary or something of that nature, and was sent to the Philippines. There as usual, he soon got into trouble of various sorts, and after pulling safely through the most of them, was at last accused by the priests there, who are all catholics, of interfering in their church work and making himself a nuisance generally. Lee got leave of absence to come home, and also demanded an investigation. He is now at Wabash, his old home, and having concluded he has had enough of public fighting, is going to resign. In the meantime, his friend, Congressman Steele, says he has investigated the charges made against Linn by the catholic clergy at Manila, and save there was nothing in them, and that Lee is all right. But those who know Capt. Linn, are not so easily fooled. Lee Linn, at home or abroad is able to take care of himself, but ne is also able to get into more acres of trouble to the square mile than any other man who ever lived in Indiana. He is a sharp, able man. but not a desirable one.

American Shipping.

After thirty-five years of waiting, at last we have awakened to the importance of American shipping on the great seas. An exchange has these items of interst on the vital question:

Excluding the great lakes, practically shut off by Niagara Falls from foreign competition, tonnage of vessels entered and cleared at seaports of the United States in foreign trade for 1897 comprised 7,248,625 tons American and 32,632,419 tons foreign shipping.

In oversea navigation to foreign ports more than 1,500 miles distance, American shipping amounts to only 2,068,656 tons, compared with 27,419,026 tons foreign.

Only three practical courses at the present time are open to the United States:

1. We may retain our laws unchanged, ignore national navigation, and continue to rely on vessels under foreign flags for the transportation of our exports and imports.

2. We may permit foreign built vessels to register under the American flag, ship crews abroad, and increase national navigation.

3. We may extend direct government aid to vessels built in the United States, and thus increase both national navigation and national ship building.

The Infant Industry.

Since our last reports, the following have been granted license to marry.

F. M. Coffman and Florence J. Musser; Chas. Haines and Ruth Rempis; Wm. Eby and Inez M. McDowel; Garret H. Link and Dora May Huston; Ira J, Bachtel and Mina Erwin; Frank Fulk and Lena S. Zurbricker; Peter Becker and Maud Lower; Jonn Thirl and Helen Bennett; Freeman L. Moon and Eretta Miller; Claud L. Daniels and Orpha M. Link; Wm. Hike and Katie Koehnlein; Wesley Carper and Lola Provines; James Kemery and Tillia Knepper; Page Hathaway and Ella Feller; Niles D. Baum and Adelaide Dowell; George Putt and Ollie Skelly; Wm. H. Witherspoon and Leona J. Loveland; Stephen Heller and Luthera Wilson; Henry Voight and Imo King.

Not Easily Frozen

Surveyor Krontz reports a pretty cold ride Thursday evening when about forty Oddfellows from Butler drove across the country to Metz to help organize a new lodge there. It was a pretty cnilly experience, but they soon learned there were others in the cold, for they passed a big gypsy camp up in the woods, where the people were living in their covered wagons, and in cotton tents. It is strange how these people manage to exist in such zero weather with only a wall of cotton sheeting between them and the fierce winds of a winter like this. But they seem to enjoy it; at least they stick to it. They are evidently not easily killed with cold.

He Fooled The Surgeons.

All doctors told Renic Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on Earth, and the best Salve in the World 25 cents a box. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Same Old Rot.

The Garrett Herald has now for two weeks been filled with the same old rotten slush from Auburn, that so long disgraced the Garrett Clipper. We for one, are tired of having this stinking stuff thrust under our nose. It contains about 90 per cent of vitriolic and diabolic abuse of Auburn. And any Auburn man who will take a paper containing such abuse of him and his town deserves all he gets. We are surprised that Mr. Miner will admit it to his columns. We hope the arrangement is only accidental or temporary. If it is to be permanent, we shall have something further to say.

Regardless Of Age.

The kidneys are responsible for more sickness, suffering, and deaths than any other organ of the body.

A majority of the ills afflicting people today is traceable to kidney trouble. It prevades all classes of society, in all climates, regardless of age, sex or condition.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are unmistakable, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, sleeplessness, pain or dull ache in the back, a desire to urinate often day or night, profuse or scanty supply.

Uric acid, or brick-dust deposit in urine are signs of clogged kidneys, causing poisoned and germ-filled blood. Sometimes the heart acts badly, and tube casts (wasting of the kidneys) are found in the urine, which if neglected will result in Bright's Disease, the most dangerous form of kidney trouble.

All these symptoms and conditions are promptly removed under the influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It has a world wide reputation for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

No one need be long without it as it is so easy to get at any drug store at fifty cents or one dollar. You can have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery, Swamp-Root, and a book telling all about it, both sent you absolutely free by mail. Send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. and kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in The Auburn Courier, Auburn, Ind.

A Woman's Figures

[Indianapolis Sun.]

Deputy Elliott, of the internal revenue office has stamp problem for civil service applicants. A woman came in, the other day, and asked for four stamps, naming two kinds, so many of one and so many another. She threw down 1c. Elliot was stumped for a minute. He figured it out and found they came to one cent.

There are $\frac{1}{2}$ $\frac{1}{3}$ $\frac{2}{3}$ and $\frac{3}{4}$ cent stamps. What two kinds did she name to make four for a cen?

Born In a Hollow Tree

An old verse is revived in the following story that comes to the COURIER from Brookville, Ind.

Wm. M. Baker, is a vigorous old pioneer of Franklin county. His parents crossed the Alleghanies and, stopping near what is now Brookville, he was born in a hollow sycamore tree, March 11, 1810. Baker relates that a man named Kessel had lived in the hollow tree and sold goods to Indians. He became obnoxious to Indians and whites alike and, one moruing, was found scalped. Later a wag wrote the following on a slab marking Keesel's grave:

"There was a man lived here of late,
On him the Angels had to wait;
The Devil sneaked in like a weasel
And down below he carried Keesel."

Baker joined the army in the sixties as cook, being too old for other service He was soon discharged. He lost his sight, a few years ago, and went to the Dayton soldiers' home. But his sight is restored, and each day he walks down to Brookville for a glass of beer He never drinks but one glass and never treats or accepts a treat.

That St. Joe Bridge

The commissioners returned yesterday noon from an inspection of the bridge at Dills farm south of St. Joe. They found the work all done on the bridge except the painting which is a short job as the bridge is a small one Work on filling the dirt in about the bridge is also well under way. This is the place where a culvert bridge had been washed out, and a good deal of political capital was attempted to be made of it. But it was finally seen by the people, that Gunsenhouser had not washed the culvert out himself with malice aforethought, and he was vindicated by a triumphant re-election. The new bridge will probably be all right.

Married 9,000 Couples.

A justice at Jeffersonville, Ind., gets the bulk of the marriages of parties who come over from the Kentucky side of the Ohio river. A recent letter from there says:

Ephraim Keigwin, the little 'squire who has married 9,000 couples at this Gretna Green, is perhaps fatally ill of cystitis. An operation will be performed. He has been a magistrate since 1877. He was a gold hunter in '49, found pay dirt near Shasta, Cal., and traded a blanket for a Digger Indian squaw. Later he tired of pioneer life, gave the squaw a couple of blankets and trinkets, and went to San Francisco, where he laid brick for $14 a day. Soon he returned to Indiana to stay. He has received fees for marriage ceremonies ranging from five cents to $50.

900 DROPS
CASTORIA
A Vegetable Preparation for Assimilating the Food and Regulating the Stomachs and Bowels of INFANTS CHILDREN
Promotes Digestion, Cheerfulness and Rest. Contains neither Opium, Morphine nor Mineral.
NOT NARCOTIC.
Recipe of Old Dr SAMUEL PITCHER
Pumpkin Seed -
Alx Senna -
Rochelle Salts -
Anise Seed -
Peppermint -
Bi Carbonate Soda -
Worm Seed -
Clarified Sugar -
Wintergreen Flavor
A perfect Remedy for Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Worms, Convulsions, Feverishness and LOSS OF SLEEP.
Fac Simile Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
NEW YORK.
At 6 months old
35 DOSES—35 CENTS
EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.
The Kind You Have Always Bought.
CASTORIA
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1898. DECEMBER. 1898.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
				1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31

L. Q. 5th. N. M. 12th. F. Q. 19th. F. M 27th.

NEWS IN BRIEF GUSTS

BLOWN IN FROM ALL PARTS OF THE EARTH.

An Important Record of the Week As Told by the Telegraph—Latest from Foreign Shores—Crimes, Casualties, Fires, Etc.

Gen Garcia Dead.

Gen. Calxito Garcia, the distinguished Cuban warrior and leader, and head of the commission elected by the Cuban Assembly to visit this country, died at the Hotel Raleigh, Washington, where the commission has headquarters. The sudden change from the warm climate of Cuba, with the hardships he had endured, to the wintery weather of New York and Washington, was responsible for pneumonia. During the twelve hours preceding his dissolution, Gen. Garcia was unconscious. In his dying moments, as all through his busy and active life, his thoughts were for his beloved country and its people, and among his last words were irrational mutterings, in which he gave orders fo his son, who is on his staff, for a battle which he supposed would occur the next day, and in which he understood there were only 400 Spaniards to combat.

Want to Become Citizens.

The brothers Cortez, wealthy Philipinos, just arrived in Washington from Manila, called at the State Department and were received by Secretary Hay who listened with interest to their statements of events and conditions in the Philippines. The callers brought with them letters from Gens. Merritt and Otis, and Consul Wildman and other American officers at Manila, speaking in terms of praise of the valuable services rendered the United States troops, and navy, by these men, and telling of heavy sacrifices made by them to assist our forces. They seek as a measnre of recognition, the gift of American citizenship by special act, in advance of other Philipines.

Going to Manila.

A special from Washington says: The next regiments to start for Manila will embark at New York about the end of this month, and will go through the Suez Canal. The expedition will consist of three regiments of regular infantry, distributed between two of the largest converted transports owned by the government, with perhaps a convoy of two warships.

The decision to select New York as the point of embarkation, instead of San Francisco, whence all the earlier forces started for the Philippines, was reached by General Corbin after a careful review of a number of considerations, chief among which was the urgency for haste.

An Anarchistic Plot.

London special: Another anarchistic plot was unearthed recently. The "reds" arranged to explode a bomb in the new Opera Comique at Paris, the opening night. The bomb was to be made here, then smuggled to the other side of the channel and conveyed across the French frontier. The anarchists, hearing the police were informed of the plot, fled and wiped out the tracks.

Tremendous Explosion.

An explosion occurred at the Dupont Powder Works near Wilmington, Del. The city was shaken as if by an earthquake The explosion involved five powder mills in the lower yard. Tesert McHilinery, John Moore, John Wright and a man named Stewart are known to have been killed. Several were badly injured. It was caused by a team hauling powder running away.

More Ohio Gold.

Toledo (Ohio) special: A company headed by Thomas Kelly has been organized to develop a vein of gold discovered in Auborndale by a workman who was digging a sewer. The discovery caused some excitement here and Kelly's assay of the find shows the vein yields $500 per ton.

Havanese Impressed.

Havana special: The Twenty-second New York Regiment, under Gen. Davies, numbering 1,500 men, has arrived. The troops boarded the train for Pinar Del Rio Province. All are in good condition, and have impressed the Havanese by their military appearance.

While Playing Soldier.

Orville Willis, aged 6 years, accidentally killed his 3-year-old sister with a shotgun at their home in Kelleyville, Ill. The top of the child's head was blown entirely off. The children were alone in the house. The boy stated they were playing soldier.

Messenger Boy's Luck.

Joseph Turner, until recently a messenger boy on the Merchants' Exchange, St. Louis, Mo., is the inventor of a ship roller adopted by the navy and it will make him a fortune, it is said.

Masonic Temple Attractions, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Dec. 17—"In Old Kentucky."
Dec. 26—"A Hired Girl."
Dec. 28—"Why Smith Left Home."
Dec. 31—Julia Marlowe.

A Subterranean Lake.

C. A. Cockroft of the Chenango Engineering Company, has discovered a subterranean lake forty feet deep, which he believes extends under the entire village of Lestershire, a suburb of Binghamton, N. Y.

Triple Murder.

Freesoil (Mich.) special: William Hitchings, a brother-in-law of John Hunt, a farmer, killed Hunt, Mrs. Hunt, the hired man, Thomas Hayward, and then cut his own throat. It is supposed he was insane.

Reception to American Troops.

The Cuban army in Pinar Del Rio is keeping in good order. A reception is being prepared by Cubans in the city of Pinar Del Rio for the American troops, who are expected to arrive shortly. A dispatch from Casilda says 700 American troops landed Tuesday and were enthusiastically received. They have taken possession of the town of Trinidad.

Loot a Bank.

The bank of Antioch, Ill., was entered by robbers. The safe was blown and $3,000 extracted. The robbers escaped on a hand-car, and it is believed have fled to Chicago.

Bad Blood in Havana.

Havana special: Fist fights between Spaniards and Cubans continue daily. A serious clash occurred when a Spanish battalion came in to embark. While walking through the principal streets an officer of the battalion arrested a Cuban officer and slapped his face. Other Cubans came to the rescue and a fight ensued. The Cubans got the worst of it. The other night a Spanish Lieutenant and twenty soldiers, armed with rifles and bayonets, assaulted several Cuban soldiers and defied the police when ordered to desist, saying they intended to fight the insurgents. A Spanish officer ordered the soldiers to fire on the people who had congregated, but the intervention of Col. Delgado prevented murder.

Gen. Arolas, military commander of the city, has issued an order instructing Spanish officers to tear off the hats and decorations of Cuban officers, and if they resist to kill them.

Declare War on Roberts.

The New York Herald says: The efforts to prevent Brigham H. Roberts, Representative-elect from Utah, from taking his seat in the Fifty-sixth Congress because he is a polygamist and advocates the doctrines of the Mormon Church, will have the organized support of hundreds of thousands of women in the United States. The initial woman's movement will take organized form here at the Presbyterian Woman's Board of Home Missions, December 20. There are one hundred thousand members of the Presbyterian Home Mission Society alone in the United States. The home mission societies of the Congregational and Baptist Churches and other churches will aid in the crusade.

Wheeler Will Retire.

Major General Wheeler has probably seen the last of active service in the United States Army. He was at the War Department and had a talk with Secretary Alger and Adjutant General Corbin. It is understood he will be relieved from further active duty unless there is a recurrence of war, but that he will remain on the active list of the United States volunteer army until that army is mustered out of service by a declaration of peace. This privilege will leave Gen. Wheeler free to exercise his functions as a member of the House of Representatives during this session.

Fatal Explosion.

An explosion occurred on the marine hospital ship Bay State, lying off Brooklyn. Robert Twist was killed and about fifteen seriously injured. The explosion occured in the ice-making machine, which was in charge of Twist. A force of men was engaged in cleaning out the coils containing the ammonia. For some reason, the ammonia in the reservoir exploded. Twist was killed instantly, and all the men near the machine were injured. The injured men were taken on beard the hospital ship, Relief, which was lying near by.

Health in Havana.

Advices received by officers of the War Department give a terrible picture of sanitary conditions in Havana. The death rate is growing; the condition of the streets in the poor section is said to be shocking, and emphasis is placed on the danger to the United States troops who will be landed soon.

Want America's Friendship.

Hong Kong special: General Riewodidos and Dr. Lesdajlun, representatives of the Filipino junta, have started for Washington under instructions to endeavor to remove misapprehension and suspicions and cultivate the friendliest relations with the American Government and people.

Oscar Gardner Acquitted.

At Columbus, Ohio, Oscar Gardner was acquitted by a jury of the charge of prize fighting. On April 7 last, he engaged in a glove contest with George Stout, during which the latter fell or was knocked down, his head striking the floor, and injuring Stout so that he died.

Patriotism and Courage Appreciated

Secretary Long has written to Capt. Whiting of the monitor Monadnock, conveying the highest commendation of the Navy Department to the officers and crew of that vessel for their patriotism, courage and ability in taking the monitor safely across the Pacific to Dewey.

Treaty Is Finished.

Paris special: The treaty is finished. Judge Day said: "We have settled all the points upon which there is a possibility of agreement. Only the engrossing remains." The Spaniards refused to cede the United States a coaling station in the Caroline Islands.

The Maria Teresa Inquiry.

Secretary Long has approved the recommendations of the board of inquiry into the loss of the Maria Teresa, exhonerating everybody from blame and recommending that no further proceedings be taken.

Blinded While Coughing.

Frank Jackley of Frankton, Ind., lost his sight while in a paroxysm of coughing. One of the blood vessels of the optic nerves was broken and he went stone blind. There is no hope of recovery of his sight.

In Search of Adree.

The steamer Dirigo has arrived at Vancouver from Alaska. She brings a report that a party of French scientists recently started in a balloon from Mt. White, Alaska, in search of Andree.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 64c to 65c; corn, No. 2, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2, 25c to 27c; rye, No. 2, 52c to 54c; butter, choice creamery, 20c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 22c to 24c; potatoes, choice, 30c to 40c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $2.75 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 white, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 30c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 70c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 51c to 53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 58c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.50; sheep and lambs, $3.00 to $5.00; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 30c; rye, 54c to 56c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 27c; rye, No. 2, 53c to 55c; clover seed, new, $4.55 to $4.65.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 64c to 65c; corn, No. 3, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 1, 53c to 54c; barley, No. 2, 43c to 51c; pork, mess, $7.75 to $8.25.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, common to choice, $3.25 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.75; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 76c; corn, No. 2, 40c to 42c; oats, No. 2, 32c to 33c; butter, creamery, 16c to 21c; eggs, Western, 25c to 27c.

ONLY A FEW PIECES OF GOLD LEFT.

FARMERS IN SESSION.

National Congress Begins Deliberations at Fort Wayne.

The farmers' national congress of the United States of America assembled at Fort Worth, Texas, in its eighteenth annual session. Ex-Gov. William D. Hoard of Wisconsin presided, and among the delegates were representatives of all the States and territories of the Union and of several of the Canadian provinces. After prayer by Rev. Alexander C. Garrett of Dallas, the visitors listened to addresses of welcome by Mayor B. B. Paddock, Gov. Charles A. Culberson, President W. E. Skinner of the Fort Worth Live Stock Exchange and others. Responses in behalf of the delegates were delivered by Secretary John M. Stahl of Illinois, William Freeman of Maine and F. L. Maxwell of Louisiana. After the roll call by States President Hoard proceeded to deliver his annual address.

W. D. HOARD.

A feature of the congress was the attendance from some of the States of large numbers of associates to re-enforce the delegates. Iowa had sixty-three persons, including the delegates, and Colorado had fifty-four. The annexation of the Philippines was one subject which engrossed the attention of the delegates.

The report of Prof. Henry of Wisconsin on the President's address was adopted. It recommended instruction in the principles of agriculture in rural public schools; that commercial representatives for American agricultural products in foreign markets be provided; that the best possible means for the operation of steamship lines direct to South America should be secured, and that laws against food adulteration be adopted. The report also urged farmers to uphold agricultural colleges and experiment stations and recommended strong taxation laws for securing equity in taxation. Resolutions were adopted and ordered to be sent to Congress favoring government aid in the construction of the Nicaragua canal and government control of same, and for the development of the beet sugar industry.

UNCLE SAM AND JOHN BULL.

Demand for Joint Control of Nicaragua Canal Causes Irritation.

The Nicaraguan canal question promises to be one of the leading questions in Congress this winter. The anxiety of the British to get in on the ground floor, as expressed by the London press, causes some irritation in Washington, as England's friendship for this country during the recent war is shoved under our noses as an argument for joint control of the proposed canal.

England's claims for a share in the canal are based on the Bulwer-Clayton treaty, an agreement entered into before any one dreamed of a canal across that part of the isthmus. It is understood that Sir Julian Pauncefote has recently had a conference with Secretary of State Hay and has intimated that our exclusive control of the waterway violates the convention of 1850.

In administration circles the feeling is strong that no one shall interfere with this Government's declared intention to build the canal, and Secretary Hay probably told this to Sir Julian in a friendly but firm way. Later the United States may declare the canal neutral in war times, but the Government will do this in its own way and certainly not under pressure.

As to the Clayton-Bulwer treaty, which England threatens to drag forth, the United States has two strong defenses against it. First, the United States can immediately annul the treaty. Second, under the treaty the United States can do anything she proposes to do without violating any of its terms, although the treaty has been abrogated by Great Britain's own acts.

HOBSON REFUSES $50,000.

Merrimac Hero Declines an Offer to Lecture.

An offer of $50,000 for a number of lectures has been refused by Naval Constructor Richmond P. Hobson. This offer was made by a New York lecture bureau, and the reason for his refusal was stated by Hobson to a friend.

"Before the sinking of the Merrimac," he said, "my lectures would probably have not been worth 50 cents. The sinking of the Merrimac seems to have made them worth $50,000. The work that so suddenly raised my stock in literary trade was done in simple execution of my duty as an American naval officer. I did not feel that I had a right to use the performance of that duty for my financial betterment. I therefore declined the offer of $50,000."

PERILS AS TO CHINA.

England and Russia Unable to Reach an Agreement.

Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, British colonial secretary, made new disclosures the other night in a speech at Wakefield, Yorkshire. He virtually stated the British Government had found it impossible to reach an agreement with Russia touching China, and that France's plan of exasperation had prevented a settled policy as to Egypt.

It was made evident, however, that an entente has been reached with Germany that may make for peace and for extended trade; but the significant fact was brought out that unless an agreement is effected with Russia there are dangers of grave complications. He, however, left room to hope for a settlement.

JAPAN MAY BUY PHILIPPINES.

Offer of $200,000,000 for Group Made to President McKinley.

Japan has offered this Government $200,000,000 for the Philippines. This information came through a Washington correspondent from a high source and is asserted to be official. It was further stated that this overture of Japan was met by the reply from the President that no negotiations affecting the disposition or control of the Philippines could be entered into until after the conclusion of the treaty of peace at Paris.

In direct connection with this story it is known that an influential Senator recently had a long talk with the President, at which the disposition of the Philippines was the main topic of conversation. The argument of the Senator was that, while he was opposed to the holding of the Philippines, he had now become convinced it would be necessary to hold the island of Luzon. He told the President it would be to the advantage of the Government to dispose of all of the group except Luzon and that it would be the better plan to have several purchasers for the group. In other words, he would avoid all possible complications by letting Germany, England, France, Japan and Russia into the gigantic auction sale.

When the peace protocol was negotiated by Cambon and the President the administration's idea involved nothing more than the acquisition of Luzon. Since then the expansionist sentiment has grown rapidly in popular favor. The President may be only testing public opinion by giving certain gentlemen the impression that he favors the sale of all the islands except Luzon, or he may actually favor this disposition of the Philippine question. If seriously advocated the proposition will be hotly opposed by many Republicans and Democrats of influence.

POINT FOR PICQUART.

Court of Cassation Orders His Trial to Be Suspended.

The Paris Court of Cassation has indorsed M. Atthalin's report favoring the suspension of Col. Picquart's court martial. M. Atthalin is a well-known barrister, who was appointed by the court to report to it the proper procedure with reference to the preference of the court martial of Picquart or the revision of the case of Dreyfus. The trial of Col. Picquart by court martial had been ordered by Gen. Zurlinden, military governor of Paris.

Public feeling was strong against such action by Gen. Zurlinden, inasmuch as it would prevent Col. Picquart's testifying before the Court of Cassation, and it was known his testimony would be favorable to Captain Dreyfus. The decision by this court to check the court martial of Col. Picquart is a triumph for French civil authority.

TRADE WITH CHINA.

Consul Wildman's Survey of Economic Conditions.

Dewey's victory has already had a good effect on Chinese commercial interests, according to a report received at the State Department from Consul General Williams at Hong Kong, who says regarding American trade in the East, that a careful survey reveals two facts—first, a general, permanent increase of trade; second, unusual activity in mercantile circles, owing to the great demands made by the large American squadron and army. Every steamer and ship from America brings cargoes of American goods. While their ultimate destination is Manila they are handled by European firms in Honk Kong and come before the public in such imposing quantities that at first curiosity is aroused and demand follows. Our fleet, it is estimated, left in Hong Kong over $2,000,000 gold during the war.

FOR MANILA VIA THE SUEZ.

Expedition of Three Regiments Will Soon Leave New York.

The next regiments to start for Manila will embark at New York about the end of this month, and will go through the Suez canal, unless present plans fail. This expedition will consist of three regiments of regular infantry, distributed between two of the largest converted transports owned by the Government, with perhaps a convoy of two warships.

The decision to use New York as the point of embarkation instead of San Francisco was reached after a careful review of a number of considerations, chief among which was the urgency for haste. At the present time the Government is wholly without available transports in the Pacific ocean to meet the emergency. The three regiments of regulars have not yet been selected, but will come from New York State and Atlantic garrisons.

Gold from Maria Teresa.

The safe of the Spanish cruiser Maria Teresa, which has lain for some time in the Norfolk navy yard, has been opened, and found to contain bags of Spanish and American gold and silver coin. It is estimated that the value of the treasure will reach $75,000. The money will be turned over to the proper officials, and the safe will be sent to the National Museum at Washington.

Convict Labor on Roads.

Martin Dodge, chief of the division of road inquiry of the Agricultural Department, is making an investigation to learn whether convict labor can be made available for the improvement of roads. It is thought the convicts might profitably make brick or prepare other material that could be used by free laborers in the construction of model roads.

WORK OF CONGRESS.

THE WEEK'S DOINGS IN SENATE AND HOUSE.

A Comprehensive Digest of the Proceedings in the Legislative Chambers at Washington—Matters that Concern the People.

In the House on Tuesday Mr. Cannon, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, reported the urgent deficiency bill for the army and navy. The President sent to the House the report of the Hawaiian commission, and Mr. Hitt, chairman of the committee, introduced a bill in connection with the consideration of it, the whole matter being referred to the Committee on Territories. At 12:30 the House adjourned out of respect to the late T. J. Northway of Ohio and W. F. Love of Mississippi. In the Senate Mr. Hale offered a bill for the erection of a monument to the officers and sailors who lost their lives by the explosion of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor. Resolutions from the Legislature of Vermont were read requesting that Rear Admiral Dewey be made admiral and that Captain Clark, commander of the Oregon, be given such rank as his merits demand. Mr. Vest offered a resolution objecting to the proposed colonial system and reciting that the Government should acquire only coaling stations in the orient, unless it shall be the purpose of the United States to organize the far-off possessions into territories, and ultimately to be admitted as States. The President sent a large number of nominations to the Senate, but they were all recess appointments with the exception of Powell Clayton of Arkansas, whose rank has been raised to ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Mexico, Senor Romero having announced that his Government had conferred that distinction upon him. Mr. Culom introduced a bill to provide for the territory of Hawaii. A brief discussion of the navigation laws was precipitated by the consideration of a bill amending those laws by the addition of a provision that foreign built vessels wrecked in the United States purchased by citizens of this country and repaired to the extent of three-fourths of their value shall be subject to forfeiture if they engage subsequently in the coastwise trade of the United States. It was made a special order for Monday.

In the House on Wednesday the anti-scalping bill passed by a vote of 119 to 101. In the Senate no business was transacted in open session. A few minutes after the Senate convened it went into executive session. At 2:15 business in open session was resumed, the death of Representatives Northway of Ohio and Love of Mississippi was announced and the Senate adjourned as a mark of respect to their memory.

On Thursday the Senate held a short session and adjourned until Monday, after making the Nicaraguan Canal bill the unfinished business before that body. Mr. Morgan called up the measure, whereupon Mr. Pettigrew moved to adjourn. This motion failed—13 yeas to 42 nays—and the bill was brought forward. Adjournment was immediately taken. During the session Mr. Vest stated his opposition to the hurried manner of passing pension bills in the Senate, and gave notice that he would insist upon a quorum being present when pension bills were being acted upon. At the other end of the capitol the general deficiency appropriation bill was passed, and the House adjourned until Monday.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

There are four Smiths in the present Congress, and there will be five in the next. Four of them are Republicans and three come from the State of Michigan. The only Democratic Smith is David Highbaugh Smith of Hodgensville, Larne County, Ky., who represents the district in which Abraham Lincoln was born.

-:—:-

Mrs. Dominis of Honolulu, formerly queen of the Hawaiian Islands, arrived in Washington from San Francisco. She comes to present a claim to Congress through the Secretary of State for the crown lands in the Hawaiian Islands, which are said to be valued at $4,000,000 and to produce an annual revenue of $160,000.

-:—:-

Gen. Garcia and his Cuban associates are pleased with the President's message, and declare that his references to Cuban independence are in effect, if not in words, a recognition of the republic. It is doubtful, however, whether the President intended that such a construction should be placed upon his words.

-:—:-

A communication received at the State Department from the consuls general at Berlin and Frankfort places the total value of all exports from Germany to the United States for the quarter ending Sept. 30 at $19,789,007, an increase over the same period of 1897 of $5,110,093.

-:—:-

The monthly statement of the director of the mint shows the total coinage at the United States mints during November, 1898, was $7,845,910, of which $5,006,700 was gold, $2,755,250 was silver and $83,960 minor coins. The standard dollars coined amounted to $1,402,000.

-:—:-

Bishop Hurst of the Methodist Church returns to Washington from a tour of the Pennsylvania cities, with assurances of contributions of $1,000,000 from the rich Methodists of that State for the American university in this city.

-:—:-

The President did not offer a plan for a government in the Philippines in his message, simply because he desires first to ascertain how far the people are capable of self-government.

-:—:-

The Secretary of the Navy has added to the ornaments of his office the figurehead of the cruiser Cristobal Colon, which was destroyed in the battle off Santiago.

-:—:-

A canvass of the Republican Senators discloses only two votes on that side against the ratification of the Paris treaty, those of Messrs. Hale and Morrill.

-:—:-

Mr. Simon, the new Senator from Oregon, is the smallest man in Congress—smaller than Gen. Wheeler and Senator Wilson, who weighs only 96 pounds.

-:—:-

Senator Mason announces that he intends to devote his entire energies at this session of Congress to the passage of the postal savings bank bill.

-:—:-

The ordnance department of the army has awarded a contract aggregating about $400,000 for 10,000 rounds of ammunition.

-:—:-

There were 546,852 visitors to the congressional library in Washington during the last fiscal year.

ADDRESS TO FARMERS

W. D. HOARD TALKS TO NATIONAL CONGRESS.

Wisconsin's Ex-Governor, in His Annual Address, Dwells on the Intellectual and Business Sides of Agriculture—Farm Education a Necessity.

Ex-Gov. Hoard of Wisconsin, president of the Farmers' National Congress, in his annual address to that body at Fort Worth, said:

Our agriculture is becoming nationalistic. This farmers' congress is one of the proofs of this assertion. We are no longer a loosely joined band of States, "discordant, belligerent." "Thank God, we are coming to see each other "face to face." We are becoming cemented by railroads, navigable rivers, interchangeable products, and a more general commingling of our people. National legislation is taking on thought of this kind in the establishing of experiment stations, the enactment of laws for the better protection of agricultural products against the dishonest greed of men who would adulterate and counterfeit.

We are just beginning to feel as a people that agriculture is an intellectual as well as a manual pursuit; that from the humblest tenant to the lordliest ranchman progress and profit depend on mental comprehension of the principles involved, and an energetic obedience to that knowledge. Comprehension means intellect, obedience means business. Some men are all intellect and no work; others all work and no intellect. The true farmer unites both. He is both a student and a "doer of the word."

Some of the questions for this farmers' congress to ask itself are: What can we do in an organized way to get the farmers of this continent to see the necessity of more intellect on the farm? In other words, what can we do to promote farm education? What can this congress do to promote wise legislation in the State and national legislatures to this end? What can this congress do as a great force to arrest the tendency of the American farmer to destroy the natural fertility of his farm? What can we do to arouse public opinion and the great educational forces of the country to the importance of teaching the elements of agriculture in the primary schools of the land?

Our present system of agricultural education is an image with a head of brass, a body of iron and feet of clay. We are directing all our energies to the head and not the feet. Our common schools recruit the academy, the college and the university, and they, in turn, recruit every profession but farming. Our young men flee to the towns and cities because we have educated them to do so. Nearly every European country is putting forth strenuous efforts to stop this tendency by teaching the elements of scientific agriculture in the public schools. It can be done as easily as the teaching of the elements of scientific arithmetic, or chemistry, or philosophy. A great host of farmers who were deprived of such teaching now find themselves barred from an understanding of much agricultural literature. As a consequence they turn from the agricultural college, the bulletin of the experiment station and the farm paper, which is really worth everything to them.

Like all other lines of human thought and action, the American farmer and his farm are going through a process of evolution. The manufacturer feels it, and his capital and enterprise can hardly keep pace with coming changes; statesmanship feels it, for new and difficult problems of government constantly present themselves, and how to keep center and circumference in harmonizing growth is the problem of the day. The railroad magnate feels it and must bow to it. What is the subtle power that is so mysteriously leavening the whole lump? It is growth of knowledge among the people. Heretofore our vision has been directed almost wholly to the price we were to receive for our products. The present tide of evolution bears us in another direction. We cannot control prices; the market end of the question is beyond the individual reach or modification of any farmer. What can he do, what must he do, to increase his profit, for on that hangs his prosperity? This must he do: He must realize that he is no longer a crude producer; he is a manufacturer. He must invoke science, invention, better system, more thorough organization among his fellow farmers, more exhaustive study of the underlying principles of his business, improved methods, everything he can lay hold of, to contribute to a reduction of the cost of production.

He is subject to the same economic laws as is every other manufacturer. The world declares it will have cheap food and clothing, for this is the humane order of our civilization. The American farmer is in the forefront of a merciless competition, for from the soil must come primarily all the food and clothing. He must furnish as good as the best or he will lose the market. He must do this at a living cost and keep up the fertility of the soil, or he and his farm will both perish by the way. The demands of modern civilization are expensive. It costs more to live, educate his children and be a man among men than it did his father fifty years ago. There is but one road out of the difficulty as I can see. He must put more thought into this question of the cost of production. Heretofore the cry has been more land, until the farm has become bigger than the farmer. This makes expensive farming. The necessities of the hour say make the farmer bigger than the farm.

The Farmers' National Congress is needed as an organized body of opinion to promote as best it can national legislation in support of the Department of Agriculture. Our present Secretary of Agriculture is doing what he can to introduce American food products into foreign markets and promote their consumption. That department should have the authority and means to employ, under its own direction, commercial agents in every food market in the world. Denmark sends its agents to England to receive, guard and look after its shipments of butter and bacon. Canada is doing the same. There is no reason better than traditional abstraction why the United States should not show the same good business sense. Besides, there is a great trade awaiting us at our very doors in the sister republics of the southern part of this continent. Can we say or do anything here which will move our national legislature into work of a practical character, in the way of mail subsidies to a line of American ships sailing direct from southern ports to South American ports? I hope we can. It is a reproach to the practical statesmanship of the American people that something has not been done of this character.

This congress can do something in the way of aiding the greater efficiency of the State experimental stations, some of which are hardly more than lodging-houses for politicians. It can stand up and rebuke, in no measured tones, the prostitution of agricultural necessities and progress to political favoritism. It can and should demand of the national government the taxation to extinction of all counterfeit food products. An imitation is a counterfeit, and a counterfeit is a fraud, and should have no rights before the law as against an honest product of the farm. No matter how many hired chemists assert to the contrary, counterfeit food products are a menace to the health of the public and the prosperity of the farmer and the nation.

Telegraphic Brevities.

Jesse J. Jones, postmaster at Morganfield, Ky., expired of heart trouble.

Gen. Butterfield and Capt. Mahan favor a military system of government for Porto Rico and the Philippines.

The world's corn crop approximates 2,000,000,000 bushels annually, of which America produces 82 per cent.

The United States collier Abarondo, after coaling the Oregon and Iowa at Bahia, Brazil, has gone to St. Thomas.

Gen. Garcia and his associates have decided to ask the Government to guarantee pay for the Cuban army, so it may disband.

Dealers in Denmark are complaining of the impurities in the corn shipped there from Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

The insurrection which is said to be spreading in the Visayas Islands is reported from Spanish sources to be against the Americans.

RECORD OF THE WEEK

INDIANA INCIDENTS TERSELY TOLD.

Value of Indiana Property—Pleasant Lake Bank Plundered by Thieves—Woman Convicted of Murder—Eight Railway Employes Injured.

The State Auditor has completed the compilation of the returns from county auditors, showing the value placed on all kinds of property by county and township assessors this year. The totals are as follows: Value of land, $453,106,083; improvements on lands, $89,181,578; value of lots, $151,351,801; improvements on lots, $167,364,133; personal, $289,364,483; total valuation, $1,149,131,678. As compared with 1897, the value placed on lands shows a decrease of $321,050; the value placed on improvements on lands, an increase of $3,964,967; the value placed on lots, an increase of $13,581,000; the value of improvements on lots, an increase of $4,471,744; the value placed on personal property, an increase of $10,739,500. A comparison of the totals for the two years shows an increase on the whole of $20,309,792. These figures do not include the assessments on railroads and other corporations by the State Board of Tax Commissioners.

Bank Is Robbed.

The private bank of Chadwick, Rausburg & Co. at Pleasant Lake was robbed on a recent night of over $1,000. Five men drove into the town at 2 o'clock in the morning, broke open the back door, wrapped the night watchman in a blanket and tied him to a post. Three of them then turned their attention to the safe and the others looted the company's store, where the bank is situated. At the second charge the safe was blown into a hundred pieces and the mammoth door was hurled through the window and across the street in front. One thousand dollars of the bankers' money, the special deposits amounting to several hundred dollars and the postmaster's money and stamps were taken from the safe. Everything of value about the store was loaded into the wagon. The robbers drove north and escaped.

Life in Prison for a Woman.

At Frankfort, Mrs. Sarah Shenkenberger, charged with poisoning her daughter-in-law, has been declared guilty by a jury and sentenced to life imprisonment. The murdered girl eloped with Edward Shenkenberger five years ago. They lived in various cities and returned to Frankfort last summer. The young wife was sick and taken to her mother-in-law. She died and her stomach being examined arsenic was found in large quantities.

Rear-End Collision.

The second and third sections of Baltimore and Ohio freight train No. 98 were wrecked at Walkerton. Eight trainmen were seriously injured. Conductor Chas. Thomas was injured internally and both legs were cut off at the knee. He cannot recover. Two engines were completely demolished and the third derailed.

Within Our Borders.

Forest fires caused much damage in Posey County.

On account of diphtheria the Sheridan schools were closed.

The State Bank of Jonesboro has gone into voluntary liquidation.

The Sternes woolen mills at Peru, which have been closed for ten years, will be reopened.

The last election cost Grant County $4,132.19, an average slightly in excess of 37c per vote.

Garrison Brothers' elevator and 6,000 bushels of grain were burned at Converse. Loss $7,000.

Alonzo Colbert, aged 50, was instantly killed in the Washington coal mine by falling slate.

At Michigan City, Ernest Wills, member of the 161st Indiana, was arrested for desertion.

The Illinois Smelting and Refining Company of Chicago will locate its factory at Hartford City.

At La Grange, George L. Rowe, a retired merchant, was found dead in bed of heart disease.

Mrs. Ellis Pearson committed suicide by drinking two ounces of ammonia. Her mind was unbalanced.

Andrew Comstock, president of the G. H. Hammond Beef Company of Hammond, died at Providence, R. I.

While scrubbing a floor in Washington Miss Anna Boyd ran a splinter into her finger. She is dead of lockjaw.

The corner stone for the new Odd Fellows' Home at Greensburg will be laid next May, and the dedication is set for the ensuing November.

Mrs. Lotta Penketh was awarded $4,000 damages for the loss of her left heel, which was taken off last summer on a street crossing in Anderson.

William Edson, Charles P. Briggs, Geo. Moore and James Ryan, all held in the Vincennes jail charged with grand larceny, made good their escape.

The proposition to form a cement trust in southern Indiana, all the mills to sell their product through a Louisville, Ky., agency, is said to have been abandoned.

Rev. Dr. H. L. Vannuys, whose pastorate in the Goshen First Presbyterian Church surpasses in time that of any other pastor in the State, preached the forty-sixth anniversary sermon of his pastorate.

The Consolidated Coal Company, composed of capitalists from Terre Haute and Chicago, have begun prospecting near Jackson Hill, where they have an option on a large body of coal land. They will erect two plants.

The celebrated Monroe City riot case was ended when the jury returned a verdict against Jacob Tucker, Joseph A. Barnett, Jacob O. Hicks and John Bell, imposing a fine of $100 upon each, and acquitting Dennis P. Coonrod, W. H. Harrison, James Coonrod and James Edwards.

Mrs. Kate Willard, wife of Hon. J. H. Willard of Bedford, died of uremic poisoning after an illness of two weeks.

A mysterious shooting occurred at Indianapolis. May Lindeman, the wife of Harry Lindeman, a young man of 19 years, was found dead, shot through her heart. Lindeman had rushed out of the room, shot in the knee. Detectives hurried to the house and arrested Lindeman, accusing him of the murder of his wife. He denied guilt, and said his wife had shot him and then herself. His wife's parents told the detectives of threats he had made of taking his wife's life.

At Kokomo, Perry Burns, a farmer, fatally shot Frank Mehan, a traveling salesman, through the heart with a rifle. Mehan was a boarder at the Burns home. Burns surrendered to the officers. Jealousy was the cause of the shooting.

Jamison & Heidrich of Peoria, Ill., have purchased from Danielson & Ellingson of Hamlet 1,180 acres of land for $30,500. It is proposed to establish a beet sugar factory if the coming Indiana Legislature passes a bounty law. Sugar beets testing 22.9 per cent sugar were grown on this land last year. Jamison & Heidrich have a further option on 1,800 acres owned by the same firm, and, it is said, on several thousand acres of individual tracts.

UGLY HANDS.

The roughened hands that never shirked,
The plain brown hands that planned and worked,
Are folded now in peace and rest
Upon the wayworn, weary breast.

O'er ivory keys they never strayed;
Embroidery, lace, they never made—
Poor tired hands! On one of them
Flashed never brilliant, shining gem.

They cooked and washed, they scrubbed and mended,
Unto the children fondly tended;
They soothed the head that ached and beat
And gently bathed the fevered feet.

They gladly toiled from morn till night
That they might other hands keep white
And tried so hard to roses spread
Adown the path for loved ones' tread.

They were so tender, quite, we
Ne'r noticed how unselfishly
They clasped each across with trust and prayer
And burdens bore more than their share.

Aye, ugly, coarse, unlovely quite,
They look to our defective sight;
But, to their missions dutiful,
In God's eyes they are beautiful.
—New Orleans Picayune.

NED'S DISCOVERY.

"Don't be discouraged, Ned," she pleaded, in a soft, cooing voice, putting up both hands to touch his sad, pale face. "I dreamed of you last night—dreamed that you were well, happy and successful. I stood at the door of a strange little house, looking out over a wild, pleasant country—oh! for miles and miles I could see nothing but hills and trees; no living creature in sight excepting your busy, patient self, dipping water from a hollow among the rocks, and every time you looked up and saw me standing there you smiled such a brave, bright smile that I knew you were well and happy. And all the while——"

Here she paused suddenly, and the young man, looked down into her face, saw that she blushed deeply and dropped her eyes.

"What is it, dear? tell me what else you dreamed. What troubles you?"

"Nothing," she answered shyly. Only you will think I am foolish to be repeating these things to you."

"Nothing is foolish that you choose to do or say, dear," the young man said, trying to speak cheerfully. "You are my comforter; I never know whether I am better or worse, until your precious face looks in upon me; then I am always better. Now, go on, and tell me the rest of your dream."

But Sibyl blushed again, and stood winding the ends of her bonnet-strings around her plump fingers. She felt shy about telling him that in her dream little children played about her feet, two soft baby arms circled her neck, and a dimpled face nestled close against her ear.

"And yet he ought to know it," she thought to herself, "for all the old women say it is a sign of good luck to dream of children—specially a baby."

"Where was the house you saw?" he asked, looking at her curiously, with something like a smile softening the lines of pain and weariness about his mouth; for Edward Edwards had been sick for a year, and sickness, to a strong man is a grevious affliction. He had been exposed all night to alternate fire and flood at the time the Marion house on the hill burned down; had saved the life of the only son and heir, at the risk of his own, the result of which was a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism, which had settled into a chronic form, complicated with a tendancy to consumption, so the doctors said.

His broad, full chest and shoulders grew thin and angular; his cheeks hollowed; his form bent; a slight persistent cough backed at his lungs; his strong, supple joints were stiff and terribly painful, and the kind-hearted neighbors said, "Poor Ned," and shook their heads sadly, but no one expected him to live until winter came again.

"I do not know where the house was," said Sibyl, answering his question; "but it must have been a long way off. It was not at all like this place."

"Was it like the woods down in Maine? You know I was down there one winter logging; and since I have been chained to this room, I have dreamed often of the camp in the forest, and the wind among the pines."

"Perhaps," she answered, wise as an oracle, "it was somewhere among mountains, for I could see such a long way; and now, good-night, for I must go. Remember you are to write to me when you have found that wonderful land, else I shall fret," and laughingly lightly, away she ran, leaving him still standing by the window, whence he watched her tiny figure tripping swiftly across the field, swinging the basket in which she had brought his daily custard and baked apple.

She was nearly seventeen, but so small that everybody treated her like a child; even her father, grave Squire Rogers, often called her baby, and laughed at her queer whim in caring for Ned Edwards.

After she had flitted out of sight, the young man stood thinking. The vigorous climate of Maine would only hasten his death; was life worth prolonging in his present state? Would it kill him to travel?

While he debated thus, a farmer's lad nodded to him from the yard, and walked in.

"I am going out West next week, and so called to say good-by," he said, cheerfully.

"Going out to find John?"

"Yes. And if I like it as well as he does I shall stay."

"Say, Joe," the voice was suddenly resolute and decided, "I have five hundred dollars in the bank out here, and if you will take me with you I will divide even. Everybody has been good to me since I have been laid up here, and it has cost me little or nothing; I have no debts to pay, and if I die before we reach our journey's end you may have every dollar I have. Will you do it?"

"But are you able to travel?"

"Oh, hang it! I am as well able to travel as to sit here and mope. I'll risk my health, if you will take me."

And so next day, when Sibyl brought her basket of dainties, she found her patient fumbling clumsily at a valise and his few clothes.

Her quick small hands hurried to help him, and he told her what he was going to do.

Her eyes filled with tears as she looked up and said:

"Oh, I shall miss you so much! Are you sure you are able to go?"

"Quite sure," he answered, bravely, "and when you are married" (for it was no secret that Squire Rogers' daughter had expected to marry Judge Endicott's son) "you must come out into the wilds on your wedding trip, and see how well I am."

"I shall stay at home with papa," she answered, in a low tone, and the young man's heart sprang to his lips and begged and pleaded for a word—but his strong will denied it utterance.

He went away. The trip told fiercely upon his wasted frame, but youth, change of air and a naturally strong constitution were in his favor and they triumphed. An attack of fever and ague shook the rheumatism out of his joints and left him in the very depths of physical weakness, from which he climbed slowly.

Joe Davis found his brother John and settled down immediately to farming and raising sheep. But Ned went up to the mountains—to White Pine—to Treasure City, that, sown in a crevice of the monstrous hill, nestles safely more than eight thousand feet above the level of the sea.

From here he went "prospecting," and soon learned the surface indications, was sure he had found a "Lead." He went through with the legal formula for establishing his claim, and then commenced work. It was far up on an isolated mountain spur, and a half mile below him was the already famous Tricolor mine in full operation.

He had named his claim Sibyl's Dream, and though he tried to convince himself that he did not hope, his sleep was not so full of visions as his waking hours. Day after day he wrought with no result—the Sabbath came and he rested more from exhaustion, perhaps, than from any real regard for his Yankee training in church and Sunday-school.

In the early twilight Ned wandered out to look once more at his work. The excavation that, with much trouble, he had made was very slowly filling with water. He could see the treacherous liquid filtering between two shelving rocks and dripping down, down. He was discouraged. To attempt to work in that wet place meant cold, fever and all his old troubles returned. To bail it out would be a weary task, and endless as wearisome.

Too sick at heart to return to his poor cabin, Ned wandered down to the "Tricolor" and heard a man just from the "Eberhardt" telling wonderful stories of "brick making" going on there.

"If we had ever so small a water-course here," said one of the proprietors, gloomily, "it would be worth——"

"How much?" asked Ned.

The man shrugged his shoulders.

"Ten thousand dollars?" was the reply. "I believe there is plenty of water up yonder, but I have no time to hunt for it, and the boys are all silver mad."

"What would you give, though, for a good spring less than a mile from here?" asked Yankee Ned, for he remembered how the water crept out through the rocks, and he had found a spring.

The man looked sharply at the young fellow with his pale, cadaverous face, and large, bony hands, and said, slowly:

"You look as though you had pluck and common sense. Go ahead, and if you can find as good a water course as they have down in the 'Yellow Jacket,' I'll give you a hundred thousand dollars in 'Tricolor' stock, or fifty thousand in solid silver bricks."

There was plenty of work to do in digging and tubing and bringing the slender water course across the intervening gulches, but the fountain head was found and success was sure.

* * * * * * *

The canvas walls of the old cabin disappeared several years ago, but Treasure City is still a thriving place, and one of the prettiest nooks in town is known as Sibyl's Dream.

The Horse in Battle.

A veteran cavalry horse partakes of the hopes and fears of battle just the same as his rider. As the column swings into line and waits, the horse grows nervous over the waiting. If the wait is spun out, he will tremble and sweat and grow apprehensive. If he has been six months in service he knows every bugle call. As the call comes to advance the rider can feel him working at the bit with his tongue to get it between his teeth. As he moves out he will either seek to get on faster than he should or bolt. He cannot bolt, however. The lines will carry him forward, and after a minute he will grip, lay back his ears, and one can feel his sudden resolve to brave the worst and have done with it as soon as possible.

A man seldom cries out when hit in the turmoil of battle. It is the same with a horse. Five troopers out of six, when struck with a bullet, are out of their saddles within a minute. If hit in the breast or shoulder, up go their hands and they get a heavy fall; if in the leg or foot or arm, they fall forward and roll off. Even with a foot cut off by a jagged piece of shell a horse will not drop. It is only when shot through the head or heart that he comes down. He may be fatally wounded, but hobbles out of the fight to right or left, and stands with drooping head until loss of blood brings him down. The horse that loses his rider and is unwounded himself will continue to run with his set of fours until some movement throws him out. Then he goes galloping here and there, neighing with fear and alarm, but he will not leave the field. In his racing about he may get among the dead and wounded, but he will dodge them if possible, and, in any case, leap over them. When he has come upon three or four other riderless steeds, they fall in and keep together, as if for mutual protection, and the "rally" on the bugle may bring the whole of them into ranks in a body.—Buffalo Horse World.

AERIAL WARSHIPS FOR UNCLE SAM.

Appropriation of $25,000 to Experiment with Flying Machines.

The Board of Ordnance and Fortification, Washington, has decided to institute an investigation of the possibilities of flying machines for reconnoitring purposes and as engines of destruction in time of war.

At the last meeting of the board $25,000 of the fund at the disposal of the board was appropriated for the purpose of experimenting.

So impressed were the United States authorities with the advantages which might result from the employment of air machines during the operations of the late war that Secretaries Long and Alger last summer selected a committee to report upon the subject. This fact is not generally known. The commission made a favorable report upon the desirability of experimentation.

Professor Langley of the Smithsonian Institution, the inventor of the aeroplane appeared before the board and gave his expert opinion in favor of experimentation. He explained the problems of aerostatics involved, the successful flight of his own invention, and the progress made in Germany and France, where he went last summer to investigate and study the inventions of others working along similar lines.

Professor Langley is extremely conservative, but he is confident of the ultimate success of a practical flying machine.

Mr. Gandall's Remarkable Self-Control.

Frank G. Gandall has lived in Minneapolis some time, but not until about two months ago did he discover his ability to perform unusual things.

It is a well-known principle of physiology that in the light the pupils of the eyes contract and in the dark they dilate. Gandall can oppose nature by dilating his pupils in the light and contracting them in the dark. Or he can perform this phenomenon with one eye and leave the other in a natural state.

Another pastime of this man is to put needles through any part of his body. It matters not if it be an artery or vein. The hole caused immediately closes up and not a drop of blood issues.

Another feature of which this phenomenal man speaks proudly is his ability to put any part of his body into the cataleptic state. For instance, he can cause his arm to become so rigid that two men cannot bend it. During his state of complete catalepsy he is in a semi-conscious condition.

Grandall's pranks with his heart are sufficient to make the ordinary man shudder. While sitting in a chair he can cause his heart to beat alternately slow and fast. Then with a mighty effort he can make the vital organ stop for an instant. This cannot be verified by listening to the heart beat, for the gurgling sound caused drowns the beat. However, by feeling his pulse the phenomenon can be fully appreciated.

Grandall is twenty-four years old and is well known in the city. His wonderful freaks of nature are interesting to the medical profession, before a number of whom he has exhibited himself.—St. Paul Globe.

Negro's Mind a Mystery.

The case of Merritt Rose, a colored inmate of the Binghampton (N. Y.) State Hospital, is attracting the attention of the medical fraternity throughout the state, and several doctors from New York city have called to see him.

Rose is an uneducated colored man, who was born in the South, and went to Binghampton from New York, where he was employed around the docks. He could not read nor write, and arithmetic was a sealed book to him.

He led a shiftless life, and, becoming mentally unsound, was committed to the hospital.

There, after a short time he developed a marvellous capacity for figures. Given a year and the day of the month of that year, he would immediately tell the day of the week. He would go forward to 1901 and backward to 1841. From this he progressed to the solving of the most complex problems, and finally reached a point where he could recite historical events, giving their dates correctly.

Dr. William A. White became interested and exhibited him before the Binghampton Academy of Medicine.

The only persons who attempt a solution of the mystery are the Theosophists, who say that the disembodied spirit of some educated person occupies the body of the negro.

A Postal Joke.

A West Sider recently approached a certain postoffice official. His face was serious; so was his voice.

"Say," he said, "I don't think it's right for you to make your letter carriers do double duty."

"What do you mean?" exclaimed the official.

"Why, we've got a carrier over our way who is at it night and day."

"At what?"

"Why, he carries mails all day, and then has an extra male to carry at night."

The official looked puzzled.

"That's queer," he said; "I'll inquire into it." Then his face brightened up.

"Hold on," he cried; "what does that night mail weigh?"

"About nine pounds," said the citizen, with a hoarse chuckle.

The official grinned.

"Guess he'll have to stand it," he said: "it's just a short route, you know."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Conjuror Caught.

Mr. Maskelyne, the London conjuror, has been compelled by the courts to make good his offer of $2,500 to any one who could imitate successfully his box trick. He had made the offer with impunity for years in his speech introducing the trick, but, when two young clerks took it up, refused to pay.

One swallow will do away with at least 6,000 flies a day.

ABDICATION OF A CATTLE KING.

GILLETT.

Grant Gillett, the Most Spectacular Ranchman of the Western Prairies—Made $500,000 in Three Years and Left Four Times That Indebtedness.

When staid business men, shrewd commission house owners, conservative bankers and investors can be induced to lend their money and name to the schemes of a man of only 31 years old, who three years ago was a farm boy, and find that they are out nearly $1,000,000, there is reason for wonder. Such has been the experience of some of the best business men in the West in connection with the cattle king, Grant Gordon Gillett. His spectacular career and the meteoric methods which marked his history are among the striking incidents of the West, and he will rank with Coal Oil Johnny and other plungers of financial record.

Forty years ago a young Englishman came to the prairies of central Kansas and settled on the rich Lyon Creek bottoms. His name was James A. Gillett, and he married, raised a family of five children, grew wealthy, and was one of the county's officers. On his place the Rock Island started the town of Woodbine, and he became a local nabob. Ten years ago he died. A few months later a woman came from England and claimed the estate for herself and daughter, saying that he had married her in his youth, and that he deserted her when he came to this country. There was a lawsuit and a compromise; then the remainder of the estate was divided among the children of the Kansas wife and the widow.

Grant, the youngest child, took his money, and in two years had spent it all. He fell in love with the pretty operator at the station and they were married, he securing a position as station agent in a little town in Marion County, while his wife was operator. One day he disappeared, and it was said that he had defrauded a grain dealer with cars overweighed. In a year he was back, the matter was fixed up, and he went to work on his mother's farm. His wife left him, and he secured a divorce, marrying the village schoolmistress, Amanda Baumbaugh, the daughter of a River Brethren farmer, fifteen miles away.

Things went along quietly until three years ago, when stories began to circulate that Grant Gillett was getting rich out of cattle. He came to the county seat one day and went to a number of business men and showed them his bank book—there was a balance of $40,000. It surprised them, and he was the talk of the county. He showed his bank book to everybody, and bragged a great deal about the money he was making.

He had done this: He went down to Texas and contracted for 5,000 head of feeders. Then he went to Kansas City and borrowed the money to buy them; he got it, shipped them north and sold them to farmers in small bunches. Cattle were taking the first spurt upward, and before he knew it he had made $5 to $8 a head on them, and had started on a career of plunging.

Established as "Cattle King."

His next step was to buy 10,000 head in a bunch. When it came time to go after them he did not allow his men to do it, but went in person. He organized among the cattlemen on his ranch a band of thirty pieces and dressed the men in cowboy costume. On the day that he started for the cattle he took a party of friends in a special car, took the band in another, serenaded the neighbors, and then gave orders for the train to start on its triumphant tour. Arrived in Fort Worth he went to the hotel, paid all the bills and had the band play in the rotunda. He marched with them and frequently ordered them to play new tunes. The band was his wife's idea. She is very fond of music, and when the proposition was made to her to have the cowboys play for the ranch she fell in with it heartily.

In person Gillett is a strong, athletic and bluff young man, with blue eyes, prominent gold-filled teeth and dressed in good style. He always attracted attention to himself on train or in depot. It was no uncommon thing for him to show his bank book to strangers on a train on the slightest provocation or without any provocation. He liked to make a show of his possessions, and had a number of diamonds that were used for pocket pieces. He brought the first chainless bicycle into Central Kansas, and was about to have a horseless carriage to ride from ranch to ranch. His home was the old farmhouse built by his father, but he added to it a large barn, the best in the county, acres of sheds, an elevator, and was about to open a bank in the little village. There is an empty building good enough for a town of 15,000 ready for it.

GILLETT'S RESIDENCE.

Gillett had a special love for making himself conspicuous around the railroad. Having been an employe on one, it came to him naturally. Sometimes he would meet a man on the train and made a deal of $50,000 in ten minutes; then turn over in his seat and go to sleep.

One day he was to start for Texas with some friends, and it was necessary to take a freight train for a short distance. They missed the train and the friends wanted to go home till the morrow. But he hired an engine and caboose and followed the freight until he caught it. Often he would hire an engine and ride with the engineer for miles where he wanted to go and make a deal. Last spring he invited the Governor of the State to be his guest and took him to Woodbine on a special train. There the party was entertained and driven in carriages until late in the afternoon. The day's pleasure cost him $200 or more, but it gave him an advertisement that was probably worth more than that to him.

As his business doubled up and he shipped trainloads of cattle he became ambitious to have something that would be an investment. He settled on life insurance, and, calling in agents, gave liberal orders for policies written on the tontine plan—twenty payments for the most part. His splendid physique made him an easy subject, and the companies were glad to get him. Last year he took out several policies, amounting to about $60,000, but that was too slow for him, and he last spring took out one for $10,000 in a lump; in the summer came another for $50,000; a few weeks ago one for

GILLETT'S BARN.

$25,000, and on the day he left for parts unknown he took $20,000 in accident insurance.

His methods were simple, almost notably so. He began well, and for two years met all his paper with exemplary promptness. Then began the consummation of his scheme to make wealth rapidly. It is a story that bears directly on the dangers of cattle paper investments when made without careful and full examination. Associated with him were his brothers-in-law, those of his wife's side and those of his sister's marriage. Then he took up one or two young men who had no visible means of support and made them apparently rich in a few months. One young man was a poor boy just out of a struggle to complete a law course in the State university. He sold him cattle and then bought them back again until he had made him worth $10,000. But he also has the young man's name on paper to the amount of $90,000. His relatives had the same blind faith in him, and they tried to keep pace with him in vain. They signed papers wherever he told them, and they often had the papers in blank when they signed them, and then Gillett filled them in and sold the paper to the commission men. One day he went to a firm in Kansas City and told them he had a buyer for $15,000 worth of stock. The firm went out in the yards and bought the cattle, loaded them aboard the cars and took a mortgage from Gillett for the whole amount. He took the cattle to Alma, Kan., and sold them to the customer and put the money in his pocket instead of sending it to the commission men. The firm will take the stock and leave the feeder without a dollar.

GILLETT'S FAMOUS COWBOY BAND.

What a Beautiful System!

Gillett used to buy big droves of cattle, several thousand head at a time. He invariably gave a mortgage for the purchase price, and then took the herd to Woodbine to split them up into small droves for the little feeders who had small lots of corn and roughness. The farmers flocked around him as if he were a god, and hung on his words. He would step up to one and say, "Well, what do you want here?" "Why, Mr. Gillett, I thought I would look to see if you have anything that I want." "Look then; I have no time to talk to you," and he would leave to see another customer. In that way he sold the very cattle he wanted to and at his own price, usually more than the farmer would have paid anywhere else. The farmer paid $2 to $5 a head more than Grant did for the stock, and the theory was that he would feed them and sell them at a good profit in the spring. He would give his note to Gillett, and it was supposed that Gillett would send the note to take the place of the one that he had given on the whole lot of cattle. Often he "overlooked" this, and of late seems to have done so intentionally, for there are cattle mortgaged five deep. One bunch of cows in the Indian Territory is mortgaged for $175 a head in this way.

A farmer came rushing into the courthouse a few days after the failure and called for the sheriff. "I want help," he cried. "A lot of men are out at my place taking off my cattle—300 head that I have given my notes for, and which I can pay when they are due. I have fed them all the fall, and it will ruin me if they take them from me." A search was made for the mortgage that the men claimed was on record and it was there. The farmer was holding the bag, and had been feeding some one else's cattle all the fall.

The marvelous feature about his character is not that he was able to fool the farmers of his own country, who had known of the fine standing of his family and had faith in his success. It was that he could borrow money from the conservative business men of Kansas City, St. Louis and other Western cattle centers without any investigation that amounted to a complete showing of his real standing.

Resourceful Under Difficulties.

He was hard pressed for the first time last spring, but it made no difference in his living. He hired more men and began the erection of new buildings. One day he was called on to pay $100,000 in a week. He went to Denver and then to Kansas City, to Chicago and to St. Louis, as fast as special trains could carry him, and in the end did what he wanted to do—raised enough to tide him over his trouble. But right on top of that came the famous Stribbling deal. This was one of the most notable deals on the range in the cattle history of the West. Gillett formed a plan for the purchase of all the cattle on the Stribbling ranch, including all of one brand. It was to take $300,000 to swing it, and in order to make sure the immense deal he paid down one-tenth of that sum—$30,000. The time of the option passed, and he could not make the raise, and at last he came to the final day and begged and pleaded in vain with the commission men to help him out. So he sat and watched the clock turn to noon and thought of the fortune that was slipping away from him in the ranch lots at Amarillo. The blow was the first he had received, but it was not to be the last, for things went from that to worse.

After this he tried the Northwest and made a trip to Oregon, where he arranged for another large herd—15,000 head. In this deal he managed to get together about the same amount that he had attempted to get on the other and placed the cattle where they would be fed, but he did not pay over to the commission men and the investors all of the notes that he got from the feeders. They are probably out in the hands of innocent parties, and must be paid dollar for dollar by somebody. How a growth of $2,000,000 or more could thus grow is easy to be seen. Surely it did grow, and there was a constantly piling up ball of mortgages in all the counties of central Kansas—when it got too large he had to drop it.

The extent to which Gillett dragged others down with him is remarkable. In his home county he and those of his family and people associated with him have on record over $2,000,000 worth of cattle paper unreleased. Much of this has been paid and not released, and other is blanket paper that will really amount to a duplication. But there is not less than $1,500,000 worth of paper there. Then there is the Oregon deal and the Oklahoma deals that will make the total not less than $2,000,000. There should be to settle for this at least 60,000 cattle, but it is going to be very lucky if there are 40,000 to be found, owing to the system of duplicating mortgages that he put in force. Gillett's own name is on over $1,000,000 worth in central Kansas, and no one knows how much elsewhere.

Kansas has had many meteoric careers in business and in politics, but Gillett has won the distinction of having made the most tremendous failure of them all—if not in the entire West—in his line of business. The splendor of his living, his nabob manners, the methods by which a raw country boy imposed on the keen business men who had been in the cattle traffic ten times as long as he, how he could, in spite of fast living and expenses that ran into hundreds of dollars a day, make a reputation that would allow him to borrow $2,000,000, is a marvel.

WHIPPING POST FOR ILLINOIS.

President of Humane Society Advocates Corporal Punishment.

John G. Shortall, president of the Illinois Humane Society, who believes in the efficacy of the whipping post as a reformatory agency for hoodlums, has been prominently identified with the humanitarians of the country for a number of years, having for more than twenty years been at the head of the Illinois Humane Society. He had also been president of the American Humane Society, which was organized at his suggestion at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1877. Mr. Shortall was born in Dublin, Ireland, Sept. 20, 1838, coming to America with his parents when a small boy and settling in New York. His parents died very soon afterward, and he began earning his own living in the service of the New York Tribune with Horace Greely. In 1854 he adopted the advice of the famous editor and came West, first entering the employment of the Illinois Central as a surveyor, and two years later engaging in the abstract business for himself. Mr. Shortall prospered in this branch of the real estate business, and was able to retire from active business in 1872. Since his retirement he has devoted himself mainly to charitable, educational and humanitarian work, devoting himself with enthusiasm to directing the Illinois Humane Society's affairs.

JOHN G. SHORTALL.

The Camel Can't Swim.

The camel is the only animal that cannot swim. The moment it loses its footing in a stream it turns over, and makes no effort to save itself from drowning.

When people become good to you, look out.

Some people are terribly stuck on themselves who have no reason to be.

PULSE OF THE PRESS

Chicago is still worried about what to do with its water. Why not wash it?—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

By means of his oscillator, Tesla can change a Chicago girl's kiss into a clap of thunder.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

It looks as if Picquart's enemies are about ready to select an island for his future residence.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Spanish bishop of Porto Rico, who resigned when his salary stopped, went on the principle of no pay no cure.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Oh, what a glorious opportunity for Prof. Norton! Let him go down and see what happened to the Maria Teresa.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Mr. Corbett can give Spain pointers on the art of fighting. Mr. Corbett can get licked and make a big profit on the job.—Washington Post.

According to Dr. Sternberg's diagnosis, the trouble in the army can be best cured by congressional appropriation in allopathic doses.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Nikola Tesla should either rein in his imagination or spur up his inventive genius. The distance between the two is becoming rather magnificent.—Kansas City Journal.

News reports say the Maria Teresa is stuck on Cat island in a bed of sand, and truth requires the statement that it was lack of sand that permitted her to drift there.—Philadelphia Times.

It would be easier to believe that Lord Beresford has agreed to pay Jockey Sloan $25,000 for his services next season if Sloan wasn't so anxious to have the figures published.—Boston Herald.

Seer or Crank?

The Keely motor must now be packed away with other monstrous conceptions of the human mind, like Symmes' Hole. Those who examine Mr. Keely's workshop, if such examination be permitted by his will, are likely to find nothing but involved mechanisms that lack the essential element of practicability.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

Many great inventions have resulted from trifles or accidents by patient students, who had seemingly exhausted every resource. Keely is therefore not to be ridiculed. His idea may seem chimerical now, but his purpose was beneficent and the time may come when posterity will call not him but his critics the foolish ones.—Galesburg Republican Register.

The difficulty with Keely was just this—that he made a wrong distribution of his abilities. If he had put as much energy and sheer power into perfecting his motor as he put into organizing his financial support, he might have thrown Tesla into the shade, and made Edison hunt cover. As it was, he only lacked one thing of being a great discoverer—the making of a great discovery.—Kansas City Journal.

But he worked on and died leaving his invention uncompleted. His partners in the enterprise hope that the Keely motor has been pushed to a point of development where it can be taken up by other hands and brains and advanced to practical working. Let it be hoped so; for science has done so much for the race that Americans look upon things once regarded as wild with imaginings as plausible and practicable.—St. Louis Republic.

The W. C. T. U. Temple.

The hard times and not the women are to blame, however, and the chances are that any organization of men would have been forced to throw up its hands long ago.—Peoria Transcript.

It is hardly surprising that women unaccustomed to handling large business enterprises should have become dismayed at the magnitude of the Temple scheme, but they might have drawn inspiration from the courage of Mrs. Carse instead of listening to the timid counsels of Lady Henry Somerset.—Minneapolis Tribune.

The action of the W. C. T. U. convention in dropping the Chicago Temple creates no great surprise. It was too big a scheme for that organization to undertake, and even if it had been successful, it has never yet been made clear how the cause of temperance for which the W. C. T. U. is working would have been benefited.—Bloomington Pantagraph.

That most women are confirmed hero worshipers is shown in the strife of the W. C. T. U. over the proposition to make the Women's Temple a monument to Miss Frances E. Willard. The sentiment which inspired the Temple contemplated the erection of a noble memorial to the cause for which many labored with equal head of the movement led a considerable portion of the workers to idolize the leader above the cause.—Springfield Journal.

North Carolina Race Riots.

It seems in North Carolina they want many negroes there to leave and also wish to prevent those outside from entering. This is like the Southern coon trap that caught them going and coming.—Philadelphia Times.

As to the outrage in Wilmington, it may be said that there was no plausible excuse for the revolution of Thursday. The white leaders had only to wait till March to come into power in the city government. Waiting so brief a period would not have brought disaster.—Indianapolis Journal.

The accounts of the wholesale and unprovoked murder of colored men in the South may well make an intelligent person reflect as to whether or not certain Southern States are a part of the American Union. For a few years there was less of this barbarism, but of late there has been a remarkable revival of it.—Philadelphia Press.

The whites, not the blacks, are the rulers of this country, North and South, East and West. That fact should have been established long ago, and is, we believe, well understood in every other State in the South except the unfortunate eastern portion of North Carolina, and when the terrible work of yesterday is done the fact will be thoroughly established there.—Nashville American.

The negroes in the South cannot stand against the whites when it comes to a question of physical force. They may outvote the whites in some States or localities, but in time their victories will surely be snatched away from them by the shotgun or rifle. Their only safety lies in abandoning the race issue and dividing in politics, as they naturally would if there were not two separate races living side by side.—Minneapolis Tribune.

Notes of Current Events.

Troops first sent to Cuba will be composed largely of regulars.

Massachusetts' official Republican majority for Wolcott for Governor is 83,246.

Agricultural help is obtainable in Mexico at from 25c to 50c a day (silver), according to locality.

A movement has been started in Georgia in honor of the memory of Miss Winnie Davis for establishing an industrial school for girls.

A party of seven gold hunters from California is reported to have been engulfed in quicksand recently, near Lake Bennett, Alaska.

OUR GOODS FOR YOUR CASH.

!!Slaughter Sale of Boots, Shoes and Rubbers!!

We have entirely too large a stock of Boots, Shoes, Felts, Mackinaw Sox and Rubbers. Therefore we are going to reduce our stock $3,000 in the next sixty days, and to do this we realize that we will have to "Slaughter Prices" and are prepared to do it.

Our Loss is Your Gain.

We can be of mutual benefit to each other in this way: "You need our goods, we need your cash." Let's dicker. Remember our entire stock is included in this sale.

"Some Money Saving Prices on Your Winter Foot Wear."

Sample No. 1. All our Men's Patent Leather and Enamel Shoes, coin and pointed toes, go at $2.00 the pair, former price $5.00 to $6.00.

Sample No. 2 All our very newest Patent Leather Shoes, the latest last and toes, go at $3.98, former price $5 00.

Sample No. 3 Our entire stock of Men's Box, Caribou, Willow, Titan and Russia Calf Shoes in black or tan shades, calf and kid lined, go at $3 95, former price $4 50.

Sample No. 4. Every pair of our $3.00 and $3.50 Winter Shoes in tan and black, go at $2.58.

Sample No 5. Men's Felt Boots and good high rubbers at $1.98 worth $2.25. Best Felt and Best Rubber the outfit for $2.35, worth $2.75. Best Knit Boot made with the genuine "Lambertville Rubbers" the original and only "Snag Proof" Rubbers made, go at $3 00, some stores ask $3.50. Rubber Boots $2.40. Non Snag's $3.00.

Sample No. 6. Men's French Kip, custom made "Walker Boots" go at $3 00 for single sole and $3 50 for double sole and tap. You could not get a better boot made to order for $5 00. High and low instep.

Boy's "Walker Boot" $2 50 for single sole, $2.75 for double sole and tap, same stock as the Men's.

Our $3.00 Kip Boot go at $2.50, Oil Grain $3.00 Boot for $2 50.

Boy's $2 25 Kip Boot for $1.75. Good Boy's Boot $1.50. Child's $1.25.

Sample No. 7. Ladies' warm lined and Felt Shoes, all Felt or Leather Foxed, six kinds in this lot at $1.38.

Sample No. 8. Ladies' warm house Slippers. Quilted, Fur Trimmed, the warmest, prettiest and most comfortable you have ever seen for 97c.

Our $1 50 line, handsome Juliets, Fur Trimmed, tan and black at $1.25.

Sample No. 9. 200 Pairs Ladies' "Common Sense" Hand Turned Shoes, go at $1.95, former price $3.00 to $3 50 Now is your chance to get a good Home Shoe, "Komfort for Korns," at less than the cost of manufacture.

Sample No. 10. 150 Pairs Misses' and Children's Winter Shoes, heavy and substantial at 75c and 98c, former price $1.50 to $2 00, sizes 8, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½ and 2. Better shoes for wear never were made.

Sample No. 11. The balance of our stock of the celebrated "Crack Proof" shoes for Misses, go at $1.25, former price $1 50. Ladies' and Boys' sizes $1.50, was $1.75.

Ask Your Neighbor About Them.

We mean every word of this advertisement, bring it with you and see for yourself. You will be kindly and courteously treated and we will appreciate your trade as no one else can

Our Motto: Good Quality, Hones Quantity;
Sell Cheap, Sell a Heap,
And Keep Everlastingly at it.

Bishop & Beidler,

(Raut & Co.'s Old Stand.)

Auburn, Ind.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...DECEMBER 15, 1898.

TICKLES US, ALSO.

The Waterloo Press of December 8th, says:

It is amusing as well as aggravating to see some of our exchanges take back and smooth over the vicious lies published about some of the republican candidates during the campaign, and we notice they usually publish more in trying to take back the former. If conscience continues to assert itself, it may prove a salutary lesson to those who have indulged in these disreputable methods of politics.

But the Press has not noticed the COURIER taking back anything, has it? All we said was true, and the Press knew it when it supported a man for high office that it knew to be guilty of all the sins we had charged. No, the COURIER has taken nothing back. We have not even taken back what we said about Stroh keeping fees that should have been turned into the county, not even after he "laid for" the editor and swore with foulest oaths he would kill him if this was not taken back. And we haven't been sued for slander yet as promised.

The Coming Juries.

The juries for the coming December term, as drawn on Monday. are as follows:

GRAND JURY.

Tell Elson, Concord; Emillius Case. Concord; Samuel J. Henney, Fairfield; Michael Kiplinger, Grant; Cornelius B. Jones, Keyser; Joseph Rainier, Union.

TRIAL JURY.

Wm. Gorman, Butler; Frank Dellenbough, Fairfield; Levi Putt, Fairfield; C. P. Hamman, Franklin; M. J. Wateman, Franklin; Martin Reinhart, Grant; Isaac Ditmars, Jackson; John A. McClellan, Jackson; Daniel Swihart, Keyser; Ephraim Olinger, Keyser; Gilbert I. Patterson, Richland; Herbert B. Waterman, Smithfield.

Gen. Garcia Dead

Gen. Calixto Garcia one of the two great leaders of the Cuban struggle for liberty, died at his hotel in the City of Washington yesterday, Dec. 11, at 10 a. m. The immediate cause of his death was pneumonia resulting frem a charge of climate, as he had come over from Cuba into a cold spell of our norther winter. He died when the freedom of his country had just been secured. He and Gen. Gomez were the military leaders in the struggle.

FARIFIELD CENTER

Robert Lockhart and wife, of Waterloo, Ind., were the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Lockhart Sunday.

Mrs. E. D. Case is better at this writing.

There will be a Christmas entertainment at this place on Saturday evening Dec. 24.

The box social at Pleasant Hill was well attended.

—There will be an exhbition at No. 10 one week from next Friday evening.

Frank Bixler and family of near Avilla were the guest of Jacob Martin and family Sunday.

Teachers institute was held at this place Saturday.

There will be preaching services at the Pleasant Hill church next Sunday afternoon at half past two.

Miss Meda Camp was the guest of Miss Etta Pontius Monday.

Mrs. Oron Bair was the guest of Mrs. Julia Krahn one day last week.

—There will be a box social at No, 4 next Friday evening. Everybody invited.

Mrs. Lizzie Warner has been visiting friends at this place the past week.

Mrs. Alice Kellar left for Indianapolis Monday.

BUTLER.

Mrs, Wm. Mutzfeld has so far improved as to be about her house.

Butler Odd Fellows turned out to the number of about twenty-five to attend the Metz Dedication. Fully three hundred members were present, besides the Daughters of Rebecca. The occasion was one of great enjoyment.

The Canning Co., are talking of moving their building to the east end of town and adding materally to it. This would be a very desirable movement, as its present location is decidedly objectionable, on account of its unsanitary condition when in operation.

The health of our place has perhaps never been better than it is at present. Good water has much to do with the health of our town.

John Wilson and daughter, Edith, continue their southern, Ohio visit.

Orviatt Campbell has not yet got through with his summer mason work for the Lake Shore Co.

Jacob Click came near having a fire in his residence on east North-st last week.

A general movement is on among the Butler churches for a good Christmas entertainment.

She Knows Her Business

Schaab Brothers have a customer far out of the the common run. A Garrett lady who has money of her own, will come over here every little while. buy a big bill of such goods as she knows she can handle to advantage and takes them home. She pays spot cash and gets the best prices. At home she sells them out to such of her neighbors as she knows to be reliable and gives them a chance to pay in installments. As she gets a much higher price than she paid here, and seldom loses a debt, she makes a neat little profit.

Unusual Cases

Judge Hartman had some unusual cases before him in court at Angola last week. One was from Fremont in that county, where a dispute had arisen between the cashier of the local bank and one of the depositors. The latter was a stock buyer, and would check out his money, when he needed it to use, and at first was careful to keep his eye on his accounts with the bank, as shown by his bank book. Later on he claims he had not been as careful. The cashier of the bank, on the other hand, seems to have been careless, also, for in adding up this depositor's account at one time he made a mistake in carrying, by which he credited the depositor with $1000 more than he had deposited. This mistake was not noticed for a year or so. He was taking a general trial balance, and found something was wrong. After considerable hard study he concluded to go over each depositor's account, and did so. When he reached this particular man's account, he found the mistake. Then he spoke to the depositor who refused to believe anything was wrong, and claimed he had at a given time deposited $1000 which he finds had not been entered to his credit. And there was in the books an entry that had been erased, which made his assertion look reasonable. Still, after several witnesses on both sides had been heard, the jury decided that the credit was right and the depositor was not entitled to as much credit by $1000 as he had supposed. Judgment was against him.

The Peace Treaty.

The "Treaty of Paris," between Americans and Spaniards was formally signed Saturday evening, Dec. 10, at 8:45. Its terms are already substantially known. They se Cuba free and give us absolutely Porto Rico and the Philippines. We are to pay for sending home the Spanish troops from all the colonies. This we suppose will include those of Cuba, the most of whom have already gone. The Spaniards must give up all the prisoners they hold, which we believe does not include any Americans, but only such as they have at different times taken in Cuba and the Philippines. The Spaniards also, keep all their military stores, and such ships as Dewey has left them in tho Philippines. We are to get for them the Spanish prisoners now held by the insurgents in the Philippine Islands, amounting to several thousands. As to future commercial relations between the two countries, they are to be settled later. It is believed that the Spanish Cortez or congress will ratify the treaty Its fate in our senate is not so certain. Still it will probably be ratified some time, if not just now.

Fifty-six Years Ago.

December 12, 1842, is a day that A. J. Ralston hardly remembers. It was on that day they first reached Auburn. They had started from the old home at Plymouth, Ohio, thirteen days before and traveled with a wagon across northwestern Ohio, going in such a way as to avoid the Black Swamp that stretched across the country from about where Deshler now stands, up in the direction of Toledo. They struck the Maumee at Perrysburg and crossed over to Maumee City, then the county seat of Lucas county. From there they came through Hillsdale, Jonesville, Angola and Pleasant Lake, stopping their last night at Isaac B Smith's, now the old Henning place The next day, they got to Auburn, being the eighth family here. Mr Ralston remembers six of the other families, Wesley Park, Launcelot Ingraham, T. J. Freeman, O. C. Houghton Jonathan Puffenbarger and O. A. Parsons. The seventh he does not remember. The parents, two daughters, Helen and Emily, and A. J. Ralston constituted the family. the last named being then about a year old. G. C Ralston was born here, on the lot now occupied by the Swineford House.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

ST. JOE.

Roland Bearss has moved to Saginaw, Michigan, and will engage in farming.

George Bleeks sold his personal property last Saturday and will become a resident of St. Joe in the near future.

J. W. Dills has rented his farm to a Mr. Zern of near LaOtto. who will move to the Dills farm this week.

Messrs Randall and Miller the well men, are having a big run of buriness in their line. They insure all their work, and a nice firm to deal with.

County commissioners, Gunsenhouser and Shultz, were at the Dills bridge last Friday, on an inspection. Judging from the time they were here, they were well satisfied with the work that has been done there.

—Mrs. Beeks Erick of Oklahoma, who has been visiting friends here and at Spencerville the past two months, returned to her home at Weathersford Oklahoma, last Monday Mr. Erick moved to Weathersford three months ago and is engaged in banking and railroad business. He is at this time president of the bank at that place, and land agent for a new railroad being built through the town.

The bridge and grading at the Dills creek is completed and the public are at peace, while it seems a long time since the culvert was torn down, the traveling public with the exception of two or three parties have borne the inconvenience without much murmuring.

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIAN, } ss.
DeKALB COUNTY,

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term 1899. Charles Fisher is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for divorce and custody of children by Kate Fisher and that the same will be heard and determined on the 6th day of March, 1899, being the 1st juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences March 6, 1899.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 13th day of December 1898.

MICHAEL F LONG,
Clerk.

D. D. Moody Atty.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Joke on the Dispatch

It is always best to be honest. Dishonesty, like murder, is sure to be found out.

On Monday of this week, the Goshen Daily Times had this article:

More queer sights probably occur in the department of marriage licenses, at the county clerk's office, than anywhere else about the temple of justice.

Not more than eleven days ago, a young man presented himself for the necessary document, accompanied by a comely lass of about eighteen summers She looked somewhat too young and in response to the clerk's demand for some satisfactory assurance that both parties were up to the age required by statute, the man produced the following note from the father of the girl:

"Please let this man have my girl and it will be all right with me, for I won't have to board him."

The very next day, Tuesday, that is, yesterday, the Auburn Daily Dispatch had same article put in as its own, original matter, leaving its readers to understand that the incident happened at the court house in Auburn. Here it is:

A young man appeared at the clerk's office not long ago, accompanied by a comely lass of about eighteen summers and asked for a license to wed. The young lady looked somewhat too young and in response to the clerk's demand for some satisfactory assurance that both parties were up to the age required by statute the fellow produced the following note from the father of the girl: "Please let this man have my girl. She is a good girl and it will be all right with me for I won't have to board him.

This is a case of borrowing feathers to make fine birds. This way of building up a reputation as a newspaper writer is getting too common. It is always easy to give credit. We keep both papers, so that those who doubt, can see for themselves.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

To Incorporate St. Joe

St. Joe wants to be an incorporated town, and we know of no village that deserves the title better. O. H Widney was up here today, with a big petition asking the Board of County Commissioners to order an election to be held, to decide whether a majority of the people want to incorporate or not. As a good majority of the voters there have signed the petition it was granted, and an election has been ordered to be held Dec. 26, one week from next Monday. Three men will be appointed to hold the election, and if the result of the vote is favorable to incorporation, they will then proceed to call a regular electien to elect trustees and other town officers. After these are elected and sworn in, the town government will begin.

The people there tried to incorporate once before, but it failed owing to the opposition caused by attempting to take in more territory than was for the best. Now, this mistake will be avoided and only the town proper be incorporated.

There are a great many advantages and at least one disadvantage in having a town incorporated. A disadvantage is the increase in expense, and that is about the only objection that can be made. On the other hand, among the advantages may be named, the arrangement of sidewalks, and streets on general plan, the enforced cleaning of the town, better control of disorderlly elements, if there should be any such, etc, etc. We have no doubt the incorporation will carry, and believe the people of St. Joe will never regret it.

FROM TOLEDO

As noted yesterday, John Lahnum is home from Toledo. He had concluded to take a brief vacation before starting off on the road again, which he is soon to do, traveling for Beggs Co., the same house he worked for once before. So, he came home in time to see his sister Mrs. Willis Preston, before they went west. Mr. Lahnum met many former Auburn Auburn people while in Toledo among them being "Geeline" Martin whose home is there and who is still peddling horseradish. Cyrus Martin is married and has four children. He is doing fairly well. Frank Smith who used to make candy here is in that city. About eight years ago, his wife wandered away having started to go to a married daughters. She was last seen alive at Air Line Junction but about nine months later her, her body was found in the ice of a lake at Monroe, Mich. It is supposed she had become suddenly insane and wandered up there, and walked off a pier into the lake.

COMING!

A Mid-Winter Tropical Fair.

A Car Full of Wonders, Including Monster Man-Eating Alligators—To Visit Auburn.

A marvelous revelation of tropical luxuriance. An official Florida state fair in a rolling palace from the land of flowers, gorgeous with golden decorations and tropical scenery, filled with tropical exhibits; imposing in multitudes, wonderful in realities, marvelous in variety and splendid with a thousand tropical wonders, illustrating to tourists, invalids and prospective settlers the advantages attractions and resources of that sunny land. Tropical fruits, Florida wines, exquisite perfumes, waving palms, music, plants, all gators, etc. "Bear in mind the alligators are chained."

The conservatory on wheels, a tropical wonderland, was built of Florida wood at a total cost of $20,000. It is the most remarkable car on either continent; has been visited by more people on the inside and gazed at by more people on the outside than any car ever built in the history of railroading People flock to it night and day, and papers described it from ocean to ocean as the first of its kind the world has ever seen.

Wanton S. Webb, director general of Florida Sub-tropical exposition, Florida commissioner to Paris exposition, and the World's Columbian exposition at Chicago, and official promoter of Florida publicity, director.

To assist expenses and to exclude mere idlers, a nominal price of 10 cents; children, eleven and under, 5 cents, will be charged.

This official Florida state fair "on wheels" will exhibit in Auburn, Tuesday, December 20, at Lake Shore depot, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Save All You Can...

We will make your money go farther than any other clothing house in the county. We have an established reputation of dealing honestly and farely with our customers. Goods bought of us can be returned if not satisfactory. Our unusually large stock of Ulsters and Dress Overcoats compells us to slaughter prices. Men's, Boy's and Children's Suits are heaped too high on our tables for convenience. We are going to lower them. We always aim to give our customers the best quality and make for the least money. Once trading with us, with the assurance of your money back if goods are not as represented, surely is an inducement for all to make G. H. Yesbera's Clothing Store your trading place.

See Our Prices.

$3.25 Buys a good Overcoat.
$6.00 Buys a Beaver Dress Overcoat.
$1.50 Buys a Child's Cape Overcoat.
$1.00 Buys a Knee Pant Suit that is warm and heavy.
$3.75 Buys a Black or Mixed Suit, 14 to 19 years.
$10.00 Buys the Best Kersey Overcoat sold in the county.
$5 75 Buys a heavy Chinchilla Overcoat.
$2.25 Buys a Child's Vestee Suit.

Men's Suits.

$5 Buys a Heavy Cheviot Suit.
$6 Takes a Cassimere Suit that will wear like iron.
$8 Buys a Scotch Tweed.
$9 Buys a genuine all-wool Scotch Cheviot Suit.
$10 Buys an all-wool, genuine Washington Mills Clay Worsted Suit.

The Mens and Boys Pant Tables are over loaded with heavy weights and will go at a sacrifice price from $1 00 to $3 50 in pears. Genuine Bargains.

The Genss Furnishing Department embraces everything that is up-to-date.

UNDEDWEAR, DRESS SHIRTS, WORK SHIRTS, JERSEY SHIRTS GLOVES, MITTENS, NECKWEAR, HANDKERCHIEFS, SWEATERS, SUSPENDERS, OVERALLS, KNIT JACKETS, MACKINTOSHES, everything that man needs to wear we have got. Our hot and Hat and Cap department is overloaded also, with the cream of good things. New Stiff Hats, New Fedoras; New Pasha Shapes,

CAPS for Men, Boys and Children, we have given the line our special attention and can please the most exacting, we appreciate your trade and are always glad to show goods. Hoping to see you while our line in complete.

G. H. Yesbera,

The Clothier and Furnisher.

THE VILLAGE BLACKSMITH

A Statement by Mr. John McKellar, of Kendallville, that Should be Carefully Considered.

Mr. John McKellar, the horseshoer, located near the Reyher House, Kendallville, is among the honorable residents of that city, and unsolicited made the following statement last Thursday:

"I understand, Mr. Kellar, that you have been a long sufferer from stomach troubles?" asked a druggist.

"Yes, sir," replied the gentleman, "I doctored a good many years without any relief. At times I was so distressed it was hardly possible for me to attend to my business. I had a terrible burning sensation in my stomach, with a heavy load as if filled with lead, accompanied by belching of sour and gas and many times extreme bloating. I bought a box of Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure from Otis, the druggist, and was relieved at once. I continued taking the medicine until a few boxes were used, and am now entirely well."

"Then you consider it a good remedy for dyspepsia and indigestion, Mr. McKellar?"

"I do that: in all my experience—and I have had a good deal—I never found anything to equal it. and I feel safe in recommending it to Kendallville friends."

Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure is sold under a genuine guarantee by all druggists to cure or money refunded. It digests the food and soothes the stomach like a lullaby. Increases flesh, purifies the blood, keeps the bowels regular and healthy, makes you sleep well and creates an appetite. No case of drspepsia or indigestion too severe to be cured by this wonderful remedy. Get a 50 cent box of H. B. McCord and watch the results. You will be surprised at the rapid action. The Stone Drug Co. Elkhart, Ind.

Where "Ben Hur" Was Written

An interesting page or piciures in the Christmas Ladies' Home Journal shows the author of "Ben Hur" at home. Several glimpses of the interior of Gen. Wallace's house are given, besides views of his studio and lawn. A feature of interest in the latter is the picture of the tree under which, the author says, "I wrote all but the last book of "Ben Hur'." A photograph also shows Gen. Wallace at work under the spreading branches of the "Ben Hur" tree, engaged in literary work that may soon be given to the public.

For Sale.

A good top buggy, Eckhart make. Will sell at a bargain or trade for wood.

Also, will sell a good Norman mare coming 6 in the spring, at reasonable figures. Call at home half mile north of Auburn.

FRANK SHULL.

Colts For Sale

I have two good colts, coming three next April, for sale at reasonable price. Call on me at my residence northeast of Auburn on the Morning Star road.

50 Jas. L FERGUSON.

Russia's Newspapers.

Russia has fewer newspapers (only about 900) in proportion to its inhabitants than any other European country. Germany has seven times, France five times and England four times as many.

Tallest Chimney in the World.

Messrs. Tennant's chimney at Glasgow is the tallest chimney in the world and stands 460 feet high.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

SENSIBLE, DURABLE And WEARABLE Presents

Are Always Appreciated At This Season Of The Year.

A NEW DRESS!
A New Wrapper, a Box of Hose

UNDERWEAR!
A Pair of Gloves or Mittens, Handkerchiefs, Shirts, Mufflers and Neckwear.

Nothing is more pleasing to a lady than a nice Dress Pattern. You will find here an Elegant Line of Dress Goods at Very Reasonable Prices.

FLANNELS!
Our assortment of Flannels, Outings, Blankets and Cold Weather Goods is unsurpassed.

HOSIERY!
In Cotton, Wool and Fleece Lined to suit your purse.

UNDERWEAR!
For Ladies and Gents, Misses and Children. Some Special Good Things for Gentlemen that are cheap in this line. It will be.....

A Pleasure to Show Them To You!

In Fancy Goods we have the Latest Novelties. Fancy Embroidered Handkerchiefs from 5c to as high as you want to go. Fancy Towels, Napkins Table Spreads and Bed Spreads.

Our Popular Prices Are Sure To Please You!

Call and You Will Come Again.

Yours For Business,

M. Jones & Son,

The Model Store, Auburn.

What We Are Doing At Our Cost Sale.

Look At These Prices:

$5.00 Rings	now	$3.00
$8.00 Clocks	now	$6.00
$4.25 "	now	$2.75
50c Silver Timble	now	35c
$4.00 Solid Gold	now	$2.75
$1.50 Spectacles	now	75c
$4.00 Roger Plated Forks		$1.75

Silver Plated Ware and many other things at almost your own price. We mean business—come right along, we can do you good.

Fred J. Yesbera,

The Auburn Jeweler.

One Door North of Davenport's Drugstore.

CHRISTMAS GREETING!

1898

1898

The Druggist.

Its going to be a GREAT CHRISTMAS and we want you to be with us. Come in and rest your wistful eye on

Our Beautiful Holiday Display!

It will suggest toyou at once the proper present AT THE LOWEST PRICE EVER MADE.

It is impossible for us to tell you all that we have. You must see the line to appreciate it.

Medallions

We have the line of the choicest selections at WAY-DOWN prices, just see them! We have them from 25c up.

Toilet Cases

We have the largest line ever shown in Auburn for

75c Up

Collar and Cuff Boxes

We have the best assortment to select from in the city.

PHOTOGRAPH ALBUMS

We have more than 2 wheelbarrow loads of the prettiest Albums you ever saw and the bottom has fallen out of the prices.

Shaving Sets

Some new designs at $1.50 and $1.75

Gent's Toilets

We have some very Handsome Sets—Leather Cases, suitable for traveling

Work Boxes

These make very suitable presents. We have 'em for little girls—full Celluloid for 50c

Music Rolls.

We Have Them From 50c to $1.75.

OUR CELLULOID NOVELTIES

Consisting of Necktie Boxes, Handkerchief, Jewel, Photograph, Glove, Etc., Etc., are Simply Beautiful, at prices ranging at 25c, 50c 75c and $1.00.

Our Doll Depart= =ment

This is our Big 25c Kid Body, Bisque Head Doll

We have a large line of others larger, ranging in price up to $2

This is our 25c Unbreakable Doll.

We also have larger ones for

50c

Our Line Of Doll Cabs

We have them for
25 Cents
50 Cents
75c Cents
$1.00 & $1.25.

We also have Carts Wheel Barrows and Hobby Horses.

Our Line of Toys is Complete:

Our Stock of Toy Books speak for themselves. In fact, to cut a long story short, if you are a money saver it will pay you to trade with.....

H. B. McCORD

THE DRUGGIST, Auburn, Ind.

MUSICAL CONCERT EACH DAY and EVENING.

SUPPLEMENT TO

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVIII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, December 15, 1898. | Number 50.

TIKO

THE WONDERFUL REMEDY FOR

Rheumatism

It is not a CURE-ALL, but it is a Specific for RHEUMATISM.

One hundred and forty-four bottles Cured 100 cases of RHEUMATISM.

TIKO is a medicine taken INTERNALLY, the only method by which RHEUMATISM can be successfully treated. It cures the CAUSE, and therein lies its remarkable success. Its price is $1.00 per bottle, or three bottles for $2.50, and if your Druggist has not got it, it will be sent to you, by Express, ALL CHARGES PAID, on receipt of price.

Address, PURINTON MEDICINE COMPANY, Detroit, Mich.

City Comforts for Country Homes

CHEAPER AND BETTER THAN ELECTRICITY, CITY GAS, OIL LAMPS

Will light the house, cook, broil, roast, bake, wash, iron, heat rooms, pump water supply, run gas engines etc.

Send for Free Catalogue

LIGHT FOR EVENING HOURS.

DETROIT HEATING and LIGHTING CO.

DETROIT • • • MICH

IT BURNS GAS?

THE "SOLAR"

The New Acetylene Gas Bicycle Lamp.

No More SOOT, SMOKE, GREASE nor DANGER

It can't jar or blow out like an Oil Lamp.

ABSOLUTELY NON-EXPLOSIVE.

Light costs ¼ of a cent an hour. Throws a clear, white light 100 feet ahead. Send for circular and learn about the . . . .

Greatest Bicycle Lamp of the Year

From your dealer or sent prepaid for $4.00.

BADGER BRASS MFG. CO.

KENOSHA, WIS.

WANTED:

FARM PRODUCTS IN EXCHANGE FOR BICYCLES OR HARNESS.

Money not a necessity. You produce what we can use. We make what you want.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 1, one-piece crank, latest model, the equal of the best Bicycle made, your own specifications, $50.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 2, three-piece crank, your own specifications, $45.

"Marlo" Racer, a very fine machine, $60.

We sell Bicycles for cash or on the monthly payment plan, anywhere in the United States or Canada. We make very liberal allowances for old wheels. We also sell second-hand wheels at from $3 to $20. Don't fail to write us if you want a wheel or harness on the best terms ever offered.

We allow ruling Buffalo prices for all kinds of farm products that can be shipped economically to Buffalo. Tell us what you have to exchange and we will quote prices we can offer. Enclose stamps for further information or for price list of our Handmade Harness and Horse Collars.

MARLO CYCLE CO.,

61 Terrace, Buffalo, N. Y.

OLD FRIENDS ARE BEST.

Handsome. Durable.

TRADE MARK.

No Place like Home.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT

still stands first for quality. If your dealer does not sell it, be sure and write us for SPECIAL PRICES. We make everything you need in Paints, Colors, Varnishes, Brushes, Etc.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT CO.,

CHICAGO.

Profit-Sharing in Great Britain.

There are now ninety-four British firms which have a system of profit-sharing in operation. No new cases of profit-sharing were inaugurated during the fiscal year 1897-98, but five establishments discontinued the practice. W. & J. Mackay (Ltd.), printers, employing seventy-two men, and who had had the system in operation for eight years, ceased because of the apathy of employes. Dissatisfaction of employers with results led to a firm of grocers employing fifty persons to cease after six years of the scheme. Brownfield's pottery and the dressmaking department of the Kensington stores went into liquidation, while three years' trial convinced Smith & Forrest that it would not be profitable, especially in view of the workmen's compensation act.

SCOTT'S TWO BREAKFASTS.

Always Had One at the Inn Before Going Home.

An old woman, caretaker of Wordsworth's Grassmere, in the English Lake district, knew the poet well and remembered much about him and his friends, says the Youth's Companion. Here is an amusing description of hers of a visit which Walter Scott paid to the poet. "He came to stay with Wordsworth, but he found the living very poor. The poet and his sister in those days were very poor. Miss Dorothy did the housework and cooked and everything, and Mr. Wordsworth did the garden all with his own hands, except Fisher, the shoemaker, helped him. Coleridge, too, helped and made a stone seat. But the living was very poor—not much to eat, and Sir Walter Scott, he was accustomed to better livin', and I've often heered tell how every morn Sir Walter used to go off before breakfast to the Swan inn and have a good breakfast on eggs and ham, and come back in time for the modest bread and cheese and beer fare at Dove cottage. One day, when Wordsworth and Sir Walter were going an' early excursion, they looks in at the 'Swan.' 'Ho!' says the innkeeper, 'so you're early for breakfast, Sir Walter, today.' 'What's this?' says Wordsworth; 'now I see why you get up and go out so early, and you only come back to me for your pints.' And so he found out Sir Walter Scott's ways."

Socialism in Guadeloupe.

The island of Guadeloupe, the principal French colony in the West Indies, is represented in the French parliament by a socialist deputy, M. Legitime. He is a negro, and was elected by a majority of 2,000 votes. M. Legitime says that the island has fifteen townships and villages, nearly all of which are governed by socialist officials.

Speed of the Frigate Bird.

Many soldiers believe that the frigate bird can start at daybreak with the trade winds from the coast of Africa and roost the same night upon the American shore. Whether this is a fact or not has yet to be determined, but it is certain that the bird is the swiftest of winged creatures and is able to fly, under favorable conditions, 200 miles an hour.

New Way to Arrest Bleeding.

By the electric hemostat of Lawson Tait bleeding is arrested without the use of a ligature. It is practically a pair of forceps for nipping the artery, but the forceps contain a platinum wire heated by electricity, and the compressed artery is cauterized in a few seconds, thus preventing further escape of blood.

A Noble Young Man.

"I trust, sir, that you have not been indiscreet enough to speak to my daughter about marriage," said the stern parent to the youth who had just asked for his daughter's hand. "I have not, sir," replied the youth, "but I was strongly tempted to do so last evening when she kissed me good-night on the steps."

Still a Mystery.

The closing of the leaves of plants as the evening comes on, was first supposed by botanists to be due to the difference in temperature, but on transplanting the plants into a hothouse it was found that the same phenomenon occurred, the leaves closing at sunset.

Bullet Put Him to Sleep.

"When the bullet struck me I fell, but our men passed on. The sensation I felt was different from what I felt when wounded before. In a few minutes I fell asleep. I had a most pleasant dream. What it was I do not know, but I know it was pleasant. I slept for fifteen minutes."—Letter to New York Herald.

KEEP OPEN FOR THE CYCLISTS

Roadhouses Whose Doors Are Never Closed During Wheeling Season.

Wheeling may be on the wane, as has been asserted by many a person in and out of the trade of late, yet there are numbers of wayside roadhouses where edibles and drinkables are sold that are never closed. These establishments are kept open that the early rider or century man may not be left without means of allaying thirst or hunger. In fact, the man who investigated while making an early run the other day was surprised to note the number of such places open to all comers. He wanted to know more, so while absorbing a refreshing glass he asked the attendant at a popular South Side resort if it paid. "I cannot say that it pays," was the reply, "but if we don't keep open others will and we are forced by competition to do so. Many persons start out on long rides in the early morning, thus dodging wagons, crowds and other unpleasant features of bicycle riding, and it is to this class we cater. Then, again, our places are for the most part open, and we had to employ a watchman to guard the tables, chairs and other articles which could not be stored away each night, so we keep a couple of waiters and plenty of edibles on hand and serve our customers all night. Another thing is that many century runs are undertaken at night, when there can be no unpleasant interruptions, and we are always called upon to serve the participants."

Lies Down to Die.

Despondent over loss of money and work, Charles Morley, 50 years of age, tried to end his life by inhaling gas. He was found unconscious in bed by Mrs. John Hiller, proprietor of the rooming-house at 193 Washington street, and sent to the county hospital. Morley lay on the bed unconscious. He was cleanly shaven, and the appearance of his room and himself showed that he had carefully prepared to end his life. Mrs. Hiller said Morley had been despondent of late because he had lost his position and was unable to pay his room rent.

Russian Women Criminals.

Russia's women criminals are for the most part peasants who have murdered their husbands. The prevalence of the crime is believed to be due to the custom of marrying off girls at an extremely early age. To this is also ascribed the excessive number of deaths among young children, the mortality under one year of age in Russia being 27 per cent, whereas the European average is 18 per cent.

A Hand Written Bible.

Some men have queer hobbies, and a remarkable one is that of a Glasgow man who has spent the leisure of four years in rewriting the scriptures. He is a compositor with a wonderful gift of turning out beautiful writing, and in the time mentioned he has managed to reach the middle of the Psalms. In two years he anticipates that the concluding verse will have been written. A feature of this remarkable bible will be its illustrations. Each chapter has its artistically designed initial letter, and each book a pictorial heading illustrative of the context. The writer is a native of Dumfries, and in his boyhood days ran errands for Carlyle to whom he regularly carried the local morning paper. —Westminster Gazette.

Aluminum as an Electric Conductor.

The attempts to use aluminum for telegraph and telephone wires bid fair to attain some measure of success. Simple joints for the ends of wires have been devised. Owing to its large volume the wind resistance of aluminum wire is considerable, and for the same reason a good deal of insulating material is required if it is to be coated.

Too Late With His Heart.

"Unless you promise to be mine," he passionately declared, "I shall enlist in the army." Pointing toward the door, she replied: "Go! If you had said those words while the war was in progress they might have moved me. Now it would be just as heroic of you to say that unless I promised to be yours you would go out and drink a pint of buttermilk."

The Smallest Inhabited Island.

It has been reckoned that the island on which the Eddystone lighthouse stands is the smallest inhabited one in the world, being only thirty feet in diameter. The lighthouse itself is 28¾ feet in diameter at the base, so that at high tide the island cannot be seen. It is situated about fourteen miles southwest of Plymouth and about nine miles off the coast of Cornwall.

Only Indian Twins Alive.

In Oklahoma territory the other day twins were born to White Dove of the Osages. It has been the custom of Indians to strangle the weaker of twins shortly after their birth. White Dove, refused to follow the custom of her people, and now is cut in the best Indian circles. She fled with her babies to the agent at Ponca, and so saved them both.

Cooking Schools in Europe.

Germany and Austria have about 150 cooking schools. A four years' course is necessary before the student obtains a diploma. Most of the hotel chefs have diplomas from these schools.

Centenarians in Servia.

Of all the countries in the world, Servia contains the most centenarians. In that little country, with fewer than 1,300,000 inhabitants, there are 575 persons whose age exceeds 100 years.

Sale of a Noted Dog.

Alfred R. Riggs has purchased from Weeks & Turner of the Springhill farm kennels the well known wire-haired fox terrier Springhill Uno. This little dog, though still quite young, has won a great record on the bench. His successful career was begun at the New York show one year ago, where, after a close competition in the puppy class, he was awarded a second to the Canadian crack, Aldon Roster, owned by Sir Andrew MacDonald. The Canadian caught cold and died immediately after the show, but Uno's strong constitution carried him on to undisputed victory throughout the circuit, including Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville and Pittsburg, making him the best wire bred that year. His breeding justifies his winnings. He was sired by the English winner Halifax Revival, out of Maybrook Vixen. Amateur fanciers are glad that the best wire-haired fox terrier ever bred in Maryland has been sold to a local owner and still remains in Maryland.—Baltimore Sun.

The World's Telephones.

It is estimated that the total number of telephone subscribers of the whole world amounts to about 1,500,000. The United States stands at the top with 900,000. Then follows Germany, with 160,000 subscribers; Great Britain, with 75,000; Switzerland, with 50,000; France, with 35,000; Austria-Hungary, with 30,000; the vast Russian empire, with only 18,000; Scandinavia, 16,000; Denmark, with 15,000; Italy, 14,000; Holland and Spain, each 12,000; Belgium, 11,000; Japan, 3,500; Portugal, Luxembourg, Australia, each 2,000; Roumania, 400; Bulgaria, 300. It will be seen that there is still plenty of room for extension. There are many countries where the telephone is still quite unknown.

HOW CANYONS WERE FORMED.

Due to the Action of Rivers Through Countless Ages.

The secret of the great denudation and of this wonderful achievement of the Colorado in carving out of rock a series of canyons about 500 miles long, and, in one place at least, more than a mile deep, with a multitude of tributary chasms and gorges, is very simple when you know it. The old laks bed slowly rose. At first the Colorado river and its tributaries, or some nameless monstrous ancestor of these, sweeping over the slowly rising surfaces, planed them down in most relentless fashion, and then began wearing out broad shallow stream beds. But then the country rose more rapidly, and the water had to cut deeper channels in the rocks in order to get out and away to sea. Owing in part to the wear of the water itself, but more to the ceaseless bombardment of the suspended sand which it bore from the up country, or picked up as it went along, and to the thump of pebbles and bowlders which it swept on in flood time, the river kept cutting down as the strata rose, until finally, when what was left of our inland sea bottom got thrust up so that, towering far above its erstwhile rocky shores, it had to be called a plateau, the Colorado and its auxiliaries found themselves at the bottom of a series of colossal canyons and gorges, where they are today.

The Magicians of Trade.

The failure of Ernest Terah Hooley is a break in the line of professional promoters, says the Commercial Advertiser. It is seldom that a promoter fails. It is their victims who fail. The companies they form often fail—when they are safely out of the promoter's hands. The persons who trust promoters and invest in promoted companies more than they can afford to lose are liable to fail. Thus the collapse of a promoter is a healthful sign. It may dampen the business of promoting. The fact has now developed that Hooley has promoted companies with capital stocks aggregating $65,000,000 and that since the companies were floated their stocks have depreciated an average of forty per cent. This warning will not be forgotten by the public. It will never pay $60,000,000, nor the tithe of that sum for any more stocks invented by Mr. Hooley. So his collapse is a national warning and blessing.

Rivals.

"Why, what are you talking about?" snapped the telegraph to the telephone. "You don't compare with me. I'm the ticket!" "Oh, but you're so old-fashioned," replied the telephone. "Look at my connections. I'm received in some of the best families." And the telegraph simply dashed off in a rage and left the telephone to answer a call from one of the leading bells.

Let Your Sweethearts Cry.

A good cry is beneficial to a woman. Crying does not consist merely in the shedding of tears, but includes so general and widespread an action of the muscles that the whole body is convulsed, and the blood pressure on the brain is much reduced.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Night Blindness.

Night blindness is a curious affection of the eye in which the patient sees very well during the day, but becomes blind as night approaches. It is mostly met with in warm climates, and usually gives way to mild treatment.

Mean Thing.

Cholly—"Miss Amy pwesented me with this—aw—lovely stick." Marie—"So I understand. She told me she got it for almost nothing."—Illustrated Bits.

THE FIRST PHOTOGRAPHS.

Prof. Draper's Sister Sat Thirty Minutes for Her Portrait.

Elizabeth Flint Wade has an illustrated paper on "Photography: Its Marvels" in St. Nicholas. The author says: The first accounts of this great discovery are very entertaining reading. Prof. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph, was in Paris when the news was published, and at once went to see Daguerre's wonderful pictures. In describing them afterward, he said that moving objects made no impression on the plate; for a picture taken of a crowded boulevard showed it as if entirely deserted, with the exception of a man having his shoes polished. The man's feet, he said, were well defined, because they were kept stationary; but he was without head or body, for these were in motion. To America belongs the honor of making the first photographic portrait, the artist being Professor John Draper, a professor, and afterward the president, of the University of New York. His victim was his sister, Miss Catherine Draper. He powdered her face, that the likeness might be more quickly impressed on the sensitive plate, and for thirty minutes Miss Draper sat—or, at least, tried to sit—as immovable as a statue. The first class in photography was formed in Boston in the spring of 1840 by Daguerre's agent, Gourad of Paris. The Rev. Edward Everett Hale, then a student in Harvard, became an enthusiastic member of the class. In his diary, under date of April 1, 1840, is this entry: "On my way home I stopped at the shop and got my daguerreotype thermometer. There seems to be a great demand; there were three or four others there."

TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

Nature Seems to Have Done the Best After All.

Theorize as one will about the scientific training of children, the little folks of the slums know more in a minute about human nature than the youngsters who are brought up scientifically learn in ten years. A little girl of 6 whose home is in the slummiest of slums opened the eyes of a fashionable woman recently. The woman had gone to teach in the mission sewing school and this little girl was in her class. She persisted in calling the teacher "Miss," and the teacher didn't like this, as she had married rather late in life. That's just one more of the sex's little idiosyncracies. The teacher corrected the child week after week, telling her every time that she was "mistress" and not "Miss." But all to no purpose. Finally she got exasperated and said to the child, "Why won't you believe I'm married? Why do you insist upon calling me 'Miss?' Now, tell me why you won't believe I'm married." The child hung her head and was silent, but the teacher persisted, and finally the little girl raised her big eyes and said: "Well, teacher, I can't believe you are married because you laugh so much." "From that remark," said the teacher, "I think that all married mankind and womankind might draw a lesson, but they won't. Only the crusty old bachelors will take it to heart."

Bad Smells.

"A single sniff of highly concentrated prussic acid will kill a man as quickly as a shot through the heart," says the Boston (U. S.) Transcript. "The odor of a bad egg is due to the presence of sulphuretted hydrogen, and the objectionable perfumes of sewers and bone factories are attributable chiefly to the same gas. Chemical laboratories are famous for bad smells. Berzelius, who discovered the element called 'selenium,' once tried the experiment of permitting a bubble of pure hydrogen selenide gas to enter his nostrils. For days afterward he was not able to smell strong ammonia, the olfactory nerves being temporarily paralyzed. Selenium gas has the odor of putrid horseradish. Tellurium is even worse. There is a story of a physician whose patient, a lady, refused to take an absolutely necessary rest because she was so fond of being always on the go in society. He gave her a pill containing a small quantity of tellurium, and her breath was affected by it to such an extent that she was not able to appear in public for a month. She never guessed what the trouble was."

Antiquity of the Needle.

It is known that the Chinese, Hindoos and Hebrews used needles from a great antiquity. Steel needles were known to the Romans, but none have been discovered, the metal not being able to resist the corroding influence of the atmosphere. The making of fine needles was introduced into Spain by the Moors, and from that country was brought to England in the reign of Queen Elizabeth. The foreigners who made the needles, however, refused to teach their trade to the natives, and not until 1650 did the manufacture obtain a footing on English soil.

Buying Tobacco in Santiago.

A soldier who entered Santiago with Gen. Shafter tells this story: "A few days after the place was surrendered I went into a small shop to get some tobacco. The proprietor was a fat little chap, all bows and smiles. 'Got any 'baccy?' I asked. 'Si, senor,' he said. 'Yes, sare; ver' fine tobac. Hot time in ze old town tonight, senor.' I took a paper of fine cut and the fat rascal charged me $1. When I made a modest kick at such highway robbery he humped up his shoulders and spread out his hands. 'Well, senor,' he said, 'you must remember those Maines.'"

Will It Come to This?

Mrs. Ballot—But what qualifications had she for the office? Mrs. Ward—Why, she's a self-made woman.

Manchester Canal Too Small.

The Manchester ship canal was designed for ships of not over 3,000 tons and drawing twenty-two feet of water. The steady increase in the capacity and draft of ocean steamers is now giving trouble for the canal owners, as the present channel will not accommodate even the latter class of ocean tramps. As a direct trade in cotton with American ports was one of the chief objects of the original promoters of the canal the deficient depth of channel presents a grave problem for solution. More docks and warehouses are also needed for handling and storing the cotton, and the want of these, taken with the comparatively shallow channel, are hindering the growth of the canal business. In the first half of 1898 the increase of canal revenue was about $45,000, as compared with an increase of $80,000 in the corresponding half of 1897 and $90,000 in 1896.

What They Wanted.

We all long for the "hills of home." One man, born near the marshes, declares that nothing refreshes him like the sight of a haystack, and another builds all his desires on a rocky hillside. A soldier in the war—not the late war, but the one between North and South—says that he was one day lying in a trench, wet, hungry, homesick. The misery of the situation came over him, and he whispered to the next man, who, like himself, was from Massachusetts: "Oh, if I could get a whiff from the Joppa clam shanties!" But the other man had not come from Newburyport, with its fishing "Joppa." He was from Fitchburg, where he had worked on the railroad, and now he spoke with scorn: "I don't want none o' your clam smells. Give me tar!"

Idaho Women's Vote.

The women of Idaho voted for congressional candidates for the first time, and the fusion candidate won. Ladies are generally credited with thinking favorably of matrimonial fusion, and it would seem from the result in Idaho that the term, even when applied to politics, appeals strongly to their imaginations. The fusion nominee, it would appear, can generally count on awaking a sentimental interest in the feminine breast. There is much in a name, from a woman's standpoint, and when she goes into politics she carries with her the instincts and preferences that govern her in other things. Fusion has a charming sound that suggests to her wedding bells and a long story of domestic bliss.—Baltimore Sun.

Stage Suspension.

It is not generally known that the last three or four words of a new dramatic production are never spoken during the period of the rehearsal of the piece; most frequently they are never written by the author. The superstition of the theatrical world is that it would be certain to bring bad luck to the piece if the last words were pronounced on the stage before the first night. But as the play must have an end, and it should be known to all present that it is at an end, the actor or actress intrusted with the last lines usually interpolates a word or two. For instance, the actor would say: "My dear girl, my dear boy, kneel before me, that I may forgive you and bless you with—a farthing cake."—Tit-Bits.

"Indian Kettles."

The beautifully rounded and smoothed pot-holes which abound along the rocky shores of Lake George, and which geologists say were formed by the boring action of hard boulders driven round and round in water eddies, when the glaciers that once covered the Adirondack region were melting away, are called by the country people "Indian kettles." "They think," says Mr. Cuyler Reynolds, "that the Indians hollowed out these holes, which vary from a foot to several feet in diameter and depth, to cook soup in. The heat, they assert, was produced by dropping red-hot stones into the holes. While the Indians did not make the holes it is not impossible that they may occasionally have utilized them in the way described."

Russian Courtship.

One of the national eccentricities in the Ukraim, Russia, is that the maiden is the one that does all the courting. When she falls in love with a man she goes to his house and tells him the state of her feelings. If he reciprocates all is well and a formal marriage is duly arranged. If, however, he is unwilling, she remains there hoping to coax him into a better mind. The poor fellow cannot treat her with the least discourtesy or turn her out, for her friends would be sure to avenge the insult. His best chance, therefore, if he is really determined that he will not marry her, is to leave his home and stay away as long as she is in it. This is certainly a peculiar way of turning a man out of house and home.

Glazed Paper and Eyesight.

Some German physicians have concluded that much harm may be done to the eyes by the highly-glazed paper used in some modern books. Especially for school children is it believed to be injurious. Reference is made to the books of the last generation, whose unglazed, non-reflective surface did not fatigue the eyes.

One of Many.

Mrs. Weeks—"What business is your husband engaged in?" Mrs. Meeks—"He operates in stocks." Mrs. Weeks—"Is he a 'bull' or a 'bear'?" Mrs. Meeks—"Both. He's a bull at the stock exchange and a bear at home."

WHISTLES AS HE FIGHTS.

There Is Absolutely Nothing Indicative of Fear in the Yankee Tar.

A half-naked man, sticking his head out of the forward eight-inch gun turret on the Brooklyn to get a breath of fresh air, said to me as a couple of big shells whistled over our heads and struck in the water beyond, "Funny song they sing, sir," and then disappeared. In the two hot engagements in which I have watched the fighters closely, I have never seen anything indicative of fear. True, everybody has a curious sensation as the first few shells of the enemy whistle overhead, and when one strikes, with its frightful explosion, you look around anxiously for an instant. If the smoke is cleared from your ship you will see a puff of smoke from a battery ashore. Then, just as you have forgotten the smoke, about three seconds later, you hear a sound like a swarm of bees humming over your head. Pretty soon shells began to come faster and faster. They drop in the water on both sides of you. One hits the military mast and the debris of steel and rope and wood comes tumbling about you. You look up wonderingly, but give it merely an instant's thought. Then your mind reverts to the terrible roar of your own guns, and then comes the single idea of keeping outside the radius of fire, not of the enemy's guns, but those on your own ship, equally dangerous to your safety, the preservation of your ear drums and your life. I stood by Commodore Schley's side, with Flag Lieutenant Sears, during the two first bombardments of Santiago, and we all found ourselves absolutely forgetful of peril, watching the shots from different turrets and telling the gunners whether to depress or raise the muzzle of the gun. We kept accurately the times of the movements, of opening fire, of good shots, of silenced batteries, and of "cease firing." The balls whistle about you with a nasty whine, as if they deplored not being able to hit you, but half the time the roar of the fusilade of your own ships drowns the complaint of the enemy's missiles. You experience at first a feeling of enjoyment not unmixed with terror. Then you grow animated and discover a peculiar sort of charm in the danger and in the game of life or death.—Leslie's Weekly.

New Foreign Warships.

European naval powers are paying much attention to armored cruisers and each country differs as to types and sizes. Since the New York and Brooklyn were built in the United States this class of vessels has been recognized as being of great value and France in the Entrecasteaux made almost an exact copy of the New York, excepting the speed, which in the French ship is less than in the American. Russia has built the Rurik and Rossia of 10,923 and 12,120 tons and is building another of 12,336 tons. Great Britain is building four of 12,000 tons, and in France one of 12,728 tons, with 16,200 horse power, is shortly to be begun. The ship is to be named the Suffren and will be 418 feet in length and a beam of 71 feet and 2 inches. Austria, on the other hand, does not run into mammoth dimensions, but contents itself with a vessel of 6,100 tons and 8,600 horse power, to have a speed of twenty knots.

A Profane Nonchalance.

"I don't care anything for your nonchalance," remarked Judge Andy to Minnie Coleman, a woman who is always troubling the police with her perambulations on the streets after dark, "but you can't mix your indifference with public profanity. The officer says you walked down the street saying you don't care for anybody or anything and you prefixed all your 'don't cares' with a great big D." "Jedge Andy, I wus only feeling tired ob de world," was Minnie's reply. "Dere am times, you know, when de best ob us gets blue and de ole airth loses all ob its pleasures. So last night I wus in one ob dem yumors and maybe I did cuss a little." "The next time you feel like that," advised Judge Andy, "you go off into the woods and have it out all by yourself. It will cost you $3.75 this time for using the public streets as an arena to waste your surplus enervation."—Atlanta Constitution.

"Gate of Tears" and "Bridge of Sighs."

The Straits of Babelmandeb, the passage from the Persian gulf into the Red sea, are called the Gate of Tears by the Arabs. The channel is only about twenty miles wide, rocky and very dangerous for passage in rough weather. It received its melancholy name from the number of shipwrecks that occurred there. The Bridge of Sighs is the bridge of Venice which connects the palace of the Doge with the state prison, and was so called because over it prisoners were conveyed from the judgment hall to the place of execution.

In Burmese Schools.

In Burmese schools making the lads shout is the approved method of elementary instruction. The Burmese educationists argue that so long as a boy is shouting his mind is occupied. When he is silent he is certain to be scheming mischief. Therefore the best shouters are the best pupils.

An Unsatisfactory Explanation.

Biggs—"I wonder why they call it a football game?" Diggs—"Why, I suppose it's because they kick the ball." Biggs—"But there is just as much kicking done at a baseball game."

Criminals.

Among every 1,000 bachelors there are thirty-eight criminals; among married men the ratio is only eighteen per 1,000.

THE BISHOP & LACKEY CO.

AUBURN, IND.

CONTEMPLATING a change in the firm at the close of the year we will commence a Stock Reducing Sale,

Thursday, Dec. 1, 1898,

and continuing during the entire month. Prices have been adjusted on many lines without regard to profit. We have given many successful Special Sales, but propose to make this a RECORD BREAKER. We are not offering a job lot of trashy merchandise, but new dependable goods such as this firm has made its reputation by handling, and at a time when they are wanted.

Special provisions made for prompt service.

Ladies' Suits and Wraps

This has been one of the busy departments during the past month. But fresh arrivals have filled the gaps. We are showing perhaps 300 garments. Can not describe them all. The stock consists of Children's Jackets, 4 to 12 years. This seasons latest production.
Regular price.....2 00 to 6.75

Misses, 14 to 18 years, in rough and smooth goods in black and colors.
Regular price.....3.50 to 10.00

Ladies' Jackets in Black Kersey and Astrakhan. Late styles.
Worth.....6.50 to 15.00

Ladies' Astrakhan, plain and crushed Plush Capes.
Regular price....5.00 to 18.00

On all the above stock we will give during this sale a discount of 25 per cent.

Hosiery

Ladies' fast black fleeced lined Cotton Hose.
Per pair..... 15 and 25c

Ladies' black ribbed and plain Wool Hose. Extra quality.
Per pair.....25c

Children's fast black heavy ribbed Cotton Hose. All sizes.
Per pair.....10c

Children's black Wool Hose. Narrow and wide ribbed. All sizes 5 to 8¼; good value at 25c.
Now.....19c

Men's heavy Wool ⅓ Hose in grey and blue mixed. A 35c value.
Sale price.....25c

Holiday Handkerchiefs

No time in the year when you can find such values and selections as now.

See our line of Men's white and colored borders at 8, 10, 12½ and 15c The best your money could buy.

Men's all Linen Hemstitched Handkerchiefs in wide and narrow hems at 10, 12½, 15, 20, 25, 35 and 50c. The best we have ever sold at these prices.

Dainty Embroidered Handkerchiefs such a variety at 5, 10, 12½, 15, 20c, and on up to $1.00 each. Just perfectly lovely. You will be carried away by their attractiveness.

Carpets

Half wool Carpets. Nice patterns. Regular 60c goods.
Sale price per yard.....40c

5 rolls all wool extra super Ingrain Carpets. Regular 50c goods.
Now.....45c

4 rolls Tapestry Carpets, worth 75c.
Sale price.....50c

3 rolls each Axminster and body Brussel Carpets. Cheap at $1.00.
Sale price.....75c

Underwear

Children's Pants and Vests; sizes 16 to 34 Each.....10 to 25c

Ladies' ribbed fleeced lined Vests and Pants; a bargain at 25c.
Now.....21c

Ladies' Jersey Ribbed Vests and Pants; sizes 4 to 7's Regular 50c goods
Each.....33c

Ladies' Natural Wool Vests and Pants; $1.00 value. Now.....75c

Child's Cotton Flannel Drawers; lace trimmed; 10 cent values. Now...6¼c

Child's Union Suits; worth $1 00.
Now.....50c

Child's Jersey Ribbed All Wool Pants and Vests; worth 50c. Now.....35c

Men's G ey Random Shirts and Drawers; worth 35c. Now.....23c

Men's Natural Half-wool Shirts and Drawers; worth 50c each.
Now per suit.....75c

Men's Cotton Fleeced; worth 50c.
Now 45c each or per suit.....85c

Men's Natural Wool Shirts and Drawers; all sizes; worth each 75c.
Now.....55c

Ladies' and Gents' Outing Gowns, in neat stripes, large collar, good value at $1.00. Now.....75c

Misses Outing Gowns, the 75c kind.
Now.....50c

Children's Gowns sold all season at 50c. Now.....39c

Silk Waists

We have just received another lot of those beautiful Silk and Satin Waists. Just in time for the Holidays. See them while making your selections for Christmas presents.

"Flannelette" Waists and Wrappers. Good assortment at low prices.

Blankets

10-4 Cotton Blankets in Grey; worth 50c. Sale price.....40c

11-4 Blankets in grey, tan and white; worth $1.25. Sale price.....1.00

11-4 Grey Half-wool Blankets; weight full five pounds; $1.75 values.
Now.....1.25

10-4 All-Wool Blankets.....2.50

11-4 All-Wool Blankets, in white and colors.....3 00 3.50 & 4.00

Domestics

Nice line dark Prints, 5c quality.
Goes during this sale at 3½c

Good heavy yard wide unbleached Muslin. Price 3c

Dark and light Outings; 6c value.
Price per yard.....4c

9-4 Sheeting; 16c value.
Per yard.....12c

5-4 Table Oil Cloth.
Per yard.....10c

Gloves & Mittens

Children's Mittens 10, 15, 20 & 25c.

Ladies' Mittens in plain and fancy.
.....15, 25, 35 & 50c.

One lot Men's gloves in calf and hog skin; lined and unlined; values 75c to $1.25. Now.....50c

Calf Skin Mittens; warm lined; regular $1.00 quality. Now.....50c

Pontiac Mittens; buckskin covered; worth $1.25. Now.....75c

Heavy Fulled Mittens, worth 50c.
Now.....39c

Holiday Novelties

Pillow Covers in new and pretty designs.

Dresser Covers,
Pillow Shams,
Lunch Cloths,
Table Linens,
White Quilts,
Jewelry,
Fancy Combs,
Ladies' and Gents' Purses and Pocketbooks,
Ladies' and Gents' Ties, Scarfs, Bows, Scarf and Hat Pins,
Fur Collarettes,
Muffs,
Ladies' and Gents' Umbrellas, etc.

It pays to trade at the big store of

The Bishop & Lackey Co.,

AUBURN, IND.

IDEAL MUSIC,

"Sweet as the angel Israfil's,
When every leaf on Eden's tree
Was trembling to his minstrelsy."

can be produced from an EBERSOLE PIANO. The Ebersole possesses a tone that no other maker has been able to imitate—being full and deep, yet with that clear singing quality which stamps it the peer of all upright pianos for homes of culture and refinement.

Frank B. Long,

119 Calhoun-St. cor Washington,

Fort Wayne, Ind.

E P. SHERWOOD 2 miles west of Waterloo, has the thoroughbred O. I. C. hogs ready for breeding purposes. The pair $60 in Cleveland.

DAILY EXCURSIONS

TO CALIFORNIA

Through first class and Tourist Sleeping Cars to points in California and Oregon leave Chicago every day in the year via the

Chicago, Union Pacific and North-Western Line

Personally Conducted Excursions

Every Wednesday from Boston and New England and Every Thursday from Chicago.

LOWEST RATES
SHORTEST TIME ON THE ROAD
FINEST SCENERY

Only route by which you can leave home any day in the week and travel in through cars on fastest trains all the way. Inquire of your nearest agent or write for pamphlets and information to A. H. Waggener, 7 Jackson Place, Indianapolis.

CHICAGO & NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.

WE GIVE ANY LADY

or man, who will take orders for our Leghorn Hen Food, in their own town,

A SOLID GOLD WATCH, FREE

We make this offer for a short time, in order to get our Food into more general use. It increases yield of eggs, and keeps fowl in good health. Send us 50c, for a regular $1.00 size box, and begin to take orders at once.

Pamphlet, with more information about hens, sent on receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address
Leghorn Food Co.(311-M)Boston, Mass.

Reduced Rates for Holidays.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell reduced rate tickets between all points on its line on December 23, 24, 25, 26, 30 and 31, 1898, and January 1 and 2, 1899, good returning until January 3rd inclusive. Tickets will be sold also on above dates to points on some immediate connecting lines. Consult with ticket agents. Send eight cents in postage for handsome 1899 calendar, to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A. Cleveland, Ohio.

Monday's Daily.

—All package Coffee 10 cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—Sterling silver novelties of every description at Hodges.

—Mrs. Ellen Cool of Waterloo was in the city a few hours today.

—Miss Delia Kiplinger of Waterloo spent Sunday with Miss Maud Link.

—John Bunge, chipped in on his COURIER Saturday in his usual prompt way.

—Full size cabinet photographs at Lybarger's for $1.50 per dozen during holidays only.

—Special prices on Candy and Fruits for Teachers and Sunday Schools at Hebel Brothers

—A Kodak makes an elegant Christmas Gift. D. A. Hodge, the jeweler, has them, all prices.

—Gold spectacles at cost at Yesbera's Jewelry Store. Better get a pair while they're cheap.

—Save money and buy your Candy and Fruit at Hebel Brothers' Cash Grocery and Meat Market.

—Phil Plum. of Waterloo came down on the morning train. He was accompanied by Phylis and Bessie Askew.

—Mrs. Wm. McIntyre and Miss Lillie McTigh go to Fort Wayne this week to make a visit before they go south.

—Baxter Brothers' Restaurant on West Seventh-st, is the place to get a splendid warm meal for 25c. Also, hot lunch or cold lunch.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Just notice the fine holiday goods at Davenport's. A person must be difficult to please, who cannot find something that suits him there.

—Keep your eye on our show window as we have something out of the ordinary to show you soon
D. A. HODGE, the jeweler.

—Davenport has DOLLS, but he dosen't intend to keep them. A word to the wise etc.
DAVENPORT the DRUGGIST.

—Chester Hodge went to Angola today to pay an accident loss of $117.68 to John Shuman, who was hurt awhile ago. The insurance Co., of Hartford Conn., pays the money.

—The Argos Reflector, John Lochner's paper, was first published 30 years ago, when Seymour and Blair were democratic candidates for president. A pretty old paper for so small a town.

—Our entire line of holiday goods is now on display. Everything is new and was bought to SELL. Call before you purchase. It will pay you.
DAVENPORT the DRUGGIST.

—When you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve don't accept a counterfeit or imitation. There are more cases of Piles being cured by this, than all others combined. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The gross receipts of the 143 presidential postoffices in Indiana, the last fiscal year, aggregates $1,769,765 06, and the total expenses $800,783.70, leaving a net revenue for the department of $995,921.90.

—Mrs. Rebecca Dickinson went to Ohio today and will remain over winter with son, John Sibert, at Anna, Shelby county. Her health has been quite poor of late. We hope she may have a pleasant winter.

— The Michigan anti-oleomargarine law has been declared unconstitutional, by their supreme court, for the reason that it passed one house in the legislature, without having the enacting clause at the beginning.

—We have lately made arrangements to do all kinds of carriage repairing. When in need of such work give us a call. Corner Fifth and Jackson streets.
THE SPECIALTY BUGGY CO.
d2w-w6 WM. ECKHART, Mngr.

—Lagrange Standard:—W. H. Duff, clerk of the circuit court, recently bought a New Testament printed in Irish to present to his father. It is unreadable to the son, but the father will take great delight in reading in the original Irish,

—Mrs. Coffinberry came over from Garrett Saturday, we presume on some business in regard to the suit that is being brought against her, by the bondsmen who had to pay out their hard earned dollars, to make good Mr. Coffinberry's embezzlements.

—Constipation prevents the body from ridding itself of waste matter, DeWitt's Little Early Risers will remove the trouble and cure Sick Headace, Biliousness. Inactive Liver and clear the complexion. Small, sugar coated, don't gripe or cause nausea. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The Columbia City Post says a Mishawaka girl recently confessed to the officers that a gang of burglars were working northern Indiana, and would soon rob a bank in the vicinity of Auburn or Ligonier. Since the burglary at Pleasant Lake, they believe the girl knew what she was talking about.

—A cough is not like a fever. It does not have to run a certain course. Cure it quickly and effectually with One Minute Cough Cure, the best remedy for all ages and for the most severe cases. We recommend it because it's good. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—MARRIED. At the residence of the bride's father, Charles Simon on North Main-st, Sunday, Dec. 11, 1898, at 3 p. m., Mr. Frank Ashelman to Miss Martha Gaetta Simen, Rev. J. D. Brosy officiating. The fortunate young man is a son of Wm. Ashelman and both are well known and popular young people. They have the COURIER'S best wishes.

Tuesday's Daily.

—DAVENPORT'S for DOLLS.

—W. H. Loss was over from Waterloo Monday.

—Mixed Candy 4cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—White Sugar 5 cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—'Squire John Clark of Smithfield, was in town Monday.

—Light Brown Sugar 4¼ cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

—Geo. Lanning will help Charlie Jones during the holiday rush.

—Malaga Grapes, Bananas, Oranges and Apples at Hebel Brothers.

—The Presbyterian C. E. will give an entertainment on Christmas eve.

—R. J. Fisk and wife of Waterloo, were here on some business Monday,

—The finest line of opal jewelry we have ever seen is now on exhibition at Hodge's jewelry store.

—A man at Marion, Ind., claims to have discovered a new power, which works without electricity or steam,

—Get your best girl and go to Yesbera's Jewelry Store. You can fit her with something nice and very cheap.

—G. W. Kirkpatrick of Richland, was a caller at this office today and gave his old friend a lift on subscription.

—Mrs. Henry McIntyre writes back from Little Rock, that she and the children are well. Harry goes to school.

—Truly, the Bazar store is getting a live business in its line of goods. We see groups of people going in there at all hours.

—The B. & O. will soon have 6000 new box cars, 2000 new coal cars and 80 new locomotives. Their equipment will be first-class.

—Admiral Dewey wants to come home and take a rest If any man has earned a rest from care and responsibility, he is the man.

—Col. Bryan has resigned his command of the Third Nebraska He does not like the idea of doing garrison duty after the war is over.

Mrs. Woodworth, the evangelist, is to be here and hold meetings at the German Methodist church on South Jackson-st, beginning Dec. 23.

—If you want to remember a friend with some dainty, inexpensive present, a book is just the thing.
DAVENPORT has 'em.

—From now until Jan. 1, I will take one dozen full size cabinet photos for $1.50. Don't fail to see them.
O. E. LYBARGER

—The supposed "ashes of Columbus" have been removed from the cathedral at Havana and put on Board a warship and are on their way back to Spain.

—Two more 1900 men called on the COURIER today. T S Murray for Murray Bros., at Spencerville, and H. C. Rohm, of Waterloo. Both have receipts for pay to 1900.

—F. J. Yesbera's cost sale is progressing finely: he is getting rid of lots of watches, clocks and jewelry. And why shouldn't he? We never heard of such prices as he is selling at.

—Soothing, healing, cleansing, De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is the implacable enemy of sores, burns and wounds. It never fails to cure Piles. You may rely upon it. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Baby photographs a specialty at Lybarger's Gallery North Main, Auburn.

—WANTED:—Fifty new subscribers who wish to pay for the COURIER in wood. Tell your neighbor about it, and if he wants the best paper in the county, and pay in trade, tell him we are ready for him.

T. Calkins and wife and father-in-law, T C. Becker, of Flint, Michigan, have moved here, and will occupy property on VanBuren and 6th-sts. Mr. Calkins is an employed at Eckhart Carriage Co paint shop.

—M. Jones & Son have a holiday ad in DAILY and WEEKLY, that should attract hundreds of our readers, to take advantage of the fine holiday bargains offered there. Read it and be sure to call there for good bargains.

—Joseph Hartman of Concord is one of our latest new names on the Weekly subscription list. It is not only in town but in the country, that people are finding that the fullest and best news come through the Daily and Weekly COURIER in an interesting and readable shape.

—Captain Lahnum earnestly requests the members of Company K, to meet at Fords' Feed Store next Friday evening at 7 o'clock for the purpose of attending in a body Chaplain Medbury's lecture at the Methodist church. Other business of importance for consideration will be presented.

—The sooner a cough or cold is cured without harm to the sufferer the better. Lingering colds are dangerous Hacking cough is distressing. One Minute Cough Cure quickly cures it. Why suffer when such a cough cure is within reach? It is pleasant to the taste. At Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—During the recent political campaign, the democratic candidate for the legislature, at Laporte, promised to give his friends an old-fashioned dance, in case he was elected. The result was, he had a good majority. And he was as good as his word, for about a week ago, he hired a hall and plenty of fiddlers, and his friends had a nice dance, followed by a good supper. We venture to say he will be elected again two years from now.

AT ITS VERY BEST!

The Bazar Store

Auburn, Indiana.

BARGAINS THIS WEEK! Sometimes its good store-keeping to cut down profit. Just now for instance, getting the stock ship shape for Christmas. Clearing up the little lines that steal valuable space from the Holiday Show. Willing to stand a little less profit for the sake of future gain. The prices talk plainly. This week buyers will find it a pleasant, saving conversation.

Underwear Bargains:

Children's Underwear size 16, sold at 20 cents A Suit this week for	10c
Children's Underwear size 18, sold at 24 cents A Suit This Week for	16c
Children's Underwear size 20, sold at 28 cents A Suit this Week for	20c
Children's Underwear size 22, sold at 32 cents A Suit This Week for	24c
Children's Underwear size 27, sold at 36 cents A Suit This Week for	28c
Children's Underwear size 26, sold at 40 cents A Suit This Week for	36c
Children's Underwear size 28, sold at 44 cents A Suit This Week for	36c
Childsen's Underwear size 30, sold at 44 cents A Suit This Week for	42c
Children's Underwear size 32, sold at 50 cents A Suit This Week for	48c
Children's Underwear size 34, sold at 55 cents A Suit This Week for	50c

Misses Wool Underwear, all sizes sold for $1.50 a suit, this week $1.00 suit, the biggest offer ever made.

Ladies' Union Suits, half-wool, never sold less than 75c, this week for 48c suit.

Misses Union Suits, half-wool, never sold less than 50c, this sale 24c.

Men's and Boy's Mittens and Gloves for 19c.

Ladies' and Children's Mittens from 8c to 23c.

The Bazar Store

Auburn, Indiana.

Winter Is At Hand.

You don't need to wait until the thermometer registers 25 degrees below zero before you are convinced that winter is near at hand. You may as well acknowledge it at once! Winter is here and you need something in our line. We have them to sell at

PRICES THAT WILL SATISFY YOU

And when in need of

Stoves
Stove Pipe
Stove Boards
Dampers
Registers
Saws, Axes
Wedges, Sledges
Meat Cutters
Lard Presses
Loaded Shells
Shot Guns
Horse Blankets
Weather Strips
Oil Cloth Rugs

Snow Shovels,
Hand Sleds,
Burton Logging Bobs,
Sleighs,
Sleigh Bells,
Sled Runners, Sled Soles, Corn Shellers

We would be pleased to have you call and see us. We are the sole agents in Auburn for the Celebrated Wilson Heating Machines, the latest and most economical stove out.

Culbertson & Boland,

AUBURN, IND.

—The new styles in Handkerchief, Glove, Collar and Cuff Boxes, Work Boxes, Jewel Cases, Shaving Sets, Ribbon Cases, Photo Holders and Family Sets are in dark amber with celluloid and plush ornaments. Shown only at DAVENPORT'S.

—Overcome evil with good. Overcome your coughs and colds with One Minute Cough Cure. It is so good children cry for it. It cures croup, bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and all throat and lung diseases. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

COERCION.

The spirit of intolerance manifested by the advocates of the single standard theory is as remarkable as it is reprehensible. It seems to permeate and affect all the avenues of society and every branch of industry, except agriculture. The independent farmer against whose interest this deadly warfare is especially waged, is too generous and manly to resort to coercion even in self-defense. In the cities many employers seem to imagine that when they hire a man to work for them they also buy his independence of thought and action, and make him virtually a slave. In fact, it is openly asserted that employes should "vote for their employer's interest," without considering that the two interests may be at direct variance, and that the workman should be as free to decide for himself as the employer is—without a thought, in short, that the enforcement of such a principle would make every freeman a slave. In no other class is this intolerant spirit so prominent as among those who arrogate to themselves the designation of "business men," and especially those whose "business" consists in betting on the future prices of produce. They even go to the extent of coercing the press, in a country where the freedom of speech and of the press is guaranteed by the Constitution. Advocates of simple justice and plain honesty in government and finance dare not establish journals to advocate their views in the large cities, because they cannot be sustained under the universal boycott that is directed against them. In New York City we have but recently witnessed the anomaly of two leading and ably conducted Democratic papers going through a hotly contested campaign without a single reference to the most prominent and vital plank in their party's platform—because they dared not advocate the principles of their party for fear of injuring their advertising patronage. Such things are enough to arouse the hot blood of indignant opposition in the breast of every man who loves liberty and decent fairness, even though he may be opposed in principle to the belief of those who are wronged in this outrageous manner—for let him not forget that the same intolerance will be directed against him with all its force and bitterness whenever his conduct does not seem to accord with the views of those who employ this despicable weapon. This spirit of determined and hateful coercion is the ugliest monster that ever lifted its head in our public affairs. It is a dangerous beast, and is as likely to turn and rend those who employ it as it is to obey their commands. It threatens the very existence of the Goernment, and it may and will provoke a cataclysm of destruction and horror unless good citizens unite in condemning and expelling it. The six and a half million citizens who voted for financial and civil freedom in 1896 constituted the best element of our population—the Anglo-Saxon or native American element—a race of men, intelligent, progressive and as determined as Fate; a race that fought all of the world's battles for freedom, and which will die in its tracks rather than recant one iota of its honest convictions. Therefore, Messrs. Coercionists, laying aside the principles of justice and right, is it reasonable or safe to drive such a race of men to desperation? These men are entitled to respect, and it might be well to stop and think.

Work for This Congress.

The present Congress comes to an end on the 4th of March next, and, as it will undoubtedly take the usual holiday recess, there will be but little more than two months for it to work in. No important legislation can therefore be expected from it, excepting such as relates to the government of our new island possessions. No other will presumably be attempted.

The first of the islands demanding attention is the Hawaiian group, which the Republicans want to have under a Territorial form of government, the chief executive to be appointed at Washington by the President and the Senate, and the Legislature to be elected by the natives and the whites, the Japanese and Chinese to be denied the franchise. The State of Hawaii is to be established in due time, of course, the Republicans calculating that with the assistance of the sons of the missionaries and the sugar planters, who practically rule the islands now, they will be able to capture the two seats in the Senate and to keep them indefinitely.

Porto Rico, which Spain has already handed over to us, also requires early attention: but the form of government to be established there is still uncertain, although the chances are that it will also be of the territorial form, with an educational or property qualification for the electors of the local legislative body. Here, also, if the Republicans feel reasonably certain of being able to get and keep control, Statehood will not be long withheld, even if almost the entire body of the inhabitants do not understand the language in which Congressional debates are conducted.

For Cuba we stand pledged to provide an independent government, and this is likely to prove a more serious task than we thought it would be when we made the pledge. The attempt must be made, however, and doubtless Congress will want to prescribe the methods in some detail.

The hardest problem will be found in the prescribing of a government for the Philippines, of course. Really so little is known about these islands that their number is a matter of conjecture still. There are estimated to be all the way from 1,200 to 2,000 of them, the great majority of them presumably uninhabited. Concerning the people our information is equally indefinite. An accurate census has never been taken, but the population figures vary from 7,000,000 to 10,000,000. Some of the natives in the cities have a veneer of civilization, others are semi-barbarous, while many are still absolute savages. The task of shaping a government for the Philippines is therefore very different from that which confronts us in the other islands, and if there is any statesmanship in Congress it can find employment for itself here.—New York News.

Does Uncle Sam Forget Murder?

Before Uncle Sam gets ready to pay Spain that $20,000,000 for the Philippines, the following bill should be presented to Senor Sagasta:

For loss of battleship Maine..	$3,500,000
For furnishings on battleship Maine	1,500,000
For relatives of 266 murdered United States sailors at $50,000 each.....	13,300,000
Total	$18,300,000

It sounds like blasphemy to talk about a money compensation for the slaughter of Americans while they slept, but that is the only way to strike at the cowardly Spaniards at home.

There is some consolation to the nation in general in the knowledge that the gallant Schley "remembered the Maine" when he destroyed Cervera's fleet at Santiago and reddened the sea with Spanish blood, but it is poor consolation to the struggling mothers, widows and orphans of the seamen who were sent to their graves when the Maine was in the harbor of Havana under the protection of the Spanish authorities.

These mothers, widows and orphans need bread to keep body and soul together during these stirring scenes of Republican prosperity and it would be a criminal and cowardly act for this nation to permit the Maine horror to go by officially unnoticed. It will be a blot upon American civilization if Spain is not forced to atone directly in a measure for the murder of those American sailors who now occupy neglected graves in Havana.—Chicago Democrat.

The War Secretary's Report.

Secretary Alger's report on the management of the War Department is more notable for what it omits to say than for what it says. The scandalous mismanagement of the army, in the camps, on the transports, in Cuba and in the hospitals, is ignored, and even the "round robin," in which the commanding officers begged the withdrawal of the troops from the ditches and fever-infected points around Santiago, is suppressed.

On the other hand, the Secretary makes a plea for the increase of the regular army to 100,000 men, a portion of this number to consist of natives of the islands that we are taking in. He, however, gives no definite reason for this, excepting that the volunteers assigned to garrison duty did not enlist for such work and want to be mustered out at the earliest possible moment. He evidently believes that American citizens will not serve in the tropics for any such pay as that given by the government to those wearing its military uniform, and in this he is doubtless right.

Schley the Democrat.

If all our public men had the same kind of political principles that Admiral Schley declares are his, the country would be safe. In a recent interview the reporter said to him: "Admiral, what is your politics? There has been considerable dispute on that point." Without a moment's hesitation, and with the same flash in his keen eyes that came there when he first saw the nose of the "Maria Teresa" poking out of Santiago harbor, he replied: "My politics is my love for my country and my belief that whatever she does is right." It is well-known among all the Admiral's friends that he is a Democrat, which, of course, he meant should be implied in the form of his reply. But at the same time he no doubt has a large "mental reservation" with regard to some of the things that are done by Mark Hanna and others under the illicit use of the signature of the country.

Monopoly Ever on the Alert.

Those good, innocent souls who are expecting the ordinary American citizen or the individual capitalist to enjoy special opportunities for investment and active business in our "new possessions" will in all probability be doomed to disappointment. Already the "development syndicate" has been formed and chartered and has its agents ready to get options, on all things worth having. The syndicates in this country never sleep on opportunities. If there is anything in sight they rarely overlook it and they propose to have every avenue to wealth in the "new possessions" practically monopolized before any weaker companies or individual investors can get it on the ground floor.—Houston, Texas, Post.

Embarrassed by Their Success.

The Republicans have control of both houses of Congress and among the short-sighted ones there is great rejoicing. But the long-headed fellows are not doing any of this. If there had been a small Democratic majority in the House there would have been a fine chance for throwing any blunders that might have been committed—and they are sure to come—upon the enemy. Undivided power carries with it undivided responsibility.—Peoria Herald.

Coming Around to Garfield's View.

It may be remembered that James A. Garfield once announced in Congress that he was "for that protection which leads to free trade." Can it be that the time has come for his party to take that free trade path, and are his successors in Northern Ohio Republican leadership, Messrs. Hanna and McKinley, getting ready to head the procession?—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Coal Trust Methods in Illinois.

The failure of a big Columbus, Ohio, coal company reminds the general public that there is little likelihood of any failure of the sort in Illinois so long as combinations are allowed which charge Springfield people 8 cents a bushel for the same coal that Springfield dealers sell so that it is retailed in Peoria at 6 cents a bushel.—Peoria Journal.

MUSICAL PRODIGY.

Georgia Has a Six-Year Old Girl Who Composes Wonderfully.

Musical prodigies of tender years have been reported and commented upon from many places. But in most such cases the abilities have lain in the interpretation of the works of others. Composers of music under 10 years of age have been very rare in the world. Georgia now comes to the front with the statement that her borders holds one such. The prodigy in question is a girl of 6 years, who, it is said, composes both instrumental and vocal music of a high order. She is little Eula Vaughan, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Vaughan, live in the village of Bowman.

EULA VAUGHAN.

When Eula was only 2½ years old she was known to play on the organ, while held in the lap of a nurse. Owing to the fact that there is no piano in her home, as the sole instrument her parents possess is an organ, her playing has been confined almost entirely to that. Still the youngster can play on the piano very well indeed, for it seems to be as natural to her to play on either organ or piano as it is to breathe. At the last commencement of John Gibson Institute she played an accompaniment on the piano for the orchestra without even practicing the numbers. Her father says she can repeat any composition she has ever heard played.

From earliest years she seemed to have an idea of harmony. One day her uncle, Professor J. B. Vaughan, happened to hear her play. He wrote the music down as he heard it, and so clever was the composition that it has found a ready sale at the music stores. Eula's touch is remarkably sympathetic. She is very pretty and small for her age. Her musical talent is not confined to either the piano or organ, for she has a pleasing childish voice, which gives much promise for the future. Often when Eula is playing over some music she has heard she adds variations of her own.

As Eula plays her face brightens, and it seems to those who hear her strange indeed that so much feeling and expression should be seen in the little face of so young a child.

MONSTER GLOBE.

To Be in America's Exhibit at the Paris Exposition.

An immense globe, over twenty-five feet in diameter and weighing three tons, was exhibited by the General Electric Company at the mechanics' fair in Boston a short time ago, and it is to be sent to Paris, where it will occupy a prominent position at the exposition in 1900. This monster globe, which represents the earth, is of papier mache, on a framework of wood, and at the exhibition rested on a black pedestal picked out with gold. Two thousand seven hundred square yards of papier mache in nine layers of 300 square yards each was employed in the construction of the globe, the building of which occupied just two months. The continents and oceans were depicted by the scenic artist of the Tremont Theater, Boston. The north pole is indicated by an incandescent lamp of 100 candle power. The globe was built in fifty-four distinct sections, to a scale of 312 miles to the linear foot. Its exact diameter is twenty-five feet two inches. The pedestal is sixteen feet in diameter. Small incandescent lights are scattered all over the surface. There are 400 of these lamps, and each indicates the location of some typical electrical installation, including those for street car propulsion, mill or mine work or lighting purposes.

LARGEST GLOBE IN THE WORLD.

A good idea of the extent to which American ideas in electrical matters have spread all over the world is gained from this method of distributing lights on the globe. Each country is indicated by its flag, the stars and stripes being over not the United States only, but Cuba, Porto Rico, the Sandwich and Philippine Islands also. The inside of the globe is equally interesting. The entire interior is richly upholstered. The decorative color scheme is worked out in pink and green. The air is kept cool by electric fans and the lighting is by electricity.

Too Sharp for a Hawk.

An observing Southern sportsman told recently about a flock of pigeons that measured brains with a hawk and came out ahead. H. S. Edwards owned a flock of pigeons which one day were cut off from their cote by a large hawk. The pigeons knew that if the hawk once got above them at least one of their number would go to make a meal for him, and so up they flew in circles, going higher than the hawk. The latter kept under the pigeons, and leisurely followed their laborious movements.

Then came a curious and unexpected sight to Mr. Edwards. Every pigeon closed its wings, and they appeared to be the size of sparrows, and down they came past the hawk at a terrific rate. That astonished the hawk. He actually dodged the dropping birds and missed half a dozen wing strokes before he got in full chase of them. When he got down to the barnyard not a pigeon was in sight—some were in the cote, some in the porch, two in the well-house and one in the kitchen. The hawk had been outwitted completely. It is a question how the pigeons managed to check their fall, as they did not slacken up till they were about fifteen or twenty feet above the ground, when they scattered in all directions to escape the hawk.

GOING IN FOR POULTRY.

American Countess with Feathered Treasures in England.

Owing to her extreme youth at the time of her marriage the countess of Craven was expected to have a troubled life in English society. Miss Bradley Martin, it will be remembered, was barely 17 when she married the earl of Craven in New York. According to all accounts the gloomy predictions have not been fulfilled. Lady Craven has grown in graces since being transplanted from her native land and is now even more comely than she was in her maiden days. Her somewhat unique fad is poultry raising, in which she has been remarkably successful. A writer in a London society journal has this to say on the subject:

"Such a multiplicity of varieties and colors as one finds in the Countess of Craven's flocks at Coombe abbey is absolutely beyond description. In fancy waterfowl her ladyship is especially rich, and her pride in the various treasures that inhabit her charming Warwickshire home is justifiable. What ornamental duck breeder does not fear competition with Lady Craven's multicolored Mandarins, Carolinas, and Bahamas? And what visitor to the dairy or Crystal Palace show has not been struck with the beauty of those birds, whose dazzling brilliancy stamps them as the most elegant of the webfooted tribe? Likewise in the ornamental geese classes her ladyship's name is found at the principal shows, represented by her wonderful Gray Cerlopsis, white-feathered Sebastopol or beautiful barred Magellanic. But one circumstance above all others has established Lady Craven's name in the poultry fancy, for in her we have the pioneer exhibitor of the handsome buff-laced Wyandotte, an American variety that has so leaped into public favor during the twelve months of its existence as to have established itself as a favorite forthwith. Her ladyship is an ardent fancier and is strong in the belief that the feathered tribe tends not a little to enhance the picturesque beauty of country life.

LADY CRAVEN.

CHARACTER IN HANDWRITING.

Easy Way to Make Accurate Analysis of a Person's Disposition.

For a little impromptu fun when a few friends happen to drop in ask each one to write any quotation that pops into his or her head and carefully sign name in full. Pen and ink are better than pencil, but the latter will answer in a pinch. If the writing is dark this shows a leaning towards athletics and a love for outdoor life and sports. If the letters are slender and faint the writer is reserved and rarely shows emotion or becomes confidential. Sloping letters indicate a very sensitive disposition, whereas, those that are straight up and down evince ability to face the world and throw off the "slings and arrows of outrageous fortune."

Curls and loops are out of fashion nowadays, but any inclination to ornate penmanship is a sure indication of a leaning toward the romantic and sentimental, while the least desire to shade a letter shows imagination and a tendency to idealize common things. If the some letter is formed differently by the same person this shows love of change. Long loops or endings to the letters indicate that the writer "wears his heart upon his sleeve," or, in other words, is trusting, non-secretive, and very fond of company. If the "y" has a specially long finish, this shows affectation, but if the same person is also careless about crossing the "ts," the combination is an unhappy one, as it points to fickleness in work and affectation. A curved cross to the "t," or the incurving of the first letters of a word shows an affectionate and good-natured disposition if taken separately; but if the two are indulged in by the same writer it is a sign of jealousy.

Writing that is rather small points to cleverness, quick intuitions, a liking for one's own way, brilliant intellect and fine powers of penetration. Round, jolly, comfortable-looking letters betoken a disposition to correspond.

With these hints in mind it will be surprising to find how many caps may be found to fit ourselves and our friends.

First Cup of Coffee.

Louis XIV. of France drank the first cup of coffee made in Western Europe. Coffee was then worth $28 a pound.

Early Chinese Coinage.

Chinese coinage in the shape of a knife has been traced back as far as 2240 B. C.

It is fortunate for the people that few doctors are gossips.

THE APPEAL OF THE BOOK.

The Cleveland Library League and What It Is Doing.

The Library League of Cleveland is a most interesting institution, and it is pleasant to see that it is extending to other cities. All children of school age are eligible to it, and there are no initiation fees, and no membership dues; and in many cases the members obtain the use of public library books at an earlier age than they otherwise would. They wear a distinctive badge, and sign a pledge which binds them to handle books carefully—not to mark them, or turn down the corners of leaves, or to misuse them in any way.

In Cleveland, at the end of nine months from the organization of the society, fifteen thousand children had been enrolled, and the league had had a decidedly improving effect upon the patronage of the public library.

To most people one of the interesting things about this league is the "appeal of the book" which is printed on the book-mark used by the society. It is the pathetic, and in most cases effective, request of the book to be well-treated by the reader. It runs as follows:

Please don't handle me with dirty hands. I should feel ashamed to be seen when the next boy borrowed me.

Or leave me out in the rain. Books can catch cold as well as children.

Or make marks on me with your pen or pencil. It would spoil my looks.

Or lean your elbows on me when you are reading me. It hurts.

Or open me and lay me face down on the table. You wouldn't like to be treated so.

Or put between my leaves a pencil or anything thicker than a single sheet of paper. It would strain my back.

Whenever you are done reading me, if you are afraid of losing your place, don't turn down the corner of one of my leaves, but have a neat little book-mark to put in where you stopped, and then close me and lay me down on my side, so that I can have a good, comfortable rest.

Remember that I want to visit a great many other little boys after you are done with me. Besides, I may meet you again some day, and you would be sorry to see me looking old and torn and soiled. Help me to keep fresh and clean, and I will help you to be happy.—Youth's Companion.

THE ROMAN COLUMN.

New Form of Athletic Exercise Which Delights Fat Women.

A new instrument of exercise is the Roman column. The principal muscles used are the abdominal, groin and quadriceps, and it is warranted a sure cure for the woman who inclines to fat and who is losing the graceful curves of her waist line, as well as for her sister of the too prominent abdomen, that bane of the fleshy.

Of course it isn't an easy exercise for a beginner to hang head downward, wand in hand, but it is the fat woman's delight, for it accomplishes for her what all the obesity cures in the world have failed to do.

Women who want to be healthy and beautiful no longer have recourse to drugs and lotions. They know that clubs and dumbbells and swings and other medicines for the muscles kept in store by the physical culture teacher will help out nature's shortcomings more than all the physicians and beauty professors.

EXERCISING ON THE ROMAN COLUMN.

The Official Time.

The necessity that there shall be only one man who "has the say" in a military command is thoroughly recognized in the United States army. A story is told of General Shafter, late commander of the American expeditionary force for the invasion of Cuba, which illustrates the punctilio of the regulars in this regard.

At a certain frontier post at which Shafter, who then held an inferior rank, was commander many years ago, a discussion arose among several officers as to the exact time of day. A captain, with his watch in his hand, said:

"It is now exactly three o'clock."

"Oh, no," said a lieutenant, "by my time it's eight minutes past three."

A third officer drew his watch out of his pocket. "I know my time is exactly right," he said, "and my watch says two minutes past three."

At this juncture Major Shafter looked at his silver watch.

"I don't know what your watches say," he remarked, "but I wish you to understand that in this command it is five minutes past three."

Then the young officers remembered that the authority of the commanding officer extended even to the time of day.

FIENDISH INDIAN DESPERADO.

Apache Kid, Who Was for Years the Terror of the Southwest.

Apache Kid, who died a natural death a few weeks ago, had for years been the terror of the Southwest. He was the most fiendish as well as the most elusive Indian desperado with whom the United States authorities have ever had to deal. This arch-criminal was only 33 years old at the time of his death and had murdered forty-four people. The picture is from a photograph taken at Alcatraz Indian prison in 1886.

APACHE KID.

A Night's Experience.

"I had an odd experience a few years ago while making a solitary walking tour through the White Mountains," said a member of the Appalachian Mountain Club at one of their recent reunions. "I was belated one night, and stopped at a small farmhouse where I was most hospitably entertained. The family was large, and I inferred that the room given me was not always a spare one. It was on the first floor and had two beds in it.

"There was no lock on the door, nor for that matter was there any fastening, save an old-fashioned latch, on the outside door, a state of things not uncommon in country towns throughout New England.

"I had had a stiff day's walk, and no sooner did I sink down on the soft feather bed than I fell into a sound sleep.

"Along in the night I was awakened by a violent struggle in the room. Groans, shrieks, blows thumps resounded. The room was as dark as pitch. What was it? Murder? It certainly sounded like men engaged in mortal combat.

"I was broad awake and sitting up in bed in an instant. I was alert, ready for action, and not a little alarmed, but it seemed the part of wisdom to keep still and await developments.

"Meanwhile the scuffle went on. Blows, gasps, stifled screams and bumpings as of some one's head on the floor increased my uneasiness. There was a heavy fall, and the next moment the clothing of my bed was jerked off.

"I gave one bound into the middle of the room, and shouted for help. The farmer came rushing to the door, burst into the room, and asked what was wrong.

"Silence prevailed; the tumult had ceased. A candle was lighted and a young man was discovered sitting on the edge of the other bed, and looking very sheepish.

"'I guess I've had the nightmare!' he said.

"'I guess ye have!' said the farmer. 'I didn't know ye was here.'

"The sheepish-looking young man proved to be the farmer's brother-in-law unexpectedly returned from a distant town. He had entered quietly and gone to his bed without disturbing any one. He was subject to nightmare, and had dreamed of 'wrastlin' with a bear.' My outcry had brought him to his senses.

"The matter was satisfactorily explained, quiet soon reigned, and I finished a good night's sleep."—Youth's Companion.

A Fireman's Remarkable Coolness.

Chief Henry Lemon, of Grand Rapids, Mich., told a blue-ribbon fire story for which all the firemen of his city will vouch. "It was at the burning of the Russell carpet sweeper factory," said he. "A fireman was caught in the top floor, the sixth story. We could not get to him with the ladders, and he could not get down on the inside. He backed out on the sill of a window and swung there a moment with his face to the wall. Then he dropped. We could not imagine what he was trying to do. When his body shot by the fifth floor window directly beneath, the fellow lunged forward, threw his arms out, and caught in the window. He rested a moment and dropped again. This time he almost missed his window, but he finally got up, and the people and the firemen cheered him on. Once more he dropped, and at the next window my men took him on a ladder. His arms were terribly bruised, but he had escaped with his life. He was the coolest, most desperate man I ever saw."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

True Hospitality.

In a New Hampshire village many stories are told of a former resident who did not always utter his real meaning.

One cold winter day he opened his door to see the minister, looking chill and tired wading home through the snow after an hour spent with a needy but unpleasant parishioner.

"Come in, parson, come right in!" he called, cheerily, waving his arms with hospitable intent. "My wife will make a rousing fire to warm you up. It's well started already, parson. She'll make it so hot you can't stay in the house fifteen minutes!"—Youth's Companion.

Young Swimmers.

The Sandwich Islanders are so fond of the sea that they actually teach their children to swim long before they are able to walk. The tiniest mites play games in water well out of their depth.

Our idea of an unusual man is one who agrees when his wife praises her preacher.

HARVESTS OF HAIR.

Gathered from the Locks of European Peasants.

Women with scanty locks ought to like to know that there are hair harvests, just as there are wheat harvests! The idea does not sound very nice, but that it is useful we must all agree. The hair harvest is a much surer crop than the grain one. It does not depend on the weather.

To leave that side of the subject, most of the hair women wear comes from Switzerland, Germany and France. There is a human hair market in the lower Pyrenees held every Friday. Scores of hair buyers walk up and down the village streets, their shears dangling from their belts, and examine the tresses which the peasant girls let down for their inspection. If a bargain is struck the hair is cut and the money paid on the spot. These girls have fine hair. Strangely enough, peasants often have much better locks than highly educated women. Civilization does not seem to care for heavy hair.

That which is cut off by the dealer himself is the best. Dealers can easily tell whether the locks offered them have been cut or combed out. They do this by rubbing the hair through their fingers. If the hair has been cut from the head and has not been misplaced it remains in the original position. If it has been pulled or combed out and put together, regardless of the direction in which it grew, one portion will slip to the right and another to the left. It does this because the jagged edges catch upon each other and pull in opposite directions.

WISCONSIN WOMAN PREACHER.

Mrs. Nellie Opdale Fills Universalist Church.

After hearing her preach on several occasions, and being more impressed with her ability on each succeeding occasion, the congregation of St. Paul's Universalist Church at La Crosse, Wis., extended a call to Rev. Nellie Mann Opdale of Racine.

This gifted and earnest preacher was born at New Lisbon in 1860. Within a year after graduating from the public schools of Racine she obtained a position as teacher, which she held until her marriage four years later to Julius H. Opdale, an attorney of Eau Claire. Her husband died in 1892, and shortly afterward the widow went on the lecture platform on behalf of woman suffrage. While engaged in this work she appeared before the legislature twice, commanding close attention on both occasions. Meantime she had been licensed to preach by the Universalist convention, making her first pulpit appearance at Mukwonago in 1894. Next year she was called to a pastorate there, remaining at that place until she accepted the charge at La Crosse. Her regular ordination as a minister of the Universalist Church took place at the State gathering of that denomination in 1895.

MRS. OPDALE.

The Queen's Big Family.

The Queen has had nine children, of whom seven survive; forty grandchildren, of whom thirty-three survive; thirty great-grandchildren, who are all living.

Of the great-grandchildren, nineteen are boys and eleven are girls. Five are grandchildren of the Prince of Wales. Seventeen are grandchildren of the Empress Frederick. Eight are grandchildren of the late Princess Alice. Three are grandchildren of the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

This would appear to make a total of thirty-three, but two of them are grandchildren of both the Empress Frederick and the Princess Alice, while one is grandchild of both Princess Alice and the Duke of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha.

It will be seen that in the course of Nature the future rulers of Great Britain, Germany, Russia, Greece and Roumania will be the descendants of her majesty.—Saturday Evening Post.

Protection for Old Documents.

Collectors of old documents, rare engravings, stamps or other valuable papers that ought to be protected from the noxious influences of the air and from moisture can easily preserve them in their original condition by covering them with a 3 per cent. solution of collodion. This solution can be applied with a soft brush without the slightest danger to the objects thus treated. This proceeding is mainly applicable where delicate colors that are soluble in water are to be preserved in their pristine freshness and beauty. The collodion covering is, therefore, most excellent for preserving water-color paintings and pastels.

Betrothals in Spain.

A curious custom obtains in some portions of Spain in regard to betrothals. A young man who looks with favor upon a handsome senorita and wishes to gain her hand calls on the parents for three successive days at the same hour of the day. At the last call he leaves his walking stick, and if he is to win the desired bride the cane is handed to him when he calls again. But if he is not regarded with favor the cane is thrown into the street, and in this way the young man is made to understand that further calls will be useless.

Dusty Rhodes—Say, Weary, I am goin' to dem Fillypener Islands. Dey say dat all de food yer need grows right on trees. Weary Walker (with a look of scorn)—Dat's just like yer! Yer ain't go no farsightedness. Don't yer know dat dem people as lives in dem tropics are so blamed lazy dey wouldn't be able ter git no one ter pick it off fer yer.—Puck.

Did you ever See a Snow Storm in Summer?

We never did; but we have seen the clothing at this time of the year so covered with dandruff that it looked as if it had been out in a regular snowstorm.

No need of this snowstorm.

As the summer sun would melt the falling snow so will

Ayer's Hair Vigor

melt these flakes of dandruff in the scalp. It goes further than this: it prevents their formation.

It has still other properties: it will restore color to gray hair in just ten times out of every ten cases.

And it does even more: it feeds and nourishes the roots of the hair. Thin hair becomes thick hair; and short hair becomes long hair.

We have a book on the Hair and Scalp. It is yours, for the asking.

If you do not obtain all the benefits you expected from the use of the Vigor, write the doctor about it. Probably there is some difficulty with your general system which may be easily removed. Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

A Natural Black is Produced by Buckingham's Dye for the Whiskers.

50 cts. of druggists or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

Avoid Coughing.

"A physician who is connected with an institution in which there are many children, says: "There is nothing more irritable to a cough than coughing. For some time I had been so fully assured of this that I determined for one minute at least to lessen the number of coughs heard in a certain ward in a hospital of the institution. By the promise of rewards and punishments I succeeded in inducing them simply to hold their breath when tempted to cough, and in a little while I was myself surprised to see how some of the children entirely recovered from the disease. Constant coughing is precisely like scratching a wound on the outside of the body; so long as it is done, the wound will not heal. Let a person when tempted to cough draw a long breath and hold it until it warms and soothes every air cell, and some benefit will soon be received from this process. The nitrogen which is thus confined acts as an anodyne to the mucous membrane, allaying the desire to cough and giving the throat and lungs a chance to heal."—Scientific American.

Wheat! Wheat! Wheat!

IN EACH FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

"Nothing but wheat as far as the eye could reach on either side—what you might call a sea of wheat"—was what a lecturer, speaking of Western Canada, said while referring to that country.

For particulars as to routes, railway fares, etc., apply to C. J. Broughton, 1223 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; M. V. McInnes, No. 1 Merrill Block, Detroit, Mich.; D. Caven, Bad Axe, Mich., or Jas. Grieve, Reed City, Mich., Agents for the Government of Canada.

GATES TOURS

MEXICO

JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1899

SIXTH ANNUAL TOURS BY SPECIAL TRAIN DE LUXE.

First tour leaves January 17th, Second tour leaves February 11th.

GATES TOURS OF MEXICO

Are made by special trains of Palace cars including Compartment sleepers, Ladies' Parlor and Observation Car and Dining Car serving all meals en route. If you are interested in these grand tours of thirty days through the strange, weird, and interesting

"LAND OF THE MONTEZUMAS."

Apply for books of the tours, rates covering all traveling expenses, assignments in sleeping cars, etc., etc., to R. G. Thompson, Special Representative for Mr. Gates, Wabash Ticket Office, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Don't Rent

ESTABLISH A HOME OF YOUR OWN;

You can do it. The finest agricultural land in the world lies West of the Mississippi River. Prices are low and farmers are prosperous. You can get valuable information by reading "THE CORN BELT," which is the handsomest farm paper ever published. It is beautifully illustrated and contains exact and strictly truthful information about the West. Issued monthly. Send 25c. for a year's subscription to "THE CORN BELT," 209 Adams St., Chicago, Ills.

PATENTS secured or money all returned. Search free. Callaner & Co., 3 F St. Washington, D.C.

DECISION FAVORS CASTORIA.

Judge Grosscup Grants an Injunction Against Imitators of This Valuable Remedy.

A decision of general interest was delivered lately at Chicago by Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the United States Circuit Court, giving the Centaur Company of New York City, manufacturers of Castoria, a world renowned remedy, an injunction against the members of the Chicago firm of Hurd, Young & Hirschon, acting as agents of the Pitcher Medicine Company of Duluth, Minn.

Judge Grosscup, in his decision, finds that the defendants manufactured, put up and sold imitation wrappers, labels and packages, a preparation known as "Castoria." The court held that such manufacture and use of original label was a gross violation of the Centaur Company's rights. The judge thereupon issued an injunction restraining the defendants from imitating the original castoria labels for Centaur Company. Messrs. Hamline, Scott and Lord appeared as attorneys for the Centaur Company. During the hearing of the case an affidavit was read from Dr. Samuel Pitcher, the originator of the preparation castoria, in which he stated that the Centaur Company only had the right to use his formula and his name.

Charles H. Fletcher, president of the company, has been most active in tracing the source of spurious goods that were found on the market and offered for sale as the real article. He discovered that the imitation was first put on the market by the Sager Drug Company of Duluth, Minn., and that Mr. Hurd and others handled the preparation in Chicago. The sale was found so easy that the agents proceeded to put up a preparation of their own, thus checkmating their principals. The decision just rendered covers both imitations. The Centaur Company are now taking steps to proceed criminally against druggists who have been talked into laying in a stock of the counterfeit "Castoria."

Breaking a Reindeer to Harness.

Reindeer are very useful in countries where there are no snow and ice the greater part of the year. The United States Government has found them useful for transporting the mails in Alaska. Reindeer have to be broken to harness just as horses are broken to harness. The Laplanders and Finns are the people who best understand the reindeer. They are to these people what the horse and the mule are to us for drawing loads; in addition, they are food for these people.

A young reinder is called a buck. He is first taught to lead with a string or halter on his head. When he has learned to obey this leather thongs are fastened to his horns, or the halter about his head if his horns are gone. Then the driver gets behind the reindeer and strikes him with a whip, and uses the word for "get up" or "go ahead" in his own language. When the reindeer learns to obey this a strap of leather is put over his neck and carried to the sledge. When he has learned to draw the sledge it is loaded slowly until he is able to draw a full load. The strap on his neck is carried between his fore legs and outside of his hind legs, when it is fastened to the sledge; this is all the harness he wears.

As you know, the moss under the snow in Arctic countries provides food and drink for the animals.

SOLVING THE FUTURE WELFARE OF THE CONTINENT.

This Is What Is Now Being Done on the Fertile Prairies of Western Canada.

The rapid progress that is being made in the settlement of the fertile prairies of Western Canada is leading to the investigation of its resources by those interested in having provision made for those living in the crowded East, for those who have been struggling for years on impoverished farms, for the renter who is unable any longer to bear up under the strain imposed by the landlord, and for the farmer who, unable to purchase farms for his sons in his own neighborhood, has to look around for lower priced lands. The investigation shows that it is impossible to meet these conditions successfully outside of Western Canada. Already millions of bushels of wheat are being grown there each year, while as many as 50,000 head of cattle were shipped out this year. A representative of "The Germania," Milwaukee, one of the leading German papers in the United States, recently made a trip through Manitoba, Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan, where lie the free government lands of Western Canada, and in a future issue will appear extracts from flattering letters contributed to the Germania and other papers by their special correspondents.

As an inducement for immigrants to make their homes in Canada, the Canadian Government offers 160 acres of land free of cost to each settler, and information can be had of any agent of the Government.

The Only Safe Plan.

Mrs. Prentice—How do you always manage to have such delicious beef?

Mrs. Bywell—I select a good, honest butcher and then stand by him.

Mrs. Prentice—You mean that you give him all your trade?

Mrs. Bywell—No; I mean that I stand by him while he is cutting the meat.—Tit-Bits.

Makes the Muscles Strong.

From hard work or excessive exercise soreness and stiffness sets in and lays up. St. Jacobs Oil will cure it after a few applications and make the muscles limber and strong.

A Noble Young Man.

"I trust, sir, that you have not been indiscreet enough to speak to my daughter about marriage," said the stern parent to the youth who had just asked for his daughter's hand.

"I have not, sir," replied the youth; "but I was strongly tempted to do so last evening when she kissed me goodnight on the steps."

Coughs Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Sold in 25 and 50 cent bottles. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

Accuracy is the twin brother of honesty; inaccuracy, of dishonesty.—C. Simmons.

Rashness is the faithful but unhappy parent of misfortune.—Fuller.

Children have more need of models than of critics.—Joubert.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Cold Barns.

Those whose cattle barns are not warm enough to work in comfortably without an overcoat and mittens in the winter, or even without any coat in ordinary winter weather, may be sure they are not warm enough for the cows to do their best in, or for calves and young stock to grow rapidly without extra allowance of heating food. Covering up cracks and seeing that windows and doors shut snugly will help some, but we remember when a boy, and when cows were kept in a barn with unshingled sides and ends, having to help line the walls back of the stock with old boards and slabs nailed on the inside of the posts and stuffing the space between this lining and the outer boards with bog hay, so that no wind could come through. Taking out the old board slide window where the manure was thrown out into the yard and putting in a larger half window from an old building, so that we had light enough to take care of the cows without leaving door or window open, was another improvement, and all was done at small expense and but little labor, which were important considerations in those days to poor farmers trying to do the best they could with what they had.—Boston Cultivator.

A Gate that Will Not Sag.

If the posts are well set there will be but little danger of the gate sagging, particularly if it be made as the one shown in the illustration. In the tops of the short and long posts bore holes for receiving gate hinges, then fill them with linseed oil to act as a preservative. Insert a piece of gas pipe to prevent wear, or use an iron washer a. The hinges a and b are cheaper than ordinary hinges and can be made by any blacksmith. By use of the lever e the latch can be raised without walking to the end, then following it around. The small wheel d on a swivel is the most important element in preventing sagging. It can be made of wood and hence is very cheap. Light material may be used in making this gate, yet it will be very strong.—American Agriculturist.

WILL NOT SAG.

Fall Treatment for Trees.

We like best to receive trees in the fall, but they should not be planted until early spring. Trees received this fall should be buried in a cool, frost-proof cellar, when they will not wither; or buried outside in a trench in a dry bank. Our method is to dig out a trench two feet deep, two or more feet wide, and long enough to hold what trees we have to carry over. Beginning at one end slope the bank so that when the first trees are laid in a slanting position the roots will be a foot or more below the surface level and the tops just about on the level. The bundles should be opened, the trees laid in and the roots lightly covered with fine, mellow earth, care being taken that every space between the roots and stems is filled. Then another layer is put in with the roots beyond the first with the trunks over the roots of them, covering with the soil as before, and so on until all are in, then covering the whole with earth and rounding over the top so that water will not run into the trench. This work is best done early in November.—Farm, Stock and Home.

A Handy Wagon Seat.

A very handy seat for use in hauling without the wagon box is made as follows: A is an old mower seat with the stem bent in the proper shape to fit on the front side of the front bolster and reach down to the coupling pole. B is a piece of flat steel bent to fit over the bolster and down behind, and is fastened to the spring of the seat with two bolts as shown, and C is another piece of iron or steel bent in the proper shape for the seat spring to fit in, and is fastened to the sand board with two bolts. This must be fitted up close so as to hold the seat in the right place, and when you want to put on a load just raise the seat up and take it off, and when load is on throw it on top and you will have a comfortable seat.—Epitomist.

WAGON SEAT.

Worm Diseases.

A reader complains of fowls dying, and upon examination found them full of some species of tape-worm. Separate the fowls that seem sick and take care that all the poultry manure is put where there is no danger of its spreading the disease. Quicklime mixed with the manure will kill the eggs of parasites. To cure the sick fowls give from one to three teaspoonfuls of turpentine, according to the size of the chicken; too much turpentine will kill the bird. Medicine is of little use unless the yard is kept clean and the manure disposed of safely.—Poultry World.

Tying Animals in Pasture.

Farmers during the fall often want to tie sheep or calves in after feed. Instead of the customary swing pole, take a common smooth fence wire (any length) and fasten the ends to stakes set the proper distance apart (or to trees). Before fastening both ends slip a ring on the wire and tie your animal to ring. Place an obstruction on the wire the same distance from each stake that the tie rope is in length. This can be done by driving a spike between the strands of wire.

Scarcity of Feeders.

Feeding sheep are scarce and several points higher in price than they were last year. The demand for them is even greater than it has been for years, which has had its effect in stimulating prices and making them firm. Buyers crowd the large stock markets and many return home without obtaining what they want. It is next to impossible to pick up feeders in the country, for every man who has a few of them has his price so high that there seems no margin in it for the feeder, and feeding for fun with some of them has gone out of style. Another reason why they are so scarce on farms is that breeding flocks are scarce, and an order to pick up any large number of them would mean a great deal of traveling.

How Many Fowls in a House.

In making preparations for the winter quarters of the fowls do not commit the error of crowding thirty into a room only large enough for twenty. One of the causes of disease is that of crowding the fowls and then attempting to overcome the evil by ventilation. When there are too many hens together the heat of their bodies causes ascending currents of air, and as the warm air rises the cold air comes in. If there is a top ventilator the warm air will pass out at the upper portion of the ventilator, while a current of cold air will also come in at the lower portion, which passes over the heads of the fowls, and causes the well-known cases of swelled head and eyes, or leads to roup. No poultry house will require a ventilator if the hens are not crowded. A dozen hens in a house ten by ten feet are sufficient, and any excess over that number will render the whole liable to disease.

Adapting Plants to Climate.

Nature always tries to adapt plants or animals to their environment. The more hardy or those best adapted to the climate survive, and thus hardier breeds are established. There's a limit to this, doubtless, though it would be hard to place it. By growing peach trees in the North from Northern-grown peach stones we shall be likely to secure a hardier variety of peach trees than as if peach trees were grown from seed produced in the South. Seed corn grown South will not ripen as early, and therefore requires a longer season than that grown here. Possibly by growing some plant not acclimated here under the most unfavorable circumstances we may produce varieties that will be hardy enough to succeed.—American Cultivator.

Keeping Cabbage.

The best way to keep cabbage is to dig a trench in a dry place as deep as the stalks are long. In this trench set the cabbage heads up, filling the trench about the roots and stalks with the soil taken out in digging it. The heads should be packed closely together and, when all are in, covered with straw over which soil is thrown deeply enough to prevent rains from getting in. This need not be very deep, as a row of sods on top of the ridge will act as a watershed. Cabbage buried in this way fills out during the winter and quite loose heads will be solid and hard when taken out, and the whole head will be blanched until crisp, sweet and tender.

Vegetables as Feed for Stock.

The feeding of pumpkins, beets, carrots, turnips and potatoes to cattle should be done with the view more of adding variety to the food than to give such articles as portions of the regular ration. Grain and hay are the best of all foods for cows in winter, but the animals appreciate a change from the dry foods to ensilage or vegetables. Pumpkins, beets and carrots may be sliced and fed raw, but potatoes and turnips should be cooked and thickened with bran and corn meal by way of adding to the variety.

Hog Cholera Cure.

The Government formula for hog cholera, as given in bulletin No. 157, of the Michigan Experiment Station, is one pound each of sulphur, wood charcoal, sulphate of soda and sulphide of antimony, and two pounds each of salt, bicarbonate of soda and hyposulphate of soda. The dose is a teaspoonful to each 200-pound hog, given in a little water, shaken thoroughly, with a small bottle.

Protection for Huskers.

To protect your hands, in husking, get a few yards of cotton flannel and make the mitts yourself, putting the fuzzy side outside, and patch the palm and thumb and get a can of pine tar and tar the patch, and it will last twice as long. When worn through remove the patch and do as before. This may be repeated many times before one pair of mittens becomes useless.

Repairing Roads.

But little can be done to the roads in winter except to fill up the holes with coarse gravel. The time to gravel the roads is in April, as they will be fairly well packed by June, and will require only occasional leveling with the road scraper. Well-made gravel roads are considered the best if kept in good condition every year.

Mulch for Strawberries.

The best mulch for a strawberry bed is fine horse manure. Early in the spring it should be raked off the rows and worked in close to the plants, using salt, hay or any clean material in its place on the rows as a mulch after the plants are well grown, so as to protect the fruit from dirt and shade the soil.

Odorless Onions.

It is said that an odorless onion has been introduced, which is expected to gain favor, but if the odor is removed there will be nothing left in the onion to admire. While the odor may be disagreeable to some, yet there are others who prefer it. Onions of mild flavor have been known for many years.

To Destroy Weevil.

Destroying weevil in peas or grains can be accomplished by putting the peas in a box or barrel having a tight-fitting cover, placing bisulphide of carbon in a saucer on top of the peas, leaving the covers on for twenty-four hours. Then turn the peas out, air them and return to the barrel.

For Horses Choking on Oats.

Horses frequently choke in eating oats, few remedies are known, and if not relieved the result is fatal to the horse. A little water thrown into the ear will cause the horse to violently shake his head. The remedy has never been known to fail.

Some hens do not possess the egg-laying habit, and no system of feeding will make good layers of such hens.

How to Brew Tea.

The chairman of the government committee of tea experts declares that few Americans understand how to make tea or how to obtain the maximum benefit from it. It should be taken between meals and without much food, when it becomes a harmless yet powerful tonic. England discovered the secret long ago, and hence the universal custom of the 5 o'clock tea, midway between the luncheon and dinner hour. The preparation of the tea is more important than the quality, for the best tea badly drawn is worthless. First, the water must be fresh; and, second, it must be thoroughly boiled for ten minutes; third, the tea must never be allowed to boil and must never draw over ten minutes. Prepared in this way, and limiting the quantity to not more than five cups a day, "the world might drink tea for a century," says the expert, "without feeling any detrimental effect whatever."

Home-Made Candies.

Some cardinal points to remember in the making of candies are that the finest granulated sugar is preferable for cooked candies; that sugar for candy should not be stirred while boiling; that butter should not be added until the candy is almost done; that cream and flavorings must always be added after the candy is taken from the fire or their richness will be lost; that cream should always be used in preference to milk; that, failing cream, butter should be substituted; that pure fruit juices—strawberry, pineapple, lemon and orange—make the best flavoring, and that vegetable colorings are best. In making the colorings, remember that blood beets give a dark-red color; cranberry juice a delicate pink; fresh spinach, allowed to stand a day in a tablespoonful of alcohol, gives a delicate green, and the yolk of egg or juice of a grated carrot will furnish yellow.

To Improve Tough Beef.

Tough steaks and even joints may be served tender and appetizing with but slight extra trouble, if the example of certain French cooks is followed; indeed, they do not scorn to thus "improve" even the tenderloin by allowing it to remain all day or over night in a mixture thus made: Mix together carefully four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, salt and pepper to taste; two tablespoonfuls of chopped parsley, two or three peeled onions, thinly sliced, two bay leaves, and the juice of half a large lemon. This is to be divided and half spread thoroughly on top of the meat and half under. If it can be managed, twenty-four hours will give still better results. Before cooking, if any of the mixture is not absorbed, it must be wiped away.

Leaks from the Kitchen.

A lecturer on the wastefulness of American housekeepers estimates that 100,000 families could be fed with the food daily thrown away by hotels, restaurants and large private establishments in New York alone. The cause is said to be the abundance of food and the bad cookery in America. If the figures be correct New York is a big field for domestic science missionaries.

Chow-Chow Salad.

Chop red tomatoes, cucumbers and some onion together, sprinkle salt over them, then drain off all water. After they have set a while place in a salad dish edged with lettuce leaves, and with pepper and vinegar added, lay rings of hard-boiled eggs over the top. Put on ice until ready for table.

Hints.

Keep salt in a dry place.

Melted butter will not make a nice cake.

Grate nutmegs at the blossom end first.

Veal should be white, dry and close-grained.

Mutton should be deep red and close-grained.

The colder eggs are the greater will they froth.

The best poultry has firm flesh, yellow skin and legs.

Lemons will keep for weeks if covered with cold water.

Pastry, to be nice, should be made when cold and kept so.

Pork should be fine, close-grained and the rind smooth and thin.

The best beef is moderately fat and the flesh of a bright red color.

Soap and chalk mixed and rubbed on mildewed spots will remove them.

Sandpaper will whiten ivory-handled knives which have become yellow from age and use.

Never let ivory-handled knives lie in hot dishwater; nothing will so soon discolor the handles.

Good macaroni is of a yellowish tint, does not break readily in cooking, and swells to three or four times its bulk.

Warm bread and cake should be cut with a knife the blade of which has been heated by standing in hot water.

Remedies.

Potatoes boiled in a lime crusted tea kettle will clean it.

A hot plate placed on a mustard poultice will cause it to take effect immediately.

Wet salt is the quickest and most easily procured remedy for the sting of any insect.

Water in which potatoes have been boiled will soften and relieve ossified joints if applied hot.

A poultice of bruised peach leaves applied to a wound caused by stepping on a nail will save from lockjaw in man or beast.

Stove polish wet with kerosene will give instant polish as the stove will not not be damp. Of course the stove must be cold.

A strong, hot decoction of the leaves of the beech tree will relieve and sometimes cure tetter on the hands if bathed frequently.

Battleship Models.

By the Admiralty's orders perfect models are made in paraffin wax of every new English battleship before it is laid down, and these models are tested in a tank at Haslar. The models are from twelve feet to twenty-four feet long, and the tank is 400 feet long and twenty feet wide. The models are made of wax because it is a material which does not absorb water or change its weight, so alterations can be easily made. Also the material can be melted up and used again.

The World's Supply of Wheat.

An English expert claims that the wheat producing soil of the world is unequal to the strain that will be put upon it. Even now when the food supply is ample, thousands die because their disordered stomachs fail to digest the food they take. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters strengthen and tone up the stomach and digestive organs.

His Illustration.

"You have often pictured to yourself," said the man who had just returned from his wedding tour, "how places that you had heard of but never seen would look, haven't you?"

"Yes."

"And when you finally saw them you always found them to be wholly different from what you had thought they would be?"

"Yes."

"Well, it's the same way with marriage."

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment pronounced it incurable. Science have proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Why She Sought the Office.

"So you are a candidate for Mayor, are you?" inquired a friend of a Western village maid, whose years were rather more certain than otherwise. "What salary does the office pay?"

"Oh," replied the female standard-bearer, "there is no salary at all; but you see the Mayor has authority to advertise for proposals, and——"

"Yes, I think I see," interrupted the other.

In Winter Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. During winter your feet feel uncomfortable, nervous, and often cold and damp. If you have perspiring, smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It warms and rests the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and is a certain cure for chilblains and frost bites. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Trial package mailed FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

The Crocodile.

The moment that a young crocodile breaks its shell it is to all intents and purposes as active as it is at any time during its life. It will make straight for the water, even if it be out of sight and a good distance off, and it will pursue its prey with eagerness and agility during the first hour of its free existence.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

Japan had a colder spring than at any other time in eighty years. In the middle of May there was snow at Nikko and near Tokio.

Strong as a Steel Ramrod.

If you want to feel your spine is a pipe stem ready to snap, just get lumbago. If you want to feel as strong as a steel ramrod, use St. Jacobs Oil; it has magic.

More hearts pine away in secret anguish for unkindness from those who should be their comforters, than for any other calamity in life.—Young.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

In the Bank of England there are silver bars that have lain there untouched for 200 years.

Home Seekers' Cheap Excursions.

On December 20, the North-Western Line will sell home seekers' excursion tickets, with favorable time limits, to numerous points in the West and South at exceptionally low rates. For tickets and full information apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y.

Sharp Pains

Darting from one point to another, stiff and swollen joints, inflammation, intense suffering, are characteristics of rheumatism. All these painful symptoms are cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which purifies the blood and neutralizes the acid which is the cause of rheumatism. Why continue to suffer when you may be relieved by

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine for Rheumatism.

Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

There Is No Telling.

Be sure not to let rheumatism stay in the system longer than you can get a bottle of St. Jacobs Oil to cure it. There is no telling what part it may strike or how much misery it may give.

Next Thing to It.

She—Colonel, have you ever been under fire?

Col. Pepper, of Kentucky—Well, I don't know as you would call it undeh fiah exactly, but the mothah of a girl I once went to see threw a kettleful of boiling watah on me.—Cleveland Leader.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Roumanian Wheelmen.

Cyclists in Roumania are compelled by the authorities to have their name and address not only upon some part of the machine, but also upon the lamp glass, in order that the riders may be identified at night.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

A Royal Author.

The Crown Prince of Siam is among the boy authors of the world. He has written several stories for English children's magazines, and can write fluently in three European languages.

We will forfeit $1,000 if any of our published testimonials are proven to be not genuine. THE PISO CO., Warren, Pa.

A man's ledger does not tell what he is, or what he is worth. Count what is in man, not what is on him, if you would know what he is worth—whether rich or poor.—H. W. Beecher.

A box of Gleason's Sulphur Soap is equivalent to many sulphur baths. Don't forget it.

Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50c.

The cheapest of all things is kindness, its exercise requiring the least possible trouble and self-sacrifice.—Smith.

To California.

Attention is called to the excellent service of the North-Western Line to California and the favorable rates which have been made for single and round trip tickets for this season's travel. Best accommodations in first-class or tourist sleeping cars, which run through every day in the year. Personally conducted tourist car parties every week to California and Oregon. Choice of a large number of different routes without extra charge.

Particulars cheerfully given upon application to agents Chicago & North-Western Railway, or connecting lines.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED—Case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. Send 5 cents to Ripans Chemical Co., New York, for 10 samples and 4,000 testimonials.

Gov. MacCorkle's Endorsement.

Hon. W. A. MacCorkle, Ex-Gov. of West Virginia, adds his name to the long list of Statesmen benefited by Pe-ru-na. He heartily recommends Pe-ru-na as a catarrh remedy and tonic.

HON. W. A. MACCORKLE, Ex-Gov. of West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 9, 1898.

Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

GENTLEMEN:—Your Pe-ru-na, as a tonic, is certainly unexcelled, and in a number of cases that have come under my observation where it has been used for catarrh, or any disease which has its origin in that malady, it has been of great benefit. Pe-ru-na has my hearty recommendation, both as a tonic and catarrh remedy.

W. A. MACCORKLE.

Pe-ru-na is a permanent and scientific cure for catarrh. It is purely vegetable and works in harmony with nature. All druggists sell it.

Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

$3.00 to $10.00 PER DAY

Can be earned selling our Patent Volute Nut Locks. They sell at sight to everyone using Farm Implements and other machinery. Write at once for liberal terms and exclusive territory, if you want a

SURE MONEY-MAKER.

THE VOLUTE NUT LOCK CO., Fort Wayne, Ind.

PENSIONS Get Your Pension DOUBLE QUICK! Write Capt. O'FARRELL, Pension Agent, Washington, D.C.

Most Nourishing Foods.

Butter and bacon are declared by a medical writer to be the most nourishing of all foods.

It Was Before the Day of

SAPOLIO

They Used to Say "Woman's Work Is Never Done."

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U.S.A.

Your Doctor Knows

Your doctor knows all about foods and medicines.

The next time you see him, just ask him what he thinks of

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. We are willing to trust in his answer.

For twenty-five years doctors have prescribed our Emulsion for paleness, weakness, nervous exhaustion, and for all diseases that cause loss in flesh.

Its creamy color and its pleasant taste make it especially useful for thin and delicate children.

No other preparation of cod-liver oil is like it. Don't lose time and risk your health by taking something unknown and untried. Keep in mind that SCOTT'S EMULSION has stood the test for a quarter of a century.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

A RELIC

[Hicksville News]

Simon Shank left at this office, Monday, a copy of the Savannah Republican, published at Savannah, Ga., during the war Our troops were in posion of the city at the time, so the paper contained nothing offensive to northern eyes. It is dated Sunday, April 23, 1865, and contains a full account of the assassination of President Lincoln. The troops were charged such outlandish prices for everything that the officers had to regulate the matter. We notice that the prices were placed at 25c for iced drinks, 25c for ice cream, 25c for billards, 15c per glass for ale. The paper also contains the published orders to clean the city. It was mailed home by Mr. Shank when he was in the service, camped at that city.

EXECUTOR'S SALE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned executor of the will of Caroline Lindoerfer deceased by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, will offer for sale; at auction, at the door of the court house in Auburn in said county on Saturday the 31st day of December, 1898, the following premises in DeKalb County in the State of Indiana, to-wit:

The north-east forth of thenorth-west quarter of section twenty-eight (28) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east.

Terms:—One-third cash, one-third in nine months, and the remaining one-third in eighteen months. The deferred payments to be evidenced by promissory notes, with interest, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws, and secured by a mortgage on the premises sold Sale to commence at 2 o'clock p. m.

SAMUEL J. TARNEY,
Executor.

J. E. & J. H. Rose, Attys. for Estate.

"Every Advertiser Lies."

Is the general impression among people who do not read. Fortunately there are very few people who have eyes and do not read. The more one reads, the more one knows, and the more one learns. Now, if we failed to put this advertisement where you may read it, we would be doing you an injustice, for like as not you are this moment suffering and maybe do not know what is the matter with you. After you have read this advertisement, go and spend 10c for a trial bottle of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs 10c a line to tell you any more about this, so we will not enlarge on this subject. Try us in this. You can get it of Davenport, the druggist.

Peace Costs Something, Too.

It has been said that peace hath her victories no less renowned than war. And it may be added that sometimes peace is almost as expensive as war itself. It is understood that $250,000 has been placed in a Paris bank to the credit of the American peace commissioners, and that the salaries and expenses of the commissioners, including those of the United States and Spain, will aggregate over $600,000. This, of course, includes the expenses of the peace commissions in Porto Rico and Cuba. It is a very large amount, but does not represent half of one day's expenses of the United States during the height of the recent war.—Leslie's Weekly.

Electric Lighting in Turkey.

Sir Ashmead Bartlett, M. P., has obtained a concession from the porte for the electric lighting of Smyrna and Salonica, together with the electric traction for tramways. He was also promised preference, if ever a similar concession was granted, for the same purposes in Constantinople. The principal value of the concession from Smyrna and Salonica consists in the priority of right which it establishes in Constantinople, where alone a large profit from the use of electricity could be expected.—London Standard.

No Kissing in Japan.

No kissing ever occurs in Japan except between husband and wife—not even between a mother and child; no shaking of hands in salutation. If one were to offer a kiss to a Japanese maiden she would probably think she was going to be bitten.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

INDIA'S SILVER TROUBLES.

Millions of Rupees Are Being Coined Illicitly.

When the government of British India closed the mints to the coinage of silver in 1893, it was predicted that private enterprise would find a way of frustrating its intentions. Sir David Barbour combated the idea and gave his reasons for believing that the measure would give rise to little or no illicit coining. The experience of the three following years seemed to justify his forecast, as nothing was detected in that direction, although the circulation of rupees was carefully observed. Matters, however, have assumed recently a different aspect. According to one of the Indian papers, the net import of silver for those three years was 26,000,000 ounces, while for the famine year 1897-98 it has risen to over 44,000,000 ounces. With this enormous augmentation of the silver imports in one year there has been an increase of rupees in circulation, principally of the years 1840 and 1862. It now transpires that illicit coining is going on in India on an enormous scale, especially in the native states. Various explanations are given of the way these illicitly coined rupees get into circulation. One is that the bazar money lenders are the channel by which they pass from the hands of the private coiners into public currency. It has been remarked that of late loans could be obtained in the bazars for short periods at several points below bank rates, and it is conjectured that this was done in consequence of the large supply of illicit rupees at the disposal of the money lenders that could be profitably employed at comparatively low rates. It is stated, on what seems good authority, that millions of illicitly coined rupees are now in circulation in India, turned out by stamping machines imported from Australia, and so excellent is the workmanship on them that they defy detection even by the masters of the mints. For the present the Indian government is collecting information on the subject before taking action to suppress the circulation of this illicitly coined money. The chief source of supply being the native states, it will be necessary to secure the co-operation of their rulers, which will be a delicate matter and not unlikely to lead to political complications.

BOSTON'S TRIBUTE TO WARING

It Knew Him as an Author as Well as Engineer.

But there is another field in which Col. Waring distinguished himself—although in these latter days his literary work has almost been forgotten, says the Boston Transcript. Few of those who admired him as a sanitary engineer and able administrative head of a vast street-cleaning department knew that in his early days he wrote a charming series of stories relating to his own experiences in the civil war, which were published under the title of "Whip and Spur," and which deserve to be read and remembered because of their keen insight into both human and brute nature. The love for the former is clearly shown by the brief sketch denominated "Wellstein," in which the history of the life and death of a brave little bugler is simply told, with just the touch of sympathetic feeling required by such a history, and his love for animals is equally well demonstrated by a tender account of a beautiful mare owned and loved by the colonel, who rescued her from oblivion only to mourn her fate later, when, in the chances of war, she was lost to him. This true history, known in the little volume simply as "Viv," is almost worthy to rank with Dr. John Brown's immortal story of "Rab and His Friends," for it commemorates a similar instance of the faithful affection often existing between man and his humble dumb servants. The experience certainly went deep into Col. Waring's heart, for years after the death of this noble horse the writer was shown a pretty, shiny hoof, carefuly preserved and cherished, as a memento of the close bond which even death had not dissolved. In the light of these later years, when Col. Waring was before the world as a scientific man, working to accomplish large results, these simple, charming stories may not appear of much importance—but as revealing the tender, faithful, lovable side of his nature they are inestimable, and for that reason they should be read and remembered.

$50 for One Bottle of Medicine.

This is to certify that my wife was for years afflicted with asthma, and was so far gone that several physicians decided that her case must terminate in consumption. I was induced to try a bottle of Dr. Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup. To our great satisfaction it gave almost immediate relief, and two bottles completely cured her. She is now well and healthy, but I would not be without the medicine if it cost fifty dollars a bottle WM. H. FARRIS,
Chn Bd Tp of Wilton, Monroe Co., Wis.

Preserve the Alligator.

Since the authorities began enforcing the game law the game all over the state is becoming more plentiful. A similar law should be passed whereby the Florida alligator should be protected from the guns of the would-be sport, who goes through the country slaying them and leaving their carcasses to rot. An exchange says that a hunting party of Kissimmee killed 700 alligators recently and their remains were left for the buzzards. If such wholesale butchery of the Florida alligator is kept up the state will soon not be able to boast of this attractive saurian, which affords the northern tourist so much interest.—Jacksonville (Fla.) Metropolis.

A Country of Inns.

In proportion to its size Switzerland has more inns than any other country in the world. The entertainment of tourists has become the chief industry of the land. No less than 1,700 hostelries, stationed for the most part on mountain tops or near glaciers, are on the list, and the receipts of the hotelkeepers amount to $25,000,000 a year, so it cannot be such a bad business.

Zionism Not For Us.

This name indicates an extensive movement of European and Asiatic Jews, whose aim was to eventually get possession of their ancient country of Judea, now called Palestine, and fill it with their people and eventually reestablish the Jewish Kingdom there, and have Jerusalem for the capital. It has able and wealthy followers in the old world, but in this country has never been popular. The American Union of Hebrew Congregations, now in session at Richmond, Va., has just passed a resolution declaring that Zionism is not desirable, but that America is good enough for them.

Indiana In Congress.

Senator Turpie has presented a petition of Indiana mine workers for an eight-hour law. Also a petition of Indianapolis business men to have express companies placed under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Hon. J. M. Robinson has presented in the House, the petition of Paul Siegel and Henry Eberley, members of the International Association of Machinists of Garrett, Ind., for an allowance of extra pay for working overtime to machinists employed at arsenals and navy yards.

More Than All Others.

ROME CITY, IND.

Dr. C. D. Warner, Coldwater, Mich.

Dear Sir—It gives me great pleasure in recommending your White Wine of Tar Syrup to the public as an excellent cough cure. I have sold over a gross within a short time and I always warrant a cure and have never had a bottle returned. I sell more of your White Wine of Tar Syrup than all other cough remedies I keep in stock. I sold one dozen bottles to one of my customers. Resp'y yours, J. P. CHAPMAN.

Defenses of Havana.

In the defenses of Havana the idea of fighting from concealed trenches, rather than behind embankments, which we saw so much of at Santiago, has been developed very fully. The rock is a coral limestone easily excavated, and the trenches cut in it are well masked. Whether such intrenchments are better suited to the use of smokeless powder than the old form which left the heads of the men relieved against the sky line is for our officers to decide, but their uniform use in Cuba indicates that they represent the deliberate conclusion of Spanish military judgment. The fortifications are said to contain forty-three new guns of the Hontoria and Ordonez types.

Animals That Never Drink.

There are in the world several kinds of animals that have never swallowed a drop of water in all their lives. These include the llamas of Patagonia and certain gazelles of the far east. A paroquet lived fifty-two years in the London zoological gardens without drinking a drop, and some naturalists think that hares take no liquid except the dew that sometimes forms on the grass that they eat. A considerable number of reptiles—serpents, lizards and certain batracians—live and prosper in places where there is no water at all. Finally, there are even in France, in the neighborhood of the Lozere, herds of cows and goats which almost never drink, and which nevertheless produce the milk of which the famous Roquefort cheese is made.

May Fall To Pieces.

Indianapolis men are noted for being loosely put together. A few days ago, one of them awoke in the morning and found his shoulder had got out of joint during the night. He sent for a doctor, who put him together again and pronounced it a case of "spontaneous dislocation" said to be very rare. Now, the man don't dare to sleep for fear he will fall to pieces.

The Appetite of a Goat

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose Stomach and Liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful Stomach and Liver Remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25 cents at any drugstore.

L. S. HOLIDAY RATES

The Lake Shore will give special holiday rates from all its stations of one and one-third fare unlimited single round trip tickets, Dec. 23-24-25-31 and January 1. Tickets not good after January 3. Children of proper age, have similar reductions on their regular fare.

Lost.

Many have lost confidence and hope as well as health because they have been told their Kidney disease was incurable. Foley's Kidney Cure is a Guaranteed remedy for the discouraged and disconsolate.

Wants Auburn Property.

I want to trade my hotel property in Waterloo for a good dwelling house in Auburn. Call on me if you have good property to trade dtf
MRS. SARAH EDGE.

WANTED---A Reliable MAN
of good address to solicit business from property-owners. Any well known person willing to work, can make $10 to $15 weekly. Commission or salary, paid weekly. Address for particulars, mentioning this paper.
CHARLES R. CHASE, Rochester, N.Y.

THE RICHLAND CASE

Two-thirds of the Voters Believe the Township should be Dry.

Hal Strouse wanted to get a license to run a saloon at Corunna. The people preferred not to have a saloon at that place, or at any place in the township. So they set to work to get up a remonstrance under the Nicholson law, if a remonstrance is signed by a majority of the voters of a township then the commissioners cannot grant a license. And in estimating the number of voters in a given township, the rule is, to add up the votes given at the last election, to the highest officer on the ballot used. Thus in 1896, they would have taken the vote on governor. But at the recent election, the secretary of state was the highest officer on the state ticket. The vote of Richland township Nov. 8, on all the candidates for that office shows:

Ralston d,	157
Hunt r,	143
Worth pro,	6
Morrison pop,	7
Yochum labor,	0
Total votes cast for all	313
A majority would be	157

So if the remonstrance showed 157 names, Strouse could not get a license. As a matter of fact the list showed 205 names, or lacking only 4 of two-thirds of the total vote. The case was up before the commissioners yesterday and today, ending at noon. D. D. Moody represented Strouse while C M. Brown aud J. E. Pomeroy represented the remonstrants.

THE POINTS.

The claim of Strouse was that the remonstrance was not valid, for these reasons:

1. It did not state that the remonstrators constituted a majority of the township votes.

2. It did not state that it was to prevent the sale of "spirituous vinous and malt liquors." It merely said in general terms "intoxicating liquors."

3. The remonstrants did not sign their "full, christian names," but only their initials.

After these questions were fully argued, the Board took till tomorrow noon to decide. Of course there can be no license granted under the circumstances. So it will be safe to say the case is ended.

"It's a Wonder We Ain't All Dead."

We eat too much, we eat too fast, we eat too often, and we take too little care of how our meals are prepared, and we would have been dead long ago but for the medical skill of Dr. Caldwell, who formulated Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Since its introduction, we find a great deal less complaint about constipation, indigestion, sick headache, sour stomach, short breath, and all the ills that come from a disordered digestive apparatus, such as some people have, but all may get rid of by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Notice to Stockholders.

Office of the Auburn Band.
Auburn, Ind., Dec. 1, 1898.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the Auburn Band will be held at the band room in the town of Auburn. Ind., Monday evening Dec. 12. 1898, at 7:30 p. m., of said day, for the election of five directors of said association to serve for the ensuing year, and for the transaction of such other business as may properly come before such meeting.

D. A. HODGE,
Secretary.

New Harness Shop.

In connection with our feed store and in the same room, we will have a harness shop in charge of a skillful harness maker. New harness made to order and on short notice. Harness repairing a specialty, and all work skillfully and promptly done. When you want any thing in this line, or in the feed line, give us a call at our room south of the jail.

CARMER & GILL.
Western 'Phone 148.

Distinguished Godfathers.

The Prince of Wales has officiated seventy-five times as godfather. The emperor of Germany stands godfather to all seventh sons in Prussia. Empress Eugenie in one year acted as godmother to 3,834 children who were born in France on March 16, 1856, the same day as the prince imperial. Cecil Rhodes is godfather to about forty young scions of the aristocracy. It is his custom to transfer to each of the godchildren fifty shares of the De Beers mines.

Notice of Stockholders Meeting.

Office of First National Bank.
Auburn, Indiana, November 29, 1898

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank, of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 10, 1899, at their banking house in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven (7) directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before such meeting.

D. A. GARWOOD,
Cashier.

No Humbug.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma, but it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by those afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases.

Thursday's Daily.

—Attorney Gibson was up from Newville today, on some legal business.

—D. A. Garwood is at Indianapolis attending the grand lodge of Masons.

—Navigation closed on the Great Lakes today, Dec. 8, and no vessels will be chartered till next spring.

—Ernest Peters, honored the COURIER with a cord of fine dry oak wood, which raises his subscription to 1900.

—A Japanese bride gives her wedding presents to her parents as some slight recompense for their trouble in rearing her.

—Laporte county boasts of of a baby weighing but three pounds. DeKalb county people wont look at any specimen less than 8 to 12 pounds.

—The Supreme Court of Michigan has decided that express companies must pay the war tax of one cent on each package, as the new revenue law demands.

—The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing, is requested to call on the druggist and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, which always gives relief.

—John W. Baxter came home this forenoon, after a trip of several days up at Hamilton on some business. He reports his father, Andrew Baxter, in fairly good health, though in his 84th year.

—Mentone Gazette- Columbia City has two one-legged men, one with a right leg and the other with a left, and both wear the same sized shoe, so they always go "snooks" when buying foot gear, one pair supplying both men.

—Many a household is saddered by death because of the failure to keep on hand a safe and absolutely certain cure for croup such as One Minute Cough Cure. See that your little ones are protected against emergency. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. Lodewick is here, a guest in the family of her son, A. G. Lodewick, whose home is north of town. Her home is in Albany N. Y. Mr. Lodewick accompanied her to Fort Wayne yesterday. Next week she goes to visit relatives at Webb City, Mo.

—Columbia City Post:—Janitor Steele was rudely awakened from his slumbers Tuesday evening by some one who informed him that he had a prisoner in the court house who wanted out. Upon investigation he found that Judge Adair had been locked in and had grown weary of waiting.

—Hudson Banner:—Rabbits are very fine and fat this year. Our brother, John Weamer, of near Auburn, brought us one the other day, truly the finest specimen we ever helped eat. This good brother of ours is a champion rabbit hunter and when one sees him he (the rabbit) simply says his little prayer and gives up the contest.

—Pulaski King, one of the early merchants of Laporte died last week. He helped work in the first newspaper published in that county, "The Michigan City Gazette" which started July 8, 1835. Later he was in the mercantile business, first as a clerk for the Blairs, now Chicago millionaires. About 1850 he moved to Laporte, and continued in the dry goods business till 1884. He made the best business deal of his life in 1861. He saw that cotton would be high when the war began, and invested every dollar he could get in cotton goods, filling the second floor of his store full. He got five prices for the most of it. He died wealthy.

—An exchange says: Four fool girls at Carlisle worked a scheme and enticed Dr. McIlrath to another room and kissed him, and now bigger fool newspapers are winking at the immodesty and telling it with great gush. We rather think the display of gush was on the part of the "immodest" young ladies. Since kissing is the reward with which adventure of any sort is now rewarded, we may confidentially look forward to an unusual degree of bravery, either "real or implied," from the young men of this country. Let other countries who desire to encourage bravery call on their daughters to imitate the examples of American girls.

—Of about fifty species of electric fishes, only three are of special importance—the torpedo, a kind of skate of the Mediterranean; the gymnotus or electric eel, of the Orinoco; and the malapterurus or thunderer fish, of the Nile. Interesting facts about the electric organ have been lately brought to light, This most remarkable of all batteries, whose results are said to be more economically obtained than any reached by man, acts only at the will of the animal, which also controls its intensity, and the discharge seems to depend upon some chemical process in the plate where the nerve filaments end. In the full grown gymnotus, whose shocks may stun a man, the voltage is probably between 300 and 800. A curious feature of the batteries is that they are without insultation. The discharge, which does not affect the fish itself, is used for protection and securing food.

Watch to be Given Away.

I will give a ticket with every dozen Cabinets in Platino or Dull finish on a Lady's or Gentleman's Gold watch to be drawn on Xmas eve, as a Xmas present to the lucky holder. Now is the time to have your Xmas Pictures taken, don't wait until one or two weeks before Xmas, to have your Negatives made. To take effect at once.

HOFFMAN, The Artist,
Cor. 7 & Jackson-st, Auburn, Ind.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Friday's Daily.

—Gen. Blair of Waterloo was in town today.

—P. J. Rinehart, of Concord, was a caller today, and helped fill our money till on COURIER subscription.

—Miss Margaret Ford came home today after a two weeks visit with her grandfathe, G. W, Lewis at Hicksville.

—Mrs. Chas Kinsey came home yesterday after an extended visit with her people at South Milford, in Lagrange county.

—Samuel Miller of Stafford was a caller today. He compliments the COURIER on its choice of a ground door location.

—Mrs H. K Scott was here yesterday and today; having come to attend the tea given yesterday by Mrs. Hodge and Mrs. Hartman.

—An Indianapolis policeman died the other day, from blood poisoning caused by treating a corn on his toe. Thieves and burglars will hereafter know where to hit a policeman they wish to kill.

—Saxby McIntosh had quite a meritorious poem in the Dawn last week. It recounts the experience of a printer, from the condition of devil down to that of editor, and will be read by all "printer men" with a good deal of interest.

—Goshen has a church, the Episcopalian, that rings its bell 60 times a day, or twelve times for each of its five services. The people are petitioning to have this stopped, and the church has finally agreed to compromise. They will toll the bell instead of ringing it. Whether that will be much of an improvement remains to be seen.

—Charlie Comesky not only paid his subscription today, but brought in a new name, M. E. Freeman, of Leo. We are pleased to have Mr. Freeman among our patrons. We used to know his grandfather, Freeman, and the other grandfather, M. M. Bowen, and this seems almost like a renewal of their acquaintance.

—Artificial teeth of gutta percha, porcelain or metal have been firmly implanted in the jaws of men and dogs by the process of Dr. Zamesky. Holes are made in the base of the tooth, which is then placed in a cavity formed in the jaw, and in a short time a soft granulated growth enters the holes in the tooth and—gradually hardening—securely holds it in place.

Saturday's Daily.

—Ask any druggist for a free Peruna Almanac for the year 1899.

—W. H. Leas, of Waterloo was here today some legal business matters.

—Some of the swamps in Whitley county are still on fire in spite of the several weeks rain.

—Gold has been found near Toledo in paying quantities, they believe, and a company formed to work it.

—H. G. Provines was from St. Joe today, having had a pretty cold ride against the sharp wind His school is progressing finely.

—Blanche Kelley, of Waterloo is taking her vacation visiting friends in Auburn, making headquarters with her relatives, the Hennings on North Main street.

—LOST:—A neck halter, somewhere on or near South Main-st., in Auburn. Finder will please leave at COURIER office or return to Sherman Shanks, Waterloo.

—The COURIER is under obligations to W. A. Cremean of Corunna, for recent favors. Mr. Cremean is one of the most prosperous business men in that lively little town.

—Late to bed and early to rise, prepares a man for his home in the skies, But early to bed and a Little Early Riser, the pill that makes life longer and better and wiser. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Johnny Picker sailed into the COURIER office this afternoon and opened a bran new box of cigars for the boys, and dealt out a liberal supply of candy for the lady employes, who like the editor, are "non-smokers." All enjoyed the treat highly, but John was the happiest one in the room.

—Now, some of our exchanges are still harping about the diphtheria in Auburn, and adding that Auburn doctors were to blame for permitting the families that had it, to bulldoze them into calling the disease by some other name. This is all nonsense. No Auburn family ever asked to have it done When will this wild talk cease?

—Thursday evening the Home Restaurant tickled the palates of its patrons by a supper of quail on toast. It was the real quail and the real toast, and the enjoyment thereof was also real. Of course, they always set a good table there, as all the town knows, but so few town people get quail, even in this season of abundance, that it came as a pleasant surprise.

—Henry Fretz of Richland was here today, and brings word that his mother is still very sick with little or no hope of final recovery. Her son Frank from Rochester, Ind, is staying there a part of the time to help care for her, and another son, Dr. J. C. Fretz of Deedsville, Ind., comes up to see her twice a week. He is treating her, and doing all possible to make her comfortable.

—John Picker telephoned some scripture to us this forenoon, something like this: "To us a child is born; to us a son is given." He was so tickled he couldn't tell us just where to find the passage. He says a ten-pound boy rattles a fellow so. It all happened at 10 a. m. today. Dr. Vesta Swarts being the attending physician. As John came to the phone himself we conclude he is able to be about and we are pleased to learn that all is well with the happy mother, also.

WHOOPING COUGH

One of the most distressing sights, is to see a child almost choking with the dreadful whooping-cough. Give the child Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, the greatest pulmonary remedy, and relief will come at once, the coughing spells will re-occur less frequently, and, in a few days, the sufferer will be entirely cured. No other remedy can boast of so many cures.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Cures Whooping-Cough quickly.
Doses are small and pleasant to take. Doctors recommend it. Price 25 cts. At all druggists.

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 13, 1898.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 50 pm	5 55
New Era	12 12 pm	5 17	6 40
Auburn Junction	12 26	5 28	7 10
Auburn	12 29	5 32	7 35
Waterloo	12 42	5 43	8 15
Summit	12 52	5 53	8 35
Steubenville	12 56	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 08	6 08	8 56
Angola	1 13	6 14	9 35
Jackson	3 25	8 35	2 40 pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	5 55 am	11 30 am	7 15 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	9 35
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 29	9 45
Steubenville		2 36	9 51
Summit	11 50	2 39	9 56
Waterloo	12 41 pm	2 55	10 10
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 20
Auburn Junction	1 35	3 08	10 22
New Era	1 54	3 18	10 35
Fort Wayne	2 00	3 50	11 00

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address R. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

The Only Place In Town

Where you can buy everything in the Fruit and Candy line at most reasonable prices. We can sell you at retail goods as cheap as most of wholesale dealers.

When You Want: Bananas, Lemons, Oranges, Apples, Cream Candies, French " , Chocolates, Nuts, Cigars, Etc.

of every variety, and a line to select from that no house in Auburn can compete with. Call and see me at South 7th street, Kohlinger block.

FRANK ROSE,
THE FRUIT MAN.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.

The greatest remedy for Incipient Consumption. Cures at once Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Loss of Voice, Bronchitis, Grippe, Asthma and Croup. At all druggists. 25c.

For Pneumonia.

Dr. S. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich., says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the past month with good results."

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS—IMPORTANT.

The Quaker Valley Mfg. Co., of Chicago, have requested us to announce that they have several thousand sets of the finest coin silver-plated War Memorial Spoons left over from their recent distribution. They will mail, postpaid, a full set of six of these spoons to every subscriber to the COURIER, who will send name and address—a postal card will do. If, on receipt of the spoons, you find them the most exquisitely beautiful specimens of the silversmith's art you ever saw, and worth $3.00, remit 75 cents, as payment in full, within 30 days; if not pleased return spoons immediately. Each spoon is of a different design—after-dinner coffee size—showing soldiers in camp in Cuba, Morro Castle and four U. S. Battleships. They are imperishable mementoes of the late war, and every subscriber should accept this most remarkable offer and obtain a set before it is too late. All that's necessary is to say you're a subscriber to the COURIER (this is important) and that you accept Memorial spoon offer. Address QUAKER VALLEY MFG. CO., 357 W. Harrison St., Chicago.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the Auditor's office in DeKalb County, Indiana, until 2 o'clock p. m., Tuesday, December 13, 1898, for furnishing Blank Books and Stationary as per requisitions on file in this office.

Separate bids will be received for Blank Books and for Stationary.

The Board of Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and old bids.

FRANK P. SPILER Auditor.

Auburn, Ind., Nov. 28, 1898.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Faceache	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Eruptions	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.
Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Recorder's Office

Volume XXVIII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, December 22, 1898. | Number 51.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2	6:25 am—Daily
No. 10	8:40 am—ex Su
No. [illegible]	4:40 pm—ex Su
No. 4	4 9 pm—Daily
No. 76 (local freight)	3:20 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1	1 :4 am—Daily
No. 7	10:21 am—ex Su
No. 9	6:17 pm—ex Su
No. 3	7: 8 pm—Daily
No. 71 (local freight)	11 0 am—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
C. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 13, 1898.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 50 pm	5 55
New Era	12 12 pm	5 17	6 0
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 28	7 10
Auburn	12 29	5 32	7 35
Waterloo	12 41	5 43	8 15
Summit	12 52	5 53	8 35
Steubenville	12 56	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	8 56
Angola	1 13	6 14	9 35
Jackson	3 25	8 35	2 40pm

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	5 55 am	11 30 am	7 15 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	9 35
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 29	9 45
Steubenville	.....	2 36	9 51
Summit	11 50	2 39	9 56
Waterloo	12 41 pm	2 55	10 10
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 20
Auburn Junction	1 35	3 02	10 22
New Era	1 54	3 18	10 39
Fort Wayne	2 50	3 50	11 05

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths,
Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D

T. G. Matheny, M.D. J. B. Casebeer, M.D.

Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
have again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE

Office	No. 9
Matheny's residence	" 88
Casebeer's "	" 175

S. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P

FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy building northeast corner of Square Western Phone 103
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works. Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physcian & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUGSTORE
In the National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Calls Answered At All Hours,

Commissioner's Court

There was at this regular session a, big lot of work to do, and they were kept hard at it every day, adjourning at the end of the 9th day, last evening that being the limit. Among the items we have not heretofore reported are:

DITCHES.

The Adam Deetz drain, O. H. Taylor, being related to some of the parties, was changed off as a viewer, the names now on the list being Levi Treesh, John Yarde and C. H. Bangs. These viewers meet January 9.

Geo. Matson drain was up for consideration, and after a good deal of discussion leave was granted to correct the record, so as to make all satisfactory and this is to be done at the expense of Mr. Matson or Franklin township.

HIGHWAYS.

The Phillip Carper highway, was called up by Baxter & Brown, attorneys for petioner, but the matter was finally continued to the March term.

The W. A. Dannells highway in Wilmington was continued, as there was no proof of the posting of notices.

Willard Eddy, trustee of Troy township brought up the matter of an unsafe bridge over Fish Creek. The Board agreed to look up the matter at some future day.

P. A. Gengler, a constable at Garrett presented his resignation, and several names were brought up for his successor. No action as yet. There was also a petition for the appointment of a justice for Keyser township.

M. Boland and J. H. Rose reported as to condition of accounts of late Sheriff Stroh. All right this time and report approved.

Dr. D. A. Sebring was appointed secretary of the Board of Health, salary $40 a year.

LIQUOR LICENSES

Licenses werere granted to Geo. Nodine, Edward S, Huffman, Isaac Whirledge, Edward Eldridge, Wm. Oberlin, Henry Geddes, Ed Fox and Daniel Hook. As reported before, license was refused to Hal. Strouse at Corunna, as a majority of the voters of Richland township signed a remonstrance against it.

THE ST. JOE MATTER.

The petition to incorporate St Joe has already been publised in part. It appears by the petition, that Nov. 9, a census of the village was taken, and it was found to contain 121 voters, and a total population of 446. Notices had been properly posted and so the Board ordered an election to be held Dec. 26, from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. of said day.

The several county officers at different times during the session, made the reports required by law, as to fees collected and turned over to the treasurer.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS—IMPORTANT.

The Quaker Valley Mfg. Co., of Chicago, have requested us to announce that they have several thousand sets of the finest coin silver-plated War Memorial Spoons left over from their recent distribution. They will mail, postpaid, a full set of six of these spoons to every subscriber to the COURIER, who will send name and address—a postal card will do. If, on receipt of the spoons, you find them the most exquisitely beautiful specimens of the silversmith's art you ever saw, and worth $3.00, remit 78 cents, as payment in full, within 30 days; if not pleased return spoons immediately. Each spoon is of a different design—after-dinner coffee size—showing soldiers in camp in Cuba, Morro Castle and four U. S. Battleships. They are imperishable mementoes of the late war, and every subscriber should accept this most remarkable offer and obtain a set before it is too late. All that's necessary is to say you're a subscriber to the COURIER (this is important) and that you accept Memorial spoon offer. Address QUAKER VALLEY MFG. CO., 357 W. Harrison St., Chicago.

NOTICE!

Notice is hereby given that sealed bids will be received at the Auditor's office in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, until two o'clock p. m. on Tuesday the 27th day of December, 1898, for furnishing Blank Books and Stationery as per specifications on file in the Auditor's Office.

Separate bids only will be entertained for the Blank Books and Stationery.

Each bid must be accompanied with a bond or certified check in the sum of one thousand (1000!) dollars for security to enter into a contract within five days if the contract is awarded to him.

The Board reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Board of Commissioners.

FRANK P. SEILER,
Auditor.

Auburn, Indiana, Dec. 15, 1898.

"It's a Wonder We Ain't All Dead."

We eat too much, we eat too fast, we eat too often, and we take too little care of how our meals are prepared, and we would have been dead long ago but for the medical skill of Dr. Caldwell, who formulated Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Since its introduction, we find a great deal less complaint about constipation, indigestion, sick headache, sour stomach, short breath, and all the ills that come from a disordered digestive apparatus, such as some people have, but all may get rid of by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Reduced Rates for Holidays.

The Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway will sell reduced rate tickets between all points on its line on December 23, 24, 25, 26, 30 and 31, 1898, and January 1 and 2, 1899, good returning until January 3rd inclusive. Tickets will be sold also on above dates to points on some immediate connecting lines. Consult with ticket agents. Send eight cents in postage for handsome 1899 calendar, to A. J. Smith, G. P. & T. A. Cleveland, Ohio.

"The Clothes that Fit and Stay in Shape."

Made of the finest materials money will buy, all seams sewed with heavy silk thread, each suit fitted to a living model in the making and made to conform to the natural lines of the figure. The Prince Albert Suits made by Hart, Schaffner & Marx are worn by good dressers everywhere. Not one custom tailor in ten can equal them in style and fit. We sell them under the guarantee that goes with all clothing bearing this trademark:

HART, SCHAFFNER & MARX.

H. S. & M.

GUARANTEED CLOTHING.

PRINCE ALBERT FROCK SUIT.
Copyright, 1898, by Hart, Schaffner & Marx.

This is the kind of Clothing you should give for Christmas presents. Not neccesarily this particular style of coat. We have the same excellency to show in any style coat, for the wee little fellows, the school boys, the young men, the middle aged and old. What makes them more attractive to you is the price; so low that you can't possibly find fault.

Christmas buying has opened up in good shape with us. We have quite a goodly lot of packages sold and laid away to be called for just before Xmas. Several lines we have found necessary to re-order on, so that we may be able to keep our stock right up to snuff.

Dress Patterns.

It pleases us to see the number of nice Dress Patterns going out, no doubt many of them for presents.

An Umbrella...

Makes the finest kind of a present. We have by far the handsomest assortment ever shown in town.

Handkerchiefs...

Are always a most acceptable gift. Our showing in this line is head and shoulders above anything you've ever seen here. Special prices on half dozens or over.

Our tock of Furs...

Is going at a rapid rate. We wouldn't be surprised if every garment was gone several days before Xmas. We again urge you to come early and get your pick.

Shield Mufflers.

This week we open two more lots of new Shield Mufflers. Be sure to see them before making your purchase.

We are showing an extensive line of White and Fancy Shirts which merit your consideration. We have Neckwear of all kinds and at all prices.

Rugs, Portieres, Lace Curtains and Carpet Sweepers make fine presents. We are headquarters for these goods. Come early and often.

We are Saving You Money.

SCHAAB & BRO.

WARNING.

AUBURN, IND, Dec. 14, 1898.

We, the undersigned, give warning to hunters, that no hunting will be allowed on their farms. All those caught hunting without permission of the owner will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

Joseph Stahl,
Myron Kutzner,
C C Buss,
Peter Miser,
Benjamin Close,
Justin Girardot,
Wm. Peckart,
George Dunn,
George Likens,
John Miser,
Fred Korff,
Geo. Pepple,
Mrs. Miser,
A. W. Husselman
Mrs. C. C. Hoffman,
John Pepple,
Alva Brandon,
John Wetzel,
E. Raub,
Cal. Kutzner,
J. Kloepfel,
H. Witt,
Geo. Weaver,
Ira Goetschius,
A. Brown,
Samuel Weaver,
Samuel Husselman,
Eli Walker.

From this it will be seen that the above named land owners, prefer not to have the quail and other game on their lands killed, and of course they have the right to object. Doubtless, after this notice becomes known, their wishes will be respected.

For Pneumonia.

Dr. S. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich., says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the past month with good results"

Dr. Bull's COUGH SYRUP
Cures Pleurisy and Pneumonia.
The best remedy for lung affections. Small dose. Price 25 cts. at druggists.

Parsnip Complexion.

It does not require an expert to detect the sufferer from kidney trouble. The hollow cheeks, the sunken eyes, the dark, puffy circles under the eyes, the sallow parsnip colored complexion indicates it.

A physician would ask if you had rheumatism, a dull pain or ache in the back or over the hips, stomach trouble, desire to urinate often, or a burning or scalding in passing it; if after passing there is an unsatisfied feeling as if it must be at once repeated, or if the urine has a brick dust deposit or strong odor.

When these symptoms are present, no time should be lost in removing the cause.

Delay may lead to gravel, catarrh of the bladder, inflamation, causing stoppage, and sometimes requiring the drawing of the urine with instruments, or may run into Bright's Disease, the most dangerous stage of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, is a positive remedy for such diseases. Its reputation is world-wide and it is so easy to get at any drug store that no one need suffer any length of time for want of it.

However, if you prefer to first test its wonderful merits, mention The Auburn Courier and write to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghampton, N. Y. for a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail.

Grasping Whitley

The Columbia City Post says: "According to report Whitley county will soon have another postoffice to her credit. The little villiage of Ormus, which lies on both sides of the line between Whitley and Noble counties, has a postoffice which occupies a building on the Noble county side, but for some reason it is soon to be moved over on the other side. It is said that Whitley should receive part of the credit of ownership as it is, as the entrance is so close to the line that patrons are compelled to step over into this county in order to get in at the door."

The Printing Bids

The bids for printing blanks, for furnishing blank books, such as dockets, records, and the like; for furnishing pens, ink, erasers, pencils, tablets, paper, etc, etc, were considered Monday afternoon, By request of the local printers, the matter was divided so that the big bound books, and work of that character, could be kept separate and local printers who did not care to handle that sort of work, need not be bothered with it, but could make their bids separately, for the blanks, and such work as they could could do, and such as they had a better knowledge of. The bids were found to vary a great deal, some not appearing to understand fully, the amount that was to be furnished. They are as follows:

COMBINED BIDS.

Wilson Humphrey & Co., of Logansport, The Sentinel Co., of Indianapolis and W. B. Burford of Indianapolis, bid for all together as follows:

Sentinel Co.	$989
Wilson Humphrey & Co	$950
W. B. Burford	$983

SEPARATE BIDS.

Auburn Dispatch, blanks etc	$325
" " books, etc	425
Auburn COURIER, blanks etc	537

The Dispatch's bid, if combined would be the lowest. But it appears they did not bid for the full amount, for had they understood what the others did, that considerable supplies to carry the officers over into the following year, were required, they would not have made so low a bid. They surely could not have furnished what the specifications called for, at $750. Owing, as we suppose, partly to this misunderstanding. The commissioners decided not to accept any bids, as Wilson, Humphreys & Co., seem to have fallen into the same error the Dispatch had, and the bids will be had over again, Dec. 27, as noticed elsewhere. Of course there is some dissatisfaction over the result, as there usually is. But under the circumstances, we do not see how the commissioners could do otherwise than what they did.

Samples Free.

The great number of newspapers, magazines, etc., that are now being published have made it very hard for the readers to decide just what one they wish to subscribe for. The American Subscription Agency, of Indianapolis, Ind., have compiled a list of 100 papers that they offer to send a sample copy of each to any address upon receipt of 10 cents to pay for mailing. They do this so that you may see and read a copy of each paper before subscribing. If you decide to subscribe to any of their papers to the amount of $1 they offer to deduct the 10 cents sent from the subscribtion. Send 10 cents to the American Subscription Agency, 653 Arch St., Indianapolis, Ind., and you will receive one hundred papers. j23

The Federal Court.

Judge John H. Baker made short work of this session of the federal court, which he came up from Indianapolis to hold, as noted in the COURIER the other day. A good deal of the session was devoted to the case of Long vs the Kiblinger Company. This will be remembered by our readers as a case, where Long claims the Kiblinger Co. are infringing on a patent he has for a particular kind of back for a buggy seat. The facts are the Kiblinger Co. did not find his seat very much of a thing, and having a better one of their own, did not use his only enough to find it would not pay. But the suit has fought its way into the U. S. court. After hearing arguments pretty fully, Judge Baker took the case under advisement But it is not easy to say when a decision will be given, The federal judges don't fret the cattle.

There was one other case, that will interest Auburn people and that is the one brought by Geo. S. Eldred against Wm. F. Kessler. This is also for an alleged infringement of a patent, it being in regard to Mr. Kessler's cigar lighters. As Mr. Kessler had his lighter on the market first it is not likely he is in much danger. This case was only called up, but not tried. Thursday the judge, clerk and marshal packed their grips and went back to Indianapolis leaving most of the cases untried.

"Every Advertiser Lies."

Is the general impression among people who do not read. Fortunately there are very few people who have eyes and do not read. The more one reads, the more one knows, and the more one learns. Now, if we failed to put this advertisement where you may read it, we would be doing you an injustice, for like as not you are this moment suffering and maybe do not know what is the matter with you. After you have read this advertisement, go and spend 10c for a trial bottle of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs 10c a line to tell you any more about this, so we will not enlarge on this subject. Try us in this. You can get it of Davenport, the druggist.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

An Oriental Romance.

[Detroit Free Press.]

In the dim and murky past, it happened that the wife of Sultan Mohammed Abdu passed from this world into the world beyond.

The Sultan was much grieved. She had been his favorite and he knew not what to do. Many times and oft he sought her tomb and wept copiously upon it. Roses were planted there by him, by his own hands. And by and by he erected a monument, bearing upon its polished surface only these words:

"The Light of my Life Has Gone Out."

And ever thereafter many times and oft did he seek the tomb. The winds blew through the roses and scattered the petals far and wide, and they died. With them sped the love of Sultan Mohammed Abdu.

There came into his life another, and a younger—a maiden fair of face and form, such as it was joy for him to possess.

—He took her unto himself and placed her in his establishment.

After the marriage he walked one day with her to the burial ground. They passed the tomb of the other favorite.

The new wife read the inscription cut there in the monument, "The Light of My Life Has Gone Out," and she spake unto Sultan Mohammed Abdu, saying, "You must fix that."

And the Sultan did.

One day he went into the burial ground alone with a cold chised and a hammer.

He worked long. The click of the chisel on the stone was heard beyond the walls.

At eventide he stepped back and surveyed his work. There beneath the inscription, had he cut these words:

"But I've Struck Another Match."

And Turkish Record has it that they lived happily ever after.

For Hoarseness.

Benj. Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind, says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers.

Senator Bryce Dead.

Ex-Senator Calvin S. Bryce, died at his home in the city of New York, yesterday afternoon at 3:15.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

CHAPLAIN MEDBURY

A large audience greeted Chaplain Medbury last evening at the M. E. church. It was not only the town people, but people from the country, for many who never saw him before, have had a good report from him, through the boys of Company K, about forty of whom were also present. Mr. Medbury is a pleasant and eloquent speaker and his lecture was so clearly arranged and so plain in its matter, that it was easily followed. His subject was "Good Citizenship," and the aim was to instill the principles and practice of temperance into the minds of his hearers, both old and young. There was no shadow of abuse or villification in his argument. He stated plain facts. He began with the young man, and showed how foolish it would be to spend his hard earned money for drink, which he did not need. He contrasted the condition of such, with that of the young man who works equally hard, but saves a part of his money to secure a home and comforts. Then he spoke of the employers and the growing interest they are taking in the temperance question. For it is coming to be seen that an employer cannot afford to have an employe who drinks to excess and so either unfits himself for doing a good day's work, or becomes unreliable. He dwelt fully on this important phase of the question and predicted the time is at hand when a drinking man would see all the best employment given to the man whose condition is one of sobriety, with a clear brain and a steady hand. All these things he made so plain and clinched his facts together so solidly that the young men at least, must have felt the burning truth of all he said. Of course we cannot give more than a brief sketch of what he said. But the whole lecture was a string of priceless jewels, that even a patron of strong drink would admire had he heard it. And he must have agreed with the truths given, for they were unanswerable. After the lecture was over, the audience crowded about him to congratulate him and make his acquaintance. But it was the young men of Company K, that grasped his hand most eagerly. They had learned through the long summer waiting in the miasmatic camps in the south, to love and revere their Chaplain. He had gone into the service like themselves, as a private soldier, but by his eminent fitness became their spiritual adviser, their guide and friend. He shared with them the hardships and disagreeable features of soldier life, and was always ready with a friendly word to cheer and encourage, and to keep them in the right path of the true American soldier fighting for a great principle and chiefly for the benefit of a different race, people and creed.

RESCUE OF THE WINSLOW.

And the Heroic Death of the Lamented Lieutenant Bagley.

The most sanguinary naval action of the war, and one that showed well a phase of that reckless daring and cool effrontery displayed by American soldiers and sailors, was the engagement between the American vessels and Spanish gunboats off Cardenas, May 11, 1898. The torpedo-boat Winslow went within half a mile of the wharves of the town, with the intention of drawing the Spanish gunboats from their hiding-places, and inducing them to give battle in the open. Suddenly, from behind the corner of one of the piers, there came a flash, followed by a faint puff of vapor, and a shell screamed past the Winslow, and before she could turn, from three or four other places came the smokeless flash, and again with greater precision the destructive projectiles, and the fight was on.

After a drawing in HARPER'S MAGAZINE. Copyright, 1898, by Harper & Brothers.

THE RESCUE OF THE "WINSLOW"

The Winslow was soon followed by the Wilmington and the Hudson, but it was to the Winslow that the Spanish gunners devoted their energy and their shells. One of the first shots fired struck her, and partly lamed her Fairly deluged with shot and shell, and struck in a dozen places, she still fought on, and it was not until her steering-gear was injured, and she became unmanageable, that her commander thought of withdrawing. But then it was too late, for her machinery was stopped, and she was rapidly drifting towards shore.

It was then that the Hudson came within hailing distance of the Winslow, and Lieutenant Bernadou, the commander of the Winslow, called out that his vessel was totally disabled.

The Hudson was steered for the Winslow, close enough to throw a heaving line to her. The line fell short. Reversing the engines, and putting the helm to starboard, the captain of the Hudson tried to back his vessel down to the Winslow; but working directly against her helm, she backed around until she was bows on to the Winslow, and moving away from her. The water was so shallow that the Hudson was unmanageable, and fate, in the garb of the regular afternoon sea breeze, was setting the Winslow every moment nearer the shore, and into a zone of more murderous fire. Backward and forward, swerving this way and that, the Hudson struggled for more than twenty minutes at a task that each moment grew more hopeless. At last a fortunate sheer, a quick shift of the helm, the line was thrown, caught, the hawser was bent on, and the two little crafts started to draw away from their most dangerous position.

It was at this time that the tragic event which has given this engagement its sad prominence occurred. The officers and crew of the Winslow were gathered along her rail, waiting to grasp the expected heaving line. Grouped around the starboard gun were an officer and four men. And they stood there, says Lieutenant Ernest E. Mead, the navigating officer of the Hudson, to his article on "The Rescue of the Winslow," in Harper's Magazine for December—the men expectant, every nerve taut, waiting to grasp the elusive line, which was their only chance of escape from almost certain destruction, the officer, self-contained, smiling a perfect antidote for nervousness in his calm bearing. The next instant they were gone. A flash barely visible in the glare of the sun, a report, unnoticed in the noise of the battle, a faint puff of vapor, and, as it cleared away, it was seen that five men had been wounded, killed, destroyed by an enemy's projectile. One cry, a few muttered curses, and the crews hurried to their stations.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1898. DECEMBER. 1898.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

L. Q. 5th. N. M. 12th. F. Q. 19th. F. M. 27th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

YEAR'S WORK OF MISSIONS.

Protestant Missionaries in the Field Number 11,839.

Rev. E. E. Strong, D. D., editor of the Missionary Herald, has prepared a summary of world-wide Protestant missions for the last year. It shows that there has been a large increase in subscriptions, coming chiefly from this country, where an increase of $25,000 is shown, and from Great Britain, where to the $6,471,840, regularly contributed, is added $2,089,134 expended by organizations not strictly missionary. The American board has received in contributions the last year $687,203, making a grand total of $30,405,043 received since organization. The twelve colleges of the board have 2,483 pupils.

Son of a Millionaire Kills Himself by Inhaling Gas.

At Milwaukee, Wis., Herman Stahl Schmidt, 32 years old, has been found dead in bed with the gas turned on. He was the son of a millionaire dynamite manufacturer in Siegen, Germany, and had been in this country several years, following his profession of mining engineer. He had received large sums of money from the old country, which he spent freely.

For the last two months his money did not come and he was forced to pawn his jewelry. A few days ago he told his friends that if money did not come soon he would commit suicide.

Will Raise the Maine

A special from Washington says: The Navy Department has not abandoned the hope of rescuing the Maine from Havana harbor and bringing the wreck back to this country for rehabilitation, nor does it seem likely from the interest taken by responsible wrecking experts, that the Cristobol Colon will be permitted to pound to pieces on the shore west of Santiago. The Board of Construction has under consideration a formal proposition for the salvage of both these vessels and their delivery at New York or such other port in the United States as the Government might select.

Queen Lili Reconciled.

Honolulu special: It is announced through her friends that ex-Queen Liliuokalani will not accept a pension from the United States. She is said to be reconciled to the situation and asks nothing in compensation of the loss of her throne. She intends to devote her energies to securing claims to crown lands in order that she may make adequate provision for her niece, the Princess Kaiulani, and with the remainder establish and endow institutions for the benefit of Hawaii and the Hawaiians.

China Buys Guns.

A Tacoma (Wash.) dispatch says: Advices by the Empress of India state that Russia has sold half a million obsolete Berdan rifles to China at a large price through the Russo-China Bank. Viceroy Tan of China, is ordered from Pekin to pay for them at the rate of five taels per rifle and twelve taels per 1,000 cartridges.

Every two rifles are supplied with a set of extra parts in case of loss. Manchu troops throughout the Empire are to be armed with them at once.

Thousands Are Starving.

On board the steamer Gaelic, which arrived at San Francisco from the Orient recently, was the Rev. H. W. White, a missionary. He brings the news that in Chin Chow Fu province, inhabited by over 4,500,000 people, mostly farmers, people are dying by the thousands from starvation, owing to two successive failures of the crops. The people of Shang Fung Province are also starving. In some villages of the latter place there are hundreds of deaths in a week's time.

Ordered Out of Commission.

Washington special: The cruiser New Orleans has been ordered out of commission. A steam heating plant is to be placed in the vessel. The ship was built for the Brazilian Government, for service in the tropics, and no arrangements were made for heating. The Jackies aboard her have had an uncomfortable time. The crew will be transferred to the battleship New York.

Offices to Give Out.

Acting Secretary of War Meikeljohn and Adjutant General Corbin have been busy selecting army officers for the collectors of customs at several collection ports in Cuba during the American occupation. The officers must be in Havana at noon January 1.

Masonic Temple Attractions, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Dec. 26—"A Hired Girl."
Dec. 28—"Why Smith Left Home."
Dec. 31—Julia Marlowe.

Spanish Soldiers Dying at Madrid.

Dispatches from Madrid assert that thousands of soldiers from Cuba are suffering terribly. Many are dying of hunger in Madrid. The Government owes millions of back pay, but cannot find money to give them.

Yosemite for Dewey.

The auxiliary cruiser Yosemite has been selected for Admiral Dewey's fleet and will be fitted out at the Norfolk Navy Yard, to make the trip to Manila via the Suez Canal. It will take naval stores and 500 enlisted men.

Policeman Found Dead.

At Cleveland, Patrolman Joseph Spursey was found dead on his beat in an alley. He was lying in a pool of blood with a bullet hole through his brain. His revolver was lying by his side with three chambers empty. The case is shrouded in the deepest mystery.

Accident to a Warship.

The battle ship Massachusetts, less than an hour out of her berth in the Brooklyn navy yard, struck the bottom or some obstruction off Governor's Island, and was taken back to the navy yard with her bottom stove in and three compartments filled with water.

SEASONABLE WEATHER HELPS.

Big November Trade but a Step Toward Something Better.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "The most significant thing this week has been the entire absence of the customary nervous fright before or after the meeting of Congress, the President's message and the treasurer's report. No one showed the least alarm, and nobody could find a reason for any. Money and stocks and grain markets moved on exactly as if the Government were automatic, certain to do or say no more than the people had already decided and expected, and so the gradual betterment since October continues. There is a larger demand for products in nearly all the great industries, larger export demand for foreign needs, a more healthy domestic demand since seasonable weather arrived, and a comforting conviction that November business, the biggest ever done in this country in any month, was but a step toward something better. This week's failures have been 248 in the United States, against 312 last year, and 22 in Canada, against 29 last year."

IN PRISON; HIS VICTIM ALIVE.

John Tongass Serving a Sentence for Murder Never Committed.

John Tongass, a convict in the Columbus (Ohio) penitentiary, was reported for fighting the other morning. During the investigation Assistant Deputy Wells asked him what he was sent to prison for. Tongass answered: "I was convicted for murder in the second degree, and no person knows better than you do that I am not guilty of the crime for which I was convicted." "Why, I never saw you before in my life," replied the deputy. "That is true, but you knew the boy I was convicted of killing, and you know that he is alive and well," continued Tongass. "I was convicted for killing Albert Van Riper, of Kenton." Young Van Riper is well known to Deputy Wells, who asserts that he is alive and working in Kenton. He recently visited Columbus. Tongass was convicted on circumstantial evidence. A boy traveling with him disappeared, and supposedly human bones were found in his campfire afterward. He has been in the prison since 1890.

GRINDS NINE TO DEATH.

Fast Express on the New York Central Runs Into Snow Shovelers.

Nine men were killed and three injured at Winspeare bridge, near Corfu, N. Y., on the New York Central railroad. They were Poles, with the exception of John Warner, their foreman, who is among the killed. The men were shoveling snow and stepped from one track to avoid an approaching freight train right in front of a fast express train running in the same direction as the freight. The dead were literally ground to pieces. Engineer Smith of the express says: "I could see nothing ahead of me, but I thought the place looked bad and blew my whistle. I had let up on the whistle when I heard my fireman give a yell. He did not call for brakes, but I slapped on the air the minute I heard him. He had seen a man beside the track. My train stopped in about two lengths and then I saw the dead and mangled lying on both sides of the track just as they had been thrown."

Atrocities in Formosa.

Terrible atrocities are reported from Formosa. Two hundred rebels recently attacked a village, surprising the people and looting the place. They burned thirty-seven houses. A Japanese police inspector and six constables perished in repelling the attack. One constable was captured alive. The insurgents fastened on his back the bloody heads of his companions and drove him before them into the woods. Re-enforcements were sent to the village, where the mutilated bodies of the victims were found. One constable killed his own wife and child with his sword to prevent them from becoming captives. He was then killed by the savages. There is much disquietude among the inhabitants of Hankow since the recent fire, in which 3,000 people lost their lives. Several smaller fires have occurred since, all believed to be the work of incendiaries. The Shanghai Daily Press says five Chinese were caught in the act of igniting many dwellings. They were thrown into the flames and burned alive.

Fraud in the Sale Alleged.

A suit has been filed in the United States Court at Toledo by the Merchants' National Bank of Baltimore for itself and others against the Ann Arbor Railroad Company—the T., A. A. & N. M. Railway Company—Wellington R. Burt and the Metropolitan Trust Company, for the purpose of setting aside the sale of the railway property, for the appointment of a receiver for the road, the payment of the debts and the ultimate sale of the road to clear up all obligations. The petition alleges fraud in the first sale of the road to the present company.

Havoc in Brooklyn.

With a noise resembling the explosion of tons of dynamite a forty-eight inch main of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) water works burst. In an instant over seven feet of the large conduit had broken away and the water rushed forth as from a broken dam. Over twenty blocks in the Twenty-eighth Ward were covered by the rush of waters. It is almost impossible to estimate the damage done, but it is believed that not less than $800,000 will cover the actual loss.

Murdered by Train Robbers.

Passenger train, No. 1, on the Choctaw, Oklahoma and Gulf Railroad, was held up by robbers just as the train pulled into the station at McLeod, I. T. Conductor Wright and the station agent were both fatally shot in the fight which ensued. The robbers fired many shots into the train, but none of the passengers was hit. The robbers secured $200 from the station safe. The robbers were all masked.

Law for Indigent Immigrants.

Dr. Wines, secretary of the Illinois State Board of Charities, has received a letter from the commissioner general of immigration at Washington, stating that any alien immigrant who may become a public charge within one year from the date of landing in the United States shall be returned to the country in which he belongs at the expense of the immigrant fund of the United States Government.

Three Soldiers Are Killed.

Henry Nelligan, cook, and George W. Beverly, bugler, of the First Florida Regiment, were killed at Huntsville, Ala. They were on bad terms and had a fight in camp. Private Porter Weisnant, troop D, Tenth Cavalry, was found with a bullet wound in the throat in West Holmes street. He said only that he had been held up by two white soldiers and shot. Then he expired.

Deadly Smelter Fumes.

A special from Butte, Mont., says: "Five deaths occurred in Butte which are claimed to have been caused by the dreadful sulphur and arsenic fumes from the smelters. Many people who can do so are leaving the city to get out of the smoke."

Brooke for Governor of Cuba.

Major General John R. Brooke has been selected by President McKinley for Governor General of Cuba. He will have supervision of the government of the entire island, and will be supreme both as to the military and civil operations of Cuba.

Another Trust Formed.

A combination of all the rubber concerns of Trenton, N. J., has been formed. The companies consolidated are the Empire, Globe, Hamilton, Home, Mercer and Trenton, with the United Rubber and the Whitehead company. The capital is $5,000,000, and the object is to economize to meet competition. These six companies will be operated from one office. The consolidation will throw many salesmen and clerks out of employment, but it is believed it will increase the number of operatives, which is now 1,400, to 2,000, because the organization will reach out for new business and will try to lead the rubber business of the country. Nearly all lines of rubber goods are manufactured by these factories excepting shoes and clothing.

AFTER HAVANA'S CAR LINES.

Canadian Syndicate Offers $1,000,000 for a Street Railway in Cuba.

Toronto interests in street railways are after the franchise in Havana, and have made an offer of nearly $1,500,000 for the present service in the Cuban city. William MacKenzie, president of the Toronto street railway; Frederick Nicholls, of the Canadian General Electric Light Company, and Z. Lash left for the south to perfect arrangements for taking over the line. It is claimed the Canadian syndicate outmaneuvered an American company that was after the railway in Cuba. The same Canadian syndicate already operates street railways in Montreal, Toronto, London (Ont.), Winnipeg, Kingston, Jamaica and Birmingham (England).

KILLS HIS BROTHER.

Red Cross Nurse Claims to Have Acted in Self-Defense.

John D. Hayes, who served as a Red Cross nurse with the Second United States infantry under Gen. Shafter at Santiago, shot and killed his brother, Edward S. Hayes, proprietor of a hotel at Bleecker and McDougal streets, New York. According to the story told by John Hayes, his brother accused him of appropriating a portion of the proceeds of the evening business for his own use. They had several quarrels over this, and, according to the murderer, who is under arrest, Edward attacked him with a club and ice pick. After having had his cheek laid open, John Hayes drew a revolver and shot his brother through the head.

Cuban Uprising in Havana.

General Castellanos accuses the Cuban general, Julio Sanguilly, and Jose Lacrot of a plot to cause an uprising and seize the city at a time when the Spanish garrison is greatly weakened and before the American troops have arrived in numbers sufficient to enforce order. He declares that the recent riot was provoked by Sanguilly and Lacrot and he issued directions for their arrest.

Diphtheria at a University.

Princeton, N. J., is threatened with an epidemic of diphtheria. The first case reported was that of F. C. Goldsborough, '99, a student at the university. He was immediately transferred to the infirmary and all the members of the club were quarantined. They spent one night in the clubhouse and were bundled out of town by the faculty, three men being held as suspects.

Sharp Trick of Russia.

The Paris correspondent of the London Daily News says: "By influencing China to delay the payment of the war indemnity to Japan the Russian Government will be enabled to acquire several Japanese warships now building abroad, which Japan will be unable to pay for at the stipulated time."

Slain by Alaska Indians.

Capt. James Nelson of the halibut sloop Carolina and Barney Phale, a fisherman, went ashore on Kupriauoff Island, in Portage bay, Alaska, to hunt for deer. Phale never came back, and the captain tells that he was deliberately shot by Indians.

Soldier Is Heavily Fined.

At Savannah, Private J. E. Moore of Battery A, First Maine artillery, was fined $500 and costs or six months on the chain gang for assault and battery upon Solicitor W. W. Osborne, and for embracing a woman on the street while intoxicated.

College Under Quarantine.

Antioch College, Springfield, Ill., is under quarantine on account of a case of small-pox in the institution, contracted by Lee Anderson, a student. General vaccination is ordered at Yellow Springs.

Mulatto Girl Shot.

Because the parents of Sophronia Ford, a Bismarck, N. D., mulatto girl, would not consent to her marrying him, J. W. Cole shot the girl on the street, causing her to die instantly.

Liberal Leader Resigns.

Sir William Vernon Harcourt has resigned the leadership of the British liberals owing to personal feeling against Rosebery, and a split in the party is certain.

Fire Destroys Railway Engines.

At Hyannis, Mass., the engine house and carpenter shop of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad were burned, with four locomotives; loss $75,000.

William Black Is Dead.

The death is announced of William Black, the novelist, at his home in Brighton, England, at the age of 57 years.

Spanish Treaty Is Signed.

The treaty of peace between the United States and Spain has been signed at Paris.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 64c to 65c; corn, No. 2, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2, 26c to 27c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 56c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 20c; eggs, fresh, 22c to 23c; potatoes, choice, 30c to 40c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $2.75 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 2 white, 31c to 32c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 30c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 32c to 33c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 28c; rye, No. 2, 51c to 53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 55c to 57c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.50; sheep and lambs, $3.00 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2, 66c to 68c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 30c; rye, 55c to 56c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 55c; clover seed, $4.35 to $4.45.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 64c to 66c; corn, No. 3, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 1, 54c to 55c; barley, No. 2, 44c to 50c; pork, mess, $8.00 to $8.50.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, common to choice, $3.25 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.75; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 75c to 77c; corn, No. 2, 41c to 42c; oats, No. 2, 31c to 32c; butter, creamery, 15c to 22c; eggs, Western, 25c to 27c.

MEN WHO SIGNED THE PEACE TREATY.

AMERICAN COMMISSIONERS.

Whitelaw Reid. Secretary Moore. Senator Gray. Judge Day. Senator Frye Senator Davis.

SPANISH COMMISSIONERS.

ANTI BOODLE CRUSADE.

Chicagoans Oppose Extension of Street Railway Franchises.

Another war is on in Chicago—a war against the boodling city aldermen. One of them introduced into the Council an ordinance extending the franchises of city railways fifty years from 1903, the present date of expiration. The purpose is to secure action by the aldermen favorable to the street railroads before the repeal of the Allen law, which is expected soon after the Legislature meets. Mayor Harrison is fighting the proposed action of the Council with all his personal influence and the power of patronage. Public meetings are held, and one of the rope manufacturers is engaged in making hangman knots to be worn as buttonhole bouquets by honest citizens to suggest the possible fate of boodlers if they sell out the taxpayers.

Democrats, Republicans and citizens irrespective of party have assembled in mass meetings in various wards of the city and declared themselves unalterably opposed to any street railway legislation under the Allen law. Here was a Democratic ward club with every member present; there a citizens' meeting where the hall was overflowing with people. But in each place the sentiment was the same—opposition to boodle legislation.

MAYOR HARRISON.

"No Council legislation for the street railway companies," says Mayor Harrison, "until the Allen law is repealed. I will not admit that they are entitled to even a ten-year ordinance until that nefarious measure is off the statute books."

The strength of the feeling engendered can be judged from these incidents: The wife of one South Side alderman received a noose and an envelope with cross-bones and skulls upon it. Another alderman said: "I found one of these," indicating the noose, "on the door of my place of business this morning."

Mayor Harrison does not approve of this noose business. He said: "I am heartily opposed to public demonstrations which can be construed as lawless."

FARMERS REAP RICH HARVEST.

Oat and Corn Crops Bring $83,000,000 More than in 1897.

On the basis of the farm prices on Dec. 1, the Agricultural Department figures place the 1898 crop of corn and oats as worth $83,000,000 more than the crops of 1897. Statistician Hyde accredits this largely to the difference in prices. The corn crop is a trifle larger than in 1897 and the average price per bushel is 2.4 cents higher, while the oat crop is similarly a little larger than the 1897 and the prices were 4.4 cents higher.

The monthly statement of the bureau of statistics on the exports of domestic products for the month of November last shows the exports of breadstuffs for the month aggregated $26,897,886, against $28,763,548 for November, 1897. Cattle and hogs, $2,105,405 against $2,760,704 in November last year.

Told in a Few Lines.

Algeria is the only country in the world where the horses outnumber the human beings.

A Maori priest in New Zealand is alleged to have raised a young girl from the dead.

Mrs. Katherine Rastel of Hemstead, L. I., was choked to death by swallowing her false teeth.

Flying foxes, the enemies of fruit growers of New South Wales, have arrived unusually early this season and are doing great damage.

Tramps who visit Lebanon, Pa., are promptly arrested and jailed and made to earn their living by cleaning the streets of that city.

The Government will adopt Gen. Wood's suggestion that the bodies of American soldiers be not removed from Santiago before February.

Chicago pork packers and exporters have sent to Washington a protest against the effort of the German Reichstag to exclude American sausage.

Prominent New York physicians are contemplating the establishment in that city of a house of detention for inebriates, morphine victims and opium users.

WINS RACE AND WIFE.

Charles Miller, of Chicago, the Victor in the Six-Day Bicycle Contest.

Charles W. Miller of Chicago, last years' six-day champion, won the great race at the Madison Square Garden in

MILLER AND HIS BRIDE.

New York again this year, beating the world's record, his own, by twenty-four miles and leading the next man to him, Frank Waller of Boston, by twenty-two miles.

Thirty-two men started on Monday morning, and twelve finished. Miller, Waller and Pierce, who had been always in the lead, were the freshest of all at the finish. Indeed, Miller was in such good condition that he was able to appear to advantage in the wedding ceremony, leading Genevieve Hansen of Chicago to an improvised altar in the Garden amid loud cheering and the boisterous good wishes of 10,000 persons, who gathered to witness the ceremony. Miller receives prizes amounting to $2,400. The following score shows the number of miles ridden by each contestant:

Miller	2,007.4	Aronson	1,729.5
Waller	1,985.7	Nawn	1,721.7
Pierce	1,906.7	Forster	1,668.8
Albert	1,822.6	Stevens	1,519.8
Gimm	1,782.2	Hale	1,502.2
Lawson	1,757.6	Julius	1,166.7

The Comic Side of The News

But why does New York persist in calling a dry goods exhibition a horse show?

The last thing Hobson has raised is a mortgage on his parental home of $6,000.

We still believe that Aguinaldo could run a cigar factory in the United States very acceptably.

The only reason why Blanco left Cuba was the impossibility of his carrying it away with him.

Trouble is threatened in the upper Swat, and the swatting is expected to begin at almost any moment.

A greater United States requires a longer presidential message. The explanation is simple enough.

And then it came about that Spain lost everything but honor, and Spain had none of that to lose.

How are the mighty fallen! Aguinaldo is now familiarly known among the Manila troops as "Aggie."

To the very last Keely refused to give away his secret, but all those men who invested in it were sold.

The battleship Wisconsin, just launched, stuck in the mud. It's early for it to begin taking mud baths.

Aguinaldo says that he will never give up willingly. But that does not imply that he will not give up.

The battleship Wisconsin was christened with an original poem. Still, you can't tell. She may prove to be a very worthy vessel.

It is estimated by the United States board of engineers that the Nicaragua canal will cost $133,000,000. Rather high for cut rates.

A cablegram from London announces that "Sir George Baden-Powell is lying at the point of death." That's a queer time for a man to indulge in prevarication.

One of the striking measures inaugurated by Gen. Wood in Santiago is the imposition of a fine of $1,000 on bull fighters. This makes bull fighting legally a fine thing.

Ex-President Cleveland sees no good reason for annexing foreign territory when there are still millions of acres at home on which the game has not been hunted out.

Plunger Gillett organized a cowboy band during his palmy days. He doubtless found that a good way to "blow in" his money.

It is doubtful if the Government will be able to bring Aguinaldo to terms until it provides him with a rubber stamp and a bass drum.

Chauncey M. Depew is firmly convinced that the Congressional Record should be brightened up by the addition of a snappy funny column.

There is just one check from the United States which Spain will receive with pleasure—the check for $20,000,000 to pay for the Philippines.

THE PEACE TREATY.

BRIEF OUTLINE OF ITS SEVENTEEN ARTICLES.

Disposition of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines—Commercial Treaty Will Not Be Effected Until the Peace Agreement Is Ratified.

Extraordinary precautions were maintained by both the peace commissions to preserve secrecy as to the contents of the treaty. Each commission has two copies, but even the commission attaches were not permitted to peruse the documents. The State Department was advised that the text of the treaty is entirely too long to send by telegraph, so a copy will be mailed or brought to Washington by the American peace commissioners. The department's advices are that the treaty consists of 600 typewritten pages, probably the longest document of the kind in the world's history. The correspondent of the Associated Press obtained from a source usually reliable the following outline of the treaty:

Article 1 provides for the relinquishment of Cuba.

Article 2 provides for the cession of Porto Rico.

Article 3 provides for the cession of the Philippines for $20,000,000 as compensation.

Article 4 embraces the plans for the cession of the Philippines, including the return of Spanish prisoners in the hands of the Tagalos.

Article 5 deals with the cession of barracks, war materials, arms, stores, buildings and all property pertaining to the Spanish administration in the Philippines.

Article 6 is a renunciation by both nations of their respective claims against each other and the citizens of each other.

Article 7 grants to Spanish trade and shipping in the Philippines the same treatment as American trade and shipping for a period of ten years.

Article 8 provides for the release of all prisoners of war held by Spain and of all prisoners held by her for political offenses committed in the colonies acquired by the United States.

Article 9 guarantees the legal rights of Spaniards remaining in Cuba.

Article 10 establishes the religious freedom of the Philippines and guarantees to all churches equal rights.

Article 11 provides for the composition of courts and other tribunals in Porto Rico and Cuba.

Article 12 provides for the administration of justice in Porto Rico and Cuba.

Article 13 provides for the continuance for five years of Spanish copyrights in the ceded territories, giving Spanish books admittance free of duty.

Article 14 provides for the establishment of consulates by Spain in the ceded territories.

Article 15 grants to Spanish commerce in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines the same treatment as to American for ten years, Spanish shipping to be treated as coasting vessels.

Article 16 stipulates that the obligations of the United States to Spanish citizens and property in Cuba shall terminate with the withdrawal of the United States authorities from the island.

Article 17 provides that the treaty must be ratified within six months from the date of signing by the respective governments in order to be binding.

For some time to come the United States and Spain must get along without any treaty to regulate commerce between the two countries. An effort was made at Paris to secure an arrangement with the Spanish commissioners looking to the revival of the old treaties until they could be replaced by others, but this having failed, no negotiations for new commercial treaties will be undertaken before ratification of the peace treaty.

WALL'S SLAYER CAPTURED.

Was Being Held on a Charge of Burglary at Spokane, Wash.

A prisoner in the county jail at Spokane, Wash., awaiting trial on a charge of burglary, and who is also accused of having shot ex-Alderman Davidson while in the act of highway robbery committed in that city a month ago, has been positively identified as being Otto Mattias, a coal miner, wanted at Staunton, Ill., for the murder of H. W. Wall, a wealthy citizen of that place, on Aug. 16 last. For this crime a reward of $2,000 was offered for Mattias' arrest. The prisoner, who gave his name as Fred Wood, was identified by Dr. P. A. Hoxsey of Spokane, who was in Staunton when the crime was committed, and who knows the prisoner.

OTTO MATTIAS.

FRANCHISES STIR NEW YORK.

Attempted Deal in Chicago Has Awakened Knickerbockers.

The trouble over franchises for street railways in Chicago has quickened the attention of the city officials in New York to the sale of franchises there. Franchises to lay double tracks and operate electric cars on eight thoroughfares are shortly to be sold to companies.

Two important conditions of the sale to be determined are, whether the city shall accept a gross sum for the franchises or a percentage of the earnings, and whether, at the end of a 25-year term, the railroads shall be put under municipal control.

WANTS TO RAISE THE MAINE.

A New York Wrecking Concern Makes Proposals to the War Department.

A New York wrecking concern has offered to raise the Maine and tow her to New York for $250,000 and one-third of her value, and to float and deliver in New York the Cristobal Colon for $1,000,000 and one-third of her value. The Navy Department has the Maine offer under consideration, but will not consider the other offer pending the examination by the Swedish wrecking company that has sent engineers to Santiago to determine whether the company can profitably undertake to save the vessel.

12TH U. S. GOES TO MANILA.

Regiment at Jefferson Barracks Ordered to Philippines.

Orders were Thursday issued by the War Department to the Twelfth United States infantry, at Jefferson barracks, Mo., to proceed to San Francisco in time to embark on the transport Scandia on her next trip to Manila. Upon the arrival of the Twelfth at Manila it is probable that one of the first volunteer regiments to arrive at the Philippines will return to the United States on the Scandia.

NATIONAL SOLONS.

REVIEW OF THEIR WORK AT WASHINGTON.

Detailed Proceedings of Senate and House—Bills Passed or Introduced in Either Branch—Questions of Moment to the Country at Large.

The Legislative Grind.

When the Senate reassembled on Monday Senator Vest made a speech in opposition to teritorial expansion, and Senator Morgan began the debate on the Nicaragua Canal bill. The House spent the larger part of the day on District of Columbia affairs. The bill to relieve the condition of American seamen was taken up, but nothing was accomplished. Representative Hepburn of Iowa introduced a bill authorizing the President to acquire by purchase from the State of Costa Rica and Nicaragua full ownership, jurisdiction and sovereignty of such land as may be desirable and necessary to construct and defend a ship canal. The President is also directed to construct such a canal and the bill appropriates $140,000,000 to complete it.

In the Senate on Tuesday the Nicaragua Canal bill was discussed, Mr. Turpie making the principal speech in opposition, declaring it is in the interest of the Maritime Company, which he characterized as a fraud and bankrupt. He moved a postponement until after the holiday recess. Mr. Morgan defended the bill and the Maritime Company and opposed the motion to postpone. Messrs. Berry and Rawlins both offered amendments materially affecting the bill. Mr. Morrill supported the bill authorizing the purchase of a site for a Supreme Court building, and this and several other bills were passed. In the House the District of Columbia appropriation bill was passed without a single amendment. The bill carries $6,359,950. The House also passed the Senate bill to amend the laws relating to seamen. All the amendments were rejected.

On Wednesday Mr. Danford (Ohio), chairman of the Immigration Committee, tried to secure consideration of the Lodge immigration bill, but the House declined, 100 to 103, to take it up. Mr. De Armond (Mo.) make a speech on the decadence of the privilege of debate in the House, and held Speaker Reed responsible. The Speaker replied with a sarcastic speech, in which he referred to the complaints of John Randolph in the early days of the century to show that the same remonstrances were made then that were being heard to-day. In the Senate the Nicaraguan Canal bill held its place as the principal subject. Speeches were made by Messrs. Harris, Money, Stewart and Morgan. An agreement was reached to take a vote on the Turpie postponement motion on Thursday. Other questions before the Senate were: The government's pension policy and the bill regarding registry of foreign built vessels wrecked on the American coast.

On Thursday the House surpassed all records in the expedition with which it passed the pension appropriation bill. Usually one of the most fruitful themes of acrimonious partisan debate, it was passed in twenty minutes without criticism, although carrying $145,233,830, $4,000,000 more than the act for the current year. The House then began consideration of the bill to incorporate the International American Bank. This project was recommended by the Pan-American Congress in 1889. An agreement was effected for a vote at 3 o'clock Friday. It was supported in debate by Messrs. Brosius (Rep., Pa.), Adams (Rep., Pa.), Lacey (Rep., Iowa), and Walker (Rep., Mass.), and opposed by Mr. Cox (Dem., Tenn.), Jenkins (Rep., Wis.), Driggs (Dem., N. Y.), and Bartlett (Dem., Ga.). In the Senate the urgent deficiency appropriation bill making provision for the army and navy for the next six months displaced the Nicaragua canal bill, preventing even the taking of a vote on the question of the postponement of the latter measure until after the holidays, as had been intended. The deficiency bill was passed after a spirited discussion, turning principally on the point of keeping the volunteer soldiers in the service. The Senate adjourned until Monday.

Notes of Current Events.

The Archbishop of Manila will be recalled to Rome on account of his opposition to American rule in the Philippines.

Mrs. Petrulia Durham has won a verdict for $165,000 in Chicago, and says she will give $75,000 to the Salvation army.

The first cargo to reach Philadelphia from Spain since the outbreak of the war arrived on the Norwegian steamer Kingswood last Wednesday.

Rev. T. S. Simrall, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Sweet Springs, Mo., was found dead in bed by his wife, who went in to wake him for the morning meal.

Judge Schuchman of New York has ruled that the plaintiff in a breach of promise suit must prove that her character has been damaged to the amount claimed.

Abner Ledford, a Georgian, who went to the mines in Colorado at the close of the war, was found alone dead in bed in his cabin at Cripple Creek, Colo., from heart disease.

At Palestine, Texas, ex-Policeman Gus Moore fatally shot Jesus Salazar, a tamale vender, who was once a captain in the Mexican army guarding the castle of Chepultepec.

The acquisition of the Philippines, Porto Rico and other outlying territory promises to develop new phases of the labor and immigration problems for the consideration and action of Congress.

Detective George Bryant shot and fatally wounded John Russell, a 14-year-old negro thief, at Kansas City, Mo. Bryant had arrested him and found stolen goods in his possession. The boy made a break for liberty.

The steamer Culgoa has sailed from Sydney, Australia, with a cargo of provisions for Admiral Dewey's fleet at Manila. The cargo consisted of 5,000 carcasses of mutton, 250 lambs, 125 tons of potatoes, 81 tons of onions and 22 tons of carrots.

A grist mill at Watertown, Mass., is known to have been in use as far back as 1635, when it is believed to have been a town institution. It is now the property of the Waltham Savings Bank, and still continues to grind corn by means of the upper and nether millstones, using water as a motive power.

In the United States District Court at Hannibal, Mo., Harve Smith, who robbed the postoffice at Bowling Green, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary, and Harry Rockhill pleaded guilty to robbing the postoffice at Strother, and was sentenced to one year in the Moberly jail.

The Navy Department, through the office of naval intelligence, publishes some letters which appeared in La Epoca, at Madrid, from Admiral Cervera, in which the Spanish officer protested against Spain rushing into war with a nation having a superior navy. The letters, which were written before the war, expressed the hope that the Queen and the council might realize the hopelessness of such a conflict.

TREASURE HALL AND POVERTY INN.

Side by side they stand to-day,
Poverty Inn and Treasure Hall.
Where pilgrims sad and travelers gay
May eat their honey and drink their gall;
Refuge of righteousness, shelter of sin,
Treasure Hall and Poverty Inn.

Side by side they will ever stand,
Poverty Inn and Treasure Hall;
Rickety dwelling and palace grand—
But which holds the most of honey or gall?
Which covers most of virtue or sin,
Treasure Hall or Poverty Inn?

—Life.

A CURIOUS COUPLE.

"You see that cottage over there?" said Mr. Rathborn, pointing to a dismantled hovel in the corner of the field where I had pitched my canvas, for I am an artist.

I nodded.

"A most remarkable history is attached to it," he went on. "Not a legend, but a fact. Of this I can assure you, because I myself had a hand in finding it out. It centres round a certain couple who lived there—the most extraordinary old folks that I ever came across. I should like you to have seen them. I think you would have admitted them to be the ugliest pair in England, as they certainly were the most close and unfriendly. During the sixteen years that they lived in that cottage, they never once asked a neighbor inside."

"Umph! Hermits, indeed," I observed.

"Absolute hermits. There was, however, some slight excuse for their eschewing all outside company. Each suffered from a severe physical infirmity. The woman was nearly stone deaf; the man was dumb.

"When they first came here—eighteen years ago now, I think—my uncle, who was then rector, tried to find out what he could about them. He only learnt a little and that little was nothing out of the way. It transpired that the man was an ex-sailor of the Royal Navy, who had lost his speech after a severe attack of yellow fever in the West Indies. He was now entitled to a pension, which he drew half yearly and which my uncle only knew about by the fact that the old fellow had to come to him periodically to get his papers signed. The woman was his sister, so he gave the neighbors to understand, and so also might have been inferred from a certain family likeness which was noticeable between them. She was a most ill-favored hag; shrivelled, unkempt, and dirty beyond description. Although she must have been nearer 70 than 60, her long, touzled hair was still as black as a coal, and hung in hideous untidiness about her hawk-like face, which, with its dark eyes, and its hooked proboscis, was most uncommonly forbidding. The poor people all pronounced her a witch; and for that reason gave her a wide berth. Probably the woman encouraged the idea. For her great aim and object, evidently, was to be left alone.

"Although her brother's pension, amounting to about two shillings a day, was ample to keep two old folks decently, and even comfortably, in that cheapest of neighborhoods, these two always gave the impression of being half starved, and I do not believe that either of them purchased a new article of clothing all the time they lived in R—. From this people began to infer that they were misers, and, as time went on, many things happened to strengthen the inference. All along they had discovered the greatest anxiety and apprehension when any one had tried to gain access to their hovel. Indeed, my uncle has often told me that the expression of the old people's faces when he called there, and one or the other of them had peered around the chained door at him, was really quite comical in its suspicious trepidation; and the older they grew the more pronounced did their precautions to prevent outsiders' entering become.

"At first they had sometimes ventured to lock their house and make an excursion together into F——, the adjoining market town. But by and by they gave up such recklessness entirely, and whenever one of them went out, the other remained on guard at home.

"My uncle was greatly exercised about his two strange parishioners. Many rectors would have considered themselves absolved of all obligations towards people who not merely never attended church, but refused to even admit their clergyman into their house when he called. But that was not my uncle's way. Every poor man who lived in his parish he held to be under his pastoral protection; and he felt himself bound to look after his interests.

"When I succeeded him here, I went to call, now and then, on the old people; meeting, however, with the same treatment that my uncle had always experienced. Sometimes, they would not open the door at all; at others, they did so with the chain up, and conversed with me through a narrow aperture.

"In reply to my inquiries whether I could do anything, or give them any assistance, I always had a negative returned; until at last I gave up trying to make headway in so hopeless a direction, and left the two hermits pretty much to themselves.

"The man came to me regularly every half year to get his pension papers signed; and I took advantage of these opportunities to give him some friendly advice, and remonstrate with him on his folly in starving himself and wearing such inadequate clothing in the coldest weather. At first I made him a present of some old coats, trousers and flannel shirts. But I soon gave up that, for he never wore them; and, I formed the impression that he had probably converted them into cash.

"In fact, I asked him one day what he had done with them all. He only looked cunning, affected stupidity, and made some unintelligible signs. Despite his numbness, he could make me understand things very well when he liked—especially anything connected with his pension papers. It was only when he did not wish to make himself understood that his signs had no meaning in them.

"In this matter of coming to have his papers signed, he was, as I have said, always absolutely punctual. On March 25 and September 29 he appeared at the rectory as regular as clockwork, taking me on the way to F——, where he had to present his papers at the post office.

"I always looked for him on the morning of those days, and always took the precaution to have my study windows wide open. The old man and water had long been mutual strangers, and the atmosphere which attended him was, to say the least, rather oppressive.

"He was always, as I have said, punctual in coming. And when one Michaelmas day—it was just two years ago now—came and went without his putting in an appearance, I at once remarked it as a very noticeable circumstance. The next day I expected him—with open windows—and the next, and the next; but he did not turn up. At length, after waiting a week I felt sure that he must be ill, and went over to the shanty to inquire.

"I hammered at the door. Nobody answered. I hammered louder and louder, with the same result. In the end, as a last resort, I tried it. To my surprise, it was unfastened. I pushed it open and went in.

"Crouching against the wall, upon the damp and mouldy floor, was a figure covered with an old sack. I went nearer. At first I could not see which of the two it was. But on looking more closely, I made it out to be the old woman. The tangled black hair, which had always struck me so about her, was now betrayed as not being her own. It was a wig half on and half off at that moment, giving her a fearfully grotesque appearance, and clearly revealing her bald pate, scantily fringed with a few wisps of gray hair beneath.

"Where is your brother?" I shouted. "Has he left you alone?"

"'Well, you shall hear,' she went on. 'I'm just going the same way myself, and it's no use keeping secrets any longer. He's dead.'

"'Dead!' I exclaimed, supposing that her wits were wandering, for I had seen him at his hovel door not less than a fortnight before. 'When did he die?'

"'Fifteen years ago.'

"Now, of course, I saw that she was raving. Her hawk-like eyes, fixed on my face in a most forbidding leer, at once read my thoughts.

"'No, I ain't mad. It's the truth. He died fifteen years ago and I buried him myself under yonder hearthstone. Get them to dig it up, and you'll find his bones.

"As she spoke, the hag clutched my sleeve and half raised herself by a supreme effort. She leered into my face with a look that I cannot forget.

"'Yes, yes,' she said. 'All true—all true. I hid it, and no one knew. And,' with a hideous chuckle, 'I've dror'd his pension myself for fifteen years.'

* * *

"And were her brother's bones found there?' I asked the rector, in the course of a subsequent conversation on the subject.

"Yes. He had been buried scarcely a couple of feet below the surface. And in a hole in the chimney we found the miser's savings—more than 500 pounds in gold and notes. It was paid over to the government, in return for the fifteen years' pension out of which they had been cheated."

A BLOW TO THE OLD MAN.

How a Bank Cashier Won a Wife and Got His Salary Raised.

You can never tell where you are going to encounter a romance. The other evening half a dozen gentlemen sat smoking after a dinner given by one of them at his handsome residence on Woodward avenue, relates the Detroit Free Press.

"No," said the host, in response to an inquiry, "I married her down east long before I thought of coming to Detroit. Didn't I ever tell you about it? At that time I was cashier in a bank with little hope of ever getting a better hold in the world than that of a salaried employe. The president, who practically ran the entire institution, never had much to say to his men, except by way of reproval, and I had special reason to think that he did not look upon me with favor. This made it the more surprising that he should come to me with a proposal to raise my salary to the extent of $500, provided I would get married within the next three months. He preferred having men about him that were settled in life and felt the responsibility imposed in caring for a family. I studied for a moment, had an inspiration and before we were through he had bound the bank to make me the raise, to keep me for five years, provided I did my work properly, and to raise my salary handsomely each year.

"Two weeks later I asked for a vacation and told him I hoped to return with a wife. He was delighted and granted my request. On the tenth day I wired him that the deed was done and that I would be home at once. He responded with congratulations and an invitation to dine with his folks on our arrival. We went. As we entered the old gentleman almost fell in a faint. 'You,—you—' he stammered, 'are you married? You—'

"'Yes, papa,' began my wife, but I broke in with: 'Yes, sir, we're married. You knew that we were in love; you sent your daughter on a long visit to the south to get her away from me, and then tried to bribe me into getting married during her absence. I checkmated you, that's all, and your son-in-law is your cashier for the next five years.' He simply threw up his hands, and he was a father to me as long as he lived. It did him a whole lot of good to beat him at his own game."

He Saved the Gloucester.

There is a bit of unwritten history about that famous fight between the converted yacht Gloucester and the two torpedo boats off Santiago on July 3d. One of the officers tells it in this way:

"Wainwright put every one at work. The engineer was placed in charge of a gun, so was the paymaster, and to the gunnery of the latter was due the fact that the American navy didn't suffer a severe loss on that morning.

"The paymaster was in charge of a Colt automatic gun and he kept her ripping away like a veteran. The Pluton was plugging at us and our officers saw a man on the Spaniard in charge of a rapid fire 1-pounder who displayed superb courage of the calm, stoical sort that marked him as dangerous. He was getting our range rapidly and each shot was coming nearer to us. The last one struck within eighty feet and was aimed at our vitals.

"Some one yelled to the paymaster to put that man out of business or we would be cut in two at the next belch of the 1-pounder. The Colt did the work.

"Later, when he boarded the Pluton, we hunted up the 1-pounder. Around the gun were its crew, dead, five or six men riddled with the Colt's bullets. And that man of splendid courage—the stoker—he was lying against the breech of the gun with his dead fingers clutching the trigger. The gun was loaded and we examined its range. It was fixed at an angle which would have carried that shell straight into our vitals and put the Gloucester with the wrecks of the Spaniards." The man on the Gloucester who did the famous shooting was Assistant Paymaster Brown.—New York World.

PLAYED WITH THE WRONG MAN.

Students Paid Well for the Fun They Had with an Elderly Passenger.

Half a hundred students of the medical department of the Northwestern University had a jollification the other night, relates the Chicago Times-Herald. They took posession of an Alley "L" train at Twenty-second street and held high jinks all the way into town. In their own words, they "played horse" with the other passengers, and they thought themselves very smart, indeed.

But they were not quite so smart as they thought. There was an old man aboard—a nice old man, with a white mustache and a silk hat—who beat them at their own game. The students are not saying much about the affair this morning. The occurence happened in the smoking car. As the passengers tried to get out of the car the students assisted. "Pass him along!" was the cry, and the unfortunate passenger was lifted bodily over the heads of the students, tossed in the air, and finally thrown out upon the platform. The guards told the unruly students to cease their rough behavior or leave the train, but the admonitions fell on unfruitful ground. The fun grew more and more hilarious until Adams street was reached.

At this point the old man with the white mustache got up to leave. He was in the extreme end of the car, away from the door. "Pass him along!" shouted the students. "Help the old gentleman out." They helped him out. They tossed him up to the ceiling, they dropped him to the floor, they wedged him here and there, they played horse with him. And after they had tossed him out at last they felt so hilarious that they smashed each other's hats with their canes.

At 8 o'clock p. m. a young man who said his name was F. Drake Whitford, student, came meekly into the Central Police Station and reported that an old man with a white mustache and a silk hat had picked the pockets of four of the students on the train, securing four beautiful gold watches and a pocketbook or two. "It will be a great favor," he said, "if this little affair can be kept out of the papers."

Hanging Impresses Them.

There was something resembling the nobility of Anglo-Saxon conceptions of justice in the executions at Candia. The old idea of hanging a man who is a malefactor by the neck until he is dead, is not a popular one with the brutal and cruel criminals to whom it is usually applied. It presents to their minds and to the thoughts of all who are in any degree in sympathy with them a literally awful notion of what justice is. It is to be doubted very much whether the ax or the guillotine, or even death by shooting, either according to law or in war, impresses such persons as they are expected to. Indeed, one may think of the penalty of being hanged as a great invention. The Cretan population who witnessed the execution of the seven Mohammedans by the British were duly moved by the ceremony, and it is almost safe to say that if in the future a Mussulman mob tries to break through the barriers of law where an Englishman is, there will be a manifest willingness on the part of the leaders to leave the subjects of the queen alone. It is all very well to talk about the Mussulman's fatalism as a reason for killing him in battle or for not angering him. All his religious principles cannot accustom him to the idea of swinging defunct on a gibbet.—Providence Journal.

Freaks of a Jury Wheel.

Pittsburg people are ruminating over a jury wheel mystery. In the drawing of the petit jury for the November term of the United States Circuit Court there was taken from the wheel the name of Coroner Heber McDowell, placed in the wheel sixteen years ago, while Mr. McDowell was a constable in Pittsburg. Also the name of John G. Reading, Jr., that was put in the wheel over fourteen years ago, while he was a law student at Williamsport. Mr. Reading is now a leading Pittsburg lawyer. In contradistinction to the names that have been in the wheel so long and undisturbed, twenty-six of the forty-eight at the recent drawing were among those put in the last time the wheel was filled. The wheel always contains 300 names. When a jury is drawn as many names are substituted as are taken out.—Philadelphia Press.

False Alms.

The wife of an East End clergyman has made a collection of all the buttons placed in the offertory bags during the last two or three years, and has fastened them to cardboard in various cunning shapes of animals, birds and flowers. As a bazaar is shortly to take place in connection with the church, she has had these button-pictures photographed, and copies will be on sale at the exhibition.

NEED OF THE CANAL.

NICARAGUA DITCH WOULD SAVE TIME AND MONEY.

As a Business Venture Alone the Proposed Artery, It Is Claimed, Would Be a Big Bonanza in the Way of Tolls and Lock Charges.

That the proposed Nicaraguan canal is vital to the interests of the United States was emphatically demonstrated during the recent war with Spain when our battleship Oregon was compelled to make her long voyage down around the Horn to reach the scene of naval operations. The apprehension of the American people during the long detour was painfully and justly excited, while the Government was deprived of several weeks' service of its finest man-of-war during the time it required to sail down the west coast of South America and up on the eastern side. Then, again, the commercial benefits to be derived by the completion of the proposed short-cut waterway are inestimable. A most comprehensive article on the subject of the Nicaraguan canal has been written by Henry I. Sheldon, a Chicagoan. This is said by experts to be the most complete study of the canal question yet undertaken. Mr. Sheldon visited Nicaragua three years ago and traversed the entire route of the projected waterway, examined the work done, and secured reliable data as to cost and methods of construction. Mr. Sheldon went not as the agent of any company or of the Government, but merely as an individual having no interest, pecuniary or friendly, with the present company constructing the canal, and was careful to incur no obligations which would prevent his taking an unbiased view.

"It may be well to say at the outset," writes Mr. Sheldon, "that I reached the conclusion that the canal in Nicaragua is practicable, and can be constructed at a cost on which fair returns can be earned. It also seems clear that, for many reasons, it is not a suitable work for private capital to undertake, and that it will be better that our Government should assist the undertaking. There are strong equities on the side of national aid, inasmuch as the chief benefits will never be the tolls collected from passing vessels. The canal may so develop our trade with Eastern Asia that a single year of that trade will exceed in volume the total cost of its construction. Its opening will double in value almost every acre of agricultural land in California, Oregon and Washington, and the population of those States will be more than doubled. For many years I have occasionally visited the Pacific coast, for either business or pleasure, and always the most striking aspect of its condition has been the absence of satisfactory markets for its products. Not a bushel of its large wheat crop comes to the Atlantic coast by rail, as wheat cannot bear the cost of so long carriage. Neither can its lumber or ores come by rail. In many places, after the farmer or the fruit grower has paid the charges of transportation companies, there is little or nothing left for him. The population continues small because the markets are so inadequate. Twenty-five years' trial has demonstrated that if railroads are to be the sole means of communication the development of the Pacific States will be very slow. The only promise of relief is in securing for these States some shorter transportation to the Atlantic States, and also to Europe, by water. Now, everything carried by water must pass around Cape Horn. The only shorter route, apparently practicable, is by way of a ship canal across the isthmus, through Nicaragua. This will save 10,000 miles of the distance around Cape Horn, and will enable an ordinary steamer to go from San Francisco to New York in fourteen days. The exact distance, by such canal, will be 4,760 miles. The ordinary railroad freight service consumes from seventeen to twenty-one days. The canal line will be only about 60 per cent longer than the rail line.

MAP SHOWING PRESENT ROUTE AROUND THE HORN AND THE SHORT-CUT MADE BY THE PROPOSED CANAL.

Needed in the Time of War.

"Our country is so widely extended, 3,000 miles from east to west, that cheap and speedy water transportation like this is almost absolutely needed to bind and hold it more closely together. At present, in time of war, such parts of our growing navy as might be on either the Atlantic or the Pacific side would be for a considerable time of no use on the other ocean. The canal, when built, will promote the development of better markets for our manufactures in foreign countries bordering on the Pacific. These are less exposed than those on the Atlantic to European competition. This nation cannot be considered a first-class power when our people are only buyers from the rest of the world. Exporting agricultural products does not make a great nation. The French and the Germans do not engage in such exportation, finding other activities to be more profitable. A glance at the principal food-exporting countries shows the truth. They are such countries as Southern Russia, India and, latterly, the Argentine Republic, and they are poor, and they stay poor. We need to keep our wheat, feed our operatives with it, and send abroad the products they manufacture. The change cannot come suddenly, but we should plan and work for it. Some neglected markets are near us. The Rio Grande is quite a small stream. One can ride a horse across it from Texas into Mexico and entering the first hotel, one finds an English cloth on the table in the dining room. The cups and plates are English, the cutlery from Germany and the waiters wear a suit of German clothes. There probably will not be an article imported from the United States in the house except a sewing machine. The demand is there, but we have carelessly, almost good-naturedly, made no effort to sell.

"In building up a foreign trade our natural course will be to begin with the countries where we shall meet least competition. In order to be profitable, trade requires to move along the lines of least resistance. Our geographical situation is such that we are the natural producers for all countries bordering on the Pacific ocean. The relative distance of European manufacturers, as compared with our own, gives us a great advantage. The idea of trying to sell much of our products to China and Japan is new to our people; but those countries are entering on a career of great development, and why should not the American people have a share in supplying their wants? The trade reports tell the story of their awakening. The purchases of their silver were:

In 1885	$28,000,000
In 1894	113,000,000

China bought from foreign countries:

In 1885	$132,000,000
In 1894	243,000,000

"We have not been alive to this demand. Of Japan's purchases abroad of $113,000,000 in 1894, we sold her only $11,000,000. We excelled in paying money to her, however, for in that year we bought of her goods amounting to $143,000,000. Of China's purchases from other nations of $243,000,000 in 1894, we supplied only $10,000,000. We were good buyers, however, taking $25,000,000 of her products. Our diplomatic agents report that with more alertness and enterprise we could have furnished to Japan, and at a reasonable profit, 60 per cent of all her foreign purchases in 1894. One reason why the people of our gulf States are so unanimous for a canal in Nicaragua, is that it will open an additional market for their cotton. The United States is the chief producer of the world's cotton, and prices for this product have been deplorably low of late years, entailing great privations in many Southern homes. It is the old story. We have been producing more cotton than we could find markets for. The new buyer of cotton is Japan. That country is going strongly into the manufacture of cotton goods, such as are used by the people of the warm countries, and now not only exports these goods to China, but undersells the English manufacturers in their own dependency of India."

Favors Government Ownership.

Mr. Sheldon takes strong ground in favor of absolute ownership and control of the Nicaragua canal by the United States Government. "Congress could prescribe the tolls to be paid by ships using the canal, making the charges sufficient to meet the expenses of operation and a suitable interest on the capital invested in the undertaking and also, if considered advisable, for an annual payment into a sinking fund, to meet, at maturity, any Government bonds which might have been issued.

"As commerce increased, the tolls could be lowered, and any other reduction in favor of American ships, found desirable as an aid in building up our carrying trade, could be made by the same authority. If any European complications as to the use of the canal arose, our Government would not be hampered by the existence of a canal company, nor by being obliged to obtain the current action of Nicaragua and Costa Rica, but would be in a position to decide for itself what course to take. The possible claims of England to joint control of the canal under the Clayton-Bulwer treaty should be ignored. Those claims could never be allowed, and we probably would hear little of them after we had constructed the canal with our own money and were in full possession. The Suez canal has been neutralized by an agreement between the great powers, but that waterway is closely connected with the Eastern question, the balance of power, and other large subjects involving the nations of Europe. There is no analogy as to neutralization between the situation at Suez and that at Nicaragua."

Estimates of Probable Revenue.

Mr. Sheldon's estimates of the probable revenue to be derived from the canal are encouraging. "As the conditions are so similar, it is necessary, in taking a broad view of probable earnings, to consider the business transacted by the Suez canal. The results there shown are more helpful than mere estimates; they are ascertained facts. That company deals with the world's commerce, just as will be done in Nicaragua. In 1895 its business amounted to 8,440,000 tons. It had then been in operation twenty-five years. The first year, 1870, its business was only 436,000 tons; in 1871, 760,000 tons; in 1872, 1,100,000 tons, and there has been a fairly steady increase ever since, up to the amount in 1895. During all this time the volume of the world's commerce has steadily increased. Not only has trade more and more adjusted itself to the Suez route, but also the aggregate amount of trade has become much larger. Some allowance should be made for the advantages possessed by the Suez canal as a now well-established route. Taking its business eight years ago may be a fair offset for this item. The amount for 1888 exceeded 6,000,000 tons. The earlier Suez tolls were $2.77 per ton, which have been gradually reduced the past twenty years, and traffic is not prepared now to stand heavy charges in any direction. A moderate tariff will be in every way desirable. A favorable, but approximate, estimate of the possible revenues in Nicaragua would be as follows: With tolls at $1.50 per ton at the outset, and a business of at least 6,000,000 tons after the canal is fairly in operation, a gross income of $9,000,000 would be obtained. Administration, maintenance and operation for 1895 cost the Suez canal about $1,800,000. Taking into account all the dam and embankment work at Nicaragua, as well as the heavy rainfall, an allowance of $3,000,000 as an annual average for expenses may be fair, leaving a net income of $6,000,000. An undertaking of this character is to be gone into only as a long-term investment, and the earnings for the first few years after it is completed are not to be considered as sufficient for a final judgment. The greatest earnings will come later on.

"The canal route, as at present projected, is to be 174 miles long from Brito on the Pacific to Greytown on the Atlantic. The first half mile from Brito is at sea level. Then in two miles the canal rises 110 feet, through three locks to the summit level, 151 miles long, then in 4½ miles it descends, through three locks, to sea level again, and then continues at sea level 9¼ miles to Greytown. The estimated time required for an ordinary steamer to cross from one ocean to the other is twenty-eight hours. Electric lighting is to make passage by night quite feasible. The allowance for passing through locks is forty-five minutes for each lock. Only twenty-six miles of the 168 miles of canal is to be through excavations. Some twenty-one miles is through basins, and 121 miles through the lake and the river. Provision should be made from the first for increasing the accommodation when it shall become necessary. Widening can be carried on at the same time that vessels are passing. So can deepening. To increase the size of the locks, however, will cause all traffic to be suspended. The locks in the present plans appear to be too small for permanent use. They are each to be 650 feet long, 70 feet wide, and 28 feet deep."

History of the Canal Scheme.

In December, 1881, Senator Miller of California introduced a bill in Congress to incorporate "The Marine Canal Company of Nicaragua," with the purpose of constructing the canal. Gen. U. S. Grant, Howard Potter, E. D. Morgan, H. J. Jewett and other prominent capitalists were concerned in the proposed enterprise. The bill met with bitter opposition in Congress, and was utterly defeated by the failure of the Marine Bank of New York, in which the Grants were ruined financially. The Nicaragua Canal Company was incorporated in 1887, with former Senator Warner Miller as president, and for a time made good progress. Its success induced opposition, and in 1889 the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua, which received the sanction of President Cleveland, was incorporated. Hiram Hitchcock was the first president, but he was subsequently succeeded by Thomas B. Atkins. The work of digging the canal was begun and continued until financial misfortune overtook the enterprise, the construction company failing in the terrible panic of 1893. The contract for the construction was then awarded to Warner Miller Nicaragua Company, which still holds its concession. Many attempts have since been made to secure the aid of the Government, but the bills have failed to pass both houses. Congress, however, authorized the appointment of a technical commission of civil engineers to re-examine the canal line, and it is the report of this commission which will be presented to Congress in December.

The principal authorities on transportation statistics have made estimates that the Nicaragua route should divert from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 tons of low-rate freight, such as flour, dry goods, machinery, coal, etc., from the overland traffic. Suppose 2,500,000 tons were diverted to steamship lines from the Atlantic and gulf ports, going by the canal route. With the usual ocean tonnage from New York to the Pacific, and other vessels which would go through the canal, a conservative calculation places the annual freight at 7,000,000 tons. At the lowest Suez canal rate this would give an annual revenue of $12,810,000. The route in favor runs from Greytown on the Atlantic coast, via the San Juan river and Lake Nicaragua to Brito, on the Pacific. The total distance is 174 miles, divided as follows:

	Miles.
Brito to lake	17.27
Lake Lajas to San Juan river	56.50
Slack water in the San Juan	68.54
San Francisco Basin Ochoa to Eastern divide	12.01
Cut through the Eastern divide	3.00
Canal to Greytown	16.48

The Nicaragua canal route was surveyed first by Col. O. M. Childs in 1852 for the then existing Transit company which had established transisthmian communication with California by steamer from Greytown by way of the San Juan river to Virgin bay on the west shore of Lake Nicaragua, and thence by stage to San Juan del Sur, about eight miles southeast of Brito. The route selected by Col. Childs, who was an eminent engineer, has not been improved upon very greatly by subsequent surveys. The last survey, made by Mr. Menocal for the Government, lays the line along the Lajas and Rio Grande rivers on the west. Between the headwaters of these rivers and the divide is lower and the route more practical than anywhere else. From there the route leads across the lake, thence by way of the San Juan river and canal cut to Greytown.

MAP SHOWING ROUTE OF THE PROPOSED NICARAGUAN CANAL.

Tolstoi's Colonies.

Tolstoi colonies are increasing in Russia. The Tolstoians, of course, live together, having constructed their own houses and their own furniture; there is nothing new in this, the tale has been told before. What is remarkable is the arrangement of the mutual dining-table in the Tolstoi table d'hote. The bowl of the community—a bowl of soup—is shared among six persons, each dipping into the same dish, but having the right of personal property in the matter of a wooden spoon and salt. Bread also is private to the individual. Thus the six consumers get a fair start and then they are all off together. But one would have thought this a fatal arrangement. Age, teeth and digestion are sadly unequal. What is there to prevent the venerable grandmother from being left hopelessly behind by Ivan the Terrible, her youthful grandson, who treats the whole course as a point-to-point race, and so shows forth the eternal inequality of things? It is added that there is a beautiful simplicity and decency in these repasts, and that there are three napkins to each symposium. Thus we have six consumers to one bowl and three napkins to six consumers. But some will do well to avoid the table d'hote a la Tolstoi.

Hospital for Sick Plants.

A hospital under the care of Prof. B. T. Galloway, chief of the division of vegetable pathology, has been established by the Department of Agriculture of the United States Government for the treatment of sick plants. Diseases affecting plants and vegetables, as well as remedies, are investigated. The work will not only benefit farmers, but all lovers of flowers. A violet-plant was placed under a glass jar, where it was provided with only poor ventilation. Germs of a disease known to be injurious to this plant were mixed with water and sprayed upon it. Soon large yellow spots appeared upon the leaves. After the jar was removed, the patient rapidly recovered, showing that the germs would have had no effect had the air in which the plant grew been fresh. The plants in a row of young corn are given water in different quantities, mixed with certain proportions of salts, as found in natural soil. When certain strengths of salt are added, the little mouths of the hairlike tubes of the roots, through which the plants drink, become so badly puckered, that the plants starve. Plants growing in salt-marshes and by the seaside are supplied with larger mouths. By testing the amount of salt in his soil, the farmer can ascertain how healthy his corn is likely to be.

Brunettes Steadily Increasing.

Within two hundred years, it is predicted, blue eyes and light hair are destined to disappear. Statistics show that in England, out of one hundred blondes, only fifty-five succeeded in marrying, while out of one hundred brunettes, seventy-nine find husbands. Moreover, history confirms these statistics. From the remotest times the blonde has been giving way to the brunette. The "Iliad" refers continually to light-haired warriors and women, but now the shores of the Archipelago are inhabited by brunettes. In the days of the Romans the Gauls were blondes, but their descendants do not resemble them. And among the Germans, Scandinavians and Anglo-Saxons the proportion of brunettes is steadily increasing.

Australian Aborigines.

Last year there were in New South Wales, Australia, 3,422 full-blood aborigines and 3,603 half castes. Twelve years back the full-bloods numbered slightly more than double the half castes, but since then they have decreased at the annual average rate of 460, against an average annual increase of 86 half castes.

Maude—Funny what curious eyes some people have! I showed my new photograph to the Nellisons to-day. He said it was awfully pretty, and she said it didn't look a bit like me. Edith—So it seems that husband and wife can think alike, doesn't it?—Boston Transcript.

The natural gait of most people would win them honorable mention in a cake walk.

Sensible, Durable and Wearable Presents....

NOTHING GIVES YOUR WIFE MORE PLEASURE THAN NICE, NEW DRESSES. WE HAVE A LINE UNEQUALED NO WHERE IN STYLE AND PRICE.

Lovely and desirable presents in Neckwear, Hosiery, Underwear, Handkerchiefs, etc.

A Pleasure To Show You At

M. Jones & Son
AUBURN, IND.

Winter Is At Hand.

You don't need to wait until the thermometer registers 25 degrees below zero before you are convinced that winter is near at hand. You may as well acknowledge it at once! Winter is here and you need something in our line. We have them to sell at

PRICES THAT WILL SATISFY YOU

And when in need of

Stoves	Snow Shovels,
Stove Pipe	Hand Sleds,
Stove Boards	Burton Logging Bobs,
Dampers	Sleighs,
Registers	Sleigh Bells,
Saws, Axes	Sled Runners, Sled Soles, Corn Shellers
Wedges, Sledges
Meat Cutters
Lard Presses
Loaded Shells
Shot Guns
Horse Blankets
Weather Strips
Oil Cloth Rugs

We would be pleased to have you call and see us. We are the sole agents in Auburn for the Celebrated Wilson Heating Machines, the latest and most economical stove out.

Culbertson & Boland,
AUBURN, IND.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Henrietta Shutt deceased, late of said county. Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

PRICE D. WEST,
Administrator.

December 16, 1898.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...DECEMBER 22, 1898.

THE ARMY MULE.

A Deserved Tribute to a Much Maligned but Very Useful Animal.

[New Haven Journal Courier]

The army mule came out of the Civil war not exactly haloed, but much respected. He has won more laurels in the Yanko-Spanko war and though he will probably not get all the praise due him, he will be occasionally mentioned in song or story and possibly in a government report, His achievements in Cuba have been very meritorious, He went there a stranger to the climate and all unused to the horrors of war From the quiet and peace of a southern plantation he was plunged into the tumult and disorder of the Cuban campaign. He stood the plunge well. Serene amidst alarms, patient in toil and courageous in the fiery test of battle he has proven himself a hero. If he has occasionally kicked it is not more than most of those who have had anything to do with the Cuban campaign have done, and his kicking has not been called hostile to the administration. So it has not done much harm and has probably done some good. Twelve hundred robust and hero army mules have been sent to Cuba and it is recorded that only twenty-two have died. They have defied all the rules of sanitary science. They haven't drunk boiled water or slept on platforms lifted above the ground. And yet they live to tell the tale and wag the tail. Much longer life to them and more fun. They are interesting warriors and much more useful and heroic than some of the young noblemen who were "pulled" into the army.

The Indiana's Punch Bowl

Those of our citizens who contributed to buy the lovely silver service for the Indiana Battleship will be interested in reading the following:

The Indiana has a silver service of twenty pieces, and one of them, a punch bowl, has received an honorable scar resulting from a too near approach to Zocapa mortar battery, near the entrance to Santiago harbor. On July 3, while the Indiana was cruising near this batterly, a shell struck the quarter, piercing the armor, and burst in the wardroom. A fragment of shell five inches long, and varying from two to four inches in width, hit the bowl on the engraved side, but fortunately not until its speed was well spent. The dent covers a space of about four inches and it is regarded with great pride by the officers and crew. The punch bowl has been sent to Messrs. Tiffany & Company to have an account of the injury engraved across the damaged portion of the gilt lining. The fragment of shell has been preserved and will be mounted on an ornamental openwork silver cover for the bowl.

That Throbing Headache

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by H. B. McCord the druggist.

JAMES WATSON.

Mr. Watson is an organist of great ability. In Chicago and throughout the west his services at the dedication of new organs are in great demand. During the World's Fair he gave over 250 recitals on the great organ in the Manufacturers Building, and the unanimous opinion of the press is that his playing approaches the wonderful.

Dedication of Pipe Organ
....AT THE....
Presbyterian Church,
THURSDAY EVE,
DEC. 22, 1898.
Tickets On Sale At Fischler & Son's
D. A. Hodge's
Baxter Bros' Restaurant
Also will be sold by Committee.

Trouble on Ice.

We alluded briefly last week to some trouble the boys had Thursday and Friday evenings while playing on the ice on Cedar Creek. Several wild stories are afloat, and it is better for all, that something near correct be given.

It appears that Thursday evening, the boys were playing "shinny" on the ice, or some thing like that, by driving a tin can, with a sort of club. It appears that young Jack Towne, and possibly others, objected to let Geo. Baxter play with them, and it is said went so far as to knock his can away. Geo. and Jack, had a hot quarrel, that was likely to result in blows, when George's elder brother, Frank, interfered. Then Jack Towne and he came to blows, when George stepped up and struck Jack a hard blaw with his shinney stick. This ended the trouble that day, but when they met on the ice the next evening, the quarrel was renewed. Towne started towards Geo. Baxter, and the latter stepped back, drew a revolver and fired at Jack. He says it was a blank cartridge, and that he did it to frighten Jack away.. It succeeded admirably in scaring off all the boys, who scattered for home. That ended it. No doubt the matter has been unduly exaggerated. It waz only a boy's quarrel.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of 1125 Howard-st., Philadelphia. Pa., when she found that Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption had completely cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. All other remedies and doctors could give her no help, but she says of this Royal Cure—"it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." So will every one who tries Dr. King's New Discovery for any trouble of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's drugstore, every bottle guaranteed.

Don't Wear Linen Collars. Girls.

For wear at school and at home in the mornings young women use instead of linen collars a broad band of white ribbon, satin or taffeta, pinned in front with two little stickpins. This was resorted to as a relief from the constant pressure of linen collars. The latter worn daily leave an ugly mark upon the throat which is not easily rubbed off, and which is most unbecomingly in evidence where the throat is even slightly open for evening dress. For the same reason those who have put a linen collar beneath the lisse and chiffon ties that wind twice around the throat are substituting now a band of white ribbon. A bit of economy, confided by one young woman, is that she puts to this use white ribbons that have been washed.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

$50 for One Bottle of Medicine.

This is to certify that my wife was for years afflicted with asthma, and was so far gone that several physicians decided that her case must terminate in consumption. I was induced to try a bottle of Dr. Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup. To our great satisfaction it gave almost immediate relief, and two bottles completely cured her. She is now well and healthy, but I would not be without the medicine if it cost fifty dollars a bottle. WM. H. FARRIS,
Chn Bd Tp of Wilton, Monroe Co., Wis.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Frederick Gfeller deceased to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 13th day of January 1899 and show cause if any, why my Final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 19th day of Dec, 1898.

MARY A HOFFELDER,
Administratrix

FORT WAYNE AND JACKSON RAILROAD COMPANY.

The Annual meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and the consideration of such other business as may be brought before the meeting, will be held on the 25th day of January, 1899, 10 a. m, at the office of the Company, Jackson Michigan.

The transfer books will be closed from January 12th until January 26th, both inclusive.

Call For County Orders

All outstanding county orders issued prior to June 9, 1898 order No. 490 will be paid if presented to the County Tresurer. Interest will stop Dec. 20, 1898.

S. H. HINE,
County Treasurer.

Get Your Coal.

G. A. Mader has just received a large stock of the finest quality of hard coal which he is now delivering to customers. Prices right. Don't wait till cold weather is on us. Leave orders with him early. d&w

All Take a Hand.

"It is estimated," said the statistical boarder, "that 7,000,000 packs of playing cards are made every year." "That," said the cheerful idiot, "is a great deal."—Indianapolis Journal.

That Depends.

Fat Would-Be Passenger—"Am I in time to catch the train?" Official—"Well, I don't know how quickly you can run. It started thirteen minutes ago."—Rival.

COURT

Court convened in Auburn this forenoon, with nearly every attorney in the county present. There were Leas, Blair, McDonald and Phillips and Gerner of Waterloo Myers, Mountz and Sharpless of Garrett, and a full corps from Auburn Judge Powers and J. F. Sherman, of Angola, and others whose names have escaped us, as well as Ott Baxter of Butler. The grand jury came straggling in over the icy roads.

All came by eleven o'clock, except E. Case who was absent and A. M. Case of Auburn put on. Henry Hood of Waterloo, takes the place C. B. Jones of Garrett,

Soon after eleven, all being ready, and Judge Hartman having done a considerable preliminary work to accommodate attorneys who were getting cases ready, called for the grand jury to take their seats. This done he gave them the usual charge as to their duties etc He said they must not seek to indict a man merely because he is called before them, but only such as they have reason to believe are guilty They are to look first to the cases of the men already confined in the jail, so that if innocent, they may be set free. They next, should look to those who have been held on bail to await the meeting of the court. Then next come cases if any where officers are charged with a neglect of duty or improper official conduct.

Then they examine as to other, more general cases to come before them. They must, some time in the session inspect the county jail and poor house, etc, etc.

He was listened to with close attention, not only by the grand jury but by the attorneys, and all in the roon.

After noon, the court got at the ordinary work of the session.

NOTES,

James Latson, is in charge of the grand jury and Charley Crew is court room bailiff. Neal Platter, who was repudiated by an 800 majority is still hanging about the ragged edges of the court room,

A Study in Arithmetic

Here is an arithmetical problem that is going the rounds: A is indebted to B $5, B to C, C to D, D to E, E to F, same amount. A, B. C. D, and E each have $1 and no more, and consequently they can not pay their debt. They put their money all together. A takes the $5, goes to B. pays his debt and gets his receipt. B does the same to C, C to D, D to E, E to F. A, B, C, D and E are out of debt, and F has his money Who, if any one, is the loser?

A Frightful Blunder

Will often cause a horrible Burn, Scald, Cut or Bruise. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, will kill the pain and promptly heal it. Cures Old Sores, Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, all Skin Erup ions Best Pile Cure on earth. Only 25 cts. a box Cure guaranteed. Sold by H B. McCord, the Druggist.

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIAN, DeKALB COUNTY, } ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term 1899, Charles Fisher is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for divorce and custody of children by Kate Fisher and that the same will be heard and determined on the 6th day of March, 1899, being the 1st juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences March 6, 1899.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 13th day of December 1898.

MICHAEL F. LONG,
Clerk,

D, D. Moody Atty.

HUMPHREYS' ANIMAL SPECIFICS.

A. A. CURES } FEVERS, Lung Fever, Milk Fever.
B. B. CURES } SPRAINS, Lameness, Rheumatism
C. C. CURES } EPIZOOTIC, Distemper.
D. D. CURES } WORMS, Bots, Grubs.
E. E. CURES } COUGHS, Colds, Influenza.
F. F. CURES } COLIC, Bellyache, Diarrhea.
G. G. Prevents MISCARRIAGE.
H. H. CURES } KIDNEY & BLADDER DISORDERS.
I. I. CURES } MANGE, Skin Diseases.
J. K. CURES } BAD CONDITION, Staring Coat.

50c. each; Stable Case, Ten Specifics, Book, &c., $7. At druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Humphreys' Medicine Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York. VETERINARY MANUAL SENT FREE.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, VITAL WEAKNESS
and Prostration from Overwork or other causes.
Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 28, in use over 40 years, the only successful remedy.
$1 per vial, or 5 vials and large vial powder, for $5
Sold by Druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price.
HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

The Only Place In Town

Where you can buy everything in the Fruit and Candy line at most reasonable prices. We can sell you at retail goods as cheap as most of wholesale dealers.

When You Want: Bananas, Lemons, Oranges, Apples, Cream Candies, French " , Chocolates, Nuts, Cigars, Etc.

of every variety, and a line to select from that no house in Auburn can compete with. Call and see me at South 7th street, Kiblinger block.

FRANK ROSE,
THE FRUIT MAN.

OUR GOODS FOR YOUR CASH.

!!Slaughter Sale of Boots, Shoes and Rubbers!!

We have entirely too large a stock of Boots, Shoes, Felts, Mackinaw Sox and Rubbers. Therefore we are going to reduce our stock $3,000 in the next sixty days, and to do this we realize that we will have to "Slaughter Prices" and are prepared to do it.

Our Loss is Your Gain.

We can be of mutual benefit to each other in this way: "You need our goods, we need your cash." Let's dicker. Remember our entire stock is included in this sale.

"Some Money Saving Prices on Your Winter Foot Wear."

Sample No. 1. All our Men's Patent Leather and Enamel Shoes, coin and pointed toes, go at $2.00 the pair, former price $5.00 to $6.00.

Sample No. 2. All our very newest Patent Leather Shoes, the latest last and toes, go at $3.98, former price $5 00.

Sample No. 3. Our entire stock of Men's Box, Caribou, Willow, Titan and Russia Calf Shoes, in black or tan shades, calf and kid lined, go at $3 95, former price $4 50.

Sample No. 4. Every pair of our $3.00 and $3.50 Winter Shoes in tan and black, go at $2.58.

Sample No. 5. Men's Felt Boots and good high rubbers at $1.98 worth $2.25. Best Felt and Best Rubber the outfit for $2.35, worth $2.75. Best Knit Boot made with the genuine "Lambertville Rubbers" the original and only "Snag Proof" Rubbers made, go at $3.00, some stores ask $3.50. Rubber Boots $2.40. Non Snag's $3.00.

Sample No. 6. Men's French Kip, custom made "Walker Boots" go at $3.00 for single sole and $3 50 for double sole and tap. You could not get a better boot made to order for $5 00. High and low instep.

Boy's "Walker Boot" $2 50 for single sole, $2.75 for double sole and tap, same stock as the Men's.

Our $3.00 Kip Boot go at $2.50, Oil Grain $3.00 Boot for $2 50.

Boy's $2 25 Kip Boot for $1.75. Good Boy's Boot $1.50. Child's $1.25

Sample No. 7. Ladies' warm lined and Felt Shoes, all Felt or Leather Foxed, six kinds in this lot at $1.38.

Sample No. 8. Ladies' warm house Slippers. Quilted, Fur Trimmed, the warmest, prettiest and most comfortable you have ever seen for 97c.

Our $1 50 line, handsome Julieta, Fur Trimmed, tan and black at $1.25.

Sample No. 9. 200 Pairs Ladies' "Common Sense" Hand Turned Shoes, go at $1.95, former price $3.00 to $3 50 Now is your chance to get a good Home Shoe, "Komfort for Korns," at less than the cost of manufacture.

Sample No. 10. 150 Pairs Misses' and Children's Winter Shoes, heavy and substantial at 75c and 98c, former price $1.50 to $2 00, sizes 8, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½ and 2. Better shoes for wear never were made.

Sample No. 11. The balance of our stock of the celebrated "Crack Proof" shoes for Misses, go at $1.25, former price $1 50. Ladies' and Boys' sizes $1.50, was $1.75.

Ask Your Neighbor About Them.

We mean every word of this advertisement, bring it with you and see for yourself. You will be kindly and courteously treated and we will appreciate your trade as no one else can

Our Motto: Good Quality, Hones Quantity;
Sell Cheap, Sell a Heap,
And Keep Everlastingly at it.

Bishop & Beidler,
(Raut & Co.'s Old Stand.)
Auburn, Ind.

What We Are Doing At Our Cost Sale.

Look At These Prices:

$5.00 Rings	now	$3.00
$8.00 Clocks	now	$6.00
$4.25 "	now	$2.75
50c silver Timble	now	35c
$4.00 solid Gold "	now	$2.75
$1.50 Spectacles	now	75c
$4.00 Roger Plated Forks		$1.75

Silver Plated Ware and many other things at almost your own price. We mean business—come right along, we can do you good.

Fred J. Yesbera,
The Auburn Jeweler.
One Door North of Davenport's Drugstore.

Robbed The Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed, at H. B. McCord's Drugstore.

Get Your

Structural Iron and Steel of Jacob Shull.

Stove Repairing
Promptly attended to at reasonable prices. Work guaranteed first-class.

Jacob Shull,
AUBURN JUNCTION, IND.

WANTED:
FARM PRODUCTS IN EXCHANGE FOR BICYCLES OR HARNESS.

Money not a necessity. You produce what we can use. We make what you want.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 1, one-piece crank, latest model, the equal of the best Bicycle made, your own specifications, $50.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 2, three-piece crank, your own specifications, $45.

"Marlo" Racer, a very fine machine, $60.

We sell Bicycles for cash or on the monthly payment plan, anywhere in the United States or Canada. We make very liberal allowances for old wheels. We also sell second-hand wheels at from $8 to $30. Don't fail to write us if you want a wheel or harness on the best terms ever offered.

We allow ruling Buffalo prices for all kinds of farm products that can be shipped economically to Buffalo. Tell us what you have to exchange and we will quote prices we can offer. Enclose stamps for further information or for price list of our Handmade Harness and Horse Collars.

MARLO CYCLE CO.,
61 Terrace, Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED--A Reliable MAN

of good address to solicit business from property-owners. Any well known person willing to work, can make $10 to $15 weekly. Commission or salary, paid weekly. Address for particulars, mentioning this paper.
CHARLES E. CHASE, Rochester, N. Y.

SUPPLEMENT
—TO THE—
AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...DECEMBER 22, 1898.

Mr. Cobb's Letter.

R. W. Cobb always sees and hears something of interest to Auburn readers. He writes the COURIER under date of December 17, from Rochester, N. Y. as follows:

ROCHESTER, N. Y, Dec. 17, 1888.

MY DEAR SIR:—On Wednesday the 14th, it was my misfortune to be on a snow bound train south of Dunkirk, for several hours. It was in the country, away from telegraphic communication with snow from 3 to 8 feet deep and drifting badly. Our engine had cut off and plowed on toward the city for relief when it became disabled only about a half mile away. The conductor finally struck out across the country to a farm house, where telephone service was secured with the city, and soon an extra engine and snow shovelers were with us, and towed and helped us on into Dunkirk.

The steam pipes cooled off and the writer (for one,) contracted a severe cold, which has finally laid him up here, for repairs.

The snow averaged 4 to 6 feet deep on the level between Dunkirk, Buffalo and Batavia, and at this point only about 2 feet. The temperature has been up since yesterday, and the snow is fast finding its level or rather disappearing.

I will remain here over Christmas.

The population of Rochester is 130-000; of Buffalo, 260,000.

R. W. COBB.

The Cuban Tariff

The U. S. Government orders a Reduction of half the Spanish rate.

The new Cuban tariff is now made public and the following table will show the average per cent. of reduction as compared with the old Spanish rate. The general average of reduction is 62 per cent., and with this it is thought that a revenue sufficient for the administration of the island will be collected.

	Per cent.
Class I, stones, earths, ores, etc.	64.1
Class II, metals, etc.	62.1
Class III, pharmacy and chemicals, substances of	58.1
Class IV, cotton, etc	63,7
Class V, hemp, flax etc	62.5
Class VI, wool, etc	70.4
Class VII, silk etc	59.0
Class VIII, paper etc	76,9
Class IX, wood, etc.	63.1
Class X, animals etc	61.8
Class XI, instruments, machinery, etc	60.6
Class XII, meat, fish, butter and grasses	61.5
Class XIII, miscellaneous	61.8
General average, all casses	62.0

LONDON DEATH RATE.

Great Improvements in Sanitary Conditions Still to Be Made.

Pure water, unlimited in quantity, accessible to all; fresh air, spacious highways, ample recreation grounds—these things are a necessity to health, and the health of the citizens is a primary public concern, says the Contemporary Review. It has been the pride of the last half-century that vast sanitary reform has been accomplished. And the proof of it is found in the diminishing death rate of most great cities, and in the highest degree of London. There are cities in Europe today where the death rate is double that of London—nay, where it is three times what the death rate of London has been for whole months within the last year. The normal death rate of Cairo is nearly three times that of London; 80,000 lives per annum at least are saved in London which would be sacrificed but for the advance of sanitary science and municipal reform. But we are only at the beginning of our task. The rate in London may now be said to be brought well below twenty per 1,000. In the good time to come it will be brought down to ten. At this moment there are squares and terraces in the west end where the rate is not so high as this. The death rate of Derby this very week is under ten. And to this ideal limit it must be brought before sanitary reform has said its last word. That word will not be said until every sewer is as free from poisonous gas and deadly ferments as a scullery sink in a well-found house; until the suspicion of preventable infection and contagion is entirely removed, until the infants of the poor are no more destroyed by unintentional infanticide than are the infants of the rich; until birth, measles, whooping cough and scarlatina have ceased to decimate the homes of the careless, the ignorant and the indigent. As it is, at least a quarter of our present death rate is due to conditions which if those responsible were not so helpless and so ignorant would amount to manslaughter and even murder. And perhaps a fifth of the death rate over and above this is due to conditions which are distinctly preventable by science and by organization. In the good time to come the 50,000 or 60,000 lives we slaughter annually in London alone by our stupidity and mismanagement will be told by our descendants as an abnormal barbarism such as caused the plague and the black death of old.

The Poor Poet Again.

The Rhymster—"Poets, sir, are born——" Editor—"Not in the last fifty years."—Indianapolis Journal.

...A CHALLENGE...

RED TAG SALE

Of Men's Boys' & Children's Clothing and Furnishings

Which we confidently predict will be the most interesting, satisfactory and absolute opportunity that was ever presented to you or attempted by us. An inducement that compels attention, and one that varies from the common, everyday clearingsales. We absolutely defy competitors to place before the consumers Qualities and Prices that can be at had our Challenge..... Red Tag Sale which means that every Garment and Article Bearing the RED TAG has been REDUCED from a price that was a standard of qualities to an almost Limitless Discount of Twenty-Five per cent., Fifty per cent. and even at Two-Thirds their original values, if you would appreciate the full meaning of our challenge

Red Tag Sale

Come and see qualities offered that are cut more than Half Their Original Values. We don't compete with them whose stocks look like ours, but with those who aim to give the most for the money, for we place before you in this _____ RED TAG SALE Styles and Qualities that are a marvel of contrasting Superiority to other previously attempted sales. You can make money by saving it. You can get unparalleled bargains with us in Men's and Boys' Ulster Overcoats, Clothing and Furnishings on our RED TAG Slaughter Sale.

CASH, CASH, CASH!

Is what makes business move, and cash is what buys bargains at our RED TAG Challenge Sale—the price on the RED TAG is the lowest possible price by which you buy these goods as the RED TAG Price means less than original cost to us; and for cash only. This is not a repetition of our Popular One-Fourth Off Sale, but a slaughtering of prices that is.....

A Saving To You of From 25 Per Cent. to 60 Per Cent.

Our stock is immense—two stocks to select from. Our Specialty is Men's, Boys' and Children's Wear and our increasing trade bears out the fact of your appreciation of good qualities at right prices. Patronize our Red Tag Sale, as we kindly solicit an inspection of qualities and prices that will be continuous for the closing out of broken lots and broken sizes, which includes garments that are seasonable for present use: Gloves, Mittens, Hats and Caps, Heavy Suits, Ulster Overcoats, Dress Overcoats, Men's and Boys' Pants, Children's Knee Pants Suits, garments all for winter wear. This novel RED TAG SALE is the medicine by which we keep our stock full of new things, and rid of broken lots

Always when in our place of business, look for the RED TAG for Exceptional Bargains. Take advantage of the opening which is now commenced. Come early and get choice selections, as we are going to make prices for a quick clearance of our winter stock.

Nuggets Of Rare Values

can be had in our Merchant Tailoring department, which is included in our RED TAG SALE.

THE RED TAG Means a Saving To You! Is Worth Looking After!!. You Will Find It At G. H. YESBERA'S Clothing Stores. Two immense stocks of Clothing and Furnishings.

AUBURN and ASHLEY,

G. H. YESBERA

CLOTHIER, MERCHANT TAILOR and GENT'S FURNISHER.

THE BISHOP & LACKEY CO.

AUBURN, IND.

CONTEMPLATING a change in the firm at the close of the year we will commence a Stock Reducing Sale,

Thursday, Dec. 1, 1898,

and continuing during the entire month. Prices have been adjusted on many lines without regard to profit. We have given many successful Special Sales, but propose to make this a RECORD BREAKER. We are not offering a job lot of trashy merchandise, but new dependable goods such as this firm has made its reputation by handling, and at a time when they are wanted.

Special provisions made for prompt service.

Ladies' Suits and Wraps

This has been one of the busy departments during the past month. But fresh arrivals have filled the gaps. We are showing perhaps 300 garments. Can not describe them all. The stock consists of Children's Jackets, 4 to 12 years. This seasons latest production.
Regular price.....2 00 to 6.75

Misses, 14 to 18 years, in rough and smooth goods in black and colors.
Regular price.....3.50 to 10.00

Ladies' Jackets in Black Kersey and Astrakhan. Late styles.
Worth.....6.50 to 15.00

Ladies' Astrakhan, plain and crushed Plush Capes.
Regular price....5.00 to 18.00

On all the above stock we will give during this sale a discount of 25 per cent.

Hosiery

Ladies' fast black fleeced lined Cotton Hose.
Per pair..... 15 and 25c

Ladies' black ribbed and plain Wool Hose. Extra quality.
Per pair.....25c

Children's fast black heavy ribbed Cotton Hose. All sizes.
Per pair.....10c

Children's black Wool Hose. Narrow and wide ribbed. All sizes 5 to 8¼; good value at 25c.
Now.....19c

Men's heavy Wool ½ Hose in grey and blue mixed. A 35c value.
Sale price.....25c

Holiday Handkerchiefs

No time in the year when you can find such values and selections as now.

See our line of Men's white and colored borders at 8, 10, 12½ and 15c The best your money could buy.

Men's all Linen Hemstitched Handkerchiefs in wide and narrow hems at 10, 12½, 15, 20, 25, 35 and 50c. The best we have ever sold at these prices.

Dainty Embroidered Handkerchiefs such a variety at 5, 10, 12½, 15, 20c, and on up to $1.00 each. Just perfectly lovely. You will be carried away by their attractiveness.

Carpets

Half wool Carpets. Nice patterns. Regular 60c goods.
Sale price per yard.....40c

5 rolls all wool extra super Ingrain Carpets. Regular 50c goods.
Now.....45c

4 rolls Tapestry Carpets. worth 75c.
Sale price.....50c

3 rolls each Axminster and body Brussel Carpets. Cheap at $1.00.
Sale price.....75c

Underwear

Children's Pants and Vests; sizes 16 to 34. Each.....10 to 25c

Ladies' ribbed fleeced lined Vests and Pants; a bargain at 25c.
Now.....21c

Ladies' Jersey Ribbed Vests and Pants; sizes 4 to 7's. Regular 50c goods.
Each.....33c

Ladies' Natural Wool Vests and Pants; $1.00 value. Now.....75c

Child's Cotton Flannel Drawers; lace trimmed; 10 cent values. Now...6¼c

Child's Union Suits; worth $1 00.
Now.....50c

Child's Jersey Ribbed All Wool Pants and Vests; worth 50c. Now.....35c

Men's Grey Random Shirts and Drawers; worth 35c. Now.....23c

Men's Natural Half-wool Shirts and Drawers; worth 50c each.
Now per suit.....75c

Men's Cotton Fleeced; worth 50c.
Now 45c each or per suit.....85c

Men's Natural Wool Shirts and Drawers; all sizes; worth each 75c.
Now.....55c

Ladies' and Gents' Outing Gowns. in neat stripes, large collar, good value at $1.00. Now.....75c

Misses Outing Gowns, the 75c kind.
Now.....50c

Children's Gowns sold all season at 50c. Now.....39c

Silk Waists

We have just received another lot of those beautiful Silk and Satin Waists. Just in time for the Holidays. See them while making your selections for Christmas presents.

"Flannelette" Waists and Wrappers. Good assortment at low prices.

Blankets

10-4 Cotton Blankets in Grey; worth 50c. Sale price.....40c

11-4 Blankets in grey, tan and white; worth $1.25. Sale price.....1.00

11-4 Grey Half-wool Blankets; weight full five pounds; $1.75 values.
Now.....1.25

10-4 All-Wool Blankets.....2.50

11-4 All-Wool Blankets, in white and colors.....3.00 3.50 & 4.00

Domestics

Nice line dark Prints, 5c quality.
Goes during this sale at 3½c

Good heavy yard wide unbleached Muslin. Price 3c

Dark and light Outings; 6c value.
Price per yard.....4c

9-4 Sheeting; 16c value.
Per yard.....12c

5-4 Table Oil Cloth.
Per yard.....10c

Gloves & Mittens

Children's Mittens 10, 15, 20 & 25c.

Ladies' Mittens in plain and fancy.
.....15, 25, 35 & 50c.

One lot Men's gloves in calf and hog skin; lined and unlined; values 75c to $1.25. Now.....50c

Calf Skin Mittens; warm lined; regular $1.00 quality. Now.....50c

Pontiac Mittens; buckskin covered; worth $1.25. Now.....75c

Heavy Fulled Mittens, worth 50c.
Now.....39c

Holiday Novelties

Pillow Covers in new and pretty designs.

Dresser Covers,
Pillow Shams,
Lunch Cloths,
Table Linens,
White Quilts,
Jewelry,
Fancy Combs,
Ladies' and Gents' Purses and Pocketbooks,
Ladies' and Gents' Ties, Scarfs, Bows, Scarf and Hat Pins,
Fur Collarettes,
Muffs,
Ladies' and Gents' Umbrellas, etc.

It pays to trade at the big store of

The Bishop & Lackey Co.,

AUBURN, IND.

IDEAL MUSIC,

"Sweet as the angel Israfil's,
When every leaf on Eden's tree
Was trembling to his minstrelsy."

can be produced from an EBERSOLE PIANO. The Ebersole possesses a tone that no other maker has been able to imitate—being full and deep, yet with that clear singing quality which stamps it the peer of all upright pianos for homes of culture and refinement.

Frank B. Long,
119 Calhoun-St. cor Washington,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

FARMERS' WIVES

or any other ladies who wish to work

Can Earn Lots of Money

working for us in spare time at home on our cloths. We offer you a good chance to make plenty of spending money easily, leisure hours. Send 12c. for cloth and full directions for work, and commence at once. Cloth sent anywhere. Addres
WINOOSKET CO. (311-M) Boston Mass Mfg. Dept.

Monday's Daily.

—Mixed Candy 4cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—James W. Clark of Ashley, is here, on some court matters today.

—Malaga Grapes, Bananas, Oranges and Apples at Hebel Brothers.

—A girl baby was born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Reed, east of town.

—Arnold Blodgett of this place has purchased a tank heater, a much needed article in winter for stock.

—Mr. Roy Grubb and Bertha Metcalf, were visiting relatives in the vicinity of Norris Chapel, last Sunday.

—Zeb Smith of Pleasant Lake, was here today in the interest of organizing a military company at that place.

—Baxter Brothers' Restaurant on West Seventh-st, is the place to get a splendid warm meal for 25c. Also, hot lunch or cold lunch.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Roy Grubb, of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, is here visiting relatives. He has been visiting in the family of his uncle, E. F. Metcalf, for the past week.

—John Hoffelder and the children of the late Fred. Gfeller were here today to see about the settlement of the property interest of the father's estate,

—Davenport has DOLLS, but he dosen't intend to keep them. A word to the wise etc.

DAVENPORT the DRUGGIST.

—Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Duesler, Miss Mamie Duesler and Mrs. Ann Ernsberger, of Bristol, Ind., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Metcalf on last Wednesday.

—A Kodak makes an elegant Christmas Gift. D. A. Hodge, the jeweler, has them, all prices.

—The Laporte Argus heads an article of getting a sugar beat factory "Sugar Beats," as it believes the thing mainly a scheme to work the people for money.

—When you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve don't accept a counterfeit or imitation. There are more cases of Piles being cured by this, than all others combined. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Walter Hartman returned to Roann this forenoon. His wife accompanied him and remains a few days. They are looking up a house that will suit them, and when they secure such a one, will move down there.

—We have lately made arrangements to do all kinds of carriage repairing. When in need of such work give us a call. Corner Fifth and Jackson streets.

THE SPECIALTY BUGGY CO.
d2w-w6 WM. ECKHART, Mngr.

—A sled load of jolly young people of this place and near here, attended the literary at Feagler's corners, on Friday evening. Among the gay crowd were Miss Leona Richards, Bertha Metcalf and Clara Williamson.

—By the politeness of Morris Dirrim we have advance subscriptions from E. E. Ensley at Broughton, Ohio. He is a son of Wm. Ensley of Butler township, and like most DeKalb boys has a good position and takes the COURIER.

—The War Department has shipped 10,000 pounds of turkey and 2,000 pounds of cranberries to our army in Cuba, for a Christmas treat. What will the unpaid Spanish soldiers think of a government that treats its soldiers that way?

—G. W. Woodcox of St. Joe, was in town today to make a report as superintendent of the St. Joe gravel road, He says that up to the time the Dills culvert washed out, he had spent but two days in keeping the road in good shape.

—Emillius Case, of St. Joe, was here this afternoon, having come in on the noon train. He was well pleased when he found he was so late that another man had taken his place. He admits he has work enough at home that suits him better.

—Constipation prevents the body from ridding itself of waste matter, DeWitt's Little Early Risers will remove the trouble and cure Sick Headace, Biliousness. Inactive Liver and clear the complexion. Small, sugar coated, don't gripe or cause nausea. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—A drizzly rain that formed the slippriest possible sleet, began about daylight this morning. It has been very difficult for people to get about. But up to this hour, 9:30 a. m. we have not heard the old joke about the wicked standing on slippery places. However, the day is not over.

—VanWert must be a great place for suckers. The papers there say: The sucker rod factory at VanWert are running day and night, rushing orders. Logs are shipped in there by rail, from this and other counties surrounding us. This is one of the largest concerns of the kind in the country.

—Walter Hartman, accompanied by his wife returned to Roann this morning. For some weeks he has devoted his entire time in the hoop and stave business there, having sold his several branches of business in Auburn. Price D. West purchased the real estate and collection business business and George Boland succeeded to the insurance and other side lines. Mr. Hartman's business here was always profitable and growing and he regrets leaving his pleasant field of work.

—Hon. R. C. Bell of Fort Wayne has been intimately acquainted with the late Senator Brice since both were young. They had much to do with one another, when the Nickel Plate road was made, and when natural gas was piped to Fort Wayne. Mr. Bell is still in charge of a good part of Mr. Brice's interests in the state of Indiana. Brice's son is in the service as captain and now in Cuba. Brice himself served in the rebellion in two different regiments, and rose to the rank of lieut-colonel.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Douglas Kelley of Smithfield was in town today.

—All package Coffee 10 cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—Sterling silver novelties of every description at Hodges.

—Clyde Willis of the Waterloo Press was in town yesterday.

—Ask any druggist for a free Pe-runa Almanac for the year 1899.

—Miss Bessie Hunter, of Huntertown, is acquiring fame as a whistler.

—Gold spectacles at cost at Yesbera's Jewelry Store. Better get a pair while they're cheap.

—Dedication of the great organ at the Presbyterian church Thursday evening of this week.

—"The railroad checks your baggage and the doctor checks your grippe" says a clipping pasted up in the Florida car.

—The Krell piano furnished by S. A. Karus of Fort Wayne will be used at the Catholic church at the concert tomorrow evening.

—There was another fight between Spanish soldiers and Cubans at Havana Saturday evening. Several were killed or badly hurt.

—The advance agent of the "Volunteer" Company is now here. This is the play that is to be at the Opera House next Tuesday, Dec. 27.

—Keep your eye on our show window as we have something out of the ordinary to show you soon.

D. A. HODGE, the jeweler.

—After Thursday, when the Presbyterians dedicate the new organ, the days will begin to grow longer. You won't notice it much at first but it is a fact.

—People are just discovering that 1900 is not a leap year, though it is divisible by 4. The full century years, must be divisible by 400, in order to be leap years.

—A German doctor has discovered a cure for consumption at least it cures unless the patient has waited too long. It is based on scientific treatment by injecting the remedy.

—Wm. Little has been appointed riding bailiff for Sheriff Hathaway. It is a good selection, for he knows every road in the county and can do the work without loss of time.

—Soothing, healing, cleansing, De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve is the implacable enemy of sores, burns and wounds. It never fails to cure Piles. You may rely upon it. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—WANTED:—Fifty new subscribers who wish to pay for the COURIER in wood. Tell your neighbor about it, and if he wants the best paper in the county, and pay in trade, tell him we are ready for him.

Fort Wayne is boasting of her show windows, but considering the size of the two towns, they don't half compare with the show windows in Auburn. It will pay to walk about Auburn streets, just to see the show windows.

—One thing that called the Commissioners here this week was that they were made defendants in the case brought by Coffinberry's bondsmen against the Coffinberry estate and they were summoned to appear at court.

—In a conversation with J. W. Clark yesterday on his late bereavement in the sudden death of his wife, we learn he has a daughter, seventeen years old, who will keep house for him. But the sudden death of his wife has been a great blow to him.

—Spanish soldiers sent home from Cuba are suffering of hunger in Madrid. A nation that will let its own brave defenders starve when they come home, deserves no sympathy for defeat. How differently we used our brave boys when they came home.

—The sooner a cough or cold is cured without harm to the sufferer the better. Lingering colds are dangerous Hacking cough is distressing. One Minute Cough Cure quickly cures it. Why suffer when such a cough cure is within reach? It is pleasant to the taste. At Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—A queer series of accidents happened in Delaware Co., near Muncie, last week. A man slipped and fell breaking his leg at the ankle. His companion took him on his back and started to carry him home. He soon slipped and falling on his helpless friend, broke the same leg in another place, and also broke his own hip.

—Last Saturday afternoon a number of Bertha Lanning's friends reminded her that she was twelve years old that day. After spending several hours in in a social way, a dainty lunch was served. All returned to their homes, wishing Bertha had a birthday every day. She was the recipient of a fine jewel box from her friends, a gold watch from her papa and a fine umbrella from her mother.

Wednesday's Daily.

—DAVENPORT'S for DOLLS.

—White Sugar 5 cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—Have you seen the winter scene at G. H. Yesbera's?

—J. W. Cool and Wm. Carr, of Jackson were in town today.

—Light Brown Sugar 4½ cts per pound at Hebel Brothers.

—Mrs. McClellan is visiting Dr. and Mrs. Siver at Fort Wayne.

—Full size cabinet photographs at Lybarger's for $1.50 per dozen during holidays only.

—"When Knighthood was in Flower." the greatest novel of the day at Davenport's.

—The ladies of the M. E. church will serve a dinner in the basement on New Year's eve.

—Special prices on Candy and Fruits for Teachers and Sunday Schools at Hebel Brothers.

—T. C. Stafford today paid his subscriptson way up into 1900, and has thanks for the same.

—The finest line of opal jewelry we have ever seen is now on exhibition at Hodge's jewelry store.

—Phil Myers had a stroke of paralysis this afternoon at the school house and was carried home.

—Save money and buy your Candy and Fruit at Hebel Brothers' Cash Grocery and Meat Market.

—The Degree of Honor ladies have decided to wait until after the holidays to give their entertainment.

—Get your best girl and go to Yesbera's Jewelry Store. You can fit her with something nice and very cheap.

—It will pay you to see Hodges line of Rings, Brooches, Scarf Pins and Studs. No trouble to show goods. tf

—WOOD WANTED:—At this office. All who were to pay us in wood are requested to bring it as soon as they can, as we need it.

—J. P. Crimmins and E. C. Reyher, of Garrett, were here today admiring the beauties of the Auburn stores and shaking hands with old friends.

—Just notice the fine holiday goods at Davenport's. A person must be difficult to please, who cannot find something that suits him there.

—From now until Jan. 1, I will take one dozen full size cabinet photos for $1.50. Don't fail to see them.

O. E. LYBARGER

—If you want to remember a friend with some dainty, inexpensive present, a book is just the thing.

DAVENPORT has 'em.

—Our line of sterling silver novelties is the best ever shown in town. Call in early as they are going fast, tf

D. A HODGE, Jeweler.

—Lee Moses business manager of the "Volunteer" company was a caller today. He is a hustler and says they will give us a good show next Tuesday, Dec. 27.

—A farmer in Kosciusko county, while husking his corn, found a two bushel sack of wheat hidden in one of the shocks. Some thief had got tired of carrying it.

—The revival meetings at the Church of God will begin Thursday evening, Dec. 22, conducted by Mrs. Woodworth. All are invited to attend these meetings.

—Our entire line of holiday goods is now on display. Everything is new and was bought to SELL. Call before you purchase. It will pay you.

DAVENPORT the DRUGGIST.

—A young Goshen chap is suing the city for injuries sustained by riding his bicycle into an uncovered hole in the street, and his mother is suing the city for damager to her by losing the boy's services.

—A cough is not like a fever. It does not have to run a certain course. Cure it quickly and effectually with One Minute Cough Cure, the best remedy for all ages and for the most severe cases. We recommend it because it's good. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

Holiday Goods at The Bazar.

Presents for the young, and presents for the old. We are in position to offer to the public the largest line of Holiday Goods ever placed on the market before. In selecting your goods for the Holidays, call at the Bazar Store and be convinced that prices and quality are the best offered. We can furnish you with anything in the line of Queensware and China. Our 10 cent counter beats anything ever seen for the size and prices.

Beautiful Lamps

we offer at very reasonable prices. Can reach you on any price from 10c to $13.50. Dolls, Wagons, Baby Buggies Carts, and anything in that line for the little folks. Handkerchiefs; we have an endless line of all colors and patterns and quality, from 1c to 25c.

Jardiniers, 10c to $1.19,

Men and boys Pocket Knives, Horn, Bone and Celluloid Handles, from 5c to 25c, a good Christmas present for the boys. Men's and Boys' Mufflers Worsted and Silk, from 25c to 48c.

...THE...

BAZAR STORE

Auburn, Ind.

—Baby photographs a specialty at Lybarger's Gallery North Main, Auburn.

—Now, that winter is here, says an exchange, our jails, all over the state are filling up with tramps and similar fellows, who commit some little offense in order to get into jail and get a comfortable home over winter.

—Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac lectured at the Auditorium in Chicago Sunday evening for the benefit of the Chicago Naval Reserves. At the close he was given a grand reception, and by actual count, kissed 130 ladies.

—Aaron Miller, one of the commissioners of Koscinsko Co., has been indicted by the grand jury on the charge of receiving bribes and of defrauding the county. They may also have a general overhauling of all the officers there.

—The seacoast defense batteries at Havana, were a part of them occupied by U. S. regulars yesterday, and their flags wave in plain sight of the wreck of the Maine. The city proper, and chief forts are still occupied by Spanish troops.

—J, Lehner of Richland is the next lucky man to pay his subscription ahead into 1900. He has been on our list at least fifteen years, Now he will be nearer to Auburn, having sold his farm near Corunna and bought another near here.

—Overcome evil with good. Overcome your coughs and colds with One Minute Cough Cure. It is so good children cry for it. It cures croup, bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and all throat and lung diseases. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The dedication of the new pipe organ at the Presbyterian church will occur on Thursday evening Dec. 22, '98. The expert organist Mr. Jas. Watson of Chicago will render the principal part of the program, which will be given later.

—The new styles in Handkerchief, Glove, Collar and Cuff Boxes, Work Boxes, Jewel Cases, Shaving Sets, Ribbon Cases, Photo Holders and Family Sets are in dark amber with celluloid and plush ornaments. Shown only at DAVENPORT'S.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending Dec. 20, 1898. Mr. John Reininger, Mr. John Kenney, Mr. John Kahlney, Mr, Tom Beard and Jones Wilderson. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—Frank Shull has leased J. W. Thomas' building at Hamilton and will put in a bakery und restaurant. He has repaired and refitted the rooms up nicely, and will keep a first class establishment. He hopes to receive a liberal patronage and especially invites all the Auburn friends to call on him when in Hamilton. He will begin business Jan. 1.

—Nothing makes as nice a present for Christmas as a box of the popular E. M. Bishop cigars, the Victor Joe or the Dinger. Or Bishop's Bouquet a 10-cent cigar, all in neat Christmas packages of 25 in a box. Remember your gentlemen friends royally in this way.

—If you are looking for a present for gentlemen, see our novelties such as Combs, Hair and Clothes Brushes, Match Sates, Key Rings and Tags, Watch Tabs, Cuff Buttons, Shirt Studs and Scarf Pins. No trouble to show goods. tf

D. A. HODGE, Jeweler.

—Just as the COURIER was using up its last fuel today Abraham Sherck landed a big load of wood for us, and we exclaimed "saved, at last" just as they say it on the stage. It has been a season difficult to get wood and we find ourselves close on the ragged edge now and then.

—Judge Penfield came home from Washington this morning for his holiday vacation. His home coming was quite a surprise as he was not expected for two or three days, Walter from Ann Arbor, and Blanche, from Westminister, will join him here at home. We do not know how long his stay will last, but presume a couple of weeks or so.

—Milford Mail: Mrs. C. W. Miller, wife of the man who it was reported drowned himself in Lake Wawasee, goes on with her divorce case just as if nothing had happened. Evidently she knows the man and takes but little stock in the drowning theory. The court at Goshen took the case under advisement, and will perhaps wait for Miller to "turn up."

—The Dawn suggests, that instad of compelling the people of Richland, for instance, to get signers to a remonstrance, the liquor seller should be required to go out and get signers for his own petition to sell liquor. This was the law, once, but only for a year or two in this state. It was called the local option law, and saloon keepers had to get a majority of voters to sign their petition. We remember when Si. Locke, in Waterloo went about with his petition, and he got the signers all right.

—Geo. W. Woodcox and Jacob Sechler of St. Joe were here today, both being opposed to the incorporation of that little villiage. Growing out of this contest was a dispute as to the amount of tuition fund drawn on each pupil of the common schools. It had been asserted by the friends of incorporation that eath pupil enumerated to St. Joe, meant over $5 added to the tuition fund. They went to the township trustee, and found by his books, that the per capita was only $3.27½. The boys are evidentlo one or two laps ahead of their opponents.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

CHRISTMAS WITH THE SOLDIERS.

THE American soldiers doing camp and garrison duty may not be able to celebrate this Christmas just as they would like, but most of them will not make a mournful time of it. They have become accustomed to soldier life and indurated to strange climate. This is one of the first requisites in the West Indies towards the enjoyment of rare fruits, rare scenery, and festivities that always crowd the Christmas season. Christmas trees, the American Santa Claus, and stockings, cut comparatively little figure in the celebrations at Havana and in the other Cuban cities, still balls, parties and masquerades follow one another in bewilderingly rapid succession, and it is not to be assumed that the soldier boys will remain in camp all of the time that this fun and variety is going.

This mardi-gras class of celebration, particularly prominent in Porto Rico, is, however, bound to pall on the true American taste, and while it extends over a week or more, the one especial day will be remembered and signalized. In the Philippines our soldier boys find European tastes quite in evidence, with a fair representation of residents from the United States. Manila is a progressive city—cosmopolitan enough to include the energy and variety that make the holiday season quite a gay round of entertainments and celebrations.

In the tented field proper the soldier has occasion to feel joyous and hopeful. Another Christmas tide, and nearly every regular and volunteer on soil now foreign will have returned to where the home Stars and Stripes wave in peaceful grandeur. The palm tree will be a memory, the Christmas tree—real and generous—will bear a double gift for the soldier and the hero!

IN THE CIVIL WAR.

Holidays Were Not Notably Different from Other Days.

IN the armies during the civil war holidays were not notably different from other days. This may be accounted for on the ground that every day with armies in active service, liable at any moment to be ordered to engage in dangerous undertakings, all had nearly enough to think about without spending days or weeks in preparing for a proper celebration of holidays. Of all of the days that attracted unusual attention on the part of the Yankee soldiers, Christmas stood at the head, however.

With most of the young fellows Christmas, 1861, was their first away from home. Many of them had hard work to appear happy as they looked at presents from dear ones and ate the good things sent them. But great changes had taken place before Christmas, 1862. At least 50,000 of the Army of the Potomac had fallen out of line—dead, wounded or prisoners. The track of its march was red—red from Yorktown to Richmond and from Richmond to Malvern Hill; from Cedar Mountain to Manassas; South Mountain to Antietam, and the reddest spot was Fredericksburg. What a gloomy Christmas it was for the Northerners. They had, only a few days before, been badly defeated in their attempt to drive Lee and the Army of Northern Virginia from the heights of Fredericksburg. The people at home may have started a Christmas dinner to the boys, but it did not reach them.

On Christmas, 1863, the army was shivering along the Rappahannock and Rapidan, and as far out as Culpeper Court House. It was too cold, and the men were too poorly housed to enjoy the day.

Christmas dinners were the order of the day in 1864. The army was strung along behind fortifications from Richmond to below Yellow House, on the Weldon Railroad, a distance of nearly forty miles. The Sanitary and Christian Commissions had arranged to supply the army with a Christmas dinner. Few men were overlooked. Except that in 1861, it was the happiest Christmas for the Yankee army since the trouble began. There were many signs that the next Christmas would be enjoyed at home, and so it was by all who escaped from the hot times from March 29 to the evening of April 9, after Grant and Lee had met at Appomattox.

A MOTHER'S MUSINGS.

SUET, three-quarters of a pound, bread crumbs, three-quarters, eight eggs. I told her to be careful in weighing, but you can never tell. Last year it fell to pieces before it came to table, and spoiled my pleasure for the rest of the dinner. Father used to say that nobody's puddings were like ours, but that was when I made my own. I wish I could have made them this year, but I dared not suggest it. They are so flighty nowadays, these fine servants. Maria would have taken offense at once, and it would never have done to be without her just now with a house full of visitors.

It felt like old times to-night, and how happy father looked welcoming them all! He will ruin those boys before the holidays are over. It was the same with our own children; if he was obliged to disappoint them, he was miserable for the rest of the day. Such a tender heart as he has! I never knew a man like him. He has never lost patience with me in all these years, and I have been sharp with him many a time—about such little things! When I have fretted about the children going away and leaving us, one by one, I have remembered his faithful love and been comforted.

Four children, three grandchildren, all of them back beneath the old roof, except—oh, my boy! where are you to-night? What are you doing? You can't go to sleep on Christmas eve without remembering the old home, and your mother, Robbie—the old mother who tried to make your Christmases happy years ago! Father doesn't say anything, but there is a look on his face I know well. He is getting an old man, and he depended on Rob to help him. He was our first. None of the others were quite the same. I remember the Christmas after he was born as if it were yesterday. Eleven months old, and he sat on his high chair like a prince. We gave him a Punchinello on the end of a stick, and when he turned it round it played a tune. His little face of astonishment, how sweet it was! How we loved him! If you had died, Rob, it would have been easier; but to know that you are alive, and don't care—that's the hard part; it is that that breaks my heart!

I shouldn't like to die before Rob comes back. His brothers might be harsh with him. William is very bitter. He has always been a dutiful boy himself, and he cannot understand such behavior. How handsome he looked when he arrived to-night, and how prosperous! He must be making a big income, I should say, by the way they live; but he was always close, and he is worse than ever since his marriage. Emily must have bought a new traveling cloak! Last year she wore a brown one trimmed with fur. It didn't look shabby to me, but she is so extravagant! Five servants now, and only those two children. No wonder Will is getting gray; it must be a strain on him to provide for such a household. I wonder if Hannah remembered to put frilled pillow cases on her bed. I shall be annoyed if she has forgotten, for it is just one of the things Emily would notice. She has all her sheets hemstitched.

The children are beauties! Eric is the picture of his father at the same age, and what a spirit! Cecil takes after his mother's family. I love them dearly, but it's a good thing children come while one is young—I couldn't stand the racket for long nowadays. Ernest looks thin. He doesn't get on, poor boy. It would have been wiser if we had given him his own way and let him go abroad, but we did it for the best. Father says we cannot do more than act upon the light of the moment, and that it is useless grieving over what is irretrievable, but I can't help grieving. Amy has had a hard time! No one would think, to look at her now, what a pretty girl she was when they were married. She has no nurse girl for baby, and that is the same dress she wore last year, with new trimmings to freshen it up. We must give them a check with their Christmas present, but not before the others—they would not like that—just quietly when we are alone.

Minette and Charlie came last, though they live nearest of all. She planned that, the little rogue! I know her tricks. She was not going to arrive in the character of bride without making sure of her audience; and how pretty she was—a perfect picture in those lovely furs. Father says she is exactly what I was as a girl, but my hair was never so golden. And Charlie adores her. I ought to be thankful for that marriage. Her house is prettier than any of the others, but I don't know how she will manage. She uses the best things every day, and never draws the blinds for the sun. When I say anything she pulls my cap on one side and asks if I remember Aunt Christina's soft blanket. They all laugh at me about that, but I can't see the joke. It was far too grand for our room, and the red and green stripes made the furniture look shabby, so I put it aside for one of the children, and now none of them will have it. It can't be soiled, for it is wrapped up in the same paper in which it arrived ten years ago, and it's a beautiful thing—there must be pounds of wool in it, not to mention the silk.

Charlie sits next to Emily. I wonder what she will wear! I wonder which cap I should put on! The one with the pearl drops is the most becoming, but the lace is not real. I'll wear the new one, and let her see that my Brussels is as good as hers. I think I'll give Amy the old Honiton. She has brought presents for everyone, the kind little thing, though she is so shabby herself. She showed me Nell's to-night. Pink silk covers for cushions! She is going to sew them on in the morning, and they will be on the couch as a surprise for Nell when she is carried down to dinner. The pink will make her look less pale. My precious lamb! A week ago I thought she would not be able to come down, but she has stayed in bed and taken every care. She knew it would spoil our Christmas if she were not among us. Ah! what was I saying? Last year she walked down; this year she must be carried—next year, perhaps—— My baby! The last of them all! I can't face it, I can't let her go! I have nursed her night and day for nineteen years, I should have nothing to do if Nellie were not here. And yet to see her grow more and more helpless; to suffer worse pain! She would be well and strong, and she has had nothing but suffering here—never any enjoyment like other girls. There are worse troubles than death—much worse. If I could think of Robbie in heaven! Ah! my boy, where are you to-night? What are you doing? Have you forgotten me, Robbie, altogether? Twelve o'clock striking! Father in heaven, Thy Son's birthday! Hear a mother's prayer. My children! Remember my children!

Journal of the Year.

How fair into our hands it came.
Snow-white was every separate page,
Whereon each day we were to keep
The record of our pilgrimage.

Our hearts were tender with regrets
Over past failures; eyes were dim
With watching out the dying Year;
We sorely grieved to part with him.

And grieved still more because the book
Of life he brought and bore away,
Our hands had blotted carelessly
And sadly marred from day to day.

And so we took the New Year's book
With naught of boasting, much of prayer
That when complete, the Judge might find
A cleaner, purer record there.

And yet—and yet—oh, heedless hearts!
How have your promises been kept?
How many crooked lines were penned
And errors made while conscience slept?

And now the final page is turned:
And, in the solemn midnight tryst,
This one last line we humbly add:
"Forgive! forget! for love of Christ!"
—The Interior.

CHRISTMAS SUPERSTITIONS.

Things That One Must Not Do Under Penalty of Bad Luck.

In North Germany you must not spin during the twelve nights of Christmas lest you should walk after your death, nor after sunset on Saturday, for then mice will eat your work. Speaking of eating, if you want to have money and luck all the year round, you must not fail to eat herrings on New Year's day, nor, if you wish to be lucky, must you rock an empty cradle or spill salt wantonly or cross knives or point at the stars.

If you leave a dirty cloth on the table over night you will make the angels weep; if you point upward to the rainbow you will make the angels' feet bleed, and if you talk of cabbages while looking at the moon you will hurt the feelings of the man in it, who was a cabbage stealer in his salad days.

An Old-Time New Year.

The method in vogue in New York City half a century ago was for the ladies of the family to remain at home, much as they do now, while the gentlemen went abroad visiting friends. The visitor entered, shook hands, took a seat, conversed for a few moments, and after partaking of refreshments—of which boned turkey and pickled oysters were the staple dishes and sherry and whisky the most popular drinks—had another handshaking and terminated the visit. The custom is of Dutch origin.

ALMOST TIME TO GO.

XMAS IN KLONDIKE.

ONE DAY OF GOOD CHEER DURING A DREARY WINTER.

At 50 Degrees Below Zero, and While the Bitter Winds Were Roaring, Dawson City Celebrated in a Crude but Joyous Manner.

THE December days and nights, according to one of the miners who came back from the Yukon diggings with plenty of gold, are the most trying of the year in the Klondike region, especially at Christmas time. "If I live to the age of Methusaleh," he says, "I don't believe I shall ever forget Christmas. It was Dawson City's first. Dawson was three months and a half old, and had settled down to be a permanent town. All the miners who had made good locations had by this time housed themselves in pine-board shanties. A few had built shanty frames about tents to secure greater warmth within. All of us who made any strikes of gold at all had done so by October, so we were well along with our gold digging; but we could do less in December than in any month in the year. From the latter part of November to early in January there is only four hours of practical daylight in any day. Many days, when the wind blew hardest—in fact, it blows a gale there all the winter long, and snow and pellets of ice were blown along—candles were kept lighted all day long. In winter, candles and lamps were always lighted between 1 and 2 in the afternoon. The mercury ranged from 26 degrees below zero to 65 degrees below. So we could not make satisfactory headway even in the richest of the diggings. All through December about half the miners used to spend days in loafing about McCarthy's saloon at Dawson. The other half puttered about their cabins, dug a little now and then, mended their fur suits and made shoes from walrus hide.

"At McCarthy's sometimes 150 or more men would gather around the roaring fire and a strange scene it was. Imagine an assemblage of men in a rough, barn-like structure, furnished with board benches, and illuminated by a dozen flickering candles. Some men are dressed in baggy garments of fur, others in several coarse, heavy overcoats over heavy woolen clothes. All have caps of half-cured, shaggy, rancid-smelling fur, so that only the face appears. Every man has a prodigious growth of whiskers, sometimes a foot long, and hair that reaches below the rim of the caps and lies across the shoulders.

"There were but a dozen calendars in all that region and very few men had any idea of dates. Some did not even know what month it was. One day, as we sat at McCarthy's, some one suggested that Christmas was approaching and we thought of observing the occasion. A week before Christmas we all agreed upon a celebration, and, crude though it was, we had a day that none of us will ever forget. It was more remarkable from the fact that there were in and about the little hamlet of Dawson City over 1,100 men. No one earned less than $16 a day, and the larger part had each risen from poverty to possessions worth several thousand dollars in a period of three months. I suppose the combined wealth in actual gold in the district then was nearly $1,000,000, and a clear prospect of increasing it to twice or thrice that sum in another five months. I don't believe that a community richer per capita has existed in this world than that was at Dawson City. Yet we had a mockery of civilization and hardly any of the comforts of life of a lot of paupers.

"Every one was informed on Dec. 24 of the fact that next day would be Christmas. Some 300 of us went down to McCarthy's to celebrate the holiday. Darkness set in at that period at about 1:30 p. m., but we had become accustomed to the 20-hour nights. When it got along to about 11:50 p. m. we got our watches out and waited. At exactly 12 the signal was given. The whistle at Joe Ladue's sawmill screeched for a half hour, and over 300 shotguns, rifles and pistols were discharged, in volleys, singly, in quartets and in trios, for hours. Every one shook hands. Some danced about the room, and big, burly miners hugged one another, while 'Merry Christmas' was shouted again and again. It was the first time in the whole experience of the Klondike that we felt in sympathy with the outside world.

"On Christmas morning we brushed up a bit, and putting on our best rubber boots went and called on our best friends in the mining cabins and settlements, and received our friends from the mining cabins scattered up and down the frozen creeks.

"At 2 p. m., when the darkness was settling down in the valleys, several hundred miners met by agreement at McCarthy's. It was the only building in Dawson that could comfortably hold a large assemblage of people. Mac had prepared a program of events for the day and we had each chipped in an ounce of dust toward defraying the expenses. The sawdust had been removed from the floor and a score of candles and lamps were arranged about the room. McCarthy himself wore a boiled shirt in honor of the occasion. On a broad board table along one wall of the room a luncheon had been arranged for the Christmas celebrators. For a half hour after arriving at Mac's we were busy stamping snow from our rubber boots and walrus hide shoes, peeling off extra coverings and in general hand-shakings and more 'Merry Christmasings.'

"'Now, boys, fall right in and tickle your gizzards over there,' shouted Mac urbanely to the crowd.

"There was room for only fifty to eat at a time, so while one squad was standing up and eating at the table, the rest were sitting about on the benches. We told stories of other Christmas days in other camps, talked about what the people down in the States were doing, wondered what had transpired since we last heard from there (five months before), wondered who was dead, how election had gone, and what the people would say when we go back with our heaps of gold and stories of how rich we had struck it.

"At last the last man in the crowd of Christmas celebrators had been to the long table and had filled up on baked beans, fried pork and bacon, codfish balls, macaroni and coffee. Then Mac read the program and the entertainment proceeded. A dozen men made speeches—a few of them genuinely humorous—appropriate to the occasion. 'America' and 'God Save the Queen' were sung and resung. The Norwegians and Swedes sang their national songs, and the sounds of the first Christmas celebration in the Klondike were carried on the wind down among the icy crags of the lonely, frozen Yukon. It must have been below 50 degrees below zero when we pulled our fur caps on and strapped our heavy garments about us late that arctic night and went trudging home through the snow to our cabins along the creeks."

A Mean Man.

Rooster—Did you ever say anything rude to the cook?

Turkey—No. Why?

Rooster—He says he's going to cut you dead when he sees you Christmas Eve.

A BUSINESS STROKE.

Mrs. Grumpy in Her Christmas Buying Adopts Grumpy's Methods.

Grumpy always has a financial spasm when the Christmas returns come in, and this year his spell was an unusually bad one.

"Thunder and lightning, woman!" he began; "look at these bills. Do you take me for a coal trust or a sub-treasury of the United States?" Glaring more fiercely as account after account was examined, he broke out again: "I'm not a profane man, Mrs. Grumpy, but ripity rip my buttons, if this don't beat a financial panic. Five hats! We have one daughter, madam, and she's not a two-headed freak! And eleven dresses! Have you gone crazy? Do you think of appearing on the stage at your time of life, or has some dressmaker hypnotized you? But just cast your eye over this one. All kinds of capes, sacks, jackets, circulars, shawls and ulsters. Are you planning a Polar expedition, or are you under the delusion that we are going to camp out this winter? Now, I do throw up the sponge! Nine pairs of shoes and hosiery by the gross. Going to open up an emporium, or did you yield to the fascinations of a bargain counter?

"I'd like to have you take enough interest in our impending bankruptcy to invoice the balance of these traps and calamities—candles, toys, collars, cuffs, corsets, gloves, handkerchiefs, laces, jewelry, skirts, and what's this? S-h-i-e-l-d-s. Now, what in the rip-snorting creation does an antiquated veteran like you want with shields? Where's the bill for javelins and dynamite guns? If it's not a state secret, I'd like to know whether you intend to take the field in South Africa or Cuba. Woman, have you any explanation to offer for this brazen attempt to ruin me?"

"Only this. You have always sought to impress upon me that I should adopt your business methods. You declared that you were going to make the money fly provided the election went your way, and I made all these orders subject to the same condition."

"Oh, I comprehend. Your extravagant scheme includes a plot to place the entire blame upon me. I will not exchange criminations or refer to the viper that stings after it has been warmed in one's breast. I simply and absolutely repudiate. You may work out your own salvation in your own devious way."—Detroit Free Press.

Christmas in Russia.

The Russian Christmas is ten days later than the English one, but is celebrated very much in English fashion. Families all meet upon that day and country house parties are many. The tree is a Christmas yew and is beautifully decorated. The gifts are placed on small tables near the tree. The churches are decorated with greens and so are the houses, but no mistletoe is used. Two or three days are public holidays at Christmas time, and the people greet each other with "Happy feast to you." A huge pyramid of rice with raisins in it, which has been blessed at the church, is served at the Christmas dinner, and the meats are goose, duck and sucking pig. A great delicacy at a Russian Christmas dinner is veal which has been fed entirely upon milk for that special day.

The Bachelor's Stocking.

Hang up the bachelor's stocking,
Ye imps that fly by night;
And dance around it mocking
Its lean and empty plight.
For him no gladness bring ye—
The single, selfish soul;
In it no presents fling ye,
They'd all drop through the hole.

The New Arrangement.

"I suppose you're going to have another old-fashioned Christmas at your house this year, Hoply?"

"Can't possibly arrange it. Hired girl goes to matinee in the afternoon, reception in the evening and a dance later on."

CONFIDENCE.

MR. DOOLEY.

Territorial Expansion.

"Well," said Mr. Dooley, "we've got 'em."

"Again?" said Mr. Hennessy, with a faint attempt at a joke.

"Niver mind," said Mr. Dooley. "We've got th' Ph'lippeens. Th' Spanyards withdhrew to th' anti-room an' says wan: 'Let's get through.' Says another: 'I say so, too. If I et another dinner I'd bust. What do they want?' 'Th' Ph'lippeens.' 'Will they take thim?' 'We'll thry an' see.' An' they come out, an' says the chairman, Senyor Monte Rice, he says: 'Oh, crool an' avaricious foe,' he says, 'wretched vampires,' he says, 'that wud suck th' las' dhrop iv blood fr'm th' fallen form iv poor Spain,' he says. 'We have no other recoorse,' he says. 'We must surrinder to ye,' he says, 'th' brightest flower in th' diadem iv lovely but busted Hispynolio,' he says, 'th' Peril iv the Pass-ific is yours,' he says. 'Take it,' he says, 'onless,' he says, 'ye're such monsthers iv croolty that ye'd rayfuse,' he says. An' we've got th' Ph'lippeens, Hinnissy; we've got thim th' way Casey got the bulldog—be th' teeth.

"What're we goin' to do with thim, says ye? That shows, Hinnissy, ye're a mugwump. A mugwump's a man that always wants to know what's goin' to happen nex', an' hopes it won't. What d'ye think we're goin' to do with thim? Sthring thim an' wear thim f'r beads? Hinnissy, if all th' people in this counthry was like th' likes iv ye, they'd be on'y enough iv ye to hold a rayform meetin' an' ye'd be livin' in a baloon off th' coast iv Maine.

"As Hogan an' McKinley both says: 'Th' nation's in th' hands iv th' Lord, an'll give him what assistance it can spare fr'm its other jooties.' Th' first thing to be done is to appint a sthrong ar-my iv officials that we can't find anything f'r in this counthry. An' ye think they'se no wan fit to conthrol a poplation iv naygurs. I tell ye, anny man that's sthrong enough to even think he can get a job turrnin' a bridge in this counthry has force enough to be king iv th' Ph'lippeens in wan year! 'Tis so. Well, some iv these la-ads 'll be kilt an' some'll come home an' thin wan day a la-ad that's been bumped again in th' sthreet car'll sthretch himsilf an' say: 'Glory be, but this is a small counthry afther all,' an' he'll sail away an' he won't have anny job to eat off an' he'll have to make a livin' be lickin' th' poor, benighted haythens that we've got to lift up, an' others like him'll go along afther him an' whin th' party con-vintion meets Aguinaldo O'Brien an' Perforated Don Carlos Cassidy 'll be contistin' which 'll cast th' vote iv th' imperyal state iv Ph'lippeens.

"That's what'll happen, Hinnissy. This not th' la-ads th' govmint'll sind out, but th' la-ads that go out on their own hook, an' have to fight to eat. Be hivins, Hinnissy, they'll be great doin's down there whin wan iv thim oppressed an' tortured people that f'r hundhreds iv years have been undher th' ir'n heel iv th' tyrant gets gay with a la-ad that's r-run a Bohemyan primery in this counthry. 'Twill be like th' foolish German man that escaped fr'm jail be jumpin' frim th' roof onto a picket fence. We're a gr-reat civilizin' agent, Hinnissy, an' as Father Kelly says, 'so's th' steam roller.' An' bein' a quite man, I'd rather be behind thin in fr-ront whin th' sthreet has to be improved."

"'Twill cost a power of money," said Mr. Hennessy, the prudent.

"Expand, ixpind," said Mr. Dooley. "That's a joke, an' I med it."

Copyright, 1898, by the Chicago Journal.

WARSHIPS GO TO HAVANA.

Sent to Protect American Interests and Preserve Order.

In consequence of the danger of serious trouble in Havana between Spaniards and Cubans, the administration decided to send warships to Havana to protect the lives and property of Americans, and to assist in preserving order should occasion demand the interference of this Government before Spanish sovereignty in Cuba ceases. Orders were issued by the Navy Department directing the armored cruiser Brooklyn, Captain Cook; the battleship Texas, Captain Sigsbee, and the gunboat Castine, Commander Berry, to proceed to Havana. The armored cruiser New York, Captain Chadwick, and the cruiser Topeka, Commander Cowles, are already at Havana.

While the recent affrays in the Cuban capital had much to do with the decision of the administration to send the Brooklyn, Texas and Castine to the Cuban capital, there was another reason why the President and his advisers believed that a strong naval force should be assembled.

The open disregard which the Spanish authorities are showing for the agreements between the American and Spanish evacuation commissioners concerning Government property that shall not be removed from Cuba, doubtless had a great deal to do with the determination to order the three vessels to Havana.

NEW YORK IN GLOOM.

Bursting of Big Gas Tank Brings Death and Ruin.

By the bursting of a huge gas reservoir in New York seven persons were killed and at least twenty were injured. The gas tank, one of the largest in the world and 200 feet in diameter, was new. Ten workmen were testing it, and for that purpose had filled it with water. When almost full the great steel structure burst and an avalanche of water overtook the workmen, crushed the adjoining buildings, one of them a tenement, and deluged the streets with torrents of water waist deep. Iron and steel beams, bands and plates were thrown great distances, and in the flood and debris men and women and children struggled for life.

Immediately the explosion was reported the gas was shut off from the mains in that part of the city to prevent explosions and the mains from filling with water. Streets were in darkness as well as homes and stores. No one has an explanation to offer for the catastrophe. The contractor and his chief engineer were taken into custody by the police, to be held until the responsibility for the accident should be determined. They professed ignorance of the accident.

COLUMBUS' ASHES REMOVED.

Spaniards at Havana Honor the Discoverer's Remains.

The ashes of Columbus were transferred from the cathedral in Havana to the Conde de Venadito, and the vessel departed for Cadiz.

A large company of notables attended the removal. The steel casket, containing the remains of the discoverer of America, was examined by Mr. Govin in the presence of the captain general and other high Spanish officials, and found to be intact.

It was then borne to the Machina wharf, where the casket was taken in a launch, between lines of twenty-five men-of-war boats, to the cruiser.

DEACON'S CHRISTMAS DANCE.

Hain't they told you uns the ruin
That has come ter Deacon Chase,
An' the big church row that's brewin'
Sense he danced an' fell from grace?
Wal, on Chris'mas night his darter
Betsey run off ter the dance,
An' the Deacon straightway arter
That most wayward gal did prance.
When he reached the Chris'mas party
An' seen Betsey on the floor
Dancin' with Jerome McCarty,
What an ugly scowl he wore.

Betsey growed a right smart paler
When her pap come inter sight,
An' big, buxom Harner Shaler
'Lowed she'd try ter set things right.
As he stood aroun' him glancin'
Harner spoke up mighty peart,
"Did you aim ter jine the dancin'?
Come along an' don't be skeert."
Then she grabbed him, an' the fiddle
Kinder drowned the Deacon's squeal
As she snaked him down the middle
In the ol' Virginia reel.

Now the gait they went gyratin'
Sent the ol' man's stagnant blood
Thro' his veins a-circulatin'
Like a rushin', springtime flood;
An' before he hardly knowed it
He had jined the sinful fun,
An' the way he heeled an' toed it
Shamed the boys of twenty-one.
It was wuth a kag o' cider
Jes' ter see him hoe her down,
An' all night that ol' backslider
Bowed an' scraped an' skipped aroun'.

Now you've heerd the tale o' horror,
How from off the hights o' grace
Ter the depths o' sin an' sorrer,
Harner yanked ol' Deacon Chase.

BELIEF IN SANTA CLAUS.

It Will Give Blessings Heaped Up to Pay You for Your Faith.

THE WORLD once contained a father and mother who did not believe in Santa Claus. They were afraid, too, to let their children believe in the blessed old myth, fearing that the fancy would make them credulous, or that it would have the effect of teaching them deceit. Facts which could be proved and verified these excellent people insisted upon, and when town and country were rejoicing, Christmas bells ringing, Christmas tapers twinkling and Christmas carols thrilling, their home was robbed of half its rightful cheer in their strenuous determination not to be imposed upon by Santa Claus or any of his train.

But to turn to our original thought. Did the parents who would have none of Santa Claus gain anything by their resolution to be rigidly true to a tangible and material order, or, clinging to the husk, did they lose the fruit which was growing within for the healing of the nations? Many things not susceptible of proof by the evidence of the physical senses are really true in that higher realm where the imagination rules. One of these never-dying, never-failing things is Santa Claus, and year by year the weeks over which his scepter is extended are weeks of rare beauty and a time when good-will everywhere shines in men's countenances and is the mainspring of their lives. Children see and feel this wonderful festival of love on the earth, but they cannot enter into it fully, and so those who were wiser than we, in good old days fragrant in memory, christened the Christmas season, when the yule-log burns, and the holly gleams, and the world is glad, as the special gala-time of Santa Claus. Believe in him all you can and he will give you blessings heaped up and running over to pay you for your faith.—Harper's Bazar.

A Reminder.

"Why, Mr. Goslin, how good it is of you to call on Christmas day," said Miss Gaskett, extending her hand to the newcomer.

"I wish you the compliments of—aw—the season, Miss Gaskett," replied the young man.

"Do you know, Mr. Goslin, that I can scarcely ever see a Christmas tree without thinking of you?"

"How kind of you to associate me with—aw—something so bwight and intewesting. Is that—aw—why you think of me at such a time, aw?"

"Well, I don't think that is it, exactly, Mr. Goslin. I suppose I think of you when I see a Christmas tree because it is an evergreen."

A Remarkable Note.

"Do you see this five-dollar note, Tenspot?"

"I do, Pipp, but what of it?"

"I regard that as the most wonderful five-dollar note extant."

"What is there wonderful about it?"

"I had it left after buying all the Christmas presents I had to get."

The man who feels like a king Christmas Eve is apt to feel like the deuce next morning.

Does Your Head Ache?

Are your nerves weak? Can't you sleep well? Pain in your back? Lack energy? Appetite poor? Digestion bad? Boils or pimples? These are sure signs of poisoning.

From what poisons?

From poisons that are always found in constipated bowels.

If the contents of the bowels are not removed from the body each day, as nature intended, these poisonous substances are sure to be absorbed into the blood, always causing suffering and frequently causing severe disease.

There is a common sense cure.

AYER'S PILLS

They daily insure an easy and natural movement of the bowels.

You will find that the use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

with the pills will hasten recovery. It cleanses the blood from all impurities and is a great tonic to the nerves.

Write the Doctor.

Our Medical Department has one of the most eminent physicians in the United States. Tell the doctor just how you are suffering. You will receive the best medical advice without cost. Address,

DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

SYRUP OF FIGS

NEVER IMITATED BY QUALITY.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

"A Perfect Type of the Highest Order of Excellence in Manufacture."

Walter Baker & Co.'s

Breakfast Cocoa

Absolutely Pure, Delicious, Nutritious.

..Costs Less Than ONE CENT a Cup..

Be sure that you get the Genuine Article, made at DORCHESTER, MASS. by

WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.

ESTABLISHED 1780.

DO YOU COUGH

DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM

THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

ASTHMA

POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC

Gives relief in FIVE minutes. Send for a FREE trial package. Sold by druggists. One Box sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Six boxes $5.00. Address POPHAM, PHILA., PA.

JOLLY JOKER.

"Auntie, has kitty got pins in her toes?" "I suppose so." "Don't you wish they were safety pins?"—Truth.

The easiest way to take the conceit out of an amateur is to induce him to become a professional.—Brooklyn Life.

She—You never see my husband laugh at his own jokes. He—No; but you can't blame him for that.—Yonkers Statesman.

He—Oh, Miss Ethel, how can I ever tell you my love? She (wearily)—You might try the long-distance telephone.—Truth.

Two of a Kind.—"They say dreams go by contraries, do they not?" "Yes—dreams and weather predictions."—Puck.

"Pa, what is a scheme?" "I can't define it, my son; but it is something which will fall through quicker than anything else on earth."—Puck.

His Injury.—Attorney—What ground have you for asking for a pension? Applicant—Why, when the engagement began I lost my head.—Harper's Bazar.

Mrs. von Bloomer—"My dear, those people will be here in an hour to dinner, and the cook has been at your whisky." "In that case I guess I'll join her."—Life.

A Forecast.—Laura—Yes; Ida is engaged. Lillian—She has met her match, has she? Laura—Oh, no! I think the gentleman will find himself decidedly outclassed.—Puck.

"De trouble wif some men dat knows a heap," said Uncle Eben, "is dat dey hab sech a positive way o' tellin' it dat dey makes folks too mad to listen."—Washington Star.

She—And do you really love me? He—With all my heart! She—And would you die for me? He—Well—no! You see, mine is a sort of undying love!—Unsere Gesellschaft.

Jealousy.—"Is she very much in love?" "Much in love! Say! She heard some one say that all the world loves a lover, and she's been jealous ever since."—Chicago Post.

"Willison's wife is such a womanly man," said the gossipy boarder. "Poor Willison!" said the Savage Bachelor, and relapsed into his usual grim silence.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

She—Then you think the underground road would be a good thing for the city? He—Certainly. If it wasn't a good thing the city wouldn't have half so much trouble getting it.—Truth.

A Genuine Paradox.—Freddie—Mamma, don't you wish it would rain diamonds? Mrs. Rich—No, dear. If it should, people with money couldn't afford to wear them.—Jeweler's Weekly.

Enamored Swain (after being accepted)—Darling, you look sweet enough to eat. Practical Maid—Well, you can just bet that I do eat. I hope you didn't think that I lived on atmosphere alone.—Chicago News.

Hicks—Bowers has been telling me some of his war experiences. Wicks—I suppose you believed all his yarns? Hicks—Oh, yes; they were so uninteresting I'm sure they must be true.—Boston Transcript.

Young man (dining at his club)—Don't you think, James, that these lonely diners at the club drive a number of men to matrimony? Waiter—Maybe, sir; but not so many as matrimony drives to the club!—Punch.

The Invalid—I thought Robinson would drop in. I wonder he hasn't called to see me. His friend—Well, I'll tell you what I think. Mrs. Robinson probably won't let him sit up with any more sick friends.—Puck.

"Mary, I saw the baker kiss you today. I think I shall go down and take the bread in future." "'Twouldn't be no use, ma'am; he wouldn't kiss you, 'cos he promised he'd never kiss anybody else but me."—Ally Sloper.

Mrs. Hicks—I told you Mrs. Dix was envious of our new dining room furniture, and you don't believe it. Hicks—Has she been here and told you so? Mrs. Hicks—No; but she sent over a box of boy's tools to-day to Dick.—Odds and Ends.

Neighbor—Did that artist who boarded with you paint your doors and windows? Farmer—He did not. At first he refused to do such common work, and after I had seen one of his pictures, I refused to let him do it.—Fliegende Blatter.

Lady of the House (to bore, who generally calls when she is about to go shopping)—Won't you let me ring for a little refreshment for you? Bore—I think I'll take a little something just before I go. Lady of the House—Oh, then, do have it now!—Punch.

"Your brother soldier didn't seem any too glad to see you." "Oh, yes, he was glad enough, but it wouldn't be good discipline to show it too much. Didn't you notice the stripe up and down the leg of his pants? It's half an inch wider than mine."—Chicago Tribune.

Visitor—Johnny, how are you getting along with your geography in school? Small Boy—Teacher says I'm doin' great. Visitor—Tell me, what is the capital of New York State? Small Boy—I don't know, sir, but Havana is the capital of Cuba.—Roxbury Gazette.

Miss Tommey—Mr. Bunting is a singular man. Miss Filkins—How so? Miss Tommey—He says he doesn't like golf. Miss Filkins—But lots of men don't like golf. Miss Tommey—Yes, but Mr. Bunting says he doesn't care who knows it.—Judge.

Mrs. Newma—Oh, I wish you could see Mrs. Winkler's baby. It's perfectly lovely! Such a delicate sweet little creature as it is. It's a perfect cherub, with the loveliest eyes, the sweetest little mouth, the cunningest little nose, and eyes of heavenly blue. It looks as if it just dropped from heaven and every tiny feature had been fashioned by the angels. Mr. Newma—Is it as nice as our baby? Mrs. Newma—Mercy! no, not half.—New York Weekly.

Thunderstorms in Jamaica.

At Port Royal, Jamaica, for six months in the year thunderstorms are of almost daily occurrence, and guests to picnics and garden parties are usually invited to assemble "after the thunderstorm."

The less money a man has the stronger is his belief in the equal distribution of wealth.

How Bo Spent His Money.

The Christian Commonwealth relates an anecdote of the boyhood of Bishop Barry, which tends to show that a bishop, in his early youth, is very much like "the other fellows." He may be, in the words of the famous Mr. Chadband, "a soaring human boy," but however spiritually high he soars, he is not likely to soar quite away from the mundane tastes of his comrades.

Mrs. Barry, it seems, when she first let her son go from her to boarding school, gave him a £10 note, which was to last him for the term as pocket money; and requested him to keep an exact account of his daily expenditures, and bring it home for her inspection in vacation.

He promised, and endeavored to keep his word. But sometimes he would forget to post the items for days together, and would then naturally find himself in difficulties when he tried to recall them.

His roommate used to help him, but even then the result was not very satisfactory, though before long their combined ingenuity led them to make free use of a convenient, if original, abbreviation corresponding very nearly to "sundries"—that conveniently elastic term which assists so many young folks to bring their accounts out even.

When Mrs. Barry first looked over her boy's account book on his return she was much pleased, though also much astonished, at the most frequently recurring item of expense, and inquired how he had been led to take so strong an interest in the cause of missions. Astonished in his turn, he declared he had not given a penny to missions.

"But surely," exclaimed Mrs. Barry, "the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel is missionary work, and I find that more than half your money has been given in small sums to S. P. G."

"S. P. G., mother," confessed the future dignitary of the church, "does not mean Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; but when I could not remember on what I had spent my money, I put down S. P. G.—'Something, Probably Grub.'"

Some Corrections.

Horatius never defended the bridge. The story was manufactured by the same gifted author who gave the world the account of Scaevola's heroism.

Blondel, the harper, did not discover the prison of King Richard. Richard paid his ransom, and the receipt for it is among the Austrian archives.

Queen Elizabeth was not the angelic creature represented in the histories and poems of her own times. Her hair was red, her temper red hot. She sometimes drank too much, and at any provocation would curse like a trooper. She frequently swort at her maids, and sometimes struck, kicked and pinched them.

Mary Stuart of Scotland was not a beauty. She had cross eyes, and, to save the trouble of having her hair dressed, cut it off close to her head and wore a wig. When, after her death, the executioner lifted her head to show it to the people, the wig came off and showed a close cropped skull, covered with gray hair.

Vinegar will not split rocks, so Hannibal could not thus have made his way through the Alps. Nor will it dissolve pearls, so that the story of Cleopatra drinking pearls melted in vinegar must have been a fiction.

The blood of Rizzio, Mary Stuart's favorite, cannot be seen on the floor where he was murdered by Darnley and the other conspirators. What is seen there is a daub of red paint, annually renewed for the benefit of gaping tourists.

The Enormous Gold Product of 1898.

From South Africa, the Klondike and Australia gold is being shipped in large quantities. This year's output will nearly double that of any previous twelve months. The sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is also increasing very fast. This famous remedy will cure dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, nervousness and weakness.

Distinctly Marked.

"Were there any marks about him by which you would know him again?" asked the policeman, who had arrived at the scene too late to be of any service.

"Yes, sir," said the indignant young woman, whose pocketbook had been wrenched out of her hand by the daring scoundrel. "I left two long finger-nail marks on his face. I'd know him all right enough."—New York Evening Journal.

$100 Reward. $100.

The numerous readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Address, F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.

Sold by Druggists, 75c.

One on the Calf.

He—They say that a person gradually becomes more or less a part of what he eats the most of.

She—Well, I shouldn't be surprised if that were so. I've noticed that you are particularly fond of veal.

Follow It Up.

Sit down and cool off suddenly, and then regret it, for stiffness and soreness is bound to follow. Follow them up with St. Jacobs Oil and you will have nothing to regret from a prompt cure.

His Foot.

"They say she married a man who has one foot in the grave."

"Yes, she always had an eye to business. He lost a leg in the war and is drawing a heavy pension."

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

A Professional Opinion.

Crusty Old Bachelor—Ah, me! Roses fade, little girl.

Mamie (the flower girl)—Yes, sir it'd be bad for trade if they didn't!—Puck.

When you are planning to spend your winter in a milder climate, do not overlook the advantages offered by California. Low rates are in effect via the Nickel Plate Road, and each of their Peerless Trio of Fast Express Trains makes direct connections at Chicago with all lines to California. Inquire of Agents of the Nickel Plate Road for additional information.

THE HOPE OF THE CONTINENT.

Western Canada the "Bread Basket of the Empire."

The attention directed to the wheat fields of Western Canada during the past year has caused thousands of settlers from different parts of the United States to make their homes there during the past few months. They report that their experience corroborates what had been told them of that wonderful country, and they are sending back to their friends most favorable reports. During the past summer a number of Wisconsin and Michigan and Minnesota editors visited Western Canada, and the following extracts are from a very flattering letter written by the Germania of Milwaukee by its able contributor, Prof. Sheridan.

"The numerous elevators along the line, towering so far above the surrounding country that they may be seen for many miles distant, sufficiently indicate that the chief industry is the growing of wheat. At the village of Indian Head more than a million bushels of wheat was marketed last year. This was but a fraction of the amount of the same product marketed at the larger cities of Brandon and Regina. At Indian Head the representative of the Germania was told by a farmer that he was about to harvest his third crop of wheat from the farm upon one plowing given it the fall of 1895; the crops of the current year and of last year having been sown upon the stubble of the preceding crop. This farmer expected a yield of not less than forty bushels to the acre. The farms are very large. The absence of hills and rocks contributes to making farming on a large scale an easy matter. There was an abundance of evidence that the country surrounding the cities named above is an extensive region of fertile lands furnishing as great an opportunity for cattle raising and dairying as for the growing of wheat."

"We were surprised to find here a rich growth of nearly every species of cultivable plant known in Wisconsin. Various species of trees were growing, showing that its soil and its climate are favorable to the growth of forests. The writer had never seen a more promising growth of wheat, oats and garden vegetables than was observed here. The Experimental Farm of Wisconsin, located at Madison, produces nothing better."

"The people along the line of the railroad, however, assured us that we were still far distant from the northern limit of the wheat-growing belt, and that five hundred miles farther north wheat and other agricultural products were cultivated with success. The inhabitants do not depend solely upon the growing of wheat, but utilize vast acres in raising cattle. The growing grain and vegetables showed that a plentiful supply of rain had fallen during the current year."

"From this city (Calgary) our party was taken north 200 miles to Edmonton, a town of 5,000 people, situated on the north Saskatchewan river. The country at this point is beautiful, presenting very much the appearance of many sections in central and southern Wisconsin. The people are engaged in mining for gold, and in raising wheat, potatoes and cattle. Dairying is also followed. This valley seems to be favored with sufficient rain fall to produce a luxuriant growth of grain and vegetables. The soil is very fertile and timber is abundant. Fields of wheat were observed that promise a yield of forty bushels per acre. The many good farm houses seen from the railway are evidence of the prosperity of the settlers. Edmonton is the terminus of the road and the place where the overland expeditions start from for the Yukon, it being about 800 miles from Dawson City."

"The members of the association made the acquaintance of the Canadians of the Northwest and learned something of the vast extent of their territory and of its great resources, which are destined to make it our most formidable commercial competitor in the world's markets for the sale of agricultural products. We learned that the Northwest Territory of Canada, instead of being a barren waste as taught by our geographies of a quarter of a century ago, is capable of sustaining an empire of fifty millions of people."

Size of Famous Heads.

A well-known English hatter, who has for some years past been interesting himself in compiling a list of head sizes of eminent men, recently wrote to Mr. Gladstone: "I send you a cap which I think will prove a good fit for your head (size 7⅝). It may prove useful as a traveling cap. As a hatter I take an interest in collecting sizes of heads of eminent men. The following are a few sizes of popular heads: Lord Chelmsford, 6½; Duke of York, 6⅝; Dean Stanley, 6¾; Emperor of Germany, 6⅞; Prince of Wales, 7; Burns and Dickens, 7⅛; Earl Russell, 7¼; W. M. Thackeray, 7⅝; Dr. Thomas Chambers, 7¾; Dan O'Connell, 8; Dr. Thomson (archbishop of York), 8 full; Joseph Hume, M. P. (the financier), 8½. This gives you the whole scale from the smallest to the largest known. Your favorite author, Sir Walter Scott's head was about 7. Our sovereign Queen Victoria's head, from a close view I once got, I take to be 6⅞."

Seems to Get Ripe.

One complaint seems to get ripe in autumn, and that is Neuralgia. To soothe pain, strengthen the nerves and rid the system of it, use St. Jacobs Oil, the best known cure.

Insulted.

"I suffered nearly all night from insomnia," said the drummer.

"I'll bet you $2," roared the country landlord, "that they ain't one of 'em in my house."—Indianapolis Journal.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

When Genius Gets a Show.

"Why is it the mind is brighter when a man is past 40?"

"After that age the man gets sense enough not to eat too much."

My doctor said I would die, but Piso's Cure for Consumption cured me.—Amos Kelner, Cherry Valley, Ill., Nov. 23, '95.

The superior man is slow in his words and earnest in his conduct.—Confucius.

With their Peerless Trio of Fast Express Trains Daily, Low Rates, Unexcelled Dining Car Service and Magnificent Vestibuled Sleeping Cars through to New York City and Boston, the Nickel Plate offers the traveler to those points every comfort and convenience demanded by the exacting American public.

They Are Reliable.

The American Farmer is sincere in what it says and whenever it indorses an article, be it machinery, proprietary medicine, or a man individually, we want our readers to believe that what we say we have good reason to understand is true. For a year or more there have been indorsements of the Swanson Rheumatic Cure Company of 167 Dearborn street, Chicago, by this paper. People have written us to know if this company is responsible, and if its remarkable remedies, for the cure of rheumatism, neuralgia, dyspepsia, catarrh, kidney troubles, etc., really had merit. We have therefore been at extra pains to investigate, and once again we add emphasis to our former indorsement of that company. There may be isolated cases here and there which, probably through neglect in following directions, or from exposure or some unexplainable reason, the wonderful Five Drops remedy does not do the work. But it is a case where the exception proves the rule. Mr. Swanson is a gentleman of character and personal integrity, and, we believe, would no more attempt to deceive the public than the writer of this article.

Send 25c to the Swanson Rheumatic Cure Company, 167 Dearborn street, Chicago, Ill., and they will send you by return mail a trial treatment or a large bottle, 300 doses, prepaid by mail or express for $1.00. No household should be without this great remedy "5 Drops." Agents appointed in new territory.

A Small Loss.

Miss Cutting—Did you witness the football game last week, Mr. Softleigh?

Softleigh—Yaws; and the excitement was so gwate for a time that I aw—actually lost me head, doncher know.

Miss Cutting—Really! But I am at a loss to understand how you happened to miss it.

In Winter Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. During winter your feet feel uncomfortable, nervous, and often cold and damp. If you have perspiring, smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It warms and rests the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and is a certain cure for chilblains and frost bites. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Trial package mailed FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

In the island of New Britain a man must not speak to his mother-in-law. Not only is speech forbidden to this relative, but she must be avoided, and if by chance the lady is met the son-in-law must hide himself, or cover his face.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

What was formerly a quinn pen factory at Paris is now devoted to the manufacture of quill toothpicks, and turns out 20,000,000 yearly.

Coughs Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Sold in 25 and 50 cent bottles. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

Attempt the end, and never stand to doubt; nothing so hard but search will find it out.—Herrick.

Low Holiday excursion rates are in effect via the Nickel Plate Road on Dec. 23rd to 26 h, 30th and 31st, 1898, and Jan. 1st and 2nd, 1899, with tickets good returning to and including Jan. 3rd, 1899.

Both Mary Queen of Scots and George II. were buried at midnight.

Good Digestion

Waits on appetite, or it should do so, but this can be only when the stomach is in a healthy condition. Hood's Sarsaparilla so tones and strengthens the stomach that it digests food easily and naturally and then all dyspeptic troubles vanish.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. Price $1.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

BAD BLOOD

"CASCARETS do all claimed for them and are a truly wonderful medicine. I have often wished for a medicine pleasant to take and at last have found it in Cascarets. Since taking them my blood has been purified and my complexion has improved wonderfully and I feel much better in every way." MRS. SALLIE E. SELLARS, Lattrell, Tenn.

CANDY CATHARTIC

Cascarets

TRADE MARK REGISTERED.

REGULATE THE LIVER

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken, or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c.

... CURE CONSTIPATION. ...

Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago, Montreal, New York. 319

NO-TO-BAC Sold and guaranteed by all druggists to CURE Tobacco Habit.

Wheat! Wheat! Wheat!

"Nothing but wheat as far as the eye could reach on either side—what you might call a sea of wheat"—was what a lecturer speaking of Western Canada, said while referring to that country.

For particulars as to routes, railway fares, etc., apply to C. J. Broughton, 1223 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; M. V. McInnes, No. 1 Merrill Block, Detroit, Mich.; D. Caven, Bad Axe, Mich., or Jas. Grieve, Reed City, Mich., Agents for the Government of Canada.

$3.00 to $10.00 PER DAY

Can be earned selling our Patent Volute Nut Locks. They sell at sight to everyone using Farm Implements and other machinery. Write at once for liberal terms and exclusive territory, if you want a SURE MONEY-MAKER.

THE VOLUTE NUT LOCK CO., Fort Wayne, Ind.

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS, JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D. C. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty. since.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

The Missing Word.

Hostess—"What would you like to eat, Effie?"

Effie—"Cake."

Mother (reprovingly)—"Effie! Effie! What is the word you've forgotten? Pl——"

Effie—"Pl-um!"—Punch.

Holiday Excursions.

Excursion tickets will be sold at all stations on the North-Western line (C. & N. W. R'y, C. St. P. M. & O. R'y, S. C. & P. R'y and F. E. & M. V. R. R.) to all other points on this system, within 200 miles of the selling station, at greatly reduced rates, December 24, 25, 26 and 31, 1898, and January 1 and 2, 1899, good until January 4, 1899. Apply to agents Chicago & North-Western R'y for full particulars.

Holiday excursion tickets via the Nickel Plate Road are on sale Dec. 23rd, 24th, 25th, 26th, 30th and 31st, 1898, Jan. 1st and 2nd, 1899, and are good returning to and including Jan. 3rd, 1899. With their splendid train service and low rates the Nickel Plate Road adds a pleasing feature to the enjoyment of Holiday travel.

St. Jacobs Oil cures Rheumatism.
St. Jacobs Oil " Neuralgia.
St. Jacobs Oil " Lumbago.
St. Jacobs Oil " Sciatica.
St. Jacobs Oil " Sprains.
St. Jacobs Oil " Bruises.
St. Jacobs Oil " Soreness.
St. Jacobs Oil " Stiffness.
St. Jacobs Oil " Backache.
St. Jacobs Oil " Muscular Aches.

The longest span of telegraph wire in the world is in India, over the river Kistna. It is over 6,000 feet in length.

To California.

Attention is called to the excellent service of the North-Western Line to California and the favorable rates which have been made for single and round trip tickets for this season's travel. Best accommodations in first-class or tourist sleeping cars, which run through every day in the year. Personally conducted tourist car parties every week to California and Oregon. Choice of a large number of different routes without extra charge.

Particulars cheerfully given upon application to agents Chicago & North-Western Railway, or connecting lines.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED.—Case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. Send 5 cents to Ripans Chemical Co., New York, for 10 samples and 1,000 testimonials.

GOVERNOR OF OREGON Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family For Colds.

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON.

A Letter from the Executive Office of Oregon.

Pe-ru-na is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of congratulation and commendation testifying to the merits of Pe-ru-na as a catarrh remedy are pouring in from every State in the Union. Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of such letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest.

The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Pe-ru-na is the catarrh remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing catarrh as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony.

Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well-nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catarrh out of its victims. Pe-ru-na not only cures catarrh, but prevents. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth.

The Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Pe-ru-na. He keeps it continually in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman he says:

STATE OF OREGON, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, SALEM, May 9, 1898.

The Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Dear Sirs—I have had occasion to use your Pe-ru-na medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments. Yours very truly,

W. M. Lord.

It will be noticed that the Governor says he has not had occasion to use Pe-ru-na for other ailments. The reason for this is, most other ailments begin with a cold. Using Pe-ru-na to promptly cure colds, he protects his family against other ailments. This is exactly what every other family in the United States should do. Keep Pe-ru-na in the house. Use it for coughs, colds, la grippe, and other climatic affections of winter, and there will be no other ailments in the house. Such families should provide themselves with a copy of Dr. Hartman's free book, entitled "Winter Catarrh." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

"The More You Say the Less People Remember," One Word With You,

SAPOLIO

SCHOOL AND DESK

TABLETS

PLAIN OR RULED.

We will make them of any kind of Paper you desire, and print the name you select for the Tablet, together with your name and location, on the cover, and wrap them with the label same as cover on each package.

Linen Paper.
Wove Writing Paper.
Tinted Laid Writing Paper.
Common Scratch Paper.

WRITE US FOR ESTIMATES AND SAMPLES.

CHICAGO NEWSPAPER UNION,
FORT WAYNE NEWSPAPER UNION BRANCH,

76, 78 and 80 Clinton St., FORT WAYNE, IND.

GATES TOURS

MEXICO

JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1899

SIXTH ANNUAL TOURS BY SPECIAL TRAIN DE LUXE.

First tour leaves January 17th, Second tour leaves February 11th.

GATES TOURS OF MEXICO

Are made by special trains of Palace cars including Compartment sleepers, Ladies' Parlor and Observation Car and Dining Car serving all meals en route. If you are interested in these grand tours of thirty days through the strange, weird, and interesting

"LAND OF THE MONTEZUMAS,"

Apply for books of the tours, rates covering all traveling expenses, assignments in sleeping cars, etc., etc., to R. G. Thompson, Special Representative for Mr. Gates, Wabash Ticket Office, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Don't Rent

ESTABLISH A HOME OF YOUR OWN.

You can do it. The finest agricultural land in the world lies West of the Mississippi River. Prices are low and farmers are prosperous. You can get valuable information by reading "THE CORN BELT," which is the handsomest farm paper ever published. It is beautifully illustrated and contains exact and strictly truthful information about the West. Issued monthly. Send 25c. for a year's subscription to "THE CORN BELT," 209 Adams St., Chicago, Ills.

PATENT secured or money all returned. Search free. Collamer & Co., 2 F St., Washington, D.C.

CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A.

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

LATE ROBBERIES.

Some Light Thrown on Them by a Girl's Confess.

Mamie Burket, Tells of the Burglaries at Flora, Pleasant Lake a d Richland, Michigan

Late dispatches of yesterday sent out from Kalamazoo are of a very sensational character, and while there is some uncer ainity to some of it, there appears to be enough truth to justify the arrest of the suspected parties. The dispatch says:

Miss Mamie Burkett made a confession to the prosecuting attorney, some days ago, against her step-father, Thomas Black, alias Albert E Pevert, alias "Canada Whitey." This confession, it is said, has given clues to the bank robbery at Flora and at Pleasant Lake and to the gang that has been operating in southern Michigan and northern Indiana for several months. Jas Phillips, Alex. Watkins and Iva Emsley were arrested by Michigan officers and are in jail on the charge of robbing the Richland, Mich., bank. Harry Slater and "Yock" Allison are also under arrest on the same charge, suspected of being members of the gang. Tuesday night, officers searched the Burkett residence, in this city, and found draperies, carpets, shoes, silks and burglar's tools, all nicely hidden. It is claimed the house was used as headquarters for railroad robbers. Carl Burkett, brother of the girl that confessed, was arrested in the barn where he had hidden. He made a confession similiar to his sister's. Harry Slater, "Yock" Allison, Thomas Black and others used to "board" at the Burkett home. Mamie Burkett became a favorite and learned many secrets It is said that Black or Pevert promised to marry her but took her mother instead. This is given in explanation of the girl's confession. If the accused are not convicted in Richland they will be tried for robbery in Indiana. On the way to Kalamazoo, Allison cried like a baby and said that if given his freedom he would expose thefts amounting to $20,000 He declars that he knows who robbed the Flora bank.

James H. Brinkerhoff

One of the most widely known citizens of Auburn passed quietly to his eternal home yesterday, Dec. 14, 1898 He had been in poor health for a long time, and recently seemed failing, yet few thought the end was so near.

Mr. Brinkenhoff was born in Ashland Co, Ohio, in 1823 and in 1848 was married to his first wife, who died in Auburn in 1852. He married again in 1856 and this second wife died in 1890. Since then he has been living at his home here, his household being in charge of a housekeeper. He leaves one child, daughter, Mrs. Belle White whose home is at Bryan, Ohio. In 1849, Mr. Brinkerhoff came to Auburn, and for a time practiced medicine. Later he has been engaged in pension matters and office work as an attorney He had studied law with his brother, Ex-congressman Brinkerhoff at Ashland, we believe. He was for a time, a cadet at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, and was in the same class with Gen. Grant, and a number of others who afterwards won fame either as union or confederate soldiers in the rebellion.

The funeral is to be at the M. E church tomorrow at 10 a m., the services by Rev. T. M. Guild and Interment in Evergreen cemetery.

Election of Officers.

Thursday's Daily.

At last night's meeting of A. O. U. W. lodge occurred the election of officers for the ensuing term, resulting as follows:

Past Master	S. M. Brandon.
Master Workman,	T. C. Ford.
Foreman,	E. T. Cochran.
Overseer,	B. F. Jolliff.
Recorder,	W. F. Wise.
Financier,	E. D Beadle.
Receiver,	Chas. Raut.
Guide,	John F. Baughman
Inside Watchman,	Dan Butler.
Outside Watchman,	John Schlink.

Faced Death Coolly.

A dispatch from Kokomo says that coolest man under fire, so far is the man, Frank Mehan, who was shot by Perry Burns. He is yet alive though a bullet grazed his heart. He must have been a "fan," for at the first shot he said: "One ball; too wide." The next shot he said, still facing Burns: "Two balls: too high." At the third shot he shouted: "Strike; I'm out," and fell to the floor. Burns has been bound over to the grand jury.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Leah Rhodarmer deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of January 1899, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 16th day of December 1898.

GEORGE BLEEKS
Administrator.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATOR

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, adminis trator of the estate of James B. Brinkerhoff deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent,

JACOB WALBORN,
December 16th 1898. Administrator

$228,440.74!

THE W. W. KIMBALL CO.

HAVE SOLD

From Their Fort Wayne Store, April 1st, 1894, to December 1st, 1898,

861 PIANOS AND 627 ORGANS,

A total of 1,488 instruments for which they received $228,440.74--1,488 instruments in 56 months; an average of 26 4-7 sales a month, or a little more than one sale for every working day.

A Remarkable Record, Is it Not?

BEFORE the W. W. Kimball Co., opened a store here, the Fort Wayne Piano and Organ trade was in the hands of local dealers, who obtained their instruments upon such terms that they cost too much, and in turn the retail purchaser paid too much. Every dealer's stock is graded as to price. The men's furnishers carry neckties worth $1, 75c, 50c and 25c. As we remember Fort Wayne prices of five years ago, they run from about $300 00 for the instruments that may be compared with the 25c necktie, to about $650.00 for the best gades. In other words, the local dealer sold their leaders for about $650.00 and their tail enders or worst pianos for about $300.00. The W. W. Kimball Co., come on the ground and the price of the very best Upright Piano is placed at about $450.00, and the tail ender drops to $165.00. Thus an average of $167.00 is saved to each of the purchasers of the 861 Pianos sold by the Kimball house amounting to the comfortable sum of $143,787.00, to say nothing of the immense sum saved to the purchasers of the large number of Pianos bought of other Fort Wayne dealers during the past 56 months: for it is a fact familiar to all that the prices obtained by these dealers have fallen—a sum averaging about as stated above and, in many cases, upon the same makes of instruments as were sold for the high price of five years ago.

HOW IS IT POSSIBLE For the Kimball House to Begin and Continue this Sweeping Cut in Local Priees? Here are the PLAIN FACTS:

FIRST: With the largest working cash capital employed in manufacturing and selling Pianos, Organs, Pipe Organs, Stools and Scarfs on the globe.

SECOND: With great resources in timberlands and mills.

THIRD: With the largest, most perfectly equipped factory ever builded upon the earth; where cases, beautiful in design, Perfect in Workmanship, made of the choicestof domestic and imported woods, heavy timber backs, sounding boards of spruce, key frames, Ivory keys and actions complete in every detail, are made and assembled into pianos; where every part of the Reed or Parlor Organ is made, and the magnificent Pipe Organ is created out of a mass of material of every sort and description.

All these vast resources of money and facilities, combined under one organization, of men who have worked their way up from small beginnings more than forty years ago to unquestioned leadership, make it possible to go straight from the factory door to the retail buyer with an instrument made of the best of materials, in workmanlike manner, at a price that affords a fair profit to the manufacturer and makes it possible for the family in average circumstances to own and enjoy what but a few years ago was only within reach of the wealthy class. All business houses make from time to time special or clearing out sales.

A Kimball Special Sale Will Begin To-day, Dec. 14th

They now have in their Fort Wayne store and in the hands of Mr. Buell at Garrett, Mr. Ramsey at Huntington, Mr. Burge at Silver Lake, $24, 351. worth of PIANOS AND ORGANS. The regular Kimball "line" is comprised of THE KIMBALL, WHITNEY and HINZE PIANOS and KIMBALL ORGANS worth $450.00 to $245 00 for Pianos, and $100.00 to $65 00 for Organs On this line of new, perfect instruments a special sale discount of 20 PER CENT. will be given, reducing the $450.00 Piano to $360 00; the $235 00 Piano to $188.00; the $100.00 Organ to $80 00, and the $65 00 Organ fo $52.00. A number of Fresh, New Pianos, not included in the Kimball line, namely, The Kingsbury, the Lighte & Co.'s, the Schubert, the Fisher and the Hallet & Davis, will be offered at practically the same margin over actual cost that you will be obliged to pay for the Kimball instruments If you want cheap Pianos, we have them with carved panels, full length music desk and roll fall board, large size for $124.00.

TERMS: 2 1-2 per cent off for 1-4 Cash; 7 1-2 per cent off for 3-4 Cash; 5 per cent off 1-2 Cash; 10 per cent off for all Cash

On time sales a cash payment of 10 per cant. will be required, the balance to be paid at $3 to $15 per month Deferred payments will bear 6 per cent. interest. Kimball hall and reception rooms will be open to all visitors during this sale. The terms of this sale apply to goods in hands of Mr. Buell at Garrett, Mr. Ramsey at Huntington, and Mr Burge at Silver Lake, as well as at our Fort Wayne store. The Kimball company are one-price dealers. At the end of this special sale prices will be restored to the regular list.

E. E. LONG, Mgr. Kimball Store, 109 Calhoun St. Ft. Wayne.

J. C. BARTLETT, General Agent and Manager for Indiana.

Delicate Children

They do not complain of anything in particular. They eat enough, but keep thin and pale. They appear fairly well, but have no strength. You cannot say they are really sick, and so you call them delicate.

What can be done for them? Our answer is the same that the best physicians have been giving for a quarter of a century. Give them of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. It has most remarkable nourishing power. It gives color to the blood. It brings strength to the muscles. It adds power to the nerves. It means robust health and vigor. Even delicate infants rapidly gain in flesh if given a small amount three or four times each day.

Scott's Emulsion

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

NEW LAWS

There will be an effort made this winter to return to the old-time plan of three trustees to each township, if the legislature can agree on a plan. There are several other decided changes to be attempted by the lawmakers. On the other hand, we find many who prefer to let the old laws as to trustee, stand, but make some changes in the method of doing business, so at least as to restrict, what is called "one man power". A great deal of good may be done along these lines but it must be done with great prudence, or the new laws will be as bad as the old.

Lost.

Many have lost confidence and hope as well as health because they have been told their Kidney disease was incurable. Foley's Kidney Cure is a Guaranteed remedy for the discouraged and disconsolate.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Two degrees below zero this morning in Auburn.

—Among the old familiar names, coming again to the COURIER list, we welcome Mrs. M. E, Swander of Richland.

—The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing, is requested to call on the druggist and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, which always gives relief.

—A man named Moore, down in Gibson county, had trouble with two brothers named Decker. He followed them to church last Sunday evening, called them to the door and shot both of them, probably fatally.

—Wicked Elkhartans came over to Ligonier, the other night, says the Goshen Times, and brought a lot of gamecocks with them and a Ligonier crowd helped them to have a brutal cockfight. And all this, just at the time we are trying to make the poor people in Porto Rico stop cockfighting.

—Archie Thompson of the Little Wanders Home of Boston, Mass., who was formerly with G. W. Lackey and recently with Rev. T. M. Guild and wife; is now with Mr. and Mrs. John Groscop north of town. Archie made many warm friends here, who hope he has found a good home.

Thursday's Daily.

—Ask any druggist for a free Peruna Almanac for the year 1899.

—'Squire Henry Harvey and Trustee Ed. Kelham of Keyser, were here today.

—Wm. Treesh, of Ricnland, renewed his subscription today and has thanks for same.

—Mrs. Wash Askew's mother, Mrs. Balliet of Beulah, Mich., is in the city visiting relatives.

—Mr. Orval Long of Batavia, Mich., is visiting his brothers here, Perry and Jack Long. His visit was unexpected and created a pleasant surprise.

—John M. Studebaker, Thomas Kane, and Alexander McDonald, wealthy Presbyterians, have volunteered to pay of the debt of Winona Assembley, $55,000

HEN KEEPERS will find it to their advantage to read the advertisement of the Leghoon Food Co, in another columns of this paper, it shows you how to produce more eggs.

—Surveyor Krontz, is now located on the second floor in the court house, the room on the north side of the landing formerly used as an office for the Judge. We believe the Judge now occupies the newly fitted room just back of the Judge's desk.

—Many a household is saddered by death because of the failure to keep on hand a safe and absolutely certain cure for croup such as One Minute Cough Cure. See that your little ones are protected against emergency. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baxter invited Rev. W. L. Meese to their home last evening, and there gathered a number of friends who surprised the reverend gentleman by a donation of $8 cash and a liberal supply of provisons, etc. He was that day, 70 years old and his friends took this way to help him mark an important milestone.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rose, and the Editor and wife enjoyed this morning a delicious breakfast of quail on toast, together with the abundance of other good things always on the tables at the Swineford. George Swineford is a regular everyday hunter, and provides an abundance of this delicate game. Mrs. S. C. Swineford, has thanks for this enjoyable treat.

Friday's Daily.

—Cyrus Jackman came down from Angola this forenoon on some legal business.

—The Columbia City Heel factory has failed the liabilities being placed at $11,000 and the assets at $14.000.

—Miss Allie Fisher of Waterloo, came down this forenoon to visit with the family of H. B. McCord, who are relatives.

—Dr. Vesta Swarts reports a bright little son, born last night to Mr. and Mrs. Noah Gerig, down in the edge of Allen county.

—Mrs. Cuppy has just received a letter from her sister at Butler, Mrs C. P. Urie, that their daughter Hazel, is seriously sick.

—Dr. Baxter reports a baby girl born to Mr. and Mrs. Ora May, this forenoon. And the home in McIntyre's Addition is all the happier.

—John W. Baxter received a phone message today from Hamilton that his father, Andrew Baxter, sr. is very sick He at once drove up there.

—Late to bed and early to rise, prepares a man for his home in the skies. But early to bed and a Little Early Riser, the pill that makes life longer and better and wiser. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress, can now be read in eighty-two different languages. The latest addition to the list, is the Uganda language in Africa into which it was translated by a German.

—Frank Rose is right in the line of promotion in the B. & O. offices at Garrett He is now assistant superintendent of this division as we understand it The B. & O. has always had the reputation of encouraging its worthy young employes.

—Geo Quince has finished the papering and decorating on the Bradford Hotel interior now to be the great carriage repositary of the Eckhart Company. It is a nice job. He is now engaged in papering at Mr. Wise's; who lives east of town.

—A letter to Dr. Ford, from Red Lands, Calif., brings word that Quigg Spooner a son of Dr, Jared Spooner of Peru, fell from a scaffold recently and broke his leg. He was painting an ice house, and the scaffold, which was about thirty feet from the ground was held up by a rope, which broke, letting him down the whole distance. He is getting along all right however, —Mrs. Penfield, on coming home after her visit at Bucyrus, recently, found the extreme cold had worked loss to the heating apparatus in their house. The heating is by hot water. Not looking for cold weather she had gone away without letting the water out of the pipes. The result is all the radiators are ruined and it will cost several hundred dollars to replace them. There was not much damage to the carpets although small portions of the water had spread out some and frozen.

No Humbug.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma, but it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by those afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases.

Saturday's Daily.

—C. C. Buss was in town today.

—A. B. Walsworth was in town today.

—George Maxwell of Corunna, was in town today.

—Phillip Fluke is a pretty sound old man for his years, he being now 82.

—The 15th regulars of which Will Snell is a member, have a part of them reached Havana.

—Mrs. Ralph Thomas has been at Waterloo a few day visiting her father, M. Kiplinger and family.

—Citizens of Marshall county want Expert Ernst to go through the books of their county officers going back to 1871.

—Geo. F. Reed of Lacota, Mich., is here. He is so fleshy, we hardly knew him. He is now in the fruit trade, dealing by the car load.

—There will be a total eclipse of the moon Dec. 27 taking over three hours to finish the job. It is visible generally in the northern hemisphere.

—Spanish troops stand around and watch our troops as they march through Havana. They don't seem to care much, as they will be relieved Jan. 1 from the duty of keeping order in the city and can then go home.

—France has accepted the offer we have made her to build a fine monument to Lafayette, if she would furnish the site in the city of Paris. She selected a fine site that was to have been occupied by one for Napoleon.

—Many Auburn people will remember the late Harry Kellogg the artist, and very artistic drum major, the man who painted the big panorama "Missionary Ridge" at Winona Park, Warsaw. His wife died at South Bend, their home, last week. She was buried at Laporte, her relatives being there, including her sister, the wife of Lieut-Governor Mort Nye.

Mad at Columbus

A mob of women at Grenada, in Spain, stoned the statue of Columbus, because they believed, that by discoverin America, he had made possable this war with the Yankees and brought all this trouble on Spain, So, they pelted "ze bust of ze Great Christopher Columbo" till he looked as if he had been on a "bust."

LUNG Trouble

Lung troubles, such as pleurisy or acute inflammation of the lungs, should be carefully treated to avoid serious consequences. These affections are quickly overcome by the prompt use of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a wonderful remedy, which always gives relief, eases coughing, allays all inflammation, and by its healing influence soon effects a thorough cure.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Cures all Lung and Throat Trouble.
Doses are small and pleasant to take. Doctors recommend it. Price 25 cts. At all druggists.

EXECUTOR'S SALE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned executor of the will of Caroline Lindoerfer deceased by virtue of an order of the DeKalb Circuit Court, will offer for sale, at auction, at the door of the court house in Auburn, in said county on Saturday the 31st day of December, 1898, the following premises in DeKalb County in the State of Indiana, to wit:

The north-east forth of the north-west quarter of section twenty-eight (28) in township number thirty-three (33) north of range thirteen (13) east.

Terms:—One-third cash, one-third in nine months, and the remaining one-third in eighteen months. The deferred payments to be evidenced by promissory notes, with interest, waiving relief from valuation and appraisement laws, and secured by a mortgage on the premises sold Sale to commence at 2 o'clock p. m.

SAMUEL J. TARNEY,
Executor.

J. F. & J. H. Rose. Attys. for Estate.

Notice of Stockholders Meeting.

Office of First National Bank,
Auburn, Indiana, November 22 1898

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank, of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 10, 1899, at their banking house in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven (7) directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before such meeting.

D. A. GARWOOD,
Cashier.

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Foley's Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVIII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, December 29, 1898. | Number 52.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2	6:25 am—Daily
No. 10	8:46 am—ex Su
No. 6	4:10 pm—ex Su
No. 4	4:29 pm—Daily
No. 70 (local freight)	3:20 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1	1:14 am—Daily
No. 7	10:31 am—ex Su
No. 9	6:17 pm—ex Su
No. 3	7:18 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	11:00 am—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind.
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
C. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 13, 1898.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 50 pm	5 55 am
New Era	12 13 pm	5 17	6 40
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 28	7 10
Auburn	12 29	5 32	7 35
Waterloo	12 41	5 43	8 15
Summit	12 52	5 53	8 35
Steubenville	12 58	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	8 56
Angola	1 13	6 14	9 35
Jackson	3 25	8 35	2 40

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	5 55 am	11 30 am	7 15 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	9 35
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 29	9 45
Steubenville		2 36	9 51
Summit	11 50	2 39	9 56
Waterloo	12 41 pm	2 55	10 10
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 20
Auburn Junction	1 35	3 08	10 22
New Era	1 54	3 18	10 32
Fort Wayne	2 50	3 50	11 05

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy buildin northeast corner of Square Western Phone 108
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D
PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

T. G. Matheny, M.D. J. B. Casebeer, M.D.
Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
have again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE
Office ..... No. 9
Matheny's residence ..... " 88
Casebeer's " ..... " 175

S. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST;
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works. Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physcian & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUGSTORE
In the National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Calls Answered At All Hours,

Quail Time.

When the November wind goes whistlin' thru the woods an strips' em bare.
Heapin' up in ragged winrows all the leaves at's fallen there.
When the green has left the hedges, an' the clouds is hangin' low,
An' all natur seems awaitin' fer the cummin'uy
the snow,
Then I hear acrost the medder land a mos'
familyer pipe.
An' I'm tickled night tu shoutin', fer the quails
iz gittin'ripe.
Airly mornin' finds me stirrin', an' about the peep o' day.
I'm afield with dog an' shotgun, jest altchin'
fer the fray,
Fer thar ain't no uther shootin', leastwise, not fer me, b'jing,
That kin hold a taller candle ter a bob white
on the wing;
An' I'll tell ye confidential that I hain't no call
tu gripe,
Not with nothin' in creation, when the quails
iz gittin ripe,
Stealin' softly 'long the hedgerow, in the flush
o' airly dawn,
Frost-a-aparlin' in the sunshine, an' old "Spot
a-leadin on;
Now he's ketched the scent, an' see him layin'
down along the trail,
Straight in line as any arrer, tip o' nose an tip
o' tail.
Standin' like a marble statoo, ez I give my eyes
a wipe.
An' git ready fer the fracas, when the quails iz
gittin' ripe.
Grip my gun a leetle tighter with my nerves all strung on edge
Ez the covey breaks fram kiver an' goes' whirrin' down the hedge,
Right an' left I give it tu 'em, mark 'em down an' follier on,
Spot a-pintin', me a-shootin', till we've barged
'em ev'ry one;
Yu kin talk of sports an' sportin', but a feller o'
my stripe,
Iz about the neardest heaven when the quails iz
gittin' ripe.

—McFarren Davis in Chicago Inter-Ocean, Paris, Ill., Nov. 22

NOTICE.

Beginning on the evening of January 3, and continuing until March 18, 1899, we the undersigned merchants of Auburn will close our places of business at 6 o'clock standard time, on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of each week.

The Bishop & Lackey Co.,
Schaab & Bros.,
M. Jones & Son,
G. H. Yesbera,
F. J. Nebelung,
Olds Bros,
A. N. Wilson,
Bishop & Beidler,
R. Shull,
Schaab & Murphy,
Schaab Furniture Co.,
D. A. Hodge,
F. J. Yesbera,
Anice Leas,
Trentman Sisters,
Ernest Sheets.

Samples Free.

The great number of newspapers, magazines, etc., that are now being published have made it very hard for the readers to decide just what one they wish to subscribe for. The American Subscription Agency, of Indianapolis, Ind., have compiled a list of 100 papers that they offer to send a sample copy of each to any address upon receipt of 10 cents to pay for mailing. They do this so that you may see and read a copy of each paper before subscribing. If you decide to subscribe to any of their papers to the amount of $1 they offer to deduct the 10 cents sent from the subscribtion. Send 10 cents to the American Subscription Agency, 653 Arch St., Indianapolis, Ind., and you will receive one hundred papers. j23

A B. & O. Damage Case.

D. D. Moody went over to Spencerville, yesterday morning to see about a legal case he has there. Mrs Rebecca Billman, an old lady is bringing a case against the B. & O., for injuries. She was visiting relatives at Nappanee about eight months ago. and was sitting in the caboose of the train she was to start home on, when the engine backed, and threw her, breaking her hip. She got home, however, and has since been under care of Drs. Bowman and Carey. She is in bad shape and it looks as if Mr. Moody would have a strong case for her against the road.

"It's a Wonder We Ain't All Dead."

We eat too much, we eat too fast, we eat too often, and we take too little care of how our meals are prepared, and we would have been dead long ago but for the medical skill of Dr. Caldwell, who formulated Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Since its introduction, we find a great deal less complaint about constipation, indigestion, sick headache, sour stomach, short breath, and all the ills that come from a disordered digestive apparatus, such as some people have, but all may get rid of by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

Why Water Was Added.

In a certain village school they were having a Scripture examination, the lesson being Elijah offering up a sacrifice on Mount Carmel. As the children looked good scholars the inspectors gave them a question, saying: "Now, you have told me that Elijah put the bullock on the altar; why did he put water around the altar?" The children looked amazed—except one little boy, who stood up and said: "Please, sir, to make the gravy."

In Closing Up This

Our Most Successful Year..

in business we desire to thank you sincerely for the liberal patronage bestowed on us. We trust we have merited your kindness and assure you we fully appreciate all you have done for us.

For rhe year 1899 we hope to do even better. Our plans are already laid for a Lively Spring Trade, having placed our orders for the nicest lot of merchandise we have ever seen. The prices in most lines will be, if anything, a trifle lower than last spring.

Beginning this week and continuing through the month of January we will offer all heavy goods at Greatly Reduced Prices. Our stock MUST be cleaned up closer than ever before.

Don't fail to see us for anything you are needing in our line.

Wishing you a most prosperous and Happy New Year. We are

Yours Respectfully,

Schaab & Bro.

Auburn, Indiana.

Cost of the Kaiser's Tour.

While the arrival of the imperial party at Venice was awaited, immense supplies of eatables, and particularly of fruit, were bought at Venice for the Hohenzollern and the German warships of the escort. These provisions were bought by a caterer who was sent especially from Germany to Venice for the purpose. The representative of an Italian newspaper has learned from the caterer that the cost of the journey as far as Constantinople will be at least 1,000,000 marks, or £50,000. On board the Hohenzollern every yard of room has been utilized for the imperial suite and for the emperor's guests, the younger officers of the imperial yacht having been required to give up their cabins.—London Post.

Aged Women Mountain Climbers.

The achievement of a Strasburg lady who has just accomplished a considerable mountain ascent at the age of 75 recalls the fact that the first of all the lady mountaineers (Miss D'Augeville) continued climbing almost equally late in life. Her first ascent, that of Mont Blanc, was accomplished at the age of 44; her twenty-first and last, that of the Oldenhorn, at the age of 69. Then, and not till then, she concluded that "it is time to abandon the alpenstock before it abandons me." Other records are those of Miss Brevort, who made a first ascent of the Fusshorn at 51, and one of Miss Lucy Walker, who climbed the Petit Mont Blanc (a little thing of 12,750 feet) at 49.

Deserted in Vain.

The bluejackets aboard the other warships at the Brooklyn navy yard enjoyed a good laugh recently at the expense of eight unhappy members of the Buffalo's crew. The eight men in question were among the eighteen sailors who deserted from the cruiser to escape going to Manila. They waited until the ship was well out to sea and then returned to the Brooklyn navy yard and surrendered themselves. When the Buffalo put back they were ordered to return to her, and will be court-martialed while the cruiser is out at sea.

Falls Into a Vat of Vitriol.

Joseph Schroppler, while being chased by a workman in a factory at Trenton, N. J., tumbled into a vat of vitriol. Not realizing his danger, after being helped out, he started for home, but on the way the acid began eating into his flesh. He reached home only by crawling on his hands and knees, the flesh falling from his limbs in many places. Both legs must be amputated.

High Treason.

Citizen—I am John Smith, author of the well-known economical treatise entitled, "What is money? Police Sargeant—Well, Mr. Smith, what can we do for you? Citizen—I have just been victimized by a green goods man.—Detroit Journal.

An Expensive Debut.

"I see you brought your daughter out last week, Mrs. Slamm."

"La, yes; but it cost so much, her pa declares he's out the most."—Washington Star.

For Hoarseness.

Benj. Ingerson, of Hutton, Ind, says he had not spoken above a whisper for months, and one bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar restored his voice. It is used very largely by speakers and singers.

DEFENDING THE NATION.

Catarrh is our country's senemy. Lagrippe, lung troubles and other diseases of the mucous membrane take hold of our people and fatal results follow with alarming frequency. All of these troubles are catarrh, and cannot exist where the membranes are clean and healthy.

Mrs. Lou Davis, Fayetteville, Tenn., tells in her letter how Dr. Hartman's great catarrh remedy, Pe-ru-na, cured her of la grippe and serious lung complication. She says:

"I was afflicted with a disease commonly known as la grippe two years ago; the doctors said I had consumption. I got one bottle of Pe-ru-na and the second night my cough stopped. I took several bottles, and I will say that I believe I would be a dead woman now if it had not been for Pe-ru-na."

Mary M. Pruitt, Palpa, Mo., says: Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

"I had la grippe for three successive years; it seemed to get a tighter hold on me each year. It seemed I was in the jaws of death. What had helped me before would not do me any good. I saw an advertisement of Pe-ru-na. I procured two bottles and it cured me. I have not felt any symptom since. You may use this in any way you please."

THE BRICE FUNERAL

We have received Tuesday's issue of the Republican-Gazette of Lima, Ohio presumably by the kindness of J. W. McKay. It contains an account of the funeral of the late Senator Brice which occurred there Sunday. The remains arrived that morning in Mr. Brice's private car. There was one car in the train, loaded with floral tributes to the dead statesman and financier. Funeral was plain, although all classes of citizens turned out to do him honor. The hearse had a guard of honor, of the survivors of his old command, Company E. 180th Ohio. The paper contains leading articles showing the high regard in which he was held by all classes at his old home. People who had known him as a poor boy, a young man struggling for success in life, and who also knew him as a millionaire and wonderfully successful financier as well as a U. S. Senator of marked ability turned, out as one man, to pay a last tribute at his bier.

Fire At Waterloo

At about four o'clock this morning our people saw a bright light in the direction of Waterloo, but in the cloudy, foggy darkness, it was not possible to say whether it might not be in the country this side of there. When the forenoon train came through it was learned that the light was caused by the burning of S. R. Rickel's fruit drying establishment. It appears that he also uses it to store ice when the drying season is over so at present there was no fire in it, and it is difficult to explain the origin of the fire. The establishment however, is a total loss. It is believed that the drying apparatus and all will foot to near $1000, on which there is an insurance of $300. It will be quite a loss to Mr. Rickel as he put up a good deal of dried fruit each season.

COURTED HER 22 YEARS.

Then Came a Breach of Promise Suit and Award of $2,500.

When Daniel Mayer of Reading, Pa., was 28 years old he began paying attention to Miss Sophia Gehring, who was then just turned 20. That was over twenty-two years ago, and Mr. Mayer continued to court Miss Gehring up to last March, calling on an average three times a week. Then he ceased his attentions, and, hope deferred having made her heart revengeful as well as sick, Miss Gehring brought action for breach of promise. After an exciting trial the jury brought in a verdict giving the fair plaintiff $2,500 damages. A courtship of such a duration was never heard of before in that section, and women generally were intensely interested in learning what amount of damages a Berks jury would award for so many years of waiting and such an unparalleled case of heart laceration, caused by Daniel's final refusal to keep his alleged promise of marriage. Miss Gehring testified that the defendant had frequently promised to marry her, with the condition that the wedding was not to take place until the death of his widowed mother, Catherine Mayer. Mrs. Mayer died last year, leaving considerable estate. The son, Daniel, inherited a small fortune, and it was then that Sophia reminded him of the condition governing his promise to marry her, and, she alleged, the wedding day was set. When that day arrived, however, Mayer said he preferred not to marry her, but "would rather pay her." Mayer, she stated, had bought a house in Reading for $4,500, in which they were to live and conduct a bakery. The purchase of the house was made after his mother's death and in full anticipation of their marriage. A number of mutual friends also testified that the defendant had spoken in their presence of marrying Sophia. On the stand Mayer denied all the allegations of Miss Gehring and her witnesses, saying he never promised to marry her. The jury, however, seemed to think that a courtship of nearly a quarter of a century was in itself sufficient to assume an intention of marriage and gave the verdict stated. The plaintiff is being congratulated on her victory and Mr. Mayer has been voted into ostracism by nearly all his acquaintances.

The Letter M in War.

The letter "M" still plays its part in the war. Just think of its prominence in the events of the last few months! It stands for Maine, mine, McKinley, Madrid, Matanzas, Miles, Manila, Montojo, Maria Christina, Marianne, Maria Teresa, Marblehead, Minneapolis, Mole St. Nicholas, Manzanillo, Morro, Merrimac, Massachusetts, Mobile, Merrima, Monsignor Merry del Val, the marine (at Guantanamo), Monterey, Monadnock, Monte (the Spanish general besieged at Macabora), Meikeljohn, Monet, McCalla, Maxim, monitor, militia, ministers, Morton howitzers and Montgomery. Recently the government at Washington has purchased half a dozen transports the names of which begin with "M," and it may be added that among the most annoying drawbacks in camp thus far have been measles and mud.

Rigid Cemetery Government.

In one of the neighboring villages there is a cemetery over the gate of which there is the following curious announcement: "By the order of the judge of the civil registry only the dead who live in this village shall be interred in this necropolis."—Mexican Herald.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

COURT

Work is now fairly under way. The grand jury is busy, or has been most of the time but of course, we don't know exactly what they have done so far. Their work will appear later on, we presume. One thing, we understand has been brought before them, and that is the roast turkey supper and pedro party indulged in by several business men about a week ago. It appears they got the use of the restaurant room formerly occupied by Joe Pfefferl's boy and got up a supper. Mrs. Pfefferl roasted the turkey, which the participants say was extra fine. The entertainment, included a supper and pedro playing. But in some way it got noised abroad that instead of having a pedro party, the men had a real old-fashioned poker game. Complaint come to Prosecutor Pomeroy and he went for the boys lively. We understand now, that the real truth is out and that little of objectionable was likely to be proved the Prosecutor still went ahead in order to have some fun with the men of the party. We are in doubt, however, if this fun don't come off the taxpayers after all. However, we will hope it ends in only fun.

The criminal docket shows mainly a number of cases for violation of the liquor laws.

There were four cases against Conrad Mabus the Butler quart shop cider seller, for violations of the liquor law but all have been dismissed by the state.

There is an unsovory charge against Ora Kuhlman and Florence Hathaway, and both have had to give bail $500 for appearance at court when called on.

Dan. Hook, of Butler is on the docket for selling liquor to minors, two cases. Hoffman & Wickwire Hook's attorneys, ask to have the indictment quashed in both cases.

The case against Geo. Stebing for refusing to obey the rules of the town Auburn board of health has not been called up.

The case of Peter Whitman vs Wabash Ry., for damages was called and the attorneys for the railway filed a demurrer to Whitman's complaint.

The case of Anna Wilkinson vs Wabash Ry., damages, goes to next term of court.

R. M. Lockhart vs Howey, a damage case was called. The complaint alleges that Howey, by fraudulent misrepresentations, deprived Lockhart of some personal property. The judgment was for Lockhart, he getting a judgment of $481.50.

Wilhelmina Reitdorff vs Ft. Wayne consolidated Ry. Co., is set for next term, Mary F. vs Wm, G. Warstier for divorce, has been stricken off the docket.

The case of Ida Rinehart vs on a mort gage was not pushed and so it has been dismissed.

The petition of John Slussman to adopt Marie McGown, was dismissed by petitioner.

Laura E. vs Levi Baughman for divorce was contined till next term.

E. M. Price vs Jeritean Clemens to declare of unsound mind, was dismissed by Price.

The damage case of Curtie Fell vs the Greenler Company was tried. It appears the boy had burned his foot in a pile of hot ashes as noted in the COURIER at the time. He was awarded $140, for damages, of which $40 is to be paid to his attorneys Hoffman and Moody, and $100 to be paid to the clerk's office or to the boy's guardian.

THE PATENT FENCE SUIT.

This took all day yesterday to argue. It appears that the patent fence man Mr, Barber. sold 10 fence machines to C. H. Baber at $5 each, and 50 more at $3 each, taking Baber's note for the amount, $200. This sale, as Baber understood it included the right of nine eastern townships of the territory in Kosciusko county, But Barber claims he did not sell Baber the territory but only the right to sell the machines in that territory. Hence, Baber sues to have his notes canceled so he will not have to pay them, and has got out a temporary restraining order of court to prevent Barber from selling them to innocent parties. He also asks to have his contracts rescinded The attorneys for Baber are F. L. Welsheimer and P. V. Hoffman; for Barber are Rose & Rose. Associated as defendants with the patent right man J. M. Barber are J. G Lawhead, Wm. Ervin and Lewis Hammond, who, we presume, were acting as agents for Barber. The attorneys argued points of law on both sides pretty fully, and at the close, Judge Hartman took the case under advisement.

The partition case of Mary Brooks vs Geo. Metzger has been adjusted. J. F. Shuman, commissioner to sell the land, reported a sale to George Metzger, E. D. Case and John Potts, for $3000 cash. This was approved and deeds ordered made out to the parties. Shuman was allowed a fee of $25 as attorney for plaintiff and $30 for his services in selling the land. His report was approved and he was discharged.

Mary A. was divorced from Luther L. Bunker, and resumes her name Mary Marks.

Catherine was divorced from Wm. Denison and takes her former name, Durst.

In the case of Ella Harter vs Wearly, Swaysgood and others, it was decided that Swaysgood was entitled to $95,50 on a cross complaint, and that Harter was entitled to $407.01, as second lien, Swaysgood's lien being first. Property ordered sold and claims paid in that order.

There was a case to quiet a title brought by J. F. Shuman vs Phil Plum and Clayton Mallory. S. A. Powers and Judge Lowry, for defendants ask that Earl Frick be made a party to the case.

The Small divorce case that has been expected for some time, came up. Mrs. Lillian M. Small, sues for a divorce from her husband Anderson B. Small. Andy as rumor has it, is up in Michigan or some where, living with Mrs. Webb. Andy did not make his appearance in court, presumably because the walking was too bad between here and his present whereabouts. But it was shown that he had been notified by publication, and the suit will probably be finished up soon.

C. B. Jones had a mechanics lien filed in court against Clara Dolph, and a summons has been ordered out to bring in Ed Moses and Thomas Ansbaugh, garnishees.

Caddie Keen was divorced from Wesley Keen and she is now Caddie Collier once more.

Margaret Snyder has a case against John K. Cowan as receiver of the B. & O. for damages, Defendants have had the case removed to the federal court for trial.

The case against Mrs. Coffinberry, brought by his bondsmen, was called up and discussed. A change of venue to some other judge was asked and granted.

Sol. Barney got a judgment of $114.16 on note against B. F. Thomas.

The grand jury having The finished all the work in sight, was discharged for the term, unless the judge should find it necessary to call them in again.

At 5 p. m. Friday the court adjourned till 9 a. m. Monday, Dec. 26.

"THE BUSINESS MAN'S HABITS."

A Mind Only for Business—Health an After Consideration—Shortens Life.

Does the average business and professional man realize the fact that worry causes disease? Worry and fretting tax the nervous system and are bound to bring disease. The first to become disordered is the stomach. Americans suffer more from dyspepsia and indigestion than any other disease. They rush through a meal with their mind upon business or other cares; such abuse is as sure to cause stomach trouble as the sun is to shine. Other predisposing causes to indigestion may be the use of improper food, irregular diet, gluttony breathing vitited atmosphere, the excessive use of stimulants, such as alcoholic liquors, tobacco, coffee or strong tea, together with insufficient exercise in the open air. The tone of the stomach being lowered, indestion follows. It announces itself by flatulence, distension of the bowels and stomach, with bitter, oily and foul eructations. The tongue is coated; the bowels are irregular; there is depression, anxiety, despondency and lassitude. These symptoms may be accompanied by dizziness, headache, waterbrash, constipation, diarrhoea, or other complications. For this disease Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure will prove an effective remedy, and if taken honestly will cure any case of dyspepsia that exists.

Dr. Stone's New Dyspepsia Cure has given excellent results in Auburn during the past year, many hundred persons having been cured from years of suffering. The first day's treatment will afford relief. This remedy treats upon a new system, the liver receiving as much attention as the stomach, there being two separate tablets. Get a 50-cent box of your druggist, and if you are not relieved take it back. Your money will be cheerfully returned. The Stone Drug Co., Elkhart, Ind.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.
Has saved many a life! Speedily cures Croup and Whooping-cough. It is safe and sure. Mothers can always rely on it. Children like it. Doses are small. Price 25 cents.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1898. DECEMBER. 1898.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
•	•	•	•	1	2	3
4	5	6	7	8	9	10
11	12	13	14	15	16	17
18	19	20	21	22	23	24
25	26	27	28	29	30	31
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

L. Q. 5th. N. M. 12th. F. Q. 19th. F. M. 27th.

CIRCLING THE GLOBE

CONCISE HISTORY OF SEVEN DAYS' DOINGS.

Intelligence by Electric Wire from Every Quarter of the Civilized World, Embracing Foreign Affairs and Home Happenings.

Corbin Talks.

Washington special: The war investigation is getting hot. Wednesday Gen. Miles criticised the conduct of the war. Thursday Adjutant General Corbin explained to the Commission the points made by the Commanding General of the army. He said the selection of Camp Alger was credited to Miles, because it was made on a recommendation of one of his staff. In reply to a criticism that the War Department was inactive before the war, Corbin admitted that the department was not expecting war, even up to the time of the declaration.

Must Reduce Interest.

John W. Porter, President of the Michigan Bankers' Association, made some emphatic declarations at a banquet given by the Bankers' Club at Detroit recently. Mr. Porter declared that all bankers in Michigan were agreed that the present rate of interest of 3 per cent. paid on savings deposits must soon be materially reduced, and that a majority of the bankers were convinced that the best thing for business in general would be the abolition of interest on all deposits.

Reports Big Gold Output.

Consul Macrum, from Pretoria, sends to the State Department a report of the gold output of the South African Republic, in which he says that the October report shows that the number of mills and the total of stamps is rapidly increasing. It is expected, he says, that the output of the Transvaal next year will exceed that of the combined mines of Colorado, Dakota, California, Montana and Alaska, although it fell short of that last year.

To Succeed Bliss.

The President has nominated Ethan A. Hitchcock of Missouri, to be Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Hitchcock is at present Ambassador to Russia. He was appointed Minister more than a year ago, and when the rank was raised to an Ambassy he was reappointed. Mr. Hitchcock is a lawyer and business man of St. Louis and was for some time a plate-glass manufacturer. He is a great-grandson of Ethan Allen of Revolutionary fame.

Torpedo Found in the Harbor of Matanzas.

Havana special: There was a terrific explosion at Matanzas City. It was caused by a torpedo which the Spaniards had let loose in the harbor. No ship was damaged. The Matanzas people say there are two more torpedoes in the harbor which the authorities did not find when the mines were removed.

New Treaty with Mexico.

A Mexico City dispatch says: Ambassador Clayton and the Minister of Foreign Affairs, Senor Marisial, have agreed upon the form and substance of the new extradition treaty between the United States and Mexico, which is thought to be acceptable to both Governments.

An Alliance with Weyler.

Madrid special: An alliance with Gen. Weyler's party, which has been forced upon Premier Segasta as a preservative measure, is disgruntling many members of the Liberal party. The party is split and it may result in the retirement of Sagasta, leaving Weyler on top.

Muster Out Volunteers.

The War Department has not yet made definite plans for the mustering out of the 50,000 volunteers which was decided on at a Cabinet meeting recently, but it is understood that this work will be pretty well mapped out by the first of the year.

Bradbury Promoted.

A special dispatch from New York says: It is announced that George L. Brakbury, Vice President and General Manager of the L. E. & W. Railroad, succeeds to the Presidency of that road made vacant by the death of Calvin S. Brice.

Fell to His Death.

Col. Edward S. Barrett, national President of the Sons of the American Revolution, was killed by falling from a window at his home in Concord, Mass. He was about 60 years of age.

Secretary Long Will Remain.

Secretary Alger is authority for the statement that there is no truth in the report of a change in the head of the Navy Department.

A Hunting Accident.

Albert Doll, while hunting near Vincennes, Ind., attempted to pound a swollen shell into his gun. The shell exploded and blew out both his eyes.

Masonic Temple Attractions, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Dec. 28—"Why Smith Left Home."
Dec. 31—Julia Marlowe.

Moonshiners Killed.

Advices from Knox County, Kentucky, say that three moonshiners, Jacob Lambert, Greer and an unknown man, were killed, and several of their companions wounded in a battle with revenue officers. The officers were not hurt.

Fatal Trolley Collision.

Two fast moving electric cars collided on the Worcester and Suburban road, near Leicester, Mass., in a dense fog. John Kerrigan, aged 45 years, a weaver, and Walter H. Holbrook, a newspaper man, were killed.

One Hundred Converts Killed.

According to a dispatch from Shanghai the rebels have seized the town of Ch'ung Yang, fifty miles southwest of Ichang, province of Hoo Pe, on the north bank of the Yang-tse-Kiang, 200 miles above Chin Kiang Foo. They have massacred a French priest and 100 converts.

Fire and Explosion at Fort Adams.

During a fire in the stables at Fort Adams, Newport, R. I., a gun shed exploded, killing Private Sullivan of Battery A, Seventh artillery, and injuring eight other soldiers. All the horses were saved, but the stables of light battery F, Fourth artillery, were destroyed.

DEFRAUDED IN TIMBER CUTTING.

Special Indian Agent Jenkins Finds a Bad Condition Among the Chippewas.

Special Indian Agent Jenkins, in a report to Commissioner of Indian Affairs Jones on the investigation of the timber operations on the Chippewa reservation in Minnesota, makes some statements radically differing from those in other reports. He says the trouble was in the management of the camps and in the system itself. Owing to the inability of many of the camps to pay out, and as, under the rules, the laborers' claims were the last to be paid, scores of Indians working there did not receive the wages they expected, and hence serious complaint arose. Of fifty-three camps in operation the last fiscal year many employed less than 10 per cent. Indian labor, and very few had over 50 per cent., the Indian labor average being from 15 to 20 per cent. The system of stores maintained by the camps, with their exorbitant prices and credit to reckless Indian buyers, is stated to have caused great dissatisfaction. The chief source of all the Indian complaints was that the green timber of the reservation was being ruthlessly cut down and destroyed under pretense of being dead and down timber.

DECEMBER'S BIG RECORD.

Month of Remarkably Heavy Business Closes a Prosperous Year.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "December is adding a surprising close to the most surprising year of American history. November surpassed all other months of the century in volume of business and production, and thus far December is doing even better in payments through clearing houses, in railroad earnings, in foreign trade, in output of pig iron, in activity and strength of securities. The woolen industry also comes to the front with very extensive purchases of wool by large houses and small. In cotton the foreign demand is really inexplicable, considering its volume in comparison with movements of goods from Great Britain. Failures for the week have been 261 in the United States, against 329 last year, and 31 in Canada, against 28 last year."

NATION ORDERS 4,400 COFFINS.

Will Bring Home Bodies of All Soldiers for Reinterment.

Rush orders for 4,000 coffins have been given by the War Department to the National Casket Company of Pittsburg. The coffins must be delivered in New York within thirty days. From there they will be sent to Cuba, Porto Rico and all the State military camps and posts where United States soldiers are buried. The bodies will be disinterred, placed in the coffins and brought home. Those not claimed by relatives or friends will be reinterred in national cemeteries. Each coffin will be zinc lined and airtight to prevent contagion. All are to be finished in oak, rosewood or mahogany and will be lined with satin.

Suspected of Murder.

Charles Nelson and H. K. Spring have reached Los Angeles, Cal., from the United States of Colombia, where for two years they were held under surveillance without being granted a trial on a charge of having killed Jason Hubbard Aug. 27, 1896. They are both from Colton, and went to South America, where they entered the employ of Hubbard, whose dead body was found on the date mentioned with a rifle by his side. It was thought he had accidentally killed himself, but Nelson and Spring were arrested on suspicion and imprisoned for twenty-five days, when they were released on bail. They could not leave the country, but Nov. 4 their bondsmen secured their release and they at once started for home. There was no evidence to connect them with the death of Hubbard.

Millers Refuse to Combine.

The flour trust scheme is dead so far as Minneapolis is concerned, and without Minneapolis it is futile. A meeting was held of representatives of the three big milling concerns of the city—the Pillsbury-Washburn Flour Mills Company, the Northwestern Consolidated Company and the Washburn-Crosby Company. The representatives had plenary powers. After a thorough discussion of the McIntyre proposals it was unanimously agreed that none of the Minneapolis properties should go into the scheme and that no further attention should be given to the matter. This dashes any hopes for carrying through the pooling idea, as the mills at Milwaukee and Duluth will be obliged to follow the lead of the Minneapolis millers.

Thieves Shoot an Officer.

James Foster of Cleveland, detective for the Panhandle Railroad, caught two men robbing a freight car at Columbus, and was shot twice. He returned the fire, but fell from loss of blood. An hour later Fred Deering a special policeman, went to August Brokawski's home, suffering from a pistol shot which passed through his stomach. He was taken to a hospital, where he died without making a statement. A revolver with three empty chambers was found on him. Brokawski was afterward arrested, a lot of stolen goods being found in his house. Deering was 45 years old and previously bore a good reputation.

Highway Sank Out of Sight.

About 300 feet of the costly State highway running north from Lynn, Mass., has suddenly disappeared and is under the water. The road was noticed to be shaky in places and about 100 feet sank suddenly with a splash and 200 feet more soon disappeared, leaving a body of water 50x300 feet, 15 feet deep at the edges, and of unknown depth in the middle.

Manufacturing Plants Destroyed.

Baldwinsville, N. Y., was visited by a disastrous fire. The fire started in the plant of the Kenyon Paper Company and spread rapidly to a building occupied by the New Process Rawhide Company, the stone mill of Hotaling & Co. and the building of Clark, Mercer & Co. The loss, estimated at $116,000, is nearly covered by insurance.

Rod Mill Workers' New President.

The executive committee of the grand lodge of the Rod Mill Workers' Association met at Cleveland and accepted the resignation of Frank Pierce as President. Edward May, of that city, was elected to the vacancy.

W. C. T. U. Selects Seattle.

General officers of the W. C. T. U. at a meeting held in Chicago selected Seattle, Wash., as the place for holding the annual convention of 1899. The dates fixed upon were from Oct. 20 to Oct. 25, inclusive.

House Collapses in Paris.

Four persons were killed and others seriously injured by the collapse of a house in course of construction on the Rus des Apennies, Paris. It is feared that five bodies still remain buried in the debris.

Federation Chooses Gompers.

Samuel Gompers was re-elected president of the American Federation of Labor by a practically unanimous vote at the eighteenth annual convention of that organization in Kansas City.

Separate Rights of a Wife.

At St. Louis, Circuit Judge Wood has reversed the ruling of the probate court in regard to the administration of the estate of Mrs. Mary B. McPherson, holding that the common law that gave the husband absolute right over the person and estate of his wife has ceased to exist. Mrs. McPherson had been for many years a resident of St. Louis. She left no children. At the time of her death in 1895 she was preparing to remove to Rochester, N. Y., the home of her husband, William McPherson. She made no will, and under the laws of Missouri her estate should go to her brothers, Horace B. Locke and William C. Locke of Worcester, Mass. McPherson contended that the estate should be settled according to the laws of New York, on the theory that the marriage made his domicile hers. Judge Rassieur of the probate court held that the domicile of Mrs. McPherson was the same as that of her husband, and held the administration intact. The matter was appealed to the Circuit Court. Judge Wood orders that the assets of the estate be turned over to Mrs. McPherson's brothers.

SIX PERISH IN AN AVALANCHE.

Woman and Five Men Caught by a Snow Slide in Alaska.

The steamer Al-Ki, from Alaska, brings meager particulars of an avalanche on the Chilkoot Pass, in which at least six persons were killed. Five bodies have been recovered, as follows: Mrs. Darling of Lake Lindeman, two sons of Mrs. Darling, Bert Johns of Juneau, Harry Shaw of Skaguay. The slide occurred at Crater lake, about one mile beyond the summit on the Lake Lindeman side. The name of the sixth person has not been ascertained. Contrary to the advice of old-timers, who realized that the trip was a dangerous one in view of the recent storms, the party set out with light outfits. It was storming very hard when they crossed the summit, but they succeeded in reaching Crater lake, where the blizzard forced them to camp, although it was but seven miles to their destination. While encamped there tons of ice and snow, mixed with rocks and timbers, swept over them, evidently without warning, and went on down the valley, leaving them buried under several feet of hard snow. Their bodies were found three days later by a searching party. The bodies were not bruised in the least.

TO SAVE MAINE AND COLON.

Secretary Long to Advertise for Proposals to Raise Two Battleships.

Secretary Long will soon issue advertisements calling for proposals for raising the Maine and the Cristobal Colon, in accordance with the decision of the board of construction, to which the matter had been referred. The board has had under consideration several propositions from engineers and wrecking companies, presenting feasible schemes for raising those vessels and delivering them at the New York and the Norfolk navy yard, without involving the Government in any expense unless their efforts were successful. It was, however, impossible to make any selection from the proposals, and in view of the fact that so many contractors of apparent trustworthiness were willing to put their confidence to the test in attempting to raise the vessels and running the risk of failure, the members of the board agreed that it would be advisable to have an open competition and award the work to the bidder who would be willing to accept the most reasonable compensation, other things being equal.

Dies to Avoid Capture.

A man known as "Big John" murdered John Gullickson in Iowa, just across the State line from Spring Grove, Minn. The murderer then attempted to kill Gullickson's wife, beating her into unconsciousness, and left her for dead. A sheriff and a posse from Decorah, Iowa, pursued "Big John," and just as they were about to capture him he drew a revolver and shot and killed himself.

Concession for American.

The bureau of foreign commerce of the State Department has published the terms of a concession by which Martin Roberts, an American citizen, undertakes to operate the Guatemala Northern Railroad, running trains daily between Porto Barrios and El Rancho. He is to receive $15,460 monthly and 2 pesos for each new tie laid down.

Terrible Disaster Reported.

A dispatch from Shanghai says a powder magazine situated in the center of the Chinese camp at Hang-Chow exploded, leveling a square mile of houses. It is estimated that 3,000 soldiers were killed, including the general commanding the forces.

Great Britain Shows Friendship.

Great Britain has given another striking example of friendship for the United States. A filibustering expedition organized to go to the support of Aguinaldo has been suppressed at Hong Kong by order of the British authorities.

Church Calls Ian Maclaren.

Rev. John Watson (Ian Maclaren), author of "Beside the Bonny Brier Bush," has been called to the pastorate of Plymouth Church, New York.

Accident at Guion, Ind.

T. M. Wells, of Arcola, Ill., was killed and eleven others badly injured at Guion, Ind., in an accident on the Indiana, Decatur and Western Railway.

Two Deaths from Trichinosis.

At Hillsboro, Ohio, two girls have died from trichinosis, contracted by eating pork.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 2, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2, 25c to 27c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 56c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 21c to 23c; potatoes, choice, 30c to 40c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $2.75 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 67c; corn, No. 2 white, 31c to 32c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 30c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 32c to 34c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 28c; rye, No. 2, 50c to 52c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 34c to 35c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 29c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 58c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.50; sheep and lambs, $3.00 to $5.50; wheat, No. 2, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 35c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 29c to 30c; rye, 54c to 56c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 26c to 28c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 55c; clover seed, new, $4.55 to $4.60.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 3, 32c to 33c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 1, 54c to 56c; barley, No. 2, 44c to 49c; pork, mess, $8.00 to $8.50.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, common to choice, $3.25 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.75; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.00 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 77c to 79c; corn, No. 2, 41c to 43c; oats, No. 2, 32c to 33c; butter, creamery, 15c to 22c; eggs, Western, 25c to 27c.

EPIDEMIC OF GRIP.

DREADED INFLUENZA IS AGAIN PREVALENT.

People Suffering from Widespread Attack of the Disease—Its Presence in New York and Chicago Causes Alarm—Many Cities Visited.

Grip is epidemic in Chicago. Cold weather, followed by a rise in temperature and a warm rain, brought about a siege of influenza, severe colds and sore throat and lungs that has not been equaled since the epidemic of 1891. The public is warned against the disease and the health authorities state that with the people alone rests the question of its seriousness this year. In consequence of the caution necessary on the part of the public to prevent a spread of the disease, a warning bulletin was issued by the health department. The last epidemic of this disease in Chicago, together with the impure water diseases, increased the total deaths from 21,869 in 1890 to 27,754 in the epidemic year, 1891—an increase of more than one-fifth—and numbers of the survivors have never since regained their former condition of mental and physical health.

In New York the epidemic of grip has assumed great proportions. Deaths from grip, pneumonia and bronchitis show a tremendous increase. It is believed that 125,000 persons are afflicted. The fire department is in danger of being crippled by a heavy increase of the sick list due to grip. The police department is also affected. Business firms and manufactories employing large forces are suffering. In one large office building where 900 people work 300 were sick. The disease is also prevalent in Brooklyn and Long Island towns, and in several of the cities of New Jersey, such as Newark, Elizabeth and Hackensack.

There are at least 40,000 cases of grip in Baltimore. The drug stores have been more crowded than the Christmas goods establishments. In some of the public schools the attendance has fallen off one-half. Work in factories and business in the large stores is impeded by the sickness of operatives and employes. The disease is generally in a mild form, although there has been some fatal cases. At Annapolis and other towns throughout the State the disease is epidemic.

The disease has also invaded the national capital and many Government employes are sick. Something of an idea of the extent of the epidemic may be gained from the following list of cities which have made reports:

City.	Cases.
New York	125,000
Philadelphia	50,000
Baltimore	40,000
Dayton, Ohio	5,000
New Haven	5,000
Yale College	400
Total	225,400

History of the Influenza.

Influenza, or grip, made its first appearance in New York City in December, 1889. It had been prevalent for some time in Europe, which it had invaded from the direction of Russia. In Russia it was said to have come from the east, and it has been stated that it is epidemic in China, along the banks of the Yellow river, where there are frequent inundations, and where it is looked upon as "marsh fever."

The first onset in New York was extremely severe, the number of deaths from all causes rising abruptly from 762 for the week ending Dec. 28, 1889, to 1,202 during the succeeding week and 1,424 for the week ending Jan. 11, 1890. From this point the epidemic gradually declined, until in the week ending Feb. 8 the mortality was again normal, only 765 deaths having been reported. The entire epidemic thus lasted about six weeks.

The second onset began in the latter part of March, 1891, the number of deaths from all causes reported during the week ending March 28 being 895, for the next week 1,216, for the third week 1,347, and for the fourth 1,208. This epidemic lasted about eight weeks.

E. A. HITCHCOCK NAMED.

He Will Succeed Mr. Bliss as Secretary of the Interior.

Ethan Allen Hitchcock has been appointed Secretary of the Interior to succeed Secretary Bliss. At present he is in Russia as United States ambassador, to which position President McKinley appointed him in 1896. He is a personal friend of the President and is a lineal descendant of Col. Ethan Allen of Ticonderoga fame.

ETHAN ALLEN HITCHCOCK.

Ethan Allen Hitchcock was born in Mobile, Ala., September, 1835. In 1860, at the urgent request of relatives engaged in business in China, he left for that country. Mr. Hitchcock remained in China twelve years. He returned through India and remained two years on the continent, a considerable portion of the time being spent at St. Petersburg and Moscow.

Returning to St. Louis in 1874, Mr. Hitchcock engaged actively in business until accepting the post in Russia.

Told in a Few Lines.

Rain has broken a protracted and damaging drouth on the California coast.

It is expected that Gen. Lee will eventually be given absolute authority in the province of Havana.

The remains of a number of human skeletons, encased in armor of at least 200 years ago, have been unearthed near O'Neill, Neb.

There are now United States troops in every province in Cuba except Matanzas, and those assigned to that province will be there by Jan. 1.

China has broached the subject of an extradition treaty with the United States, applicable to all criminals, but particularly to highbinders.

The War Department is maturing plans for the muster out of as many volunteers now in service as possible, as nearly all of them want to go home.

The Merchants' Association of New York at a meeting determined to begin a crusade to compel the express companies to pay the war stamp tax.

Germany, it is said, is ready to buy the Caroline Islands from Spain, but does not wish to prejudice her relations with either the United States or England.

BIG FIRE AT TERRE HAUTE.

Loss of Property by Conflagration Estimated at $1,000,000.

The worst fire in the history of the city of Terre Haute, Ind., occurred Monday night. The blaze started in the big show windows of the Havens & Geddes Company, wholesale and retail dealers in dry goods and notions. It is supposed that a live electric wire set fire to the cotton with which the window was decorated, and before the blaze could be extinguished the fire spread to the decorations of evergreens in the store and the building was wrapped in flames in an incredibly short space of time. A conservative estimate of the damage is $1,000,000, and the following firms are the losers:

Havens & Geddes, company	$500,000
Breinig & Miller, furniture	25,000
Pixley & Co.	100,000
Terre Haute Shoe Co., wholesale	150,000
Albrecht & Co., retail dry goods	150,000
United States Baking Company	80,000
Thorman & Schloss, clothiers	50,000

There were a number of small concerns which were utterly annihilated in the fall of the rear wall of the Havens & Geddes wholesale house, and the loss in their case will more than bring the total losses up to the $1,000,000 mark.

The fire started at 5:30 o'clock, when half the employes of the establishment were at their homes for supper. There is a force of 300 or more in the retail department of the establishment and had the entire force been present the loss of life would have been frightful. As it is, Kate Maloney, a clerk in the notion department, sprang from a window in the second story and sustained injuries from which she will probably die. Miss Luelle Ferguson, a clerk in the same department, jumped just before Miss Maloney, but was caught by some men who were watching for her. She is internally injured, but will recover.

Louis Kramer, the trimmer, who was in the show window when the blaze started, is frightfully burned about the head and arms. When rescued from the burning building he was insane from the pain and begged to be killed. Firemen Austerloo, Walsh and Shay were badly injured in the falling of a floor in the Albrecht building and are now in the city hospital. The fire department worked admirably and there were many narrow escapes among the men.

BRYAN ON ISSUES OF 1900.

Declares that the Money Question Will Be the Issue.

Col. W. J. Bryan arrived in Washington from Savannah. In an interview concerning the Democratic issues of 1900, he said:

"I should say the money question, undoubtedly. I believe the Chicago platform still embodies the sentiments of the mass of the American people. I can see no reason for a popular change of mind on any of the issues defined in the last national platform. The fact that people are talking about the war does not necessarily indicate that they have abandoned former ideas which have no reference to the war. People can discuss matters of temporary interest without forgetting their political views and abandoning their political principles."

KISSER HOBSON BUSY.

Merrimac Hero Indulges in Wholesale Osculatory Exercise.

Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac episode, who is now becoming better known as a kisser than he is as an officer of the United States navy, kissed 417 maids and matrons at Kansas City, before journeying west for new fields to conquer. The kissing bee took place at a public reception.

In Chicago, Lieut. Hobson was kissed by 163 Chicago girls at the Auditorium. Incidentally he lectured about the war and and the sinking of the Merrimac. The osculatory ordeal followed the lecture, when the announcement was made that any one who wished to greet the lieutenant could come up on the stage.

CLAUS SPRECKLES GIVES AID.

Subscribes $20,000 for Destitute Farmers of California.

The terrible destitution among the small farmers in the southern part of Monterey County, Cal., has led to a general public movement for the relief of the suffering. The farmers are not only out of food, but out of seed to grow crops and have no means of getting relief, as dry weather for two years has completely ruined their crops. They have appealed to Gov. Budd for aid, but as he has no fund from which he can render aid a special fund will be subscribed. Sugar Millionaire Claus Spreckels gave his check for $25,000, and others are contributing in proportion to their wealth.

WOMEN KILLED AT FIRE.

Fatal Blaze in Fashionable Residence District of New York City.

Two women were killed and another so severely injured that she will die as the result of a fire in the mansion of C. H. Raymond at West End avenue and Seventy-third street, New York. Mrs. Raymond, who jumped from a second-story window with Mrs. Underwood, is fatally hurt. C. H. Raymond and the servants were rescued by firemen.

Raleigh Is En Route Home.

Admiral Dewey has cabled the Navy Department that the Raleigh started from Manila for New York by way of the Suez.

Telegraphic Brevities.

Many discharged soldiers have been employed in New York shoveling snow.

The estate of Leland Stanford of San Francisco has paid nearly $7,000,000 in debts and legacies.

The next national encampment of the G. A. R. will be held at Philadelphia Sept. 4 to 9 next.

Kate Holden, colored, who was said to be 117 years old, died in the almshouse at Hartford, Conn.

John Wallace, after a year's imprisonment at Sing Sing, N. Y., under a ten years' sentence on a charge of robbery, of which he was innocent, has been released.

It is reported from Chicago that Joseph Leiter is at the bottom of a movement for the organization of a milk trust, which is "to regulate the price of milk on the price of butter."

During the first nine months of 1898 there were 2,220 miles of new railroads constructed in the United States. This exceeds the total mileage of any entire year since 1893.

A. H. Long, a tenant on the Adam Decker farm, near Nittany, Pa., this year raised 1,228 bushels of corn on scant eight acres of ground. This would be 153½ bushels to the acre.

Mrs. F. S. Lee and Mrs. H. G. R. Wright were elected from Arapahoe County to the Colorado Legislature. Mrs. Helen L. Grenfell is elected State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

There is great indignation in Madrid because the Americans rejected the proposition of the Spanish peace commissioners at Paris to appoint a joint commission of the powers to investigate the Maine disaster.

It is reported that Nellie Gould was the mysterious giver of $250,000 to the library building fund of the University of the city of New York. She has, since the laying of the corner stone, given additional smaller sums.

SENATE AND HOUSE.

WORK OF OUR NATIONAL LAWMAKERS.

A Week's Proceedings in the Halls of Congress—Important Measures Discussed and Acted Upon—An Impartial Resume of the Business.

On Thursday the House surpassed all records in the expedition with which it passed the pension appropriation bill. Usually one of the most fruitful themes of acrimonious partisan debate, it was passed in twenty minutes without criticism, although carrying $145,233,830, $4,000,000 more than the act for the current year. The House then began consideration of the bill to incorporate the International American Bank. This project was recommended by the Pan-American Congress in 1889. An agreement was effected for a vote at 3 o'clock Friday. It was supported in debate by Messrs. Brosius (Rep., Pa.), Adams (Rep., Pa.), Lacey (Rep., Iowa), and Walker (Rep., Mass.), and opposed by Mr. Cox (Dem., Tenn.), Jenkins (Rep., Wis.), Driggs (Dem., N. Y.), and Bartlett (Dem., Ga.). In the Senate the urgent deficiency appropriation bill making provision for the army and navy for the next six months displaced the Nicaragua canal bill, preventing even the taking of a vote on the question of the postponement of the latter measure until after the holidays, as had been intended. The deficiency bill was passed after a spirited discussion, turning principally on the point of keeping the volunteer soldiers in the service.

The bill to incorporate the International American Bank was buried under an overwhelming adverse majority of the House on Friday. The debate upon the measure, which opened Thursday, was concluded at 3 o'clock. Mr. Dingley, the floor leader of the majority, made an argument in its support. The other speakers on Friday were Hill of Connecticut in its support and Messrs. Bell (Pop., Colo.), Sulzer (Dem., N. Y.), Maxwell (Pop., Neb.), Maddox (Dem., Ga.) and Swanson (Dem., Va.) in opposition. The vote by which the bill was defeated stood 103 yeas to 148 nays. The bill to extend the customs and revenue laws of the United States over the Hawaiian Islands was passed without opposition. The bill, Mr. Dingley explained, carried with it the civil service laws relating to appointments in the customs and revenue service in Hawaii.

Saturday in the House was devoted to the Indian appropriation bill, which was passed substantially as reported. This is the third of the appropriation bills to pass and it clears the calendar of the big supply bills. The Senate was not in session.

Monday was suspension day in the House, and several bills were passed, the most important of which was the bill appropriating $350,000 for the Philadelphia exposition of 1899. The vote was exceedingly close. It had but two votes more than the necessary two-thirds. Bills were also passed under suspension of the rules to authorize the distribution of the assets of the Freedmen's Bank, to enlarge the scope of the Fish Commission to include game birds, for the relief of the Fourth Mounted Arkansas Infantry and for the relief of John W. Lewis, of Oregon. The Senate had a busy day, and there were several important speeches. Mr. Platt, of Connecticut, spoke against the Vest resolution, which declares that the United States has no power to acquire territory. Mr. Proctor, of Vermont, and Mr. Hale, of Maine, exchanged divergent views upon the subject of a commission of Senators to visit Cuba. The conference report on the urgent deficiency bill was agreed to. The Senate then took up the Nicaragua canal bill, and Mr. Berry (Ark.) spoke upon his amendments to the measure.

The House resolution providing for adjournment of Congress from Dec. 21 to Jan. 4 was adopted by the Senate without division on Tuesday. Mr. Gallinger favorably reported Mr. Proctor's resolution providing for a committee of Senators to visit Cuba and Porto Rico with a view to ascertaining the conditions on the islands and reporting on them, with recommendations. Senator Teller then addressed the Senate upon Mr. Vest's resolution declaring that under the constitution no power is given to acquire territory to be held and governed permanently as colonies. Several private pension bills were disposed of, after which Mr. Elkins called up the bill relating to the registry of foreign built vessels in this country. At 2 o'clock the Nicaraguan canal bill displaced the registry measure, and Mr. Caffery spoke in opposition to it. The debate on the agricultural bill was signalized by the first speech in the House on the question of annexation of the Philippines. Mr. Williams of Mississippi submitted a general argument against their annexation. After Mr. Williams' remarks the agricultural bill was passed. It carried $3,696,322, or $187,120 more than the current law. Before adjournment for the day the conference report on the army and navy deficiency bill was adopted.

The last session of the House before the holiday recess was held on Wednesday and lasted but an hour. The Bailey resolution directing an investigation of the right of the members who volunteered in the Spanish-American war to seats in the House was adopted, and several bills of minor importance were passed. One of these provided for holding terms of the District and Circuit courts at Hammond, Ind. The absence of a quorum of the Senate saved Senator Proctor's resolution providing for the appointment of a committee of Senators to investigate the conditions in Cuba and Porto Rico during the approaching long recess of Congress from decisive defeat. An effort was made by Mr. Daniel of Virginia to obtain consideration for the resolution, but his motion mustered only eight of the thirty-eight votes cast. No business of importance was disposed of at Wednesday's session. Only some routine business, including the passage of a few private pension bills, was transacted. Adjournment was taken to Jan. 4, 1899.

Sparks from the Wires.

Prince Henry of Prussia opposes the building of railroads in China by Americans.

The United States cruiser Raleigh sailed from Manila for New York, via the Suez canal.

Fifteen thousand silk operatives at Colfeld, the German silk manufacturing center, are on a strike.

Marquis Ito of Japan is reported to have said that there is no man in China capable of saving the empire from collapse.

The coal miners of the district comprising Crawford and Cherokee counties, in Kansas, have organized, and are now identified with the United Mine Workers of America.

An attempt was made by burglars to blow up the large safe in the cashier's office at the Missouri Pacific freight depot at Fort Scott, Kan. They were frightened away by the approach of the watchman.

Waifs are appearing on doorsteps in Newport, Ky., with startling regularity every other night. The last little one was left in a basket on Dr. Kelly's doorstep. This is the eighth child found in that way in Newport in the past few weeks.

INDIANA STATE NEWS.

OCCURRENCES DURING THE PAST WEEK.

An Interesting Summary of the More Important Doings of Our Neighbors—Weddings and Deaths—Crimes, Casualties and General News Notes of the State.

Pensions for Indianians.

Pensions have been granted to Indianians as follows:

Original—John E. Anders, Bobo, $2; Thomas Beasley, New Albany, $8.

Restoration and Increase—Absolom Gross, River Vale, $8 to $16.

Restoration and Reissue—James McKnight, Leroy, $12; Andrew K. Neil (deceased), White Hall, $50.

Increase—Zachariah Barber, Tobinsport, $12 to $14; William A. Duncan, Oakland City, $12 to $14; Andrew J. Douglas, Shelburn, $12 to $14; Andrew J. Ritcheson, Short, $12 to $17; Luther Sthair, Gosport, $14 to $17; Benjamin Scott, Central, $6 to $8; Jacob Scheffee, Lafayette, $8 to $12; Edward A. Lane, Big Springs, $17 to $72; Kincheon Morgan, Oaklandon, $10 to $12; Lemuel Vanatta, Orland, $6 to $8; David Chillas Dillsboro, $14 to $17; Cornelius Pontious, Plymouth, $6 to $8; William Felix, Lafayette, $14 to $17; Simon Strouss, Garrett, $6 to $8.

Reissue—Albert W. Saint, Newcastle, $17.

Original Widows, Etc—Axey Fox, Brazil, $8; Mary Briston, Indianapolis, $8; Juletta Pord, Muncie, $17.

Minor State Items.

Hog cholera near Gales, Hendricks County.

Perry Harris' 3-year-old daughter pulled a bucket of hot water on her at Shelbyville and will die.

Nickum, the perpetual light man of Logansport, announces that he will make an exhibit of his invention early in January.

At Kokomo, Sarah Debcard, a hotel cook, while at work in the kitchen, fainted and fell in a boiler of hot water, dying from the injuries. Her home was at Greentown.

Frank Aerhart of Anderson, prominent a year ago and able to draw his check for $20,000 then, was recently given a two to fourteen year sentence to the Reformatory for forgery.

Pat Ridpath, once of Brazil, recently cleaned up $250,000 in a sale of stock of a gold mine in British Columbia for which he paid 8 cents a share. He has become a millionaire in Spokane, Wash.

Frank Bemis, living near Coal Bluff, was probably fatally injured by a cousin, also named Frank Bemis. While out hunting the gun was accidentally discharged, the shot striking Bemis in the side.

Joseph Kuntz, a farmer near Lawrenceburg, was paid $528 in bills, and carried it in a bank book in his coat pocket. He was putting wood in the stove when the book slipped out and burned up, money and all.

Gen. W. A. Olmsted of New York City, a convert to the Catholic faith, will be ordained into the priesthood at Notre Dame this week. Gen. Olmsted commanded the Second Brigade at the battle of Gettysburg.

Ernest Volker, a Terre Haute schoolboy, was unruly the other day, and Prof. Cassidy shook him. The boy's arm was broken last fall, and the shaking broke it again. The boy's parents will bring suit to compel the teacher to pay the physician's bill.

Mrs. Lavina Black, who shot John Bailey to death after he had been acquitted of the charge of criminally assaulting her, is on trial at Muncie. Bailey proved an alibi. Witnesses who helped Bailey show an alibi now say they were mistaken in dates.

Howard Blackford and Charles Bush of Shelby County, quarreled over who should take a young lady home from the Fairview Church. Knives were drawn. Blackford's knife broke off in Bush's head and Blackford's nose was broken.

Brazil will try the referendum in deciding what is to be done in the way of supplying the city with more water. The question of disposing of the municipal waterworks plant to private ownership is to be submitted to the people, and a special election will be held.

James Carman, a prominent locomotive engineer, formerly in the employ of the Pennsylvania Company, committed suicide in the rooms of the Soldiers' Club in Fort Wayne. He was discharged by the company for leaving his engine at Bucyrus and permitting the fireman to run it to the terminal at Crestline.

The orthodox branch and Hicksite branch of Quakers met together for worship recently in the East Main Street Church, Richmond, for the first time since 1827. The former invited the latter to meet with them in an endeavor society and the invitation was accepted. Doctrinal differences have kept them apart.

Columbus police dressed as hunters and went to the country to invite John P. Huff to take a hunt. Huff got into the wagon and rode into the Columbus Jail and now he is in the Central Insane Hospital. A lunacy commission said he was insane and a jury said he wasn't,

WHEN YOU'RE AWAY FROM HOME.

When you're feelin' blue ez indigo,
when you're away from home,
En faces ain't familiar on the new streets that you roam,
You'll find them all a-fadin' en they'll disappear from view,
When you run acrost a feller from the same ol' town ez you.

If you hain't been the best of friends
it softens up your heart,
You feel a warmin' to him that'll kinder give a start
To a long en lastin' friendship that you'll allus cart aroun',
With a good word for the feller from the same ol' leetle town.

You'll find his voice soun's sweeter
ez he mentions some ol' name
Then it uster when you'd meet him
airly mornin's in the lane;
En when you say good by en part, ez
somehow folks must do,
You hate to leave the feller from the same ol' town ez you.
—Edward Singer in the Cleveland
Plain Dealer.

THE THUG.

"You fellows have a fine time of it nowadays, with your machine guns and a commissariat that knows canned meat from castor oil."

It was an Indian veteran who spoke—Colonel Carrill—to whom Myers and I, returned from dacoit hunting in Burma, had been relating our exploits.

"Fifty years ago fighting was fighting," he went on, "but now—"

We smiled the smile of the young and up to date. What did he know of the vagaries of the modern savage; of the dacoit who came in the night noiselessly and parted life and death with an ugly and unnecessarily large stab in the breast?

The colonel read our thoughts.

"Dacoits may be a stealthier foe," he said, "but for undiluted vagabondism and downright villainy give me the thugs."

"They must have been bad," I ventured.

"At the very best, and yet I found a little grain of virtue in one," said the veteran. "Shall I tell you a yarn? It will be like a page of ancient history now.

"It was in the autumn of 1834," proceeded the colonel. "I went out from Haidarabad under Major Groves northward across the Godavery after thugs. Groves sent me off on my own account with a troop of about thirty Sepoys and a couple of noncoms. We had no success until Hosein Ali fell into our hands. He was taken with the proofs of guilt thick upon him and the spoil in his possession. Yet he denied with all the stubbornness of innocence.

"I looked long and fixedly at the man. He was a fine specimen of a fine race. If I had not been so absolutely certain of his guilt I must have doubted that one of so gallant a bearing could be that worst of all criminals, a thug.

"'What are you doing here, then?' I asked him. 'What is your trade—your occupation? How did you come by these pearls?'

"'If I answer the sahib at all,' he replied, 'it is that he may be satisfied and let me go on my journey in peace. I am on travel honestly to my sister's wedding, and the stones are a wedding gift.'

"'I don't believe a word,' said I. 'You are a thug and a murderer and deserve hanging a hundred times, but—make yourself useful, tell me your companions, show me their haunts, take me to the graves of your victims and your life may be spared.'

"'I know nothing of what you say, sahib,' he repeated doggedly.

"'Take him away,' I commanded, 'and in ten minutes' time hang him.'

"Of course this was pure bounce, but he knew no better. I uttered the sentence sharply and rose to leave the hut. As I turned my back I heard a scuffle, and, looking quickly round, was just in time to ward the prisoner's hands from my throat.

"In another moment the men had him down, and though he struggled desperately, he was bound and dragged to his feet as I resumed my seat.

"'None but the guilty would have behaved so,' I said sternly. 'I knew no better in those days. 'You have sealed your doom.'

"The man took a deep breath—he was still panting from the struggle—and shouted with an excess of strength and enthusiasm:

"'Jey Bhowanee.'

"It was the war cry of Thuggee, the invocation to the goddess. If anything more was needed to convict him it was provided in the extraordinary change in his appearance. All the signs of vice and cupidity which I had looked for in vain at first were now most prominent in the angry, passion-distorted face.

"It was plain that we had made a capture of the first importance. Such a man would, without doubt, be the leader or at least a very prominent member of any gang with which he was connected and would possess just the sort of information we wanted.

"Informers are supposed to be built of difficult material. However, I determined to try him, and as a first step I had him informed that unless he consented to give the information we wanted he would certainly be hanged in the morning. As an extra argument we built a gallows opposite the window of his cell.

"At first this only excited his derision. The small hours of morning, however, proved too much for him. I was awakened early and told he wanted to speak.

"'Tell him he can say all he wants under the rope,' was my reply.

"When the hour came, the man was led out. Nothing remained of the scorn and defiance of the previous day. A night of passion and fear had broken him up.

"As he caught sight of me he called out, 'I will tell all, Sahib Bahadur.' One of the sepoys, previously instructed, began to busy himself with the rope.

"'All,' I said. 'Nothing kept back?'

"'Nothing,' he answered eagerly. 'All I have done and my companions.'

"'And their names, all of them?'

"'Yes.'

"'And help us to take them by all means in your power?'

"He hesitated at this, but a glance at the man who held the rope and who had now made a pretty noose in it, was enough.

"'I will, sahib,' he muttered. 'My life will be saved?'

"'On condition that you carry out your promise to the letter I will do my best to save it.'

"There, within the yard of the gibbet, the prisoner told a tale of murder and robbery appalling in its extent, sickening in its cold bloodedness and deliberation. To this he added a list of some thirty or forty accomplices, and, with a remarkable effort of memory, described the position of the rude graves of over one hundred victims.

"A couple of weeks of activity passed. Thanks to Hosein, who had been shaved and otherwise disguised, we not only collected ample proof of the crimes committed, but succeeded in securing many of the culprits, who were taken to the nearest court and tried.

"So far the informer had amply fulfilled his contract. He had indeed displayed a zeal which made me at times very doubtful of his sincerity. I found out at last that this thoroughness was characteristic of the man in all things.

"Well, the further work of suppression advanced the more difficult it became. The thugs had enjoyed immunity so long that many of the bands had become careless and were taken with comparative ease, but as the news of their capture spread and the fate which met them became known, the villains became more wary and difficult of approach.

"About a month after Hosein's capture we got on the heels of a band which, by the signs, numbered about forty members. Instead of following them up we crossed the river along the banks of which they were marching, and hurrying on, got in advance of them. We knew they would have to cross later and hoped to ambush them.

"We did not move. Hosein had the whole detachment busy for some hours cutting a number of short bamboo sticks and boring holes in their ends, through which short lengths of cord were run.

"'What are these things for?' I asked him.

"'Food for the thugs, sir,' he replied. 'When they taste these they are silent.'

"Then I perceived that the mysterious articles were gags.

"'They will come across the ford tonight,' continued Hosein. 'We will be waiting, and as they land, one by one, seize them and stop their voices.'

"'How can you be sure they will cross?' said I.

"'Shall I not tempt them?' he answered. 'Shall I not light a fire and send a cry across the water as these would have done if God had not delivered them into our hands?'

"'How many of them are there?'

"'I should say from thirty to forty. I know this ford well. Only one man can land at a time. If the sahib will permit, I will stand by the bank and assist them out singly. Some of your men must leave their coats and dress like thugs, and as I hand them over the first of the robbers two of them shall seize him, fill his mouth with wood and tie him up so that he makes neither sound nor motion. In like manner with the others. The jungle and the rain will help us.'

"My first indistinct view of the ford renewed my previous distrust of Hosein's good faith. It seemed the last place one would select for a passage. The banks are ten to twelve feet high, and rise sheer out of the water. But, looking closely, however, I made out a large, flat rock close to the bank, forming a natural, if somewhat difficult step. The bank was only attainable by first climbing the rock.

"The signal fire was lit, and after the proper interval extinguished, and we lay down in silence to wait for the next move. At last we saw the answering fire.

"Hosein let himself down to the stepping-stone and stood erect. At the same moment the shriek of a jackal close at hand made me jump to my feet. From across the river the cry was repeated, and then I knew it was the second signal.

"A minute or two of extreme tension followed, and then, above the whipping sound of the rain on the river, I could just hear the careful splashing of the waters. Soon the head of the first one came dimly into sight, a black, moving spot on the dark water, and behind it, in Indian file, other blots still more indistinct.

"As the leader neared the bank Hosein said a couple of words in 'Moor,' which elicited a low reply. I then saw him stoop and draw the man onto the rock beside him. It was an exciting moment, and I know I trembled—solely, I hope, from over-anxiety.

"As each one attained an upright position on the bank he was gagged, overpowered and laid out in the jungle helplessly bound. There was an anxious pause after the twelfth man, and from the rock below I heard a lot of whispering. I saw Hosein stoop, draw up a large bundle and throw it up onto the bank.

"The thugs were passing us their booty. The remainder of the band brought each a similar parcel.

"As we approached the end one or two squeals escaped, but fortune favored us and no alarm was given. By some means the last man but one to cross took alarm as he reached the bank and yelled out a warning. He was quickly pulled down and secured, but his successor, just about to reach up his hand to Hosein, hesitated and retreated.

"I heard a big splash and Hosein disappeared. He had jumped in after the man and engaged in a struggle which we could hear, but only dimly see. I climbed down the bank and slipped into the water, followed by one of my men. As we approached the thug uttered a furious sentence in a dialect which I did not understand, and the next moment he was free and hurrying away. The sepoy and I dashed after the escaping thug and held him.

"With this we had them all—thirty-three murderers and twenty bales of spoil—a fine haul.

"Following our usual precaution, Hosein traveled with the rear guard, so that the prisoners should not see more of him than was necessary, though I more than suspected that he had been recognized by the old thug. Something had changed him anyhow. He was strangely thoughtful, even morose.

"In a couple of days the case against them was presented. The proofs of their guilt were overwhelming, and as they thought more of defiance than defense they were soon convicted and sentenced, fifteen of them, including the old man who had so nearly escaped, to be hanged, the rest to transportation to Penang.

"The following morning was fixed for the execution. As they stood in the centre of the clearing before ascending the platform Hosein Ali created a sensation by slipping forward and kneeling humbly and contritely before the old thug. The latter, with an indescribable accent of scorn, uttered a couple of words and spat derisively on the informer.

"The next moment the culprits had mounted the gallows. The excitement of this scene was not over when a fresh sensation was caused by the discovery of a man lying a short distance from the gallows with a bayonet through his heart, having killed himself by falling on the blade. It was Hosein Ali.

"One of the bystanders turned toward the still swinging bodies of the thugs, and pointing to the old man said:

"'That was his father!'"—F. W. Evans, in Chambers' Journal.

COCK-FIGHTING IN PORTO RICO.

Gaffs of the Birds are Scraped to Needlelike Sharpness.

The first fight has been arranged, and the referee claps his hands as a signal for all gathered in the ring to move outside, as only the "handlers" are allowed within the enclosure, writes a correspondent of Harper's Weekly, from Porto Rico, in describing a cock fight. The birds are fought with their own gaffs, instead of with the metal razor-edged blade which is strapped to the legs of cocks in the United States, and a great deal of preparatory scraping and polishing of the bone gaffs takes place, until they become needle-like in sharpness. Then all the crest or neck feathers are cut off with scissors, and sometimes the comb is trimmed low—but not often, as all the minor details of handling, so rigorously observed among our own gambling fraternity, seem here to be dispensed with.

The birds are teased into fighting humor while held in the hand, and viciously pluck at each other's head; and now they are dropped on the ground with a quick movement, and at the order of the referee they are at it. High up in the air they strike the first few plunges, and one dodges under, and the uppermost bird lands over his enemy with a surprised look, but whirls and grabs his opponent on the red comb with a strong beak, and plants his gaffs fairly on the side of the other's head. A roar of approval goes up from the crowd who have backed this bird, and a counter set of suppressed hi's of fear rises from those wishing for the success of the other favorite. The fight is fast and furious.

Time is called. In the centre of the ring lies a small square outlined with sunken wooden sticks, and on its opposite edges the birds are set. The mongrel potted bird goes for his game colored enemy immediately, and strikes him three times to the other's once. Poor fellow! his fight is over; he turns and runs away, followed by his fierce tantalizer. Once more they are rubbed into shape. One vicious gaff as they come together, and the red bird sinks dead, the bone lance going into his eye and brain.

The crowd surges into the ring and the money changes hands, while the owner of the dead bird gathers up the bundle of bloody feathers with some show of tenderness.

The Tuatara Lizard.

The oldest living inhabitant of the earth is probably a curious lizard which makes its home in New Zealand. This venerable inhabitant, whose ancestors have been crawling about for upward of a million years, is called the tuatara lizard, and his family delights in the name of rhynchocephalia. The present form of lizard has a spotted skin, a crest of separate white spines and three sets of teeth.

The tuatara lizard is shy and little has been known of its habits. For the last two years Professor Dendy, of Canterbury College, New Zealand, has been investigating the life of the lizard and has sent a report to England.

The tuatara lizard was first mentioned by Captain Cook, and a detailed account reached England in 1843. The lizard has been so rare that a law in New Zealand makes it unlawful for any one to kill it.

A few years ago the Government granted special permission to Professor Dendy to collect eggs and adults.

The lizard lays its eggs in November and thirteen months are required to hatch the baby lizards.

The egg requires more time to hatch than any other egg known to science.

A Startled Congregation.

There was an amusing incident in a church in the Hadsworth district the other Sunday night. The vicar was to preach, but as he had to conduct a mission service as well he arranged to get to his own church just in time to don the surplice and mount the pulpit. He has economical church wardens, who don't believe in wasting the gas, so every Sunday night when the hymn before the sermon is being sung, the verger decends to the vaults beneath, and as soon as the organ ceases turns down the gas at the meter. The other Sunday the mission service was late, and word was passed up to the organist and among the choir to start a second hymn in order to give the vicar an extra few minutes. The verger did not know this, and the congregation was not a little startled to see the lights go almost out as they were singing "Why should I fear the darkest hour?"—Birmingham Daily Mail.

Footmen's Wigs.

Queen Victoria's footmen wear wigs which have eight rows of curls, whereas those of the Prince of Wales are allowed seven rows, and those of the Lord Mayor of London are given six rows.

EVOLUTION OF THE ELEVATOR

IMPOSSIBLE as it really seems, there was a time, which is within the memory of men still living and moving in the active throng, when the inhabitants of Chicago were fed from the outside world and would else have starved. That time was between 1833 and 1836, so recent is the date of the establishment of agriculture in the Northwest. From the beginning of organized business and social life in 1833, onward to the acceptance of the city government, in 1837, there were scarcely enough provisions produced in the region round about to alleviate for the shortest time a scarcity of provisions derived from the East.

George W. Dole came from New York State to the West in pursuit of he knew not what. At Detroit he made the acquaintance of W. L. Newberry, came to Chicago soon after, and set himself up in the provision trade. He and Mr. Newberry became partners together, and their warehouse was the first in the place.

CHICAGO'S FIRST "ELEVATOR."
First shipment of grain from Chicago's first dock, September, 1839.

The immense grain elevators of the present day have been evolved from the Newberry & Dole warehouse of the old time. Into that warehouse was received grain for storage and sale, though it was not "elevated," nor in bulk put into bins, but lay there in bags precisely as it was received. The quantity was, of course, small, and was at first absorbed in the local trade. And much of it, indeed the most of it, was shipped hither from the East. It was not till 1838 that a change occurred—in that year the farmers in the vicinity of Chicago had grain to sell in excess of the local demand and a small shipment of the commodity was made to the East.

Newberry & Dole's warehouse became an elevator, though the grain was elevated on the backs of men or swung up with block and tackle. The process of evolution was begun. Thus the grain was elevated, but the question was not so easily solved how to transfer it into the vessels. Among the first expedients for this purpose was a spout about one foot square, with a larger opening at the upper end, extending from the bins on an upper floor toward the vessel, but the wharf was so wide that the grain would only run to within several feet of the edge. There was a slide at the end of the spout to close off the grain at will. Scales were placed under the lower end of the spout, and boxes were provided with handles nailed along the sides for two men to grasp, each end of the box being like a wheelbarrow. Standing upon the scale the boxes were filled with four bushels of wheat and then carried up the gang plank and emptied into the hold of the vessel. Two lines of men passed the wheat in pails from the bins in the warehouse and poured it into the upper end of the spout. The next stage in the process of evolution was the improving upon this slow and tedious method of elevating and loading. Horse power was introduced, higher altitudes secured and longer spouts employed. But it was a long jump from then to now in respect of this matter.

It is but a few years ago that vessels were small and yet then it took from twelve to twenty-four hours to load one of them with grain. Tolls exacted for storage were necessarily higher than later. For the first twenty days 2 cents a bushel was the toll, with 1 cent added for every additional ten days or fraction thereof. Now the toll is ¾ cent for the first ten days and ¼ cent for each additional ten days or fraction thereof.

First Large Elevator.

The first large elevator in Chicago was built by J. & E. Buckingham, the brothers-in-law of Solomon Sturges, who soon became interested with them. They leased from the Illinois Central Railroad for the period of ten years the ground where the Illinois Central elevators now stand and put up elevator A, with a capacity of 700,000 bushels. This was in 1855. Two years later they erected another, elevator B, of equal capacity. For both the power was supplied with a Corliss engine. The space between the floors for the storage of grain in bins was enormously increased above what had been seen here before, and consequently the height of the buildings was dizzy. They were the only objects that could be seen against the sky from almost any part of the city. They were veritable sky-scrapers. They were a wonder. No public man from abroad and no visiting board, committee or pleasure excursion ever got away from the city without having been taken over the great elevators.

At that time railroads had multiplied and penetrated in every direction into the country—there were railroads even beyond, a little distance beyond, the Mississippi—and the grain-growing area had a good deal increased. Chicago was the leading grain market. There was a demand for still other elevators. Between 1858 and 1861 half a dozen of these huge elevators and a number of small ones were erected. All these went under the names of individual firms, but the most of them were to a large extent under the control of the different railroads. Under cover of these firm names, or largely so, the Northwestern Railroad, the Rock Island Railroad, the Burlington and Quincy, the Illinois Central and the Pennsylvania Railroad companies had each its system of grain elevators. They were all built on about the same plan as the first Sturges elevator. All together they had a capacity for 2,650,000 bushels. They separately formed very noticeable features of the town.

Losses in the Great Fire.

Of the seventeen public elevators in Chicago at the time of the great fire of 1871, all but six escaped destruction. The six that were burned had altogether a storage capacity of 2,475,000 bushels, and contained at the time 1,559,395 bushels. But the consequences of the fire were much further reaching to the trade than at first appears from this bare statement. Probably three-fourths of the receipts for grain stored in the other elevators were burned, or for a considerable time were lost or otherwise unavailable. Hence the business was thrown into confusion, was, in fact, rendered next to impossible. Remedy was had of the Legislature at the called session in the month after the fire, in the exigency act, authorizing the delivery by warehousemen of grain stored prior to Oct. 8, 1871, without the production of any receipt therefor, upon presentation of proof, under oath, that the receipt originally issued for the same was destroyed in the fire. Thereafter the business went on as before, and, after about a year, more prosperously than ever. The six burned elevators were rebuilt and several more added to the number.

GREAT ARMOUR ELEVATOR—CAPACITY, 3,000,000 BUSHELS.

At the present time the trade is not conducted at all as it formerly was, so far as the elevators are concerned. And it must be admitted that Chicago is not the market for grain it once was. This is something of an anomaly, for it would be hard and take long to explain how it is that, while the production of grain in the Northwest has steadily and enormously increased, the number of elevators in Chicago has not materially increased. For one thing, corn that was grown in the Northwest reached in quantity 838,000,000 bushels in 1870 and 2,800,000,000 bushels last year. Still, the public elevators of Chicago carry, in comparison with the whole, very little of this vast amount. With wheat and other grain the case is much the same. A short explanation of this is that the multitude of railroads all about Chicago are nearly all diverting grain shipments over straighter routes to the seaboard. Grain is no longer voluntarily shipped to Chicago, the public as well as the private elevators have to send out and buy for their needs. More than half of the elevators are private and have a capacity of 18,000,000 bushels. A private elevator is, for example, that of the Glucose Company, a company which uses in Chicago alone 26,000 bushels of corn each day and in all of its factories 90,000 bushels daily. Other manufacturers take in something like similar quantities. All this corn is shipped direct to the manufacturers and, of course, makes no showing in the statements of the amount of the trade in the city as supplied by the public elevators. The public elevators are twenty-one in number and have a capacity of 32,000,000 bushels. The capacity of all the elevators, public and private, is for storage 50,000,000 bushels.

The cost of building one of the larger elevators is certainly great, and as Armour's 3,000,000 elevator is the largest of all pains have been taken to ascertain its cost. They have a way of estimating these things that is convenient to the ignorant inquirer. They say that the cost is $250,000 to each million of capacity, and by this way of figuring the Armour elevator cost $750,000. By the same way of figuring there is about $12,000,000 in the construction of the grain elevators in Chicago.

Barbarous Relics in England.

In rural England stocks are still to be found, although they are not used. They were set up in 1405, and many of them are in a state of excellent preservation. The crimes punished by imprisonment in the stocks were theft, drunkenness, gambling, Sabbath breaking and brawling. If the persons incarcerated were popular their plight was lessened by their friends, who brought them food and money, but unpopular persons were pelted with eggs and other unsavory missiles.

Very few people appreciate the importance of doing a thing right in the first place.

OLDEST EMPLOYES.

James Kerr and John Teahon Hold That Record in Chicago Postoffice.

Uncle Sam has many faithful servants in different parts of his domain, but none will be found any place more faithful nor older in point of service than two who have handled mail in Chicago nearly a lifetime—John Teahon, transfer clerk of mails at the Illinois Central station, and James G. Kerr, of the mailing division of the Chicago postoffice. In point of Government service Mr. Kerr precedes Mr. Teahon by a few years, having received his appointment March 1, 1850, at Painesville, Ohio. Millard Fillmore was then occupying the Presidential chair. Mr. Kerr handled letter mail in Cleveland, Chicago, Pittsburg, Washington, D. C., Norfolk, Va., Washington again and Richmond, Va., before coming to Chicago permanently in 1854.

TEAHON. KERR.

Mr. Kerr is 70 years old. Mr. Teahon was appointed to his position—the same he holds to-day—in 1856, the closing year of President Pierce's administration, making an uninterrupted service of forty-two years.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Photo-Getter.

The craze for illustration has created a new occupation, that of the photograph-getter. The photograph-getter accumulates a collection of rare likenesses and rents them out at so much a head, to be used for illustrating articles. People who are known to be approachable are not worth so much in the field as those who are suspected of objecting to notoriety. The pictures of conspicuous society women who are frequently heard to declare that they would not give their photographs to anybody for publication, are rated in New York at $5, or perhaps as high as $7. Those of women whose features have appeared once or twice in proximity to type bring only $2.50, but all have a value. Only pictures of professionals are valueless to the photograph-getter. They are a drug in the market, no matter how unique or artistic. The photograph-getter should be, if not actually in the swim, at least close on the verge. Here five-dollar and seven-dollar photographs can be secured only by consummate diplomacy. "I've turned in six photographs this week," said a veteran of the craft to a Sun reporter the other day; "all never published before. How do I get them? By simply going on my knees to the people and eating whole slices of humble pie. Do I write much? Oh, I don't write at all. I couldn't, with all that is on my mind. After all, the writing does not signify; it is the illustration that is the main point."—Argonaut.

New Use of the Kangaroo.

Surgeons at Oakland, on the bay opposite San Francisco, have resorted to the use of kangaroo tendons to tie up the fractured bones of a broken leg, in order that the patient may have use of his knee while the bones are knitting together, says an exchange. He is a painter, and this is the second time he has broken a bone of his left leg in the same place. "To reset the fracture and place the limb in a plaster cast until the bone knits would destroy the use of the knee joint," said Dr. Stratton. "The knee had already become somewhat stiff from the first setting. We have decided to make an incision in the leg at the point of the fracture of the bone and will bore holes in the broken bones. Through the holes we will draw kangaroo tendons, and they will hold the bones together until they knit, without the use of plaster cast about the knee. This will enable the knee to be bent each day while the bone is knitting. Kangaroo tendon is as strong as silver wire. It is taken from the tail of the kangaroo, and being animal in its nature it is absorbed, and the leg does not have to be again cut open, as is necessary when silver wire is used."

A Natural Death.

They were telling stories with a wide range of locality, and, perhaps, probability, and the name of Col. Tom Stuart as a famous Kentucky story teller and man-around-the-State came up.

"What ever became of the Colonel?" inquired a statesman.

"He went west and batted around there for several years, and then came back to Kentucky."

"Is he still living?"

"Oh, no. Been dead twenty years."

"Didn't die a natural death, did he?"

"Yes."

"You don't say! I never would have thought it."

"Yes. He got into a scrap over politics and the other fellow shot him on the spot."

The listener showed his surprise.

"Shot?" he exclaimed. "Why, I thought you said he died a natural death."

"That's what I did say."

"Then how in thunder do——"

"Hold on!" interrupted the other man. "You seem to forget that we are talking about Kentucky."

A Hall of American History.

Steps are being taken at the National Museum in Washington to carry out an idea long contemplated of developing a hall of American history. Prof. Goode had long cherished the idea, and Prof. Holmes, who is in charge of the department of anthropology, is equally enthusiastic. It is the purpose to have the institution as nearly national in its character as possible, and every effort will be made to have as many things in it relating to early American history, that of the United States in particular, as can be obtained. The objects and relics will be presented chronologically, beginning with the period when Leif Ericsson, in his Viking ship, visited America. Then will follow, in order, Columbus, the Pilgrims, Capt. John Smith's party, the Dutch and other settlers, after which will come relics of the rebellion. There will also be exhibits of the growth in facilities of navigation and of railroading, and of the remarkable advance in the use of electricity.—New York Evening Post.

FLASHES OF FUN.

Arthur—Are you sure she loves you? Jack—Yes; when I told her I had no money to marry on, she asked me if I couldn't borrow some.—Tid-Bits.

Mrs. Howes—I don't know what we are going to do. There is not a thing in the house to eat. Uncle George—You might take boarders.—Boston Transcript.

Irascible Lieutenant (down engine-room tube)—Is there a blithering idiot at the end of this tube? Voice from the engine-room—Not at this end, sir.—Punch.

Rural Ragges—Say, Tatts, do you think it's right to raise the price of beer? Tramping Tatters—I've been trying to raise the price of one for a week.—Life.

"Vot's der dog's name, little girl?" "It used to be 'Fido,' but I changed it to 'Dewey' so the pleeceman would let him run on the grass and have a good time."—Truth.

Cholly—Yaas, sevewal years ago I fell deeply in love with a girl, but she wejected me—made a wegular fool of me, Molly—And you never got over it?—Brooklyn Life.

May—The horrid wretch kissed her. Florry—Well, what matter? May—Why, you see, he was a soldier hero and she wanted to kiss him.—Philadelphia North American.

Subscriber—How is it that you have printed that long poem three times in your columns? Editor—Well, really, I didn't suppose anyone would find it out.—Fliegende Blatter.

"I understand you want to hire a housemaid?" "That must be a mistake. I do all my own work." "Too bad! It would be just the sort of place that I'd like."—Heitere Welt.

Stubbly (with conviction)—I don't believe in that young doctor. Nurse—Why not? Stubbly—Well, the medicine he gives doesn't taste bad enough to do any good.—Boston Globe.

Looking Forward.—Mrs. Noear—Do you think my daughter will be a musician? Professor—I gant say. She may. She dell me she gome of a long-lived family.—New York Weekly.

"My impression is," oracularly began the tall boarder, "that Spain is going to cede——" "It would be more correct," interrupted the solemn boarder, "to say she has gone to seed."—Judge.

Miss Sheafe—Oh! just look at that wheat rising and falling in the breeze. How beautiful it is. Mr. Cityman—Ah, but you ought to see it rising and falling in the corn exchange.—Tid-Bits.

"Before we were married you used to write me three letters a day." "Did I, really?" "Yes, you did; and now you get angry just because I ask you to write me a little bit of a check."—Tid-Bits.

Jones (leaving for Europe)—When I'm in Rome I'll do as the Romans do. Smith—Indeed you won't. You'll do as the Americans do—pay twice as much for everything as anyone else would.—Puck.

"Here, boy," said the man, "throw away that cigarette and smoke a cigar." "Yasser," replied the urchin. "Say, mister, I got a whole pack of cigarettes in me pocket."—Philadelphia North American.

A Matrimonial Venture.—Blinkers—Hello, Winkers. I hear you married a woman with an independent fortune. Winkers (sadly)—N-o; I married a fortune with an independent woman.—New York Weekly.

"Since Mrs. Black has been a widow," he suggested, "it seems to me she looks younger." "Of course," she replied. "It is more necessary now that she should." Thus do women betray each other.—Chicago Post.

"I understand you won the blue ribbon, so to speak, in the examination for the civil service." "I—ah—would hardly call it that," answered the mild young man. "Let us say I won the red tape."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Now that you have lost your job as surgeon in the regiment, what do you expect to do?" "Oh, I'm all right. I've opened up a little office just around the corner from a foot-ball-playing college."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

"I am always grateful to my parents for the musical education they gave me," said Willie Washington. "But you never sing." "No. Thanks to my thoughtful parents, I know enough about music not to try."—Washington Star.

Jack—Let's play house. I'll be the father and you be the mother. Dolly—Yes, and I'll come to you and ask you for money to buy a new dress. Jack—Yes, there you go! That's just you! You always want to do something to raise a fight.—Puck.

"Mamma," said little Freddie one evening, "may I go out on the street with the other boys and look at the comet?" "No, dear," replied his mother; "I'm afraid you might get hurt." "No, I won't, mamma," he answered; "I won't go any ways near it."—Buffalo News.

Hattie—Then we went to Scotland. It is perfectly wonderful the way they talk the dialect. Uncle George—Why, wonderful? Hattie—I should think they'd forget now and then and drop into English. I often do when I'm reciting Burns or playing golf.—Boston Transcript.

"Yes," the fair young girl went on, "we are engaged, but I do not think I should have accepted him if he had not proposed in such a delightful manner." "What did he say?" "He asked if I would permit him to add an engagement ring to my collection."—Harper's Bazar.

Red and Dark Hair.

Dark hair and complexion, in races as well as in individuals, signify strength. Dark-skinned races are always behind the lighter hue peoples in fine civilization, because the physical predominates among them to the exclusion of the mental. Coarse red hair indicates marvelous physical endurance.

"I hear you are to give a party, Mrs. Hooligan?" "Yes, Mrs. Mulligan, I am, and I've been everywhere tryin' to get some of that 'pink tea' ye reads so much about."—Truth.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...DECEMBER 29, 1898.

DAUGHTER

Editor Campbell Made Happy by the Arrival of a Girl.

[Anderson Democrat Dec. 27.]

To Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Campbell at 7:30 this morning at their home in Fair Ground a daughter was born.

The child is a bright, healthy one and the mother bright, cheerful and smiling.

To Bro. Campbell the newspaper fraternity in particular and the public in general extend the utmost congratulations.

(A letter to the COURIER editor from Mr. Campbell speaks of this happy event in most exultant terms, and says mother and baby are doing most excellently. The COURIER, on behalf of the fraternity and the numerous friends up this way joins heartily in congratulations.)

Lutheran Ladies Aid.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Lutheran church will meet with Mrs. Simp Johnson on Friday afternoon of this week at 2:30 prompt. A full attendance is requested, as there will be election of officers.

SECRETARY.

Bismarck's Iron Nerve.

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, and Bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develope every power of brain and body. Only 25 cents at H. B. McCord's Drugstore.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Lawyer Jackman of Angola, was in the city today.

—TO RENT:—Furnished rooms. Inquire at the Bradford.

—Rev. and Mrs. Colvin are visiting relatives near St. John.

—FOR SALE:—A fine Jersey heifer Call on A. G. Lodewick north of town.

—Commissioner Shoemaker has our thanks for his usual business visit today.

—D. E. Dilgard, at Ashley has thanks for a remittance on subscription.

—Alfred McIntosh and R. S. S. Reed have thanks for subscription advanced to next summer.

—Miss Lizzie Cloy of Butler is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bartles of this city, for a few days.

—M. Kiplinger, of Waterloo, is another who has paid his COURIER up to 1900. This roll of honor is rapidly growing.

—The C. E. of the Presbyterian church will give a social of Friday evening of next week Jan. 6. Further notices will be given.

—The American National Bank at Lima, Ohio, was robbed of over $18,000 Sunday night, by some one who got the vault door open. No clue.

—LOST:—A Buggy Robe between John Hebel's residence and stable. Finder will confer a favor to owner by leaving same at Hebel Bros stose. 3-t —STRAYED:—One ewe lamb; was last seen at Mr. Foster's on the Philip Fluke farm. Parties knowing anything about such property please inform H. C. Shull.

—FOR SALE:—The St. Clair farm, know as the Hay farm, in Concord township, seven miles southeast of Auburn. For terms, etc., inquire of A. M. St. Clair, Auburn, Ind.

—Soothing, healing, cleansing, DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is the implacable enemy of sores, burns and wounds. It never fails to cure Piles. You may rely upon it. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—C. M. Dickinson, of Tecumseh, Mich., was here yesterday in company with his father, S. Z. Dickinson, of Waterloo. Charlie has rented his meat market at that place and is taking a lay off for a year.

—A double accident was the misfortune of Joel E. Thompson and wife, up in Smithfield, Christmas day. Mr. Thompson fell and broke his thigh and his wife hurried to his assistance, when she also fell and was severely cut on the head.

MARRIED:—By Rev. E. E. Campbell, at his residence in Corunna, Dec. 25, 1898, Emery Treesh and Miss Iva M. DeWitt. And on the same date Henry Ober and Miss Katie Lash, all of Richland township. The COURIER joins in congratulations to both couples.

—The most wonderful run of business in that line, is registered for the Bazar Store, at least, as far as holiday trade is concerned. And in a general way it has steadily increased its business from the start. Mr. Nebelung evidently knows how to conduct the business.

—Constipation prevents the body from ridding itself of waste matter, DeWitt's Little Early Risers will remove the trouble and cure Sick Headace, Biliousness. Inactive Liver and clear the complexion. Small, sugar coated, don't gripe or cause nausea. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—LOST:—On the road between Sedan and John Sheffer's, near Feagler's Corners, on Saturday Dec. 24 a purse, with a small sum of money, a pension voucher and other articles Finder will be suitably rewarded by returning or sending word to the loser, Mrs. Schrader, at Sedan.

—The commissioners of Hendricks county when their county treasurer had served his two years in November turned him off and appointed a new one to serve to Jan. 1. Now the supreme court has decided that the old one should have served till Jan. 1. But as he is now a bankrupt, and in the hands of the federal authorities, he can't serve. Therefore Hendricks county is without a treasurer till the next Monday.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

TO THE TAX PAYERS OF DE KALB COUNTY.

I hereby submit to you a list of the allowances made by the Board of Commissioners at their November special and December regular terms, 1898.

NOVEMBER SPECIAL TERM.

ACCOUNT OF ELECTION.

A W Madden, Union township	$221 45
W S Oancer, Jackson tp	47 65
J M Finch, Richland tp	94 25
Jos Huet, Fairfield tp	46 65
Ed Kelham, Keyser tp	289 38
J D Beard, Franklin tp	89 25
R H Sherlock, Fairfield tp	41 65
A E Chapman, Newville tp	47 54
N T Jackman, Smithfield tp	87 57
J H Moore, Wilmington tp	42 45
G W Crooks, Grant tp	134 35
Wm Maxwell, Concord tp	39 00
A N Thrush, Butler tp	48 80
J J Eakright, Wilmington, tp	220 77
M C Sheets, Jackson tp	38 90
M F Long, expense of securing state ballots	14 70
M F Long, expense of election	53 71

ACCOUNT OF COMMISSIONERS SALARY.

J W Bateman	14 00
I Gunsenhouser	14 00
E R Shoemaker	63 00
J W Bateman	49 00
I Gunsenhouser	49 00

ACCOUNT OF ROADS AND BRIDGES.

A W Madden, salary Supt. Kruse bridge	16 50
A J Mason & Son, two cars stone	74 00

ACCOUNT OF PRINTING.

A J Little,	12 30

ACCOUNT OF ELECTION.

G W Gordon, printing ballots and notices	106 61

DECEMBER TERM, 1898.

ACCOUNT OF SALARY.

M F Long	$600 00
F M Hines	14 10
F P Seiler	76 82
F A Borst	561 70
M C Jones	375 00
J H W Krontz	232 00
H P Stroh	556 64
H E Coe	304 00
R W Guilford	90 00
S H Hine	525 00
C M Phillips	25 00

ACCOUNT OF MDSE. FOR COUNTY ASYLUM.

H B McCord	7 50
A Bartles	18 50
Culbertson & Boland	18 06
Hebel Bros	7 30
Schaab & Bro	37 65
F A Hoff	19 33
Bishop & Beidler	16 15
Jas Mahan	1 90
O E Clay	10 30
Sheffer & Chaney	8 16
Pioneer Hardware Co	16 91
F F Shaffer	28 50
M E Garrett	8 48
F E Davenport	3 50

ACCOUNT OF MEDICAL AID COUNTY ASYLUM.

Dr D A Sebring	2 00
Dr F M Hines	3 00

ACCOUNT OF LABOR COUNTY ASYLUM.

Lizzie Shatto	32 50
J Anthony	54 00
Alice Mortimer	26 00

ACCOUNT OF SALARY OF SUPT. COUNTY ASYLUM.

A Bartles	150 00

ACCOUNT OF AID FURNISHED ON ACCOUNT OF POOR.

JACKSON TOWNSHIP.

BY WHOM FURNISHED.	TO WHOM FURNISHED.
Geo Mitchel	Mrs Effie Owens	8 00

CONCORD TOWNSHIP.

Schaab & Bro	David Wasson	5 60
Dr B S Sheffer	Jas Howey	19 50

NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.

O D Imhoff	John Pressler	4 50
Orlin Hatch	John Pressler	12 00
Griest Bros	Susan Parks	10 48
A E Chapman	Birdsell Darling	29 77

UNION TOWNSHIP.

A W Madden, trustee,	salary	13 00
do do	cash advanced	9 71
Emmet Kosht	Wm Dirrim	9 45
do	Eliza Hayse	2 10
do	Emma Conley	5 35
do	Mary Hodson	6 90
do	Jane Howey	8 10
Dr I O Buchtel	Mrs Emma Nichols	21 00
John Kruger	Mrs Fred Smith	12 00
Wm Kruger	do	9 60
Hebel Bros	Mrs Nichols	3 99
do	Jane Howey	9 81
D J Swarts	Geo Gregg	8 00
do	Mrs Bertha Miser	17 00
O E Clay	Mrs Chester Hodge	4 23
do	Henry Cloy	12 50
F A Hoff	Eliza Hayse	2 33
do	Chas Gulic	1 61
do	Mrs Conley	1 57
do	Mary Hodson	5 83
Baxter Bros	F Sponhouer	1 50
do	Geo Stebing	2 87
do	Tramps	1 62
S S Potter	John Kimmel	4 68
do	Wm Gulic	12 44
M E Garrett	Wm Dirrim	9 00
do	Earn Webb	18 00
Dr W H Nusbaum	Wm Gulic	20 50
Dr Z H Stamets	Earn Webb	40 00

RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.

W H Crane	V Rohm	7 50
do	Isaac Tryon	5 00
Hebel Bros	Jos Reeder	6 20
Dr A F Phillips	Gordon Nye	19 25
do	Mrs Humberger	12 25
Dr D A Sebring	Jos Reeder	9 25
Dr F Snyder	Mrs Ed Pairan	14 50
Dr O F Rudolph	Sam'l Stout	4 25
do	Phoeba Knox	16 00
do	Robert Parmeter	6 75
do	Gordon Nye	12 00

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.

J C Miller	C A Shatto	10 00
W F Krahn	Mrs Chas Martin	4 85
O F Rudolph	Mrs Ann Martin	16 50
do	Sam'l Stout	3 50
Jos Huet, trustee,	salary	6 00
A Shaftstall	C A Shatto	12 00
Henry Stomm	Polly Hosler	12 00

SMITHFIELD TOWNSHIP.

J C Boyer & Co	Cyrus Crocker	17 42

TROY TOWNSHIP.

W Eddy	Susan Davis	20 00

KEYSER TOWNSHIP.

S Tonnison	Mrs Grubb	13 50
A Young, cemetery lot for soldiers		30 00
Jos Singler	Byron Snyder	5 16
do	Henry Strouse	2 00
do	Mrs Bassie	9 35
do	Mrs Hemery	8 00
Ed Kelham, trustee, salary		13 00
S Tonneson	Mrs Butler	13 25
J P Strouse, medical aid to poor as per contract		53 33
Wm Y Johnson	Mrs Bassie	3 90

GRANT TOWNSHIP.

G W Crooks, salary		3 50
do	Jas Booth's children	1 85
do	Chas Monisend's children	60
do	Hattie Baker	80

ACCOUNT OF MISCELLANEOUS POOR.

W R Coburn, care of Frank Coburn	12 50
Anna Hammon, care of daughter	12 50

ACCOUNT OF MISCELLANEOUS.

Smith Premier Typewriter Co., repairing typewriter	4 25
M F Long, making reports	4 50
C A Potter, working prisoners	9 00
Ed VanFleit, reporting justice fines	1 25
National Telephone Co., telephone service	15 00
John Yarde	2 35
C R Reed, reporting justice fines	1 25
J H Rose, legal services	20 00
H P Stroh, services serving notices	96 95
M Boland, cash advanced for supplies	5 75
Marion Cramar, labor with team	5 36
R W Guilford, cleaning vault	16 00
M B Willis, desk racks	2 50
Olds Bros., mdse for jail	75
Ed VanFleit, reporting justice fines	1 25
Lewis Berry, reporting justice fines	1 45
S H Hine, cleaning time lock in safe, treasurer's office	15 00
S H Hine, cash advanced to asylums	297 48
F F Shaffer, repairs on chairs	1 50
Dan'l Stomm, reporting justice fines	2 65

ACCOUNT OF INQUESTS.

W F Shumaker, et al, on body of W B Hill	12 35
E V Campbell, et al, on body of Jess Chaney	21 15
E V Campbell, et al, on body of Mrs John Harrison	21 30
W F Shumaker, et al, on body of Bert Duncan	14 55
E V Campbell, et al, on body of E A Watson	14 30
W F Shumaker, on body of Miss Charles	6 60

ACCOUNT OF DITCH.

Geo Duncan	10 00
J H W Krontz	30 00

ACCOUNT OF CRIMINALS.

H P Stroh, boarding	263 90
S H Hine, cash adv'd H P Stroh to locate escaped prisoners	25 00
Schaab & Murphy, clothing	3 30

ACCOUNT OF ROADS AND BRIDGES.

Allen Schultz, repairing Perky bridge	94 00
J H W Krontz, engineer on Richards road	3 70

ACCOUNT OF LIGHTS AND FUEL.

G A Mader, coal	60 72

ACCOUNT OF PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Wm Murphy, white washing jail	4 25
Pioneer Hardware Co., mdse	38 27
Brandon & Long, repairs on jail	2 50
Culbertson & Boland, mdse	11 32
F E Davenport, mdse	39 90

ACCOUNT OF ELECTION.

Wm Norris		2 00
H D Webster, expense of election in Stafford township		39 00
J W Henderson,	do Concord tp	84 35
G W Crooks,	do Grant tp	2 00
H P Stroh, serving and posting notices of election		66 50
M F Long, express on ballots		5 95
W Eddy, expense of election in Troy township		41 85
G W Crooks,	do Grant tp	45
J W Brown,	do Franklin tp	46 95

ACCOUNT OF STATIONERY AND PRINTING.

G W Gordon	1 25
H B McCord	1 00
H E Coe	8 96
J A Barns	17 80
W B Burford	365 50
The Stakalta Pen Co	10 50
S H Hine	11 50
F E Davenport	50
S H Hine	18 10
J H W Krontz	8 50

ACCOUNT OF COMMISSIONERS SALARY.

E R Shoemaker	31 50
Isaac Gunsenhouser	31 50
Allen Shultz	31 50

Respectfully submitted,

FRANK P. SEILER,

Auditor.

Auburn, Indiana, Dec. 24, 1898.

A Chistmas Tree

At our school house District No. 8 Fairfield township on Saturday 24, 1898 in the afternoon. We began our program, consisting of recitations, songs and dialogues, with a welcome song by the school and a welcome address by Miss Mila Depew. All the recitations were carefully selected and proved interesting to all present. Immediately at the close of the last recitation Santa Claus' rap was heard at the door and without a moment's delay he walked into the school room. His presents and treat he sent the day before, that we might have them on the tree for him to distribute when he came. These with the presents our teacher, Isaiah O. Reinoehl, permitted us to put on the tree for each other and for him, made the tree look very beautiful. Old Santa was quite spry for so old a man. He did his work very well. Our teacher called off the names and old Santa delivered the presents. At the close of this Santa seemed to be in a hurry to go to the next place and he left a short time before we were dismissed. We all had a very pleasant time.

MISS EFFIE DELLENBACH.

Remarkable Rescue.

Mrs. Michael Curtain, Plainfield, Ill., makes the statement, that she caught cold, which settled on her lungs; she was treated for a month by her family physician, but grew worse. He told her she was a hopeless victim of consumption and that no medicine could cure her. Her druggist suggested Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; she bought a bottle and to her delight found herself benefitted from the first dose. She continued its use and after taking six bottles, found herself sound and well; now does her own housework, and is as well as she ever was.—Free trial bottles of this Great Discovery at H. B. McCord's Drug Store. Only 50 cents and $1.00, every bottle guaranteed.

SHERFF'S SALE

By virture of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Union National Savings and Loan Association is plaintiff and Frank M. Rush, Mary Rush, Michael Boland, James M. Osborn, Lewis A. Osborn, Abner Lewis, Grace Rush, Bessie Rush, Effie Rush, Zella Rush, and Ruth Rush are defendants requiring me make the sum of one thousand two hundred and four dollars and seventy-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Saturday, Jauuary 21, A. D. 1899

The east one half (½) of lot number sixty-six in Western Addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws. 3

JOHN H. HATHAWAY.
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana

E. D HARTMAN.
Attorney for Plain iff.

December 27th 1898.

More Than All Others.

ROME CITY, IND.

Dr. C. D. Warner, Coldwater, Mich.

Dear Sir—It gives me great pleasure in recommending your White Wine of Tar Syrup to the public as an excellent cough cure I have sold over a gross within a short time and always warrant a cure and have never had a bottle returned I sell more of your White Wine of Tar Syrup than all other cough remedies I keep in stock. I sold one dozen bottles to one of my customers. Resp'y yours, J. P. CHAPMAN.

Story of a Salve.

To be bound hand and foot for years by the claims of disease is the worst form of slavery. George D. Williams, of Manchester, Mich., tells how such a slave was made free. He says: "My wife has been so helpless for five years that she could not turn over in bed alone. After using two bottles of Electric Bitters, she is wonderfully improved and able to do her own work.' This supreme remedy for female diseases quickly cures nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, headache, fainting and dizzy spells. This miracle working medicine is a godsend to weak, sickly, run down people. Every bottle guaranteed. Only 50 cents. Sold by H. B. McCord the Druggist.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

The undersigned administrator of the estate of James Brinzenhoff, deceased will sell the personal property of said estate on

Saturday, January 21, 1899

Beginning at 10 A. M, consisting of coal stove, bedsteads and bedding, 8-day clock, new commode, bureau book cases, and books consisting of law, medical and religious books, family refrigerator, dishes and tin ware, cook stove and utensils, round oak heating stove, tricycle, Belgian hone, lot of paving brick, and many other articles too numerous to mention.

TERMS OF SALE. All sums of $5 and under, cash; On sums over $5 a credit of three months, with interest if paid when due. If not paid when due 6 per cent from date. Note with approved security.

3 JACOB WALBORN,
Administrator

New Years Social.

The ladies of the south section of the M. E. church will give a New Year's social in the basement on Saturday of this week, Dec. 31, from 5 to 7.

BILL OF FARE.

Turkey with oyster dressing, chicken, mashed potatoes and gravy, cream slaw, cranberry sauce, pickles, jelly, cake, pumpkin and mince pies, biscuit and butter, tea and coffee.

All are invited to come and enjoy this tempting bill of fare and close the year with a friendly visit and good time, generally.

Volcanic Eruptions.

Are grand, but Skin eruptions rob life of joy. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, cures them, also Old, running and Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, Warts, Cuts, Bruises, Burnes, Soalds, Chapped Hands Chilblains. Best Pile cure on earth. Drives out Pains and Aches. Only 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord the Druggist.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Henrietta Snutt deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

PRICE D. WEST,
Administrator.

December 16, 1898.

Inopportune Convalescence.

Bessie—"I thought Nellie Sanderson was to have been married last week." Jessie—"So she was, but Charlie's rich aunt, who had been given up, is getting well again."—Harlem Life.

The Queen's Drives.

The queen's coachman never knows where he is to drive until her majesty is actually seated in the carriage. This rule has been in force ever since the queen ascended the throne.

Well Read and Illustrated.

"Her husband is the tattooed man. She says she knows him like a book." "Oh! A marked copy, no doubt."—Cleveland Leader.

Beautifying Visions.

"How did you get such a pleasant expression on that ugly Miss Passe's portrait?" "I got her to telling me about men she might have married."—Brooklyn Life.

OUR GOODS FOR YOUR CASH.

!!Slaughter Sale of Boots, Shoes and Rubbers!!

We have entirely too large a stock of Boots, Shoes, Felts, Mackinaw Sox and Rubbers. Therefore we are going to reduce our stock $3,000 in the next sixty days, and to do this we realize that we will have to "Slaughter Prices" and are prepared to do it.

Our Loss is Your Gain.

We can be of mutual benefit to each other in this way: "You need our goods, we need your cash." Let's clicker. Remember our entire stock is included in this sale.

"Some Money Saving Prices on Your Winter Foot Wear."

Sample No. 1. All our Men's Patent Leather and Enamel Shoes, coin and pointed toes, go at $2 00 the pair, former price $5.00 to $6.00.

Sample No. 2. All our very newest Patent Leather Shoes, the latest last and toes, go at $3.98, former price $5 00.

Sample No. 3. Our entire stock of Men's Box, Caribou, Willow, Titan and Russia Calf Shoes, in black or tan shades, calf and kid lined, go at $3 95, former price $4 50.

Sample No. 4. Every pair of our $3.00 and $3.50 Winter Shoes in tan and black, go at $2.58.

Sample No. 5. Men's Felt Boots and good high rubbers at $1.98 worth $2.25. Best Felt and Best Rubber the outfit for $2.35, worth $2.75. Best Knit Boot made with the genuine "Lumbertville Rubbers" the original and only "Snag Proof" Rubbers made, go at $3.00, some stores ask $3.50. Rubber Boots $2.40. Non Snag's $3.00.

Sample No. 6. Men's French Kip, custom made "Walker Boots" go at $3 00 for single sole and $3 50 for double sole and tan. You could not get a better boot made to order for $5 00. High and low instep

Boy's "Walker Boot" $2 50 for single sole, $2.75 for double sole and tap, same stock as the Men's.

Our $3.00 Kip Boot go at $2.50, Oil Grain $3.00 Boot for $2 50.

Boy's $2 25 Kip Boot for $1.75. Good Boy's Boot $1.50. Child's $1.25.

Sample No. 7. Ladies' warm lined and Felt Shoes, all Felt or Leather Foxed, six kinds in this lot at $1.38.

Sample No. 8. Ladies' warm house Slippers. Quilted, Fur Trimmed, the warmest, prettiest and most comfortable you have ever seen for 97c.

Our $1 50 line, handsome Juliets, Fur Trimmed, tan and black at $1.25.

Sample No. 9. 200 Pairs Ladies' "Common Sense" Hand Turned Shoes, go at $1.95, former price $3.00 to $3.50 Now is your chance to get a good Home Shoe, "Komfort for Korns," at less than the cost of manufacture.

Sample No. 10. 150 Pairs Misses' and Children's Winter Shoes, heavy and substantial at 75c and 98c, former price $1.50 to $2 00, sizes 8, 12, 12½, 13, 13½, 1, 1½ and 2. Better shoes for wear never were made.

Sample No. 11. The balance of our stock of the celebrated "Crack Proof" shoes for Misses, go at $1.25, former price $1 50. Ladies' and Boys' sizes $1.50, was $1.75.

Ask Your Neighbor About Them.

We mean every word of this advertisement, bring it with you and see for yourself. You will be kindly and courteously treated and we will appreciate your trade as no one else can.

Our Motto: Good Quality, Honest Quantity;
Sell Cheap, Sell a Heap,
And Keep Everlastingly at it.

Bishop & Beidler,

(Raut & Co.'s Old Stand.)

Auburn, Ind.

Winter Is At Hand.

You don't need to wait until the thermometer registers 25 degrees below zero before you are convinced that winter is near at hand. You may as well acknowledge it at once! Winter is here and you need something in our line. We have them to sell at

PRICES THAT WILL SATISFY YOU

And when in need of

Stoves	Snow Shovels,
Stove Pipe	Hand Sleds,
Stove Boards	Burton Logging
Dampers	Bobs,
Registers	Sleighs,
Saws, Axes	Sleigh Bells,
Wedges, Sledges	Sled Runners,
Meat Cutters	Sled Soles,
Lard Presses	Corn Shellers
Loaded Shells
Shot Guns
Horse Blankets
Weather Strips
Oil Cloth Rugs

We would be pleased to have you call and see us. We are the sole agents in Auburn for the Celebrated Wilson Heating Machines, the latest and most economical stove out.

Culbertson & Boland,

AUBURN, IND.

THE BISHOP & LACKEY CO.

AUBURN, IND.

CONTEMPLATING a change in the firm at the close of the year we will commence a Stock Reducing Sale,

Thursday, Dec. 1, 1898,

and continuing during the entire month. Prices have been adjusted on many lines without regard to profit. We have given many successful Special Sales, but propose to make this a RECORD BREAKER. We are not offering a job lot of trashy merchandise, but new dependable goods such as this firm has made its reputation by handling, and at a time when they are wanted.

Special provisions made for prompt service.

Ladies' Suits and Wraps

This has been one of the busy departments during the past month. But fresh arrivals have filled the gaps. We are showing perhaps 300 garments. Can not describe them all. The stock consists of Children's Jackets, 4 to 12 years. This seasons latest production.
Regular price.....2 00 to 6.75

Misses, 14 to 18 years, in rough and smooth goods in black and colors.
Regular price.....3.50 to 10.00

Ladies' Jackets in Black Kersey and Astrakhan. Late styles.
Worth.....6.50 to 15.00

Ladies' Astrakhan, plain and crushed Plush Capes.
Regular price....5.00 to 18.00

On all the above stock we will give during this sale a discount of 25 per cent.

Hosiery

Ladies' fast black fleeced lined Cotton Hose.
Per pair..... 15 and 25c

Ladies' black ribbed and plain Wool Hose. Extra quality.
Per pair.....25c

Children's fast black heavy ribbed Cotton Hose. All sizes.
Per pair.....10c

Children's black Wool Hose. Narrow and wide ribbed. All sizes 5 to 8½; good value at 25c.
Now.....19c

Men's heavy Wool ½ Hose in grey and blue mixed. A 35c value.
Sale price.....25c

Holiday Handkerchiefs

No time in the year when you can find such values and selections as now.

See our line of Men's white and colored borders at 8, 10, 12½ and 15c The best your money could buy.

Men's all Linen Hemstitched Handkerchiefs in wide and narrow hems at 10, 12½, 15, 20, 25, 35 and 50c. The best we have ever sold at these prices.

Dainty Embroidered Handkerchiefs such a variety at 5, 10, 12½, 15, 20c, and on up to $1.00 each. Just perfectly lovely. You will be carried away by their attractiveness.

Carpets

Half wool Carpets. Nice patterns. Regular 60c goods.
Sale price per yard.....40c

5 rolls all wool extra super Ingrain Carpets. Regular 50c goods.
Now.....45c

4 rolls Tapestry Carpets, worth 75c.
Sale price.....50c

3 rolls each Axminster and body Brussel Carpets. Cheap at $1.00.
Sale price.....75c

Underwear

Children's Pants and Vests; sizes 16 to 34. Each.....10 to 25c

Ladies' ribbed fleeced lined Vests and Pants; a bargain at 25c.
Now.....21c

Ladies' Jersey Ribbed Vests and Pants; sizes 4 to 7's. Regular 50c goods.
Each.....33c

Ladies' Natural Wool Vests and Pants; $1.00 value. Now.....75c

Child's Cotton Flannel Drawers; lace trimmed; 10 cent values. Now...6¼c

Child's Union Suits; worth $1 00.
Now.....50c

Child's Jersey Ribbed All Wool Pants and Vests; worth 50c. Now.....35c

Men's Grey Random Shirts and Drawers; worth 35c. Now.....23c

Men's Natural Half-wool Shirts and Drawers; worth 50c each.
Now per suit.....75c

Men's Cotton Fleeced; worth 50c.
Now 45c each or per suit.....85c

Men's Natural Wool Shirts and Drawers; all sizes; worth each 75c.
Now.....55c

Ladies' and Gents' Outing Gowns, in neat stripes, large collar, good value at $1.00. Now.....75c

Misses Outing Gowns, the 75c kind.
Now.....50c

Children's Gowns sold all season at 50c. Now.....39c

Silk Waists

We have just received another lot of those beautiful Silk and Satin Waists. Just in time for the Holidays. See them while making your selections for Christmas presents.

"Flannelette" Waists and Wrappers. Good assortment at low prices.

Blankets

10-4 Cotton Blankets in Grey; worth 50c. Sale price.....40c

11-4 Blankets in grey, tan and white; worth $1.25. Sale price.....1.00

11-4 Grey Half-wool Blankets; weight full five pounds; $1.75 values.
Now.....1.25

10-4 All-Wool Blankets.....2.50

11-4 All-Wool Blankets, in white and colors.....3 00 3.50 & 4.00

Domestics

Nice line dark Prints, 5c quality.
Goes during this sale at.....3½c

Good heavy yard wide unbleached Muslin. Price.....3c

Dark and light Outings; 6c value.
Price per yard.....4c

9-4 Sheeting; 16c value.
Per yard.....12c

5-4 Table Oil Cloth.
Per yard.....10c

Gloves & Mittens

Children's Mittens 10, 15, 20 & 25c.

Ladies' Mittens in plain and fancy.
.....15, 25, 35 & 50c.

One lot Men's gloves in calf and hog skin; lined and unlined; values 75c to $1 25. Now.....50c

Calf Skin Mittens; warm lined; regular $1.00 quality. Now.....50c

Pontiac Mittens; buckskin covered; worth $1.25. Now.....75c

Heavy Fulled Mittens, worth 50c.
Now.....39c

Holiday Novelties

Pillow Covers in new and pretty designs.

Dresser Covers,
Pillow Shams,
Lunch Cloths,
Table Linens,
White Quilts,
Jewelry,
Fancy Combs,
Ladies' and Gents' Purses and Pocketbooks,
Ladies' and Gents' Ties, Scarfs, Bows, Scarf and Hat Pins,
Fur Collarettes,
Muffs,
Ladies' and Gents' Umbrellas, etc.

It pays to trade at the big store of

The Bishop & Lackey Co.,

AUBURN, IND.

IDEAL MUSIC,

"Sweet as the angel Israfil's,
When every leaf on Eden's tree
Was trembling to his minstrelsy."

can be produced from an EBERSOLE PIANO. The Ebersole possesses a tone that no other maker has been able to imitate—being full and deep, yet with that clear singing quality which stamps it the peer of all upright pianos for homes of culture and refinement.

Frank B. Long,
119 Calhoun-St. cor Washington,
Fort Wayne, Ind.

WE GIVE ANY LADY

or man, who will take orders for our Leghorn Hen Food, in their own town,

A SOLID GOLD WATCH, FREE

We make this offer for a short time in order to get our Food into more general use. It increases yield of eggs, and keeps fowl in good health. Send us 50c. for a regular $1.00 size box, and begin to take orders at once.

Pamphlet, with more information about hens, sent on receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address
Leghorn Food Co.(311-M)Boston, Mass.

Do You Know!

THAT WE have the only Set of Abstracts of Titles to Lands in this county?

THAT WE can sell your farm or town property, or buy for you in the desired locality such a farm or residence as you want?

THAT WE make long-time loans on the most favorable terms on either farm or town property. Money in bank with which to close farm loans on the day applied for if the title and securety is all right?

THAT WE are making exchanges of all kinds of property; have big farms for little ones; have farms for town property; have farms for stocks of goods and can fit you on almost any kind of trade?

THAT IF you want an Abstract of Title to your lot or land; want a loan; to buy a home or sell one; want a trade of any kind, it will be to your advantage to call on or write us about it?

SPROTT & KNAPP,

Office in Gandy Block, Ground Floor,

AUBURN, IND.

Call For County Orders

All outstanding county orders issued prior to June 9, 1898 order No. 490 will be paid if presented to the County Treasurer. Interest will stop Dec. 20, 1898.

S. H. HINE,
County Treasurer.

Overcome evil with good. Overcome your coughs and colds with One Minute Cough Cure. It is so good children cry for it. It cures croup, bronchitis, pneumonia, grippe and all throat and lung diseases. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

Monday's Daily.

—Ask any druggist for a free Peruna Almanac for the year 1899

—Edward Girardot, of Kendallville, spent Christmas with his parents.

—Father Dandurand, Father Jurashek and Prof. Didier, went to Fort Wayne on the afternoon train.

—Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Colvin, of Cassopolis are here visiting their relatives the families of Mr. Bachtel and the Bairds.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Miss Stella Hague drew the watch given by Hoffman the photographer. A number on the watch was given with each dozen photographs, and 46 drew it.

—We have lately made arrangements to do all kinds of carriage repairing. When in need of such work give us a call. Corner Fifth and Jackson streets.
THE SPECIALTY BUGGY CO.
d2w-w6 WM. ECKHART, Mngr.

—We are in receipt of a photo of Mrs Sam Pepple of Smithville, Texas, and the "blessed baby." We don't know which looks the happiest or heartiest, but we venture to say, this double attraction makes Sam put on extra steam when his engine is headed for home.

—A cough is not like a fever. It does not have to run a certain course. Cure it quickly and effectually with One Minute Cough Cure, the best remedy for all ages and for the most severe cases. We recommend it because it's good. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The Editor and family received sad news today, from Nebraska. It was the death of Mrs. R. D. Lamson, at Hastings, the cause being heart disease. Mr. Lamson is Mrs. Barns' youngest brother, and this sad bereavement leaves him with three bright little children, two boys and a girl who are this early deprived of a most loving and estimable mother.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Eugene Wyatt was a caller at this office today.

—Trustee Madden went over to Busco Monday on business.

—Mrs. Mollie McClellan and son, Paul returned to Fort Wayne this morning.

—G. W. Kemery of Angola got third prize offered by the Ladies Home Journal for a decorated porch.

—People on Lake Wawassee want the state fish hatchery located on that lake. It would be a good place

—WOOD WANTED:—At this office. All who were to pay us in wood are requested to bring it as soon as they can, as we need it.

—Mr. Harmon is getting a fine well for them over at Garrett. It will be a fortune to that town to have even one well like those he drilled at Auburn.

—Mrs. Val Brown, mother of Mrs. Ralph Moody, of Columbia City, Mrs. R. P. Linderfelder, of Tiffin, Ohio, are the guests of D. D. Moody and family this week.

—Mr. Roy Grubb, who has been here visiting for some time in the family of his uncle, Mr. E F. Metcalf and other relatives, left last Friday for his home in Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

—WANTED:—Fifty new subscribers who wish to pay for the COURIER in wood. Tell your neighbor about it, and if he wants the best paper in the county, and pay in trade, tell him we are ready for him.

—C. H. Triplett was down from Waterloo Monday, on business. He says his son, Dennis is still with J. C. Boyer, in the store, which proves he is a reliable clerk, for he has been there several years.

—Miss Bertha Metcalf, on last Thursday evening entertained in honor of her cousin, Mr. Roy Grubb, a number of her young friends. The evening was spent in games after which a grand supper was served.

—John Rinehold at Long Valley, Calif., sends us a nice Christmas gift—a subscription reaching up to 1900. He says all are well. Crops were fair there, in spite of dry weather, and a good crop of such fruits as they raise there.

—When you ask for DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve don't accept a counterfeit or imitation There are more cases of Piles being cured by this, than all others combined. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

---Baby photographs a specialty at Lybarger's Gallery North Main, Auburn.

—In London the saloons are allowed to keep open a part of the day on Sunday. All the forenoon they are open, but at noon everybody is turned out, and the door kept closed till 7 p m., when the saloon is allowed to open for an hour or two. Seems queer to us.

—Mr. and Mrs. Willis Brown go to Chicago tonight and will stop there a day, with Mr. Merica's family, and then go to Paxton, Ill, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Stevens. Mr. Brown returns next Tuesday, but Mrs. Brown will remain a couple of weeks.

—The sooner a cough or cold is cured without harm to the sufferer the better. Lingering colds are dangerous Hacking cough is distressing. One Minute Cough Cure quickly cures it. Why suffer when such a cough cure is within reach? It is pleasant to the taste. At Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

Look at This.

Will offer another tile slaughter during the month of January, at the following cash prices.

3 inch tile per 1000		$ 7 00
4	" "	10 00
5	" "	14 00
6	" "	18 00
7	" "	23 00
8	" "	30 00
10	" "	50 00
12	" "	70 00
Hollow building blocks		27 00

15 inch tile made to order.
Three miles south east of Auburn.
W. D MILLER, Mfg.

$50 for One Bottle of Medicine.

This is to certify that my wife was for years afflicted with asthma, and was so far gone that several physicians decided that her case must terminate in consumption. I was induced to try a bottle of Dr. Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup. To our great satisfaction it gave almost immediate relief, and two bottles completely cured her. She is now well and healthy, but I would not be without the medicine if it cost fifty dollars a bottle. WM. H. FARRIS,
Cdn Bd Tp of Wilton, Monroe Co., Wis.

WILSONS'

4th Annual Shoe Sale!

As is our custom during the month of January, we have our Clearance Sale of Footwear, where exceedingly low prices will be made on odd pairs, broken lots and of those things of which we have too many; together with leaders to draw the trade.

A Few Prices:

A few dozen Ladies' Rubber Sandals	17c
Men's Rubber Sandals	50c
Youth's Rubber Sandals 11to2	25c
Boys' Felt Boots Complete	$1.50
Men's Felt Boots Complete	25c
Men's Felt Rubbers,—large and small sizes	$1

Special Prices

on Children's and Misses' Shoes.
Ladies' Gents' Shoes at..... $1

Ladies' Storm Alaska

Leader No. 1

A VERY FINE Ladies' Kid Lace Shoe, Patent Leather Tip -some cloth tops $1.50
Your money back if its not as fine as many $2 to $2 50 shoes you have seen sold not far a way.

Leader No. 2

The Finest Ladies and Gents Shoe you ever saw for the price.... $2
Remember this sale does not last all the winter and the prices cannot be duplicated either by us or others when these goods are gone.

Terms Cash!

First Commers Get the Best Choice

WILSON,

The Auburn Shoe Man

Holiday Goods at The Bazar.

Presents for the young, and presents for the old. We are in position to offer to the public the largest line of Holiday Goods ever placed on the market before. In selecting your goods for the Holidays, call at the Bazar Store and be convinced that prices and quality are the best offered. We can furnish you with anything in the line of Queensware and China. Our 10 cent counter beats anything ever seen for the size and prices.

Beautiful Lamps

we offer at very reasonable prices. Can reach you on any price from 10c to $13.50. Dolls, Wagons, Baby Buggies Carts, and anything in that line for the little folks. Handkerchiefs; we have an endless line of all colors and patterns and quality, from 1c to 25c.

Jardiniers, 10c to $1.19,

Men and boys Pocket Knives, Horn, Bone and Celluloid Handles, from 5c to 25c, a good Christmas present for the boys. Men's and Boys' Mufflers Worsted and Silk, from 25c to 48c.

...THE...

BAZAR STORE

Auburn, Ind.

OUR CHALLENGE

Red Tag Sale

Always promises to eclipse anything we have ever had. Men's and Boys' Suit and Overcoats are going lively. We wish you all to have first choice. Look at some of our prices in this sale,

Men's Ulster Overcoats

Men's Ulster Overcoats	$18 00	values, now	$9 98
Men's Ulster Overcoats	12 00	values, now	6 98
Men's Ulster Overcoats	6 00	values, now	4 88
Men's Ulster Overcoats	3 25	values, now	2 48
Men's Ulster Overcoats	12 00	values, now	6 88
Men's Ulster Overcoats	8 50	values, now	5 48
Men's Ulstor Overcoats	6 50	values, now	4 13

Men's Dress Overcoats.

Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	$ 6 00,	now
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	9 00,	now	$ 6 48
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	12 00,	now	8 48
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	15 00,	now	11 48
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	18 00,	now	13 48
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	22 50,	now	14 98
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	5 50,	now	3 98
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	8 00,	now	5 48
Men's Dress Overcoats, former price	10 50,	now	6 38

Knee Pant Suits at 95c, $1.13, 1.48, 1.98, 2.19, 2.48 2.98 up to $3.99. some of them have been cut 50 per cent.

Men's Pants at 69c, 83c, 99c, $1.19, $1.44, $1.88, $2.19, $2.49, $2.78, up to $3.99, at these prices you save from 25 to 40 per cent.

Men's and Boys' working Gloves and Mittens will go at about a 20 per cent cut.

Men's Suits $3.98, $4.88, $5.08, $6.88 $7.49, 8.98 and $9.98, there is a clean saving to you of from 20 to 45 per cent at these prices.

All 50c Underwear, Mittens, Jearsey Shirts and Caps go at 38c.
We invite you to call.

G. H. Yesbera,

Auburn and Ashley.

RECORD OF A YEAR.

Important Events Crowded the Past Twelve Months.

MUCH HISTORY MADE.

The Year 1898 Will Be Remembered as a Most Notable One.

A Chronological Review Shows It to Have Been Remarkable in Many Respects—War with Spain Takes Foremost Place in the Interesting Record—Concise Story of That Victorious Conflict—International and Internal Dissensions Among European Countries—Disaster and Death at Home and Abroad.

To him who is concerned with history in the making there very rarely comes a year more heavily laden with important events than the year 1898. It has seen every state in Europe, except peaceful Scandinavia and the Dutch communities, face to face with either war or internal dissolution—some of them within measurable distance of both. Yet the greatest effects have not been in Europe; 1898 has seen the United States forced, not by any greed of power, but by its humanitarian ideals, to take its part in European relations. A brief but glorious armed conflict with Spain has been begun, prosecuted to its end and settled by a treaty of peace upon which the ink is scarcely dry. The inception of great political changes has been witnessed in China; two European rulers have come to their death; several men and women prominent in statecraft, military affairs, reform, literature and music, have passed away; the year has been marked by some terrible marine disasters, causing great loss of life; and fire, flood and storm have numbered their victims by scores and caused extensive loss of property.

The war between the United States and Spain was the foremost event or series of events in the year's history. It was the sixth war waged by the American people against foreigners, was declared April 25, 1898, and continued until Aug. 12, about four months. The United States employed over 200 warships, of all classes, and 260,000 regulars and volunteers, nearly 200,000 of whom, however, did not see active service against the Spaniards. The United States forces won all the battles of the war; the most notable engagements being Admiral Dewey's destruction of the Spanish Eastern fleet at Manila bay, Admiral Sampson's destruction of the Spanish Cape de Verde squadron at Santiago, and Gen. Shafter's capture of Santiago. The American naval forces lost not a vessel, and but 17 killed and 67 wounded; but the army lost 216 killed and 1,437 wounded. The Spanish navy lost 85 warships valued at $36,500,000, more than 1,000 sailors in killed alone; and the army lost nearly 3,000 in killed, besides wounded. Spain was obliged to relinquish Cuba and to cede all its remaining West Indian possessions to the United States; also the island of Guam, one of the Ladrones, and lost sovereignty over practically all the Philippines. The United States expended about $300,000,000 in prosecuting the war. Spain was completely bankrupted.

The chronological table that follows gives the most important happenings of 1898, foremost among which are those of the war with Spain.

CONFLICT WITH SPAIN.

Events of the War Lately Won by the United States.

January.

25—U. S. battleship Maine, Capt. C. D. Sigsbee, U. S. N., is ordered to Havana, Cuba.

February.

8—The publication of a letter written by Senor Dupuy de Lome, Spanish minister to the United States, speaking disparagingly of President McKinley, leads to the Minister's resignation of his post and the appointment of Senor Luis Polo y Bernabe.
15—The U. S. battleship Maine, lying in the harbor of Havana, is destroyed and sunk by an explosion between 9 and 10 o'clock p. m.
17—Rear Admiral Sicard, commanding the North Atlantic squadron, orders a court of inquiry into the loss of the Maine.
19—The request of the Spanish officials in Havana for a joint investigation into the loss of the Maine is declined.
21—The United States Senate orders an investigation into the Maine disaster.

March.

8-9—Congress votes to place $50,000,000 at the unqualified disposal of President McKinley as an emergency fund.
16—Spain remonstrates against the presence of the United States fleet at Key West and against other measures of defense by our Government.
17—Facts concerning Cuba stated in the Senate by Senator Proctor, of Vermont, as the result of personal observation.
28—Court of inquiry's report on the Maine sent to Congress.

April.

5—Consul General Lee recalled.
10—Consul General Lee leaves Cuba.
11—President McKinley sends a message to Congress recommending armed intervention in Cuba.
15—Army ordered to mobilize.
16—Senate belligerency resolutions passed.
18—Congress votes against Cuban recognition.
19—Congress passes resolutions demanding the withdrawal of Spain from Cuba.
20—Queen opens Cortes with war speech. Government announces its opposition to privateering. President signs notification to the nations of intention to blockade.
21—Our minister at Madrid, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, informed by the Spanish Minister of Foreign Affairs that diplomatic relations between Spain and the United States are terminated....President McKinley cables our ultimatum to Spain, demanding a reply by April 23....Senor Polo y Bernabe, Spanish minister, receives his passport and leaves Washington.
22—Cruiser New York, Sampson's flagship, captures Pedro, 2,000 tons, fifteen miles east of Havana....Cuban ports blockaded by the American squadron.
23—The President issues his proclamation calling for 125,000 volunteers.
24 (Sunday)—A Spanish decree declaring war against the United States was gazetted at Madrid.
25—Congress passes a resolution declaring that the state of war existed from April 21.
26—Recruiting volunteers began in New York City.
27—United States vessels bombard Matanzas....Seventh New York Regiment declines to enlist.
28—Commodore Dewey's fleet sails from Hongkong for Manila.
29—Spanish squadron sails from Cape Verde for the West Indies....New York shells Cabanas forts....U. S. cruiser Yale (Paris) arrives in New York.
30—Commodore Dewey's squadron arrives off Manila....Flagship New York fires on Spanish cavalry sharpshooters off Havana.

May.

1—U. S. cruiser Topeka arrives at New York from Falmouth....Commodore Dewey's squadron destroys the Spanish fleet at Manila.
2—Cable from Manila to Hongkong cut by Commodore Dewey.
4—Battleship Oregon and gunboat Marietta sail from Rio Janeiro.
7—Commodore Dewey informs State Department of the seizure of Cavite.
9—Congress thanks Rear Admiral Dewey.
10—The Gussie expedition sailed from Tampa.
11—Ensign Worth Bagley and four of the crew of the torpedo-boat Winslow killed by a shell from the Spanish forts at Cardenas.
12—Admiral Sampson's squadron bombards the forts at San Juan, Porto Rico....The Spanish Cape Verde fleet arrives at Port de France, Martinique....Gussie expedition repulsed.
13—Commodore Schley's fleet sails south to meet the Spanish squadron.
14—Spanish Cape Verde fleet sighted off Curacoa.
15—Rear Admiral Dewey reports on fall of Manila....Sagasta's cabinet resigns....Spanish torpedo-boat destroyer Terror disabled at Port de France, Martinique....Spanish fleet leaves Curacoa....Gen. Merritt ordered to the Philippines as military governor....Gov. Black authorizes reorganization of disbanded Thirteenth Regiment.
17—Sagasta's new cabinet announced at Madrid.
18—Ninety thousand troops ordered to mobilize in Chickamauga.
20—Spanish fleet arrives at Santiago de Cuba.
22—Cruiser Charleston sails for Manila.
23—Troops A and C arrive at Camp Alger, Falls Church, Va.
24—The Spanish fleet is bottled up at Santiago.
25—Three transports with 2,588 men start for Manila....President issues a call for 75,000 more volunteers.
26—Oregon arrives in Key West....One of Spain's cabinet ministers said the country was willing to accept "an honorable peace."....Commodore Schley is in touch with the insurgent leaders....Florida expedition landed without opposition near Guantanamo, Cuba.
27—Spanish scout ships chased by American warships near Key West.
29—Commodore Schley reports the trapping of Cervera in the harbor of Santiago de Cuba....Cruiser Columbia arrives at New York, having been in collision with the British steamship Foscolia, which sank.
30—Troops embark at Tampa for Havana.
31—Rear Admiral Sampson's fleet bombards forts of Santiago de Cuba.

June.

1—Transports for Manila arrive at Honolulu, Hawaii, and the Boys in Blue become the guests of the city....Monitor Monadnock ordered to Manila from San Francisco.
2—Spain again appeals to the Powers to intervene.
3—American squadron bombarded Santiago de Cuba.
4—Lieut. Hobson sinks cruiser Merrimac in the mouth of the harbor of Santiago de Cuba.
6—Fortifications of Santiago de Cuba reduced.
7—American squadron bombards and silences batteries at Santiago....Monitor Monterey and collier Brutus sail for Manila.
8—Assault on fortifications of Guantanamo Bay.
9—House agrees on war revenue conference report.
10—Admiral Sampson reports he has held Guantanamo harbor since the 7th....Senate agrees on conference report on war revenue bill.
11—Four Americans at Calmanera are killed in a fight with the Spaniards.
13—Thirty-two transports with Shafter's troops sail for Santiago....President McKinley signs the war tax bill.
14—Two Americans and several hundred Spaniards killed in a battle at Calmanera.
15—Second expedition sailed from San Francisco for Manila....Great destruction results to Santiago forts through the use of the dynamite guns on the Vesuvius.
17—Spanish squadron sailed from Cadiz and passed Gibraltar.
20—Transports with Gen. Shafter's troops arrive off Santiago.
22—Part of Shafter's troops landed.
23—Balance of troops landed without accident....Admiral Camara's Cadiz fleet arrives at Island of Pantellaria.
24—Sixteen American soldiers killed and forty wounded in driving back Spanish soldiers at Santiago.
27—Commodore Watson to command fleet to attack Spanish home territory....President McKinley recommends thanks of Congress for Lieut. Hobson, and that he be transferred to the line.
28—President proclaims blockade of Southern Cuba from Cape Frances to Cape Cruz.
29—Gen. Shafter reports he can take Santiago in forty-eight hours....The Senate thanks Lieut. Hobson and his men, naming each one personally.
30—Egyptian Government refused to let Camara coal his fleet at Port Said.

July.

1—Shafter's army began the assault upon Santiago de Cuba, capturing the enemy's outer works.
2—Shafter renewed the attack upon Santiago, losing about 1,000 in killed and wounded, and making 2,000 Spanish prisoners. The Spanish casualties probably exceeded those of the Americans.
3—Cervera's fleet destroyed at Santiago, with great loss of life.
6—Spanish transport Alfonso XII. blown up off Muriel by American gunboats....Hobson, the hero of the Merrimac, and his comrades exchanged for Spanish prisoners outside Santiago.
7—President signs Hawaiian annexation resolution....Admiral Dewey took Subig and 1,300 prisoners.
11—Cruiser St. Louis brings Admiral Cervera and 746 prisoners to Portsmouth, N. H....Admiral Sampson's fleet bombarded Santiago.
13—Announced that yellow fever has broken out in Gen. Shafter's army.
14—Gen. Toral and the Spanish army surrendered Santiago at 3 p. m.
17—"Old Glory" raised over Santiago at noon.
18—President issues a proclamation providing for the government of Santiago....Seven American vessels bombard Manzanillo and destroy seven Spanish ships.
21—Gen. Miles, with 3,415 men on transports, convoyed by warships, starts to take Porto Rico....American gunboats capture Nipe and sink the Spanish cruiser Jorge Juan....Gen. Calixto Garcia, commander of the Cuban army of Eastern Cuba, owing to discontent because the American Government has ignored him and his troops in the surrender of Santiago, withdrew....News reached this country that the second expedition to reenforce Admiral Dewey had arrived at Cavite.
22—Aguinaldo declared himself dictator of the Philippines.
23—Another expedition for the Philippine Islands sailed from San Francisco.
25—Gen. Miles and 3,500 men reach Guanico, Porto Rico, and effect a landing.
26—Secretary Day, M. Cambon, French ambassador, and his first secretary, M. Thiebaut, confer with President McKinley in regard to terms of peace.
27—The port of Ponce, Porto Rico, surrenders to Capt. Davis, of gunboat Dixie.
30—News of Gen. Merritt's arrival at Cavite received at Washington....Dewey informs the President that Aguinaldo, the Philippine insurgent chief, assumed a defiant attitude.
31—The Spanish forces at Cavite made a sortie during a fierce storm on the American troops in the Malate trenches. They were repulsed with heavy loss. Ten of Gen. Merritt's men were killed and forty-eight wounded.

August.

2—President McKinley makes public the terms of peace offered to Spain by the United States.
4—The monitor Monterey and its consort Brutus, arrive at Manila....Gen. Shafter and his subordinates ask that the fever-stricken army at Santiago de Cuba be removed north.
5—Formal orders issued for the removal of Gen. Shafter's army to this country.
6—Spain accepts the terms of peace offered by the United States....Guayamo, Porto Rico, captured by Gen. Haines' forces. Three Americans cornered:
8—Spain accepts President McKinley's peace terms. Certain representations were made regarding Cuba which were not accepted, however....Spaniards at Guantanamo lay down their arms and surrender to Brig. Gen. Ewers.
9—Gen. Ernst's brigade captured Coamo, Porto Rico, after a lively fight, in which seven Pennsylvania volunteers were wounded. Two hundred Spaniards were taken prisoners....Spaniards attempt to retake the lighthouse at Cape San Juan, but are repulsed with heavy loss.
10—A protocol covering the peace terms of the United States has been agreed upon by M. Cambon, representing Spain, and President McKinley....Gen. Schwan's forces defeat Spanish troops at Mayaguez, Porto Rico. Loss on our side two killed and one wounded.
11—Spain's cabinet formally approved President McKinley's peace protocol and a cablegram was sent to M. Cambon authorizing him to sign in behalf of Spain.
12—M. Cambon, French ambassador to the United States, signs the protocol and a cessation of hostilities is ordered.
13—Surrender of the city of Manila, after stiff bombardment by Dewey.
30—Gen. Merritt leaves Manila for Paris to aid the Peace Commission.

September.

5—Spanish Cortes convenes to consider peace proposals.
9—Gen. Otis, United States commander at Manila, demanded the removal of the insurgents from that city.
10—Spanish Senate adopts the peace protocol.
12—The situation at Manila reported critical.
18—Spanish Chambers of Deputies adopts the peace protocol.
10—Spanish Peace Commission appointed, with Senor Rios, President of the Senate, as President.
17—The Peace Commission of the United States sails for Paris.
19—Spanish Government issues an order for all troops in the West Indies to return home.
20—The evacuation of the outlying positions in Porto Rico begun by the Spanish.
29—American and Spanish Commissioners meet in Paris.

October.

1—American and Spanish Peace Commissioners hold their first session.
4—American Peace Commission receives the report of Gen. Merritt in Paris.
18—Formal ceremony of raising the United States flag over San Juan takes place....American Commissioners refuse to assume any portion of Cuban debt.
24—Gen. Ortega, with the last of the Spanish soldiers, sails from Porto Rico for Spain.
26—Spanish soldiers captured at Manila during the war are released by United States.
27—Spanish Peace Commissioners accept condition of the non-assumption of Cuban debt by United States.

November.

28—Terms of peace accepted by Spain.

December.

10—Treaty of peace with Spain signed at Paris.

GENERAL CHRONOLOGY.

Record of Events that Have Occurred During the Past Year.

January.

1—Officers of the Cuban provisional government sworn in.
2—Six persons burned to death at Jersey City, N. J.
3—Thirty persons killed by collapse of floor in city hall at London, Ont.
7—Theodore Durrant hanged for murder at St. Quentin prison, California.
8—Six men killed by explosion of an Ohio River towboat near Glenfield, Pa....Fifteen men drowned off Bauduc by foundering of a French steamer....Six lives lost in a mine explosion near Pittsburg, Kan....Death of Maj. Moses P. Handy.
12—Forty lives and $1,000,000 worth of property destroyed by a tornado at Fort Smith, Ark.
16—Death of Hon. Benj. Butterworth, United States Commissioner of Patents, at Thomasville, Ga.
19—Bread riots at Ancona, Italy.
20—Fire loss of $600,000 at East Grand Forks, Minn.
22—Marriage of Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage and Mrs. Col. Collier....Destructive storm over the West and South.
25—Many persons burned to death in a conflagration at Spokane, Wash....$1,500,000 worth of property at East St. Louis, Ill., including Union elevator and Burlington freight depot, destroyed by fire.
27—January wheat sells for $1.05 in Chicago....Steamer City of Duluth lost off St. Joseph, Mich.
29—Several persons killed in a smash-up on the Maine Central Railway at Orono....Ten men killed by caving in of Northwest land tunnel in Chicago.

February.

1—Six lives lost by burning of the Alvord House, Gloversville, N. Y....Schooner Briggs wrecked off Little Nahant and eight lives lost.
2—$500,000 fire loss in Winnipeg, Manitoba.
3—Six persons killed in railway collision near Boston....Fire destroys $225,000 worth of property at Scranton, Pa.
4—Seven killed in railroad wreck at Glasgow, Scotland.
6—$50,000 fire at Albany, Ind....Holland-American steamer Veendam wrecked in mid-ocean.
9—Adolph L. Leutgert sentenced to life imprisonment for wife murder in Chicago....Assassination of President Barrios of Guatemala....$250,000 fire loss at Fort Worth, Texas.
10—Thirty-eight lives crushed out by falling walls at Pittsburg.
11—Nassau Chambers in New York burned; loss, $500,000....French ship Flachet goes down off Canary Islands; 87 lives lost.
17—Fire damp explosion in a colliery at Hammeerly, Prussia, kills 50 persons....$100,000 fire at Pittsfield, Mass....British steamer Legislator burned at sea.
18—Death of Miss Frances E. Willard in New York City....Large fire at Pittsburg.
20—New wharf and custom house at Tampico, Mexico, burned; loss, $2,000,000.
25—National Tobacco Company's works at Louisville, Ky., burned; loss, $2,000,000.
26—Nine lives lost in a tenement house fire at Charleston, S. C....Seven persons killed at Blue Island, Ill., by the collision of a train and an omnibus....Ten persons killed and five injured by an explosion and fire in Hall Bros.' laboratory at Kalamazoo, Mich.
27—Death of Wm. M. Singerly, proprietor of the Philadelphia Record.

March.

2—Six men killed by boiler explosion near Brewton, Ala.
3—Nine drowned by the foundering of the schooner Speedwell off the Florida coast.
7—Fire causes $150,000 loss in Brownell & Field Co.'s building at Providence, R. I....$5,000,000 fire loss at Manila, Philippine Islands.
11—Death of Gen. W. S. Rosecrans.
13—Eleven men burned to death in Bowery Mission, New York.
16—Death of Aubrey Beardsley, the artist....Many persons killed in a fire at 215 Wabash avenue, Chicago.
17—Death of Blanche K. Bruce, Register of the Treasury.
19—Six convicts killed in a mine at Pratt City, Ala.
21—Several persons killed in a hotel fire at Butte, Mont.
22—Forty lives lost by sinking of bark Helen Almy off San Francisco.
25—Death of James Payn, English novelist....Death of Truman P. Handy, of Cleveland, Ohio, oldest banker in United States....Wisconsin Industrial School for Boys at Waukesha damaged $100,000 by fire.
23—Forty-eight sealers of steamer Greenland perished on ice floes.
26—Seven persons burned to death at Kent, Minn.
27—Death of Congressman Simpkins, of Massachusetts.

April.

3—Fifty lives lost in flood at Shawneetown, Ill.
4—Fifteen men killed by explosion of powder near San Vicente, Mexico.
7—Sudden death of Margaret Mather, the tragedienne.
11—Oxford Junction, Iowa, visited by $100,000 fire.
12—Penn glass works at North Irwin, Pa., burned; loss, $750,000.
15—Anaconda Copper Mining Co. at Belt, Mont., suffers $250,000 fire loss.
17—Fire, following a dust explosion, destroys grain elevator at Boston; loss, $600,000.
19—Death of George Parsons Lathrop.
21—Postmaster General Gary resigns and is succeeded by Charles Emory Smith....Death of Senator Walthall, of Mississippi.
25—Secretary of State John Sherman resigns.
26—Wm. R. Day appointed to fill the vacancy....Glasgow, Scotland, visited by a $750,000 fire....Powder mill at Santa Cruz, Cal., blown up, causing loss of eleven lives.
28—Atlantic Powder Co.'s works at Dover, N. J., wrecked by an explosion.
30—Heavy damage done by tornadoes in Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa and South Dakota.

May.

2—Thirteen persons killed by tornado at Jerico, Mo.
3—Schooner Crown wrecked off St. Johns, N. F., and 11 men drowned.
6—$125,000 fire loss at Cleveland.
7—Three hundred persons killed in a riot at Milan, Italy.
8—Duluth, Minn., suffers a $100,000 fire.
11—Wool warehouse burns at Ballardville, Mass.; loss, $500,000.
12—Burning of Armour's elevator D and several lumber yards causes $1,000,000 loss in Chicago.
14—Thousands killed by cyclone on Sumbawa Island, Malay Archipelago....Edward Remenyi, violinist, falls dead in a San Francisco theater....Ball Bros.' glass works burned at Muncie, Ind.; loss, $285,000.
16—Flint mill of Mining & Mill Co., at East Liverpool, Ohio, burned; loss, $100,000.
17—Great damage done and many people hurt by cyclone in Nebraska.
18—Business section of Attleboro, Mass., destroyed by fire....Destructive cyclone sweeps through Iowa, Kansas, Illinois and Wisconsin.
19—Death of William E. Gladstone.
22—Death of Edward Bellamy....Mine fire at Zollern, Prussia; 45 miners perish.
28—Italian cabinet resigns.
31—New cabinet formed in Italy.

June.

1—Death of tragedian Thos. W. Keene....Transmississippi exposition opens at Omaha.
4—Death of Capt. Chas. V. Gridley, of the cruiser Olympia at Manila.
7—Plant of Burgess Steel Co., Portsmouth, Ohio, burned; loss, $400,000.
11—Case Power Building in Detroit burned.
13—Collapse of Joseph Leiter's wheat deal.
15—Resignation of the French ministry.
28—First party cabinet formed in Japan.
29—Formation of the Pelloux cabinet in Italy.

July.

2—Strike of stereotypers causes Chicago papers to suspend for four days.
4—French liner La Bourgogne goes down off Sable Island with 558 passengers.
6—Hawaiian resolutions adopted by the Senate.
8—Steelville, Mo., almost obliterated by a waterspout....Congress adjourns sine die.
11—Sagasta ministry in Spain resigns....Eleven men killed in water tunnel at Cleveland, Ohio.
19—Powder mill at Oakland, Cal., blown up by a Chinaman and seven lives lost.
30—Death of Prince Bismarck.

August.

1—Martin Thorn executed at Sing Sing, N. Y.
8—Bismarck, N. D., destroyed by fire....Death of Georg M. Ebers, Egyptologist and novelist.
12—United States flag officially hoisted over Hawaii.
13—Twenty lives lost by cloudburst in Hawkins County, Ky.
15—Resignation of ministry at Lisbon.
20—French steamer La Coquette sunk off Newfoundland by the Norge; 16 lives lost.
21—Seven persons killed in railway collision at Sharon, Mass.
22—Eight laborers killed by collapse of a wall in Carnegie tunnel, Pa....Carterville, Ill., visited by a $250,000 fire....300 miners drowned at Nieneo, Silesia....Death of King Malieton of Samoa.
23—Destructive fire at Logansport, La.
25—Ex-Gov. Claude Matthews stricken by paralysis at Meharry's Grove, Ind.
28—Death of ex-Gov. Claude Matthews of Indiana.
30—Small pox breaks out at Put-in-Bay Island, Lake Erie.
31—Wilhelmina becomes Queen of Holland....Confession and suicide of Col. Henry, principal witness against Capt. Dreyfus, at Paris.

September.

2—President Wilford Woodruff, of the Mormon church, died at San Francisco....The British captured Omdurman, opposite Khartoum, in the Soudan.
4—British troops occupied Khartoum....M. Cavaignac, French Minister of War, resigns.
5—Twenty-eight people killed in collision of train with trolley car at Cohoes, N. Y....Gen. Zurlinden appointed French Minister of War.
6—Wilhelmina crowned Queen of Holland at Amsterdam....Thirty men killed by falling of a bridge over St. Lawrence River, near St. Regis Indian village....Many killed in riots in Crete....Opening of G. A. R. national encampment at Cincinnati.
10—Assassination of Elizabeth, Empress of Austria, by an Italian anarchist at Geneva, Switzerland....$200,000 fire at Livermore Falls, Me.
11—Fire wiped out New Westminster, B. C., and Jerome, Ariz.
12—Death of Judge Thos. M. Cooley at Ann Arbor, Mich....Hurricane on Island of St. Vincent, West Indies, killed 300 persons and destroyed much property.
14—Lorenzo Snow chosen head of the Mormon church.
18—Death of Dr. John Hall....Death of Miss Winnie Davis.
20—Ten persons burned to death in an elevator fire in Toledo.
22—Thirty-six men drowned by sinking of French boat Ville de Fecamp off Fecamp.
23—Fifty miners entombed in coal shaft at Brownsville, Pa.
24—Several persons killed and much property destroyed by windstorm at Lima, O.
26—Tornado destroys property at Tonawanda, N. Y., and kills five at Merriliton, Ont....Death of Miss Fanny Davenport.
27—Claremont, Minn., destroyed by fire.
28—Death of ex-Secretary Thomas F. Bayard....Riot at Pana, Ill.
29—Death of Queen Louise of Denmark.
30—Hundreds of lives lost by floods in Japan.

October.

1—Great fire in Colorado Springs, Colo.
2—Fierce gale on South Atlantic coast.
5—In attempting to quell the rebellion of the Indians at Bear Lake, Minn., several soldiers were killed and wounded.
8—Great fire in Sidney, N. S. W.
9—$200,000 fire at Atlantic City, N. J.
16—Great fire at Dawson City, Alaska.
20—Seven men killed by boiler explosion on torpedo boat Davis near Astoria, Ore.
23—Ten men killed in a race war at Harpersville, Miss.
24—Fire on the Brooklyn, N. Y., water front; loss, $475,000.
25—French cabinet resigns.
31—New French cabinet formed....Japanese cabinet resigns.

November.

5—Eleven men killed by collapse of new Wonderland theater at Detroit....Seven men crushed to death in a mine near Wilkesbarre, Pa.
6—Capitol at Washington wrecked by gas explosion....Death of David A. Wells, economic writer.
7—Resignation of the Greek ministry.
8—General election.
9—Organization of Japan's new ministry completed.
10—New ministry formed in Greece....President Masso and secretaries of Cuban republic resign.
11—Bank at Kirksville, Mo., robbed of $32,000.
17—British ship Atalanta sinks off Oregon coast; 26 lives lost.
18—Death of John W. Keely, the inventor....Twelve laborers killed by train at Hackensack Meadows, N. J.
19—Death of Gen. D. C. Buell.
23—Burning of the Baldwin hotel and theater in San Francisco.
24-26—Great storm sweeps over the country; many lives lost at sea.
27—Death of Actor C. W. Couldock....Six persons killed by boiler explosion near Fourteen Mile Slough, Cal.
28—Dynamite explosion in Havana kills 15 persons and injures 25 others.

December.

5—Opening of Congressional session.
10—Death of William Black, novelist.
11—Death of Gen. Calixto Garcia at Washington.
15—Death of ex-Senator Calvin S. Brice....Six persons killed in railway wreck at Madison, Fla.
16—Six persons killed by a train at Allenwood, N. J.....Department store of G. Hartstein's Sons burned at Milwaukee; loss, $90,000.
17—Death of Baron Ferdinand James de Rothschild in London....Twenty lives lost in steamship collision in the North Sea.
19—$1,000,000 fire at Terre Haute, Ind.

It was in the army. The boys had a meal of beef that had been corned by a bath in a salt-horse barrel. They all thought it a treat until one of the party remarked: "A little mustard wouldn't go bad." "That reminds me," said another; "you just wait a few minutes." A quarter of an hour later he returned, and, producing a screw of paper, he said: "Oh, yes; here's that mustard." "Where did you get it?" said the others, in chorus. "Up at the surgeon's. The sick-call, you remember, sounded as we were talking about the mustard. It occurred to me that a little mustard for my lame back would be just the thing." "But you haven't got any lame back." "But I have got the mustard."

-:-:-

A soldier who entered Santiago with General Shafter tells this story in the New Orleans Times-Democrat: "A few days after the place was surrendered I went into a small shop to get some tobacco. The proprietor was a fat chap, all bows and smiles. 'Got any 'baccy?' I asked. 'Si, senor,' he said; 'yes, sare; ver' fine tobac. Hot time in ze ol' town tonight, senor.' I took a paper of fine-cut and the fat rascal charged me one collar. When I made a modest kick at such highway robbery he hunped up his shoulders and spread out his hands. 'Well, senor,' he said, 'you mus' remember those Maines.'"

A BUGABOO.

Among the arguments frequently advanced by the advocates of the gold standard is the one to the effect that the adoption of the silver policy would result in the instant withdrawal from the country of all the gold now here, amounting to about six hundred millions, and that in consequence of this sudden and severe contraction of the currency there would be panic and business disaster. Even so intelligent and scholarly a man as Carl Schurz was guilty of making this assertion in his recent speech at Chicago. As in immediate conjunction with this argument most speakers and writers also assert that free coinage will result in flooding the country with silver from the rest of the world and a great inflation of our currency, the average man is confused and ends in thinking that the speaker is inconsistent, or that the subject is toc deep for comprehension. The simple truth of the matter is that the speaker who makes this claim takes a very superficial view of the subject. They have heard of the Gresham law, so-called, which shows that the cheaper money invariably drives out the dearer, and they see that as soon as the free coinage policy is adopted gold will go to a premium. They connect the two facts and assume that gold will immediately take wings and fly away. A very little thought will show that there is no need to be alarmed on this account. All the gold in the country is now practically in the banks and United States treasury. In case the free coinage policy is adopted it will still be there, and will remain there. The banks are obliged by law to keep a certain amount of money on hand as a reserve for the protection of their depositors and bill-holders. Gold will still be legal tender money when free silver is adopted, and the best kind of money, just as it is now. The banks will not rush into the market to get rid of it, but will keep it as a part of their reserve and will hold it for the premium. It will constitute the best kind of a reserve because it will, according to both the free silver advocates and the adherents of the gold standard, continue to increase in value compared with silver. It will not, to be sure, be in circulation, but it will nevertheless continue to keep the circulation at its present point because it will avoid the necessity of calling other money from active circulation for reserve purposes. It may eventually leave the country, but the process will be a very gradual one, and as it goes other money will take its place. It will not cause any contraction either immediately or in the future. In fact, it may never leave the country at all. Being the best kind of reserve, owing to its constantly increasing value, it is quite likely that the banks will gather in as much as they can and retain it for the purpose of attracting patronage by the strength of their position, as well as for the sake of making a profit on a fund which will otherwise earn nothing.

Words of Truth.

Speaking of the political situation in the Middle West, Hon. Leon O. Bailey, of Indiana, declares that there have been no negotiations looking toward the abandonment of silver by the Democrats of that section. Mr. Bailey says:

"The Chicago plaform will not be abandoned. The principles therein enunciated are eternally right and must ultimately prevail. To abandon them or to modify our position by the slightest shadow of reasoning would not only show us treacherous to the truth, but forever stamp the party as unworthy of public confidence and incapable of carrying on the affairs of state. The platform speaks of no new theory, advances no new doctrine of a government wherein the people are sovereign and their interests held as paramount. Its declarations are as old as the republic and represent the thought and purpose of our institutions and of the Democratic party from the days of Jefferson. To abandon them would mean, as it should mean, an overwhelming repudiation by the plain people. Supposed leaders may confer as much as they please; the Chicago platform must stand."

Col. Bryan's Support.

W. H. Harvey, Unity Building, Chicago, Ill.—My Dear Sir: I inclose a pledge for monthly contributions to the cause of bimetallism until October, 1900, together with the installment for this month. I most cordially indorse the plan adopted by the committee and am confident it will result in the collection of a large fund for the circulation of bimetallic literature. Since our fight is in the interest of the "plain people"—to use Lincoln's phrase—or the "common people"—to borrow a Bible term—we must appeal to them for the means of carrying on the contest. The financiers can contribute large sums to support the gold standard, because the monopoly of money gives them great pecuniary profit. Surely, you can appeal with confidence to the millions who suffer from a rising dollar and falling prices. Having brought freedom to Cuba, the American people can renew the struggle for the financial independence of the United States. Yours truly, W. J. BRYAN.

Why Quay Shivers.

Another defaulting Philadelphia bank official has been sentenced to the penitentiary, and the Honorable Matt Quay shivers with renewed apprehension as he thinks of the dark "conspiracy" to treat him in a similar manner. The Honorable Matt Quay and the Honorable Richard R. Quay are respectively President and Vice President—as well as the entire charter membership—of the Association of Persecuted Patriots.

Between Satan and the Deep.

A battle royal is on between the bankers' association and the Republican politicians. The bankers are demanding the passage of the McCleary-Gage banking bill now before Congress. The passage of this bill will in effect put a saddle upon the backs of the business men, property owners and laborers of the country, and put the bankers in the saddle, booted and spurred. The demand of the bankers for the passage of this measure is the most brazen demand ever made by any class of citizens of their government in any age. It is a criminal demand that the people surrender their right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, because the effect of this bill will be to put into the hands of the banking combination the power to plunder the people ad libitum.

Danger to Labor.

There is great influence being exerted by politicians to control the labor unions of the country in behalf of the Republican party. This may mean the downfall of labor societies and organizations, for in their very nature they must be non-partisan. The defeat of Lewis at Zanesville for President of the Ohio State Federation was the first result of the political interference.

Why the Treasury Is Full.

The treasury of the United States is overflowing with borrowed money. Cleveland borrowed $262,000,000, McKinley $200,000,000, making $462,000,000 borrowed within six years. The Republican press point to the large treasury balance as evidence of prosperity. If a nation can borrow itself rich, why cannot an individual do the same? Verly, this is a new doctrine.

The Fear of Death in Sickness.

I have been much struck by the fact that patients afflicted with chronic and lingering diseases appear careless about death, and even have often an ardent confidence in life and hope to enjoy it long. The phenomenon is especially remarkable in consumptive patients, although they know well enough that science has no remedy for their disease, and only one of those miracles that sometimes are wrought in the organism can save them. Their belief in a near recovery is sometimes so strong that it takes the form of a real hallucination and a delirium. I can say nothing precise about those who suffer from acute diseases. There are those who remain sick, recover or die without ever saying a word about death or showing any apprehension of it; others, on the contrary, are desperate, mourn their fate and exhibit in their talk and acts poignant and profound anguish at the prospect of death. Still others manifest a resigned preoccupation and a regret modified by a stoic recognition of the inevitableness of death. It is impossible now to say what the causes of these differences are; but the question is an interesting one. A most curious phenomenon is the fact that death sometimes loses its horrible character and is contemplated with pleasure. Few psychological facts seem more strange and astonishing than this. The ancient Brahmanical custom of burning the bodies of widows with their husbands became almost a moral privilege for the women, and to many of them represented the magnificent ending of a beautiful existence.—Popular Science Monthly.

Practical Wives.

The wives of men of sentiment often possess a vein of strong common sense and a matter-of-fact nature which may at times serve to bring their poetical husbands down from their flights of fancy rather rudely.

Jean Paul represents Siebenkas as reading one of his beautiful fancies to his wife, who listened with eyes cast down, apparently absorbed in his words. As he finished and waited for her appreciation to express itself, she said, quickly:

"Don't put on those stockings to-morrow, dear. I must mend that hole in the left one."

One day, when Sir Walter and Lady Scott were roaming about their estate, they saw some playful lambs in a meadow.

"Ah," said Sir Walter, "'tis no wonder that poets from the earliest ages have made the lamb the emblem of peace and innocence!"

"They are indeed delightful animals," said Lady Scott, "particularly with mint sauce!"

Severe Rebuke.

Constable, the famous painter, once gave a remarkable instance of the sweetness of his temper, which scarcely anything could ruffle. The story is told by Julian Charles Young, whose uncle had witnessed its incident.

He called on Constable one day, and was received by him in his front room. After half an hour's chat, the artist proposed to repair to the back room to show him a large picture on which he was engaged.

On walking up to his easel, he found that one of his little boys, in his absence, had dashed the handle of the hearth-broom through the canvas, and made so large a rent in it as to render its restoration impossible. He called the child up to him, and asked him gently if he had done it. When the boy admitted his act, Constable took him on his knee and rebuked him in these unmeasured terms:

"Oh, my dear pet! See what we have done! Dear, dear! What shall we do to mend it? I can't think, can you?"

Some Treasury Girls Widows.

Lots of the treasury girls at Washington are widows. Hundreds of them are old maids, and several thousand are sweet, marriageable girls, with pretty faces, good hearts, and a high grade of culture and education. Many of them had governors and generals for fathers, not a few are the widows of noted soldiers and statesmen, and all are far above the average of their sex the United States over. Many have traveled widely.

The Congo.

It is only 20 years since Stanley solved the mystery of the Congo River. To-day 55 steamers ply on its waters, half of them belonging to the Congo State, the others to foreign countries.

Henry Coxwell, the scientist, has a balloon record 10,000 feet higher than any ever attained by a professional aeronaut.

CUBA'S GRAND OLD MAN.

General Calixto Garcia's Long Fight for His Native Land.

The death of Gen. Calixto Garcia removed one of the most notable figures in Cuban history. No man had done more for his native land than he. For forty years he has worked for Cuban freedom, struggling against poverty and sacrificing his fortune and health, and now that Cuba is free and has thrown off the yoke of Spanish tyranny it seems a pity that he could not have lived longer to enjoy the fruits of his labors. Gen. Garcia was at the head of the commission that was sent by the Cuban assembly to this country to confer with the President on the future of the island. He had been in Washington but a short time when death claimed him. The change from the warm climate of Cuba to the colder northern climate was too much for his constitution and pneumonia developed.

Gen. Garcia was born about sixty years ago in Cuba. He studied to be a lawyer, and when 23 started to practice his profession. Spanish tyranny, however, was then being exercised in its most cruel form, and together with Carlos Manuel de Cespedes he started the first movement of what was to be the Ten Years' War. From the very beginning he became famous. Town after town surrendered to the young warrior. His name alone was sufficient to throw consternation into the ranks of an attacking Spanish battalion. He won the stars of a brigadier general at Juguani, when with a mere handful of poorly clad and armed men he captured the town with its garrison and 20,

Rheumatism

Is caused by acid in the blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla neutralizes this acid and cures the aches and pains. Do not suffer any longer when a remedy is at hand. Take the great medicine which has cured so many others, and you may confidently expect it will give you the relief you so much desire. Get only

Hood's Sarsaparilla

America's Greatest Medicine for Rheumatism.

Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure sick headache. 25 cents.

The Success of the Season.

The Ledger Monthly

A $1.00 MAGAZINE FOR 50 CENTS.

A Richly Illustrated and Beautiful Periodical, Covering the Whole Field of Popular Reading.

THE LEDGER MONTHLY is the marvel of the age for beauty and low price. With its Artistic Lithographic Colored Covers, Superb Pictorial Illustrations, Serial and Short Stories by Leading Writers of the World, and Special Departments of Decorative Art, Embroidery, Home Employment for Women, and, in fact, every Department of home improvement which adds to the economy and charm of home life, be it indoors or outdoors, THE LEDGER MONTHLY is beyond question, and, according to

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS OF THE WHOLE UNITED STATES,

the most wonderful production for its price. Simply to see a copy of THE LEDGER MONTHLY is to be firmly convinced that no such costly periodical has ever been offered to the public for so little money. Your sample copy will prove this to you.

Your Postmaster will show you a sample copy of THE LEDGER MONTHLY and also take your subscription for THE LEDGER MONTHLY for a whole year for only 50 cents.

Don't fail to ask your Postmaster to let you look at a sample copy, and you will be sure to give him your 50 cents for a year's subscription to THE LEDGER MONTHLY, the Great Family Magazine.

ROBERT BONNER'S SONS, Publishers,

156 Ledger Building, New York City.

GATES TOURS

MEXICO

JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1899

SIXTH ANNUAL TOURS BY SPECIAL TRAIN DE LUXE.

First tour leaves January 17th, Second tour leaves February 11th.

GATES TOURS OF MEXICO

Are made by special trains of Palace cars including Compartment sleepers, Ladies' Parlor and Observation Car and Dining Car serving all meals en route. If you are interested in these grand tours of thirty days through the strange, weird, and interesting

"LAND OF THE MONTEZUMAS,"

Apply for books of the tours, rates covering all traveling expenses, assignments in sleeping cars, etc., etc., to R. G. Thompson, Special Representative for Mr. Gates, Wabash Ticket Office, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Wheat! Wheat! Wheat!

FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

"Nothing but wheat as far as the eye could reach on either side—what you might call a sea of wheat"—was what a lecturer, speaking of Western Canada, said while referring to that country.

For particulars as to routes, railway fares, etc., apply to C. J. Broughton, 1228 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; M. V. McInnes, No. 1 Merrill Block, Detroit, Mich.; D. Caven, East Saginaw, Mich., or Jas. Grieve, Reed City, Mich., Agents for the Government of Canada.

$3.00 to $10.00 PER DAY

Can be earned selling our Patent Volute Nut Locks. They sell at sight to everyone using Farm Implements and other machinery. Write at once for liberal terms and exclusive territory, if you want a

SURE MONEY-MAKER.

THE VOLUTE NUT LOCK CO., Fort Wayne, Ind.

PENSIONS Get Your Pension DOUBLE QUICK!

Write Capt. O'FARRELL, Pension Agent, Washington, D.C.

OAK WOOD GETTING SCARCE.

The Danger of Using Up the Visible Supply.

No one who is at all familiar with existing conditions in the lumber trade can fail to note that there is already considerable complaint of the dearth of desirable oak. Both in quartered and plain stock fairly good lots of dry oak are notably scarce. The leading jobbers have had their buyers out for months picking up anything good they could find, and the result is that a very large proportion of the oak on sticks has already passed into second hands and is held by the present owners for distribution to consumers. Mill men in the south are cutting it all the time, but they do not have to wait until it is dry, or even partly dry, before selling. If they choose to do so, they can usually negotiate for it in advance of the sawing, and on terms that a few years ago would have been regarded as extremely liberal. Oak is, perhaps, the most readily salable of any saw mill product, which fact indicates that it is now, and is believed likely to be hereafter, relatively a scarce article.

While there is no occasion far alarm as to the present adequacy of the oak supply, it is a question if the time has not come when serious consideration should be given to the possibility, not to say probability, that in the not distant future oak may become one of the scarce woods.—St. Louis Lumberman.

COMBINATION OF HEALTH AND WEALTH.

New Districts in Western Canada Adapted to Ranching and Mixed Farming.

Calgary, Alberta, Nov. 4, 1898.

To the Editor of the Duluth Evening Herald, Duluth, Minn.:

Dear Sir—As to many replies to the some-seeker of Minnesota, I can cheerfully say this country is better for a poor man than Minnesota if he wants to farm and raise stock. I have spent one winter and two summers which I find more pleasant than any winter I have seen in Minnesota for eight years. The seasons are short, but the effects of long days of bright sunshine produce a very rapid growth of vegetation. There is good money in raising coarse grains and feeding to hogs and cattle, for pork and beef always bring a good price here. Hogs are worth from $4 to $4.50 live weight per cwt. and beef about the same. There is plenty of railroad land to be had very cheap and on long time payments. A man does not want to think he can pick up money on the ground here, but there is lots of it in the ground and labor will take it out.

There is a vast scope of country north of Edmonton, Alberta, which can be settled and a large scope of country west of Edmonton adapted to ranching and mixed farming.

This country is the best place I have ever seen for the cure of consumption. I could refer you to different people here who were in the last stages of consumption, who are now in perfect health and able to do any kind of hard work and are very prosperous.

Hoping this may benefit home-seekers who are willing to work for an honest living, I remain yours very truly, (Signed) CHARLES M. SCOTT.

Any agent of the Canadian Government will gladly give information as to settlement, terms and rates.

Getting at the Facts.

She—Did I understand you to say that your friend is engaged in literary pursuits?

He—No, indeed! He merely writes stories and poems for the magazines.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Information Wanted.

"Will you have some of the sugar-cured ham?" asked the landlady.

"What was it cured of?" asked the new boarder, suspiciously.

With their Peerless Trio of Fast Express Trains Daily, Low Rates, Unexcelled Dining Car Service and Magnificent Vestibuled Sleeping Cars through to New York City and Boston, the Nickel Plate offers the traveler to those points every comfort and convenience demanded by the exacting American public.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children teething: softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED.—Case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. Send 5 cents to Ripans Chemical Co., New York, for 10 samples and 1,000 testimonials.

EXACT COPY OF WRAPPER.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

In Use For Over Thirty Years

CASTORIA

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

FURS ARE STYLISH.

FOUND IN BOTH INEXPENSIVE AND COSTLY SKINS.

It Is Best Not to Buy Until After the Wealthiest Have Had Their Choice, and the Furriers Begin to Reduce Prices on All Grades.

New York correspondence:

PRETTY much all the latest fashions in furs are found in both the costly and inexpensive skins, but such garments and accessories as are shown in the accompanying pictures are to be had at varying prices according to the fur from which they are made. In buying it is usually wise for a woman of limited means to get as good a fur as possible. The cheapest sorts if donned now will carry little freshness over to another season, while a really fine fur has a good degree of distinction for several years. Prices will ease up from now on, too, even in the best furs. That doesn't mean that you can buy Russian sable or sealskin for a song, but furriers will weaken on their early winter prices even for these pelts, while less expensive but good sorts will become even more reasonable. Exclusive folk, you see, pop into the latest fashions in furs at the first moment the thermometer warrants such wear, so there is little custom for the furrier from these pay-any-price folk in midwinter. Then come more moderate purchasers, securing the same grade of wares for a deal less money, and losing only the first few weeks of fashionable wear. That makes the next few weeks a good time for purchasing. Then to decide what to buy. It is not easy, for there is a variety of offerings for even the expenditure set at a moderate limit. Besides, it is possible with not more of fur than will count as an accessory to be and look warm in very cold weather. With the mercury away down, perhaps the wearer of the high-collared fur yoke shown in to-day's first picture may be cold, but she won't look it, and that's a big point. She will wear under her dress waist a perfectly fitted, flannel-lined chamois jacket, and beneath her skirt knit, easily fitted tights of the heaviest wool, which are warmer than a dozen flannel petticoats, and which may reach down under the tops of her shoes, either under or over the stockings. Even if she were cold she would not show it much, nor suffer from it a great deal, for she would be supported by the thought that she possessed one of the very latest pretty notions. This yoke sets as close as a real yoke would at the back and on the shoulders, wide revers turning back making it practically double breasted in front. A perfect shower of tails, graduated in length and size, brings the fur to well below the waist. Electric seal, mink, astrakhan, Persian lamb, sealskin, chinchilla, ermine, all the popular furs, including monkey, are made up in this fashion. In many cases the little collarette is of blended furs. A lining of stone marten to the collar, for instance, adds to the becomingness of such a garment made of astrakhan or Persian lamb.

In the most expensive fur garments there is noticeable a tendency to over-elaborate. Such garments echo the styles in cloth capes and coats, and are made apart from the costume, instead of a part of it. So the fitted fur jacket of the next picture is attractive because of its simplicity. Such are made very square-shouldered, and set smartly to the waist line, short on the hips and curved down a little in front. The example sketched was in sable, the fur carefully arranged that it might lie all one way, and made a stunning part of a brown tailor costume. Sometimes these jackets are made with carefully curved revers that widen at the shoulders and slope to nothing at the waist. A flat figure is helped by this finish, and the warmth of the garment is increased, but where the figure is good, the absolute plainness of the jacket hooking down the front over an under lap is part of its value.

Evidently furriers did not learn that the breast bone of this year's goose was blue, or if they did, did not believe that it meant a severe winter. This is shown by the abundance of capes that leave elbows and waist unprotected. These hardly seem a wise investment, but lots of them are worn. As to dressiness, these short capes are a sure medium for accomplishing a deal for each dollar of outlay. For the type of short cape shown in this group the expenditure will be considerable. It is fur-lined throughout, and over the lining is set a deep yoke of brocade velvet, or of cloth embroidered with chenille or trimmed with scrolls of fur. A deep edge of another fur is set around the yoke and lines the collar, which is part of the yoke. The muff matches the fur edging. Such a cape is snug and warm, and harmonizes with the costume more easily than plain fur does. Some such capes are made with an under jacket attached of chamois, which is sleeveless, and that means that the wearer must submit to cold arms.

A NEW SUCCESSOR TO TAILS.

Another cape of this general type is shown in another illustration. It is the garment that curves out on the shoulders and droops to the waist front and back. A yoke and collar of one fur, finished with deep edge of another, is the popular combination. If a muff is carried it matches the yoke. Ermine and sable blend prettily. One protection against cold arms is offered. It is in the form of sleeves of knit wool to slip on under. It is astonishing how much warmth such protection conveys without hurting the fit of the sleeve—or so indorsers of it declare.

AS CAPES AND JACKETS COME.

The newest cape of the season is the warmest. That is unusual premium on advanced stylishness. The third garment in to-day's large picture presents a form of it that is deservedly in favor. It comes well below the hips, is easy, and laps over in front, being often finished with a jabot of fur down the front. This is practical as well as ornamental, as it prevents any of the air leaking in, even though the cape does not fasten except at the throat. This style is the one popular for all occasions. It is made in the most elaborate styles, rich furs alternating with each other in full frills, or one magnificent piece of fur making the sweep of the garment edged with a frill of another fur. There is a high collar and often the cloak is lined with another fur. These garments vary greatly in elaboration, but they all fit closely over the shoulders, below which all variation comes. From tip of collar to over the shoulders the set and fur must be unbroken. Often they are made of velvet—black, royal blue or brown—lined with a choice fur, the jabot down the front and the inside of the collar being of the fur. The model is charmingly graceful, but it distinctly belongs to the young matron and to the dowager. The young woman may admire its beauty, but she'd better content herself with other fashionable types.

Despite a plenty of new capes and cloaks, the handsome fur jacket of standard cut holds its own, and holds its wearer snug and warm, too. All jackets are close fitting, usually have rounded corners and show very little fullness in the back. Lapels turned back take from the severity of fit in front. Persian lamb is the favorite material, though seal, Alaska, "China," "electric" and "American," are all popular. Velvet jackets of this sort lined with fur, and finished with fur collar and revers, are still much worn, but remember that a shield front means last season.

LET THE ARMS SUFFER.

Fashions in furs don't change much after the first of December until the succeeding winter discloses a fresh batch of them. But one wrinkle has just developed that may make moneyed women take another dip this season into their purses on account of furs. The simplest form which the new idea takes is shown by the last picture. Don't think that you can be thus furred at little outlay. Price a few such accessories and you'll be convinced quickly of your error. A like bunch of tails you may get, it is true, without surrendering a big ransom, but these are not tails. Hence the high price tag. They are paws—that is, flat rounded tabs, with or without suggestion of claws. The tabbed boa sketched was stone marten, and the claws were omitted, as it is to be hoped they will form a major portion of this finish. To hope that no woman would take the paw idea, claws and all, would be unreasonable.

Copyright, 1898.

Paper Windows.

Paper has been used for a large variety of purposes, but one of the newest is for the glazing (if one may use the term) of windows. The new paper panes have the appearance of "milky glass." They intercept the light rays while letting the heat rays through. This feature is considered by the inventors to be a great advantage for greenhouses. Paper "glass" is cheap and is said to last for years.

Russia's Population.

The population of Russia is increasing at the rate of 1,000,000 a year.

BUYING WIVES.

How Settlers in the Hudson Bay Region Secured Helpmates.

In the old days when the English-speaking race was gradually spreading itself over the world, the men who settled in out-of-the-way places either had to live a bachelor life or content themselves with a wife from the native population of the country in which they had taken up their abode.

The old Hudson Bay factors were confronted with this difficulty, when they wished to become benedicts, and often married Indian girls. These wives they acquired by purchase, in accordance with the red Indian custom. A gun, a colored blanket, or a twist of tobacco would secure a most desirable squaw in those days. The wife was certainly obtainable at a reasonable price, but those early traders found the possession of a red Indian wife an expensive luxury. In bad times, which they often experienced in those cold regions, the husband was looked upon to feed all the wife's near relations. The number of these relations was astonishing, and the poor trader found it rather expensive to supply food to a small tribe of Indians who claimed themselves to be "near" relations of his wife.

Many of them, however, did not care to marry the Indian maidens to be found near their posts, and, seeing how expensive their companion found them, they petitioned the company to select wives for them and send them out by the next boat. Their wishes were invariably complied with, and the selections, as a rule, were perfectly satisfactory. Among the archives of the Hudson Bay Company are to be found receipts from factors running something like the following:

"Received, per Lapwing, Jane Goody, as per invoice, in good condition." And

"Received, per Osprey, Matilda Timbins. Returned per Lapwing, as not being in accordance with description contained in invoice."—London Tit-Bits.

The Enormous Gold Product of 1898.

From South Africa, the Klondike and Australia gold is being shipped in large quantities. This year's output will nearly double that of any previous twelve months. The sale of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is also increasing very fast. This famous remedy will cure dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, nervousness and weakness.

How Moody Escaped.

Years ago, when Brother Moody was preaching in the slums of a large city (St. Louis), he was delayed in leaving the hall till late in the evening. The exit was in a back street, and as he left the building he found a number of roughs waiting to annoy him. As he walked along he heard them say: "Here he comes!" and they prepared to jostle him from the sidewalk. Going straight up to the ringleader, Mr. Moody held out his overcoat, and, with self-possession that commanded complete respect, said: "My friend, won't you just help me on with this overcoat? I am not quite so active now as I was at your age, and some day, when you are as old as I am, I'll be glad to do you the same favor." No bully was ever more completely taken back with surprise. He held the overcoat for the evangelist to get into it, and then, thanking the young man for his aid, Mr. Moody went along unmolested.

Long Distance Courage.

Biggs—Can I use your telephone?

Diggs—Sure. Who do you want to talk to?

Biggs—Sluggs. I understand he made a derogatory remark to me, and I want to tell him just what I think of him.

In Winter Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. During winter your feet feel uncomfortable, nervous, and often cold and damp. If you have perspiring, smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It warms and rests the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and is a certain cure for chilblains and frost bites. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Trial package mailed FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Explanation at Last.

Suitor—Your daughter, sir, is the light of my existence.

Her Father—Oh, that's it, eh? I've often wondered how you could ever see her, with the gas turned so low.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

Enterprise.

"Why did that manager engage those two jealous sopranos and those two rival comedians?"

"He's going in for realism. He says he's going to put on a war opera with some real war in it."—Washington Star.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Domestic Note.

"Does your husband ever say anything about his mother's cooking?"

"No; but he says things about my cooking that his father used to say about his mother's cooking."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Shortest Way.

The shortest way out of an attack of neuralgia is to use St. Jacobs Oil, which affords not only a sure relief, but a prompt cure. It soothes, subdues and ends the suffering.

San Francisco has 20,000 children of school age who attend no place of learning.

Those nuisances, rheumatism and the gout, are relieved by Glenn's Sulphur Soap.
Hill's Hair and Whisker Dye, black or brown, 50c.

In Scotland, at one time, capital punishment was by drowning.

When you are planning to spend your winter in a milder climate, do not overlook the advantages offered by California. Low rates are in effect via the Nickel Plate Road, and each of their Peerless Trio of Fast Express Trains makes direct connections at Chicago with all lines to California. Inquire of Agents of the Nickel Plate Road for additional information.

How's This!

We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward for any case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, O.

We the undersigned have known F. J. Cheney for the last 15 years, and believe him perfectly honorable in all business transactions and financially able to carry out any obligation made by their firm.

WEST & TRUAX, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.
WALDING, KINNAN & MARVIN, Wholesale Druggists, Toledo, O.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Prices 75c. per bottle. Sold by all Druggists. Testimonials free.

Map in Gold Relief.

Canovas del Castillo's widow has received a magnificent present from admirers of her husband in the Philippines. It is a large map in relief of the Philippines made of beaten gold, the towns marked by rubies, the names written in sapphires and the dedication in diamonds. The map is set in a frame of gold and jewels with a gold bust of Canovas on top, and this is inclosed in a box of precious woods artistically carved. The gift is valued at $80,000.—New York Su

Piso's Cure for Consumption is our only medicine for coughs and colds.—Mrs. C. Beltz, 439 8th ave., Denver, Col., Nov. 8, 1895.

Crowded Out.

"I asked her if she thought she could learn to love me. She said she couldn't because she was already studying Spanish and learning to swim."—Detroit Free Press.

From Head to Foot.

For all aches, from head to foot, St. Jacobs Oil has curative qualities to reach the pains and aches of the human family, and to relieve and cure them promptly.

They never pardon who commit the wrong.—Dryden.

Easily Gotten Over.

A cripple from a sprain is one who neglects to use St. Jacobs Oil to cure it. Prompt use of it brings prompt cure, and the trouble is gotten over easily.

How Sad.

"It's too bad," said Asbury Peppers, "that the Spanish now have to eat all their mule meat raw."

"Can't they cook it?" asked the eldest boarder.

"Not," replied Asbury Peppers, "since the Americans got their range."—Washington Star.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

Great Britain's marine steam tonnage is to-day 6,720,703, about as much as that of all other nations added together.

Coughs Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Sold in 25 and 50 cent bottles. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

The injury of prodigality leads to this: that he that will not economize will have to agonize.—Confucius.

To California.

Attention is called to the excellent service of the North-Western Line to California and the favorable rates which have been made for single and round trip tickets for this season's travel. Best accommodations in first-class or tourist sleeping cars, which run through every day in the year. Personally conducted tourist car parties every week to California and Oregon. Choice of a large number of different routes without extra charge.

Particulars cheerfully given upon application to agents Chicago & North-Western Railway, or connecting lines.

LIZZIE M. BREWER,

Well Known for Deeds of Kindness and Philanthropy,

AN ARDENT ADVOCATE OF PE-RU-NA.

The Home of Mrs. Lizzie M. Brewer at Westerly, R. I.

In a letter to Dr. Hartman, concerning the merits of Pe-ru-na, Mrs. Brewer writes, among other things:

"Westerly, R. I.

"Dear Dr. Hartman—I find Pe-ru-na a sure cure for all catarrhal affections so common in this part of the country. It cures a cold at once. There is no cough medicine that can at all equal Pe-ru-na. As for la grippe, there is no other remedy that can at all compare with Pe-ru-na.

"I notice in medical journals, and from the testimony of my neighbors, that the doctors seem quite unsuccessful in treating la grippe, especially in removing the after-effects of la grippe. From personal observation in many cases I know that Pe-ru-na is a sure specific for these cases.

"I am among the sick a great deal in our city and have supplied many invalids with Pe-ru-na, simply because I am enthusiastic in my faith as to its results. I have never known it to fail to quickly and permanently remove that demoralized state of the human system which follows la grippe.

"In all cases of extreme weakness I use Pe-ru-na with perfect confidence of a good result. In cases of weakness peculiar to my sex, I am sure that no other remedy can approach in good results the action of Pe-ru-na. It meets all the bad symptoms to which females are subject. The irregularities and nervousness, the debility and miseries which afflict more or less the women from girlhood to change of life, are one and all met and overcome by this excellent remedy. I wish every young lady in our city could read your book, 'Health and Beauty.'

"Mrs. Lizzie M. Brewer."

Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

SCHOOL AND DESK TABLETS

PLAIN OR RULED.

We will make them of any kind of Paper you desire, and print the name you select for the Tablet, together with your name and location, on the cover, and wrap them with the label same as cover on each package.

Linen Paper.
Wove Writing Paper.
Tinted Laid Writing Paper.
Common Scratch Paper.

WRITE US FOR ESTIMATES AND SAMPLES.

CHICAGO NEWSPAPER UNION, ...
FORT WAYNE NEWSPAPER UNION BRANCH,

76, 78 and 80 Clinton St., FORT WAYNE, IND.

Bear in Mind that "The Gods Help Those Who Help Themselves." Self Help Should Teach You to Use

SAPOLIO

Don't Rent

ESTABLISH A HOME OF YOUR OWN;

You can do it. The finest agricultural land in the world lies West of the Mississippi River. Prices are low and farmers are prosperous. You can get valuable information by reading "The Corn Belt," which is the handsomest farm paper ever published. It is beautifully illustrated and contains exact and strictly truthful information about the West. Issued monthly. Send 25c. for a year's subscription to "The Corn Belt," 209 Adams St., Chicago, Ills.

BIG G. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. $1.00

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

PATENTS secured or money all returned. Search free. Collamer & Co. 3 F St. Washington, D.C.

F. W. N. U. - No. 53—'98.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION

Are You Easily Tired?

Just remember that all your strength must come from your food. Did you ever think of that?

Perhaps your muscles need more strength, or your nerves; or perhaps your stomach is weak and cannot digest what you eat.

If you need more strength then take of Cod-Liver Oil with Hypophosphites. The oil is the most easily changed of all foods into strength; and the hypophosphites are the best tonics for the nerves.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

SCOTT'S EMULSION is the easiest and quickest cure for weak throats, for coughs of every kind, and for all cases of debility, weak nerves, and loss of flesh.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

B. & O. R. R.

Schedule In Effect Nov. 22 '98

Leaves Auburn Junction.

WEST BOUND.

No. 3 Express, to Garrett only	8:59 p m
No. 15 Daily	2:35 a m
No. 5 Daily	5:30 a m
No. 7 Daily	4:18 p m
No. 17 Daily Except Suday	12:25 a m
No. 47	1:55 a m

EAST BOUND.

No 4 Express	4:30 a m
No. 6 Daily	6:05 p m
No. 8 Daily	2:40 p m
No 41 Daily	11:27 p m
No 16. Daily, except Sunday	11:08 a m
No. 46	11:56 p m

D. B. MARTIN, Manager of Passenger Traffic.

G. H. YOUNG, Auburn Junction, Ind

THOS. H. SPROTT CHAS. H. KNAPP

A USEFUL HOTEL-LOUNGER.

The Kick Hunter Was Worth More Than His Salary.

A detective in this city was formerly paid a good salary by the keeper of a big hotel in Hot Springs, Ark., simply to lounge in the lobby and listen to the complaints and criticisms of guests, says the Kansas City Star. There is always a feeling of friendliness and comradeship between guests at a hotel, and this detective made it his business to become acquainted with all the visitors. They thought he was a fellow-guest. The detective would lead the conversation to the merits or demerits of the hotel, and if a man complained of the service or his accommodations the complaint was promptly reported to the landlord. For instance, if a guest complained that he liked to sleep late in the morning and he could not do it because he had a room with an east exposure, so that the sun came in and awakened him, the detective would report it to the landlord. In a little while the landlord would say to the guest: "I was thinking this morning about you in that east room. Do you like to sleep late in the morning?" The guest would say that he did. "Well," the landlord would say, "I was thinking that you did, and in that case the sun must disturb you. I will give you a better room on the north side of the house." That made the guest a friend of the house for life. A man never forgets a landlord who takes an interest in him. This detective found out what particular dishes the guests enjoyed and all their hobbies and notions and likes and dislikes, and the landlord acted on this information. It paid so well that the house was full all the time and the landlord's salary was raised. His praises were sung so widely and his fame as a successful landlord spread so that a big hotel in Minneapolis hired him at an enormous salary. The detective who did this work was known to the attaches of the hotel as "the kick hunter."

NEWS OF DEWEY'S VICTORY.

A Man Made $400 with One Newspapre in Alaska.

"Papa" Cobb, the old Harvard athlete, who returned from Dawson on the Roanoke with a big bag of gold, tells the following story about patriotism for the stars and stripes at Dawson, says the Seattle Post-Intelligencer: "One day a man showed up in camp with a single copy of a newspaper containing the first account of Dewey's victory at Manila. This single paper was the first intimation we had of the great things our navy had been doing and it was sought after more eagerly than gold. An enterprising Yankee purchased it for $10 and then hired Tammany hall for the evening. He charged 50 cents and packed the hall. He read the paper to the crowd and after every sentence there was a regular warwhoop. It made the walls of the building tremble. The success of the venture was so pronounced that he rented the hall for the next night and reaped another harvest. He made $400 off that one newspaper and sold it to a miner who was going into the diggings for $50.

Where the Bears' Noses Go.

It has long been remarked by furriers that the skins of the polar bears which they receive are invariably minus the bear's nose. This fact is the result of a superstition among the Eskimos that whenever a polar bear has been killed the hunter must cut off its nose and throw it upon the ice; otherwise bad luck will follow him in subsequent expeditions.

To Eat.

"You look nice enough to eat!" exclaimed the soldier. As for Annabel Appleton, his words thrilled her with joy. "Ain't you terrible!" she protested. For she was a thoughtless girl, and it never entered her head how three months of prunes and salt pork do make almost any old thing look nice enough to eat.—Detroit Journal.

GIVE POLICEMAN THE LAUGH.

Horses at the Bill Know They'll Be Helped.

The southern approach to Clark street bridge, Chicago, while not a long or steep hill, has always been a serious obstacle for horses drawing very heavy loads to surmount, and until recently it was frequently the cause of much vexatious delay to north-bound traffic, particularly for the street cars, which could not be run around the "stalled" wagon as other vehicles could. The difficulty was also aggravated by the steady stream of wagons crossing on Water street at the foot of the hill, which precluded the possibility of a flying start. Formerly the only thing to be done when a team would not or could not pull its load up the incline was to block the wheels and wait until another team could be hitched in front to assist or else for the policeman and a number of conductors from the delayed cars to get behind the wagon and push. This was both slow and tiresome, and so a short time ago a remedy was found in the shape of a short wooden stake, which was put in charge of the policeman. Now when a team "stalls" he puts one end of the stake against the buffer of an electric car and the car is moved slowly forward until the other end of the stake is against the rear of the wagon. Then the motorman turns on the current and the wagon is easily pushed to the top of the hill without any exertion on the part of the horses. The bridge policeman, however, says that this solution of the problem is worse for him than the former difficulty. He says both the drivers and the horses know that they will get a boost at the hill, and in consequence he is kept busy all day with the stake. Generally, he says, the horses turn around and give him a horse laugh, and some of them are getting in the habit of stopping on the bridge as soon as they feel the strain of the load, evidently in the hope of being pushed farther. Now he thinks he will try to have the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals station an officer there to make formal complaints of overloading. In the meantime he is losing five pounds a day in weight.

SOME BEGGARS GAIN WEALTH.

Example of European Mendicants Who Left Fortunes.

From the London Mail: The wealthiest known living professional beggar, Simon Oppasich, an Austrian, was born without feet or hands, and sympathy for his infirmities brought him a large fortune in the shape of alms. In 1880, when he was 47 years old, he had saved £12,000, and in 1888 he had increased his fortune by speculation to £25,000 in cash and about £40,000 in Trieste and Parenzo estates. Since then he has quadrupled his wealth by speculation on the bourse. When Tori, a well known Italian beggar, died last year, bank books, securities, gold and silver and other articles, to the value of upward of £80,000, were found in his rooms. His heirs were two nephews, who had been existing in a state of miserable poverty for years. A beggar who died in Auxerre, France, in 1895 was found to have bonds to the value of 1,000,000 francs in an old trunk and 400 bottles of wine of the vintage of 1790. The French seem to be a generous nation, for in the same year an old woman, who lived in a wretched garret in the Rue de Sevres, Paris, died, leaving government securities representing an annual income of £21, all made by begging. A beggar named Gustave Marcelin of Avignon died in November, 1892, and left £20,000 in French government bonds, to be divided equally between the city and the Bureau di Bienfaisance, the great French charity society.

The Elaborate Chinese Novel.

It is a proof of the high degree of elaboration to which fiction literature in China has been carried that most of their novels are thickly interspersed with poems of all orders of merit. No stronger evidence could be afforded of the fact that, whatever they lack, it is not literary finish. If anything, they have this in excess. These poems are introduced in a variety of ways. The hero sends one in a billet-doux to the heroine, or he overhears her singing one, or perhaps a poetic contest is struck up, the fine on defeat being generally the compulsory drinking of so many extra flagons of wine. Wine drinking and poetizing almost invariably go together in Chinese novels, though whether they do so in real life we are unable to say. Above all things, every man who sets up to be anything in the way of a hero in Chinese fiction must be prepared to extemporize by the ream in inimitable poetry.—The Open Court.

Blandishments.

"Red rose, with thy lips compared, look mean!" exclaimed the fervid lover. "Thine eyes are as the soft, deep skies of Italy! Thy tresses would shame a Helen's locks!" The maiden sat cold and unresponsive. "Thy bicycle is the best ever!" protested the youth, and thereupon a crimson flood suffused her glorious countenance.—Detroit Journal.

A Mixed Message.

"Dickie, did you give your papa and mamma my Thanksgiving dinner invitation?" "Yes'm; ma said she'd accept with pleasure; an' pa said 'at he wouldn't go if yo' come after him with a policeman."—Detroit Free Press.

For Pneumonia.

Dr. S. C. Bishop, of Agnew, Mich., says: "I have used Foley's Honey and Tar in three very severe cases of pneumonia the past month with good results"

For Kidney Troubles

there is nothing better than Foley's Kidney Cure. Everyone who tries it will agree to this.

How Could He Be.

Rose—Was he on his knees when he proposed? Mary—No; but I was."—Boston Journal.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours; a sediment or settling indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents or one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells more about it, both sent absoulutely free by mail, if you send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in The Auburn Courier.

A Beauty of the Arctic.

There is a beautiful bird called the rosy gull, very few specimens of which exist in any museum, and whose entire life is spent in the immediate neighborhood of the eternal ice that surrounds the north pole. A paper describing these curious birds was read at the recent meeting American Association in Boston Mr. John Murdoch. They follow advance of the ice toward the s... as winter comes on, keeping near the loose edge of the floating pack ice, and then retreat with it toward the north when the summer sun begins to rise high upon the Arctic circle. The bird is small and of a deep rose color, whereas all other gulls are white.

Betrothals in Spain.

A curious custom obtains in some portions of Spain in regard to betrothals. A young man who looks with favor upon a handsome senorita and wishes to gain her hand, calls on the parents for three successive days at the same hour of the day. At the last call he leaves his walking stick, and if he is to win the desired bride, the cane is handed to him when he calls again. But if he is not regarded with favor the cane is thrown into the street, and in this way the young man is made to understand that further calls will be useless.

Notice to Non-Residents.

STATE OF INDIAN, DEKALB COUNTY. } ss.

In the DeKalb circuit court, March term 1899, Charles Fisher is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said court, for divorce and custody of children by Kate Fisher and that the same will be heard and determined on the 6th day of March, 1899, being the 1st juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences March 6, 1899.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 13th day of December 1898.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

D. D. Moody Atty.

NOTICE OF FINAL SETTLEMENT ESTATE.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Frederick Gfeller deceased to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 13th day of January 1899 and show cause if any, why my Final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 19th day of Dec. 1898.

MARY A HOFFELDER. Administratrix

Notice of Stockholders Meeting.

Office of First National Bank, Auburn, Indiana, November 29, 1894

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the First Natio'l Bank, of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 10, 1899, at their banking house in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven (7) directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before such meeting.

D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

Notice of Final Settlement of Estate.

Notice is hereby given to all persons interested in the estate of Leah Rhodarmer deceased, to appear in the DeKalb Circuit Court, held at Auburn, Indiana, on the 12th day of January 1899, and show cause, if any, why my final settlement accounts with the estate of said decedent should not be approved; and said heirs and all others interested, are notified to then and there make proof of heirship or claim and receive their distributive shares.

Witness, my name, this 16th day of December 1898.

GEORGE BLEEKS Administrator.

FORT WAYNE AND JACKSON RAILROAD COMPANY.

The Annual meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and the consideration of such other business as may be brought before the meeting, will be held on the 25th day of January, 1899, 10 a. m. at the office of the Company, Jackson Michigan.

The transfer books will be closed from January 12th until January 26th, both inclusive.

Lost.

Many have lost confidence and hope as well as health because they have been told their Kidney disease was incurable. Foley's Kidney Cure is a Guaranteed remedy for the discouraged and disconsolate.

CASTORIA. Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

MYSTERY IN WOMEN'S TOILET.

How Do They Get Into the New Fluffy Collars?

Just how the women get into their collars these days is a puzzle to men. Not the stiff linen collar, the exact counterparts of their own, is it that occupies their attention, but the soft fluffy stocks of silk and lace and reveres. They are dainty and dressy and show not a sign of an end beneath the gathering and puffs. They are being made in an endless variety of style now. The most favored ones are made of mousseline de sole or liberty silk, the collar proper very full, with shirrings at intervals of an inch or so running up and down instead of lengthwise, as they were a short time ago. The shirrings vary in width toward the back, where they become very deep, the shirred part forming frills that lie in tiny billows about a woman's neck, entirely doing away with the severe effect so many stocks produce. Then there is the fulled part that extends almost to the waist line, with the broad reveres that are stitched to each side of the fulled piece, which makes the whole resemble a new front for a blouse. The reveres are elaborately done in lace, broad or narrow, according to the purse or the desire of the wearer. Some of the fulled extensions are but seven inches long, with revers the same, and end in a broad, flaring sailor knot, all lace edged and usually made of the mousseline de sole. These collarettes are very pretty and neat, and as they are all in one piece do not show the opening, because the only one is at the back, where the collar joins. Many women use them to freshen up old frocks and they are being used for school girls who get tired wearing the same things, and two or three collarettes used as "fronts" produce the appearance of two or three new frocks.

BELIEVES IN PALMISTRY.

Calve, Prima Donna, Breaks Engagements from Superstitious Fear.

Among the most intimate friends of Emma Calve in Paris is the palmist, whom she devoutly consults before taking any important step. Her decision not to come to this country the present season is probably due to adverse advice from the Parisian oracle. Two years ago Miss Calve was under contract to sing at Covent garden, London. Her friend told her that the lines in her hand prognosticated unmistakably her death if she went to the British capital that year. So Miss Calve notified the management of the theater that she could not under any circumstances go that year to England. A short time afterward Miss Calve bought a house in a certain street in Paris after making a long search for a quarter that was entirely satisfactory to her. But the palmist warned her that her hands said she should never live in that house. The prophecy of her palms was death within a short time. Miss Calve immediately decided that she would never enter the house and soon afterward it was sold. Just what the advice of her occult friend may have had to do with her decision not to come here this season is not known. But it is believed that more than her desire to appear at the opera in Paris and more than her poor health the counsels of the friend who can read her hands so closely have determined her plans for the winter.

They Say Such Things!

Writing from Paris to the London Mail, George W. Stevens says: And what a magnificent command of language the Parisian journalist enjoys. M. Dedoulede—only, of course, they omit the M.—is "a surrender before the enemy, a professional swallower of Frenchmen," an ex-hireling of Rothschild, either a forger or a traitor. M. Rochefort is "an incredible accumulation of disgraces, a prodigy of corruption, both in his public and in his private life," with "thirty years of lies, debauches, pots of wine, defamations, calumnies" behind him. M. Cavaignac—think of it; the pious Cavaignac!—is "the heir of two generations of assassins"; he "dreams aloud of massacre, accumulates lies and forgeries." M. Dupuy—the mild Dupuy!—is "half cleansed of the murder of Carnot, accomplice in the Dreyfus trial, organizer of the Madagascar butchery, accomplice with Hanotaux in the extermination of the Armenians." And Dumon's nicknames and expressions: When it comes to saying that he thinks of people on the other side he can hold his own with anybody. "The ignoble press of the syndicate of treason, the shriekers of the Ile du Diable," is one of his gambits; "the lies of Bard," is one of his titles. The other day he dealt with the early life of an apparently well-meaning magistrate: "He vomited into a provincial newspaper" things perversive of the Christian faith, and "the Synagogue rewarded him with office."

No Humbug.

Foley's Honey and Tar does not claim to perform miracles. It does not claim to cure all cases of consumption or asthma, but it does claim to give comfort and relief in advanced stages of these diseases and to usually cure early stages. It is certainly worth trying by those afflicted or threatened with these dread diseases.

A Decided Gain.

Hobson—How did you enjoy your summer trip, Bagley? Bagley—Had a delightful time. Gained 130 pounds. Hobson—One hundred and thirty pounds! I don't believe it. Bagley—Don't you? Well, here it comes down the street. Just wait a moment and I'll introduce you.—Harlem Life.

Light and Airy.

Smith—What kind of business is Brown engaged in? Jones—Pneumatic, I think. Smith—Pneumatic! Why, I never heard of a business like that. Smith—Well, whatever it is, he's running it on wind.—Chicago News.

Social Prestige.

"The Newcastles are perfect nobodies." "Oh, yes; but their butlers and coachmen are from some of the best of families."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Thursday's Daily.

—Mrs. H. K. Scott returned to her home at Angola today.

—Joseph Wilson and Adam Chustoffil of Stafford were called here today on some ditch report business, but it turned out they had nothing to do.

HEN KEEPERS will find it to their advantage to read the advertisement of the Leghoon Food Co, in another columns of this paper, it shows you how to produce more eggs.

—We are in favor of a law permitting printers, after they have helped to elect their county officers to put these offices up to the lowest bidder, just as the officers now put the printing up to the lowest bidder.

—Daniel Swibart made his regular annual visit to the COURIER office today. He is one of those old-fashioned business men who believe that every debt is a debt of honor that is to be promptly and fairly met.

—Mrs. James McDowell makes the loveliest paper flowers we ever saw. You are tempted to smell of them, so fresh do they look We think she is making them for holiday sale. They are pretty enough for any season.

—The lady who keeps the Fremont Hotel at Fort Wayne, will sue the Board of Health for damages for quarantining the house for a case of diphtheria instead of sending the patient to hospital. She says she has lost a months business.

—Many a household is saddened by death because of the failure to keep on hand a safe and absolutely certain cure for croup such as One Minute Cough Cure. See that your little ones are protected against emergency. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

Friday's Daily.

'Squire Walborn, today gave bond for his office, justice of the peace, with Isaac Hague on the bond with him. Mr. Walborn has made an excellent record as a justice.

—Supt. Coe went over to St. Joe today to assist in arranging the grades in the public school there. We presume the real difficulty there, is the need of another teacher.

—T'th Antwerp (O.) Bee says that "Since the hero kissing craze has started, a young lady in Hickskille has been caught kissing the grass in the morning, supposing it to be Dewey.

—Late to bed and early to rise, prepares a man for his home in the skies, But early to bed and a Little Early Riser, the pill that makes life longer and better and wiser. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—A report comes from China, that the entire Chinese garrison at Hang Chow was destroyed by the explosion of the powder magazine in their midst. If true, it means the instant death of over 3000 men.

—Miss Clara Sommers lost an umbrella at the hall last night when the dancing school is held. It may have been taken by mistake. Is changeable silk. Finder will please return to her at the residence of Thomas Sommers, North Main-st., or leave at this office.

—Clerk Long yesterday received a a letter from Philip Kraus, now in Chicago, that his little girl had died. Mr. Long read the news with the deepest sorrow, as he says she was a child of unusual sweetness and promise. He visited them this fall, and found them doing well financially. Mr. K. was running a large and well patronized barbarshop.

—James Simon came home last evening from his school for the holiday vacation. He is at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio, and is prgressing well in studies. While there, he met with W. H. Hoagland, who has a comfortable home on Lagonda Ave. and a good employ as janitor in the Central High School. Mr, Simon returns to college about Jan. 6.

—An armed expedition that has been secretly fitting out at Hongkong, to sail across to the Philippines and help start a revolt in some of the islands, in favor of Aguinaldo, has been nipped in the bud, by the British authorities. They did a friendly act as was their duty, for Hongkong is a British city. It appears that we shall have considerable trouble in our distant possessions.

—Judge Hartman, yesterday received a telegram from Dr. McIlrath at Chicago, asking, "What will you take for Duke?" He fell in love with the big St. Benard dog, Duke, when he was here, and at that time offered $50 for him. He is a splendid specimen of a splendid breed, and it is not yet settled whether the family will part with him or not. It would wring some tears from little Paul and the other children.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS—IMPORTANT.

The Quaker Valley Mfg. Co., of Chicago, have requested us to announce that they have several thousand sets of the finest coin silver-plated War Memorial Spoons left over from their recent distribution. They will mail, postpaid, a full set of six of these spoons to every subscriber to the COURIER, who will send name and address—a postal card will do. If, on receipt of the spoons, you find them the most exquisitely beautiful specimens of the silversmith's art you ever saw, and worth $3.00, remit 78 cents, as payment in full, within 30 days; if not pleased return spoons immediately. Each spoon is of a different design—after-dinner coffee size—showing soldiers in camp in Cuba, Morro Castle and four U. S. Battleships. They are imperishable mementoes of the late war, and every subscriber should accept this most remarkable offer and obtain a set before it is too late. All that's necessary is to say you're a subscriber to the COURIER (this is important) and that you accept Memorial spoon offer. Address QUAKER VALLEY MFG. CO., 357 W. Harrison St., Chicago.

CASTORIA. Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Saturday's Daily.

—J. W. Cool of Jackson, is the next lucky man to pay up to 1900.

—Miss Julia Hodge is home from Michigan City for Christmas.

—Ask any druggist for a free Peruna Almanac for the year 1899.

—A. H. Provines of Jackson, is visiting relatives at Pettysville, Ohio.

—Geo. W. Carper contributed to the COURIER yesterday and has thanks.

—Stella Hague, now a teacher at Kendallville, is visiting her parents here.

—Misses Lena and Rosa Schiffli were visiting their parents near Summit over Sunday.

—Frank Fisher, Karl Gerner and Mrs. Cora Stanley were over from Waterloo today.

—Jerry Carmer and wife went to Lima, Ind., today to eat turkey with his brother-in-law, Fred Krum.

—Chas. McClellan, wife and son, went to Washington last evening, where they will visit friends for several weeks.

—J. J. VanAnken and wife have gone to Fremont to eat the Christmas turkey with the family of his brother, William.

—Frank Fisher of Waterloo was here today. He says his brother, Will, is recovering his health. This will be good news to a large circle of friends.

—The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by coughing, is requested to call on the druggist and get a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, which always gives relief.

—Mrs. L. M. Ensley came back this forenoon. She has been at Hudson for a time, with her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Wagner during Mr. Wagner's recent siege of typhoid fever. He is now able to be about again.

—In Germany last week, a commercial traveler, kissed a woman near him while the train was going was going through a tunnel. She objected, had him arrested and the judge gave him the highest fine he could.

—M. Kiplinger of Waterloo, came through here today on his way to visit his mother, whose home is in Ashland Co., Ohio. She is over 80 and has not seen her for some time. It will be a happy Christmas for both.

—Hobson the hero of the Merrimac, kissed 130 ladies at Chicago Monday night and on Tuesday he kissed 269 ladies at Kansas City. And now, the two cities are having a despute as to which is "Hobson's choice."

—Surveyor Krontz, is now located on the second floor in the court house, the room on the north side of the landing formerly used as an office for the Judge. We believe the Judge now occupies the newly fitted room just back of the Judge's desk.

—J. R. Ladd of Chicago, passed through here yesterday on his way home from Cleveland where he had been on business matters. He took his occasion to visit again with his old-time friend J. E. Pomeroy. He returned to Chicago at noon.

—Herman Brown came over from Wolcottville today to enjoy the holiday at home. He goes back in time to school again Monday. He has two of Ed Morell's children among his pupils. He likes his school first, rate, and that is equal to saying he is succeeding in his work.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Harrison and the children of Wabash, and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Yates of Reading, Mich., will enjoy the Christmas festivities with Geo. Lanning and family. The family of Mr. Yates, will be all together except Ed. who is in Porto Rico, a member of one of the Michigan regiments.

—The COURIER job office still leads by several laps. Three times within the past month, we have added new material of the best kind, and for a long time we have been furnishing our patrons with the highest class of printing ever done in the county. That this is appreciated is shown by the class of patronage we are are getting.

"Every Advertiser Lies."

Is the general impression among people who do not read. Fortunately there are very few people who have eyes and do not read. The more one reads, the more one knows, and the more one learns. Now, if we failed to put this advertisement where you may read it, we would be doing you an injustice, for like as not you are this moment suffering and maybe do not know what is the matter with you. After you have read this advertisement, go and spend 10c for a trial bottle of Dr Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It costs 10c a line to tell you any more about this, so we will not enlarge on this subject. Try us in this. You can get it of Davenport, the druggist.

Veneering.

Veneer cutting is a trade in itself; veneers are both hand cut and machine cut; the former are generally considered the best. A leaf of veneer is no more than one-sixteenth of an inch; overlaid with it common deal becomes to all appearances oak, walnut, satinwood, rosewood or mahogany, just as you please. Sixty square feet of veneering can be turned out by a machine within the minute; an inch of wood will yield thirty-two veneers. In this country a specially thick veneer is cut; instead of papering the walls of a house, they are sometimes veneered with mahogany, walnut, birdseye maple. This veneer is so thin that it must be backed up with paper to give it strength. The best wood for the purpose is got from trees that have grown slowly in poor soil. Richly figured veneers are obtained from the roots of trees. There is a good market for them among the makers of pianoforte cases.

Hacking COUGH

A hacking cough is a grave-yard cough; the sooner you get rid of it the better. Don't wait until it develops into consumption, but use the celebrated Dr. John W. Bull's Cough Syrup at once. It is a wonderful remedy for all throat and lung affections, and will cure a deep-seated cough or cold in a few days.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Will cure a Hacking Cough.

Doses are small and pleasant to take. Doctors recommend it. Price 25 cts. At all druggists.

City Comforts for Country Homes

CHEAPER AND BETTER THAN ELECTRICITY, CITY GAS, OIL LAMPS

Will light the house, cook, broil, roast, bake, wash, iron, heat rooms, pump water supply, run gas engines etc.

Send for free Catalogue

LIGHT FOR EVENING HOURS.

DETROIT HEATING and LIGHTING CO.

DETROIT • • • MICH

OLD FRIENDS ARE BEST.

Handsome. Durable.

TRADE MARK.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT

still stands first for quality. If your dealer does not sell it, be sure and write us for SPECIAL PRICES. We make everything you need in Paints, Colors, Varnishes, Brushes, Etc.

GUTTA PERCHA PAINT CO., CHICAGO.

IT BURNS GAS?

THE "SOLAR"

The New Acetylene Gas Bicycle Lamp.

No More SOOT, SMOKE, GREASE nor DANGER

It can't jar or blow out like an Oil Lamp.

ABSOLUTELY NON-EXPLOSIVE.

Light costs ¼ of a cent an hour. Throws a clear, white light 100 feet ahead. Send for circular and learn about the . . . .

Greatest Bicycle Lamp of the Year

From your dealer or sent prepaid for $4.00.

BADGER BRASS MFG. CO. KENOSHA, WIS.

WANTED: FARM PRODUCTS IN EXCHANGE FOR BICYCLES OR HARNESS.

Money not a necessity. You produce what we can use. We make what you want.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 1, one-piece crank, latest model, the equal of the best Bicycle made, your own specifications, $50.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 2, three-piece crank, your own specifications, $45.

"Marlo" Racer, a very fine machine, $60.

We sell Bicycles for cash or on the monthly payment plan, anywhere in the United States or Canada. We make very liberal allowances for old wheels. We also sell second-hand wheels at from $3 to $20. Don't fail to write us if you want a wheel or harness on the best terms ever offered.

We allow ruling Buffalo prices for all kinds of farm products that can be shipped economically to Buffalo. Tell us what you have to exchange and we will quote prices we can offer. Enclose stamps for further information or for price list of our Handmade Harness and Horse Collars.

MARLO CYCLE CO., 61 Terrace, Buffalo, N. Y.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATOR

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James S. Brinkerhoff deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JACOB WALBORN Administrator

December 15th 1898.

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY...DECEMBER 29, 1898.

OBITUARY.

Stephen George was born in Musser county, Tenn., Aug. 2, 1846 and died near Waterloo, Ind., Dec. 21, 1898, aged 52 years, 4 months and 17 days.

His early manhood wasspent in Hancock Co., O., where, at the age of eighteen, he enlisted in Co. B, 21st, O. V. I., June 8, 1864 His history is that he was a faithful soldier, and was discharged July 25, 1865. In 1866 he married Miss Sarah Fellers, of Hancock Co., O., who died March 21, 1875. Two children were born to them, Marion A. and Jennie I. Slater, who survive. During the summer of 1875, he came to DeKalb Co., and on Dec 28. 1876. he was joined in marriage to Miss Lucy Goodwin of Waterloo. As a result of this union, Ethel, Frank, Glen, Ruth and Charley were born and remain among us. Thus, a faithiul wife, his mother, a sister, four brothers and seven children are bereaved, and mourn a dutiful son, a manly brother, a kind father and a tender, faithful husband. His life among us has been one of untiring industry, strict economy and perfect probity, being widely known and greatly respected. He was converted to the religion of Christ in the U. B, church in March, 1878, to which faith he always clung, and died in its triumphs. He became a member of Waterloo Post. No. 52, G. A. R., early in its history and his comrades mourn and are shocked by his death, notwithstanding they have seen the work of the fell enemy for a year past, during which time he has been a great sufferer; he having so impaired his life force by his army service, as to be unable to rally from the repeated attacks of his disease. Two brothers from Ohio were present at the funeral, which was largely attended, at the U. B. church, conducted by Rev. Yager and Butler. The nemains were buried in the Waterloo cemetery by Post No. 52, G. A. R.

ST. JOE.

Billy Hamm was at home over Sunday.

Esquire Barlett returned from a western cruise Friday night.

W. C. Patterson and family ate their Christmas turkey with friends on the state line.

Rev. Johnson, pastor of the M. E. church is at Indianapolis under the parental roof.

Simon Wineland and wife returned to Leonidas, Mich . last Thursday.

Sell Bowen and family of Defiance, Ohio, visited with the parents of Mrs. Bowen over Christmas.

The entertainment at the primary school room on the afternoon of Friday was well attended The teacher had secured the services of Mr. Santa Claus and wife to distribute the presents. Among the many visitors present were, county school superintendent Coe, and trustee Henderson. In his remarks to the school, after the entertainment, superintendent Coe told tho pupils that he had often seen Santa Claus but that was the first acquaintance with Mrs. Santa.

The Christian and Lutheran churches held their Christmas entertainments Saturday evening. M. P's. will have theirs later on. A snow house containing presents at the Christian and Christmas tree at the Lutheran were the attractions, both places having good crowds.

O. H. Widney is building an office building opposite the White Hotel It will be occupied by Esquire Barlett and the owner after the completion.

The election call to see if the St. Joe people wanted to incoporate, has been postponed.

Rev. Clark, pastor of the Christian church had his slumbers suddenly disturbed Sunday morning by a couple who wished to be tied together as man and wife. A Mr. Kiser and Miss Mattie Malone were the happy couple.

The St. Joe people have taken on no great amount of airs yet, but to show which way the wind blows and that St. Joe is not dead, dying, nor even diseased, it is only necessary to say that the leading merchants, Big Four and Sol Barney are having the best trade of years. We have no figures from Mr. Barney, but the Big Four people report sales amounting to nearly or quite $700 00. during the last two days before Christmas, $550 cash and best produce and book account, five and six clerks were kept busy all the time. We are not dead, but living.

A little brush of excitement at the Big Four store Friday evening owing to the loss of goods by thief before. This time the management of the Big Four concluded to hire some one to keep watch and to be up with the times (citified,) called him the Big Four floor walker. Friday all passed off quietly until after the lights were lit. About half past six, two of the suspected were seen to enter the dry goods department and the fun commenced. To keep his eyes on his victims was no easy matter, owing to the crowd in the store, and many friends and neighbors of the floor walker were given the cold shoulder in his efforts to keep his eyes on the suspected ones. At last his vigilance was rewarded, the suspected one dropping into the net set for her. Four finger rings had been placed on the show case early in the morning. Three of these were taken, two of which were recovered within five minutes, by Mr. Floor-walker and Henry Hathaway. The three girls who were together at the time were arrested and taken before Esquire Bartlett. Two were nolle prossed, but Mrs. Myrtle Chorpenning (nee Nelson,) plead guilty and was bound over to court by Justice Bartlett.

COURT

Monday came up a case from Waterloo on surety of peace. It appears that Bert Echelberger and his wife quarreled and were divorced. And she claimed that even after that he threatened her, and annoyed her even to throwing stones at the windows. She had him arrested, and brought before a Justice and failing to have him convicted, brought the case into court, She had able attorneys, including W. H. Leas, and W. G. Groxton. Judge Roby, and W. McDonald were for Echelberger, The trial was well fought but the jury did not think she had proved her case, and Echelberger was acquitted. The jury was C P. Hamman, G I. Patterson, Frank Deilenbaugh, Jeff. Waterman, E Olinger, H. C. Shull, Henry Gunsenhouser, J. A. McClellan, Levi Putt, Jerome Showalter, L. Esselburn and Isaac Dittmar.

The case against Sommers for violation of the liquor law came next, and a few jurymen were changed off Herbert Waterman, one of the regular panel went back, he, James Platter and Perry Romine, taking the place of Shull, Esselburn and Showalter. This case was not done at 6 p. m , and went over till today.

Sommers was charged with keeping open after 11 p m The jury received the charge and retired at 2 p m. The Jury are still out.

Charles Koons was arrested yesterday, on a charge of perjury We believe it was on some matters that had come up before the grand fury.

Sidney Husselman was divorced from David and the children are to remain with the relative who now have them until ordered otherwise by the court, both parents having equal privileges to visit them.

BUTLER.

The M. E. church Christmas entertainment proved a great success.

Miss Alma Rudd spent Christmas at Fremont and Toledo.

Isaac Dirrim and wife visited his daughter in Toledo on Christmas.

Mrs. Emma Champion is slightly improved and hopes are now entertained for her recovery. Her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Loeb of Chicago is with her.

Louis Moore, is slowly improving.

The writer and daughter Florence, availed themselves of Christmas opportunities by visiting Toledo, Norwalk, and other eastern places. Saturday was spent in Toledo. The day was a delightful one, and the streets were crowded with people all intent on buying Christmas goods. Holly and evergreen were in evidence every where Unlike our own town, no church exercises were noticed. On Saturday evening we took care for Norwalk, where a welcome greeting awaited us. The town like Toledo, was all ablaze with Christmas preparations. Sunday we visited the M. E. church and Sunday school. They have a large school, and their arrangements are second to but few other churches in the state. At noon I returned to Toledo and enjoyed Christmas treats with friends, and in the evening visited the new M. E. church. This is the finest M. E. church in the state, and and is a beauty indeed. The exercises were a Christmas carol, and some very fine music was rendered Monday was spent in looking around this rapidly growing city. This shows many marks of improvement.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXVIIII | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, January 5, 1899. | Number 1.

SPECIAL CLEARANCE SALE

TO BE GIVEN BY

Schaab & Bro., Auburn, Ind., Jan'y 7th to 14th, Inclusive, 1898

There are two kinds of Special Sales—One is given for Profit the other for Space. There is a vast difference in prices to be obtained at these two sales; the one given for Space offering very much lower prices than the one given for Profit. The Sale which we have determined to give beginning Saturday, January 7th, and closing Saturday, January 14th, will be given for Space, in other words will be given to make room for a Spring Stock such as you have never before seen in a town of this size. To those who took advantage of our Clearance Sale, in July, '97, we need say but five words, "This sale will be better." To those who were not present during that sale we would say it was beyond question the most satisfactory sale to the purchaser ever given in Northern Indiana. The fact that we carry nothing excepting merchandise which we can absolutely guarantee, is bound to make this sale a Grand Success.

It will not be necessary for you to get here the first day. We have a plenty to last through the entire seven days. Certainly, the early comers will have most from which to choose.

It will not be possible for us to mention each article in our store. We therefore choose a part of each line from which you can make up your minds what to expect throughout our entire stock.

DRESS GOODS.

All 15 cent Novelties and Plaids	10c
All 25 cents Wool Novelties and Flannels	19c
One Lot 28 Pieces 50 cent Dress Goods	33c
All 75 cent Plain and Fancy Dress Goods	57c
All $1 Plain and Fancy Dress Goods	75c
2 Pieces Black $1.75 Dress Goods	$1.35
3 Pieces Black $2 Dress Goods	1.50

DOMESTICS

5 Bales 5 cent Unbleached Muslin	3½c
1 Bale 7 cent Unbleached Muslin	5c
Lonsdale & Fruit Bleach	6c
All 10 cent French Ginghams	7½c
All 7 cent Outings	5c
All 10 cent Outings	7½c
All 26 inch wide 10 cent Percales	7c
25 Rolls Table Oil-Cloth	9c

BLANKETS

Extra Heavy All-wool $5.00 Blankets	$3.25
Extra Heavy All-wool $4.00 Blankets	3.00
Extra Heavy All-wool $3.50 Blankets	2.50
5 Pairs $6.00 Australian Lamb's Wool Blankets	4.00
3 Pairs $7.50 Australian Lamb's Wool Blankets	5.00
1 Dozen Paper Blankets, sold at $1; Now	35c

Special Prices On Cotton Blankets!

20 PER CENT. DISCOUNT on all Table Linens, Napkins, Towels and Crashes.

We have too many Embroideries! You can expect Extraordinary Reductions in Prices in this line

Underwear

Men's Extra Quality 25c shirts and drawers	18c
Men's Extra Heavy Fleeced 50c shirts and drawers	38c
Men's Fine All-wool $1, shirts and drawers	75c
Men's Fine All-wool $1.50 shirts and drawers	$1.00
All Boys' Underwear 1-4 off regular price
Ladies' Heavy Fleeced 25c vests and pants	19c
Ladies' Extra Heavy Fleeced 40c vests and pants	25c
Ladies' Extra Eine Fleeced 50c vests and pants	38c
Ladies' Fine Jersey Ribbed Wool 75c vests & pants	50c
Ladies' Fine Jersey Ribbed Wool $1 vests & pants	75c

25 per cent Reduction on All Ladies' Union Suits.
Misses' and Children's Wool or Cotton at Actual Cost.

Ladies' and Misses' Wraps.

18 Ladies' Spring Jackets, regular price $4 to $10, each for	25c
These garments are old style, but good condition
12 Ladies' Winter-weight $5 Jackets (out of style)	$1.00
1 Line Ladies' $7 Plush Capes, late style	4.00
1 Line Ladies' $10 Plush Capes, late style	$7.00
All Ladies', Misses' and Children's Jackets	1-3 Off
Your Choice of ANY WRAPPER in our store for	75c
Ladies' Ready-made Skirts	1-3 Off

CLOTHING.

Before making prices in this department we desire to state that our assortment is simply fine—comprising the very best materials, workmanship and style. We offer.....

Mens' All Wool $5.00 and $6.00 suits	$ 4.00
Mens' All-Wool $8.00 and $9.00 suits	6 00
Mens' All Wool $10.00 suits	7.50
Mens' All-Wool $12.00 suits	9.00
Mens' All-Wool $15.00 and $16.00 suits	11.50
Mens' All-Wool $18.00 suits	13.50
Childrens' $2.00 Reefer suits, age 4 to 7 for	$1 00
Childrens' $4.00 Reefer suits, age 4 to 8 for	2 00
Childrens' $5.00 Reefer suits, age 4 to 8 for	3 00
Boys age 14 to 19 All-wool $5 and $6 Suits	4 00
Boys age 14 to 19 All-wool $8 and $9 Suits	6 00
Boys age 14 to 19 All-wool $10 Suits	7 50
Boys age 14 to 19 All-wool $12 Suits	$9 00
Boys' Overcoats	1-4 Off
Children's Reefer Overcoats, were $2, will go for	1 00
Children's Reefer Overcoats, were $4, will go for	2 00
Children's Reefer Overcoats, were $5, will go for	3 00

Men's, Youths' and Boys' Overcoats will be offered 25 per cent. off regular price.

We have planned this sale to please one and all. Our store will be open Saturday and Monday evenings, giving those who cannot come during the day, two evenings in which to do their trading. We hope to see you during this Sale. We are Saving You Money.

SCHAAB & BRO.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

T. G. Matheny, M.D. J. B. Casebeer, M.D.
Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
have again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE
Office ..... No. 9
Matheny's residence ..... " 88
Casebeer's " ..... " 175

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physician & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUGSTORE
In National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Answered At All Hours.

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D
PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

S. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST;
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy buildin northeast corner of Square Western Phone 108
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works. Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

PROPOSED LAWS.

Needed Legislation is now Being Prepared.

Senator Nusbaum of this place is putting in a good deal of time and giving much thought to some needed changes in our every day laws. By this we mean the laws that apply to the every day wants of the people and the officers who serve them. It is not likely that all these reforms will be secured, or that any of the proposed laws will pass in just the form they are in now, but some changes of a radical nature will be made, and the COURIER as usual, wishes the people to see them, so as to study and discuss them fully, and perhaps valuable suggestions will result. So we hope everyene who can will read these proposed bills.

Officers Elected

The Modern American Fraternal Order elected the following officers for the coming term.

President, Tiras Apple
Past President, Jay Love
Vice " Jacob Wagner
Chaplain, Delilah Gillett
Secretary, C. A. Gibford
Treasurer, J. P. Long
Sergeant at-arms, Marion Knepper
Conductor Carrie Gill.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

FROM WILL CLARK

James Clifton has received a letter from Private Will Clark of the regular army that he has been kind enough th hand us for publication. We hope to hear from Will again after he starts.

FT. LEAVENWORTH, KANSAS,
December 23, 1898.

DEAR FRIEND:—Received your letter some time, but have been sick part of the time so did not answer very soon. Well, Mr. Clifton, we are ordered to the Philippines Islands and will start in about ten days or sooner—we go to Manila. I quit school two weeks ago and it has closed. Our regiment is recruited now to war strength, 106 to each company, 12 companies to a regiment, and you can guess from your experience we have a lot of green men in our regiment, There is now at present 18 men in our company that served in the Cuban campaign, most all of them took their discharge. Well, I did not wish my discharge and the Captain advised me not to take it. He said as soon as we came back he would recommend me for a preliminary examination, so I have decided to stick my time out. I will write you from the Philipphines often and also send you some kodak pictures of the people and country. I think the regiment is good for three years, unless the Government disposes of the Islands, which I hope they will. Well I will close for this time, Please answer this before I leave. I remain ever

Your true friend,
WILLIAM CLARK.

Co. D 20th U. S. Infantry.

POOR EXPENSES

Immense Sum Paid out for this Purpose in Indiana.

The South Bend Times in commenting on the recent report of the State Board of Charities says:

The state board of charities has just issued its report based upon reports made by each of the 1,016 township trustees of Indiana. A summary of some of the information given shows the following facts:

There were 75,119 persons aided by the township trustees. This is one person in every 29, according to the census of 1890, which is used as a basis of calculation throughout the report. These received relief to the value of $375,206.92. Of these 43,380 received help for three months or more to the total amount of $228,349.62. This means that 76 per cent of the aid given was permanent relief. It is a striking fact that a large number of families received aid for from 30 to 52 weeks in the year at from $1 to $3 each a week. There were 14,852 males over 21 years helped. The number of males and females relieved was nearly equal. Of those assisted whose occupation is given, by far a large mejority were laborers, the number being 9,477.

Some of these countries show a decrease over the expenditures of last year. Elkhart county, with a population much less than one-third that of Marion county, gave almost as much poor relief. Bartholomew county, with a population of 23,867, spent $7,962.96 and Dearborn county, with a population of 23,864, spent $2,081.69. Fountain county, having a population of 19,558, aided 1,154 persons at a cost of $8,498.56. Of this $7,087.09 was given to 650 persons as permanent relief. Franklin county, with a population of 18,366 aided 244 persons at a cost of $1,211.19 of which $916.82 was given to 94 persons as permanent relief. In quite anumber of counties there has been a notable lessening in poor relief given.

Jefferson county, two years ago showed the greatest number of persons receiving aid of any county in the state—1 in 13. Last year 1 in 45 were helped in that county. Henry county aided 1 in every 27 of its population Wayne 1 in every 21, Favette 1 in 37, Allen county 1 in 28, St. Joseph county 1 in 23, Tippecanoe county 1 in 20, Marion county 1 in 40, Floyd county 1 in 24, Vanderburg county 1 in 26, Montgomery county 1 in 30, Clinton county 1 in 16, Warrick and Martin counties each 1 in 23, while Dubois, which lies between them, stands the highest in the state. 1 in 144 receiving aid. In Columbus township, Bartholomew county, relief was given to 1 person in 6 of its population; in Center township, Clinton county, 1 in 7; in Wabash township, Gibson county, 1 in 8, and in quite a list of townships more than 1 in 12 receiving aid from the township trustee.

In Wayne township, Allen county, the trustee paid last year in cash $6,430.61 to 570 persons, the total sums ranging in amount from $1 to $85 each To some applicants as much as $11 as given at one time.

Swung the Wrong Way.

"So the manager has discharged 's leading lady. What did he take offense at?" "It wasn't a fence; only her gait. That was a barrier he couldn't get over."—Washington Star.

SUDDEN SICKNESS

Elmer Miller Falls Helpless While at His Work

Elmer Miller who works as a blacksmith in the Kiblinger factory was taken suddenly ill while at work today, and fell as if in a fit. He was carried apparently unconscious, first to Dr. Buchtel's office, and he not being at home, they then took him to McCord's drugstore. Dr. Nusbaum was called. He saw it was a case of neuralgia of the heart and gave hyperdermic injections to relieve him, and he was taken home. At last accounts he was resting easier.

International Banking Bill.

Hon. J. M. Robinson has made himself heard and felt in Congress this term, short as it has been. Dec. 16, he made a speech in the House, in opposition to the proposed "International Banking Bill." He believes, the people do not understand the tendency of this bill, or they would have instructed their members to vote against it. He says it tends to concentrate the great capitalists of the country into heavily capitalized banks or syndicates, who having great capital, will gradually kill off the smaller banks and become too strong to be controlled. His speech has a mint of good thoughts, and should be read carefully.

Proof Positive.

"These vegetarians are all wrong." "Think so?" "Certainly. Meat makes life." "That's one doctrine, perhaps." "It's truth. Didn't it take a spare rib to make Eve?"—Indianapolis Journal.

...urn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1899. JANUARY. 1899.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31

L. Q. 4th. N. M. 11th. F. Q. 18th. F. M. 26th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

Dewey Favors It.

Admiral Dewey considers it absolutely necessary that a first-class statesman be sent to Manila to thoroughly investigate the situation there and ascertain the aspirations of the Filipino republicans. He further states that the United States must accept their responsibilities in the Philippines, which have been acquired by conquest. If they should shirk this duty they would put themselves back 200 years in the world's history. The first republican government has resigned over the question of American intervention in the government of the Philippines. Owners of property desire American co-operation.

Moody After the Rich.

Evangelist Dwight L. Moody finds it difficult to convince the rich men that they should contribute generously to keeping up the religious work and semi-charitable institutions. Mr. Moody said recently: "They cling to their wealth as though they should carry it with them to the grave. They should remember that their money will not buy them special privileges in the next world. They should not wait until death claims them. Let them donate now, and God may be merciful to them. The curse of the Almighty follows the niggardly rich man."

The Mormons Are Angry.

Salt Lake special: In connection with the election of B. H. Roberts to Congress and certain charges circulated by the Presbyterian Board of Missions, President Lorenzo Snow of the Mormon Church, furnished a signed statement to a paper here, in which he says the statements published that the Mormon Church is encouraging and teaching polygamy are utterly untrue, and that in office polygamous or plural marriages have entirely ceased in Utah. The election of B. H. Roberts as Representative in Congress from Utah, was a secular affair.

Looting a County Jail.

New York special: The meanest burglars in New Jersey broke into the County Jail at New Brunswick and stole everything they wanted, including $700 from the Sheriff and Jailkeeper George Litterest, who is furious at the insolence with which the housebreakers behaved toward his institution. There is no precedent for burglars finding their way into the New Brunswick prison. They visit with impunity every other building in town, but for a burglar to be in jail is wholly unknown.

Strengthening the Navy.

The energy with which the Navy Department is strengthening its forces in the Pacific Ocean is further emphasized by its decision to send 400 enlisted men as quickly as possible across the continent to San Francisco, to be taken by the next mail steamer to Hong Kong. This action was taken in response to a requisition from Admiral Dewey to send him men to take charge of the captured cruisers Don Juan de Austria, Isla de Cuba and Isla de Luzon.

Two Children Cremated.

Manistee (Mich.) special: News has reached here of the burning to death of Bruce and Alice Milks, children of Tilman Milks of Maple Grove Township. The children were left alone in the house for a short time, and when the father returned the house was in flames. All attempts to enter were futile. A few small charred bones was all that was found of the children after the fire was out.

The Nicaraguan Canal.

Admiral Walker has made a preliminary report on the proposed Nicaraguan Canal. The commission has decided unanimously on the Lull route, which is the low level route. The cost by either route will be about $123,000,000. Gen. Haines, an army engineer, disagrees with his fellow members. He says the cost will be 20 per cent. greater.

Chicago Aldermen Acquitted.

The grand jury investigation into bribery in the Chicago City Council has ended. The grand jury was unable to develop any evidence upon which to base indictments. Nearly every member of the City Council was before the grand jury.

Killed Sweetheart and Self.

May Thomas, a young teacher living near Clare, Iowa, was killed by Harry Garvey, who then ended his own life. He had been keeping company with Miss Thomas, who refused his further attentions.

A Small Battle.

Calcutta special: Natives in British East Africa killed twelve British near Lake Albert. Later the rear British guard repulsed the natives and killed hundreds of them.

Killed at a Funeral.

At the funeral of Mrs. William Martin at Negaunee, Mich., a team, which drew a hack carrying mourners, ran away. William Kevern, a pall-bearer, who was walking beside the hearse, was run over and almost instantly killed. Frank Sheron, a liveryman, who was driving the hearse, was thrown from it and injured, though not seriously.

A Prisoner Cremated.

The jailed burned recently at Summitville, Ind. Fred Barton, an intoxicated prisoner, was burned alive.

Thirty Break Through Ice.

By the sudden breaking of ice on Loverett pond, in the park system at Brookline, Mass., thirty young girls and boys were thrown into eight feet of water, and though numerous spectators worked hard to rescue the children three were drowned before help could reach them.

Miners Caught in Explosion.

A terrific explosion of gas occurred in the Luke Fidler shaft at Shamokin, Pa., by which two persons were fatally injured and several others seriously. The force of the explosion was so great that ten batteries and timber sets were blown to pieces.

BUSINESS NEVER SO ANIMATED.

Foreign Demand for Cereals Continues Unabated—Activity in Other Lines.

Bradstreet's commercial weekly says: "Current business conditions furnish some sharp contrasts to those usually looked for or reported at this season of the year. It is, of course, reasonable to look for exceptional activity in holiday and retail trade generally at this date, and in this respect the most sanguine expectations appear to have been realized. Probably never before at this date, however, was the course of general business so animated as at present. Speculative activity is no longer confined to the stock market, but has widened to include wheat and corn among the cereals and copper among the metals, while the rush of business in iron and steel seems little, if any, abated, and some lines, notably cotton goods and raw wool, are displaying an activity and strength which would have been welcomed at any time for a year past. Prices of securities and of staples alike furnish examples of aggressive strength which are so numerous as to deserve special mention. The foreign demand for cereals continues unabated, any slight price reaction being taken advantage of by foreign buyers. Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 5,515,231 bushels, against 5,243,859 bushels last week. Since July 1, this year, the exports of wheat aggregate 115,236,084 bushels, against 123,566,647 bushels last year. Corn exports for the week aggregate 4,103,673 bushels, against 3,251,936 bushels last week. Since July 1, this year, corn exports aggregate 77,289,-399 bushels, against 76,260,454 bushels during the same period a year ago."

JEALOUSY CAUSES A TRAGEDY.

Duluth Woman Kills the Man She Loves and Attempts Suicide!

A woman's jealousy was the cause of a frightful crime at Duluth, Minn. Mrs. H. L. Borglund shot and killed Peter Hanson, a tailor, and then cut her own throat, inflicting a serious, but not fatal, wound. Mrs. Borglund is a widow, 40 years old. She kept a number of boarders, among them Hanson, who is her cousin. He is 30 years old, but although ten years his senior, the widow was wildly in love with him. Hanson paid her considerable attention for a time, but lately had been quite devoted to a younger woman.

COPPER PROPERTIES SOLD.

Eastern Capitalists Secure Claims Adjoining Clark Mine.

One of the largest deals in copper properties ever effected in New York has been completed. Fourteen claims adjoining each other and adjacent to the great copper mine of W. A. Clark, passed into the hands of Eastern capitalists. The property is located in the town of Jerome, Navapi, Arizona, and is known as the United Verde extension. Mr. Clark's property, the United Verde, is regarded as one of the greatest copper mines in the world, as it pays its owner about $200,000 monthly.

Allotment to Washington Indians.

The Government has encountered a difficulty in allotting lands in severalty on the Colville Indian reservation in Washington State, peopled by 900 Indians. Indian Agent Anderson and Allotting Agent Harry Humphrey have been trying for some time to allot the lands, but have met with resistance, the Indians being opposed to surveys and allotments unless the Government pays them for the land as the Nez Perces and Coeur d'Alenes were paid for theirs. There are about 1,500,000 acres on the reservation, and the contention of the Government is that the Indians have no title to it. The Government proposes to allot eighty acres to each Indian in severalty and give them nothing more. The Colville reservation contains a number of thriving mining towns, among them Re[illegible] where is located the famous Republic mine.

Kansans Blow Up a Saloon.

Citizens of Woodbine, Kan., blew up with dynamite a building in which a "joint" had been started a week before. Everything in the building was destroyed, timbers being thrown for rods and adjoining stores were somewhat injured. No one was hurt. The proprietors had been ordered to leave, but refused to do so.

Murderer Goes Up for Life.

At Chillicothe, Ohio, the jury in the Bert Williamson murder trial, after a night session, brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree. Williamson murdered John Mitchell July 30 at Pottshill at a platform dance. The penalty is imprisonment for life.

Rob a Bank of $18,000.

The American National Bank at Lima, Ohio, was robbed of over $18,000. The stone vault was entered without the use of tools or destroying the time lock.

Morrill Is No More.

Justin S. Morrill, senior United States Senator from Vermont, died at Washington, D. C., in the 89th year of his age, after an illness of less than a week.

Three Small Boys Drowned.

Three boys were drowned at the Old Tivoli reservoir, Albany, N. Y. The boys were playing "shinny" when the ice broke and they went under.

New York Fire Kills Several.

Fire in the five-story tenement at 175 Greenwich street, New York, resulted in the loss of several lives.

MARKET QUOTATIONS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 66c to 68c; corn, No. 2, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 28c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 55c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 22c to 24c; potatoes, choice, 30c to 40c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, choice light, $2.75 to $3.75; sheep, common to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2 white, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2 white, 20c to 30c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 33c to 35c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 52c to 53c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 58c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $2.50 to $3.50; sheep and lambs, $3.00 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2 white, 30c to 31c; rye, 66c to 67c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 69c to 71c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 53c to 55c; clover seed, new, $4.45 to $4.50.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 65c to 67c; corn, No. 3, 31c to 33c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 1, 53c to 55c; barley, No. 2, 44c to 50c; pork, mess, $8.00 to $8.50.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, common to choice, $3.25 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.75; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 78c to 80c; corn, No. 2, 43c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 33c to 35c; butter, creamery, 15c to 22c; eggs, Western, 25c to 27c.

DEATH OF ...

VENERABLE SENATOR EX... IN WASHINGTON.

Aged Vermont Statesman the Victim of Pneumonia—Total Eclipse of the Moon Visible in Many Places—Plans for a New President's Palace.

Senator Justin S. Morrill of Vermont, the venerable "father of the Senate," died at 1:25 o'clock Wednesday morning at his residence in Washington. There were at the bedside the Senator's son, James Morrill, Miss Swan, the sister of his deceased wife, and Senator Proctor, his colleague. He was attacked by grip about a week previous, but as the disease was mild in form, he attended the sessions of the Senate up to the holiday adjournment. His condition was not considered serious until the day before his death, when pneumonia developed. He grew rapidly worse, and Monday night became unconscious, in which state he remained except for a few short lucid intervals. The Senator suffered a severe attack of pneumonia last winter. His wife died last summer just before the adjournment of Congress, and Mr. Morrill had been visibly failing since.

SENATOR MORRILL.

Justin S. Morrill was born at Strafford, Orange County, Vt., on April 14, 1810. He received an academic education and engaged in mercantile pursuits until 1848, when he took up agriculture. He was elected to Congress in 1855 as a Republican, and represented his native State in the Thirty-fourth, Thirty-fifth, Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth Congresses. During his several terms in Congress he always took a leading part in all financial and economic legislation, and was the father of the famous tariff bill of 1861. This bill became known as the Morrill tariff bill.

Senator from Vermont, 1866.

Mr. Morrill was elected to the Senate from Vermont in 1866 and has served continuously ever since. He had been a member of Congress for forty-three years and had at all times been earnestly interested in legislation. Mr. Morrill's career as Senator exceeded in length that of any other Senator in the history of this nation. Thomas H. Benton, the first Senator from Missouri, served thirty-one years in the Senate.

Senator Morrill was widely known in educational circles because of his successful advocacy of the act of 1862 granting land to the various States for educational purposes. The act came to be known as the Morrill land-grant act. It was from the proceeds of this fund and from his private resources that Ezra Cornell founded Cornell University. At that university and at many others Mr. Morrill's name is held in high honor, and a building at Cornell is named for him.

The Senator had been for some years the patriarch of the Senate and held a warm place in the affections of his associates. He likewise enjoyed the fullest confidence of his constituents, who, notwithstanding his years, re-elected him in 1896 for a fifth consecutive term, which would not have expired until March 3, 1903.

MOTIONLESS FIVE MONTHS.

Milwaukee Girl's Strange Trance a Puzzle to Physicians.

For five months Tiny Broeschit of Milwaukee has not spoken a word and lies in her little room entirely oblivious to her surroundings. Every effort to attract her attention or make her so much as raise an eyelid has completely failed. She is gradually wasting away; death is the only thing which her family and friends think will relieve her from her suffering. She has become greatly emaciated, takes but little food and seems simply to exist without interest in the outward and apparent world. She is not in a trance, for during the greater part of the day her eyes are wide open and fixed with a wistful glance upon one corner of the room, where she seems to see things that other people cannot see.

THE AFFLICTED GIRL.

Hypnotists are experimenting with the girl and claim to have made progress in reviving her. They expect to ultimately succeed. Physicians, however, find no change in the girl's condition.

ILOILO IS GIVEN UP.

Spanish Governor Surrenders It Presumably to the Americans.

Iloilo, capital of the island of Panay, in the Philippines, has been surrendered to the Americans. Gen. Rios, the Spanish commander in the Visayas, cabled the Madrid Government as follows from Iloilo:

"Am preparing to embark on the steamer Leo XIII. for Zamboanga, island of Miadanao, having formally surrendered Iloilo, in the presence of the military and naval commanders, the mayor and the foreign consuls. Have charged the German consul with the protection of Spanish interests."

...OTERS AT HAVA...

...f Violence Precede Hoisting of ... Stars and Stripes.

...rioting occurred in Havana ...ght. Before it was quelled ...gulars had to be called for. ...eir work so well that one ...or was killed and a dozen ...and Spaniards injured, some fatally.

The trouble started through the resentment of some Spanish soldiers and sailors because the American and Cuban flags were flying everywhere in the city, which event the Cubans were boisterously celebrating. A Spanish soldier, marching with his company to the wharf, tried to pull down a Cuban flag in Bomba street. He was shot at and dangerously wounded. Desperate fighting followed between Spaniards and Cubans.

Lieut. Miller of the Tenth United States Infantry, whose company had been brought into the city for just such an emergency, and was stationed three blocks away, sent Sergeant Adams with a detail of a dozen men to preserve order. The regulars soon reached the narrow street and forming in line swept all before them at the point of the bayonet, Midway in the block is a cafe. When the Americans reached there they were fired upon. A quick order from Sergeant Adams and a dozen rifles rang out as one. Nearly every shot told, for eight or ten persons were seen to drop. One Spanish sailor was killed and the rest, Cubans and Spaniards, were wounded. That single volley scattered the crowd like so many sheep. The American soldiers captured four of the ringleaders in the disturbance and marched them back to their quarters. None of the American regulars was injured. The city Wednesday was practically in the hands of the Americans.

A PRESIDENT'S PALACE.

A Movement for the Erection of a $10,000,000 Executive Mansion.

A movement is on foot for the erection of a new executive mansion for the President. Paul J. Pelz, the architect of the Congressional Library, has prepared elaborate drawings and diagrams for the proposed mansion. The projectors want the Government to build a home for the President that will be a credit to the nation. They have found an ideal site on Meridian hill, bounded by West Sixteenth and Fourteenth streets. The crest of the hill is 202 feet above the Potomac, while the Capitol site is only 90 feet above the river. They say fifty-two acres can be secured at moderate cost by condemnation, because there are few buildings on the land. The White House grounds have twenty-one acres. Mr. Pelz's plan is drawn on a scale of striking grandeur.

The proposed building is in the form of the letter H. One wing is set aside for the living apartments of the President and his family, and the other is devoted to social and state functions. The connecting structure is to have a roof garden. In the rear of the building is an elaborate system of conservatories inclosing an enormous court that is to be covered. The site is a mile or more north of the White House, which is to be retained for office purposes for the President. The new mansion is to face south toward the

THE PROPOSED NEW WHITE HOUSE.

White House, and its approach from the south side is to be buttressed by walls, terraces and broad flights of stairs, somewhat after the style of those on the west side of the Capitol. The architecture is like that of the Congressional Library, but the plan calls for white marble instead of granite for the building. It is estimated the work will cost $8,000,000 to $10,000,000, and require eight or ten years for its completion.

LUNA'S FACE HID IN ECLIPSE.

Obscured for the Third Time in the Course of a Year.

For about an hour and a half Tuesday night, where clouds did not obscure, it seemed as if a black hand had been put over the face of the moon. Her silver face was blotted out and the sky was as if she had never been. In her flight about the earth she slid for a period of six hours and eighteen minutes through the converging shadow of the earth that projects like a great invisible cone into space in the direction away from the sun. For an hour and twenty-nine minutes the eclipse was total to observers where the sky was clear.

DIAGRAM OF THE ECLIPSE.

As the shadow of the earth has swung about its tremendous circle during 1898 the moon has three times passed through it. Jan. 7 there was a total eclipse that, like the one of Tuesday night, was visible throughout the Americas, Asia, Africa and Europe. July 3 the silver orb that floats in the sky had a section of its bright surface obscured by the shadow of a partial eclipse that could be seen only in Europe. The eclipse Tuesday followed to the second a schedule that was calculated fully fifty years ago by the astronomers of that time.

GOLD GALORE.

Report from Dawson Indicates Increase in Output of 100 Per Cent.

Reports from all the creeks in the vicinity of Dawson indicate that the winter's produce of gold will exceed last year's by more than 100 per cent. New strikes are being made daily and the indications are that the full extent of the Klondike placer regions has by no means been yet determined. All known localities are crowded with hard-working miners, who are pushing development with a rapidity unparalleled in this country. American genius has furnished thawing machinery and frost extractors which enable the miner to work economically and speedily, so that the gold production this winter will be at considerable less cost than heretofore.

Eldorado, Bonanza, Hunker, Skokum, Bear, Chief gulch, Aurora, Dominion, Sulphur, Little Blanch, French gulch and bench claims bordering them are being worked and nearly all with good prospects of success. From Thistle and Tulare creeks, on the upper river, most flattering reports have come, and those who stampeded there in the latter part of September are now returning to Dawson City to procure outfits and make reports that great richness rem...

WAR WAS EXPECTED.

ORDERS NOW MADE PUBLIC PROVE THIS TO BE TRUE.

Preparations Begun Early in January for the Conflict Which Seemed Probable if Not Inevitable—An Unusually Disastrous Season on the Lakes.

Despite the vigorous denials made at the time, the gist of public record that the United States Government became convinced at least as long ago as the first day of January, 1898, that war with Spain was probable, if not inevitable. During all the period from the meeting of Congress in December until the actual declaration of war the President and his advisers, in spite of their reiterated belief in a peaceful solution of the difficulty, were steadily preparing for actual hostilities, and this, too, long before the Maine was blown up. Official dispatches have been made public which establish this fact completely. In January Admiral Selfridge was in command of the European station, and on Jan. 11, 1898, he was instructed to retain his sailors in spite of the expiration of enlistment. Five days later the gunboat Helena, at Funchal, Madeira, which had been ordered to the Asiatic station, received orders marked "secret and confidential," to delay its departure, and the next day it was ordered to Lisbon. At the same time Captain Chester, in command of the South Atlantic squadron, received a confidential dispatch directing him to announce unofficially that the cruisers Cincinnati and Castine would go to the northern boundary of his station for drill and exercise, then proceed to Para, Brazil, "without causing comment." The same day, which was Jan. 17, the Wilmington, at Guadeloup, received instructions canceling its orders to go to South America, and retaining it in the Windward Islands without touching at Spanish ports. Commodore Dewey, at Yokohama, as early as Jan. 27 was instructed to disregard enlistments and keep his sailors. The Maine was blown up Feb. 15; ten days later Theodore Roosevelt sent to Dewey the first warlike dispatch, which read:

"Secret and confidential: Order the squadron, except Monocacy, to Hong Kong. Keep full of coal. In the event of declaration of war with Spain your duty will be to see that the Spanish squadron does not leave the Asiatic coast, and then begin offensive operations in the Philippine Islands. Keep Olympia until further orders."

The Monocacy was practically useless and the Olympia was under orders to return home. At this time Secretary Long was giving out interviews daily affirming that the Maine was destroyed by accident and that there was no danger of war. Yet the day after Roosevelt's stirring dispatch to Dewey Secretary Long sent dispatches to Chester in the Barbadoes, Miller at Honolulu, Howell at Lisbon, Dewey at Hong Kong and Sicard at Key West, all of which read significantly: "Keep full of coal—the best that can be had." March 7, six weeks before the declaration of war, in ordering the Brooklyn to Hampton Roads to leave the flying squadron, Secretary Long used the unusual expression: "The situation is getting worse." April 7, a little over two weeks before the declaration of war, Commodore Dewey was cabled: "Land all woodwork, stores, etc., it is not considered necessary to have for operation"—an order which, of course, contemplated nothing less than an attack on the Philippines. Three days before that Admiral Sampson at Key West had been instructed to be ready at any time to take possession of the Key West cable office, and assigned an officer to stop the transmission to Cuba of any telegram relating to the action of the President or Congress. The destruction of the Maine hurried things along, but the United States, it appears, was preparing for a war without exciting comment long before that terrible catastrophe.

DECLARES FOR NEW ALLIANCE.

Senator Davis Suggests Combination that Can Defy the World.

The Paris correspondent of the London Daily Mail summarizes an interview he had with United States Senator Cushman K. Davis of the peace commission, who advocates a triple alliance between the United States, Great Britain and Japan. The correspondent says: "Mr. Davis declared American and British interests in the far East run quite parallel, and, therefore, the two powers should act jointly. 'I am not appealing to sentiment,' he said, though blood is thicker than water, and this argument should not be ignored. My thesis in favor of co-operation is borne out by the coldest logic. I favor a treaty of alliance, including Great Britain and Japan, for the protection of all their interests north of the equator. The rest of the world would have a wholesome fear, synonymous with respect, for us.'

C. K. DAVIS.

"He proceeded to argue that Russia, Germany and France had secured the great bulk of the commercial benefits in China to the exclusion of both the United States and England. He suggested that such a dreibund could have nothing to fear from any coalition of other nations, and that, therefore, it would tend to preserve the peace. 'There are still 500 years of vigorous fight in England,' said Mr. Davis, 'which shows no sign of decrepitude, while, strong as America is, it will take several hundred years to develop her promise and potency. I do not see why other nations should object to the alliance. If they do, let them. Germany already by special legislation has immensely injured America's commercial interests. German-Americans regret this attitude on the part of the mother country.'"

HEAVY MARINE LOSSES.

An Unusually Disastrous Season for Fresh Water Navigation.

Marine losses during 1898 were materially greater than during any previous season on the lakes. Up to the middle of July insurance men were congratulating themselves that they were doing well. The losses had been few, and there was a large margin of premiums to cover the latter half of the season. Along in September the trouble began, and it did not cease until the last boat was in port at the close of the season.

The trouble was not confined to any one cause. Fire contributed an unusual number of big losses, but strandings were preeminent. The collision item was much smaller than in previous years. As to the grand total of losses from all causes, no two underwriters make estimates within a half of a million dollars of one another. A general average of statements made by people who are in touch with the business places the aggregate loss at about $2,600,000. Vesselmen, who are fearful of high rates next season, protest that these figures are too high.

In a list of 569 losses the causes assigned were as follows: Ashore, 123; aground in protected channels, 120; fire, 40; collisions, 90; ice, 16; storm-beaten, 96; foundered, 8; miscellaneous causes, 116.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP

There is no mistaking the fact that sentiment is growing in Congress against the Morgan proposition to buy the concessions now held by the Maritime Canal Company and build a ship canal across Nicaragua according to the conditions in such concession. A great many sincere friends of the canal cannot bring themselves to believe that it would be the best thing for the Government to go ahead under this particular concession. They contend that to do so would be to commit this Government to the expenditure of anywhere from $40,000,000 to $[illegible],000,000 over and above the actual cost of the canal proper, and they do not see the necessity of assuming any such responsibility. They honestly believe that it will not be fatal to the canal project to allow the concession to the American company to expire and begin negotiations direct with the Government of Nicaragua for the right to construct a water way across that country.

-:—:-

The American peace commissioners and their assistants have been obliged to pay all their personal expenses out of the compensation allowed them by the President. The expense which the Government defrayed included office rent, stationery and general expense. The hotel bills of the commissioners were not defrayed by the Government. As the personal expenses of the commissioners were very high, a comparatively small amount was left to each commissioner and each officer of the commission out of the President's allotment of salaries. Each commissioner will receive about $17,000 for his services, and out of this he must pay all personal expenses contracted on his trip abroad. Secretary Moore will receive half the amount paid to each commissioner, and as his personal expenses were as heavy as those of the members of the commission he will fare worse than his superiors.

-:—:-

Of the 1,700 letters which President McKinley received one day last week one of the most interesting was from a Chicago man named Dougherty. He offered this suggestion: "The United States went to war to set Cuba free. Now we have it in our power to liberate another country of far greater importance and interest without going to war. That is Ireland. We have on our hands the Philippine Islands, which we may offer to England as a compensation as well as to relieve ourselves of what may turn out to be a white elephant. McKinley's ancestors were Irish and his great-granduncle, Francis McKinley, was shot down by the British soldiers as an Irish rebel after a farcical court martial about 100 years ago."

-:—:-

Under the provisions of the bill for the increase of the army the regular force will consist of 3,942 commissioned officers and 96,815 enlisted men, making a total of 100,757 men in all. There will be one lieutenant general, six major generals, twenty-four brigadier generals, 114 colonels, 156 lieutenant colonels, 447 majors, 1,053 captains, 1,401 first lieutenants and 740 second lieutenants. The total enlisted strength of each arm will be: Infantry, 53,220 men; light field coast artillery, 20,598 men; cavalry, 15,840 men; medical departments, 3,750; signal corps, 630; ordnance department, 605; engineers, 1,862; subsistence department, 160, and the quartermaster's department, 150 men.

-:—:-

Ambassador Hitchcock, at St. Petersburg, who was appointed to the position of Secretary of the Interior, has been for a long time a close personal friend of the President, and few, if any, Senators were consulted in advance, the same condition of affairs prevailing when Mr. Hitchcock was first nominated for the Russian mission. Western men seem gratified over the appointment, because they have all along contended that no Eastern man, however competent and acute, could possibly appreciate the needs of the far Western country, which is more interested in the Interior Department than any other branch of the Government.

-:—:-

The President says the idea of placing the graves of Confederate soldiers under the care of the Government first occurred to him twelve years ago, when he visited the city of Fredericksburg, Va. He found the Confederate cemetery in a deplorable condition, while under the care of the quartermaster's department the graves of the Federal dead were nicely trimmed and kept in perfect order. He resolved then that he would take the first opportunity to bring this matter before the attention of the country, and he thinks the time has now come when the dead of both armies should be looked after by the Government.

-:—:-

The Canadian high joint commission will soon reconvene in Washington. It is not true, as widely stated, that the conference is a failure and that indications point to a non-agreement upon a treaty between the United States and Canada. Directly contrary is the case. The Canadian and American commissioners are gradually getting together upon the important points of difference, and there is little doubt of an ultimate agreement.

-:—:-

Before the end of January 50,000 volunteers will be mustered out of the service, the preliminary orders for this having already been drafted. Present plans are that the troops which have seen foreign service will be let out first, but the condition of some of the Southern camps is such as to cause apprehension of an outbreak of typhoid fever, and before the mustering out program is finally arranged it may be deemed necessary to break up those camps.

-:—:-

All of the soldiers in the Cuban army will be taken care of. If they want wages they will be given employment upon the public works. If they prefer to remain in the army they will be organized into rural police, the intention being to keep them together and prevent them from scattering idly like tramps throughout the country.

-:—:-

Dr. J. R. Church, the surgeon of the rough riders, whose gallantry in rescuing the wounded from the field of battle at Santiago was one of the brightest incidents in that campaign, has been appointed a surgeon in the regular army and ordered to report to Gen. Otis at Manila.

-:—:-

It has been decided by the War Department to reinstate Gen. Merritt in command of the Department of the East, whence he was taken for the mission to Manila, and to send Gen. Shafter back to the Pacific coast in command of the Department of California.

-:—:-

Secretary Wilson remarked the other day that he had been gratified at seeing many heroes down South, but he would have been still more gratified if he had seen more hog...

INDIANA ...

RECORD OF EVENTS OF PAST WEEK.

Hypnotism Leads to Divorce... Burglars Secure Much Mo... wood—Electric Railway Int... —Waited with a Corpse in H...

David Price was granted a di... Anderson. Two years ago Mrs. Pr... under the alleged hypnotic influe... Dr. Cox of Huntington, W. Va. Th... hundreds of miles away, he could, it w... shown, control her every action and ev... against her will draw her to him. Wh... the influence came on her she would s... guards around her, but her pain and m... ery would be such that she was forced ... go to him. She is a middle-aged wom... and has a family. She disappeared half ... dozen times and the last time was fou... in Virginia. Price began suit for $25,0... for alienation of his wife's affections. H... relatives will also institute suit for dam... ages.

Boy Kills His Baby Sister.

The 6-year-old son of George Keister of Whitley County accidentally shot and killed his 2-year-old sister. During the temporary absence of their mother the boy took a revolver from a bureau drawer, and while playing the weapon was discharged, the bullet striking the infant in the head. Death was instantaneous. Upon the return of the mother she found the boy with the dead body of the little girl in his arms at the door waiting for her!

Robbers Loot Express Safe.

A daring robbery was committed in Elwood, expert burglars gaining entrance to the building occupied by the United States Express Company, and Marlatt & Clawson's news agency, blowing the safe open. The express company loses about $1,200, Agent Osborn $50 and Marlatt & Clawson $40. A grip belonging to Ed Caldwell of Indianapolis and containing $100 worth of clothing and other goods were among the booty.

Plan a Long Trolley Line.

Forbes Holton, an Anderson glass manufacturer; M. R. Williams, manager of the Strawboard trust plants, and Crawford Fairbanks have formed a company for the purpose of building an electric railroad from Terre Haute, via Mattoon, Ill., to Charleston. The line will be joined to the Indiana system by a line from Indianapolis to Terre Haute, via Greencastle and Brazil.

Killed on Eve of Marriage.

Miss May Cloud, 18 years old, died at the Marion city hospital from the effects of burns caused by a gas explosion. She attempted to light a fire when the stove was full of gas. The case is made more pathetic by the fact that Miss Cloud was to have been married and the home over which she was to preside was furnished.

Within Our Borders.

Mistaking it for medicine, Mrs. Margaret Plessinger, of Anderson, drank silver polish and died.

At Noblesville Robert Love pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree and received a life sentence in prison.

F. G. Romaine, ex-treasurer of Elkhart County, has been fully exonerated of the charge of being a defaulter.

While rabbit hunting near Shelbyville, Albert McCabe shot at a rabbit, but the bullet struck Ira Wilder, killing him.

The forgery case against John C. Billenwider, of Indianapolis, closed at Crawfordsville with a verdict of acquittal.

At Indianapolis, William H. Griffith of the wholesale millinery firm of Gri... Bros. died suddenly of heart disease.

Orestes A. Kepler of Cambridge C... has filed a petition in bankrupt... Li... liabilities are $7,205, and his asse... $4,5...

Postmaster Lytle of Valparaiso found a diamond worth over $200 on the floor of his home. It had been dropped by a burglar.

David Archer, son of John Archer, farmer of Clay County, while out hunting fell and discharged both barrels of a shotgun, the contents lodging in his side, inflicting a wound that will prove fatal.

Engine 98, pulling the north-bound passenger train on the Evansville and Terre Haute, blew up near Kings, fatally injuring Fireman Spindler and seriously burning Engineer Archer. The engine is a wreck.

Farmers throughout the upper section of the Wabash valley report that the severely cold weather seriously injured the wheat. There was little or no snow and the uncovered wheat was frozen until it is quite black.

Fire in the Hartford City Window Glass Company's works burned the cutting-room, the flattening-room and the warehouse. The loss is $30,000. Three hundred and thirty men will be out of work until the rooms are rebuilt.

At Anderson, Frank A. Erhart, promi... nent a year ago and able then to draw his check for $20,000, was given a two to fourteen-year sentence to the reformatory for forgery. He committed forgeries to save bondsmen on large building contracts which ruined him.

The election of E. C. Chamberlain as secretary of a Goshen lodge of Masons makes him the holder of the record for having served longer in one position in the same lodge than anyone else in the country, this being his fifty-third year as secretary of Goshen Lodge.

While trying to dig a rabbit out of his hole near Palestine Samuel Uran and Howard Macomber uncovered a cavern several feet in length and depth, in which was the skeleton of a woman. A ring, a silver comb, a brooch and a bracelet with the monogram "A. E. S." were also found. It is thought the body is that of Agnes Southworth. Many years ago she had a lover of the name of McKinzie. Her parents objected to him and she disappeared. It was claimed she had eloped with him and they had gone to Australia. They were never heard of again.

Mrs. Sarah Deboard, a restaurant cook, died at Kokomo from injuries received several weeks ago. She fainted and fell into a boiler of hot water while at work in the kitchen.

A new United Brethren Church was dedicated at Vermont, the dedicatory sermon being delivered by Bishop N. Castle of Elkhart. Rev. T. W. Williams is pastor of the church.

William Bemis of Brazil accidentally discharged a shotgun which he was cleaning and the contents struck his cousin, William Bemis, in the shoulder and breast. His condition is serious.

Chester Turley, a young farmer six miles west of Kokomo, died from the effects of a runaway while returning from church. Five ribs were broken, one of the broken ribs penetrating his lung.

Mayor Henry P. Scherer and August M. Schmidt, clerk of the Board of Public Works, had a personal encounter in the city hall at Fort Wayne. The Mayor wanted the street forces paid on Friday instead of on Saturday, and the clerk refused to change his routine of work. In the altercation that followed the Mayor struck Schmidt with an umbrella and the clerk hurled an inkstand at the Mayor's head. The Mayor escaped injury but was sprinkled with ink.

...OR-RICH MAN.

...an somewhere—
...way,
...ur neighbor there
...to-day.—
...a heaping share of earth-
...sure,
...gold and fertile land,
...g, cringing slaves at hand
...ings ready at command
...o his every human pleas-

...w desire's most lavish
...e.

...now a beggar, mean and

...ntented in his hovel door.
...he owns no land or gold
...is yet unbounded and un-

...the love of one wee ragged

...s him father—this love pure.
...efiled,
...man in his station high
...his hoarded wealth can nev-
...buy.

PRIDE OF THE GULCH.

BY MAJOR A. ROCHEFORT.

Red Quartz Gulch had been a mining camp; this the most superficial observer could see at a glance, for the little river was filled with the debris from the flanking hills that had been cut and scarred in the search for gold till at a little distance the red seams looked like unhealed wounds, that never would cease bleeding.

In the upper part of the valley, there were still to be seen the dilapidated log cabins where the miners had lived, and the wrecks of sluices and cradles, where more fortunes had been wasted than made.

But though Red Quartz Gulch did not pay as a gold field, many of the miners saw that the fertile bottom below the diggings held inexhaustible wealth, and that they could make by the plow what they had failed to do with the pick; so a score of ranches were established to raise food for the great army of gold hunters back in the hills.

As soon as farms were taken up and a store and postoffice established, the settlers began to see that they must have officers of the law, though what the law was there were very few in Red Quartz Gulch that could say. There was a general impression that a man should enjoy the products of his own labor; that killing, except in self-defense, was a crime; and that horse and cattle stealing was an offense that combined every other wickedness, and as such should be punished by immediate death.

The people being agreed on this, it struck them that the next proper thing to do was to elect a sheriff, who should represent in himself the judicial and executive arms of the law.

The election took place in the long-boxed bar at the end of the store; and as Nelson Thorne had no opposition, he was declared the choice of Red Quartz Gulch by acclamation. Nelson Thorne was a man of fifty-five; tall, grizzled and raw-boned, and, in addition to being the richest man in the settlement, was one of the two heads of families in the Gulch, and as such commanded a degree of respect that would not have been given to a single man.

"I don't know much about the duties of this office, friends, which I'm thankful for your 'lectin' me; but I ain't too old to l'arn. I'm in favor of law and order; more partic'lar when there's horse thieves round, as we all know there is, not far from Red Quartz Gulch. All I have to say is, that if my own son was cotched takin' a horse that didn't belong to him, I'd go in for hangin' him as quick as if he was a Digger Injun or a greaser."

This was Nelson Thorne's speech of acceptance, and though it could not truthfully be called thrilling nor eloquent, it suited the audience, which is more than can be said of more ambitious speeches, and was received with an applause that showed the rough fellows were sure they had for once put the right man in the right place.

Nelson Thorne spoke figuratively when he said that he would hang his own son if caught stealing horses. He had no son; his only child was a daughter, and though not the only girl in the settlement, she was so much the prettiest and most intelligent that she was known far and wide among the red-shirted miners as "The Pride of Red Quartz Gulch."

Nellie Thorne was a gipsy-like beauty, tall, willowy, light of step and bright of eye, and with a healthy glow on her dark cheeks that made them semi-transparent. She had other claims to admiration besides beauty; she could read and write, and had a fondness for books not peculiar to the citizens of Red Quartz Gulch.

No doubt it was this fondness for reading, with her constant yearning for a higher and nobler life than that in which she found herself, that first attracted her to Louis Blanchard.

It certainly was not Louis Blanchard's wealth or success in that rough country that interested Nellie. Though a well-built, good looking young fellow, he seemed out of his element at Red Quartz Gulch; he had failed ignominiously as a miner, and his venture as a farmer threatened to meet with no better success.

It was Nelson Thorne's opinion that "a little larnin' was a necessity." At the same time he labored under the impression that the tendency of a great deal of learning was to drive men crazy and make them "stargazers."

Louis Blanchard was liked in the settlement, but the shrewdest acknowledged, as they could not understand him, that there was something very mysterious about him. He delighted in "readin' of the rocks, an' a-huntin' of flowers an' yarbs, and callin' of 'em names," they said, and a man who did this could not be alto- [illegible] what direction he [illegible] body ventured to suggest [illegible] him. To her he had been the key to a new life, and she looked up to him as a superior being, whom it would be almost a sacrilege to love; yet love him she did, and in her candid way she did not attempt to hide the fact from her parents or neighbors.

There can be no doubt Louis Blanchard would have left Red Quartz Gulch long before it aspired to the dignity of a sheriff, had it not been for Nellie Thorne; and now that he felt sure of her love, the whole aspect of the country changed, and it seemed to him the most beautiful place in the world.

One night, as he was returning to his cabin up the valey, from a visit to Sheriff Thorne's, his attention was attracted by groans coming from the hill. Louis hastened at once in the direction of the sound, and found a man lying on the ground, with a horse, from which he had evidently fallen, standing near. Louis soon saw the man was wounded and speechless. Under the circumstances he did not hesitate as to what he should do, but lifting the man on the horse, he conveyed him to his own cabin and laid him on his own bed. Hs next thought was to get a doctor, and as the only one in that region was at Smith's Mills, eight miles away, Louis determined to go for him, after making the wounded and unconscious stranger as comfortable as possible.

Mounting the man's horse, Louis let the animal take the bit and dash away in the direction of Smith's Mills.

It had been raining very heavily, and though there was now moonlight, the stream was so swollen at the usual ford that he saw it would be downright madness to venture across.

Not discouraged, he turned and made for a crossing about a mile lower down, where the stream was wider.

He had ridden about one-half the distance, when he became suddenly aware of the presence of other riders, and that they were advancing from all points directly towards him.

"Surrender! surrender!" shouted a dozen men, raising their rifles.

Louis checked his horse, and as he did so he realized for the first time that there was a rifle strapped to the sadle.

Believing he was being attacked by outlaws, and stubbornly deciding not to yield, he unfastened the rifle, determined to charge through.

Before he could put his design into execution, one of the men, from behind, knocked him off the horse, and for the time being he ceased to have any interest in the wounded man, his assailant, or anything else.

When he came back to consciousness, daylight was breaking; and by the dim light he saw, first, that he was in the bar of the Red Quartz Gulch Exchange, and, second, that two bearded, rough looking men were standing guard over him.

He asked for an explanation; but they turned away, one of them remarking:

"You'll git all the explanation you want when Sheriff Thorne holds his court."

The morning came; but, in the meantime, Louis Blanchard, from the corner where he sat, bound hand and foot, learned that, on the previous night, a horse and saddle had been stolen from the stable of Tom Billings—a man, by the way, who had long been a suitor for Nellie Thorne's hand—and that this horse was found in the possession of Louis Blanchard, while attempting to get out of the country.

All this, Louis heard in a confused way, that seemed to him like a troubled dream; but the positive reality of the situation was soon made evident.

Sheriff Thorne came in with a troubled face, but did not speak to the prisoner, and everybody in Red Quartz Gulch came and treated him in the same way—that is, everybody but Nellie Thorne. She came, and to hear his story was to believe it.

A jury was obtained with little trouble and less formality, and the trial began in the same realistic way.

Tom Billings stated that, about eleven o'clock the night before, he heard somebody at his stable, and hastened out in time to see a man galloping off on his horse. He fired, but the man rode off, heading straight for Louis Blanchard's house. He then got some of his neighbors together and started in pursuit. They saw the horseman leave Blanchard's house and followed him. They captured him and the man on the horse was the prisoner at the bar. Evidence could not havve been more direct or circumstantial.

Louis Blanchard made his statement, and when he had concluded, Sheriff Thorne dispatched two men to see if any evidence could be found to corroborate the prisoner.

They returned in half an hour, saying they found the house empty, and not a sign of a man's being wounded, either there or where Louis claimed to have found the horse.

That was all. There was only one thing more to do, and much as Blanchard had been respected, everybody looked to the judicial sheriff to do his duty. Mr. Thorne was a man of nerve, true to his word and equal to the occasion.

One hour afterward, Louis Blanchard was on his knees, under a tree, his hands were tied behind his back, the horse he was charged with having stolen was near, and all knew that when he had finished his silent prayer he would be placed on the horse, and the animal would gallop off, leaving him in mid-air.

He rose, and saying he was ready, looked round, that Nellie Thorne might be the last object his eyes rested on. She was not there, and another pang was added to death.

Two men stepped forward to lift him on the horse, but they were stopped by a woman's cry, and the beating of hoofs up the valley. Soon after, Nellie Thorne galloped in, and on the horse she led was the body of a noted horse thief—dead!

"Louis Blanchard was right! Would you be murderers?" she cried.

The men released Blanchard, and Nellie told how, impelled by her faith in the prisoner's statement, she started on the search! and, pointing to Tom Billings, she said:

"You pretended to search, and you did. You saw this body not five yards from the house, and kicked it with your foot and left it. You are worse than the dead horse-thief—you are at heart a murderer!"

This seemed to be the opinion of everybody there, except Billings.

Of course Louis Blanchard was freed, at which there was great rejoicing, and soom after Tom Billings left for other parts.

Since that day justice and law have taken up their abode in the prosperous valley of Red Quartz Gulch; and old Sheriff Thorne often tells, as he amuses his grandchildren, how he once sentenced their father to death.—Saturday Night.

QUEER LEGAL PROCEDURE.

How a Shrewd Lawyer Got the Right of Way in Court.

Time is money, and to no one is the truth of this better known than to some lawyers whose faces are seldom seen in any court below the supreme. An instance occurred in the Municipal Court in Buffalo, N. Y., recently which created amusement.

Judge Braunlein was hearing an action brought to recover a debt of $8, both parties to the case being Poles. The court room was crowded with witnesses, and his Honor had settled down for a long and hard-fought battle between the two attorneys.

The first witness had been called when Lawyer Locke entered the court room. He looked over the assembled crowd, bowed to the Judge, and then, depositing his hat on one of the small tables within the rail, prepared to wait for the end of the case.

An hour passed and still the prosecution kept calling witnesses and piling up testimony. Mr. Locke had for some time been fidgeting in his chair, and finally, when it seemed as though the entire day would be occupied in the hearing, he walked over to the attorney for the plaintiff and touched him on the shoulder.

"What is the amount involved in this case for which your client is suing?" he asked.

"Eight dollars, Mr. Locke," was the reply.

"And the court costs?"

"About four more."

"Will you take $12," and consent to a discontinuance of the case?" asked Mr. Locke. "I have an important case of my own and my time is too valuable to waste it here."

"My client will consent to a discontinuance on payment of $12," said the attorney.

Mr. Locke drew a chair up to the table, took his check book from his pocket, made out a check for $12 and handed it over. The case was at once discontinued and Mr. Locke had the right of way.

He had only two or three witnesses; there was no defence, and in a half hour he was on his way back to his office.

A Bad Break.

"Well, they all break," said the bride of a few weeks, "and I don't know what you are going to do about it?"

"But why don't you get a better brand?" said the young husband, not any too sweetly. "It seems strange, Marian, that every time I sit down to read the lamp chimney breaks into a thousand pieces!"

Next night he came home with a small package under his arm.

"Marian," said he with a tone of superiority, "I have bought a chimney that will last."

"How much did you pay for it, dear?"

"Fifteen cents. I don't want any more of your five-cent things in the house. You see you women haven't a right understanding of the word economy. You think just because you get things cheap that you are saving money—whereas—" and he continued the effusion all the time he was putting the chimney in place.

"There!" said he, turning up the light. "There is a chim—confound the —!—!! well, I wish all the glass blowers and grocers in seven counties were tied up and hung over a clothes line to fight it out. You can bet I'd be there to coach the scrap!"—Detroit Free Press.

The Czar's Slavery to Duty.

The Czar's melancholy visit to Copenhagen is nearly over, and soon he will be hurrying across to Europe to rejoin the Czarina at Livadia. Apart from the occasion itself, his stay in the Danish capital appears to have been marked by exceptional gloom. The young autocrat occupied three modest rooms in the overcrowded palace of Bernstorff, and is said to have passed almost his whole day in his little study reading or writing dispatches. Every morning a courier arrived from St. Petersburg with a fresh batch, and every evening another set out thither to take back the result of the day's work. After breakfast he walked for an hour with his mother in the park, that being the sole recreation he permitted himself, besides joining the other members of the family for a short time at and after meals. He must often have looked back with a sigh to the time when he roamed about the place a careless boy in the company of his stalwart father.—London Chronicle.

A Great Searchlight.

The largest searchlight in the world is not to be found afloat upon the high seas, but on the top of Echo Mountain, not far from Pasadena, Cal. An electric railway, a remarkable feat of engineering, described in "The Scientific American," connects the level where the orange and roses grow with the summit of the Sierra Madres, 5,000 feet above. Until the searchlight referred to, the reflecting lens, of which weighs about 700 pounds, was established, at this great height, its powers could not be fully brought out. The light is of 3,000,000 candle power, and can be seen, from its present location, one hundred and fifty miles at sea. Its full sweep illuminates the peak of the mountains that are hundreds of miles apart.

Caught by Glitter.

A bank in New York city has largely increased its business, particularly among fashionable women, by issuing to it depositors gilded check books with monograms thereon. The bank checks are printed in gold from exquisitely engraved plates.

SUN NEVER SETS ON OLD GLORY.

IN THE race against time the United States beat out the sun by two minutes. In other words the sun never sets on the territory of this land. Before it can set in one extreme its face peeps above the ocean at the other, and on the longest day of the year the flag beats the sun and has two minutes to spare. Sixteen minutes are added as the extreme limit to any day in the equation of time; the flag has eighteen over the half of the twenty-four hours. It is a narrow margin, but it will do, as the following demonstration will show.

It was not necessary for the United States navy to take the Canaries in order to extend the territory eastward. The taking of Porto Rico put the extreme eastern borders just ninety minutes of longitude farther east and six minutes of time in the same direction. Eastport, Me., which for all the life of the nation before the Spanish war, held the honor, must now yield the palm to Porto Rico. But the difference is comparatively trifling. Porto Rico commences—just out of the Saragossa sea—in longitude 65 degrees 30 minutes west. Eastport is within half a mile of 67 degrees west. This makes the difference ninety minutes of longitude in favor of Porto Rico. Fifteen minutes of longitude equal one minute of time, so the island wins by six minutes in time.

With Porto Rico for the extreme eastern starting point, the flag runs with the sun to the Philippines. Taking Manila as the western point—although it is not the extreme point—and these United States extend over 184 degrees 32 minutes and 4 seconds of longitude. That is nearly five degrees more than half the circumference of the earth. The difference in time between Porto Rico's eastern point and the cathedral in Manila is twelve hours and eighteen minutes. In other words, when it was 5 a. m. in Porto Rico Saturday morning it was 4:42 p. m. Friday in Manila. This is, of course, reckoning all from east to west. Of course out somewhere in the mighty Pacific they play fantastic tricks and take their time from Tokio, Singapore or some other oriental city and lose a day, but that is another story.

But the sun pays no attention to the fantasies of man; he just goes on and shows his face as the earth revolves on its axis. So it will be seen with this wide variation of time covering thousands of miles, the sun will not set in Manila on Friday before it has made the Atlantic ruby red in the vicinity of the eastern coast of the western continent. In Porto Rico it will have lifted its disc above the tumbling waves for several minutes in the summer and not be far away in the dead of winter. So the flag is never wholly in the dark these days, as the sun flashes on its ensign and stripes somewhere in the earth every minutes of the day.

These United States did not need to go beyond their original limits—that is, their transcontinental limits—to be larger than any other land on earth. The United States on this continent, excluding Alaska and measuring in degrees of longitude only continuous territory, covers 55 degrees. This limit is taking San Francisco as the western objective, although the California city is not as far west as some others farther north. The difference in time between the extreme eastern coast at Eastport and San Francisco is three hours and forty minutes, quite an extent of territory. From the seat of government the time difference is just three hours.

Westward the star of empire, etc., has been exemplified in nearly all that the United States have done. Most people would believe that when Hawaii and the rest of the Sandwich group were taken in by treaty that the westward limits were extended, yet this is far from being true. Honolulu is 10 degrees in longitude, or forty minutes in time, east of Dawson City, Alaska, and over an hour east of the extreme western limits of the northern territory. But a big jump was made to the west until longitude began to read east when Dewey licked Montejo in Manila bay.

Incidentally these United States cover a large amount of distance in latitude. They run from the arctic circle to within hailing distance of the equator. If an enormous flag were spread out so that it would take in everything over which it now floats the accurate measurements would just about bring all within its borders. The Philippines run down to within five degrees north of the equator; the northern cape of Alaska goes well up to 72 or 73 degrees north latitude. So it will be seen that a man must do a power of sailing north, south, east and west to get away from parallels of latitude and longitude from which the flag of America is absent.

Climatically the country now runs the entire gamut of the earth. It has possessions in the torrid climes very near the central belt; it runs for degrees into the frigid at the top of the scale. It takes in every phase of atmospheric manifestation and disturbance from a typhoon to a blizzard. It ranges from climes where ice is never absent to those where is is never known. In some of the new possessions ice could scarcely be maintained with ammonia process, while in some parts of Alaska it would [illegible] field to electricity.

[illegible] the chart which the [illegible] tion offers in its race with the sun. Starting with the eastern limits of Porto Rico in longitude 65 degrees 30 minutes west, with the time fixed at 5 a. m., the territorial limits, longitude and time of day follow this schedule:

New York, longitude 76 degrees west, time 4:15 a. m.

Chicago, longitude 88 degrees west, time 3:15 a. m.

San Francisco, longitude 122 degrees west, time 1:15 a. m.

Honolulu, longitude 155 degrees west, time 10:41 p. m.

Dawson City, longitude 165 degrees west, time 10:21 p. m.

Carolines, longitude 155 degrees east, time 7:42 p. m.

Ladrones, longitude 145 degrees east, time 7:02 p. m.

Manila, longitude 122 degrees 58 minutes east, time 4:42 p. m.

In the majority of these cases the longitude is taken from government charts. The others are approximated, but so nearly that exact measurements will not show substantial variation. It will be seen, therefore, with the exact west longitude of Porto Rico set down against an equally exact east longitude, counting both from Greenwich, for Manila, the total distance in degrees, etc., and hours is fixed. The intermediate points outside of the continental limits are estimated from their location on the charts and may vary as much as a couple of degrees. This, however, would not make more than eight minutes in time variation.

A SONG CONTEST.

How the Poets of Provence Amused Themselves in Olden Times.

Evaleen Stein writes a story of the days of good King Rene for the St. Nicholas. It is called: "The Page of Count Reynaurd," and the following is a scene from it:

By and by King Rene came into the hall and took his seat on the throne. He wore a rich robe of purple velvet, embroidered all over in the brightest silks and gold; and after him came a great troupe of troubadours and minnesingers, some carrying their own harps or viols, and some followed by little pages who bore their masters' belongings.

As the good King Rene looked at his gay company and the brilliantly hung hall and the long tables, his eyes sparkled with delight, and his heart swelled with pleasure when he thought of the coming contest; for he was never so happy as when thus surrounded by his dear troubadours, whom he loved to make in every way as happy as possible.

Then, when all was ready, a gayly dressed herald came into the hall, and kneeling before the King, and bowing to the assembled company, announced the coming of the two counts, William and Reynaurd. All the other troubadours and minnesingers stood up, and King Rene smiled graciously as the two noblemen entered, followed by their pages, Pierrot and Henri, each of whom carried a viol bedecked with long silken ribbons.

When the counts had saluted the King and taken their places before him, he commanded a seneschal to bear in the prize; and so the beautiful collar of jewels was brought in upon a silver tray and placed on a carved bench beside the King. Then a herald stepped out, and, lifting the collar upon the point of a flower-wreathed lance, displayed it to all the company and announced the terms of the contest of song about to take place.

All of which was certainly a great deal better and prettier than the customs of most of the other royal courts of that time. In all the lands except where King Rene lived, when the people wanted entertainment they used to gather together to see contests called tournaments, where noble lords tried to overthrow each other with real lances on which were no garlands. But King Rene could not endure such barbarous displays, and so in his palace no one fought another except with pretty verses, and the best poet was the champion.

FAVORITE OF A HAREM.

Beautiful Brooklyn Girl the Wife of a Pasha in Morocco.

For two years past a lovely Brooklyn girl has been the favorite wife of a rich Moor living at Tangier. She claims to be perfectly happy, and declares that not on any account would she leave her present home. Some facts regarding this remarkable young woman have just been brought to this country by Mrs. Haider, a member of the law class of New York University. She and her husband have returned from an extended wedding tour, in the course of which they visited Tangier. While there Mr. Haider secured for his wife permission to visit the harem of an enormously wealthy pasha living in that quaint old place. In one splendid apartment of the palace Mrs. Haider found the most lovely woman she had ever seen. A guide in a whisper informed the visitor that this was the reigning favorite. The beautiful creature did not look like an Oriental, and Mrs. Haider asked her a question in French. The favorite smilingly replied in English, saying that was her native tongue. The accent suggested American education, and Mrs. Haider hinted as much. Thereupon the beauty said she was a native of Brooklyn. The visitor expressed a desire to rescue her from degrading slavery and was astonished to hear the girl say as she nestled more luxuriously among her cushions:

BROOKLYN GIRL IN A TURKISH HAREM.

"Why, my dear, I wouldn't change my position for that of any other woman in the world. I am perfectly happy—as happy as a queen."

"But," said Mrs. Haider, "how did you ever get here? Were you stolen by the pasha's people?"

"Oh, dear, no," was the reply. "I am the daughter of a Brooklyn merchant. My father was a widower and was in the habit of making a yearly European trip. I accompanied him twice. The second trip we came to the far east. While we were in Morocco—and quite accidentally—the pasha saw me and (here she hesitated and smiled)—well, fell in love with me. I cannot tell you how I became aware of the honor he showed me, but I deliberately chose my life here as his wife. I have been the favorite of the harem ever since I entered it, more than two years ago, and I would not be anything else for the world. Don't pity the American wife of the grand pasha. It's mere waste of sentiment."

Captain Sigsbee as an Artist.

One day in the spring of 1875, when the Daily Graphic, of New York, was in full swing of its meteoric career, a modest-looking young man called at the art department of the paper, at its Park place offices, with a package of sketches. The drawings were left for inspection, says the Philadelphia Times, and the artist, handing his address in Brooklyn to the assistant of the art editor, took his departure. The availability of the work was manifested as soon as the package was opened, and a comic series from the lot was reproduced at once for the front page.

Their appearance made quite a flutter among the art staff, for talent capable of furnishing good comics in pen and ink in those days was a scarce and costly article. The page was signed "S.," and that was all the staff knew about it until there was a general shoving about of work-desks to make room "for Mr. Sigsbee." But Mr. Sigsbee did not materialize, nor did the supply of his wonderfully funny drawings continue.

It became known that the art editor had duly notified Mr. Sigsbee that his sketches were accepted, and that he would be given a place upon the art staff at once. Would Mr. Sigsbee please be on hand upon Monday morning? But the week rolled by, and there was no Mr. Sigsbee. The art editor was unspeakably astonished. He then wrote still more urgently to the coy but desirable artist, and this time he got an answer: "Lieutenant Commander Charles Sigsbee, U. S. N., sends his compliments, and begs to say that as he is at present in command of a Government ship he cannot accept the position offered."

[illegible]le music makes a man as disagreeable as a little learning.

IN THE HOLY LAND.

The Ancient City of Jerusalem Is Mostly Underground.

A well-appointed train runs from Jaffa to Jerusalem, passing through the famous orange groves of Jaffa, the Biblical plain of Sheron, the highlands of Judea, and the Valley of Rephaim, says a correspondent.

At first sight, and from a distance, Jerusalem appears as a mass of huge grey walls, with lofty battlements, above which rise minarets, cupolas and dark green cypress trees; while all round are bare, arid-looking hills on the slopes of which modern buildings are curiously intermingled with the walls of crumbling old ruins. On entering the city through one of its numerous gates we find a labyrinth of narrow malodorous alleys, thronged with a curious mixture of Turks, Greeks, Jews, Armenians, Copts and Latins. In the quieter streets the windowless walls of the massively built houses tower above you like the steep sides of some huge fortress, while in the business quarters we find the same rows of squalid looking little wooden cribs and roofed bazaars that one sees in almost every Eastern town.

Excavations conducted by Sir Charles Warren have proved beyond doubt that the ancient foundations of Jerusalem are in many places 100 feet under ground, showing that the actual Jerusalem of Herodian times is now to a great extent a buried city. A brightly written resume of the work that has been done by the Palestine Exploration Fund will be found in Henry A. Harper's "The Bible and Modern Discoveries."

After a short stay in Jerusalem I rode on to Jerico and the Dead Sea. Outside the city walls, and grouped along the path that leads to the Garden of Gethsemane, were the unhappy lepers, as sailing the passers-by with their sad, monotonous plaint—"Lepra! Lepra!" Driven from their homes at the smallest sign of the fell disease, these unfortunates expose their hideously disfigured hands and limbs for the pity of the charitable. Another dreadful scourge with which the natives seem to be afflicted to a fearful extent is ophthalmia, a disease exhibiting various forms, and involving in only too many cases the complete destruction of the eye and permanent loss of sight. Taken in time, ophthalmitis can be healed, but, with the characteristic indifference of the Oriental, the natives leave it until it is too late to effect any cure.

I rode across rough, barren looking country, parched and dried up by the heat of a Syrian sun. Across the Valley of Jehosaphat stood Mount Zion, silhouetted against the deep blue of a cloudless sky; in the distance lay the Valley of Hinnom, where in bygone days children were consumed in the fiery lap of Moloch, the god of the Ammonites; while on the right glistened the white houses of Siloam. Presently the fig and olive groves that surround the village of Bethany came in sight, and all the women and children in the neighborhood turned out with the inevitable cries for baksheesh. With the descent rapidly growing steeper and the surroundings more wild and rugged, we proceeded until the site of the ancient town of Jericho was reached. Far away beyond the placid waters of the Dead Sea, that glistened brightly in the distance, rose the mountains of Moab.

After a good night's rest at Jericho I was off again, accompanied by the usual retinue of dragoman, shields, and others, for the shores of the Dead Sea, where—after a brisk gallop across the sandy plains—I enjoyed one of the most delightful and refreshing dips it has ever been my lot to experience. A swim in the Dead Sea is indeed a pleasure. The ride from the Dead Sea to the Jordan is pursued for some little way through a regular jungle of tamarisk trees. I returned to Jerusalem by the Mar Saba route. Perched on the summit of a steep cliff in the valley of the Kedron, and far from any human habitation, is a monastery inhabited by some sixty or seventy monks, who have inured themselves to a life of the most rigorous discipline and fasting. After a short stay in this desolate seclusion, I rode back over the mountains of Judea to Jerusalem.

A Little Mistake.

"The meanness of some people is too aggravating," said the paperhanger as he viciously slapped the paste on the length of paper. "They seem to want to do everything themselves nowadays instead of giving workmen a chance to earn a living. People cobble their own boots instead of paying to have 'em done decently; and some women will smother themselves and everything in whitewash trying to do their own ceilings rather than pay half-a-crown and have it done by an expert."

"Some people are always grumbling," said the mistress of the house, who had entered in time to catch the last words. "Didn't I give you enough beer just now?"

"It's about the meanest thing I've known," returned the indignant paperhanger. "You have me in to do one room, and all the while your husband is doing the other himself."

"Who says so?"

"You wouldn't have two men doing the same thing at once, and I know you're having the next room papered, because I can hear someone scraping the walls. You might ha' given the job to me."

"A lot you know about it," retorted the lady with fine scorn. "That's my husband shaving himself!"

Curious Oath.

The most curious European oath is administered in Norway. The witness raises his thumb, his forefinger and his middle finger. These signify the Trinity, while the larger of the uplifted fingers is supposed to represent the soul of the witness and the smaller to indicate his body. Before the oath is taken a long exhortation is delivered.

Before and After.

Young Mrs. Styles—Men are so different after marriage.

Miss Singleton—So I've heard; but why do you say it now?

Young Mrs. Styles—Why, at my request, Charles willingly gave up going to the war; but, if you'll believe it, he shows no inclination to give up his club for my sake.—Boston Transcript.

Sympathy.

She—Where were you last Sunday?

He—I was alone with my thoughts.

She—Dear me! How lonesome you must have been.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 5, 1899.

Wants His Help.

Dr. Nusbaum has received the following letter, asking his assistance as a member of the Senate, to help through a much needed bill.

IRVINGTON, IND., Dec. 12, 1898.

SENATOR NUSBAUM.

DEAR SIR.—At the annual meeting of the Indiana Horticultureal Society, held this month, there was a committee appointed towit: Sylvester Johnson, Hon. John Coburn and J. J. W. Billingsly, to formulate a bill, as enclosed, and place in the hands of some member of the legislature, who would likely interest himself in its passage.—Upon a consultation held by the committee, you were selected as the proper person to do this work.

Although Judge Coburn is an attorney and an ex-member of Congress, and has given the bill a careful examination and has dressed it up, there may be some defects in it which you will no doubt, kindly remedy.

If you will undertake this task and also use your best effort to put the bill through, you will be remembered by the members of our society as well as by all the fruit growers and lovers of fruit in Indiana.

If you have not made the ravages of the San Jose scale a study and desire further information if you will ask Prof. J. Troop of Purdue, for documents, he will gladly furnish them.

Very Truly Yours.

J. J. W. BILLINGSLY,
SYLVESTER JOHNSON, } Com.
JOHN COBURN.

OBITUARY.

Rev. H. A. Croy was born near Richmond, Va., Oct. 18, 1821, and died Nov. 25, 1898. He had been in poor health for some time and was not confined to the bed until the last three weeks of his sickness. He was converted at the age of 24 years and has been a faithful worker for God, having been an ordained minister for 45 years in the Church of God. Those that were closely acquainted with father Croy found him always ready with cheering words of comfort and a sympathetic nature. He has had trials and troubles, but through them all has been patient, and and at one time during his sickness was heard to say; "I have seen all the trials and troubles in this life, and now I am ready to go and meet the reward." Father Croy, leaves four sons, Martin, Jefferson, Clark and Harvey, sixteen grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters to mourn the loss of a kind father, brother and grandfather. His two wives and eight children have preceded father to the future world. He has since the death of his wife lived with his youngest son, Harvey, on East Ninth-st, where he was at the time of his death. The funeral services were held on the 28th Nov. at the Church of God, Rev. J. W. Markley officiating, after which the remains were taken to Churubusco and laid to rest by the side of his first wife in Eel River cemetery.

Mr. Lacky in Control.

Geo. W. Lackey is in full control of the great Bishop & Lackey store. In fact he has largely controlled it since last spring. But the corporation has ceased to exist and the entire ownership is vested in Mr. Lackey. But the business will be pushed with the same vigor and business ability as heretofore and the establishment will continue in the front rank of Auburn business enterprises. Mr. Lackey thoroughly understands the business, having had control of large stores for many years. The public have full confidence in him and these two conditions insure the continued success of the popular establishment of which he is now the head.

That Throbing Headache

Would quickly leave you, if you used Dr. King's New Life Pills. Thousands of sufferers have proved their matchless merit for Sick and Nervous Headaches. They make pure blood and strong nerves and build up your health. Easy to take Try them. Only 25 cents. Money back if not cured. Sold by H. B. McCord the druggist.

D. of H. Officers Elected

Election and installation of officers occurred at the Degree of Honor Lodge last evening. A special program was introduced and refreshments served. The following are the names of the officers elected and installed:

Past Chief, Mrs. Cochran
Chief of Honor Mrs. Farmer
Lady of Honor, Mrs. Jolliff
Chief of Ceremonies, Mrs. Bolender
Recorder, Mrs. Bolton
Financier, Mrs. Rhodefer
Receiver, Mrs. Baughman
Usher, Mrs. Brandon
Inner Watch Mrs, Reesch
Outer Watch, Mrs. Bumpus
Medical Examiner, Dr. Hines.

A white Mark

Foley's Kidney Cure is a perfectly reliable preparation for all Kidney and Bladder diseases. The proprietors of this Great Medicine guarantee it or the money refunded. Do they not deserve a white mark?

ANGOLA TRAGEDY!

A Normal Student Shot by His Own Revolver

ANGOLA, IND., Jan. 4, 1899.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Our town was thrown into a state of excitement last evening at six o'clock, by the report that Graham Kerr, of Paris, Ky., a young student of the Tri-State Normal college had shot himself in his room at the residence of Prof. L. M. Sniff. Mr. Kerr had just entered his room when the shot was heard, and friends found him lying in the door of his room with a 44-caliber revolver by his side and a bullet hole in his breast just above the heart. The best physicians in the town were called but nothing seemingly could be done for him. He was semi-unconscious and could tell nothing of how it happened, and this morning he is entirely unconscious, and no hopes are entertained for his recovery. It is believed to be an accident.

WOMEN SHOULD KNOW IT.

Many women suffer untold agony and misery because the nature of their disease is not correctly understood. They have been led to believe that womb trouble or female weakness of sme sort is responsible for the many ills that beset womankind.

Neuralgia, nervousness, headache, puffy or dark circles under the eyes, rheumatism, a dragging pain or dull ache in the back, weakness or bearing-down sensation, profuse or scanty supply of urine with strong odor; frequent desire to pass it with scalding or burning sensation, sediment in it after standing in bottle or common glass for twenty four hours, are signs of kidney and bladder trouble.

The above symptoms are often attributed by the patient herself or by her physician to female weakness or womb trouble. Hence, so many fail to obtain relief, because they are treating, not the disease itself, but a reflection of the primary cause, which is kidney trouble.

In fact, women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble and both need the same treatment.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is the great discovery of the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is easy to get at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar.

To prove its wonderfnl merits you may have a sample bottle and book telling all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. Kindly mention the Auburn COURIER and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. B.

Look at This.

Will offer another tile slaughter during the mo[illegible]ary, at the following cash [illegible]

3 inch tile pa[illegible]		$ 7 00
4	" "	10 00
5	" "	14 00
6	" "	18 00
7	" "	23 00
8	" "	30 00
10	" "	50 00
12	" "	70 00
Hollow building blocks		27 00

15 inch tile made to order.

Three miles south-east of Auburn.

W. D MILLER, Mfg.

New Wrinkles.

In some parts of the country great pains are being taken to get finely flavored pork, and more particularly, hams. In some places, where there are beech trees, the hogs are partly fattened on beechnuts, to secure the beechnut flavor. Many of our older people can remember when beechnut pork had to take second place in the market. Now it brings a high price. Sour milk and baked apples are also used to fatten hogs to secure a fine flavor.

Gets No Sympathy

John Robbins gets but little sympathy among the married men of Auburn just now. Forgetting or ignoring the time-honored custom of Auburn men, he had gone to the woodpile to bring in a big stick of wood, and in the awkwardness of a first attempt, he let it fall on his foot. He insists that his wife was absent, or he would not have undertaken to do her work. But still, as he has no proof to clear him, he will get no sympathy till he shows up a better excuse.

When Your Heart Flutters.

That is not heart disease. That is no terrible heart failure, that is Indigestion, the prime cause of all short breath and sudden jumping of the heart which so frequently follows an exertion of any kind. Go to the Drug Store. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No more need be said; for after you use it once, you will never fail to keep it in the house. Davenport the Druggist.

Poland Pigs For Sale

I have a number of fine Poland Chicago hogs for sale, boars and brood sows, at cheap prices for such good stock. Call on A. D. Moore at Moores, Ind.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

James Brinkerhoff.

The notice we had of Mr. Brinkerhoff contained a number of inaccuracies, and as many would be pleased to see these corrected, we have, by the kindness of Mayor John B. White of Bryan, whose wife is Mr. Brinkerhoff's daughter, been able to give the facts.

James Brinkerhoff was born, May 23, 1823, at Sempronius, Cayuga Co. N. Y. He moved with his parents to Richland Co. Ohio, in the year 1834. On arriving at the proper age, he received the appointment of cadet at the U. S. Military Academy at West Point, where he was a classmate of U. S. Grant and a number of others who afterwards became famous in the rebellion on one side or the other. Later he studied law with his older brother, Jacob Brinkerhoff. (The latter served two terms in Congress and nineteen years on the supreme bench of the state, resigning then on account of ill health.) Later on, Mr. Brinkerhoff studied medicine with Dr. Hays of Savannah in Ashland county. He was married to Mary McKibben, Sept. 24, 1849, she dying Sept. 25, 1854. His second marriage was in 1856, and] this wife died in 1890. He leaves but one child, Mrs. Belle White, wife of John B. White the present mayor of Bryan, Ohio. He died as stated before, Dec. 14, 1898, having been in declining health for some time. The rest of the notice we had, was in all essential points, correct.

You tire easy?
Your heart flip flops, you tremble.
and think you are getting old,
and fear someone will know it.
You pretend you aren't tired.
You try to look pleasant, when in fact.
you are puffing like a steam engine;
and can't throw a brick across a cow path,
Without wheezing like a shingle-mill.
But you bet you are not getting old,
You are all right,
but you don't know it.
You have indigestion.
You have let it run too long.
You can cure it by using
Dr, Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
It's a sure shot, at 10c, 50c. or $1. bottle.
Get it of Davenport the Druggist

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

ANSWER TO PROBLEM

MR. EDITOR. Please insert my answer in the COURIER with the rest of them, as we may not all have the same answer. According to my view of the problem, it must be understood that after they put their money together A owed to B $6 and B to C, C to D D to E the same amount, but E only $5 to F. A owed B $6, paid $5, B's loss $1. B owed C $6, paid $5 C's loss 1 and B's gain $1. Cowed D $6, paid $5, D's loss $1, and C's gain $1. D owed E $6 paid $5 E's loss $1 and D's gain $1. E owed F $5, paid $5.

It is seen where one lost $1 in an operation he would gain $1 in the next with the exception of E. So E lost $1 by the operation. This is open for correction. H. A. WINSLOW,

A Second Answer.

WATERLOO, IND., Jan. 3, 1898.

James A Barns.

DEAR SIR:—I noticed an answer in the DAILY COURIER by H. A. Winslow, to the $5 progressive debt problem, and the gentleman is in error. To prove my assertion, suppose A had had $5. He could have canceled his indebtedness to B, B to C, C to D, D to E, and E to F, without the latter gentlemen going down after their respective dollars. If the combination ends the transaction, A has gained $4, while B, C, D and E have each lost $1. In other words, the four last named are out of debt (and money) and A owes each $1.

Yours respectfully,
H. S. McINTOSH.

A Frightful Blunder

Will often cause a horrible Burn, Scald, Cut or Bruise. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the best in the world, will kill the pain and promptly heal it. Cures Old Sores, Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, all Skin Eruptions. Best Pile Cure on earth. Only 25 cts. a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H B. McCord, the Druggist.

New Year Masquerade.

A pretty masquerade party was given at Waterloo Saturday evening, for the closing hours of the old year and the ushering in of the new. The moving spirits were Miss Stella Leas, daughter of W. H. Leas and Minnie McEnterffer daughter of Hiram McEnterffer. There were about 40 couples of invited guests, all handsomely masked, and the grand march was formed at about nine o'clock. The evening was spent pleasantly in dancing and conversation and the occasion was closed by a splendid lunch. The young people who participated, and the older friends who were spectators merely, say it was the most brilliant and enjoyable affair witnessed there for a long time.

Wail of an Arkansas Editor.

An Arkansas editor who read that a lady in New York "kneads bread with her gloves on" remarks: "We need bread with our pants on; we need bread with our boots on, and if our subscribers who are in arrears don't soon pay up we shall need bread without anything on."

COURT NEWS.

Tuesday's Daily.

Yesterday, the greater part of the regular panel was objected and new juryman put on to try the horse trade case from Garrett. It was the case of Roberts vs Browand and Hathaway. It appears from the complaint, that Roberts had a horse valued at $100 and Browand had one valued at about $90. They struck up a trade and Browand was to give Roberts his horse and $10 to boot. But when it came to delivering the horse, he got Hathaway to take another horse to Roberts and make the latter believe it was the $90 horse. Roberts, later on, found out the deception and wanted to trade back and return the $10. Brow and refused, and so Roberts sues for $100 damages and expenses of the suit. The attorney for Roberts are Gengler and Mountz; for Browand are Hoffman and Sharpless. The jury gave Roberts $54.

Wednesday's Daily.

Yesterday came up an assault and battery case from Garrett. It appears that John Slifer is a butcher and we presume is a son of the Slifer who used to keep a sort of meat market in Auburn, but who moved to Garrett several years ago, and died there. It appears that Slifer would get drunk now and then, and would then be pretty hard to manage. On this occasion he had filled up to the boiling point and was making a fool of himself and attracting a good deal of attention and and some one had poked fun at him, just enough to keep him hot. At about that time Henry Scissinger came by, and made some remarks that Slifer objected to. But Scissinger went on to a grocery and got a can of corn, and then came back. The quarrel was renewed, when Slifer caught up a butcher's cleaver and rushed towards Scissinger with the weapon drawn up over head to strike. Slifer's brother had caught him around the arms and body to hold him back or at least to keep him from striking, But the cleaver came down, either by accident or by his own act, and struck Scissinger on the head, cutting a gash two inches long and as the prosecution claim injuring the skull. The matter was brought before the grand jury and Slifer was indicted. The attorneys for Scissinger, were the prosecutors, as it was a state case. They were Pomeroy of Auburn and Mountz of Garrett. For the defense, that is for Slifer, were Sharpless of Garrett and Moody of this place. Slifer had been arraigned on a charge of assalt and battery only, although the state claimed they could have called it an assault with intent to kill, for which he could have been sent to the pen for from two to fourteen years. For assault and battery he could, if the charge was proven, be fined in any sum up to $1000. And to this could be added if the jury chose, a term not over six months in the county jail. So they asked that he might be given some fine and the full limit of six months in jail. On the other hand the defense, while admitting the assault, asked the lowest limit. They contended there should be only a light fine and no jail sentence at all. Slifer had plead guilty to the charge of assault in hope to have an easy punishment. The jury were given the charge and at six o'clock retired to their room. They did not reach the decision till near midnight, when they brought in a verdict against Slifer and fixed his punishment at thirty days in jail and $50 fine. It was a pretty lively case and the attorneys, though mostly young men, put up a nice fight for both sides

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Two Well Known Statesmen.

talked for months, from a front porch and a rear end of a car. Perhaps the use of Foley's Honey and Tar will explain why they could do this without injury to their vocal organs. It is largely used by speakers and singers.

RUBBERS

Rainy Weather

brings with it a DEMAND for RUBBERS. They are always handy to have because they protect the shoes from dampness. They are no longer the clumsy articles they once were, but are made so light and flexible that one can put them in the pocket or muff when not needed. We still have a full assortment in all styles and we handle none but the best The BEST is the CHEAPEST.

We are making a special price now on them.

Ladies' Rubbers 16c

Men's Storm 48c

Bishop and Reidler

YOUR SHOEMAKERS.

HUMPHREYS' ANIMAL SPECIFICS.

A. A. CURES FEVERS, Lung Fever, Milk Fever.
B. B. CURES SPRAINS, Lameness, Rheumatism
C. C. CURES EPIZOOTIC, Distemper.
D. D. CURES WORMS, Bots, Grubs.
E. E. CURES COUGHS, Colds, Influenza.
F. F. CURES COLIC, Bellyache, Diarrhea.
G. G. Prevents MISCARRIAGE.
H. H. CURES KIDNEY & BLADDER DISORDERS.
I. I. CURES MANGE, Skin Diseases.
J. K. CURES BAD CONDITION, Staring Coat.

50c. each; Stable Case, Ten Specifics, Book, &c., $7. At druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Humphreys' Medicine Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York. VETERINARY MANUAL SENT FREE.

NERVOUS DEBILITY, VITAL WEAKNESS and Prostration from Overwork or other causes.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 28, in use over 40 years, the only successful remedy.

$1 per vial, or 5 vials and large vial powder, for $5 Sold by Druggists, or sent post-paid on receipt of price. HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

CLOSING NOTICE

The business men whose names were attached to the closing notice we have been publishing are to make the change tomorrow Jan. 3, when they will close at 6 standard time. They will keep open on Saturday and Monday evenings but close at 6 on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings.

Call For County Orders

All outstanding county orders issued prior to June 9, 1898 order No, 490 will be paid if presented to the County Tresurer. Interest will stop Dec. 20, 1898. S. H. HINE, County Treasurer.

The Ills of Children.

Dr. Hartman offers his advice to parents on the treatment of coughs and colds.

LEARN to guard against colds. Nearly all the ills of children begin with taking cold. If your child catches cold don't wait a moment before attacking that cold.

To the ignorance or neglect of parents is due the fatal termination of many children's complaints.

If you are not informed as to the proper course to pursue to drive off a child's cold, write to Dr. Hartman, president of the Surgical Hotel, Columbus, O., for advice, and ask for some of his free books which contain the most pertinent facts about colds and coughs and all catarrhal diseases.

Pe-ru-na, Dr. Hartman's great prescription, is wholly vegetable. It wards off colds entirely if taken at the beginning in proper doses. It breaks up settled colds quickly; it is scientific and safe; there is no mystery about it. Dr. Hartman's books tell just how it acts and why. All druggists sell it.

Mrs. C. T. Rogers, Elgin, Ill., says: Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

DEAR SIR:—"Your medicine saved my baby's life. We stopped all treatment but yours, and now he is a beautiful boy. It was certainly a miracle."

Mrs. Becking, East Toledo, O., writes to the Pe-ru-na Medicine Co.:

DEAR SIRS:—"Pe-ru-na is the best medicine I ever had in my house. My children had a bad cough, and one of them had the lung fever. I cured them all with Pe-ru-na."

Proper knowledge of the treatment of coughs and colds is of the first importance to parents. This knowledge is offered free. All diseases succumb to Peru-na.

Winter Is A[illegible] Hand.

You don't need to wait until the t[illegible] mometer registers 25 degrees below zero [illegible] fore you are convinced that winter is [illegible] at hand. You may as well acknowledg[illegible] at once! Winter is here and you need so[illegible] thing in our line. We have them to sell

PRICES THAT WILL SATISFY YO[illegible]

And when in need of

Stoves	Snow Shovels,
Stove Pipe	Hand Sleds,
Stove Boards	Burton Logging
Dampers	Bobs,
Registers	Sleighs,
Saws, Axes	Sleigh Bells,
Wedges, Sledges	Sled Runners, Sled
Meat Cutters	Soles, Corn
Lard Presses	Shellers
Loaded Shells
Shot Guns
Horse Blankets
Weather Strips
Oil Cloth Rugs

We would be pleased to have you call and see us. We are the sole agents in Auburn for the Celebrated Wilson Heating Machines, the latest and most economical stove out.

Culbertson & Boland,
AUBURN, IND.

YOU should know that Foley's Honey and Tar is absolutely the best remedy for the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Dealers are authorized to guarantee it to give satisfaction in all cases

SHERFF'S SALE

By virtune of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Union National Savings and Loan Association is plaintiff and Frank M. Rush, Mary Rush, Michael Boland, James M. Osborn, Lewis A. Osborn, Abner Lewis, Grace Rush, Bessie Rush, Effie Rush, Zella Rush, and Ruth Rush are defendants requiring me make the sum of one thousand two hundred and four dollars and seventy-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, January 21, A. D. 1899

between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, towit:

The east one half (½) of lot number sixty-six in Western Addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY.
Sheriff of DeKalb County. Indiana
E. D HARTMAN.
Attorney for Plaintiff.

December 27th 1898.

SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Louisa L. Duncan is plaintiff and Martin L. Jackman, Sarah A. Jackman, Jacob Salander, Clara Bonebrake, Clayton Mallory are defendants rebuiring me to make the sum of five thousand six hundred and twenty dollars with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 P. M., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of following real estate, to wit:

Saturday, January 28, A. D. 1899

The southeast quarter of the Northwest quarter of section seven (7) in township thirty five (35) North of range fourteen (14) east containing forty (40) acres.

Also a part of the Southwest quarter of said Section being a tract of about one hundred acres and described as follows towit:

Commencing at the southwest corner of said section, thence east on the section line to center of the highway running north and south through said quarter, thence northerly along the center of said highway about seventy (70) rods; thence west along the center of the highway about (15) rods, to a point immediately south of the center of a lane, thence north along the center of said lane to the north line of said quarter section, thence west to the northwest corner of said quarter, thence south to the place beginning; all in DeKalb County Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
BAXTER & BROWN,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

D[illegible] 31, 1898.

SOCIAL SUPPER

The Presbyterian C. E. will give a social in the basement of the church on Friday of this week. The proceeds of this social will be used to help defray expenses of finishing the new room, and every one is invited to attend. The following bill of fare will be served from five to seven o'clock. Cream bread, jelly, escalloped oysters, mashed potatoes, pickles, succotash, celery, tea and coffee, assorted cake, canned peaches and pears. Mite 15 cents.

Another Good Man Gone Wrong

He failed to use Foley's Kidney Cure for his kidney complaint.

IT BURNS GAS?

THE "SOLAR"

The New Acetylene Gas Bicycle Lamp.

No More SOOT, SMOKE, GREASE nor DANGER

It can't jar or blow out like an Oil Lamp.

ABSOLUTELY NON-EXPLOSIVE.

Light costs ½ of a cent an hour. Throws a clear, white light 100 feet ahead. Send for circular and learn about the Greatest Bicycle Lamp of the Year

From your dealer or sent prepaid for $4.00.

BADGER BRASS MFG. CO.
KENOSHA, WIS.

WANTED:

FARM PRODUCTS IN EXCHANGE FOR BICYCLES OR HARNESS.

Money not a necessity. You produce what we can use. We make what you want.

"Marlo" Bicycle No. 1, one-piece crank, latest model, the equal of the best Bicycle made, your own specifications, $50.
"Marlo" Bicycle No. 2, three-piece crank, your own specifications, $45.
"Marlo" Racer, a very fine machine, $60.

We sell Bicycles for cash or on the monthly payment plan, anywhere in the United States or Canada. We make very liberal allowances for old wheels. We also sell second-hand wheels at from $5 to $20. Don't fail to write us if you want a wheel or harness on the best terms ever offered.

We allow ruling Buffalo prices for all kinds of farm products that can be shipped economically to Buffalo. Tell us what you have to exchange and we will quote prices we can offer. Enclose stamps for further information or for price list of our Hand-made Harness and Horse Collars.

MARLO CYCLE CO.
61 Terrace, Buffalo, N. Y.

SUPPLEMENT
—TO THE—
AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 5, 1899.

SMALL PARISHES AT LONDON.

One House Stood in Six of Them—A Crowded Mile.

The house mentioned as standing in six different parishes in the city of London affords a singular instance of the involved state of municipal affairs in that crowded square mile ruled over by the city corporation, says the London News. In that small area there are over sixty parishes, none of them, as may well be supposed, of any great dimensions, but some of an almost inconceivably small size. The parish of St. Mary Mounthaw, for instance, which consists of six houses and is the smallest parish in the city, may well be ranked as a prime curiosity. This odd parish stands at the corner of Queen Victoria and Friday streets, and has not possessed a church since the great fire of London in 1666, when it was burned down, with many more, never to be rebuilt. What we may well call the "surname" of the parish either is derived from some forgotten benefactor whose name was attached to it, just as we find a neighboring parish called "St. Margaret Moses" and another "St. Benet Fink," or from some geographical peculiarity, which accounts for the names of "All Hallows, Honey-lane," and "St. Mary, Old Fish-street-hill." The need of these rather cumbrous identifications is obvious when it is said that there were six or seven parishes of St. Mary in the city, together with other saints equally well represented. St. Mary Mounthaw was originally somewhat larger than now, but was reduced to its present tiny dimensions when the clearances of house property were made for the construction of Queen Victoria street, some 30 years since.

STORY OF LOVING CUP.

It Had Its Origin in Efforts to Prevent Being Poisoned.

Few people when drinking from a loving cup, which is now again in vogue, realize its significance. The loving cup, as one of the many stories telling whence it came relates it, originated as a matter of precaution in ancient times, when apparent friends had an unpleasant method of killing a friend while he was drinking. Consequently an immense, heavy cup was made with a massive cover. The method of using it can still be witnessed at banquets at the Mansion house in London. The person receiving stands and turns to his neighbor, who also rises and takes the cover with both hands. The first person then raises the heavy cup to his lips with both hands, and having sipped of the contents, holds it while the friend at his side replaces the cover and takes the cup, repeating the same process in turn with his next neighbor. Thus both hands being occupied, there is no possibility of one "friend" stabbing another. In our time the custom has degenerated, and the cover as a rule has disappeared.

Not Guilty.

Miss Asenath Harper is "getting along in years," a fact which she is unwilling to accept. She wears very youthful clothes; in fact, she has been described by a waggish neighbor as "sheep dressed lamb-fashion." And sometimes when the world pushes her into the niche where it thinks she belongs, Miss Asenath rebels. One day she was talking merrily with a party of young girls. Her cheeks were pink and her little curls fluttering. She laughed a great deal. "O Miss Asenath," at last exclaimed one of the girls, innocently, "how gay you must have been!" "Have been!" repeated the lady, indignantly. "Have been! Well, I'd have you know I'm not a centurion yet!"

Danish Royal Names.

It is one of the curiosities of the laws of Denmark that the throne must be occupied alternately by a Christian and a Frederick. This system originated with Christian II., who reigned from 1513 to 1523, and was succeeded by Frederick I., and the alternation has gone on in unbroken sequence till today the name of the crown prince, destined one day in the course of nature to succeed King Christian IX. being Frederick, while his eldest son is named Christian. Indeed, every prince born into the royal family of Denmark revives these two Christian names, no matter how remote his chance of succession to the throne may appear to be.

North Pole and South Pole.

It has been shown that, while Nansen's observations prove that the north polar region is a great ocean cavity, nearly two miles deep, the south polar region, on the contrary, is apparently a vast solid mass of land, surrounded by a belt of water about two miles in depth. The area of the south polar continent is estimated to be about 4,000,000 square miles, 1,000,000 more than that of the United States, excluding Alaska.

One Woman's Way.

"Speaking of women with saving dispositions," said Dixmyth, "my wife's in a class all by herself." "How so?" queried his friend Hojax. "Last week I bought an upright piano," replied Dixmyth, "and my wife made a beautiful green plush cover for it so the polish wouldn't get scratched. Yesterday she made another cover of linen to go over the plush to prevent that from getting soiled. Next week I suppose she'll make a calico cover to protect the linen. Oh, I tell you, women have great big fertile minds."

...A CHALLENGE...

RED TAG SALE

Of Men's Boys' & Children's Clothing and Furnishings

Which we confidently predict will be the most interesting, satisfactory and absolute opportunity that was ever presented to you or attempted by us. An inducement that compels attention, and one that varies from the common, everyday clearingsales. We absolutely defy competitors to place before the consumers Qualities and Prices that can be at had our Challenge..... which means that every Garment and Article Bearing the RED TAG has been REDUCED from a price that was a standard of qualities to an almost Limitless Discount of Twenty-Five per cent., Fifty per cent. and even at Two-Thirds their original values, if you would appreciate the full meaning of our challenge

Red Tag Sale

Red Tag Sale

Come and see qualities offered that are cut more than Half Their Original Values. We don't compete with them whose stocks look like ours, but with those who aim to give the most for the money, for we place before you in this RED TAG SALE Styles and Qualities that are a marvel of contrasting Superiority to other previously attempted sales. You can make money by saving it. You can get unparalleled bargains with us in Men's and Boys' Ulster Overcoats, Clothing and Furnishings on our RED TAG Slaughter Sale.

CASH, CASH, CASH!

Is what makes business move, and cash is what buys bargains at our RED TAG Challenge Sale—the price on the RED TAG is the lowest possible price by which you buy these goods as the RED TAG Price means less than original cost to us; and for cash only. This is not a repetition of our Popular One-Fourth Off Sale, but a slaughtering of prices that is.....

A Saving To You of From 25 Per Cent. to 60 Per Cent.

Our stock is immense—two stocks to select from. Our Specialty is Men's, Boys' and Children's Wear—and our increasing trade bears out the fact of your appreciation of good qualities at right prices. Patronize our Red Tag Sale, as we kindly solicit an inspection of qualities and prices that will be continuous for the closing out of broken lots and broken sizes, which includes garments that are seasonable for present use: Gloves, Mittens, Hats and Caps, Heavy Suits, Ulster Overcoats, Dress Overcoats, Men's and Boys' Pants, Children's Knee Pants Suits, garments all for winter wear. This novel RED TAG SALE is the medicine by which we keep our stock full of new things, and rid of broken lots

Always when in our place of business, look for the RED TAG for Exceptional Bargains. Take advantage of the opening which is now commenced. Come early and get choice selections, as we are going to make prices for a quick clearance of our winter stock.

Nuggets Of Rare Values

can be had in our Merchant Tailoring department, which is included in our RED TAG SALE.

THE RED TAG Means a Saving To You! Is Worth Looking After!!. You Will Find It At G. H. YESBERA'S Clothing Stores. Two immense stocks of Clothing and Furnishings. AUBURN and ASHLEY,

G.H. YESBERA

CLOTHIER, MERCHANT TAILOR and GENT'S FURNISHER.

RESOLUTION TO DISSOLVE CORPORATON.

EREAS, It is desired by the stockholders of Bishop & Lackey Co., a corporation nized and doing business umder the laws of State of Indiana, located at Auburn, lb County, Indiana, and engaged in the goods business, that it be dissolved and e to exist and do business as a corporation. E IT THEREFORE RESOLVED, By the undersigned rd of directors, constituting all of the tockholders of The Bishop & Lackey Co., a corporation located at Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, that the same be and is dissolved by mutual consent of all its stockholders and that it cease to exist as such from and after the 6th day of January, 1899.

Mary A. Lackey,
H. F. Sembower, } Directors.
Geo. W. Lackey,

Having purchased the stock of merchandise formerly owned by The Bishop & Lackey Co., I will continue the business and will endeavor to maintain the high standard enjoyed by the late corporation. Thanking the friends and patrons for their confidence and support during the past five years, and hoping to merit a continuance of the same, I am

Very Truly &c,
GEO. W. LACKEY.

Auburn, Ind., Jan'y 7, 1899.

Do You Know!

THAT WE have the only Set of Abstracts of Titles to Lands in this county?

THAT WE can sell your farm or town property, or buy for you in the desired locality such a farm or residence as you want?

THAT WE make long-time loans on the most favorable terms on either farm or town property. Money in bank with which to close farm loans on the day applied for if the title and securety is all right?

THAT WE are making exchanges of all kinds of property; have big farms for little ones; have farms for town property; have farms for stocks of goods and can fit you on almost any kind of trade?

THAT IF you want an Abstract of Title to your lot or land; want a loan; to buy a home or sell one; want a trade of any kind, it will be to your advantage to call on or write us about it?

SPROTT & KNAPP,

Office in Gandy Block, Ground Floor,

AUBURN, IND.

IDEAL MUSIC,

"Sweet as the angel Israfil's,
When every leaf on Eden's tree
Was trembling to his minstrelsy."

can be produced from an EBERSOLE PIANO. The Ebersole possesses a tone that no other maker has been able to imitate—being full and deep, yet with that clear singing quality which stamps it the peer of all upright pianos for homes of culture and refinement.

Frank B. Long,

119 Calhoun-St. cor Washington,

Fort Wayne, Ind.

FARMERS' WIVES

or any other ladies who wish to work

Can Earn Lots of Money

working for us in spare time at home with our cloths. We offer you a good chance to make plenty of spending money easily, leisure hours. Send 12c for cloth and full directions for work, and commence at once. Cloth sent anywhere. Address

WINOOSKET CO. (311-M) Boston Mass
Mfg. Dept.

Spain's Greatest Need.

Mr. R. P. Olivia, of Barcelona, Spain, spends his winters at Aiken, S. C. Weak nerves had caused severe pains in the back of his head. On using Electric Bitters, America's greatest Blood and Nerve remedy, all pains soon left him. He says this grand medicine is what his country needs. All America knows that it cures liver and kidney trouble, purifies the blood, tones up the stomach, strengthens the nerves, puts vim, vigor and new life into every muscle, nerve and organ of the body. If weak, tired or ailing you need it. Every bottle guaranteed, only 50 cents. Sold by W. B. McCord the Druggist.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

The undersigned administrator of the estate of James Brinkerhoff, deceased will sell the personal property of said estate on

Saturday, January 21, 1899

Beginning at 10 A. M, consisting of coal stove, bedsteads and bedding, 8-day clock, new commode, bureau book cases, and books consisting of law, medical and religious books, family refrigerator, dishes and tin ware, cook stove and utensils, round oak heating stove, tricycle, Belgian hare, lot of paving brick, and many other articles too numerous to mention.

TERMS OF SALE. All sums of $5 and under, cash. On sums over $5 a credit of three months, with interest if paid when due. If not paid when due 6 per cent from date. Note with approved security.

3 JACOB WALBORN,
Administrator

WANTED---A Reliable MAN

of good address to s[illegible] it business from property-owners. Any [illegible] known person willing to work, can mak[illegible] to $15 weekly. Commission or salary [illegible] weekly. Address for particulars, men[illegible] this paper.
CHARLES E[illegible]ARE, Rochester, N.Y.

Monday's Daily.

—Cuba was turned over to us at noon yesterday.

—George Hurni and wife returned from St. Joe today.

—Dr. Carey, of Spencerville, called on friends in the city today.

—Miss Stella Hague returned to her duties at Kendallville today.

—Peter Bishop, of Spencerville, is visiting relatives in the city.

—Ask any druggist for a free Peruna Almanac for the year 1899.

—A. D. Moore came up from Moores this forenoon on some business.

—Mrs. John Ashley and children went to New Haven this morning.

—FOR SALE:—A fine Jersey heifer Call on A. G. Lodewick north of town.

—John W Tarney, of Newville was the third subscriber to pay today, the first day of the year.

—Attorney Leas and F. C. Waterman drove down from Waterloo this morning for some court business.

—Senator Nusbaum and Representative Brown started for Indianapolis on the Lake Shore train this afternoon.

—Surveyor Krontz came in on the forenoon Wabash train having been with his people at Butler over Sunday.

Yes, tis true;
Foley's Honey and Tar
Is the best Cough Medicine.

—The first subscriber to come in the new year, was James Triplet, who was here today, Monday, and paid up to 1900.

—John Shoudel, of Garrett, was the second man to call and settle the COURIER in the New year. He was in this afternoon.

—WOOD WANTED:—At this office. All who were to pay us in wood are requested to bring it as soon as they can, as we need it.

—The navy department has presented to William Jewell College, Liberty Mo., the bell of the Merrimac, the ship that Hobson sunk in Santiago harbor.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Otto issued invitations today for the marriage of their daughter, Clara, to Mr. Samuel, of Muncie, January 11, at the Presbyterian church.

—The Auburn Foundry is doing a lot of work now, as it comes in. They have as yet no regular day for casting, but do that ever few days, as often as enough work is ready.

—FOR SALE:—The St. Clair farm, know as the Hay farm, in Concord township, seven miles southeast of Auburn. For terms, etc., inquire of A. M. St. Clair, Auburn, Ind.

—Walter Hartman reports a big fox hunt down in the country near Roann last week. Hundreds of men were in the lines and four foxes were in sight at the close. Three of them were killed.

—Luther J. Loveland, a former Company K, man, came in on the forenoon Wabash train on some business matter. We believe he is now stopping with his parents who reside near Newville.

—Miss Jennie Stewart of Butler is a guest of the family of James McDowell and James Griswold. She is a niece of Miss Mollie Wilson, at Mr. Griswold's. Mrs. W. P. Garett and child of Goshen is also their guest.

—Horrible agony is caused by Piles, Burns and Skin Diseases. These are immediately relieved and quickly cured by De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of worthless imitations. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

ST. JOE.

School commenced again last Monday.

Incorporation very quiet.

M. E. Olds is on the sick list.

A sleepless man in town.

New Years passed off very quietly.

Mrs. H. W. Bowman, Addie Widney and Charley Woodcox were in Fort Wayne Saturday.

Nelson Myers, of Grant township and Frank Brink, of Butler were in town Saturday.

Ed Berry has moved into the residence he lately purchased of Ben Hamilton.

Dan Herrick occupies the Adrian Hart property.

Mrs. B. A. Woodcox has purchased the Body property and will move to town in the near future.

L. S. Saylor has bought his sister, Mrs. J. E. Dermott's interest in the Henry Saylor farm.

The little home of the late James Ryan will be sold at auction, February 4, 1899.

Frank Bishop, of Fort Wayne, visited with his parents and attended his sister's marriage last Thursday.

The residence of Nelson Thomas was badly damaged by fire Saturday evening. How it caught is a mystery.

Adrian Hart and wife of Hicksville, were in town Sunday the guest of Bert Patterson and M. E. Olds.

Considerable bad feeling exists among the patrons of the St. Joe schools owing to the fact that the Primary and Intermediate Departments are having to dismiss their schools a half hour earlier every day to accommodate two classes to each room from the high and Grammar departments. We understand it, this change is not made because of an overcrowding of rooms but owing of the great number of classes in the two higher rooms.

Foley's Honey and Tar.

Cough Syrup wherever introduced is proved the most pleasant and effective remedy for all throat and lung complaints. It is the only prominent cough medicine that contains no opiates, and that can safely be given to children.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Helen Ralston and Mrs. W. C. Hartman dined with the editor's family today.

—Mrs. McClellan is visiting her daughter Mrs. Dr. Siver at Fort Wayne.

—D. E Gonser, James Blake and J. E. Clark, of Ashley, were in town today on business.

—Mrs. Millin Walter was called to Chicago yesterday owing to the serious illness of her husband.

—Mrs. Swineford returned Saturday from a visit of a week or more with friends at Marion, Ind.

—Mr. Heckler, the new manager of the south end lumber yards, is pushing business down there in good shape.

—Joseph Farver, son of John H. Farver, of Jackson, returned to Angola today, where he is a student in the Tri-State Normal College.

—At the time of the Revolutionary war, the Spanish possessions in what is now the United States was much more than half of it. It is different now.

—Ott Baxter and wife came up from Fort Wayne, last evening. We are pleased to observe that he is getting a good deal of practice as an attorney, in court.

—Mr. Ashley, who has been lying so sick, is somewhat better though he may not be able to get out again. Still he may live some time. He has been a great sufferer.

—The Fort Wayne grocers have been advertising "fresh, new maple syrup" for a month. Must have lively sugar camps down that way. Peter Lochner's maple syrup made in March is good enough for us.

—Bird Spitler of the Dispatch, had a fall Saturday and sprained his wrist rather seriously. He is not entirely laid off, however, as he is taking McDonald's place as localizer on the Dispatch. The latter is laid up temporarily with rheumatism.

—C. A. Jenkins of Concord and wife have visited here a couple of days, returning home this evening. Though defeated at the polls, Mr. Jenkins is no kicker, and says he is satisfied with the results, as far as he is concerned. That is the proper spirit.

Unclaimed Letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending Jan. 3, 1899: Mr. Geo. McTaush, Mr. H G. Martin, Mr. Fred Stoebner, Mr, B, A. Mathers, Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

G. H. FORKNER, Postmaster.

—Food does more harm than good when not digested. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It prevents wasting diseases and cures stomach troubles. It cures indigestion, sour stomach and belching, and allows a wornout stomach rest. It acts instantly. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The B. P. O. Elks will give their Second Social Session and Minstrel Show at Wagner's Opera House in Garrett, on Jan. 23. The Elks from Fort Wayne will run a special train to Garrett. After the entertainment they will have a banquet at Paul's Hall. They expect to have a grand meeting.

—The commissioners are obliged by law to meet on the first Tuesday of each month to audit accounts of trustees. So they are in session today. It appears, however that trustees do not always come, but we suppose there is no way but for the Board to meet anyway. It looks as if the law should be changed.

—Treasurer Hines looks very much at home in the office. He began work there yesterday. Ex-Treasurer Shelby Hine is helping a few days and we believe his son also. The doctor's sister, Effie, who has been assistant there for some time, will, we believe, be the regular deputy. We predict the office will be properly and carefully managed under their administration and that the people of DeKalb county will never regret the generous vote of confidence they gave him last fall.

Henry E. Ashley, the oldest of the Ashley brothers, was a caller today, in company with John G. Ashley of New Haven. Henry is a resident of Des Moines, Iowa, where he is engaged in the business of wagon making. He has been absent from Auburn, about twenty years. To those who remember him back in those years, it will be of interest to know that he has two sons, one 17 who is shipping clerk in a large store there, and the other a bright lad of 14. He will return to his home tomorrow.

—Joseph and Stella Tarney returned this morning to their studies after a holiday vacation with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Tarney in Jackson township. Joseph is attending the State University at Bloomington, and Stella the State Normal School at Terre Haute. Both schools are excellent and we know from the charcter of the graduates, that work of the highest order is done at both. Indiana has a right to feel proud of her institutions of learning and DeKalb has the right to feel proud of the students we have sent to them.

—We learn that ex-Treasurer Shelby Hine moved his family and household goods back to his farm a week or two ago, though he has remained here doing his part of the work in the office. He has made a faithful and efficient officer, and as far as we know the people are suited with his administration. Why his party did not re-nominate him we could never learn, but it was a piece of good fortune to him, as it would not have paid to be a candidate against Dr. Hines. But he goes back to his farm with the good wishes of Auburn people, without regard to politics or other conditions. The COURIER hopes he may be prosperous.

Wednesday's Daily.

—Mrs. Woodworth's meetings are still going on.

—TO RENT:—Furnished rooms. Inquire at the Brauford.

—Lawyer Jackman, of Angola, is in the city on legal business.

—Ex-Recorder Williams of Fairfield was in town on business today.

—Cigarette smoking is getting dangerous. Our Butler letter speaks of a fatal case.

—Geo. Lanning is clerking at Chas. Jones' store today owing to the illness of Mr. Jones.

—Dan Patterson and Clara Williams attended the Literary at Feagler's Corners Friday evening.

—F. P. Myers, of Ashley was in town today, and paid the COURIER a pleasant business call.

—B. F. Cornelius, of Troy, made us a call today. He was here to make final report on the John Yarde ditch.

—Cuba became free Sunday noon, Jan. 1. The city of Havana and all its fortifications were turned over to us at that hour.

—Chas. Lewis, well known over about Butler is now cashier of the Union National Bank of Kansas City, and doing well.

—W, P. Myers of Kendallville was here a few hours today in the interest of the Standard Oil Co. He is looking the picture of health.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—W. H. McIntosh, Charles Eckhart and L. Bowers are among our first cash subscribers each New Years, and were on hand as usual this year.

—Rev. H. P. Colegrove, formerly of Waterloo, now of Kansas, has for a time been taking the place of the presiding elder in which he acquits himself well.

—WANTED:—Fifty new subscribers who wish to pay for the COURIER in wood. Tell your neighbor about it, and if he wants the best paper in the county, and pay in trade, tell him we are ready for him.

—Henry Witt was here today, and paid his subscription to 1900. He is always on time. He was accompanied by his brother Lou. who resides at Kendallville. Both gentlemen are substantial German citizens.

—Read the reports of court work in the COURIER, and then show it to your neighbors so they will know what is done there. No other paper in the county gives more than a few unsatisfactory lines to this subject.

—We have lately made arrangements to do all kinds of carriage repairing. When in need of such work give us a call. Corner Fifth and Jackson streets.

THE SPECIALTY BUGGY CO.
d2w-w6 WM. ECKHART, Mngr.

—J. W. Tarney of Newville reports some of the fine corn spoke of during the season. He had a field on the St. Joe bottoms that was extra good. On one ear he counted 1280 grains. That is a big yield from one grain of corn.

—The Modern American Fraternal Order, will have a public installation of officers Friday night. Each member has the privilege of inviting two guests, after which a short entertainment will take place and light refreshments will be served.

—NOTICE:—All members of the M. A. F. O. are requested to be present next Friday evening at the installation of officers, also each member has the privilege of inviting two friends. Fruit will be served.

C. A. GIBFORD. Secretary.

—Frank Campbell is now at Springer New Mexico, and appears to be improving. He is able to get about the country a good deal, and even to do some hunting. It is hoped that the mildness of the climate down there may assist him to recover his health.

—At six o'clock last evening, the most of the stores closed promptly and the proprietors and employes, could be seen strolling about town enjoying an hour or two on the streets. It was no doubt a great pleasure to them. We presume it will be all right with everybody as soon as we are used to it.

—The week of prayer services are well attended and are proving a great blessing to the attendants. Monday night the meeting was in the Methodist church, Tuesday night in the Lutheran church. Tonight the meeting will be in the Methodist and this alternating throughout the week. Let every lover of Christ join in these union meetings.

—Mr. McIntosh has received a letter from T. B. Totten's people in Kansas. Norman Totten was a member of a Kansas regiments in the Spanish war, but is home now. He was mustered out on his return and ten days later took charge of a school near there. He and his sister, Hattie, expect to visit Auburn next summer.

—F. P. Myers brought the COURIER today, a sample of the peppermint oil he is distilling at his farm near Ashley He has been in the business for two or three seasons, at least, and judging by the strength of this sample, he is producing an article of high grade. We hope to see our farmers who are turning their attention to this new industry, make it a success.

—Phil Myers seems to be slowly improving, but it will take some time to show a complete recovery. The facts are, he may be said to have had two strokes. The first one was about noon and he was taken home, but an hour or so later, he began to feel better so much better that he went back to work again. But he soon had another stroke and a much harder one. It is made all the worse by his heart trouble which has been ailing for some time.

BUTLER.

There died at the residence of her daudgter, Mrs. A. D. Briggs, in Butler last Thursday the oldest resident of this county, and one of the oldest persons in the community, Mrs. Pricilla Mathews, relict of John Mathews. She was born near Rainsville, Ohio, Aug. 27, 1805. In 1823 she became the wife of John Mathews, and in 1833, removed to Fort Wayne then a straggling villiage, depending upon the coming Wabash canal, and the limited commerce of White and Indian, in furs on the St. Joe river. In 1834 they gathered their few belongings together and embarked in a pirogue, and enddangered their lives on the floods of the St. Joe, and boldly pushed off from the friendly banks of Fort Wayne and directed their frail bark toward the head waters of that historic stream, then inhabited almost entirely by the natives of the forest. They reached the present site of Spencerville and its attractive, inviting lands induced them to try to make a home at this place. We have but a meager knowledge of their struggle for a livelihood in their forest home. There were born to them twelve children, but four of whom are living. Her funeral took place from the M. E. church on New Years day, Rev. Frech officiating, Mrs. Mathews was well known at all the log cabins in the early settlement, and was noted for the acts of kindness to the many poor and sick among the early settlers. It was said that no night was too dark or too cold for her to start out on a mission of mercy. Her faculties remained intact almost to the last, and though more than ninty three years old, her memory was yet clear, and her descriptions of pioneer events were as lucid as ever.

J. A. Campbell and daughter, Florence returned from their eastern trip last week.

The Canning Factory has become a close coporation. There is no stock on the market.

Charles Merchant, son of Mrs. Geauque, living on East North street, a well known young man about town, died very suddenly last Saturday evening at the home of his mother. The cause is attributed to inordinate cigarette smoking.

A dwelling owned by Rebecca George, in Concord township was badly damaged by fire last week.

The residence owned by Nelson Thomas at St. Joe, was destroyed by fire last Saturday night.

An outbuilding owned by Andrew Shappack was badly damaged by fire last week. All fairly well insured in J. A. Campbell's Butler Agency.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled on my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds. I gave it a trial, took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and I thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at W. B. McCord's Drug Store. Regular size 50 and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

Lost Pocketbook.

Lost a pocketbook last Friday evening about 5 o'clock between Davis's Hardware Store and south of the jail Finder returning same to the COURIER office will be liberally rewarded.

JOHN WETOSKY,
Auburn, Ind.

LOW PRICES!

Are being made at

Wilson's Annual Shoe Sale
—On—
..FOOTWEAR..

NOW is the Time and WILSON'S the Place.

Hundreds of Pairs of Shoes are Being Sold at Cost and even much less.

HERE ARE A FEW PRICES!

A Ladies' Rubber Sandal at 17c
A First Grade Rubber Sandal at.. 40c
A First Grade Storm Alaska (low arctic) 75c
Men's at $1.00
Childrens' Shoes, sizes 5 to 8 ..... 50c
Better 75c. Best $1.00.
Misses' Shoes, size 9 to 2 ..... 75c
Better $1.00. Best $1.50.
Childrens' Calf Shoes, solid and neat $1.00
First Grade Mens' Arctics $1.25

Samples.

We have a few Ladies' Shoes in "Samples," sizes 3¼, 4 and 4½, regular $2.00 to $2.50 shoes, only $1.50

For $1.00.

We have a few Men's and Ladies' Shoes we offer for $1.00, were higher priced.

Take Notice.

We have the best looking, best wearing Rubber Boots ever sold in Auburn. We guarantee every pair. Ask to see them. "Not how cheap, but how good."

Wilson's Specials

Finest in the land $3.00
Best you ever saw for, ... $2.00
Eclipse most $2.00 Shoes at $1.50

Ask to see them,
They are smooth,
They are fine.

They are nobby—have style and wear to the satisfaction of the purchaser.

The above Shoes are from 50c to $1.00 per pair cheaper than usual price. Your Money Back if they are not satisfactory after examination; beside shoes [illegible] other places. Yours for trade,

Wilson,
Shoe Man.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and Substitutes are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Harmless and Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

LIGHTS ON THE LAKES

THEY FLASH WARNING MESSAGES TO THE SHIPS.

Seventy Light Stations Serve to Guide Lake Michigan Mariners Through Fog and Storm—How the Lights Are Tended—Code of Signals Used.

When the wintry gales howl over the great lakes and ice floes dash against shore and about the foundations of lighthouses the lot of the keeper is not a happy one. When cyclonic storms rage in spring or autumn, when the inland seas are dotted with craft, under press of sail or driven by steam, then indeed the men who are responsible for the aids to navigation have no time for idle dreaming. There was a time when the setting in of the winter would send many keepers to winter quarters; when lights would be put out for the long vacation decreed by Jack Frost, but in the ninth district—the one embracing the 1,100 miles of Lake Michigan—that time has passed.

Six hundred dollars a year is not a big salary. It seems to be still smaller when one considers the nature of the employment, where difficulties and often dangers imminent and terrifying surround. Lighthouse-keepers on the sea coast or around the lakes face perils landsmen are unacquainted with, and which landsmen can scarcely appreciate, yet a paternal government is "fully advised," as they say in court, that $50 a month is a good salary for such servants. Cold, possible privation, possible loss of life itself, are no reasons for increasing the stipend. Men will serve for that salary and the law says it is enough.

Of course, suitable quarters are provided for the keepers. But of all happenings to mortal man isolation, the absolute severance of all communication with his kind, is the worst punishment. Isolation for the greater portion of the year is the portion of him who keeps a light. His home may be, nay, frequently is, out on some jutting reef, removed from land by several hundreds of yards of open water. When the breezes blow too strongly he is cooped in his exposed dwelling as effectually as would be the case if old ocean rolled between him and the shore.

No lake in the great chain has as many sail on its bosom as Lake Michigan. None has traffic any larger, if as large, and none is traversed as late in the winter season. The ninth district embraces all of Lake Michigan, Green Bay and tributary waters. The eastern limit is a line drawn north and south just east of Old Point Mackinac light in Michigan. This winter lights blazon the pathways of daring mariners as far north as the straits, for the station at Seul Choix Pointe has not been closed.

Men will go down to the sea in ships even when ice floes gather on the shoals and follow the currents in the lakes. These floes may be driven with irresistible force inland or out into the open waters, endangering the stanchest craft ever launched. Wrecks innumerable almost line the treacherous shores of Michigan, yet mariners still cast their fortunes to the winds without even an anchor to windward. If they must sail, then they must have aids to navigation. Hence it is that the keepers, aboriginal and American—a strange assemblage of terms, yet one much affected in polite articles—are on duty when snowdrifts pile up about their houses and ice forms a long and safe bridge to the land, possibly far distant.

A Dangerous District.

There are many lights in the ninth district. No lake in the chain is so turbulent and so treacherous as Lake Michigan. Storms which would do but little damage if their forces were expended on broad Superior or Huron when sweeping over Michigan lake cause a woeful disturbance to shipping. Dangerous reefs abound in the tracks of shipping. Shoals protrude their slime-covered noses to grasp the hulls of vessels which deviate from their courses. Rocky beaches on which gallant ships may founder and pound to bits are thick from one end to the other.

The fate of the Chicora, the stanch steamer which put out from Milwaukee four years ago and has never been heard from since, has not deterred the hardy masters and seamen of Lake Michigan from hazarding all on the lake in the dead of winter. In fact, recent years have seen an enormous increase in winter navigation. Where twenty years ago all vessels would go into haven early in November and remain in shelter until the ice left the Soo in the spring, now many a vessel is in commission twelve months in the year.

The authorities have taken notice of the extent of winter navigation, and in many an isolated and exposed station all discretion has been taken from the light-keepers. They are under orders to keep their lights trimmed and burning throughout the entire winter. Others whose stations are exposed to great dangers must remain as long as in their judgment can be done with safety.

Heretofore stations in the northern third of the lake have been closed with the arbitrary close of navigation as fixed by the board of marine underwriters. But now the stations at Plum Island, Pottawattomie, Poverty Island, Seul Choix Pointe, Beaver Island, South Fox Island, North Fox Island, North and South Manitou, Sherwood Point and Sturgeon Bay have been added to those open for the entire winter. The light ships in the dangerous straits remain out as long as it is safe.

The following table shows the number of lighthouses, keepers, assistants, vessels, for signals, etc., at present established in the district:

Masters of light vessels	4
Keepers of light stations	70
Assistant keepers of light stations	63
Light stations	70
Steam fog signals	28
Steam fog sirens	3
Fog bells	7
Light vessels	4
Gas buoys	9
Bell buoys, automatic	1
Iron can buoys	19
Iron nun buoys	13
Wood spar buoys	74

The stations on Beaver and South Fox Islands are well out in the open lake, miles away from the mainland, exposed to all the rigors of the stormiest season. They are well up to the north, and the men who send out the welcome shafts of light to warn mariners are cut off from their kind much of the year. Let navigation cease entirely, and they would be exposed to dangers greater than any to be found on land, no matter how isolated. One can always walk on land to find a bite to eat, if it be nothing more than dog meat. On the water it is different, as lighthouse-keepers realize before many winters have been passed in this service.

Away up on the south coast of the northern peninsula is a point on the rock coast. Seul Choix, it is called, the name having been given by the French settlers years ago. On that point is a lighthouse with a fixed white light, which flashes from Manistique on the west to Squaw Island on the east. It envelops in its shaft of brilliancy that other little sand and rock spit which travels under the singular alias of Whisky Island. It sheds its light over the direct course of vessels making the dangerous straits east or west bound.

Not far from the stately dwelling erected for the use of the keeper and his family is an old hutch. It is dismantled, wavering in intention and wholly dissolute. It is not a fit habitation for man or beast, according to the lights of the civilized white man. Yet it was for years the home of the keeper. Not that the government houses its employes in such disreputable homes. Not at all. It was the home of the keeper from choice. It was not even the "only choix," as the name of the station might indicate, but it was the choice of Keeper Fountaine. Fountaine is an Indian, and the bright new brick house erected for his use was too much for his primitive notions of comfort.

So for years Fountaine and his squaw and pappooses lived in the little hutch which has since been turned into a coalhouse. He built it and he loved it and was loath to give it up even for modern conveniences. In fact, too many modern conveniences almost made the old Indian throw up his job. Now, however, with increasing years and an adult family, the old man has concluded to accept the inevitable and become civilized.

Away up lying in the gateway between the peninsula which forms the eastern limits of Green Bay and Washington Island is a small island called Plum. It has a range light to guide the mariner in the difficult passage. Light and fog signals are stationed there in the Porte des Mort—gate of death. It is well named, for many a ship has foundered in the narrow, shoal-lined passageway. Many deaths have happened there and many more will probably happen in the future in spite of the precautions taken by the Government to protect the sailors.

The Code of Signals.

There is a clearly defined code of signals for the use of all mariners on the lakes. Every light station has its own peculiarities, every fog signal has its own notes. Bell buoys ring out warnings at all times and the flicker of a gas jet sends a vessel a couple of points off a bad shoal. The code is furnished to all ship masters, and by referring to it they can identify any station or buoy. Fixed red or fixed white lights disappearing and reappearing at regular intervals of time, as prescribed by this code, tell the story of the relative whereabouts of the ship.

White and red lights are the only ones used at the stations. Some, like that on the Chicago pier, revolve with alternate red and white flashes. Intervals vary even if lights are the same. Gross Point carries a double flash at irregular intervals. Calumet pier head shows a steady red light. Wind Point has a revolving light and a steady red showing south to cover Racine harbor. Every station flashes its signal according to the cipher fixed for it.

The same rules apply to the fog signals. If steam whistles the blasts are one, two, three, etc., long or short, alternately long and short, with intervals between blasts fixed by seconds of time. So when a ship master sees a light flashing red across his bows he counts the time until he is greeted by another flash. The colors and intervals tell him which station he is nearing. If the siren sings a particular song he knows what direction to take to avoid impending danger. Thus all up and down the lake over its hundreds of miles of navigable waters these signals warn or cheer the men who sail in ships.

LAKE MARINERS' BEACON LIGHTS.

An Accommodating Clothier.

I suppose a great many people have wondered whether one-legged men bought shoes by the pair, observes a writer in the Atlanta Journal.

This reminds me of the enterprise of an Atlanta clothing man who, it is said, was never known to acknowledge that he didn't have anything a possible customer might ask for. One day a customer entered the store and asked if he had any trousers made especially for one-legged men. "Certainly," replied the merchant. "What kind do you want?" "Dress pants," said the man. "The best you've got." Hurrying into the rear of the store the enterprising merchant snatched a pair of trousers and snipped off the right leg with a pair of shears. Hastily turning under the edges he presented them to the customer.

"That's the kind I want. What's the price?"

"Fifteen dollars."

"Well, give me a pair with the left leg off."

A month later the merchant was pronounced convalescent and on the high road to recovery.

How Morphy Checkmated Satan.

A correspondent of the American Chess Magazine tells this story of Paul Morphy's visit to Richmond, Virginia, which, he says, was related to him some years ago by the Rev. Mr. H., of that city. Mr. Morphy was Mr. H.'s guest while in the city, and on his arrival was first ushered into the library, and his attention was at once attracted by a painting over the mantel, which was a fine copy of a celebrated painting representing a game of chess between a young man and the devil, the stake being the young man's soul.

The artist had most graphically depicted the point in the game where it was apparently the young man's move, and he seemed just to realize the fact that he had lost the game, the agony of despair being shown in every line of his features and attitude; while the devil, from the opposite side of the table, gloated over him with fiendish delight. The position of the game appeared utterly hopeless for the young man. Mr. H. said he had often set it up and studied it with his chess friends, and all agreed the young man's game was certainly lost.

Mr. Morphy walked up to the picture and studied it for several minutes, when finally, turning to Mr. H., he said:

"I can win the game for the young man."

Mr. H. was, of course, astonished, and said: "Is it possible?"

Mr. Morphy replied: "Get out the men and board and let us look at it."

The position was set up, and in a few rapid moves he demonstrated a win for the young man, and the devil was check-mated.

The Black Cap.

"Why does the judge in a criminal court assume the black cap when pronouncing sentence of death?" is a question frequently asked. This is because covering the head has from the earliest times been regarded as a sign of mourning. Numerous examples of this occur in the Scriptures, in the classics, and in modern literature. "The ancient English," says Dudley Fosbrooke, in his monumental work on archaeology, "drew their hoods over their heads at funerals." We read also of "the congregation, a very great one, sitting in the choir to hear the funeral sermon, all covered," at the burial of Bishop Cox in Ely Cathedral in the year 1581.

One Cincinnati Industry.

Cincinnati claims to make 20,000 bug cages, 25,000 rat traps, 120,000 fly traps and 200,000 sieves out of wire annually.

WOMEN

DAUGHTER-IN-LAW'S DUTY.

THE daughter-in-law who contemplates inviting her mother-in-law to become a permanent inmate of her home should hesitate. One need not court discipline. If, however, duty imposes the obligation, then, indeed, there is no alternative but to accept the charge as God-given.

This may sound heroic, but it is a time for heroism. It is no light thing to have anyone enter your intimate family circle as one of its rightful members, perhaps "until death do you part." Your happiness as well as that of your husband and his mother is largely at stake, and its preservation will depend almost wholly upon you. If you are childish and easily moved by petty jealousy you will only make misery for all; but it is possible to turn into a blessing what seems to threaten as a calamity. Love only can do it, for love alone can work such miracles.

I do not say love her—love is the only rebel to the authority of the kingly power, the human will—but I do say that the only chance for harmony in your relations lies in making her love you. Put forth all your magnetism, all your powers of pleasing. Try to win the mother's approbation as you did that of the son. Do your best to surround her with the sunshine of a genial, sympathetic atmosphere, and do you know what will happen? All unconsciously you will learn to care for her, for it is a curious fact that we grow to love those to whom we minister, and in the effort to win love we often end by bestowing it. Encourage your husband in paying ever-courteous and fond attention to his mother. It will be an object lesson, too, to your own little sons, and at a time when their minds are apt to be most impressionable.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Bank Accounts.

The up-to-date woman no longer fears masculine ridicule, when depositing or drawing money. She has learned many things with the passing of her impecuniousness. Gowned, gloved, shod and chapeaued in the latest style, she steps up to the desk in a businesslike way, takes out her check book and fills out a blank check at her own discretion. She also knows the right end at which to indorse a check, even the right distance from the neat little serrated edge. She doesn't write Miss or Mrs. before her name, unless the drawer of the check has been so unbusinesslike as to do so. And, best of all, she has knocked the last prop from under the comic paragrapher's would-be wit by keeping track of her bank account, and knowing enough not to overdraw.

Better than the best, perhaps, she has learned many ways of replenishing that account by her own unaided efforts. The bread of independence, of self-earning, is far sweeter than the manna of the wandering Israelites—even if there are days when it is eaten jamless, perhaps butterless, perhaps drier and more crusty than would suit the palate of a princess. Yet the woman who works for it, who pays cash down for it before the knife ever enters its brown, sweet, wholesome heart—she is the true princess, after all.—Housewife.

The Ambition to Be "Literary."

The reading-club, on the whole, has been a blessing as an educational influence; but there are cases where light draughts from the literary spring have not been beneficial. It must be owned that an ambition to become literary, when aroused in a shallow mind, often has the effect of unfitting it for probabilities of achievement, while failing to refit it for possibilities. To the superficial woman whose desire is to get into the trend of the fashion the "paper" of the literary club becomes a delusion and a snare. It tempts to mental masquerading and plagiarism, and in many cases has robbed women of needed rest and of a naturalness that is a part of their charm. Having no very original thoughts of a given subject, and no well-defined idea of its proper treatment, she takes the reference books, not as suggestive helps, but in the way of completion, and so unconsciously often becomes a cheat, and subjects herself to intellectual demoralization.—Woman's Home Companion.

Utility of Women's Clubs.

That many of the women's clubs in America are doing valuable work in many directions admits of no doubt. And so long as a woman's club keeps within its sphere—that of the social, mental and educational improvement of the sex and the children—and does not extend and take up political questions and go into a maelstrom of purely municipal matters, the conduct of which is not given women to rightly understand, and in which they can do no good, but, on the contrary, effect much harm, it serves a purpose high and mighty. For a woman to make her club the all-absorbing element in her life is wrong. But used as a well-directed means toward her own development, her own exhilaration, to the companionship of the sexes, and not their further separation, the woman's club is commendable.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Women with a Purpose.

It is the women students, of any kind of art, who often present the most heroic front to discouragement and difficulty. They may be as resourceful as the men, but their opportunities are fewer. A man, on occasion, can turn his hand to so many things, but a woman finds comparatively few possibilities of eking out a livelihood while studying art. That many of them succeed is a fact, and speaks worlds for their bravery, patience and resourcefulness. And one has to be very intimate before discovering the terribly anxious, harassing time they are having. A woman instinctively surrounds herself with little conveniences and elegances, when the average male would be getting along in a shiftless, untidy fashion, that often comes near being squalor. So her little den never betrays her troubles, nor her face, as a rule. Though many people do not give them credit for it, women have a fund of endurance, which shows itself, not by setting the upper lip stiff and looking grimly heroic, but by a cheerful, equable demeanor, neither overhilarious at some little good fortune, nor merged in the deepest Prussian blue at every setback.

Get Along Without Extras.

There are women who, when they economize, will do so at the wrong end. She comes to the conclusion that whenever she doesn't buy anything or cuts off an item of expense she is economizing. She will attend to the grocers' bills. That is well, but sometimes she will expend 20 cents' worth of time and strength to save 5 cents. Then the same woman may economize on her luncheon. She will convince herself that eating a midday meal is a mere habit, and will dispense with it. She finds it all the easier to do so because her husband is not at home at that meal, and, of course, she does not want him to go without enough to eat. She thinks that he needs more food than she does.

The woman who practices this sort of economy will find that the deprivation impoverishes herself and her children mentally and physically. Often, in the long run, it is more expensive in actual cash, for the doctor has to be called in. The right way to economize is in extravagances, not in necessities.

The Height of Her Beauty.

The question of when a woman reaches the height of her beauty is discussed by a writer, who maintains that "the fullness of beauty does not reach its zenith under the age of thirty-five or forty." But in this matter much depends upon the race, and not a little upon the woman. In some southern lands women are either wrinkled and shriveled, or fat and shapeless grandmothers before they reach the age mentioned. The question of taste, too, has much to do with the question, and it is a canon of criticism that in matters of taste there can be no unvarying standard of judgment. The age limit is very elastic, depending upon health, temperament, heredity, conditions of life, and a dozen other things that help to preserve or impair beauty.

Married Travelers Are Privileged.

Husbands and wives traveling together in Norway pay only a fare and a half on the railways, and in Austria and Hungary this is also the case. In the latter countries a child under 6 years of age traveling with an adult is not charged for, while considerable reduction in the fare is made for children of a family, according to their ages and to the number traveling.

The Feminine Laugh.

A feminine laugh has to be decorative, and so it should be the laugh of gayety rather than of humor. There can hardly be a question as to the sweetest laugh to be heard among nations of women—it is surely the Frenchwomen's.

Taking Wives on Trial.

It is seriously proposed in a London newspaper that a man should take a wife on the same principle as he engages a house—for three, five or seven years, renewable at the husband's pleasure. The idea was once discussed in parliament.

Cares for Graves.

A Georgia woman, thrown upon her own resources, has hit on a novel plan for earning her daily bread. She takes care of graves, assuming the responsibility of keeping cemetery lots in order, with well-trimmed grass and walks.

Keeps Hospital for Animals.

Miss Alice Shaw, of Chicago, maintains a private hospital for animals, and makes a special business of treating and caring for dogs and Angora cats, combining the duties of physician and nurse in her work.

Finally Acquitted.

It is probably an unusual thing in any country for a court to sit in judgment on the dead, but in a Berlin letter to the Chicago Record an account is given of a trial in which the accused was a dead man.

It was not his first trial. That had taken place in his lifetime, and its result had been a sentence of imprisonment for eighteen months. The delinquent was bureau chief in the tax office of Schweidnitz, Silesia, and it was proved that he had embezzled funds and forged documents. Soon after his sentence, however, he showed signs of unsettled reason, and at length died a maniac.

His widow, anxious to clear his memory from the stain that rested upon it, had the case reopened, and proved by expert testimony that her husband had been demented at the time he committed the crime.

Thus occurred the peculiar circumstance of a dead man on trial. The trial resulted in the reversal of the former sentence, the court pronouncing the deceased not guilty.

Saving Sixpence.

Patrick, a thrifty tradesman in the neighborhood of the Dublin docks, was, as the story goes, a man who never spent a penny more than he needed to spend; but he was, nevertheless, as good a man at the making of an Irish bull as any that lived between Bantry and Ballycastle.

Having one day urgent occasion to send a letter to Glasnevin, Patrick caller a messenger and asked him his price for going such a distance.

"It'll be a shillin'," said the man.

"Twoice too much!" said Patrick. "Let ut be sixpence."

"Nivver," answered the messenger. "The way is that lonely that I'd never go it under a shillin'."

"Lonely, is it?" said Patrick, scratching his head. "Faith an' ye're roight. Now, man, I'll tell ye what we'll do; make it sixpence, an' I'll go wid ye to kape ye company."—Youth's Companion.

Among the papers of President McKinley's mother was found the other day a copy of her answer to a letter which asked "how she brought up her children." "I had six of them," was her answer, "and I had my own work to do, but I simply did the best I could."

BREAKING IN A HORSE.

How He May Be Trained Not to Take Fright.

It is not every teacher who takes a pride in the kicks and bruises he receives from his refractory pupils, yet Prof. Norton B. Smith, a stalwart and youthful Canadian, boasts that there is scarcely an inch of him that at some time has not received a bite or a kick.

THE UMBRELLA CURE.

From his earliest years his passion for horses has led him into difficult situations, and in the course of his tours around the world he has broken in no fewer than 20,000 refractory horses. He has novel methods. A stubborn horse afraid of an umbrella is taught to walk to the trainer whether he wants to or not. After a few attempts to break away a little kind persuasion shows him an umbrella is, after all, a harmless thing. If a horse is afraid of noise an ordinary drum is placed on its head and back alternately and beaten, gently at first, then louder, till the animal stands still. If a horse kicks, some tin pans strongly fixed together are tied on the horse's hindquarters a little above the tail, and then the fun begins. After awhile the animal discovers that whenever he kicks a terrific noise and dents in his back are the result, and he quits.

OLDER THAN THE AZTECS.

Pyram'd of Chalula Rises 177 Feet Above the Plain.

When the Aztecs came to Mexico they found the pyramid of Chalula. Tradition says that a race of giants descended from two survivors of a great deluge. They intended to raise the pyramid to heaven, but they incurred the displeasure of the gods, who sent down fires to destroy them. When the Spaniards overran the country they demolished the sumptuous temple which the Aztecs had erected to the god of air and established instead a Christian church. The pyramid has the appearance of a natural hill. It is 177 feet above the plain. The four sides face the cardinal points and are laid in terraces that now are overgrown with flowers and shrubs. The base covers twenty acres of the plain. A paved road leads up the steep west side, with steps of hewn stone, to the arch and cross of the church of Nuestra Senora de los Remedios. From the balconies the view of the valley and surrounding mountains, the many churches, with their glazed tile towers, and the towns and villages of the plain is superb.

THE PYRAMID OF CHALULA.

Many Inventions.

In these days of scientific achievement the following amusing story, from the Boston Herald, is not unreasonable:

Recently two gentlemen, driving in a wagonette, were smoking, when a spark falling from one of their cigars set fire to some straw at the bottom of the carriage.

The flames soon drove them from their seats, and while they were extinguishing the fire, a countryman, who had for some time been following them on horseback, alighted to assist them.

"I have been watching the smoke for some time," said he.

"Why, then, did you not give us notice?" asked the astonished travelers.

"Well," responded the man, "there are so many new-fangled notions nowadays I though you were going by steam."

What a Wig Did.

"The-White-Man-Who-Scalps-Himself"—that was the name the Indians gave Belzy Dodd, a hunter and trapper, whose one act so awed the savages that he could travel alone across the plains in safety. The one act is described in "The Old Santa Fe Trail:"

Belzy Dodd's head was as bald as a billiard-ball, and he wore a wig. One day, at Bent's Fort, there being many Indians about, Belzy thought he would have a bit of fun. He walked around eying the Indians fiercely; then, dashing in among them, and shouting a war-whoop, he pulled off his wig and threw it down at the feet of the awed Indians. They thought he had jerked off his own scalp; every one ran like a scared jack-rabbit; and for months not a redskin would go near Dodd.

Forest Preservation in Bohemia.

After the many centuries during which the forests of Bohemia have furnished fuel and building material for a dense population it is said that they retain nearly their primeval area. This is due to the forethought of the government in ordaining that as trees are cut down others shall be planted to fill the vacancies. The wood is mostly pine. Trees are constantly being cut, but wherever a clearing is made small trees are planted the next spring. These new trees are raised from the seed in small inclosures scattered in the mountains and are thence transplanted.

Housekeeper—If I give you a meal will you cut our grass? Weary Walker—Lady, I'll cut it dead; I'll scorn ter notice it.—Philadelphia Record.

Every woman at some time in her life was referred to as a bud, and it never seems so long ago to her as to others.

Mich., [illegible] best artists as a [illegible] classes, and who figures [illegible] paintings, sometimes being [illegible] itself, and again only an adjunct, but always an attractive feature.

In this model's veins flows the proudest blood of two Indian tribes of renown, the Ottawas and the Chippewas, and by the right of lineal descent she would be the last queen of the [illegible] was. She is the daughter of an Indian chief who is the great-grandson of Black Hawk. Her father's brother was the first American Indian sent to [illegible] to be educated, and the first Indian to become an ordained priest of the Catholic church. He was assassinated on the eve of the day he was ordained. His room is still shown to visitors, and he is referred to as the "American prince."

Andrew Mackatebenessy is living at the age of 80 at Harbor Springs, Mich., and is a noted man among his people and much respected by his neighbors. For many years he was United States interpreter between his people and the powers at Washington.

JEANETTE MACKETEBENESSY.

His daughter is not in harmony with native surroundings, and since receiving her education has earned her own livelihood, being capable at anything she attempts. She excels in all athletic sports, rowing, shooting either with the gun or bow and arrow, and is an accomplished musician. While taking no part in the isolation of her people, she hopes that the time will come when the land wrested from them by treaties they could not understand will be restored, and her rights as a chief's daughter recognized, when, as the most richly dowered woman in Michigan, she can help the Ottawas regain their power.

A SOCIALIST MAYOR.

Haverhill, Mass., Has the First One Ever Elected in This Country.

The recent election of John C. Chase to be Mayor of Haverhill, Mass., is the first instance in this country of a Socialist being raised by an electorate to an administrative office. Chase was the candidate of the Social Democracy and received a plurality of 350 votes in a field of six candidates. On the same ticket there were elected three Aldermen and three Councilmen.

Mr. Chase is a native of New Hampshire. He began work in a woolen mill when only 8 years old, coming out of the mill for a few months' schooling each winter. Later the lad was employed in a shoe shop, completing his education by a course of private lessons in the evening. He became interested in trades unionism, and since going to Haverhill, in 1890, has been prominent in labor circles in the city. He has frequently been the party's candidate for office and was the unanimous choice for the Mayoralty.

HON. JOHN C. CHASE.

What Becomes of Metals?

The greater portion of the lead mined is converted into white lead, red lead and orange materials which are used as pigments for paints. Much lead is manufactured into sheet, some into bullets and other projectiles, and the only lead which comes back into the market in the form of scrap is that used for lead pipes.

Zinc is largely used in galvanizing steel or iron, in manufacturing brass, as a sheet zinc, and as oxide of zinc used in paint. The only zinc available for the new use is that used in making brass. Next to scrap iron and steel, scrap brass is found on the market.

Most of the world's zinc product is used in tin plates. Tin scrap is not available and, though many efforts have been made to utilize tin scrap, no considerable amount of metal has been obtained this way.

Next to iron and steel, copper is most used in metallic form, only a small proportion being used in the salts of copper and blue vitriol. The great uses of copper are in the manufacturing of brass, of which it forms two-thirds, in electrical conductors, sheet roofing, cooking utensils and pipes.

Just what becomes of the enormous amount of metal mined every year is a mystery, as a very small proportion is returned in the form of scrap material.

Plague of Caterpillars.

A curious visitation recently was noted in the township of Hove, near Brighton, England, in the shape of a plague of caterpillars. Having consumed a field of broccoli they made tracks across the road toward the houses, exteriors of which simply swarmed with them. Fourteen caterpillars were counted on a single window vane by an observer.

A bird on a woman's hat is worth a dozen in the bush—to the cunning milliner.

Just a Cough

Not worth paying attention to, you say. Perhaps you have had it for weeks.

It's annoying because you have a constant desire to cough. It annoys you also because you remember that weak lungs is a family failing.

At first it is a slight cough.
At last it is a hemorrhage.
At first it is easy to cure.
At last, extremely difficult.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

quickly conquers your little hacking cough.

There is no doubt about the cure now. Doubt comes from neglect.

For over half a century Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been curing colds and coughs and preventing consumption. It cures Consumption also if taken in time.

Keep one of Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plasters over your lungs if you cough.

Shall we send you a book on this subject, free?

Our Medical Department.

If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can possibly obtain, write the doctor freely. You will receive a prompt reply, without cost.
Address, DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

Whiskers Dyed
A Natural Black by Buckingham's Dye.

Price 50 cents of all druggists or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

Established 1780.

Baker's Chocolate,

celebrated for more than a century as a delicious, nutritious, and flesh-forming beverage, has our well-known

Yellow Label

on the front of every package, and our trade-mark, "La Belle Chocolatiere," on the back.

NONE OTHER GENUINE.

MADE ONLY BY
WALTER BAKER & CO. Ltd.,
Dorchester, Mass.

Lazy Liver

"I have been troubled a great deal with a torpid liver, which produces constipation. I found CASCARETS to be all you claim for them, and secured such relief the first trial, that I purchased another supply and was completely cured. I shall only be too glad to recommend Cascarets whenever the opportunity is presented." J. A. SMITH, 2920 Susquehanna Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

CANDY CATHARTIC
Cascarets
TRADE MARK REGISTERED
REGULATE THE LIVER

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good. Do Good, Never Sicken, Weaken, or Gripe. 10c, 25c, 50c.
... CURE CONSTIPATION. ...
Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago, Montreal, New York. 320

NO-TO-BAC Sold and guaranteed by all druggists to CURE Tobacco Habit.

DO YOU COUGH
DON'T DELAY
TAKE KEMP'S
BALSAM
THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

Wheat! Wheat! Wheat!

FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

"Nothing but wheat as far as the eye could reach on either side—what you might call a sea of wheat"—was what a lecturer, speaking of Western Canada, said while referring to that country.

For particulars as to routes, railway fares, etc., apply to C. J. Broughton, 1223 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; M. V. Meginnes, No. 1 Merrill Block, Detroit, Mich.; D. Caven, Bad Axe, Mich., or Jas. Grieve, Reed City, Mich., Agents for the Government of Canada.

SORE EYES Dr. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE-WATER

PISO'S CURE FOR
CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS.
Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists.
CONSUMPTION

Their Theory Upset.

After the destruction of Admiral Cervera's fleet, Captain Taylor, of the Indiana, and Captain Evans, of the Iowa, who are brothers-in-law, compared notes. Both had Spanish captive officers on board their boats, whom they were treating as guests. The conversation took place in the captain's cabin of the Indiana.

Captain Evans said that what seemed very remarkable to him was the fact that during the first ten minutes of the battle, while he was on the bridge giving orders, he heard small shot and shell whistling about his head, and occasionally would see a huge body of steel go sailing overhead.

"Then," he went on, "the excitement of the chase became intense, and I was oblivious to the fact that any shots were being fired at our ship. It was as if there were no enemy at all. I had no feeling of danger to the ship or the men."

"It is strange," said Captain Taylor, "but I had exactly the same experience. After the first eight or ten minutes of the battle, I was not cognizant of the fact that any missiles of death were flying about us. The whistling of the shots I heard no more. I suppose, Bob, that this is the way it should be in battle, and that a kind Providence has made it so."

"I suppose so," answered Captain Evans.

Just then a Spanish junior lieutenant, who knew English, spoke up.

"I think I can explain the matter," he said. "We did not fire any shots after the first eight or ten minutes. You drove our men from the guns!"

Captain Evans and Captain Tayolr looked at each other, and instantly abandoned their theory of providential insensibility to shot and shell in battle.

Matches Made of Paper.

The number of matches consumed yearly can hardly be realized. Forests have been literally cut into matchsticks, and the demand is growing faster than the supply of trees. So the idea of paper as a substitute is one that commends itself to all practical minds. An authority on the subject says:

The new matches are considerably cheaper than the wooden product, and weigh less, which counts for much in exportation.

The sticks of the matches consist of paper rolled together on the bias. The paper is rather strong and porous, and when immersed in a solution of wax sticks well together, and burns with a bright, smokeless and odorless flame. Strips one-half inch in width are first drawn through the combustible mass and then turned by machinery into long, thin tubes, pieces of the ordinary length of wood or wax matches being cut off automatically by the machine. When the sticks are cut to size they are dipped into phosphorous, also by machinery, and the dried head easily ignites by friction on any surface.

May Bring Leprosy to This Country.

Our soldiers in Hawaii may contract leprosy and bring it to this country. While leprosy is to be dreaded, there are a thousand times as many victims to stomach disorders, but there is a cure in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. Other ailments that the Bitters are a specific for are malaria, fever and ague. Sold at all drug stores.

Woman.

"Wait a minute," said Mrs. Jones to Mrs. Smith, who was making a neighborly call. "I want to show you my winter bonnet."

"I think I saw it," replied Mrs. Smith. "You had it on at church last Sunday, didn't you?"

"Yes; how did you like it?"

"Oh, it was just lovely. I'm sure, dear, it looks equally as well as it did last year."

MANITOBA'S CAPACITY.

Can Raise Enough Wheat to Supply Britain All She Requires from Abroad.

Toronto, Nov. 10.—The World comments on the report of the United Empire trade league on the capacity of Canada as a granary for Britain. The report refers to Manitoba as follows: Manitoba has an area of 47,000,000 acres. Deducting 10,000,000 for lakes, rivers, town sites and waste land, 37,000,000 acres are left for farm cultivation or homes for 116,000 families on 320 acres each, and as up to now there are only 27,000 farmers there altogether, that leaves room in one province for 89,000 more wheat growers. Supposing then we got them there and each one of them out of his 320 acres grew on an average 100 acres at 20 bushels to the acre. If you figure it up you will find it is quite possible for Manitoba alone to supply us with all the wheat we require from abroad. It is only a question of money and, comparatively speaking, not money either. The cost of one first-class battleship (about £750,000) would put 5,000 families on to farms in the Northwest, allowing £150 to each to find them in implements, seeds, horses, etc., and would keep them until their first crop was harvested. Five thousand farmers, averaging 100 acres of wheat each at 20 bushels to the acre, means an extra 10,000,000 bushels, for if that scheme is not liked Britain would put a duty on foreign wheat.

In addition to the wheat lands of Manitoba there are the millions of acres in Assiniboia, Alberta and Saskatchewan.

Two-Thirds of All Letters English.

At the recent postal congress attention was called to the fact that two-thirds of all the letters which pass through the postoffices are written by and sent to people who speak English.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

Our lives, by acts exemplary, not only win ourselves good names, but do to others give matter for virtuous deeds, by which we live.—Chapman.

Taken Hold.

We can wake up from sleep and find that soreness and stiffness have taken hold of us. We can use St. Jacobs Oil and go to sleep and wake up and find ourselves completely cured.

If a man is ignorant it is impossible to defeat him in an argument.

I never used so quick a cure as Piso's Cure for Consumption.—J. B. Palmer, Box 1171, Seattle, Wash., Nov. 25, 1895.

HUMOR OF THE WEEK

STORIES TOLD BY FUNNY MEN OF THE PRESS.

Odd, Curious and Laughable Phases of Human Nature Graphically Portrayed by Eminent Word Artists of Our Own Day—A Budget of Fun.

An Object of Pursuit.

"It is money that makes a man important."

"I don't know; it seems to me I'm of more importance when I haven't any money."

Aristocracy of Dolidom.

"My doll can shut her eyes and go to sleep just lovely."

"Huh! My doll never goes to sleep at all; she's got insomnier."

A Wonderful Woman.

"Hobson dotes on his mother-in-law."

"Just to be peculiar?"

"No; at Christmas she always sends him something that his wife can't use."

Working-Class Cats.

"Those new neighbors must be very ordinary people."

"Why?"

"Their cats catch mice."

Pity.

His voice was hoarse with emotion.
And did she pity him?
Ah, yes! Generous girl that she was, she handed him an entire box of lozenges that some distributer had left upon the doorstep the day before.

Unmistakable Proofs.

"Why do you think he is a self-made man?"

"Because he wears chin whiskers instead of mutton chops."

Merely a Feeler.

"No, I thank you. I prefer to stand." The stout woman who was standing up in the crowded car looked straight ahead of her as she made this remark.

The men sitting down glanced furtively at each other.

"I didn't hear anybody offering me a seat," she said, still looking straight at the front end of the car, "but I took it for granted somebody had done it."

Six men slowly rose up.

"No, I thank you," she said, without looking at any of them. "I've been standing for fifteen minutes. It won't hurt me to keep it up a little longer. I get off at the next crossing."

Then six men sat down again, much relieved.

She had overestimated them.

Getting Back at Her.

"Yes, Mrs. Punk, I can understand why you wouldn't live in a small town."

"What do you mean?"

"Anybody can live in a city, but it takes people who have mental resources to enjoy life in a small town."

Well Fortified.

"We never suffer from cold hands when we go out."

"Are you so robust?"

"No; but my wife has her muff and I carry the poodle."

It Was Natural.

She (after the honeymoon)—I've often wondered, dear, what you ever saw in me to cause you to make me your wife.

He—That's a strange coincidence. Do you know I've asked myself that question a hundred times since we've been married?

Shows Effort.

"I always appreciate it when Bibbs is pleasant to me."

"Why?"

"Because it is hard work for him to be pleasant to anybody."

Going In for Exercise.

"What did Bess say in her letter to Santa Claus?"

"She said she wanted a pair of skates and a piano."

He's Caught the Craze.

"Bobby, what kind of a sled do you want?"

"I want one that's pretty enough to haul girls on."

Figuring It Out.

"Have you any idea how old Mrs. Wexford is?"

"Well, no, not exactly, but she must be pretty well down in the 20s yet. I heard Mrs. Bloxham say the other day that she didn't believe the lady was 'a day over 35.'"

Museum Excitement.

"The two-headed girl got up another rumpus this morning."

"What was she mad about?"

"One of her heads picked out a hat just like that which the other one had."

The Saving Clause.

"Don't you get tired of so much Shakspeare at your club?"

"Well, we always have teas."—Detroit Free Press.

An Easy Guess.

Mr. Blimkus—Why do you think Mildred and young Perkleigh are engaged?

Mrs. Blimkus—After he went away last night I smelled paper burning in the kitchen stove and this morning I found a piece of an envelope addressed to her in another's handwriting.

Success.

"Is he a successful man?"

"Yes, very. He has been mixed up in three bank failures and succeeded in keeping out of the penitentiary every time."

Evidently a Failure.

Singleton—My congratulations, old man; no more sewing on buttons now, eh?"

Wederly—No, indeed! I wear a belt now. It keeps me so busy supporting a wife that I haven't time to sew on buttons.

Getting at the Facts.

Insurance Agent—Pardon me, madam, but what is your age?

Miss Antiquate—I have seen 22 summers.

Insurance Agent—Yes, of course; but how many times did you see them?

Feminine Diplomacy.

Hattie—Would you call Nell a beauty?

Ella—Well, that depends.

Hattie—Depends on what?

Ella—Whether I was conversing with her or some one else.

Failed to Conciliate.

As the conventional young man sat talking with the conventional young woman the conventional stern father came in.

The young man would fain be sociable and at ease.

"The open door——" began he.

"The front door is open at this minute," said the father.—Indianapolis Journal.

Too Weak a Comparison.

At last, after many dangers, she had braved the terrors of the Chilkoot pass and had rejoined her lover on the Klondike.

"Are you glad to see me?" she asked. "Do you still think that I am worth my weight in gold?"

"In gold?" he cried, contemptuously, as he folded her to his frozen bosom. "My darling, your are worth your weight in hash!"—Chicago Times Herald.

Similar but Different.

Diggs—Did you employ a typewriter to copy your manuscript?

Biggs—I thought I did, but on looking over the work I discovered that I had employed a type-wronger.

A Cash Clearance.

"Cordelia is selling everything to go abroad again."

"She is?"

"Yes; she offered to sell me her bicycle and her engagement to Mr. Jimp."

Confessions.

"Gladys Lucile, I must make a confession before we are married. You know me as Guy Percy Fitz-William, but the folks at home call me 'Bill.'"

"That's all right. My pa and ma call me 'Toadie.'"

Pleasant for Jinks.

Jinks—They say married people grow to resemble each other.

Mrs. Jinks—Well, I know it's quite impossible for a married woman to keep her good looks.—Larks.

Hopeful.

Granger—How are you getting along at your house?

Timson—Pretty well, on the whole. We are nearly out of everything but debt, and in time, if things go on as they have been going, we ought to be out of that.—Boston Transcript.

Men and Horses Killed in Battle.

In regular battles the proportion of loss among men and horses is quite close, and in hand-to-hand combats of cavalry, as well as in sharp artillery engagements, for every man killed or wounded there is also a dumb warrier entitled to a place beside him on the roll of honor. The Light Brigade at Balaklava rode in 660 (not 600) strong and lost 288 men, but of the 660 horses 360 were shot down by the Russian guns.

In the fierce charges of the German uhlans and cuirassiers at Vionville, Mars-la-Tour, in 1870, 1,400 men and 1,600 horses were killed and wounded. In the fierce artillery contests on the same field 730 men and over 1,000 horses fell around the guns. At Gravelotte, soon after Mars-la-Tour, the artillery fighting was also terrible, and 1,300 horses were shot down around the batteries, though the loss of the artillerists was less than 1,000.—Our Animal Friends.

A play is never satisfactory if there is a man or woman left over when the pairing off occurs in the last act.

TRAINING SCHOOL.

"What's the cause of the infernal racket in the next room?"

"It is Schmidt, the dog fancier, who is breaking in some dogs intended for musically inclined mistresses."—Meggendorfer's Blaetter.

TWO GRATEFUL WOMEN

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Can Do My Own Work."

Mrs. PATRICK DANEHY,
West Winsted, Conn., writes:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—It is with pleasure that I write to you of the benefit I have derived from using your wonderful Vegetable Compound. I was very ill, suffered with female weakness and displacement of the womb.

"I could not sleep at night, had to walk the floor, I suffered so with pain in my side and small of my back. Was troubled with bloating, and at times would faint away; had a terrible pain in my heart, a bad taste in my mouth all the time and would vomit; but now, thanks to Mrs. Pinkham and her Vegetable Compound, I feel well and sleep well, can do my work without feeling tired; do not bloat or have any trouble whatever.

"I sincerely thank you for the good advice you gave me and for what your medicine has done for me."

"Cannot Praise It Enough."

Miss GERTIE DUNKIN,
Franklin, Neb., writes:

"I suffered for some time with painful and irregular menstruation, falling of the womb and pain in the back. I tried physicians, but found no relief.

"I was at last persuaded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and cannot praise it enough for what it has done for me. I feel like a new person, and would not part with your medicine. I have recommended it to several of my friends."

Vegetarians and Meat Eaters.

A careful examination of the hearts of the vegetarian and the meat eater show that the number of beats to the former are fifty-eight to the minute and of the latter seventy-two. In twenty-four hours this means a difference of 20,000 beats. From this it is concluded that in the summer time the vegetarian has the advantage, for he can keep cooler and in better health under the reduced number of heart beats. But in a cold climate, or in our own winters, the heat generated by such slow heart-beats would hardly be sufficient to make life strong and resisting enough. The true verdict that one must reach is that the vegetarian is better off in the summer and the meat-eater stronger in the winter.—Tid-Bits.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

A Liverpool corporation omnibus conductor wears a breastpin which can, at will, be illuminated with electricity, and by this means he is enabled to easily ascertain what sort of coin is handed him and quickly give change.

The Thing to Do.

When the Sciatic nerve gives its worst torment in the shape of Sciatica, the one thing to do is to use St. Jacobs Oil promptly and feel sure of a cure.

A Hurry Call.

"I called Bigguns a liar right to his face yesterday."

"Is that so? What did he say?"

"I don't know. I happened to be called away before he had time to reply."

Coughs Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Sold in 25 and 50 cent bottles. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

God governs the world, and we have only to do our duty wisely and leave the issue to him.—John Jay.

The Good

It will do you to take Hood's Sarsaparilla is beyond estimation. It will give you warm, rich, nourishing blood, strengthen your nerves, tone your stomach, create an appetite, and make you feel better in every way. It is a wonderful invigorator of the system; wards off colds, fevers, pneumonia and the grip. The best winter medicine is

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Sold by all dealers in medicine. Price $1.

Hood's Pills cure biliousness, indigestion.

SYRUP OF FIGS

NEVER IMITATED BUT QUALITY.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.
LOUISVILLE, Ky. NEW YORK, N. Y.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that we cannot cure by taking Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
Sold by Druggists, 75c.

Wished They Thought So.

Mrs. Wildman—I can tell you this, Mr. Wildman, if you continue in your present life of extravagance you'll surely pay for it some day.

Mr. Wildman—I wish, my dear, that my creditors had the same faith in my good intentions.—Richmond Dispatch.

In Winter Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. During winter your feet feel uncomfortable, nervous, and often cold and damp. If you have perspiring, smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It warms and rests the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and is a certain cure for chilblains and frost bites. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Trial package mailed FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Those Loving Girls.

Maude—Aunt Mary has a lock of George Washington's hair. It has been in our family ever since the revolutionary war.

Clara—Indeed! I wasn't aware that one of your ancestors was a barber.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Water in Alaska.

Water is said to be the only liquid that can be drunk in Alaska without injurious effects.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

An Italian linguist claims to be able to speak and write no fewer than ninety-nine languages and dialects.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED.—Case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. Send 5 cents to Ripans Chemical Co., New York, for 10 samples and 1,000 testimonials.

St. Jacobs Oil imparts within a few minutes, to the muscles, and cures

Luxemburg, the city that was called "the Notre Dame" from the flags he sent to that cathedral.

DISEASE TO THE LUNGS

Death from disease of the lungs. Certain complications make consumption incurable.

Most cases of death from consumption are the direct result of neglected catarrh.

Pe-ru-na works harmoniously with nature to eject the tubercles from the lungs, and works so successfully that if there is a cure for consumption Pe-ru-na is the remedy.

Read this letter from Mrs. H. A. Tyner, of Four Oaks, N. C., about her daughter, Mrs. L. Keene. She says:

Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

DEAR SIRS:—"My daughter had every symptom of consumption—suppression of menses, night sweats and great emaciation. She was so low that none of our neighbors thought she could live. In May Mr. C. R. Adams, of this place, who had taken Pe-ru-na, told me if anything would help her Pe-ru-na would. I got a bottle of it and some rock candy and began giving it to her. During the first few days she was so weak she could only take a half teaspoonful at a time, but I gave it to her as often as she could bear it. In less than a week she could walk two hundred yards and back without resting; she kept getting stronger, and in twelve months she seemed to be as well as she ever was in her life. I feel, and so does every one that knew about her sickness, that Pe-ru-na saved her life. My daughter's name is Mrs. L. Keene."

ASTHMA
POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC
Gives relief in FIVE minutes. Send for a FREE trial package. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Six boxes $5.00. Address THOS. POPHAM, PHILA., PA.

PATENT secured or money all returned. Search free. Collamer & Co., 3 F St. Washington, D.C.

"Say Aye 'No' and Ye'll Ne'er Be Married." Don't Refuse All Our Advice to Use

SAPOLIO

Tell Your Printer to Use

Eagle Linen

WATERMARK.

When You Order

Letter Heads and Envelopes.

If you once use it you will have nothing else.
Be sure it has the Watermark as shown above.

The Success of the Season.

The Ledger Monthly

A $1.00 MAGAZINE FOR 50 CENTS.

A Richly Illustrated and Beautiful Periodical, Covering the Whole Field of Popular Reading.

THE LEDGER MONTHLY is the marvel of the age for beauty and low price. With its Artistic Lithographic Colored Covers, Superb Pictorial Illustrations, Serial and Short Stories by Leading Writers of the World, and Special Departments of Decorative Art, Embroidery, Home Employment for Women, and, in fact, every Department of home improvement which adds to the economy and charm of home life, be it indoors or outdoors, THE LEDGER MONTHLY is beyond question, and, according to

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS OF THE WHOLE UNITED STATES,

the most wonderful production for its price. Simply to see a copy of THE LEDGER MONTHLY is to be firmly convinced that no such costly periodical has ever been offered to the public for so little money. Your sample copy will prove this to you.

Your Postmaster will show you a sample copy of THE LEDGER MONTHLY and also take your subscription for THE LEDGER MONTHLY for a whole year for only 50 cents.

Don't fail to ask your Postmaster to let you look at a sample copy, and you will be sure to give him your 50 cents for a year's subscription to THE LEDGER MONTHLY, the Great Family Magazine.

ROBERT BONNER'S SONS, Publishers,
156 Ledger Building, New York City.

Don't Rent

ESTABLISH A HOME OF YOUR OWN.

You can do it. The finest agricultural land in the world lies West of the Mississippi River. Prices are low and farmers are prosperous. You can get valuable information by reading "THE CORN BELT," which is the handsomest farm paper ever published. It is beautifully illustrated and contains exact and strictly truthful information about the West. Issued monthly. Send 25c. for a year's subscription to "THE CORN BELT," 209 Adams St., Chicago, Ills.

GATES TOURS

MEXICO
JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1899

SIXTH ANNUAL TOURS BY SPECIAL TRAIN DE LUXE.

First tour leaves January 17th, Second tour leaves February 11th.

GATES TOURS OF MEXICO

Are made by special trains of Palace cars including Compartment Sleepers, Ladies' Parlor and Observation Car and Dining Car serving all meals en route. If you are interested in these grand tours of thirty days through the strange, weird, and interesting

"LAND OF THE MONTEZUMAS"

Apply for books of the tours, rates covering all traveling expenses, assignments in sleeping cars, etc., etc., to R. G. Thompson, Special Representative for Mr. Gates, Wabash Ticket Office, Fort Wayne, Ind.

$3.00 to $10.00 PER DAY

Can be earned selling our Patent Volute Nut Locks. They sell at sight to everyone using Farm Implements and machinery. Write at once for liberal terms and exclusive territory if you want a SURE MONEY-MAKER.

THE VOLUTE NUT LOCK CO., Fort Wayne, Ind.

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS.
JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D.C.
Late Principal Examiner U.S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty.

Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U.S.A.

CURE YOURSELF
Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous.
Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

When Writing to Advertisers mention this paper you saw the Ad.

...an ...ne
...ELICATE GIRL
...ied iron and
...But she keeps
...in. Her sallow
...worries you. Per-
...s a little hacking
...Her head aches;
...study. Give her

Scott's Emulsion

The oil will feed her wasting body; the glycerine will soothe her cough, and the hypophosphites will give new power and vigor to her nerves and brain.

Never say you "cannot take cod-liver oil" until you have tried Scott's Emulsion. You will be obliged to change your opinion at once. Children especially become very fond of it; and infants do not know when it is added to their food.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.

SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

HE'S A TRUSTY.

But Finds Shooting Crows not as Much Fun as Shooting Quails.

Claude Miller is a sort of "trusty" as they say at the state prison. He is supposed to be in jail for shooting a hole in a school house water closet, at the Lutz school east of Waterloo. When he was tried last summer, he told the court how it happened. He was going by the school house with another boy, who had a revelver, with three loads in it. The owner of the gun fired off two loads, and then Claude asked to be allowed to fire off the last shot, "to see whether the old cartridge would go or not." He says, just then a crow came in sight, and he fired at the crow, on the wing. The bird was not hit, but the door of the water closet had a good sized hole in it. He was arrested and after Judge Roby had heard his crow story, he was so impressed, with it, that he at once remarked, "I'll give you 120 days." And these days are still running. But as we said, Claude is a "trusty". It was decided that he ought to work on our streets, and so he is supposed to be thus employed. But on the muddy crossings the time and the tough mud hang heavy on his hands. So when he gets too lonesome, and don't care to hunt up the marshal, he wanders around where there is more company. This brings him now and then into the court room where he is an interested spectator. But like a good trusty, he is on hand at the Hotel de Hathaway for his supper.

Words of Truth.

We the undersigned druggists of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan unite in saying that Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup has no superior as a throat and lung remedy. It has given entire satisfaction in this part of the country and is one of our very best sellers.

STAFFORD DRUG CO., Marquette, Mich.
H. J. ATKINSON, Harbor Springs, Mich.
J. M. PERKINS & CO., Negaunee, Mich.
H. M. POWERS, Ontonagon, Mich.
D. T. MACDONALD, Calumet, Mich.
F. P. TILLSON, Ishpeming, Mich.
A. J. SCOTT, Hancock, Mich.
RUDELL & CONWAY,
Sault St. Marie, Mich.
Davenport the druggist.

HE THANKS GOD

An enthusiastic convert at the Woodworth meetings created quite a ripple of fun at the meeting Wednesday evening. He was expressing his great relief as well as thankfulness for his conversion and the blessings that go with it. And in the wildness of his joy, he continued:

"I used to swear but thanks to the Holy Ghost, I have now quit it. I used to chew tobacco, but, now thanks to the Holy Ghost, I have stopped that. I used to get drunk, but now, thanks to the Holy Ghost, I have quit that I used te vote the democratic ticket but now, thanks to the Holy Ghost. I have quit that."

And there is a rumor, unconfirmed however, that at this point Henry Shull laughed out in meetin'. And the crowd tittered audibly. And now, a great many are attending each evening in hope he will speak again. They want to hear the rest of it, for they claim he used to do some other things, that he ought to have stopped and if he has, should be thankful for.

STUBBORN COLDS

...stubborn cold is easily taken; it ...cks to some people all winter and ...ry often develops into bronchitis or ...sumption. You should cure a cold ...mptly by taking Dr. Bull's Cough ...rup. This celebrated remedy is acknowledged to be most efficient and ...able for all affections of the throat ...lungs. It cures a cold at once.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

...mptly cures Stubborn Colds. ...nt and pleasant to take. Doctors ...ice 25 cts. At all druggists.

A BILL.

A bill for an act providing for the appointment by the attorney General of Indiana of a man whose duties it shall be to visit at least once a quarter each county in the state and make a full and complete examination of the records, reports, books, accounts, vouchers and allowances belonging and pertaining to the office of the Circuit Judge, Clerk, Sheriff, Auditor, Treasurer and Recorder of each of said Counties: together with the records of the County Commissioners for the purpose of insuring the collection of all fees and the payment of all fees and other moneys due the State or County and disclosing abuses, delinquencies and breaches of duty, if any such exist. Declaring certain violations of the provisions of this act to be a misdemean and prescribing penalties therefor, providing the time when the same shall take effect and repealing all laws in conflict with this act.

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Indiana: That it shall be the duty of the Attorney General, on the immediate taking effect of this act, to visit once each quarter, each county in the several Congressional Districts in the State of Indiana and make a full and complete examination of the records, reports, books, accounts vouchers and allowances belonging and pertaining to the office of the Judge of the Court, Clerk, Sheriff, Auditor, Treasurer and Recorder of said Counties, together with the records of the Board of County Commissioners thereof, for the purpose of insuring the collection and payment of all fees and other moneys due the State or County and exposing abuses, delinquencies and breaches of duty—if any such exist and the bringing to justice any officer or person guilty of criminal acts or omissions, practices connected with the conduct of such officers or either of them.

SEC. 2. He shall have the power to cause any such officer and any other person whose examination appears to him to be necessary, to be sworn and to testify under oath relative with any matters connected with the conduct of the business of such office, or either of them. Such examination may be reduced to writing in the discretion of such Attorney General and kept by him as a part of the records of his office and cause a copy of the same to be placed on file with the Auditor of the County.

SEC. 3. Any person falling or refusing to submit to such an examination, on reasonable notice thereof, shall forfeit and pay to the State o Indiana the sum of $100.00, to be recovered in any Court having general jurisdiction.

SEC 4 It shall be the duty of the Attorney General to institute proceedings against any officer who fails and refuses to tax, collect or pay over any fees provided for by law. It shall be his duty to institute proceeding against any such officer who, after ten days notice, shall fail or neglect to pay over any such fees to the officer or person entitled thereto, said amount together wit 10 per cent penalty may be recovered in any court of competent jurisdiction in an action brought in the name of the State upon the relation of said Attorney General.

SEC. 5. It shall be the duty of the Attorney General to institute criminal proceedings in all cases where the facts, in his judgment, call for and justify the same, He shall examine the records and proceedings of the Judge of the Circuit Court and Board of County Commissioners, all bills filed and allowed therein and take such steps in relation thereto as the interests of the tax payers and good government may require. And it is made the duty of the Board of County Commissioners of the several Counties of the State to consider all suggestions made to them by said Attorney General and all reports and statements made by him shall buly recorded in an order book of Board.

SEC 6. He shall examine the records of delinqent taxes and it shall be unlawful for any County Auditor to credit any County Treasurer with delinquent and uncollected taxes, when the Attorney General shall report that any such taxes are collectible or that a thorough and faithful attempt has not been made. He shall have the power to order fee bills and execution in all cases where fees are outstanding in the collection of which the State or County has a peunicary interest.

SEC 7 It shall be the duty of the Attorney General, within a reasonable time after making such investigation, to file in the office of the Auditor of the County a report thereof in which he shall set out the amount of all fees earned and taxed, all fees taxed and not collected, together with the name of the officer so failing to tax or collect and the reason therefor as such Attorney General shall find it to be. He shall set out in such report the amount collected by him, from whom, for what, when collected and the disposition made by him thereof.

SEC. 8. He shall add such recommendations and statements as appear to him to be called for relative to the conduct of any office or officer therein and said reports shall be filed by said Attorney General with the Auditor of the County and cause the Auditor to have the same published within fifteen days after its being filed, to be published in two newspapers of general circulation in said County. Each newspader shall be of different politics and representing the two parties casting the highest number of votes at the last general election preceding said publication, and he shall fix the price of publication. He shall report to the next general assembly such facts with regards to the method in which the books of said couties are kept as may enable said essembly to provide a uniform statement of all the counties in the State, together with reavlent recommendations and suggestions.

SEC 9. Said Att'y Generalshall have the power to appoint deputies who shall perform the same duties as are required by the Attorney General. Said Attorney General shall receive $1.500.00 per annum together with necessary traveling expenses, to be paid out of any funds not otherwise appropriated.

SEC. 10. Any officer or person violating any of the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined in any Court general jurisdiction in the sum of $..... and be imprisoned for not less than one year or more than five years, or both, at the discretion of the Court.

SEC. 11 Whereas an emergecy exists for the immediate taking effect of this act, therefore the same shall be in full force and effect on and after its passage.

HEN KEEPERS will find it to their advantage to read the advertisement of the Leghoon Food Co, in another columns of this paper, it shows you how to produce more eggs.

How Brice Sold the Nickel Plate.

[New York Journal.]

The Nickel Plate road, which Mr. Brice began to build in 1880, had been projected sidce 1859, and partly graded. It was Mr. Brice's idea to extend it so that it should parallel the Lake Shore. When Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt refused to buy it from him, saying: "I can purchase it cheaper at foreclosure." Mr. Brice went to Jay Gould and asked him to go over the line in an observation car and pose as intending customer. Before the Gould train had reached Chicago Mr. Vanderbilt had bought control from Mr. Brice. An intimate friend of the ex-senator said that Mr. Gould received $500,000 for this service. The agreement between Gould and Brice was that Gould should neither admit nor deny any statement that was circulated as to his intentions toward the Nickel Plate.

When the Vanderbilt representatives met Mr. Brice and his friends at the office of the Farmers' Loan and Trust company to take over the stock, Mr. Brice suddenly said: "As I understood it, you were to take all my stock at the price I named, and all that of my friends."

"Certainly not," replied the Vanderbilts. "We only want control."

Mr. Brice thereupon gathered all his share certificates into a tin box. "If you won't buy my friends' stock at the same figure you pay for mine, this deal is off," and he started for the door. The Vanderbilts' agents ran after him, bringing him back, consented to his terms.

General Sam Thomas, the partner of Mr. Brice, was as white as a sheet while this was going on, as the deal meant millions to them, and any interference with it would entail enormous losses on both. Afterward Mr. Brice said to the general:

"I should think an old poker-player like you would know a bluff when he saw it." It is said that Mr. Brice made two or three millions out of the Nickel Plate deal.

Samples Free.

The great number of newspapers, magazines, etc., that are now being published have made it very hard for the readers to decide just what one they wish to subscribe for. The American Subscription Agency, of Indianapolis, Ind., have compiled a list of 100 papers that they offer to send a sample copy of each to any address upon receipt of 10 cents to pay for mailing. They do this so that you may see and read a copy of each paper before subscribing. If you decide to subscribe to any of their papers to the amount of $1 they offer to deduct the 10 cents sent from the subscribtion. Send 10 cents to the American Subscription Agency, 653 Arch St., Indianapolis, Ind., and you will receive one hundred papers. j23

Longcliff Hospital

(Kendallville News)

The following counties constitute the northern Indiana district for insane: Cass, DeKalb, Elkhart, Fulton, Huntington, Jasper Kosciusko, Lake, LaGrange, Miami, Marshall, Newton, Noble, Porter, Pulaski, Steuben, St. Joseph, Stark, White, Whitley, and Wabash—twenty-two in all. The hospital is located in Logansport, and has a capacity for 610 patents. On Sept. 30 there were enrolled 657; furloughed at home 47; committed, but not admitted for lack of room, 43 in county asylums 61; in jails 9; making a total of 770 insane in these twenty-two counties. The hospital is too small and trustees are asking the state to enlarge its capacity.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

A Belated Story

A dispatch from Elkhart to the Indianapolis Sun has an item that will be news to most of our people. It says:

S. M. Stuckey, a member of the Oregon's crew, is visiting in Elkhart. He claims that the Oregon passed through Cervera's fleet off Cape St Roque on the night of May 12. The Oregon sighted three lights which soon went out and she believed she had been discovered though she showed no light. When daylight came no vessel was in sight. After the destruction of Cervera's fleet, a Spanish sailor told members of the Oregon's crew that they had picked up near St. Roque, a floating sugar barrel that had the Oregon's name on it.

An Oregon Minister.

I received the bottle of White Wine of Tar Syrup. One of my children was very sick with croup, and as your medicine was pleasant to take I gave it, and it gave almost immediate relief. I would not be without it, and I also recommend it as a medicine that should be at all times in every family. West Union Oregon. REV. H. STAUP.
Davenport the Druggist.

Band Meeting.

At the meeting of the directors of the Auburn Band, last evening, the following officers were elected:

Chas. H. Knapp, president; Dr. I. O. Buchtel, vice-president; D. A. Hodge, secretary; Prof. C. W. Niles, assistant secretary; W. H. Schaab, treasurer. These with D. A. Garwood, constitute the board of directors.

Thursday's Daily.

—Ask any druggist for a free Peruna Almanac for the year 1899.

—Miss Lydia Teeters and Miss Stella Hague are visiting friends at Ashley.

—Albert Buchanan, one of our subscribers at Corunna, called today and contributed a mite to the COURIER'S coffers.

—C. P. Hamman is the next lucky man to pay up to 1900. That is a pretty good way for a young and rising man to keep even with the world.

—Wm. Carr our Jackson township "twin brother" was in today and paid the Old Reliable COURIER up into 1900, and has thanks for the same.

—Judge Stotsenburg, New Albany, is preparing a bill for the legislature prevading for guide posts at all road crossings to be put up by road supervisors.

—Benjamin Duncan of Franklin was down here on some business matters, today. Ben is holding his own in good shape and looks as hearty as ever.

—The Garrett Clipper says "Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lollar are spending the holidays in Waterloo." Mrs. Lollar will be better remembered as Miss Flora Speer.

—Ex-treasurer Fair was in town today on business. He is now back on the old home farm, and working hard to pickup again after his late troubles We hope he may succeed.

—Don't get scared when your heart troubles you. Most likely you suffer from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It will cure every form of Dyspepsia. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Miles Baxter and Frank McDowell went down into Butler township yesterday after quail. They got 'em too, for they came home with twenty nice ones. So they went down again today for a final hunt.

—New Era:—The Broom Manufacturers' Association has decided to advance the price of brooms two cents each. They give as a reason the scarity of broom corn and the advanco in the price of that product.

—Judge Taylor seems to be gaining slightly in the race for Senator. As he is by far the ablest man in the field, the republicans who will have to be responsible for the next Indiana Senator, should see to it that the best man gets the place.

—Miss Lulu Rempis and her aunt, Miss French drove down from Waterloo today. They were here to see Mrs. Cuppy for some goods in her line. Mr. and Mrs. Rempis are now visiting at the old home at Massillon, Ohio. The two ladies took dinner with Mrs. W. C. Hartman.

—The smallest things may exert the greatest influence. De Witt's Little Early Risers are unequalled for overcoming constipation and liver troubles. Small pill, best pill; safe pill. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—A block of cement pavement raised by tree roots tripped Mrs. Edward Watson, Columbus, and threw her headlong. Her spine was injured and the baby in her arms suffered a concussion of the brain which resulted in death, Tuesday. She will sue the city for $10,000 damages.

—The Dispatch last week on one day only, had 25 columns of reading matter, and called attention to it as a remarkable thing. The COURIER and Sentinel combination for the past 390 days, gives every day, an average of 52 columns of reading matter, of superior quality, and at the same price.

—Geo. Gregg is objecting to the report of commissioners' allowances to poor, which puts him down as one who received help. We can assure our young friend that it is not George Gregg the cigar maker. The latter is a young man who is making his own living, but another man with a similar name.

Friday's Daily.

—Irvin Hadsell of St Joe was in the city today, calling on friends.

—Dr. and Mrs. Hines and Miss Effie Hines spent the day at Fort Wayne.

—Miss Maud Duncan, of Waterloo, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Johnston today.

—Mrs. Barns came home from Butler last evening. The friends she visited there are all well. S. B. Jones is at home for the holidays.

—Frederick Morr of Concord has thanks for a good financial lift, yesterday. Our patrons are coming up nicely at the close of the year.

—Paul Perry, of Columbus, Ga., suffered agony for thirty years, and then cured his Piles by using De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals injuries and skin diseases like magic. Fischler & Son and H. B. Mc-Cord.

—The battleship Iowa, which was on its way to the Philippines, in company with the Oregon burst one of its steam cylinders on the trip and has had to leave the Oregon to go on alone with the coaling ship, while the Iowa goes up to San Francisco for repairs.

—F. M Boyer of Muncie is here today. He and J. P. Kandel are still in the manufacture of buggies at that city. Mrs. Kandel, mother of J. P., is down there also, living with her son-in-law David Shull, a few miles out of the city, where he has a farm. She is in poor health.

—La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Sheperd, Publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "None will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

Saturday's Daily.

—James M. Triplet of Waterloo, was in town today.

—C. W. Heltz, of New Era, called to see us today.

—Frank Pipes has returned from a visit at Angola.

—Today is the last of the old year Get ready to swear off.

—John A. Schaab, of Paulding, came up on the noon train today.

—Miss Julia Hodge returned today to Michigan City, where she is a teacher in the city schools.

—Mrs. Dr. Stamets, who has been visitidg her people at Chicago Junction is expected home next week.

—Cal Baird's two daughters went east today on the B. & O. We are under the impression they are visiting in Ohio.

—Senator Nusbaum and Representative Brown go to Indianapolis on Monday. The session lasts till some time in March.

—It is reported here, that Geo. Henderson has a new position. He is now stenographer on the Flyer on the Lake Shore road.

—Gen. Lawton has been assigned to an important command in the Philippines. He was an Allen Co, boy in the rebellion.

—Will Rakestraw is some easier today and is now improving, though very slowly. It will be some weeks before he is out again.

—Joe Pepple, father-in-law of Albert Thrush, died at his home at Butler last night C. C. Shaffer has charge of the remains.

—Jacob Stamets was able to hobble up town yesterday, but he is in very bad shape. But he seems to like to get out now and then.

—Phillip Holman, of Cedar, formerly a Corporal in Company K, but now teaching school near Garrett, made the COURIER a pleasant call today —Mrs. Blankenship of Chicago, formerly Miss Maud Sheets, is here visiting her people. Mr. Blankenship joined her here today and they will remain here till Tuesday.

—The legislature of Connecticut has 273 members in both Houses. Pretty good number for a little state. However, they work cheap, Indiana has 150 only and Illinois 151.

—John G. Ashley and wife are here now, being called to the bedside of his father, who is very low. All the children are now at home, and for the first time in seventeen years.

—C. A Gibford is now secretary of the Modern American Fraternal Order in place of Jay Love, who is at Montpelier, Ind. They meet each Friday evening in Red Men's Hall,

—The United States paid back to the state of Indiana the $107,102 we advanced to furnish our state troops for the recent war with Spain. It will be used to pay on the state debt.

—Two of Auburn's popular young men gave a Christmas dinner to a number of lady friends. One of them did the cooking, without any aid whatever, and the ladies say it was fine.

—J. D. Rowley was here last evening and started home at nearly dark with a load of new furniture from Shaffer's. He had a rough drive to get home over the freezing mud.

—Supt. Coe returned Wednesday evening from Indianapolis and Thursday went down to Butler township to visit schools. But he got a sort of grip or bad cold, and had to come home to doctor up.

—To insure a happy new year, keep the liver clear and the body vigorous by using De Witt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation and liver troubles. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Franklin and Smithfield township schools have a joint meeting January 14, at Pleasant Hill school. There will be recitations and other appropriate exercises by those who are to be graduated this year.

—Editor Olds sent us last, a copy of the News marked "Sample Copy" As it was exactly like the copy of the News we get every week. We conclude M. E. is trying to "jolly" us. The News is always acceptable at this office, and we don't care how it is marked.

—Mr. S. A. Fackler, Editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe, and its exhausting effects. Never fails. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—A hog down in Wabash county would not get fat and was killed to find what was the matter. Its stomach was found to contain six and a half pounds of nails, horse shoe nails at that. The owner now thinks of killing the rest of his hogs, hoping to find a set of of horse shoes, and then he is going to have his horses ironed off like his wealthy neighbors.

—The COURIER gives all the news. Gives it fully so you know what is being referred to. Gives you the court news in full, and the allowances, both of the Board of Commissioners and of the Court. Some of these issues should be laid away and for reference. Show them to your neighbors, so that they two may know what is going on.

—At the Kokomo M. E. church the other Sunday, the lady whose turn it was to furnish wine for communion, made a mistake and brought a bottle of her best catsup. When opened in church, the mistake was seen. She ran across the street to a doctor's office and got a bottle of real wine. But when the communicants saw the death's head label they again rebelled. So she made a third trip, and got the right kind of a neighbor.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

COURT NEWS.

The jury in the case against Thomas Sommers, spoken of last evening, returned a verdict of not guilty It had been charged that he had kept his saloon open after 11 p. m. Witnesses for and against, testified as to the time he closed on the night in question, but as the time sworn to ranged from 10-45 to 11-45 the jury were not able to say whether he had done business after the legal hour or not. And the accused is always entitled to the benefit of the doubt.

Today some cases were worked off by the judge, and then a jury was formed to try the Getz case. This is a case between Getz and an insurance Co.

Walker, the administrator of the Getz estate sued the Columbia Relief Fund A company for $300 sick benefits, claimed to be due to Getz while sick. The Company defend, by saying Getz misrepresented his condition to them by claiming he was in good health when his risk was taken by them. But they say, the fact was that he had a cancer of the stomach at that time, and from which he died.

Latta of Indianapolis and Sharpless of Garrett are attorneys for the Company, and Howard Mountz of Garrett, and Hon. C. M. Brown of Auburn are attorneys for the Getz estate. The trial is going on.

Levi Putt, one of the jurors, was excused today and went home. He could not act in the Getz case, as he is a relative.

The case of Getz vs. the Columbia Relief Co., is still going on. The witnesses in general, have testified, but today expert testimony of physicians is being taken. Dr. Clevenger, of Garrett, and Dr. Nusbaum, of Auburn, are witnesses for the Relief Company. Drs. Swarts, Baxter and Hines were present in the court today, as witnesses for Getz. It is probable the case will occupy all day.

J. E. Pomeroy was over at St. Joe, yesterday, and the bad boys just flew when they saw him. On every side could be heard whispers of "Say, boys, there goes the prosecutor." They went into hiding and didn't come forth till his train had got to Inverness Switch, on the way home.

The case of Getz vs Columbia Relief Co., went to the jury this morning. G. I Patterson was made foreman. At 10:50 the bell rang and it was known they had agreed. The verdict was in favor of Getz, giving a judgment of $300. It appears that after Getz was taken sick last year, he kept on paying his monthy assesmets till February of last winter when the company refused to take his money as it had become known that he had cancer of the stomach. He died March 7, 1898, and as the Company refused to pay any sick benefits, this suit was brought.

At the close of this, the jury were discharged till Monday forenoon. One of the jurors C. P. Hammon of Franklin township was excused for the term, as he is a teacher and the holiday vacation closes today.

A Convenient Table.

When the housewife has no scales the following table will be found very convenient:

One fluid ounce contains two tablespoonfuls.

One dram, or sixty drops, makes a teaspoonful.

One rounded tablespoonful of granulated sugar, or two of flour or powdered sugar, weigh one ounce.

One liquid gill equals four fluid ounces.

One fluid ounce (¼ of a gill) equals eight drams.

A piece of butter as large as a small egg weighs two ounces.

Nine large or twelve small eggs weigh one pound with their shells off.

One level teacupful of butter or granulated sugar weighs half a pound.
—From the Household, in Demorest's Magazine for January.

Notice of Stockholders Meeting.

Office of First National Bank,
Auburn, Indiana, November 29 1898.

Notice is hereby given that a meeting of the stockholders of the First National Bank, of Auburn, Indiana, will be held on Tuesday, January 1st, 1899 at their banking house in Auburn, Indiana, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m and 2 o'clock p. m. of said day, for the purpose of electing seven (7) directors to serve for the ensuing year, and to transact such other business as may regularly come before such meeting.

D. A. GARWOOD,
Cashier.

FORT WAYNE AND JACKSON RAILROAD COMPANY.

The Annual meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and the consideration of such other business as may be brought before the meeting, will be held on the 25th day of January, 1899, 10 a. m, at the office of the Company, Jackson Michigan.

The transfer books will be closed from January 12th until January 26th, both inclusive.

EDWIN S. MARSTON, Sec'y.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATION

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, Administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Henrietta Shutt deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

PRICE D. WEST,
Administrator.

December 16, 1898.

NOTICE OF ADMINISTRATOR

Notice is hereby given, that the undersigned has been appointed by the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, of the State of Indiana, administrator of the estate of James B. Brinkerhoff deceased, late of said county.

Said estate is supposed to be solvent.

JACOB WALBORN
Administrator

December 16th 1898.

Dr. Bull's COUGH SYRUP
Will cure a Cough or Cold at once.
It positively relieves all throat troubles. Small doses. Price 25 cts. at druggists.

COURT ALLOWANCES.

The allowances for expenses of court for the past quarter, as shown by the report of the county clerk, are as follows:

G W Gordon, envelopes for judge	$ 2 00
Art Cool, cleaning court room	15 00
Ray Silver, cleaning court room	15 00
John C Baxter, examination of Roy Stomm	1 50
The Bishop & Lackey Co., clothing for Rachel Potter, insane	20 35
H P Stroh, expenses Rachel Potter, insane	24 70
Ballard Publishing Co, 1 set Ballard Real Property	20 00
Ray Silver, cleaning court room	[illegible]
Isaac Hose, riding bailiff	[illegible]
H P Stroh, sheriff, attending court	6 04
Charles Crew, cleaning court room	13 00
G H Yesbera, clothing for insane	27 45
H E Trout, riding bailiff	42 50
Central Telephone Co, toll line	1 50
G W Gordon, bar docket and notices	18 75
Schaab & Bro., carpet for court room	164 85
Culberteon & Boland, door mats	3 00
Henry Wolf, grand jury bailiff	9 00
Adam Prosser, grand juror	12 40
Samuel Culver, do	12 10
Alvaro Seery, do	13 00
James Provines, do	12 40
C H Baber, do	12 70
Geo Hallett, do	12 90
Phillip Ginder, petit juror	30 00
John Brand, do	30 00
Geo Bleeks, do	30 00
M T Bishop, do	11 60
Melvin Springer, do	34 90
Jacob Shull, do	34 60
C V Hodge, do	34 30
John Hamman, do	38 70
G W Hamilton, do	35 50
J F Hansel, do	35 80
W A Dannels, do	36 70
Wm Johnson, do	37 10
Hugh Watt, do	36 10
J M Shull, do	11 60
M C Sheets, do	8 60
John Cattell, do	10 70
Olds Bros., frames for notices	8 15
S. Hollister, meals for jury	6 50
Central telephone Co., messages for October	5 60
Schaab Furniture Co, 18 chairs for court room	54 00
C F Bradely Co., 4 reems typewriter paper	5 00
F L Welsheimer, attorney for pauper criminals	18 75
W H Nusbaum, visiting insane	8 00
Lawyer's Co Operative Publishing Co., book on corporations	18 00
M F Long, moving office, stamps and repairs on typewriter	14 95
M F Long, services at October term court	135 52
Charles Crew, court room bailiff	54 00
H P Stroh, per diem services at court	54 00
Geo M Henderson, court reporter	125 00
H B McCord, merchandise for court room	1 95
M F Long, fees in Anna Shingler insanity case	1 50
W F Shumaker, witness in same	6 00
M F Long, fees in C J Coate insanity case	5 00
C C Walter, do	2 00
Jacob Walborn, do	2 00
H H Lilly, do	6 00
W P Carpenter, do	6 00
M F Long, fees in Edith Smurr insanity case	5 00
Jacob Walborn, do	2 00
C C Walter, do	2 00
H W Bowman, witness in same	6 00
W H Nusbaum, do	8 00
M F Long, fees in J F Shoudel insanity case	5 00
Geo B Souie, do	4 00
John Clark, do	2 00
John C Baxter, do	3 00
Frank Broughton, do	6 00

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXIX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, January 12, 1899. | Number 2.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2	6:25 am—Daily
No. 10	8:46 am—ex Su
No. 6	4:40 pm—ex Su
No. 4	4:29 pm—Daily
No. 70 (local freight)	3:20 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1	10:14 am—Daily
No. 7	10:31 am—ex Su
No. 9	6:47 pm—ex Su
No. 3	7:48 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	11 00 am—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas. M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
C. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 13, 1898.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'g
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 50 pm	5 55 am
New Era	12 12 pm	5 17	6 40
Auburn Junction	12 25	5 28	7 10
Auburn	12 29	5 32	7 35
Waterloo	12 41	5 43	8 15
Summit	12 52	5 53	8 35
Steubenville	12 56	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	8 56
Angola	1 13	6 14	9 35
Jackson	3 25	8 35	2 40

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	5 55 am	11 30 am	7 15 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	9 35
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 29	9 45
Steubenville	.....	2 36	9 51
Summit	11 50	2 39	9 56
Waterloo	12 41 pm	2 55	10 10
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 25
Auburn Junction	1 35	3 06	10 29
New Era	1 54	3 13	10 32
Fort Wayne	2 50	3 50	11 05

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier,

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Does a General Banking Business
Pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Matheny, M.D. J. B. Casebeer, M.D.
Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
Again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
Opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE
Matheny's residence ..... No. 9
Casebeer's " ..... " 88
" 175

Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D
PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Phones: Western, 19; Central Union, 19

J. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST.
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy building northeast corner of Square Western Phone 103
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physcian & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUG STORE
In the National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Calls Answered At All Hours,

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works, Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

COURT NEWS.

After the verdict against Slifer, it was called up yesterday on motion to grant him a new trial. After hearing argument, Judge Hartman refused to grant a new trial, and Slifer will have to serve out his 30 days and pay $50 fine, or else serve in jail enough longer to make that up.

The case against Ora Kuhlman was called up again, and he was sentenced to be confined in jail four days and to pay a fine of $40. It appears he was charged with living as man and wife, with the girl who was his housekeeper. Since the action was brought against him he has settled with her, and she has gone to her home, which we believe is some where in Michigan. And Ora will be poorer and wiser, and we hope, better.

A number of other matters were attended to but there being no use at present for the jury they were discharged till next Monday, when some important cases will come up. To-morrow, there is to be some work before the Judge.

Among the odds and ends of work done. we find that Frank Devinney was fined $10 on a plea of guilty of violating the liquor law.

John Treesh vs Ray, he gets judgment of $35 on a mechanics lien.

In the Tomlinson partition case J. C. Lingenfelter, Wm. Bail and Amos Snyder had been appointed commissioners to make the partition, but Lingenfelter and Ball refused to serve and so Marion Haverstock and Samuel Lowe were appointed to act with Snyder.

S. S. Teeters gets judgment on note against Frank Kadletz of $226 34.

Chas. Coffrin was granted a divorce from Susan Coffrin.

Cora McCurdy asked a divorce from John W. McCurdy and publication of the notice is ordered, and a copy of same ordered sent to him.

Mary Gavitt has been declared of unsound mind, and has been put in care of sheriff till there is room for her at the asylum.

Work began yesterday, Friday morning before the Judge alone. The case from Corunna was called up. Osborne the saw mill man their claims that L. A. Hartman owes him a certain sum of money, which Hartman denies. The case was not tried, but is set for next Tuesday.

In the afternoon they had up the case between Geo. H. Dunn and Jacob M. Hook. It appears that Hook took a mortgage on some sheep of Dunn's. These sheep were being kept by Walter Thomson, in Wilmington township, who was keeping them on shares. Later on they were put in charge of Frank Gaff. It is claimed by Dunn, as we understand it, that he concluded Hook's share of the wool and increase up to this time. had paid off the mortgage and so he took the sheep home. But last fall Hook got the sheep and sold them to Capp Brothers at Butler. This lot, he said had 15 of the original Dunn flock and nine of his own. that he had bought of A. D. Moore He got $85 for the 24. It appears that Dunn objected to the sale to Capp, and had the sheep replevined. At all events, this suit is to decide who owns them. P. V. Hoffman and Ott Baxter are attorneys for Hook, and C. E. Emanuel and Judge Roby are for Dunn. Testimony was heard yesterday till six, when the case was adjourned over till 10 a. m. today, when it was resumed.

What Shall We Do?

A serious and dangerous disease prevails in this country, dangerous because so deceptive. It comes on so slowly yet surely that it is often firmly seated before we are aware of it.

The name of this disease which may be divided into three distinct stages is, First, Kidney tronble, indicated by pain in the back, lumbago, frequent desire to urinate, the flow of urine being copious or scant with strong odor.

If allowed to advance, this reaches the Second stage, or Bladder trouble, with heavy pain in the abdomen low down between the naval and the water passage, increasing desire to urinate' with scalding sensation in passing, small quantities being passed with difficulty, sometimes necessary to draw it with instruments. If uric acid or gravel has formed it will prove dangerous if neglected.

The third stage is Bright's disease.

There is comfort in knowing that Dr. Killmer, the great Kidney and Bladder specialist, has discovered a Remedy famous for its marvelous cure of the most distressing cases and known as Dr. Kilmer,s Swamp-Root.

It is sold by all druggists.

As a proof of the wonderful virtues of this great discovery, Swamp.Root, a sample bottle and a book of valuable information will be sent absolutely free by mail on agplication to Dr Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention that you read this liberal offer in the AUBURN COURIER.

The Inducement.

Farmer Hayrick—"I'm goin' ter give Abe as good an eddication as money kin buy." Farmer Corntassel—"Whot college be yer got in mind?" Farmer Hayrick—"Well, Mandy an' me hev pitched on Eton, cuz the name sounds like he'd git plenty of grub."

OUR GRAND...

Clearance Sale

IS NOW ON IN FULL BLAST

Hundreds of People..

Have Taken Advantage of This Sale. There Remains Yet

Three More Days

Before the Sale Closes, and we Cordially Invite Everyone to Visit us.

WE ARE SAVING YOU MONEY

Schaab & Bro.,

Bismarck's Iron Nerve.

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, and Bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develope every power of brain and body. Only 25 cents at H. B. McCord's Drugstore.

No Returns.

"Winter is full of sad memories to me." "Why so?" "I once fed a girl on expensive ice cream all summer, and she broke our engagement just as the chafing-dish season set in."—Brooklyn Life.

A white Mark

Foley's Kidney Cure is a perfectly reliable preparation for all Kidney and Bladder diseases. The proprietors of this Great Medicine guarantee it or the money refunded. Do they not deserve a white mark?

Evidently the Other Fellow.

Hicks—"I firmly believe in phrenology. I flatter myself, for instance, that I can unfailingly discover aggressiveness from the appearance of certain bumps on a man's head." Wicks—"That may be true, but are you able to tell which of the parties was aggressive?"—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE OLD, OLD STORY

[LaGrange Standard.]

The man who had the contract for building the main structure of the LaGrange county poor house is now an inmate of that institution. He lost money on the job and has been unlucky ever since.—Ex.

Whether he lost money on the job or not it had nothing to do with his being there now. His case is a very sad one, indeed, but the "unlucky" event of his life was the same has broken up and impoverished thousands of industrious and capable men. No mere financial losses send men to the poor house.

The cup that inebriates is a deadlier foe.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

An Oregon Minister.

I received the bottle of White Wine of Tar Syrup. One of my children was very sick with croup, and as your medicine was pleasant to take I gave it, and it gave almost immediate relief. I would not be without it, and I also recommend it as a medicine that should be at all times in every family. West Union Oregon. REV. H. STAUP.

Davenport the Druggist.

Do You Know!

THAT WE have the only Set of Abstracts of Titles to Lands in this county?

THAT WE can sell your farm or town property, or buy for you in the desired locality such a farm or residence as you want?

THAT WE make long-time loans on the most favorable terms on either farm or town property. Money in bank with which to close farm loans on the day applied for if the title and securety is all right?

THAT WE are making exchanges of all kinds of property; have big farms for little ones; have farms for town property; have farms for stocks of goods and can fit you on almost any kind of trade?

THAT IF you want an Abstract of Title to your lot or land; want a loan; to buy a home or sell one; want a trade of any kind, it will be to your advantage to call on or write us about it?

SPROTT & KNAPP,
Office in Gandy Block, Ground Floor,
AUBURN, IND.

DEWEY FOR PRESIDENT

The First Formal Declaration Comes From Auburn, Indiana

Senator Nusbaum is the first man to make a formal declaration in favor of the hero of Manila for President. At Thusdays session of the senate, he introduced the following

RESOLUTION:

"Whereas The American people exult in the magnificent victories of its army and navy in the recent war with Spain, which have challenged the admiration of the world and elevated the standard of the country to the highest pinnacle; and,

"Wheaeas, Especial credit is due to Admiral Dewey for not only destroying the Spanish fleet at Manila, but on account of his wise, courageous and diplomatic management of affairs since, which mark him as not only a great fighter, but a statesman of the broadest character; therefore, be it

"Resolved by the senate, That it is the sense of this body that Admiral Dewey may not only be shown every consideration and given every promotion possible in the navy, including an extension of ten years in the time of his service, but that he may, by the people, be promoted to the position of president of United State."

The Legislature.

At 10 a. m. yesterday, the "first Thursday after the first Monday in January" the legislature began its session, though, it was in fact nearly a half hour late. It is our 61st legislature and the regular session is 61 days, a similarity of figures that has never occurred before, and will never occur again. Some of the new members had forgotton to bring their certificates of election, and were finally compelled to bring forward, a neatly folded package of unwritten paper that would look like a certificate. This little formality let them in and the House was soon ready to proceed. Judge Winter of the Appellate court administered the oath. There are 60 republican and 40 democratic members. Two, however, one of each political side, were were absent. Frank Littleton of Indianapolis was elected speaker, having 59 votes, while the democratic candidate, Mr. Eichhorn, received 39. After the new speaker had made his speech and been sworn in, the senators came into the room, and both houses listened to the Governor's message. Judge Monks of the Supreme court swore in the Senators,

NOTES.

Northern Indiana got a few plums. Mr. Huston of Angola is chief journal clerk of the Senate; Senator Gilbert of Angola, is chairman of the committee on elections. Democrats get no officers or committee chairmen.

The populist member of the Senate, Mr. Gill of Putman county cast his first vote with the democrats.

Mr. Herrold of Laporte, a member of the House, is the man we lately spoke of as giving an old-fashioned dance to those who had helped to elect him. He had also, said it was the farmers who had elected him, and as they had dared him to go into the House with his overalls on he took the occasion to show them. He appeared in the Chamber, among the other members, in real "bib overalls" looking every inch a farmer. After he had filled his promise, he eventually took them off.

When Lieutenant governor Haggard first rapped the Senate on order, he had no gavel, but later on, Senator Wood of Tippecanoe county, presented him a gavel of historic interest. The wood of the gavel is from one of the timbers the house of the first governor Jonathan Jennings, at Indianapolis. It is inlaid at one end and with the white from an elm limb taken from the old elm under which the first legislature gathered at Corydon. The other end is inlaid with poplar wood from the first M. E. church in the state, and in which Peter Cartright used to preach.

There are indications that in this legislalure both parties are for business rather than poltics. That is what the people want and what they expect.

Book Notices.

STORIES OF INDIANA. By Maurice Thompson. Cloth, 12 mo, 296 pages., Illustrated. Price, 60 cents. American Book Company, New York, Cincinnati and Chicago.

The Stories of Indiana contained in this book furnish a correct and striking outline of the history of Indiana from the earliest exploration down to the present time. Its sketches are as vivid as the life they represent, and they reproduce in a striking manner, the atmosphere and feeling of the early times. No other book dealing with the history of Indiana gives anything like these stories All of the above books, published by this company, are admirably adapted for both home and school reading. Their reading in the home circle and their use in schools cannot fail to awaken interest.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

The Telegraph Liar

Louis Litman, of Lagrange has been for some time, a correspondent for various great dailles, It was he who gave the hint that started the various correspondents in Auburn. But all this does not prevent his being lied about by the never-weary telegraph liar. Here is part of a recent telegram from Goshen to the Chicago Chronicle:

"Indiana has a Joseph Leiter in the person of young Louis M. Litman, of Lagrange, who is now engaged in wheat speculations which, if they have a fortunate termination, will make the young Hoosier the possessor of considerable wealth. Litman is 21 years old and the son of a wealthy business man, the latter's wealth being at the disposal of the youthful grain speculator.

Litman is engaged in an effort to amalgamate the wheat growers against the manipulators of boards of trade. He has secured options on thousands of bushels of wheat held by farmers throughout Ohio, Indiana and Michigan. These options were secured by agents who have for the past thirty days visited scores of counties in the three states.

The options are bound by a money consideration given the farmers, and when the price of the cereal advances the grain will be massed and sold. Litman has the backing of large capitalists and speculators believe that he will bring his undertaking to a successful conclusion."

Volcanic Eruptions.

Are grand, but Skin eruptions rob life of joy. Bucklen's Arnica Salve, cures them, also Old, running and Fever Sores, Ulcers, Boils, Felons, Corns, Warts, Cuts, Bruises, Burnes, Scalds, Chapped Hands Chilblains. Best Pile cure on earth. Drives out Pains and Aches. Only 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord the Druggist.

The Principal Fruit

—The banana leads as our principal fruit importation. Ninety vessels are employed bringing bananas to our markets from Cuba, the Isthmus of Panama, the countries of South and Central America, the West Indies, and our state, California. The banana is the Cuban's chief article of diet. Besides the home supply Cuba exports immense quantities to all countries. One strange fact about the banana is that it forms seed in but one section of the globe, and that is on the Andaman Islands. Elsewhere it is propagated by offshoots.

Poland Pigs For Sale

I have a number of fine Poland Chicago hogs for sale, boars and brood sows, at cheap prices for such good stock. Call on A. D. Moore at Moores, Ind.

Caught by an Owl.

(Indianapolis Sun.)

The Owl hardware company, of Brazil, has a living sign, it being a large hoot owl. In the daytime he is kept in front of their place of business. A few days ago, two men, both drunk, spied this living sign, and never having seen a real owl, decided to make an examination. They tore off a board from the box and made a grab for Mr. Owl. This was fun for the owl, and when the fellow reached in to shake hands, the owl refused to let go. The other fellow was called to assistance of his buddy, and he also reached in for a handshake. The owl was very obliging, and took the other hand in his claw, and held them until two cops came along and made the arrests. When they were locked up one of the men said he would never have anything to do with a big-eyed turkey again.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.
Mothers! This wonderful remedy will save your child's life when attacked by Croup or Whooping-cough. It never fails to cure throat and lung troubles. Price 25 cts.

Samples Free.

The great number of newspapers, magazines, etc., that are now being published have made it very hard for the readers to decide just what one they wish to subscribe for. The American Subscription Agency, of Indianapolis, Ind., have compiled a list of 100 papers that they offer to send a sample copy of each to any address upon receipt of 10 cents to pay for mailing. They do this so that you may see and read a copy of each paper before subscribing. If you decide to subscribe to any of their papers to the amount of $1 they offer to deduct the 10 cents sent from the subscription. Send 10 cents to the American Subscription Agency, 653 Arch St., Indianapolis, Ind., and you will receive one hundred papers. j23

Words of Truth.

We the undersigned druggists of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan unite in saying that Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup has no superior as a throat and lung remedy. It has given entire satisfaction in this part of the country and is one of our very best sellers.

STAFFORD DRUG CO., Marquette, Mich.
H. J. ATKINSON, Harbor Springs, Mich.
J. M. PERKINS & CO., Negaunee, Mich.
H. M. POWERS, Ontonagon, Mich.
D. T. MACDONALD, Calumet, Mich.
F. P. TILLSON, Ishpeming, Mich.
A. J. SCOTT, Hancock, Mich.
RUDELL & CONWAY, Sault St. Marie, Mich.
Davenport the druggist.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and Substitutes are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Harmless and Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.
The Kind You Have Always B
In Use For Over 30 Yea
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK

urn Courier.
UBURN, INDIANA.
A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1899. JANUARY. 1899.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31	•	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

L. Q. 4th. N. M. 11th. F. Q. 18th. F. M 26th.

HISTORY OF A WEEK.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS OF THE WORLD.

News of Crimes and Criminals, Accidents, Fires, Etc., from North, South, East and West, Sandwiched with Minor Affairs.

Defy Supreme Court.

The Standard Oil Company's attorneys Thursday morning bluntly defied the Ohio Supreme Court, and declared they would not obey the order to produce the commercial books of the corporation. Attorney Kline said if they were jailed for contempt, they would apply for a habeas corpus and on that issue carry the case to the United States Supreme Court. Kline said: "We deny the right of this court to compel us to produce those books, on the ground that they are the private property of stockholders. The men who have built up the Standard Oil Company are not a gang of rascals or fools."

Fight with Robbers.

Six highwaymen, who were endeavoring to make their escape after holding up the dry goods store of H. C. T. Boorman, at 822 Twenty-first street, Chicago, engaged in a shooting affair with Policemen Edward Wallner and John McCauley, and both officers were wounded. Wallner died three hours later in the hospital. McCauley was shot in the arm and hip, but will recover. The robbers escaped. Boorman and his clerk, Charles Carlson, were alone in the store when five robbers entered, one remaining on guard. They robbed Boorman of $35 and a watch and took a watch and $5 from Carlson. There is no clue to their identity.

Ambition of Gomez.

A special dispatch from Havana says: A Colonel in the insurgent army says that Gomez recently sounded the army on his old ambition of uniting Cuba and San Domingo under one government. The wily old chief thinks that the United States can offer no objection to this plan, which, if accomplished, would create a state strong enough to absorb Hayti soon. With this done, Gomez believes, the foundation would be laid for a republic which would soon take rank in the western world second only to the United States.

Will Release Filipinos.

Madrid special: The Government has telegraphed to the Spanish naval commander at Manila to send two gunboats to Balanbac, one of the Philippine Islands, situated thirty miles south of Palawan, to seek the Spanish prisoners. The Government has also requested Gen. Rios to take further steps to obtain the release of the Spanish prisoners and to remind the rebels that the Spanish Government will release the deported Filipinos.

Acetylene Gas Explosion.

A sad accident occurred at Pemberville, Ohio, which caused the untimely end of Mr. Gus Kell, of the firm of William Kell & Sons, hardware merchants. Mr. Kell was testing an acetylene light machine, which caused an explosion. His right arm was torn from the socket and blown to a distance of six feet from the body. His left arm and his jawbone were broken.

Dingley Cannot Recover.

The condition of Representative Nelson Dingley has undergone a marked change for the worse and his physicians hold out little, if any, hope for recovery. Much of the time the patient is delirious and appears to be uttering extracts from speeches he made on the tariff question in the House of Representatives.

Masonic Temple Attractions, Fort Wayne, Ind.

January 11—Katie Rooney in "The Girl from Ireland."
January 13—"The Wheel of Fortune."
January 14, Matinee and night—Eddie Girard, in "Natural Gas."
January 18—"The Air Ship."

Want an Ambassador.

A special dispatch from Vienna says Count Goluchowski, the Austria-Hungary Minister of Foreign Affairs, will shortly ask for a credit in order to elevate the Austro-Hungarian Legation at Washington to the rank of an embassy.

Big Blaze at Lima.

The Lima Paper Mills at Lima, Ohio, were completely destroyed by fire. The plant was the property of the American Strawboard Company and was one of the biggest industries in the city. The loss is $125,000; insurance, $70,000.

Soldiers Injured.

Twenty-three members of the Fourth Ohio were injured at the Auditorium, Columbus, Ohio. The temporary bunks fell, and two hundred men were hurled from their beds. Many were seriously injured, and some may die.

Stripped by Robbers.

Toledo special: Thomas Herman of Defiance, Ohio, was held up and robbed of all his money, $101, a gold watch, together with his coat, shoes, socks, mitts and hat. He was also brutally assaulted.

Killed His Brother.

While attending a farmers' institute held at Ada, Ohio, recently, Homer Welcker, a wealthy farmer, was shot and instantly killed by his brother Bird. The Welckers had trouble over the settlement of their father's estate. Bird surrendered.

Dewey Heard From.

Admiral Dewey cables that the gunboats Concord and Petrel have been sent from Manila to Iloilo. The Government officials regard the situation at Iloilo as extremely critical.

Cars Burn in a Paintshop.

[illegible] in the paintshop of the Nashville, [illegible]tooga and St. Louis road at Nash[illegible], burned ten coaches, including [illegible]omas' private car and the [illegible] road. The loss on the [illegible]ated at $20,000 and on [illegible]t $37,500.

[illegible] Troy, N. Y.

[illegible] house of J. R. & [illegible] Y., spread to the [illegible]upied by Cluett, [illegible]house for col[illegible] to others on [illegible]ed at $100,[illegible]

BUSINESS IS THRIVING.

Year's Closing Week Shows Large Shipments of Cereals—Prices Are Firm.

Bradstreet's says: "Holiday quiet in general demand, sustained activity in industrial lines, particularly iron and steel, exceptionally large shipments of goods on orders, liberal cereal exports and specially heavy dealings in speculative markets are features calling for notable mention in the closing week of the year. Firmness in price is likewise an encouraging feature in most staples. Wheat, though showing a reaction, is higher on the week on large export clearances, and other cereals are in sympathy. Pig iron demand grows and prices for this product and for steel rails, steel billets, plates and wire rods are all higher on the week, while the volume of foreign demand for even finished metal products apparently increases as the year draws to its conclusion. Concisely stated the reports received as to the year's business in all sections of the country point to an unprecedented volume of domestic and export trade, which is reflected in bank clearances, that break the high record of 1892. Wheat, including flour, shipments for the week aggregate 6,292,625 bushels, against 5,515,231 bushels last week. Corn exports for the week aggregate 3,659,745 bushels, against 4,103,673 bushels last week."

DRUNKEN BABOON PLAYS HAVOC.

Attacks Actors and Stage Hands and Then Breaks Up Furniture.

People in the Creighton Theater at Omaha were treated to the spectacle of a big baboon in a drunken frenzy the other morning. He was at liberty for twenty minutes and during that time caused more damage about the arcade of the building and on the stage of the theater than three men could have done in the same length of time. Three long mirrors in as many dressing rooms were broken by the animal. These mirrors were the objects of his special fury, probably from the fact that he saw his own reflection in them and thought it another of his kind. The baboon belongs to Prof. Macart's performing troupe of dogs and monkeys. He had become unchained and drank considerable whisky in a saloon.

EXPLOSION IN STATE HOUSE.

Two Women Are Severely Burned by Escaping Gas at Denver.

Miss Nettie Ziegler, clerk of the State Board of Agriculture, was probably fatally burned by an explosion of gas at the capitol in Denver, Colo. Mrs. Martha A. Shute, secretary of the board, was also severely burned. The two women ran screaming from the building, with their clothes and hair afire. M. S. Crawford, who was passing, extinguished the flames and in doing so sustained burns. Gas had been escaping in a vault, and the explosion was caused by striking a match. The capitol was not much damaged.

Routed by Their Fellows.

Several men were injured, one fatally, in a riot resulting from a strike at Memphis, Neb. The strikers and other workmen met in pitched battle, the former being routed, with many wounded. When the day gang began work at Armour & Co.'s Memphis icehouse eighty laborers, mostly from Omaha, who were employed on the night force, asked for an increase in wages of 2½ cents per hour. Their demands were refused and they went on strike. At a meeting of the laborers the night before the men on the night force agreed to ask for an increase, but the day gang, composed of men living in the vicinity of Memphis, refused to join them. The strikers in the morning tried to persuade the day force to help tie up the works. Failing in this, they attempted to blockade the works and prevent work, when a fight ensued. Pike poles were hurled at the strikers and several men were seriously injured. The day men drove the strikers all away.

Two Families United.

A most remarkable wedding has taken place at the village of Trail, Ohio, four brothers being married to four sisters. The four knots were tied at the home of the four sister brides, who are the daughters of a prosperous farmer named James Hochstettler. Their ages range from 18 to 28, and the ages of their respective husbands vary only slightly. The grooms are the four sons of John Summers, and are energetic young men of good habits and some means. The ceremony of marrying the four couples occupied almost an hour, the same clergyman performing all. The four brothers and their wives will live within a stone's throw of each other.

Foundries Concede Demands.

Eight of fifteen foundries in Cleveland have conceded the demand of the coremakers for a wage rate of $2.50 per day. The general strike of coremakers therefore did not take place. The officials of the coremakers' organization state that the remaining seven foundries are willing to compromise on the wage question, but anything below a minimum rate of $2.50 per day will not be accepted by the men.

Serious Condition of Siam.

Siam is occupying the attention of France just now in view of the recent aggressions on French subjects by armed forces. The Journal des Debates says: "Siam appears to be in a state of anarchy," and it suggests that united action might be taken by France and England in order to bring this situation to an end.

Factories Start Up Again.

Another stage in the general strike of Marlboro, Mass., shoe workers was reached the other day when the big factory of the S. H. Howe Shoe Company and two other smaller establishments, controlled by the company, resumed operations after a shutdown of more than two months.

Church Destroyed by Fire.

The Third United Presbyterian Church of Pittsburg was almost completely destroyed by fire. Loss, about $60,000, well covered by insurance. The building was one of the oldest churches in the city, having been built in 1848.

Big Mortgage Put on Record.

A mortgage for $1,650,000 from the Walker Manufacturing Company to the Central Trust Company of New York was filed with the county recorder at Cleveland. It is a second mortgage and is to secure an issue of bonds.

Big Rubber Shoe Factory Burned.

At Port Dalhousie, Ont., the works of the Toronto Rubber Shoe Manufacturing Company were totally destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of about $100,000 and throwing 250 men out of employment.

Drops Dead at a Station.

William M. Irish, manager for the Standard Oil Company at Olean, N. Y., dropped dead at a railway station in Youngstown, Ohio, while waiting to take a train. He was 70 years of age.

German Missionaries in Jail.

The Cologne Volks Zeitung announces that it has received news of the imprisonment of German Catholic missionaries by Chinese at Hia, in Shan-Ze, about seventy miles southwest of Ping-Yang.

French "Jack the Ripper."

Joseph Vacher, the French "Jack the Ripper," was guillotined at Bourghon-Bresse, capital of the department of Ain. He protested his innocence and simulated insanity to the last.

England Sets a Good Pattern.

A report has been made to the Secretary of the Treasury on the industrial and fiscal conditions in the British island of Jamaica, as they apply to the provisional government just established in Cuba. It embodies a full account of the observations of Robert P. Porter, special commissioner of the United States to Cuba and Porto Rico, who also visited Jamaica. Mr. Porter reviews the administration of the British Government since it took the island, "as a trust and not as a possession, in 1834." He shows that, despite the fact that by far the greater number of the people in the island are blacks, the advance in industrial property and social conditions has been remarkable. He gives figures estimating the conditions which would probably have resulted in Cuba if the island had been ruled by the British, as in Jamaica, instead of misruled by Spain. The fact that a majority of the people in Cuba are white, Mr. Porter says, insures prompter success for American government in the island than was possible for the British in Jamaica. The recommendations made by the British at the outset, Mr. Porter says, are of interest for the United States Government in Cuba. These recommendations were: 1. The settlement of laboring people on small plots of land. 2. The establishment of minor agricultural industries and the improvement of the system of cultivation. 3. The improvement of means of communication between different islands. 4. The encouragement of the trade in fruit with New York and London. Commissioner Porter urges a liberal expenditure of the Cuban revenues in building good roads in Cuba, following the example of the British in Jamaica.

ENGINEER FIGHTS A MADMAN.

Latter Had Started a Locomotive, and Accident Was Narrowly Averted.

An insane tramps, giving his name as W. R. Daehlman of Indianapolis, took possession of an engine on the Southern Railway, in the Citico furnace yards at Chattanooga, Tenn., while the crew was temporarily absent. Noticing the man in the cab, the engineer ran to the engine, and was just in time to catch it as the madman opened the valve and started the locomotive off at full speed. The engineer grappled with the maniac, who fought desperately, and only after a hard struggle was he overcome. The engineer succeeded in stopping the locomotive just in time to prevent it from dashing into a long line of freight cars on the siding.

TWO KILLED IN A WRECK.

Missouri Pacific Derailed Near Jefferson City, Mo.

A special from Jefferson City, Mo., says: "Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 10, from Omaha and Kansas City to St. Louis, was derailed about one mile west of this city at 8:30 a. m. Engineer Charles Clawson of Washington, Mo., and Fireman Zoll of Sedalia were killed. They jumped as the engine struck a bowlder on the track, but the machine rolled over on to them and into the Missouri river. All the cars with the exception of the rear Pullman left the tracks away from the river and ran into the bluff. It is due to this fact that no lives among the ninety passengers aboard were lost. Traffic will be delayed for several hours."

Trestle Burned in Indiana.

By some means yet unexplained a trestle on the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern Railway near Lawrenceburg, Ind., was burned, making a gap of eighty feet. It is at a point where a west-bound train could not have seen it in time to stop, and a wreck would have been unavoidable. The fire was discovered by Operator Fisher of the Big Four telegraph office. Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern trains were run over the Big Four tracks until the trestle could be rebuilt.

Conference of Negroes.

The yearly Tuskogee negro conference held in connection with the Tuskogee Normal and Industrial Institute at Tuskogee, Ala., will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 22. The attendance from all Southern States promises to be large, and the subjects to be discussed will bear principally upon the industrial, educational, moral and religious condition of the negro.

Eleven Seamen Drowned.

The Dutch steamer Voorwarts, bound from Cardiff for Genoa, stranded on the rocks to the southwest of Trevose head, England. Eleven of the crew embarked in two boats, which were swamped in the heavy sea, and all their occupants were drowned. Seven men remained aboard the steamer, and these were rescued.

Try to Kill County Attorney.

At Red Lake Falls, Minn., the life of County Attorney Van R. Brown was attempted. A dynamite bomb was placed over his office door and fell when Brown entered, exploding with terrific force. Brown was knocked senseless.

Four Californian Miners Killed.

Four miners were killed in Jumper mine at Jamestown, Cal., by the dropping of a skip, which fell 180 feet to the bottom of the shaft. One other was slightly injured.

Mine Strike Seems Certain.

A general strike in the bituminous coal region is looked for on April 1, at the close of the term of the interstate agreement between the miners and operators.

Held Up a Passenger Train.

A Kansas City, Fort Scott and Memphis passenger train was held up at Macomb, Mo. The robbers took everything in sight.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 69c; corn, No. 2, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 53c to 55c; butter, choice creamery, 20c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 26c to 28c; potatoes, choice, 30c to 40c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, choice light, $2.75 to $4.00; sheep, common to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 69c to 70c; corn, No. 2 white, 35c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 30c to 31c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $3.75; sheep, $3.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 58c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 71c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 29c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 55c to 57c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $2.50 to $3.75; sheep and lambs, $3.00 to $5.25; wheat, No. 2, 71c to 72c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 37c to 39c; oats, No. 2 white, 30c to 32c; rye, 56c to 58c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 35c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 56c; clover seed, $4.25 to $4.35.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 66c to 68c; corn, No. 3, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 1, 53c to 55c; barley, No. 2, 44c to 51c; pork, mess, $9.75 to $10.25.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.50; hogs, common to choice, $3.25 to $4.00; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.25; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 80c to 81c; corn, No. 2, 44c to 46c; oats, No. 2 white, 35c to 36c; butter, creamery, 15c to 22c; eggs, Western, 27c to 29c.

INDIANA IN THE WAR.

STATE'S NOBLE PART IN THE CONFLICT WITH SPAIN.

Detailed Account of the Enlistment, Services and Discharge of Hoosier Troops Furnished the Legislature by Gov. Mount in His Message.

Governor Mount, in an appendix to his message, gives an interesting account of the part taken by Indiana troops in the war with Spain. At the beginning of the fiscal year (Nov. 1, 1897) the Indiana National Guard consisted of forty-one companies of infantry and three batteries of artillery, with an aggregate of 2,822 officers and men. During the early part of 1898 two more companies were added. In April, when war between the United States and Spain seemed imminent, company commanders were instructed to recruit their companies up to the maximum of eighty-four. At 6:15 o'clock p. m., on April 25, the following telegram was received from the Secretary of War:

"To the Governor of Indiana, Indianapolis:

"The number of troops from your State under call of the President, dated April 23, 1898, will be four regiments of infantry and two light batteries of artillery. It is the wish of the President that the regiments of the national guard or State militia shall be used, as far as their numbers will permit, for the reason that they are armed, equipped and drilled. Please wire as early as possible what equipment, ammunition, arms, blankets, tents, etc., you require. Please also state when troops will be ready for muster into U. S. service. Details to follow by mail. (Signed) R. A. ALGER,
"Secretary of War."

Within twenty minutes after the receipt of the above telegram the following proclamation was issued by the Governor:

"TO THE PEOPLE OF INDIANA.

"Whereas, In the progress of events, war has been inaugurated between the Government of the United States and the Government of Spain; and,

"Whereas, The President of the United States, in pursuance of an act of Congress, has issued a proclamation calling for 125,000 volunteers, of which number four regiments, approximating 1,000 men each, and two batteries, have been apportioned to the State of Indiana;

"Now, therefore, I, James A. Mount, Governor of the State of Indiana, acting by authority vested in me by the Constitution, do hereby call for the enlistment and mustering into the United States service of the number of men above stated, who are qualified for military duty.

"In conformity with this call, the Indiana national guard is hereby directed and commanded to report without delay to Brigadier General McKee, at the fair grounds of the State Board of Agriculture, near Indianapolis, a designated camp, where they will be mobilized and mustered into the service of the United States Government, in accordance with the provisions of the proclamation issued by the President.

"All vacancies that exist or may occur in regiments, companies or batteries will be immediately filled by the acceptance of volunteers, to the limit of the State's quota, as designated by the Federal authorities.

"Inasmuch as the number of men who are at this time tendering their services is far in excess of requirements, I deem it timely to announce in this connection that there will be no compulsion upon any member of the Indiana national guard to enter the Federal service, except upon his own free will and accord. Any member of the national guard whose business affairs will be jeopardized or whose domestic relations would subject his family to inconvenience and hardship, will be permitted to stand aside honorably and without prejudice.

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the Great Seal of the State at the city of Indianapolis, this 25th day of April, 1898, in the eighty-second year of the State, and of the independence of the United States, the one hundred and twenty-second.

(Signed) "JAMES A. MOUNT,
(Seal) "Governor."

This proclamation was immediately transmitted to the Adjutant General, and that official thereupon issued the following special order, No. 46:

"Indianapolis, April 25, 1898.

"In accordance with the proclamation of the Governor, of this date, Brigadier General Will J. McKee is hereby directed to mobilize the Indiana national guard, fully armed and equipped, at the fair grounds of the State Board of Agriculture, near Indianapolis, Ind., at the earliest possible moment, for the purpose of being mustered into the service of the United States.

"The necessary details for the transportation and subsistence of the troops will be arranged by the proper departments.

"All property in the hands of the companies and bands will be brought to the rendezvous.

"The travel enjoined is necessary for the public service.

"By order of the Governor.
(Signed) "JAMES K. GORE,
"Adjutant General."

The Governor and his assistants, in anticipation of the President's call, had taken advantage of the situation to make ample preparations for the emergency. Officers of the various companies throughout the State had been notified to hold themselves in readiness. The Master of Transportation had complete schedules arranged for the running of special trains. Ample telegraphic service had been provided for the Governor's office, and also in the adjoining office of the Adjutant General. Before eight o'clock messages were being flashed to the commanders of troops in various sections of the State, and special trains were being placed in readiness for the purpose of transporting the guard to the rendezvous, which had been officially designated as Camp Mount.

The first company to arrive on the following morning was from Frankfort, Ind., commanded by Captain David F. Allen. They reported at the rendezvous at 5 o'clock a. m. Before night all of the four regiments were encamped at the Fair Grounds, well provided with tentage, rations and every form of camp equipage. In less than twenty-four hours after the receipt of the order from the Secretary of War, naming Indiana's quota, the Washington authorities were advised that Indiana had complied with the demand that had been made upon the State for volunteers.

On the 27th of April the Governor received the following telegraphic communication:

"To the Governor of Indiana:

"The following decision of the Secretary of War, this date, is communicated for your information. All absolutely necessary expenses for the subsistence, transportation, shelter and generally the maintenance of volunteers during the interval between their enrollment (enlistment) and their muster (or being sworn) into the service of the United States, also all incidental expenses, messengers, etc., for mustering officers, will be met by the Government of the United States from the proper appropriation at the disposal of the several staff departments of the army. Certified vouchers for all expenditures herein authorized will be forwarded to the War Department for audit and payment. The vouchers should be certified by officers of the proper staff departments and approved by the mustering officers.

(Signed) "H. C. CORBIN,
"Adjutant General."

At the time of the mobilization of the Indiana National Guard the following companies were accepted to fill vacancies in the several regiments:

Company I, Fourth Infantry, at Tipton.

Company C, Second Infantry, at Frankfort.

Company L, First Infantry, at Vincennes.

Company K, Second Infantry, at Martinsville.

Company M, Third Infantry, at Plymouth.

Company L, Fourth Infantry, at Anderson.

Company M, Fourth Infantry, at Logansport.

In numbering the regiments, after being mustered into the United States service, it was decided to begin the numbers where the War of the Rebellion left off. This was deemed expedient in order to avoid confusion in making the history of the State's participation in several wars. It had contributed five regiments to the war with Mexico and 151 to the War of the Rebellion, making 156 altogether. Therefore, the regiment in the Indiana National Guard known as the First Regiment was given the number 157, and those following under the first call of President McKinley were designated as the One hundred and fifty-eighth, One hundred and fifty-ninth and One hundred and sixtieth. The two batteries were likewise numbered, their numbers being 27 and 28, respectively. The Dana Battery (the third to report at Camp Mount under the original call) was not accepted by the General Government, for the reason that the quota of artillery was filled by the acceptance of the batteries located at Indianapolis and Fort Wayne, respectively.

It has long been the custom in Indiana to hold annual encampments of the National Guard. Providentially, at a conference of the military authorities held in the early part of the year 1897, with no prospect or thought of war at the time, it was decided that, in view of the fact that the militiamen needed a vast amount of new and modern equipment, the encampment would be abandoned and the large sum of money necessary for its expenses be devoted to the purchase of needed clothing, camp equipage and armament. This plan was proceeded with vigorously during the summer and autumn of 1897, with the result that the Guard was prepared to go into the field under the President's call with all needful appurtenances and supplies, including a thoroughly equipped and well-drilled signal corps and a splendid hospital corps, with new and modern ambulances, medicine chests, etc.

The physical examination of the volunteers was rigid, and as a result many were rejected. Many others, for family and business reasons, stood aside, "honorably and without prejudice," in conformity with the suggestions contained in the Governor's proclamation. During all this time the pressure for the admission of new companies was very great, and the Governor's office was besieged every hour in the day by persons anxious to form new organizations. Although Indiana's quota was four regiments and two batteries, a score of regiments might easily have been furnished without materially lessening the pressure.

The first regiment to depart from Indianapolis was the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh, under Col. George M. Studebaker, which left on the 15th day of May, 1898, its destination being Chickamauga Park, Georgia.

The One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Regiment was paid off and moved South on the day following, the 16th day of May.

The One Hundred and Sixtieth Regiment was paid off and left for Chickamauga on the evening of the same day.

The One Hundred and Fifty-ninth was detained until May 22, when it embarked for Dunn Loring, Va.

There was no special military fund available for the payment of troops, but, in response to a request from the Governor, the Attorney General rendered an opinion in which he held that, under the circumstances, any money that might be in the State Treasury unappropriated might be used for the emergency. Fortunately, there was thus placed at the disposal of the Governor an abundance of funds for the payment of all necessary expenses in connection with the mobilization, maintenance, transportation and final equipment of troops. This obviated the necessity of a special session of the Legislature and effectually disposed of a difficulty experienced by many States.

Col. Winfield T. Durbin, of the Governor's personal staff, was designated as paymaster, a service he performed in a most admirable manner, every Indiana soldier being paid the full amount due him before leaving camp for the field, without the least embarrassment to the State Treasury.

Meantime, by order of the War Department, the regiments and batteries were recruited up to the maximum of the United States army, 106 men to the company, aggregating about 1,300 men to the regiment. Thus, under the President's first call for troops, Indiana promptly sent forward about 5,500 thoroughly armed and equipped men.

On June 18 the President's second call for troops was received at the Governor's office. Pursuant to that communication, arrangements were at once begun for the organization of the One Hundred and Sixty-first Regiment. The appointment of Colonel was given to Winfield T. Durbin, of Anderson, Ind., himself a veteran of the War of the Rebellion. The regiment was organized with companies from the following named cities: Jeffersonville, Mount Vernon, Columbus, Madison, Richmond, Lawrenceburg, Shelbyville, New Castle, Hammond, Rushville, Monticello, Michigan City.

In addition to the above twelve companies comprising the One Hundred and Sixty-first Regiment Indiana Volunteer Infantry, the Governor commissioned Jacob M. Porter and John J. Buckner, of Indianapolis, as captains, to raise two independent colored companies, in accordance with the allotment made by the War Department, to wit: "One regiment of white volunteers and two companies of colored volunteers."

In addition to the five regiments and two independent colored companies hereinabove mentioned, Indiana contributed to the volunteer service a full company of trained engineers designated as Company D, under Captain Burton, F. Dickson; also a signal corps under Captain Charles T. MacIntire. The latter organization was composed largely of the corps attached to the Indiana National Guard and was fully equipped with all modern appliances, including heliographs, etc., in the operation of which the men were thoroughly trained.

In addition to the volunteers herein enumerated, there were enlisted at the United States recruiting office at Indianapolis over one thousand men for service in the regular army. In all, the State furnished about eight thousand men.

The Twenty-seventh Indiana Battery was the only Indiana organization that was sent to the enemy's country, although the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Regiment had its horses and camp equipage loaded on trasports at Port Tampa City, Florida, and the One Hundred and Sixtieth was ordered to Newport News, Va., and was ready to embark, but at the last moment the order was countermanded. The Twenty-seventh Battery was sent to Porto Rico, where they were about to engage the Spaniards on the firing-line when a messenger arrived anouncing that Spain had sued for peace and hostilities must cease.

During the latter part of August the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh, One Hundred and Fifty-eighth, One Hundred and Fifty-ninth and the Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Batteries and Signal Corps were ordered to Indianapolis and furloughed for thirty days, with the exception of the Twenty-seventh Battery, which was furloughed for sixty days. At the expiration of that time they were regularly mustered out of the service. The only Indiana organizations now in the service are the two colored companies at Chickamauga Park, Ga., the One Hundred and Sixtieth Indiana, now in camp at Columbus, Ga.; Company D, Engineer Corps, and the One Hundred and Sixty-first Indiana, the latter regiment and the company of engineers now forming a part of the army of occupation at Havana, Cuba.

Recognizing the signal ability displayed by Brigadier General Will J. McKee, who commanded the Indiana National Guard, the President commissioned him a brigadier general of volunteers.

The organization and equipment of these various commands was accomplished with but comparatively little friction. When the regiments ordered to be mustered out returned from the South there were a great many men suffering from typhoid fever and other diseases contracted in the service. Realizing the inadequacy of the provision made by the Federal Government for the care and comfort of the sick, a State hospital service was organized that merited and received general approbation. Dr. O. S. Runnels, Surgeon General of the Governor's staff, was given charge of this department, and the results were most satisfactory.

As hereinbefore stated, the Governor was particularly fortunate in the respect that he had a plethoric treasury to draw upon and the cordial co-operation of all the State officials. In all of his relations with the President and the War Department, with reference to the mobilization, equipment and forwarding of troops, there was not the slightest friction and the troops in camp and in the field were so thoroughly well cared for that there was little or no opportunity for complaint or criticism. The amount of money advanced by the State direct in these preparations exceeded $200,000. In addition to this the quartermaster's department had expended about $75,000 in the way of equipment.

When Indiana's quota of troops was made ready to depart from the State camp at Indianapolis the statement was telegraphed the Secretary of War that every man had been paid in full for services rendered up to date. In reply, Secretary Alger sent a cordial congratulatory telegram, concluding with the trite observation: "Indiana always takes good care of her soldiers." Indiana claims the proud distinction of having been the first State to fill its quota under the first call and also under the second call. Its officials likewise pride themselves on the fact that it was the only State to pay all its troops before their departure for the field.

For the information of the General Assembly and all concerned, the official reports of the Surgeon General and the Paymaster General are herewith appended:

Headquarters
161st Indiana Volunteer Infantry,
Camp Onward, Savannah, Ga.,
Dec. 8, 1898.

To the Governor of Indiana:

Sir: At your solicitation, on the 13th day of May, 1898, I assumed charge of the payment of the Indiana national guards, called into service by order of President McKinley, and succeeded in paying all the men before they left camp for the front, without delaying them, drawing from the State treasury for that purpose $84,537, which was paid to them, less deductions from the quartermaster general's department for indebtedness to said department. I also paid brigade, field and staff, signal corps, $2,930.08, less deduction on account of quartermaster general's department. I also drew for the men remaining at home $21,584.04, making a total drawn for the payment of all officers and men of $109,051.12. As the men who remained at home were scattered, much time was consumed in perfecting the pay rolls whereby money could be drawn with which to pay, and there are yet a number whose names were placed on a separate roll who have not been paid—no money, however, has been drawn from the treasury for that purpose. The men remaining at home were paid by checks drawn to each individual. The adjustment of accounts between officers and the quartermaster general's department has been progressing, and is possibly yet incomplete. I would have closed the account before leaving the State but for the reason that adjustments were still in progress between officers and quartermaster general's department. By reason of the deductions in some cases exceeding the pay to officers, I was not enabled to secure for the State the full indebtedness as shown by the amounts turned over to me by the quartermaster general to be deducted. After deducting as far as I was able to the original amounts given to me by the quarter master general, I had left in my possession $4,760.90, which amount I turned into the State treasury, as evidenced by the acknowledgment of the treasurer herewith filed. I deem it prudent, in filing this report, to correct a misunderstanding which seems to have become quite widespread throughout the State, that deductions were made from the enlisted men as well as officers for clothing; such was not the case, as no deduction was made for clothing or arms from any enlisted men, but only from officers.

From the rolls in my possession I gather the following information:

Number of men rejected by surgeons	961
Number of men returned home voluntarily	697
Enlisted men who went to the field	3,745
Officers who went to the field	197
Officers and men remaining at home by reason of not being included in call, Gen. McKee, staff, hospital and signal corps, also Col. Pennington, injured	72
Dana Battery	88
Total	5,760

Thanking you for confidence reposed, very respectfully,

WINFIELD T. DURBIN,
Colonel and Paymaster Indiana National Guard.

SURGEON GENERAL'S REPORT.

Indianapolis, Nov. 10, 1898.

Hon. James A. Mount, Governor of Indiana:

Dear Sir: Pursuant to your order dated Aug. 30, 1898, I proceeded to make ready for the reception and care of the sick of the army of Indiana, upon their return from the Southern hospitals and camps.

A hospital site was selected adjacent to the regimental lines at Camp Mount, large wall tents were pitched in sufficient numbers to care for 300 patients at a time, and these were floored and supplied with spring beds, sheets and feather pillows; diet kitchens were established and supplied with every necessity and delicacy that knowledge and affection could suggest; assistant surgeons, trained nurses, cooks and helpers were employed in sufficient numbers to give adequate and appropriate treatment. Everything was completed and in readiness for the receiving of patients when the hospital train of the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Regiment arrived in Indianapolis, Sept. 2, 1898. Ambulances were in waiting upon the arrival of the train, both at the Union Station and at Camp Mount, to convey the sick from the train to their beds in the hospitals. Eight soldiers were sent to St. Vincent Hospital and twenty to the City Hospital, while ninety-two were sent to the State Hospital at Camp Mount. All were given assiduous attention after their arrival and no soldier was allowed to suffer for want of medical attendance, skilled nursing or an intelligent dietary. The State hospital service also extended to and was accepted by the One Hundred and Fifty-ninth and the One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Regiments, and the Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Batteries, and the signal corps, as they severally returned from the war, and this service was continued until the return of the One Hundred and Fifty-seventh Regiment from the thirty days' furlough on Oct. 10, 1898. At that time the State Hospital had but seven patients remaining in its wards and I then reported to you, advising that the service be discontinued and the hospital closed.

At the request, however, of Lieut. Col. May, chief mustering officer of Indiana, supported by authority from the War Department at Washington, the service has been extended and has been continued to the present time.

The State Hospital at present has twelve patients under treatment, all in advanced stages of convalescence, while the soldiers sent to the city hospitals have all been discharged and sent to their respective homes, with one exception. The exception is the case of Sergt. Maj. Peter C. Meredith, of the One Hundred and Fifty-eighth Regiment, confined in the Runnels Surgical Hospital in this city, where he was taken at midnight on Oct. 28, 1898, for an emergency operation on account of obstruction of the bowels and imminent gangrene of the intestines. The soldier was in a most critical condition prior to the abdominal section that was performed upon him, and the gravity of his case was most threatening for several days thereafter. He is progressing slowly toward recovery, but will require several weeks of care before he can be discharged.

In view of the light service called for at the State Hospital at the present time and of the absence of further necessity of State aid in the care of the sick soldiers, I again respectfully suggest that the service on behalf of the State be hereafter discontinued.

I should mention that the medical treatment of the sick in the State Hospital at Camp Mount was both allopathic and homeopathic—the service being equally divided between the two schools, and that harmony in the administration has been unbroken.

I append the following brief statement of statistics relative to the service rendered:

Whole number of patients treated	386
Whole number discharged cured	367
Number still under treatment	13
Number of deaths	6

Of the number who died, four had typhoid fever, one pneumonia and one pernicious fever.

There were 65 cases of typhoid fever, 153 of malaria in its various forms, 16 of army diarrhea, 11 of bronchitis, 10 of dysentery, 10 of exhaustion, 10 of stomatitis and gastric ailment, 9 of jaundice, 9 of la grippe and 93 with miscellaneous complaints, such as intestinal obstruction, traumatic peritonitis, enteritis, gastritis, cystitis, pleurisy, heart disease, rheumatism, cerebral congestion, colic, sprains, fractures and traumatic bubo. Yours respectfully,

O. S. RUNNELS,
Surgeon General of Indiana.

Cholera-Proof Hog.

A cholera proof hog of big-boned Berkshire stock, which was brought to Tennessee from abroad before the war, died near Falcon, in that State, aged 38 years. For twenty-five years the hog had not been sick, but latterly it had been toothless, and its owner had the food for it boiled. The profits of its progeny had paid for a farm, and its owner buried it on his place and set up memorial stones to mark the grave.

Gov. Llewellyn Powers, of Maine, is a druggist by profession.

The first session of the Senate after the holiday recess was held on Wednesday and occupied only fourteen minutes, although in that brief time two open sessions and one executive session were held. The galleries were filled with spectators, the general expectation being that the peace treaty would be presented. The senatorial members of the peace commission appeared on the floor and were given a hearty greeting. In the absence of the Vice-President Mr. Frye (Maine), the president pro tem., called the Senate to order, and after

A BABY'S LOOK.

Oft I sit and try to conjure
Up the fancies,
The old memories that he Must be heir to when he rests his World-wise glances,
As he often does, on me,
Are there dim old recollections
Of another,
Of a fairer place than earth
That come trooping in upon him—
Of the mother
Who forsook him at his birth?

Who shall fathom the deep meaning
Of the look
That is often in his eyes?
Is his mind surcharged with wisdom
From some book
That he studied in the skies?
Does he have his dim old memories
Of a clime
That is fair and far away,
As I've had them, as you've had them
In your time—
As we still do—who shall say?

S. E. Kiser, in Cleveland Leader.

The Surrender of Joshua

STORY WITH A MORAL.

When a widow puts a notice on her window to the effect that there is accommodations within for a respectable single man it usually means mischief. It is the old, old invitation of the spider to the fly. How on earth could a mere, ordinary, inexperienced, guileless single man be otherwise than clay in the hands of Mrs. Potter.

Originally a Whelks, she had married in the first place a Higson, and in the second the late, not unduly unlamented Potter.

The grass on the grave of the latter having now begun to grow quite luxuriantly, the relict considered that to remain a widow any longer would be sheer waste of time and opportunity. Hence the card—six inches by four—with the announcement referred to.

"The rest," said Mrs. Potter, "I leave to Providence."

And Providence, thus piously invoked, responded with Joshua Jebbings.

Mrs. Potter summed him up in one word. "Ginger," she commented complacently, "and I never knowed a ginger man or boy with what you could call a sperrit."

Indeed, so satisfactory was the general outlook that she began picking the crape tucks off her best merino without further delay.

During the first few weeks Joshua Jebbings rubbed his hands and felt he was in clover. His new landlady "did" for him as he had never been "done" for before. When he came in from work—he was a "wheelwright to his trade"—there was his dinner ready to the minute. As soon as he opened the door the savory smell of onions, or the cheerful sound of sausages, or some other dainty, frizzling in the frying pan, saluted him, while there was nearly always a lettuce fresh pulled for his tea.

He was an unassuming individual, was Joshua, and so was conscious at times of a vague presentiment that this was a condition of affairs too good to last. It was Joe Whibble who first opened his eyes to the snare that was being spread for him.

"Recon yo'll be for putting up the banns 'fore long," remarked this worthy, with a significant wink.

"Banns?" exclaimed Joshua. "I ain't got nothink to do with banns, I ain't."

Unabashed by the array of negatives Joe executed another wink of even deadlier significance, but contented himself with the skeptical monosyllable, "G'arn."

This was all that passed at that time, but Joshua went home with the ominous word "bands" rankling in his breast.

He was very silent over his tea, except when a bone went the wrong way. His landlady kept an intermittent watch on him out of the corner of her eye.

"It's about time I give 'im a 'int," she thought. "Time's getting on, and Whitsuntide'd do as well as not."

It was at this moment that Mr. Jebbings, looking up, caught her eye. But for the poison instilled into his mind by Joe Whibble, it was probable that he would have seen nothing particular in it. As it was, it seemed to look "bands" at him—which was worse than daggers. Mr. Jebbings choked again, partly from emotion and partly owing to another misdirected fish bone.

Mrs. Potter sighed a sigh of fond reminiscence.

"I declare, if you don't remind me for all the world of Higson. Wonderful one he were to choke. I've knowed him to go black in the face over a red herring. And more'n once he's brought my heart into my mouth with an apple core. But for all that, he lived to die in his bed."

As soon as supper was over Joshua slipped out and sought solace and security at the Ham and Chicken. Joe was there, and to him Mr. Jebbings—after the usual interchange of opinions on the weather, the crops and the prices of pigs—put in a poser.

"S'posin' a wid—that is a wom—least ways a female makes up her mind to marry a man and he won't have her, what then?"

"As a gen'ral rule," responded the oracle, after seeking inspiration at the bottom of his blue and white earthenware pint mug, "as a gen'ral rule she marries him all the same."

Mr. Jebbings rasped his chin despondently with the back of his hand.

"Ain't there no way of choking her off?" he asked, desperately.

"Depends whether she's single or a widder," replied Joe with an expression of deep meaning.

"S'pose we allows, just for the sake o' argyment, as she is a widder."

"Then," said Joe, slowly and emphatically, "my advice is 'ook it."

Joshua Jebbings quitted the Ham and Chicken strung up to the pitch of giving his landlady a week's notice. By the time he reached the corner of his road his resolution was oozing fast; there was hardly a vestige of it left as he raised the latch.

The first thing that met his too conscious gaze was Mrs. Potter.

"If it's all the same to you," put in Mr. Jebbings, with considerable trepidation, "it's all the same to you, I—[illegible] of leaving you this day week if—if no objection," he concluded lamely.

"Bless us and save us all!" exclaimed Mrs. Potter.

"Goo—good night," answered Mr. Jebbings, executing a retrograde movement in the direction of the staircase; 'never mind about getting me a candle, and—I shan't be wanting any supper."

"Here, you come back—"

The words floated after him, and had the effect of making him quicken his steps.

"Thank goodness, that's over," he thought as he bolted himself in. "I wish next week was over and done with, too. Wonder whether she's taking on much?"

"Somebody's bin and put him up to this," reflected the lady. "Well, after all, I dunno's it matters much." * * *

It was a four-roomed house, two downstairs and two up. The one for which Mr. Jebbings paid a weekly rent was at the back, overlooking a patch of kitchen garden. There was a pigsty in the farthest left-hand corner, and some early fowls were clucking around after early worms. It was a fine morning, and Mr. Jebbings admired the limited but promising prospect in the intervals of his toilet.

"Them peas is coming on wonderful" he mused. "Recon they'll soon be fit for picking, and with a biled gammon o' bacon there'd be a dinner for a lord mayor. Take her round and give her her doo, she's a fine figure of a woman, though a trifle run to fat, and the best hand at a Yorkshire pudden I've come acrost since I lost pore mother. Wonder what she's got for breakfast? Hullo! What's up with the door?"

Then he remembered that he had bolted it over night. He drew back the bolt, but still the door refused to open, though he shook and shoved vigorously. He was glad to hear a substantial tread upon the stairs, and hailed its owner through the keyhole:

"Something's gone wrong with the door—it's stuck somehow so's I can't open it."

"No, 'taint," was the answer. "It's locked, that's what's the matter with it."

"That's queer" said Mr. Jebbings. "I never locked it, not to my knowledge."

"But I did," was the startling reply. "I locked it, and the key's in my pocket, and there it's going to stop till you knows your own mind."

And with that she turned and creaked down stairs again.

"Here's a pretty howdy do," observed Mr. Jebbings, as soon as he grasped the situation. "Bin and locked me in."

"I'll take and kick that door down, blamed if I won't," he declared furiously.

So he kicked—kicked hard and recklessly—with the result that in less than half a minute later he was sitting on the floor nursing his foot and loudly anathematizing widows in general and Mrs. Potter in particular, so that the voice of the latter, speaking outside of the door, took him quite by surprise.

"Yes, you may kick Joshua Jebbings, only remember whatever damage you does you pay for. And you can cuss'n swear, too, if you finds it helps you any. Hungry, are you? Serves you right. S'pose you thought you was going to carry on jest as you liked, and sneak off with a week's notice. That's where you made a mistake. I ain't no worm to be trampled on, I ain't. So there you stops till you thinks better of it."

The morning wore away somehow, and the church clock struck 12. Half-past was Mr. Jebblings' dinner time. She was bound to let him out for dinner, he told himself repeatedly. She'd never dare to make him miss two meals. It would be altogether too—He could hear her setting the table. How many was she setting it for? Now the frying pan was on again. A few minutes Mr. Jebbings began to snuff the air like a war horse scenting the battle afar. But what he snuffed was not fire and carnage, but liver and bacon. His nostrils curled with rapture.

There was a step on the stairs, a substantial step, that made his heart beat and the stairs creak. It came on and on, and stopped outside his door. Mr. Jebbings waited anxiously to hear the key inserted in the lock, but instead there came a thump, and a voice saluting him by name.

"Joshua Jebbings, you there?"

"Well, that's good," observed the captive, sotto voce, "how'm I to be anywhere else, I'd like to know, seeing she've bin and locked me in?" I only wish I wasn't."

"Howbeit," he answered meekly enough.

"Yes'm."

"Dinner's ready," was the announcement.

Mr. Jebbings licked his lips in anticipation.

"So'm I," he replied eagerly—"ready and waiting."

"Ready to have the banns put up Sunday?"

"Banns! Sunday!" in a muffled staccato. Then with a burst of decision, "No, I'm jiggered if I am."

"Very well, then."

And to his horror he heard the steps retreating from the door and down the stairs to the kitchen. Mr. Jebbings gave way to despair.

"So she means to keep me shut up yer til I give in! Weel," taking himself into his confidence, as it were, and speaking in a tone of despondency, mingled with reluctant admiration, "she's a oner, that's what she is! I s'pose," he continued reflectively, "I s'pose she's a matter o' five or six years older'n me, and weighs, maybe, a couple o' stun more. Ought to be t'other way round if a chap's to have any chance. Banns! Next Sunday! I should like to catch her at it. I'm sorry now I didn't take and marry Priscciller Potts matter o' ten year back. She was dreadful set on me at one time was Priscciller, and then I shouldn't never a-bin in this fix."

At 3 o'clock Mr. Jebbings gave up and took to his bed. At 4 o'clock the voice of his landlady drew him from between the sheets and lured him to the window. She was talking to a neighbor over the wall, and her words penetrated to his ear with bloodcurdling distinctness.

"Yes, Mrs. Kirby, you're right, that rain last week have made the peas come on wonderful. And my hens have been laying better'n regeler than I've ever knowed 'm, and I've got a beautiful bacon left over from my last pig. Altogether, one way'n other, I've been pretty forch'nit this year, and I don't fancy all the luck's used up neither. Maybe you'll be hearing some news 'fore long that-'ll s'prise you. No, I ain't going to let it out yet, and 'tain't no use your trying to guess. Anyhow, I must run in now, for the kittle's on the bile, and I seem to fancy a rasher with my tea."

Mr. Jebbings shook his fist at her retreating figure.

"D'ye hear that now?" he demanded of an invisible second party. "Sausages for breakfast, and liver and bacon for dinner, and 'seems to fancy a rasher with her tea!' Why, she's a puffect horsestretch! Come to that," with hungry sarcasm, "dessay I could fancy one with mine. Blame it, I could fancy a whole pig! Look yer, now, I ain't going to stand this. Banns or no banns, I ain't going to starve upstairs while she gorges herself down. After all, she's a fust-rate cook, and that's more'n you could say of Priscciller. And you've got to consider your meals fust, and if she feeds me as well afterward as she's done up till now, maybe I won't have much to complain of."

A few minutes later, Mrs. Potter, coming to the door and making an announcement, via the keyhole, to the effect that tea was ready, received his submission in due form.

"If you've set your mind on them there banns, I dunno's I've anything to say agen 'em."

And this is how Mrs. Potter, late Higson, nee Whelks, came to change her name for the third time.—Belgravia.

THE WILD INDIAN.

An Average Man's Ignorance About Red Men Is Profound.

We cannot deal with the Indian of to-day unless we know the Indian of yesterday, says George Bird Grinnell in the Atlantic. The average man seldom thinks about Indians, and when he does he thinks of them either with entire indifference or with contemptuous dislike. He is moved in part by that narrowness which leads us to despise those who in appearance or by birth or tradition are different from ourselves,—the feeling which leads many a white man to speak with contempt of Chinamen. More weighty than this feeling, however, is the inherited one that the Indian is an enemy, who, from the time he was first known has been hostile to us. Even nowadays most people seem to think of the Indian only as a warrior, who is chiefly occupied in killing women and children, burning homes and torturing captives. From the days when they fought the Pilgrim Fathers, and then the settlers of the Ohio Valley, and later still the emigrants crossing the plains, nine-tenths of all that has appeared in print about Indians has treated them from this point of view; and the newspapers, which now constitute so great a portion of the reading matter of the American public, seldom print anything about the Indians except in connection with massacres and uprisings. The effect of all this literature on the popular estimation in which the Indian is held has been very great.

The popular impressions are entirely erroneous. The Indian was a fighter, yet war was only an incident of his life. Like any other human being he is many-sided, and he did not always wear his war paint. If he has a repulsive aspect, there are other sides of his character, and some of them pleasing. If from one point of view he may appear to the civilized man ferocious and hateful, from another he seems kindly and helpful. The soldier sees the Indian from one point of view only, the missionary from another, the traveler from a third, the agent from a fourth. Each of these is impressed by some salient feature of his character, yet each sees that one only or chiefly, and the image is imperfect, ill-proportioned, and misleading.

A Wonderful Timepiece.

Our Brussels correspondent says: A truly wonderful timepiece is now on view in Brussels. The inventor, M. Noll, spent five years in its construction, and has beaten all previous records in clock making. This structure, which stands fifteen feet high, reproduces the facade of a building of the early Renaissance period. The clock, in addition to its ordinary functions, marks the four seasons, as well as the chief Church festivals, fixed and movable, all of which are heralded in to the minute by automaton figures, choral services, church music, or the song of birds, according to the season. A feature of the mechanism is the hourly procession of twelve apostles before the figure of Christ, and the morning and evening chant of monks, who are summoned from the cloister by the monastery bell, tolled by the sexton in view of the public. A representative of the earth's course round the sun, and of the moon round the earth, furnishes an object lesson in the seasons, eclipses and other celestial phenomena. The clock will be exhibited at Paris in 1900, and will be probably offered for sale, being valued at $15,000. Its movements are regulated by the calendar for the next 100 years.—London Chronicle.

Twin Hermits Celebrate.

Jacob and Isaac Schenck, the famous Montgomery County twin recluses, celebrated their seventy-seventh birthday the other Sunday at their home near Shawnee Mound, Ind. The brothers have spent all their lives in that community and have never traveled beyond the borders of their own county. They look alike and dress alike, enjoy a large income and have never known a day's sickness. In their youth they both loved the same girl, who, however, married a younger brother. Jacob and Isaac thereupon mutually swore never to marry and to receive no females into their house, carrying their antipathy to their brother's wife. This obligation they have religiously observed. It is said that for nearly forty years no woman except a sister of the men has set foot in the home of the couple.—New York Press.

FLAMES IN FORESTS.

SWEEPING FIRES THAT LEAVE WILD WASTES BEHIND.

Extraordinary Pecuniary Losses Inflicted by the Unfettered Element that Rolls Onward in a Mad Torrent of Rapacious Billows and Defies Man.

A forest denuded by fire presents a woeful sight. The trees are not entirely consumed. The burned trunks of all larger ones stand straight and tall, dead, but not destroyed. Sometimes forest fires rage over such vast areas that their smoke is visible from any point in a State. Dr. J. T. Rothrock, Commissioner of Forestry for Pennsylvania, shows that the potential loss of the commonwealth from each fire or each series of fires that devastate the timber-producing areas in Pennsylvania is $30,000,000. The fires occur chiefly from two causes. Railroad companies burn their old ties along the right of way, without taking any precaution to prevent the fire spreading to the woods, and the small farmers in clearing wood-lots for farming purposes burn the brush and fallen timber, without caring whether the fire spreads or not.

A BURNED FOREST.

The illustrations are significant as showing the desert condition which a fire, or series of fires, produces. In many parts of the United States one may see such tracts, over which fires have swept almost every year, destroying the young forest growth and rendering the soil, after each succeeding conflagration more and more barren. The deterioration in the picturesqueness of the country, or the loss in money to the person or persons who may own these districts for lumbering purposes, may more easily be imagined than told. What could be more dreary than the country shown in the two photographs?

STREET IN PHILLIPS BEFORE AND AFTER THE FIRE.

The year 1894 will long be remembered in Wisconsin and Minnesota for the terrible calamities which occurred in July and August of that year. Intense heat and little rain had made the forests almost like a kiln. All through the summer fire had been feared and looked for, and by the end of July it was said that not less than $5,000 worth of pine had been destroyed. The fire extended over a stretch of nearly fifty miles wide, and all that experience gained by woodsmen and lumbermen in dealing with forest fires availed nothing against the sweeping flames, which were driven like an overwhelming flood by a strong wind, leaving death and destruction in their path. In the photographs presented herewith, which show a Wisconsin town named Phillips before and after the fire, one may see how completely the forest fire fiend does his work. Phillips was burned July 27, and the loss of life would have been severe had not the inhabitants escaped by taking trains to places of safety.

In October, 1871, one of the most terrible fires in America on record broke out at Peshtigo, Wis., and more than 700 persons were burned to death. But probably the saddest fire was that which occurred in 1894—one glimpse of which, at Phillips, has already been had. The unfortunate place was Hinckley, Minn., and the calamity occurred on Sept. 1 of that year. Owing to the long-protracted drought, as is pointed out in the report of the State commission for the relief of the forest fire sufferers, the fires had prevailed in different localities for several weeks, but on that day the wind became a tornado, and a small fire then burning spread with frightful rapidity, and was carried on the wings of the tornado over a district covering nearly 400 square miles. A furnace blast swept over the fated district, and left behind it complete devastation. Every building in Hinckley was destroyed. So sudden was the onset of the flames that the people could only run from their houses and seek a place of refuge, without even an effort to save their household effects. Four hundred and eighteen persons, about one-sixth of the population of the district, are known to have perished by a most frightful death in the flames.

BURNED FOREST AFTER TWENTY YEARS.

TAMED A WAR-HORSE.

Feat of Alexander the Great in the Days of His Boyhood.

One of the stories told by Alexander the Great is that of how, when a boy of 12, he tamed the war-horse Bucephalus. The following is the account given by Plutarch in his life of Alexander:

"Philonicus of Thessaly had offered to sell Philip his horse Bucephalus for thirteen talents. So they all went down into the plain to try the animal. He proved, however, to be balky and utterly useless. He would let no one mount him, and none of the attendants of Philip could make him hear to him, but he violently resisted them all. Philip, in his disgust, ordered the horse led away as being utterly wild and untrained. Whereat, Alexander, who was present, said: 'That is too good a horse for those men to spoil that way, simply because they haven't the skill or the grit to handle him right.' At first Philip paid no attention to him, but as he kept insisting on being heard and seemed greatly disturbed about the matter, his father said to him: 'What do you mean by criticising your elders, as if you were wiser than they, or knew so much more about handling a horse than they do?' 'Well, this horse, anyway, I would handle better than any one else, if they would give me a chance.' 'In case you don't succeed,' rejoined his father, 'what penalty are you willing to pay for your freshness?' 'I'll pay, by Jove, the price of the horse!' Laughter greeted this answer, but after some bantering with his father about the money arrangements, he went straight to the horse, took him by the bridle, and turned him around toward the sun. This he did on the theory that the horse's fright was due to seeing his own shadow dance up and down on the ground before him. He then ran along by his side awhile, patting and coaxing him, until, after awhile, seeing he was full of fire and spirit and impatient to go, he quietly threw off his coat, and swinging himself up, sat securely astride the horse. Then he guided him about for a while with the reins, without striking him or jerking at the bit. When now he saw that the horse was getting over his nervousness, and was eager to gallop ahead, he let him go, driving him on with a sterner voice and with kicks of his foot. In the group of onlookers about Philip, there prevailed, from the first, the silence of intensely anxious concern. But when the boy turned the horse and came galloping up to them with pride and joy in his face, they all burst out into a cheer. His father, they say, shed tears for very joy, and, as he dismounted, kissed him on the head, and said: 'My son, seek thee a kingdom suited to thy powers; Macedonia is too straight for thee.'"

THE TAMING OF BUCEPHALUS.

Bucephalus became from this time the property and the inseparable companion of Alexander. He accompanied him on his campaigns "sharing many toils and dangers with him," and was generally the horse ridden by him in battle. No one else was ever allowed to mount him, as Arrian says, "because he deemed all other riders unworthy." He is reported to have been a magnificent black charger of extraordinary size, and to have been marked with a white spot on the forehead.

Women in Paris.

"I like the way the French take their amusements," writes Miss Lilian Bell in a letter from Paris. "At the theater they laugh and applaud the wit of the hero and hiss the villain. They shout their approval of a duel and weep aloud over the death of the aged mother. When they drive in the Bois they smile and have an air of enjoyment quite at variance with the bored expression of English and Americans who have enough money to own carriages. We drove in Hyde Park in London the day before we came to Paris, and nearly wept with sympathy for the unspoken grief in the faces of the unfortunate rich who were at such pains to enjoy themselves. I never saw such handsome men as I saw in London. I never see such beautiful women as I see in Paris. French men are insignificant as a rule, and English women are beefy and dress like ragbags."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

CAPTURED CAT DEAD.

Famous Feline Rescued from the Spanish Battleship Cristobal Colon.

The famous Spanish cat, Cristobal Colon, captured from the Spanish battleship on July 3, died at the United

SENOR CRISTOBAL COLON.

States government station at Benton Harbor, Mich. This cat was in the cat show in Chicago and was awarded a special medal. Senor Cristobal Colon was a mascot on the Spanish man-of-war of that name.

Early Writers on Smoking.

The fact has been discovered that Shakspeare never mentions smoking or makes the slightest allusion to the habit. This is the more curious, as most of his contemporaries, Ben Jonson, Decker and others discuss the then new fashion at length, and the humorist and satirist of the time lost no opportunity of deriding and making a game of the votaries of the weed.

The tobacco merchant was an important personage in the time of James I. The Elizabethan pipes were so small that when they are dug up in Ireland the poor call them "fairy pipes." King James himself was one of the most virulent opponents of the habit, and in his ludicrous "Counterblasts" calls it a vile and stinking custom, "borrowed from the beastly, slavish Indians—poor, wild, barbarous men—brought over from America, and not introduced by any worthy or virtuous or great personage."

He argues that tobaco is not dry and hot; that its smoke is humid, like all other smoke, and is therefore bad for the brain, which is naturally wet and cold. He denies that smoking purges the head or stomach, and declares that many have smoked themselves to death.—Medical Record.

Dealing with Lumbermen.

There is an old retired merchant in Detroit who delights in recalling his experiences when an active man running a general store in one of the northern cities of the lower peninsula, says the Detroit Free Press.

"I used to reap a harvest when the men were coming out of the woods," he relates. "They were not up in styles, and about any old thing would suit them provided the color was right and the fit even passable. But there were tricksters among them, and I had to keep my wits about me in order to keep even with them.

"'How much is that hat?" asked a strapping six-footer, who arrived from camp one day with a pocket of money.

"'Two-fifty,' I replied.

"Then he informed me that he always had the crowns of his hats punched full of holes in order to keep his head cool, and his hair from coming out. I soon had this attended to, and then he asked what the hat was worth. 'Two fifty,' I responded in surprise, but he laughed at me for asking such a price for damaged goods. He had me and got his hat for a dollar, while the jolly crowd with him had a laugh at my expense. He wanted to look at some 'fiddles,' and after pricing one at $10, concluded to take it.

"'Where's the bow?' he asked as I was doing up the package.

"'You only bought the fiddle,' I laughed. The others saw the point and laughed, too. The giant tried to bluff me, but I kept good-humored, and got even on the hat by charging him $1.50 for the bow. I not only got even, but the others were so pleased with my 'Yankee trick' that they spent plenty of money with me."

Was Afloat with Napoleon.

Two men living in St. Helena who were born respectively in 1798 and 1802 are not the only persons now living who have seen Napoleon the Great. Thomas De Moleyns, who was for many years county court judge of Kilkenny, who was called to the Irish bar in 1831, and appointed a Queen's counsel in 1855, served in his early boyhood in the royal navy. Mr. De Moleyns was a midshipman on board the Bellerophon when Napoleon on July 15, 1815, after "the hundred days," placed himself under the flag of his country and was received on board the Bellerophon.

"Maud says she is madly in love with her new wheel." "Huh! Another case where man is displaced by machinery."—Indianapolis Journal.

How easy it is to let the other fellow do the work by reflecting that the exercise is good for him.

THE STATE LEGISLATURES.

Tuesday.

In North Dakota Gov. Fancher and other State officers were inaugurated.

California senatorial candidates busied themselves securing pledges of votes.

Minnesota Legislature organized and Republicans elected A. N. Dare Speaker.

Nevada Democrats decided to hold no caucus for choice of United States Senator.

In Delaware Addicks faction and regular Republicans disagreed and delayed organization of House.

Nebraska Republicans patched up truce in caucus and chose Paul Clark Speaker and A. R. Talbot President of the Senate.

South Dakota's Governor was inaugurated and the Legislature organized. Contest on Governor's title to office commenced.

William B. Bate was renominated for his third term as United States Senator by the Tennessee Democratic caucus. Both branches of the Legislature organized.

Wednesday.

John Lind was inaugurated Governor of Minnesota.

In Maine Republican caucus nominated Eugene Hale by acclamation.

In Delaware fifty-four ballots for Speaker were taken without result.

In Michigan Albert Pack withdrew, and in caucus Burrows was nominated by acclamation.

In Minnesota the Republican caucus nominated Senator Cushman K. Davis to succeed himself.

Colorado Legislature organized, silver Republicans and silver Democrats voting jointly for officers.

In California Gage was inaugurated Governor and declared himself opposed to U. S. Grant, Jr., for Senator.

The Legislature in Kansas passed a bill reducing telegraph tolls and putting express companies under court of visitation.

In Pennsylvania the anti-Quay Republicans organized and pledged themselves to keep up the fight against him until the Supreme Court has disposed of People's Bank cases.

Thursday.

Gov. Pingree sent his message to the Michigan Legislature.

In Nebraska William A. Poynter was inaugurated Governor.

Frank Rollins was inaugurated Governor of New Hampshire.

In Maine Gov. Llewellyn T. Powers was inaugurated for his second term.

Indiana Legislature installed officers and received Gov. Mount's message.

In Massachusetts Roger Walcott was for the third time inaugurated Governor.

Kansas House defeated Senate bill to create guarantee fund to protect bank depositors.

Missouri Legislature organized, Democrats and Republicans voting for Democratic nominees.

Gov. Stephens, in his message to Missouri Legislature, asked investigation of boodling in St. Louis.

Bills were introduced in Minnesota Legislature providing for a constitutional amendment and electrocution and others.

In North Dakota the legislative caucus of Republicans cast eight ballots for Senator without a choice. M. N. Johnson led on each ballot.

Polygamy Still Lives.

Rev. William R. Campbell, a missionary of the Presbyterian Church at Salt Lake City, says that polygamy is preached and practiced by the leaders of the Mormon Church, from President Lorenzo Snow down. Polygamous marriages take place in the secrecy of the Mormon temples, and no record is made, except in the private books of the church. When Mormons are called upon to produce their records they will perjure themselves by saying they have no records or cannot find them. Dr. Campbell says that Congressman-elect Roberts was the church candidate.

Wants to Become a State.

New Mexico is clamoring for Statehood, and Gov. Otero called upon the President to talk over matters in relation to that territory. While Gov. Otero does not believe Statehood will be conferred upon New Mexico at this session of Congress, he came to urge the importance of such action. The population of the territory is 230,000; there are 2,000 miles of railroad within its borders, and the property located there is assessed at $50,000,000. New Mexico has an area equal to New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio combined.

Chicago's Death Rate.

Verified returns up to the close of Health Department office hours of Jan. 2 foot up a total of 22,793 deaths from all causes in Chicago during the year 1898. Computed on a mean population of 1,650,000 this gives an annual death rate of 13.8 per 1,000, as against 13.5 for the year 1897. The commissioner of health, Dr. Reynolds, is especially gratified at the reduced mortality from diphtheria during the year. There were 622 deaths recorded from this cause in 1898, as against 702 in 1897.

News of the Northwest.

Stockmen on the Big Laramie in Wyoming complain that wolves are getting more numerous.

The growing of sugar beets has been so profitable at Lehi, Utah, that a largely increased acreage will be planted next year.

Wheat in eastern Washington is reported to be looking unusually well. The last year's crop has practically all been marketed.

The cooks and waiters of Great Falls, Mont., have organized a union with twenty-five charter members, and expect to increase the membership to over 100 in a few weeks.

The Schagel Lumber Company's mill at Sedan, Mont., has started up, and is cutting 40,000 feet of lumber a day.

Lumbermen in the Palouse country, in Washington, are figuring on getting out a larger quantity of logs this year than ever before. The season up to date has been very favorable.

In the Salt Lake markets the last year $18,409.55 worth of Utah-caught fish and game were consumed while of the imported and sea fish the value reached $34,110. The local product sold is classified as follows: Bass, $5,951.55; trout, $4,225; ducks, $6,681; grouse, $1,302; deer, $250.

Told in a Few Lines.

The village of Glen Eyre, Pa., is advertised for sale by the sheriff.

The Chicago Council has forbidden the use of the whip in the house of correction.

Mormon converts in Pleasant Hill, Ky., carry shotguns to protect themselves from whitecaps.

Marriage is on the decline in Pike County, Pa., and the people are worried over the problem.

William Shaver, a farmer near Greenfield, Mo., shot his wife, producing fatal wounds, and then shot himself, dying instantly. Family trouble was the cause.

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 12, 1899

The J. P. Court.

A Bad Lot Overhauled and Punished.

Yesterday and day before, Justice Walter and Prosecutor Pomeroy were not hanging about the circuit court room a great deal. They had a little court of their own on these two days which five persons in Auburn will remember for years to come. Two of the quintet are women and three are of the sterner sex. They have been carrying things with a high hand, especially about the south end saloon. It appears that the women are hard drinkers and that the men have been paying for their drinks. An especially bad case the other evening, when two of the men were requested by the women to get beer for them. They got, not only beer, but blackberry cordial as well as whiskey. These they mixed and the women drank the stuff, and of course had a three-cornered old drunk. It was a beastly and blasphemous affair. Five arrests were made, including the two women, the two men who paid for the drinks and the barkeeper who brought the drinks out to the crowd. The fines and costs averaged about $29 each. We are not personally acquainted with any of the parties, and from what we have heard, do not want to be. But we feel sure they deserved all they got, and we hope to see them either behave themselves or get another dose of $29.

The Match Factory.

The following marriage license have been issued since our last report:

Frank Warner and Lizzie Wyatt, Frank L. May and Maggie Krise, Henry Ober and Sarah Lash, A. F. Bowman and Mary Chaffman, Ray Krontz and Le Esta E. Staufier, Geo. Watson and Allice Bailey, Emery Treesh and Iva DeWitt, Willis Repp and Mabel Palmer, C. W. Holderman and Hetty Uleriff, Geo. E. Oberlin and Rosa A. Fisher, John E. Kiser and Martha Malone, Chas. Headley and Rose Theil, Frank H. Dunn and Katie Steuing, Charles L. Dryden and Effie O. Wolford, H. C. Hathaway and Retta L. Bishop, D. Mervin Myers and N. Alma Ervin, Frank Hamilton and Leona Love, John S. Patterson and Gertrude Stone, Julius Hartman and Jessie May Dittmar, Lester Pierman and Caroline Pierman, John H. Dawson and Laura Treesh, Geo. L. Jones and and Mary Ann Mark.

DeKalb County Atlas.

C. E. VanAuken and his brother J. J. VanAuken, both competent engineers and both familiar with every part of DeKalb county are getting up an atlas of the county which will be full and complete, as well as correct and up-to-date. As it is for the use of DeKalb citizens mainly, it will be put on sale to the people of the county. It will be a desirable book and every business man and enterprising farmer will be glad to secure a copy. In addition to the county and township maps, there will be a map of the state and of our new possessions in the East and West Indies. We do not know how soon the work will be on the market but presume it will be the coming spring or summer.

OBITUARY.

Clara Charlene Reed the only daughter of Frank and Mary Reed, was born June 39, 1892, and departed this life Nov. 21, 1868, aged 6 years, 4 months and 21 days. She leaves a father and mother, three brothers, two grand parents and a host of friends to mourn her loss.

Little Charlene was the light of the home. She was possessed with a kind and loving disposition and will be missed by all who knew her. The funeral services were conducted at the residence of her parents three miles south of Auburn, by Rev. E. H. Peters, pastor of the M. E. church at Spencerville. Her teacher, William Lake and her schoolmates were present and took part in the services.

No Right To Ugliness.

The woman who is lovely in face, form and temper will always have friends, but one who would be attractive must keep her health. If she is weak, sickly and all run down, she will be nervous and irritable. If she has constipation or kidney trouble, her impure blood will cause pimples, skin eruptions and wretched complexion. Electric Bitters is the best medicine in the world to regulate the stomach, liver and kidneys and to purify the blood. It gives strong nerves, bright eyes, smooth velvety skin, rich complexion. It will make a good looking charming, woman of a run-down invalid. Only 50 cents at H. B. McCord's Drug Store.

Why We Whipped Spain

[Sample Bag.]

Because we are strong as Sampson; we are as Schley as a fox; we are Miles long, we possess Merritt; we are Hobson's choice; what more Dewey want?

THE LAKE SHORE'S HISTORY.

Some Light Thrown on the Early Struggles of Indiana People.

The Goshen Democrat has a long historical article, on the early history of the Lake Shore railroad. Parties at Goshen early in 1837 organized a company called the Buffalo and Mississippi railroad Co., to build a line across the north part of Indiana, beginning at Toledo and extending to Chicago. Subscriptions were attempted at Laporte, South Bend, Elkhart, Goshen, Lima and Angola. But they did not succeed. In 1846 they got the state legistature to pass a resolution asking Congress to help them as it would make a valuable line in case of war with Great Britain. They asked a donation of lands in the two Land Districts of Fort Wayne and Winamac. But nothing came of this. Soon after, however, a different company, with good backing got in shape to build a road out of Toledo, called the "Michigan Southern," which was to go through the southern tier of Michigan counties, and strike Indiana at Elkhart county and from that point they were to organize another company to be called the "Northern Indiana" which could take the line almost to Chicago, in fact, to where Chicago now is, at the state line. After this company had got its charter from Indiana, they felt it would be advisable to get control of the Buffalo & Mississippi franchise, and in 1848 to 1850, made a bargain with that company, that they would build a short line east from their line at Elkhart, reaching to Goshen, if the old company would give up its rights and the lands it had acquired at the east side of Goshen. This was agreed to, and a few years later, the Air Line division was built from Goshen to Toledo and is now used as a Main Line, the part first built as the "Michigan Southern" being now the "Michigan Division." So it will be seen that the compulsory building of the ten-mile spur east from Elkhart to Goshen, was one of the main causes for building the Air Line. This bit of history also helps to explain the double name of "Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Ry. Co."

Allen Shultz Stricken.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.

WATERLOO, Jan., 10, 1899.—Allen Shultz, commissioner of the North District was stricken with paralysis, yesterday, Monday, morning, at his home at Waterloo. The whole of his left side is affected as well as his speech. Dr. Darby is attending him but we do not yet know how serious the case may be. Mr. Shultz is a man highly respected, and as he recently entered on his duties for the important office of commissioner, all our people will have an interest in his recovery.

The Eastern Stars.

At their election the last week, the following officers were chosen: Mrs. Henry, W. M.; Mrs. J. Y. W. McClellan, W. P.; Mrs. Anna Silvers, A. M.; Mrs. Olia Caldwell, Secretery; Miss Dorothy Husselman, Treas.; Mrs. Etta Ryan, Con., Mrs. Mary, E. West, A. Con.; Mrs. Abby Matheny, Warder, Mrs. A. W. Bates, Sentinel.; Mrs. Cora Hoffman, Ada.; Mrs. Maggie VanAuken, Ruth.; Mrs. Mary Husselman, Esther.; Mrs. Jennie McClellan, Martha.; Mrs. A. W. Bates' Electa.

Look at This.

Will offer another tile slaughter during the month of January, at the following cash prices.

3 inch tile per 1000	$ 7 00
4 " "	10 00
5 " "	14 00
6 " "	18 00
7 " "	23 00
8 " "	30 00
10 " "	50 00
12 " "	70 00
Hollow building blocks	27 00

15 inch tile made to order.

Three miles south-east of Auburn.

W. D MILLER, Mfg.

Presbyterian Concert

A musical concert will be given at the Presbyterian church next Wednesday week, Jan'y 18, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society of that church. An excellent program will be rendered consisting of vocal and instrumental music, recitations etc, etc. Prof Niles and Prof. Zimmerman will execute some of the special numbers. Everbody is cordially invited. Program and price of admission will be published later.

Gone to Cuba.

S. C. Snyder has received a letter from Henry McIntyre, who was then, Jan. 8th, at Thomasville, Georgia. He was about to start for Cuba and will remain there for a time. It will be a very desirable trip and Mr. McIntyre will make the most of his opportunities.

Beveridge Nominated.

A. J. Beveridge, of Indianapolis, was nominated for U. S. Senator at the republican caucus last evening on the 11th ballot. He is said to be a young man of marked ability and a good speaker.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Court News.

Tuesday's Daily.

All day yesterday was occupied by the Wildesin case. It was one of the unfortunate cases that will come up now and then, and of which only an outline can be given in the papers, Miss Maggie Wildasin, daughter of Joseph Wildasin who lives just this side of Waterloo had Charles Grimm of the same neighborhood, arrested on a charge of bastardy. Her child was born last spring. Grimm has a wife and children. He denied all knowledge of the matter, so in the absence of other means to get at the truth, the matter stood largely as a question of veracity as between Grimm and her. Various witnesses were called on both sides, some of whom were called on to say whether Grimm had a good or bad reputation for truth and veracity. Opinions diffesed greatly. But one thing appears, that Grimm is a sport. Some say he has a gambling joint in Waterloo. It appears that he had formerly sold jewelry over the country. As to the girl, there are various opinions, some claiming she has borne a good name, others that she has not. The attorneys for the state were Prosecutor Rnoads and J. F. Shuman; for Grimm were John W. Baxter and his cousin Ed. Baxter, from Corydon, Ind. who is here on a visit. The testimony was concluded at 6 p. m. and court adjourned for supper to begin again at 7. Each side then had an hour and a quarter for argument. Mr. Rnoads spoke first and he made the best speech we have heard him make. He was followed by Ed. Baxter, in an able and exhaustive argument, proving himself a young man of marked ability. He was followed by John W. Baxter of the same side, who made a strong plea for his client, and then gave place for the closing argument for the state, by Mr. Shuman. He too, put up a strong argument, and it should be said for all the attorneys, they had no harsh words for the unfortunate girl whose case was being put to the test of the laws of the state. At the conclusion, the jury were dismissed to meet at 8:00 this morning, when they were charged by the judge, and retired to consult.

After consulting till past 3:00 this afternoon they brought in a verdict of guilty against Grimm. There will be a motion by defendant for a new trial.

Wednesday's Daily.

Yesterday, Tuesday, the arson case from Steuben county was started. A farmer named Shanks, had a small house which he got insured in the Farmers' Mutul Insurance Co., up there about a year ago now. He had about $120 on the house, $150 on the household goods and $230 on farm implements, etc. In the fall, one day, when his wife was away, a neighbor came to see him, and both went out to look at the crops of corn. Before starting out, Shanks had build a fire in the cook stove and put on the coffee, to have it ready for his dinner when they came back. Soon after they reached the field, his friend said he saw smoke at the house, and Shanks said he believed it was his house on fire. Both hurried to the house, and found the board partition near the stove, on fire and flaming up toward the roof. Seeing they could not save the building they saved a few goods, but could not get much. Saved some of the beds and clothing. Shanks had $29 in a pants pocket which was burned. He saved only the clothes he had on. A new buggy standing close to the house was also burned. Shanks brought a bill for his insurance money, and the company refused payment, claiming he set it on fire. So the prosecutor brings suit for arson. He is assisted by Mr. Yotter. Shanks' attorneys are Croxton & Powers assisted by Wm. Brown. The statements by the attorneys on each side, closed at 6:00 last evening, and work began this morning in hearing witnesses.

This morning a man named Everts testified he was with Shanks when they saw the fire. All hurried up, Shanks said don't go in it will fall on you, but they got out a few things. Shanks said it would be a total loss. Witness thought this a queer thing to say. Believes the house worth not over $50, as it is old.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

His Life Was Saved.

Mr. J. E. Lilly, a prominent citizen of Hannibal, Mo., lately had a wonderful deliverance from a frightful death. In telling of it he says; "I was taken with Typhoid Fever, that ran into Pneumonia. My lungs became hardened. I was so weak I couldn't even sit up in bed. Nothing helped me. I expected to soon die of Consumption, when I heard of Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle gave me great relief. I continued to use it, and now am well and strong. I can't say too much in its praise." This marvelous medicine is the surest and quickest cure for all Throat and Lung Trouble. Regular size 50 cents and $1. Trial bottles free at H. B. McCord's Drug Store; every bottle guaranteed.

That Problem

AUBURN, INDIANA.

MR. EDITOR.

DEAR SIR:—I take notice that Mr. McIntosh does not agree with me in regard to the problem in the COURIER of recent date. He says that B, C, D and E, are out of debt, but A owes $1 to each of the others. Now the problem as stated, says that A, B, C, D, and E. are out of debt. Now how can he claim that A owes $1 to each of the others.

H. A. WINSLOW.

Delinquent Tax Sale

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned delinquent for non-payment of taxes for the year 1897, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1898.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section	Township	Range	Acres	Hundredths	Am'nt of Sale $	cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Adams, Kate	sw¼ se qr	25	33	12	40		22	19
Holbrook, Margaret E	s½ nw qr	32	33	12	80		135	61
do	se¼ ne qr	31	33	12	40
do	in nw cor ne¼ se qr	31	33	12	4
do	nw¼ nw qr	29	33	12	40
Lockwood, Bertie	s½ se qr	12	33	12	80		60	26
Lockwood, Ora	n½ se qr	13	33	12	80		58	45
Lockwood, P J	w½ se qr	35	33	12	80		59	02
Probst, C B and B C	e side sw qr	13	33	12	60		38	38
Shutt, Marion F	s½ s½ ne qr	36	33	12	40		20	67
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Andress, L J	in nw cor sw¼ nw qr	9	33	13	1		6	79
Boren, Morris	nw¼ sw qr	4	33	13	40		32	80
Cool, Thomas J	in n side nw qr	20	33	13	1		4	22
George, James	ne pt nw qr	12	33	13	31		33	69
Lutz, John	ne¼ se qr	1	33	13	0		23	54
Lockwood, Gracy	s½ sw fr qr	18	33	13	70		98	05
Lockwood, Nettie	n½ sw fr qr	18	33	13	70		80	97
Lockwood, Lyman	w fr ½ nw qr	19	33	13	63		75	50
do	sw qr	19	33	13	143		108	70
McClellan, Viola E	w¾ sw¼ nw qr	2	33	13	30		20	86
Robbins, L D and V	s side se qr	5	33	13	110		142	43
Werntz, Eliza	in sw cor nw qr	6	33	13	12		19	00
Watson, Benj	und 5-6 n½ sw qr	25	33	13	66	67	93	49
do	und w½ sw¼ nw qr	25	33	13	16	67
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Cole, Lewis	und ½ n½ se qr	1	33	14	40		27	93
Gratz, Jacob	w½ nw qr	31	33	14	80		70	47
Kile, Isaac	in nw cor sw qr	34	33	14	4	40	7	67
Wineland, Simon	in sw qr	15	33	14	2		31	16
Wasson, B F	pt nw¼ sw qr	29	33	14	7	75	27	05
Dore, David H	Spencerville pt lot 26 N add						8	79
Tindall, Wm C	Spencerville lot 15 N add						4	99
Baker, Mahlon	St Joe lot 2 block 9 L 1st add						15	04
Foote, Alexander	St Joe lot 6 block 1 O P add						14	87
Hendricks, Emanuel	St Joe lot I5 L A add						14	65
Walters, C C "trustee"	St Joe lot e½2 block 4 O P add						38	16
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Chapman, Andrew	w½ w½ se qr	29	33	15	40		72	65
	WILMINGTON TOWNSHIP.
Bensinger, Eli	se¼ sw qr	8	34	14	40		18	70
Boyle, Jeff N	w½ se qr	20	34	14	80		32	56
Bowen, B T	s and w pt sw qr	34	34	14	60		43	78
Johnson, J W and C	s¾ sw¼ se qr	24	34	14	30		15	52
Lanning, Margaret	mid pt w½ ne qr	19	34	14	12		67	80
do	pt w½ ne qr	19	34	14		45
Palmerton, P H	s end w½ sw qr	3	34	14	50		73	96
Stokes, Ida E	in s pt	12	34	14	13		10	56
do	pt sw qr	12	34	14	149	50	147	89
Shull, Joannah	mid pt n½ ne qr	20	34	14	36	34	36	55
Sawyer, Brice et al	s½ se¼ nw qr	35	34	14	20		12	19
Thomas, B F	pt w½ sw qr	33	34	14	79	72	103	89
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Hill, Wm	in se cor sw¼ sw qr	28	34	13	5		14	71
Raub, Margaret	nw¼ nw qr	20	34	13	40		82	93
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
De Pew, Wm H	pt n½ se qr	31	34	12	20		15	48
Lung, J E and M E	in s end e½ sw qr	8	33	12	12		12	85
Mason, Thomas	e½ e½ nw qr	27	34	12	40		15	14
Noel, Samuel M	pt ne¼ nw qr	9	33	12	39		40	50
Real Estate & Impvmt Co	in se pt sw qr	33	33	12		20	8	53
	GARRETT.
Gard, Thomas L	lot 16 L add						9	57
do	lot 13 G add							79
do	lot 14 G add							79
do	lot 15 G add							79
do	lot 16 G add							79
do	lot 17 G add							79
do	lot 21 G add							79
do	lot 22 G add							79
Hunt, Jas A et al	und ¾ lot 11 R add						8	43
Mixer, Dudley	lot 1 D add						1	37
do	lot 2 D add						5	77
do	lot 3 D add						1	37
do	lot 12 D 2nd add						7	28
Sither, H and Ella	lot 35 R add						12	71
	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Bishop, M and J Rastler	in nw cor s½ se qr	10	34	12	8		4	89
Bishop, Michael et al	pt s½ se qr	10	34	12	72		52	61
Harding, Demick	in w end s½ ne qr	4	34	12		50	8	55
Likens, G W and J W	nw¼ se qr	13	34	12	40		11	78
Miser, John	n side nw¼ ne qr	13	34	12	31	50	23	88
Stroh, Arthur E	nw pt nw qr	13	34	12	18	29	11	63
	FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Beight, Arvilla	off s end w½ se qr	30	35	12	50		35	26
do	off w side se¼ se qr	30	35	12	35		19	99
Emerick, Mary	n end w½ ne qr	30	35	12	10		19	07
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Boyer, C C	se¼ nw qr	20	35	14	40		46	96
	TROY TOWNSHIP.
Heller, Geo sr	in sw cor nw¼ nw qr	29	35	15	1	25	21	31
Whitman, Wm	pt nw qr	16	35	15	40		51	96
	AUBURN.
Baker, Harley G	lot 10 McI add						32	06
Broderick, Thos and Mary	lot 36 K 1st add						35	81
Bumpus, Letitia	lot 107 N G add						25	08
Broderick, Thos and M D	lot 1 Brandon's add						2	14
do	lot 6 do						2	14
do	lot 7 do						2	14
do	lot 12 do						5	56
do	lot 49 K add						6	80
do	lot 50 do						2	40
do	lot 51 do						2	14
do	lot 52 do						68	41
do	lot 53 do						2	14
Caruth, Cornelia	lot 1 G and D add						87	21
Gordon, G W	11 feet e end lot 93 O P
do	11 feet e end lot 94 O P						140	60
do	7 feet 10 in w end lot 139 O P
do	7 feet 10 in w end lot 140 O P
do	lot 21 E 2nd add						9	42
do	lot 31 do						8	73
do	lot 32 do						8	72
do	lot 54 do						3	72
do	lot 55 do						5	46
do	lot 56 do						3	39
do	lot 57 do						2	84
do	lot 58 do						4	31
do	lot 59 do						5	46
do	lot 83 do						2	84
do	lot 85 do						3	42
do	lot 86 do						3	41
do	lot 87 do						2	84
do	lot 52 do						4	53
Griffin, E A	lot 12 McI add						27	07
Grosh, Leonard	lot 2 E 3rd add						53	26
Gordon, Mary C	lot 138 W add						98	38
Gordon, G W and M C	lot 137 do						14	58
Hartman, W C	lot 185 O P						20	93
Lawrence, D E and A R	n½ lot 26 K add						36	51
McClellan, J W et al	e pt lot 6 K 2nd add						14	58
Platter, J E	lot 27 N G add						33	97
Pilgrim, Sarah A	lot 38 do						39	48
Ross, Elizabeth	lot 6 R and S add						45	43
Stutz, Alice	lot 51 N G add						32	41
Stametz, W O and L A	lot 3 E 3rd add						39	32
Webb, Edgar E	60x66 ft se cor lot 1 K 2n d add						21	13
	WATERLOO.
Blair, L J and E	in ne¼ se qr	4	34	13	1	85	68	85
Fee, Alice	lot 30 L 2nd add						5	18
Jarvis and Crane	s pt lot 48 O P						2	20
Lens, E R and R	lot 112 Hor add						15	03
McBride, J N	lot 3 L 3rd add						17	73
Marsh T, and A C	lot 42 J F and C add						22	16
Sewell, Wm S	lot 29 do						14	74
Till, Saml	26 ft e end lot 46 O P						6	54
Zerwis, Salome	lot 64 H 1st add						16	73
	BUTLER.
Beck, Susannah	lot 127 O P						48	74
Bennett, J B	lot 233 E add						51	57
Caruth, Cornelia	lot 21 S add						25	46
Crider, Lillian A	lot 106 O P						21	24
Campbell, John A	lot 21 D add						4	30
do	n½ lot 260 E 3rd add						6	31
Clark, Wm T	in ne¼ nw qr	12	34	14	1		14	03
Crowl, Martin	lot 30 S add						2	95
Deitz, Frank	lot 140 O P						23	72
Engle, Wm F	e½ lot 180 O P						19	71
do	e½ lot 181 O P
Fosdick, E W	lot 199 O P						2	46
do	lot 27 O P						18	37
Garrison, M J	lot 68 O P						22	31
do	lot 69 O P
Grof, S and Mary	lot 148 E add						38	53
Hemple, Chas	lot 177 O P						26	79
Metz, Sarah I	e½ lot 136 E 2nd add						27	41
Metz, Sarah I	lot 137 E 2nd add
Oberlin, Phillip	lot 74 E add						20	70
Prosser, Wm S	lot 160 E add						11	61
Swinehart, Margaret	lot 9 L add						26	94
	GARRETT.
Beeber, Simon	lot 1 block 44 Oz 1st add						38	99
do	30 ft n side lot 2 b'k 44 Oz 1st ad						29	03
Boston, Wm	lot 11 block 11 O P						57	06
Berritt, J R	lot 8 block 2 Oz 1st add						28	63
Balt Land & Imp Co	lot 16 block 15 O P						4	84
do	lot 17 block 15 O P						4	84
do	lot 18 block 12 O P						3	81
Chew, Geo P	75 ft e end lot 20 block 33 O P
do	do 21 do
do	do 22 do						70	51
do	do 23 do
do	do 24 do
Emmet, John J	lot 15 block 27 O P						57	82
do	lot 16 do
Fralick, Geo W	lot 18 block 53 C add						33	03
do	s½ lot 19 do
Fulmer, G S	lot 9 block 46 C add						77	74
Gage, Geo E	lot 24 block 32 O P						56	68
Gard, Harry A	lot 7 block 2 Oz 1st add						95	59
Haynes, Edward	lot 3 block 58 C add						43	45
do	n½ lot 4 do
Ind Farmers Saving Assn	lot 12 Thos E add						14	58
Johnson, John K	lot 23 block 21 O P						41	07
do	lot 24 do
Kingsbury, H A and L M	s½ lot 8 block 60 K add						28	48
Mountz, L E and F	lot 21 block 32 O P						82	68
do	lot 22 do
Miley, H R	lot 9 block 36 C add						30	10
Mager, Leo D	lot 3 block 54 do						24	94
National Loan & Imp Co	lot 20 block 58 do						23	40
do	lot 22 block 22 O P						17	31
do	lot 10 block 4 Thos S add						63	03
Paul, John	lot 20 block 28 O P						25	02
do	lot 23 block 19 O P						9	35
do	lot 24 do						79	65
do	lot 3 do						35	00
do	lot 5 block 20 O P						30	08
Ray, Geo M	lot 16 block 37 C add						41	18
do	lot 17 do
Rowe, Nicholas B	lot 8 block 23 O P						22	79
Stansbury, Lucy	lot 20 block 78 K add						21	31
Stinson, M A	lot 19 block 28 O P						24	88
Smith, John H	lot 11 block 78 K add						28	73
Tingle H F and C A	lot 9 block 10 O P						34	99
do	lot 10 do
Thomson, Sallie W	lot 9 block 18 O P						43	39
Van Tear, Henry M	lot 12 block 11 O P						58	21
Wood, Kate	lot 7 block 19 O P						71	98
	ASHLEY.
Bowles, W T	lot 6 block 28						41	60
Dice, J W et al	lot 3 block 25						18	67
Gary, Theodore	lot 8 block 27						6	60
Ind Imp Co, The	w½ lot 10 block 18						2	67
do	lot 11 block 18						5	15
do	lot 16 block 18						5	15
do	lot 10 block 19						12	71
do	lot 14 block 24						3	57
do	lot 6 block 31						6	96
do	lot 7 do						5	64
do	lot 8 do						5	64
Keyes, Perry	lot 1 block 27						24	55
Stoner, G F and R	lot 5 block 31						28	74
Strayer, Barbara	lot 29 block 22						44	20
Trumbull, Flor	lot 5 block 40						16	97

I, Frank P. Seiler, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1897, with the delinquent penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1898, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owner thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction, at the Court House door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1899, (the same being the 13th day of said month) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock A. M., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

FRANK P. SEILER, Auditor.

December 31st, 1898.

A FAIR EXCHANGE!

No Robbery!

So runs the old adage. We have a complete line of.....

Hardware, Stoves,
Furnaces,
Wilson's Heating Machines
Turnbull Wagons,
Eckhart Buggies

A Clean Line of Bright, New Goods. You have dollars which we could utilize in paying our bills.

Why Not Exchange?

We will give you the big end of the bargain—give you more for your money than you have ever received before.

Compare our stock and prices with the prices of others and see where we stand, Dollar for dollar and no favors.

We Lead!

Anything and Everything in HARDWARE and FARM MACHINERY.

Give us a chance to show you goods and make you prices.

Culbertson & Boland,

Auburn, Ind.

Crushed.

The Missus—Estelle, the girl we had before you used to get her washing out at least an hour earlier than you do Estelle— Mebbe she did, but I always likes to wash things clean, whether folks appreciates it or not. It's my nature.—Indianapolis Journal.

WANTED—A Reliable MAN

of good address to solicit business from property-owners. Any well known person willing to work, can make $18 to $25 weekly. Commission or salary, paid weekly. Address for particulars, mentioning this paper. CHARLES E. OHARE, Rochester, N.Y.

Geo. W. Lackey

Successor To

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

Having just completed our annual inventory we are now in shape for the new year. Heavy purchases for spring, which are already beginning to arrive, demand all the room possible. Consequently we have marked all Winter Goods, Remnants, Short Lengths and Broken Lots at prices that will move them rapidly, This week we are showing extra values in.....

EMBROIDERIES
LACES
MUSLIN
UNDERWEAR
LINENS
WHITE GOODS
SHEETINGS
WHITE QUILTS
CRASHES
LADIES' JACKETS and CAPES
UNDERWEAR
HOSIERY, &c

The inducement is a saving of dollars and cents which will send a current of enthusiasm through the mind of every shopper that attends this sale,

Geo. W. Lackey

Successor To

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

IDEAL MUSIC,

"Sweet as the angel Israfil's,
When every leaf on Eden's tree
Was trembling to his minstrelsy."

can be produced from an EBERSOLE PIANO. The Ebersole possesses a tone that no other maker has been able to imitate—being full and deep, yet with that clear singing quality which stamps it the peer of all upright pianos for homes of culture and refinement.

Frank B. Long,

119 Calhoun-St. cor Washington,

Fort Wayne, Ind.

AUDITOR'S SALE

STATE OF INDIANA, DEKALB COUNTY, } ss.

Notice is hereby given that, whereas, on the 28th day of March 1898, the County Auditor of said county and state offered for sale at the Court House door in the town of Auburn in said county and state the following described real estate, to-wit: The north three-fourths (¾) of the east one half (½) of the northeast quarter of section twenty-one (21) township thirty-four (34) north, of range fourteen (14) east, containing sixty (60) acres of land to satisfy a mortgage made by Charles W. Woods and Eva Woods his wife to the State of Indiana for the use of the common school, fund dated the 22nd day of August 1896, for one thousand [1000] dollars with interest at six [6] per cent per annum payable annually in advance according to the conditions of a note accompanying said mortgage made by Charles W. Woods whereby he promises to pay to the State of Indiana the sum of one thousand [1000] dollars with interest at the rate of six [6] per cent per annum; and the Auditor receiving no offer for the above described real estate, the Auditor in compliance with the law, bid in the said real estate on account of the said fund.

Now, Therefore, I, Frank P Seiler, Auditor in and for said county and state hereby give notice that on the 4th day of February 1899, I will offer for sale, between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M., and 4 o'clock, P. M., at the court house door in the town of Auburn in said county and state, the premises herein described on the following terms, viz: One-third cash in hand, and the balance in four equal payments due in one, two, three and four years respectively from the day of sale, bearing interest at six (6) per cent per annum payable annually in advance. Said land will be sold to the highest bidder but no bid will be entertained for less than the appraised value.

Witness my hand and seal of the Board of County Commissioners this this 12th day of January 1899.

SEAL

FRANK P. SEILER,
Auditor.

2-4

—Brandnew blood is what conquered Spain, and what you can have to conquer the world by using BEGGS BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD MAKER. There is no substitute. We prove it. Howard B. McCord.

Monday's Daily.

—George Campbell is laid up with a bad case of the grip.

—Ask any druggist for a free Peruna Almanac for the year 1899.

—FOR SALE:—A fine Jersey heifer Call on A. G. Lodewick north of town.

—John Crimmins of Garrett spent Sunday in town, the guest of friends.

—The republicons have 89 votes for senator in both branches of the legislature.

—J. W. Sherwood today, and as usual, paid his subscription a year in advance.

—Joseph Wingard has thanks for subscription for himself and son, John E. paid to 1900.

—James Barton became a 1900 subscriber today and keeps up his record as a prompt advance payer.

—An old man in Fort Wayne was sent to jail last week on his own request, as he said he was homeless and sick.

—H. E. Bucklen, the medicine man lives at Elkhart. He is going to build fifty new tenant houses there the coming year.

—Phil Plum was down from Waterloo today. Mrs. Plum was not as well as usual last week, but seems better again now.

—WOOD WANTED:—At this office. All who were to pay us in wood are requested to bring it as soon as they can, as we need it.

—Brown county, is the only county in Indiana without a railroad, but now they have a prospect of getting one at an early date.

—Oklahoma is asking admission as a state. They have called a meeting to get up a petition to congress to admit them at an early date.

—Mrs Sophia McNabb and W. E. Sherlock of Corunna have thanks for subtcription sent down by Frank Dellenbaugh, who is here on the jury.

—Judge Adair came into the court room awhile this forenoon. He was on his way to Albion to hold court. The term there began last Monday.

—A Cuban editor claims to be able to prove that a Spaniard named Bresmes blew up the Maine. He soon after left the island and cannot be found.

—John Richards took in change the other day an "eagle penny" of 1858. A very rare coin and worth about 15 cents, as rated by collectors of old coins.

—War relics captured by the battleship Indiana have been sent to this state and will be presented to the Governor on Friday of this week and kept in the state house.

—We give a correct picture today of Aguinaldo,, the so-called president of the Philippine Islands about whom everybody is talking. The picture is from a photograph.

—The people of Porto Rico are asking for free trade with the United States. As they are a part of the union now it looks as if they cannot be compelled to pay a duty.

—Dr. Jas. Sane has formed a company and leased 300 acres of land in Deaaborn county, Washington and Clay township, to hunt out gold, found there in small quantities.

—FOR SALE:—The St. Clair farm, know as the Hay farm, in Concord township, seven miles southeast of Auburn. For terms, etc., inquire of A. M. St. Clair, Auburn, Ind.

—Geo. Campbell moved into his new house on East Ninth-st several days ago. It is a nice, new building that he had put up for his own use, and will make him a cozy home.

—The struggle over U. S. Senator at Indianapolis, is getting pretty hot. The first vote of the two houses, is set for tomorrow, Tuesday, at noon. Hanly will probably be ahead on the first ballot.

—Hicksville News:—A. H. Baker and family and F. D. Wilks and wife of Auburn, arrived in our city Saturday and spent New Year's day with relatives. They returned to their homes Monday.

—Horrib'e agony is caused by Piles, Burns and Skin Diseases. These are immediately relieved and quickly cured by De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of worthless imitations. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Milford Mail:—"An Ohio judge has decided that eleven o'clock is the legal hour for a young man to stop sparking and strike for home." And now the Ohio girls have united in calling him a "mean old thing."

—FOR SALE CHEAP:—A Lady's "1897 Model" Bicycle, in First-class condition, Green Enameled frame, highly ornamented nickel-plated, with Bell, good Lamp and Cyclometer. Will sell very cheap for cash. For information call at this office.

—The Ft. Wayne Elks have organized minstrel company that gives entertainments for charity. They come to Garrett January 23, where they will give an entertainment in the Paul's Hall. to be followed by a social session. Those who attend, will we understand, receive invitations.

—The Angola student, Kerr, who shot himself last week, as reported in the COURIER, was alive at last accounts and may recover. As the bullet enters so near the heart, they have not tried to get it. He has given no explanation as to how it happened, or whether he did it on purpose.

—Ben Shook, who is attending medical college at Cincinnati was home for the holidays and made this office a call yesterday. He is a son-in-law of our Spencerville friend, Henry Murray, and we are glad to learn he is getting on nicely in his studies. Of course he reads the COURIER down there.

—Scalds, Burns, Old Sores, Tumors, Piles, are all relieved at once, and in time effectually cured by the use of that perfect ointment, BEGGS' GERMAN SALVE. Ask your druggist for sample and take no other. Howard B. McCord.

The little 18-months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs, Frank Bolender is quite sick with catarrahal fever. She suffers a great deal a part of the time, and there are indications of other troubles, such as affection of the spine. She is having good treatment and care and we hope may come out all right.

It is now believed that the Spanish treaty will be adopted without much delay, for even those Senators who object to the policy of expansion, feel it is best to accept the treaty, and later on, we can can arrange to let the Philippines go free if thought best. This is the view taken by many democratic members.

—All northeastern Indiana republicans seem to be solid, for Judge Taylor for Senator. We see that D. R. Best and Sol. Wood of Angola, M. E. Griswold and Judge Roby of Auburn, Bob Barr and Wm. Bunyan of Kendallville, J. N. Babcock and J. M. Preston of Lagrange, and about all the prominent republicans of Fort Wayne, have been down to Indianapolis in his interest.

—Dr. Nusbaum has a bill to compel children to attend Sabbath school every Sunday and receive a certain amount of religious instruction. It would be a joke on him if some member should offer an amendment to the effect that parents should be compelled to accompany their children to Sunday school every Sunday. It would be like making a man take his own medicine. We think Doc would at once move to "lay it on the table."

—A good sized badger attracted a good deal of attention this forenoon. It was brought in by Trustee Dancer, of Jackson, but was caught in a trap by Mr. Lake down on the river The most of our people never saw a badger before and the way they handled the claws of this one, would have been careless had the animal been alive. It is allied to the bear family, as it walks with its feet and part of the leg as well as foot. It is not often found in this section.

—J. H. Gregg, of Dundee, Kas. writes: "My little daughter who has been troubled wiih croup ever since she was three months old, I never found anything to relieve her until I tried BEGGS' CHERRY COUGH SYRUP, and has cured her entirely. I think it is the best cough Syrup on the market. Howard B. McCord.

—At the L. L. C. meeting on Saturday the club appointed a committee to wait on Senator Nusbaum, to enlist his interest in the library bill that is to come up before the legislature this session. They will also interview Representative Brown when he comes home the last of this week. The movement for a new library law, being in the line of general, popular education, it is being taken up and advocated by the literary clubs all over the state. As it is a movement against which little or nothing can be said. it is probable it will become a law.

ST. JOE.

M. T. Bishop was at Pleasant Lake last Friday.

L. S. Sailor and G. W. Woodcox had business at the Hubb, Friday of last week.

Will Curie went to Garrett Saturday.

Commissioner Gunsenhouser was in town Monday the guest of Ale Simonton.

Revival services at the Lutheran church next Sunday evening, Rev. Dunlap pastor.

Oddfellows and Rebekah lodges had a joint installation of officers and banquet last Friday night.

The E. Case Hardware Co., have finished their yearly invoicing and report satisfactory results from last year's sales.

Perhaps it is not generally known that we have a genuine hospital in town but such is the case. W. A. G. Smith in the west end is maintaining one at his own expense. Bill calls it his Roup hospital, and only chickens with that disease are admitted.

Levi Sechler is reported quite sick at his home near Newville.

John Leighty, son of pension agent J. D. Leighty has been promoted from the office of engineer of the Northwestern Railway to the charge of a division of 150 miles from Boone to Omaha. He receives a big salary and is allowed a private secretary. Johnnie is well remembered by all his former associates.

The sixteen year old son of A. M. Dermott fell from a tree on last Friday and broke his shoulder. It is feared that it may make him a cripple for life. The accident is the more sad from the fact that Mr. Dermott has been afflicted all summer with a wasting of the muscles in one of his shoulders that has kept him from work the past six months and this boy was his main dependence for work on the farm mainly. In his double affliction he has the heartfelt sympathy of all his friends.

For Sale

At a bargain, the H. E. Brown brick building south of the jail, formerly south of the jail, formerly owned by Mrs. I. E. Rader, consisting of a business room on first floor and dwelling rooms on second noor. Apply to

WM. XX McDONALD,
Waterloo, Ind.

Tuesday's Daily.

—M. P. Barker of Summit was in town today.

—Jerry Andrews of Newville is in the city, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Seiler —Mart Rinehart is the solid man of the jury with John Picker a close second.

—J. W. Jackman of Grant was here a short time yesterday, calling on friends.

—Miss Blanche Shilling and Miss Nettie Ernest spent the day at Fort Wayne.

—Wash Askew was able to get out and up town yesterday. He is looking weak and thin after his severe illness —French wine rooms have added kerosene oil to their list of intoxicants. It is said to produce a fair degree of drunk.

--Mrs. Etta Houser, of New Era, is visiting the Keeran Sisters and other friends, She is a daugeter of Levi Jackson.

—One of the gypsies, a girl, died at the camp southeast of town, the other day. We are told the burial is in Woodlawn.

—Miss Mae Summers accompanied by Miss Maline Smith, of near Albion, Ind., were the guests of Mr. John Culler's Sunday.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co.. Goshen, Ind. 8

—There is a belief on the part of some, that this century ends the 31st of next December at midnight. This is not correct. It is just one year later.

—Hubert Hartman has been laid up with the grip for several days, and finds it quiet a hardship for a lively lad like him to be cooped up in the house.

—Attorneys Leas and McDonald. of Waterloo, were in court yesterday. Also Dr. Darby and Geo. Wittmer of the same place and 'Squire John Clark of Smithfield.

—T. H. Shoub of Butler, was here today. He is traveling agent for that best of dallies, the Chicago Record, and as T. H. is a good fellow, and we believe he will succeed.

--The een, N. H. Sentinel has an interview with Congressmen Robinson of this district, in which the correspondent speaks well of our member and regards him as a rising young member.

—WANTED:—Fifty new subscribers who wish to pay for the COURIER in wood. Tell your neighbor about it, and if he wants the best paper in the county, and pay in trade, tell him we are ready for him.

—The American troops found in an out of the way cell in the Spanish prison at Mantanzas, a poor fellow who had been forgotten and left locked in when the Spaniards left. He had been three days without food.

—Mrs. Dr. S. B. Johnston went south on the forenoon train and will visit awhile with the family of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eli Kandel, who now live near Ft. Wayne. They moved down there from Columbia City last week.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending Jan. 10, 1899: Mrs. Nancy Stafford, Mrs. Sarah Smith, Mrs. Carry Reed, J. H. Smith, P. O. Nelson, Addie Herric. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list. G. H. FORKNER.

—Food does more harm than good when not digested. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It prevents wasting diseases and cures stomach troubles. It cures indigestion, sour stomach and belching, and allows a worn out stomach rest. It acts instantly. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—E. M. Bishop's big dog is no fool. He was hunting his master Sunday, and went into the postoffice looking for him. But he was not in sight, and the dog seemed to understand that he might be in behind the boxes, and promptly raised on his hind feet so he could look in through the delivery window. And he had to stoop a little to do that. It was a cute performance and everybody laughed. One glance showed him there was no E. M. inside and he hurried away.

—Two circuit Judges of St. Clair county, Kansas, have been in jail since last June. They were jailed by one of the federal courts for contempt. They had refused to levy a tax on their county to pay an old railroad bond debt, as the federal Judge had ordered them to do. Last week they were liberated merely because their term as judges had expired. But it turns out that their successors were elected in the fall on the promise not to levy the tax. The question now is, Will they, too, go to jail?

—A contractor at Elwood, named Earhart, has been sent to prison two to fourteen years for forgery. He had built a school house and lost $525 on the contract As he had a piece of property, he was to get the money for in a short time, he thought he could safely forge this amount and replace it before it should be known. But he was found out. Bro Prickett of the Milford Mail, says this same man cheated him out of $2.50 on subscription years ago when he, Prickett, published the Albion New Era, and that it was to be expected he would land in the pen some time.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

Wednesday's Daily.

—TO RENT:—Furnished rooms. Inquire at the Bradford.

—Frank Nelson, teacher at the Junction, came home sick today.

—LOST:—a post office box key on a heart-shaped ring, Finder please leave at this office.

—Show your neighbors the COURIER with its full court and other news. No other paper gets these.

—Parties having accounts with Cowan Sisters are reqested to call and settle. MRS. A. C. LEAS.

—The Gaiety Dancing Club will give a Masquerade Dance, at the Armory one week from Friday evening. Spectators allowed.

—Mr. Charles Elson and sister Olive entertained Miss Bertha Blaney and Chas. Gordon and son George, of Garrett, to supper last evening.

—On account of the growing demand for our $1.50 cabinets we have decided to continue making them, for a short time only. LYBARGER —MARRIED:—At the M. E. parsonsarge Spencerville by Rev. E. H. Peters on the 22nd inst., George Watson and Alice Bailey both residing near Spencerville.

—Mrs. Zerwes has received a box of relics of the Santiago battle from Will Clark. They include Spanish and American rifle shells, pieces of cable etc., a very interesting collection.

—The smallest things may exert the greatest influence. De Witt's Little Early Risers are unequalled for overcoming constipation and liver troubles. Small pill, best pill, safe pill. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The Garrett Herald phones over that his printers are on a drunk. He should include his Auburn reporter, "Diamond Jack," who is "likewise." Auburn and its citizens will probably have a rest from abuse this week.

—Why? Do you complain of Indigestion, Constipation and Liver Ills, when BEGGS' LITTLE GIANT PILLS are within such easy reach. They are today without a superior, do not grip or gripe, and can be relied upon to effect a speedy cure when all others are without the least avail. Be sure and ask for "Beggs." Take no substitute. For sale by Poward B. McCord.

—There is a story out that a young man in Richland township drove sixteen miles one of the recent cold evenings, to see his best girl. And he only got to talk to her fifteen minutes at the front door. He was not even invited to go in and warm his feet. As we are not acquainted with the young man, we cannot say whether the girl was right or not. But it was a cold reception.

—A letter from Frank Lindorffer at Chicago brings word that he is well and doing well. They have had very changeable weather up there, as Chicago so often has. Last Wednesday evening at 9:30 at was warm, and 30 above, but next morning at 5, it was 7 below zero. Hundreds of people are sick with such complaints as grip, Frank is working in a wholesale house where he has been for the past three years. Frank used to help his father. the late Henry Lindorffer, on the old home farm down in Jackson township, and that gave him an actual taste of business life. He is a going to push out now for success, which he hopes may be his to the fullest.

BUTLER.

George R. Walters is recovering from a serious illness..

Miss Edith Wilson who has been making an extended visit in southern Ohio, is expected home in a few days.

Jerry Barber's big lawsuit at St. Joe, was decided against him. It was to recover on an old graveyard insurance note.

The M. E. Sunday school was reorganized last week. It resulted in the election of Mrs. Jerome Brown as superintendent. The choice gives general satisfaction though the ex-superintendant, Dr. Kester gave very good satisfaction, and the change of front on part of the school board is looked upon as a surprise.

Rev. John H. Crouse met with a serious and painful accident last week. He was attempting to open a glass can of glue, when the top of the can broke off and his left hand came with great force across the ragged top of the broken can, nearly severing his thumb. Dr. Fanning dressed it and he is doing as well as could be hoped for.

Mrs. Philip Walters is confined to her bed by illness.

Isaac Stiefel has had a very severe attack of hemorrhage of the lungs. His life has been almost despaired of. At this writing he is slightly improving.

OBITUARY.

Died at her home on West Oak-st, Jan. 5, 1899; in the 68th year of her age, Harriet M. Mason. Harriet M. Olds was born in Ashtabula, Co., Ohio. Dec. 25, 1831, she removed with her parents to Defiance County, Ohio. In 1853, settling on a farm about 4½ miles east of Butler, where in 1853, she became the wife of Albert J. Mason. In 1856 they removed to Butler where she has since continuously resided. To this union were born four children three of whom and her husband surviving her. One son died in infancy. Her funeral, which was very largely attended took, place from the M. E. church last Sabbath, Rev. Freeh, officiating. Her remains were laid to rest in Butler cemetery. Mrs. Mason, was a woman of more than average ability, special. hospitable and a devoted wife and mother. She became a member of the church at the age of 15, and retained her connection until her death.

We Are Having a Drive...

This Month IN WARM GOODS

Listen and Reflect!

Men's Buckle Arctics,	size	6	–10		$1.25
Ladies'	"	"	"	2½–8	90c
Misses'	"	"	"	11–2	50c
Child's	"	"	"	6–10½	45c
Men's Storm Alaskas	size	6	–8		75c
Ladies'	"	"	"	2½–4½	50c
Misses'	"	"	"	11–2	47c
Men's Storm Rubbers		"		6–11	48c
Women's Low		"	"	2½–4½	16c

These prices are for First Quality, New, Fresh Goods.

Bishop and Reidler

YOUR SHOEMAKERS.

KLONDIKE LETTER.

A DeKalb Boy at Skagway Writes to the Old Home.

Collie Andrews, brother to Mrs. F. P. Seiler, is struggling on the way up to the Klondike country. He is now at Skagway, one of the Alaska startling points and the following is his latest letter to her.

SKAGWAY, ALASKA, Dec. 27, '98.

DEAR SISTER:—I will just drop you a line or two to let you know that I am on top of the snow yet. It storms on White Pass nearly every day, but Christmas was a fine day and the last two days have been nice winter days. I am at "Camp 7" on White Pass R R. I am working in a pack train packing wood and provisions to the different camps on the railroad. I pack mostly to "Camp 9," We load the mules in the morning with wood, and travel all forenoon to get up. When we reach "Camp 9," we can look down into the canyon 1050 ft, and see just where we started from in the morning. I get the highest wages paid on the road outside the officers. We get $5 a day and we pay $1 a day for board. I will not be here long though, As soon as the cut-off trail is opened I am going to Atlin. The snow is six feet deep at "Camp 9," but not very deep here in the canyon. I think the snow must be 10 feet deep on top of the summit It is about 3½ miles to the summit of White Pass from where I am. You see I am 10 miles up the canyon from Skagway, but get my mail from Saagway. I saw the sun yesterday, the first time in 35 days. I was on top of the Mt., about half past two and just saw it about ten feet above another Mt. I stopped and took a good look at it; was never so glad to see it before. After it was gone, I wondered if it was shining on my dear ones at home, which is a long ways from here. I don't think I will winter here again. It isn't so bad in summer, but the winters are pretty rough. There are days here on the Pass when it is all a man can do to stand them.

I am well at present, except a bad cold. One day last week. there was a man blowed off the grade with dynamite, and went 500 feet into the canyon; he died that night.

I hope Edgerton will come out before I start over to Atlin, as I would like to go in with him. I hope this will find you all well and enloying life at the county seat. Write me all the news you can think of when you write.

Yours lovingly,
COLLIE.

Too Hot A'Most.

The game law has run out, but the stories told on the hunters go right on The latest brought to our notice, was on S. C. Snyder. He and A. C. Robbins and Romey Tarney, went down in Jackson, dealing death and destruction on the quail. But dinner time found them at the house of a certain farmer with appetites way above the boiling point. Now, S. C. has a large apple sauce tooth, and spying a dish of his favorite, he began "a charge by rushes" in that direction as the Rough Riders did at Santiago. Then he howled and sputtered, while Bert and Romey nearly died laughing. It was not a dish of apple sauce, but of horse radish. "Tears will still unbidden flow" whenever Snyder thinks of that apple sauce. It reminds him of the Indian at the hotel who thought the bottle of pepper sauce was whiskey, took a drink and jumped up with a yell of "Hip, hip, h——a! Too hot a'most.

CONCORD.

They are having meeting at Concord.

James Friend, wife and son, Lester Cobler and wife, Joe Keester and wife took New Years dinner with Mr. Farmer and wife.

Mrs. James Furnish is improving.

James Wyatt and Frank Smith are going to Tiffin, Ohio, this week to bale hay.

Fred Morr, wife and daughter were in town Monday on business.

Martha George was home Sunday.

Alec Culbertson met with some bad luck last Saturday, in the loss of a cow. They suppose the barn door blew shut and hit her, breaking her leg.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS

STATE OF INDIANA, DEKALB COUNTY, } ss:

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, December term, 1898, Anderson P. Small is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, on note and in attachment by Catharine Pfefferl and that the same will be heard and determined on the 6th day of March. 1899, being the 1st juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences March 6th. 1899.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 11th day of January, 1899.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

Sawed on Nails

Walter Hartman reports a queer thing that happened at the Cooperage Factory at Roann Saturday. They were sawing up a good sized log, when the saw struck something hard and they had to stop it. They cut the log open and found four or five inches from the outside a bunch of nails, that had evidently been put there when the tree was small and had grown over. Of course the saw was some injured. The same day, the stave cutter knife struck a big nail several inches inside of a stave bolt. They had probably got these logs from the trees of some old picnic grounds.

Dr. Humphreys'

Specifics act directly upon the disease, without exciting disorder in other parts of the system. They Cure the Sick.

NO.	CURES.	PRICES.
1	Fevers, Congestions, Inflammations.	.25
2	Worms, Worm Fever, Worm Colic...	.25
3	Teething, Colic, Crying, Wakefulness	.25
4	Diarrhea, of Children or Adults.....	.25
7	Coughs, Colds, Bronchitis.....	.25
8	Neuralgia, Toothache, Facesche.....	.25
9	Headache, Sick Headache, Vertigo..	.25
10	Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Weak Stomach.	.25
11	Suppressed or Painful Periods....	.25
12	Whites, Too Profuse Periods.....	.25
13	Croup, Laryngitis, Hoarseness.....	.25
14	Salt Rheum, Eryspelas, Eruptions..	.25
15	Rheumatism, Rheumatic Pains.....	.25
16	Malaria, Chills, Fever and Ague	.25
19	Catarrh, Influenza, Cold in the Head	.25
20	Whooping-Cough	.25
27	Kidney Diseases	.25
28	Nervous Debility.....	1.00
30	Urinary Weakness, Wetting Bed...	.25
77	Grip, Hay Fever.....	.25

Dr. Humphreys' Manual of all Diseases at your Druggists or Mailed Free.

Sold by druggists, or sent on receipt of price. Humphreys' Med. Co., Cor. William & John Sts. New York.

GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE

INDIANA EXECUTIVE ADDRESSES THE LEGISLATURE.

State Finances, Lynchings, Teaching of Agriculture in Public Schools, Good Roads and Common Schools Are Among Subjects Receiving Attention.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The people of Indiana have chosen you to represent them in the Sixty-first General Assembly. They have reposed in you their confidence, and you now enter upon the responsible duty of enacting laws for the promotion of public welfare.

The Constitution makes it incumbent upon the Governor "from time to time to give the General Assembly information of the affairs of the State and recommend to their consideration such measures as he shall deem expedient."

I deem it unnecessary to review the work of the various institutions of the State. The reports of these will be printed and put upon your desks for your examination. The last General Assembly enacted a law providing for the appointment of a committee to visit, examine and report the condition and needs of the various State institutions. In obedience to this law, a committee, consisting of Hon. Francis T. Roots (author of the bill), Hon. Fremont Goodwine and Hon. Strathur Herod, was appointed. With this committee's report, added to the published reports of the State institutions, I think it inopportune to prolong this message with references thereto, but shall give the time to the consideration of other important questions.

State Finances.

The reduction of the State's indebtedness has continued during the past two years with the most gratifying results. Funds accumulating in the treasury have been promptly used in taking up outstanding bonds, and a large amount of interest has thus been saved to the taxpayers. Payments on the State debt have been made as follows:

March 29, 1897	$150,000
June 21, 1897	80,000
July 7, 1897	190,000
Oct. 28, 1897	100,000
Jan. 20, 1898	100,000
Feb. 10, 1898	100,000
July 12, 1898	100,000
Aug. 20, 1898	100,000
Dec. 30, 1898	200,000
Dec. 31, 1898	200,000
Total	$1,320,000

The three-cent levy for the State sinking fund should be continued until the entire indebtedness has been paid off. With the return of prosperity, this levy can be continued without materially burdening the taxpayers of the State, and it is a self-evident proposition that the speedy extinguishment of all bonded obligations, thereby stopping interest charges, is in keeping with correct business principles and in harmony with the spirit of practical economy.

GOVERNOR MOUNT.

In this connection it is pertinent to mention that in the prosecution of the Spanish-American war Indiana advanced to the Federal Government a sum of money approximating $200,000. This was used in the mobilization, equipment and forwarding of this State's quota of troops, conformably with the call of the President. All claims on this account have been filed with the proper authorities at Washington and are being adjusted as expeditiously as possible. Claims to the amount of $107,102.55 have already been formally passed upon by the Auditor of the War Department, and a warrant for that amount was deposited with the State Treasurer on Dec. 29, 1898. The remainder of Indiana's claims against the General Government are in process of adjustment, and it is confidently expected that complete remuneration will be accomplished within a comparatively brief period. It is gratifying to know that all reports agree that Indiana's pending claims on account of the war are in better shape than those of any other State in the Union.

Reform in Government.

The need of reform in laws and methods of county and township government is manifest to all. There are not the proper safeguards around the powers delegated to county commissioners. They have power to levy taxes, make contracts, spend money and make allowances and audit the books. Section 7850 of Burns' Revised Statutes of 1894 gives too much discretionary power to the county board. The prodigality with which county funds are expended in some counties is the outgrowth of following precedents on the ascending scale. The expenditures and the contracts of the township should be so guarded as to give to the people complete information as to the official acts of all persons who have them in charge. The expenditures of the township officials last year for "outdoor relief" amounted to $375,206.92. This enormous expense is startling, and reveals the dangerous methods and lack of proper regard for public moneys. The system in vogue in many townships fosters pauperism and puts a premium upon vagrancy. The township trustees appoint the road supervisor, and upon the ability of this official in large degree is contingent road improvement.

The forthcoming report of the State Statistician will reveal in township government a great disparity of costs per capita. Townships similarly situated vary in the cost to the inhabitants several hundred per cent. The same report will show a difference in the total county expenditures that varies from 79 cents to $15.16 per capita, or a disparity of nearly two thousand per cent. It shows a county of a little more than 32,000 inhabitants expends for county purposes five times as much money as another county of more than 70,000 inhabitants.

Lynchings.

The good name of Indiana has been dishonored by a lawless mob that took from the jail in Ripley County and lynched five men charged with burglary. Even if these men had been by a court found guilty, as charged, the punishment would have been imprisonment, and not death. All sense of justice and safety revolts against the mob as a tribunal for pronouncing judgments or administering punishment. It cannot be argued that lax enforcement of law justifies a manifestation of contempt of courts and disregard for the law. Any county that can organize a sentiment to prevent lynchers from being punished can also organize against crime and punish criminals in a court of justice. Where lynch lawlessness obtains, there justice is dethroned and courts are myths. The constitution and laws of the State would there be trampled under the blood-stained feet of brutal and lawless men. If mob violence is to go unpunished, then hate and malice will sit enthroned, and passion, fired by intoxication and a spirit of revenge, instead of evidence, justice and the law, will render insecure life and property. In my efforts to remove from the State the odium attached to its good name by the lynchings that occurred in Ripley County every available means were invoked to ferret out the guilty parties and bring them to account. The report of Hon. W. L. Taylor, Attorney General of the State, will reveal the difficulty of convicting participants in lynchings in the county where these crimes are committed. Every person charged with crime has the right, under the constitution and laws of the State, to a fair and impartial trial. For a better guarantee of this right and to awaken a more lively interest in the counties against lynchings and whitecappings, I recommend the enactment of a law making the county responsible for such conditions and liable in a civil suit for damages. In the case of lynching the nearest of kin should be authorized to institute the suit, and for the offense of whitecapping the aggrieved party should have the right to recover damages. Any sheriff who permits a prisoner to be taken from his custody by a mob should be required by law to forfeit his office. Lax enforcement of laws eventually results in the people taking the law into their own hands. All good citizens should feel a keen interest in the enforcement of the law. They should be willing and ready to testify before the grand jury or in court or to sit upon juries. The judge who will allow technicalities and dilatory motions to delay or thwart justice is in some degree responsible for the terrible crime of lynching, and the judge who condones this crime and by word justifies such lawlessness has not the proper regard for the high functions of his office and is not fit to sit upon the bench. Quite recently the good name of Indiana has again been disgraced by a lawless mob, who took from the Scott County jail a prisoner who was soon to be tried by a court of justice.

There are no palliating circumstances connected with this brutal murder. Indications point to a conspiracy against this man's life, for the purpose of sealing his lips in death, lest damaging disclosures in trial might reveal the wickedness and crime of others. This atrocious murder appeals with new force to the legislators of Indiana for the enactment of a law that will forever stop this mockery of justice.

Revision of the Judiciary.

There is a growing necessity for a revision of the judiciary of the State. With each meeting of the Legislature efforts are renewed for the creation of new court districts. In some instances there seems to be need for relief to the courts, but for many of these demands there is no justification. It is true that there exists great inequality as to the amount of business transacted in these judicial districts—in some, too much business for one, but not enough for two courts. In other districts the amount of business does not warrant a separate court. If the rule of the present is to be continued and present demands granted, it will not be long until the State will have as many court districts as counties. Courts are multiplying more rapidly than population or litigation, while court expenses and allowances increase at an even greater rate than courts. This increase of courts is attended with a growing evil. This growing expense can be obviated and the present inequalities removed through the reorganizing of the State into court districts comprising several counties, equalizing as nearly as possible the business of these districts, and providing for the number of judges to correspond with the size of the districts.

It seems that it would be expedient to extend the jurisdiction of justice courts. Litigation over small amounts should originate in this court, and from which an appeal to the Circuit Court should be final. Suits in which petty sums are involved should end in the Circuit or lower courts, and be barred from the Supreme Court.

Agriculture in the Schools.

Article VIII., Section 1, of the Constitution of the State of Indiana stipulates that, among other things, "It shall be the duty of the General Assembly to encourage by all suitable means, moral, intellectual, scientific and agricultural improvement." President Washington, in his annual message to Congress, Dec. 7, 1796, recommended the establishment of a national university, in which, among other things, the science of agriculture should be taught. "It will not be doubted," he said, "that with reference to individual or national affairs agriculture is of primary importance. In proportion as nations advance in population and other circumstances of maturity, this truth becomes more apparent, and renders the cultivation of the soil more and more an object of public patronage." Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, in his annual report for 1898, commends the teaching of this science in the schools. In 1895, in New York City, a committee of distinguished citizens, among whom were Hon. A. S. Hewitt and Hon. W. E. Dodge, was appointed to inquire into the congested condition of the city, to ascertain the reason why so many were crowding into the metropolis, causing idleness and want. They reported that at the foundation of this deplorable condition was the discontent with farming, which led to the migration of country people to the city. In their printed report they say: "One of the great underlying causes for the discontent that exists among the farmers is the fact that, as a class, they have no special training or education for their business. The methods that gave success in the past fail to do so at present." The report suggests that the remedy is to begin "at the foundation and in the public schools."

Labor Commissioners.

This commission, through its acts, has demonstrated the wisdom of the law that created it. The commissioners have, in a little more than eighteen months, investigated thirty-nine strikes and lockouts. They failed in but seven instances to adjust differences, and in two of these one party to the contests was non-resident, over whom the commissioners had no jurisdiction. In four of the cases the commission investigated and reported the conditions of settlement. In twenty-eight contests satisfactory agreements were secured through the mediation of the commission, and in nineteen of these settlements the workingmen secured either an advance in wages or other improved conditions. The commission was also instrumental in having two boycotts declared off, and in five instances prevented strikes through timely mediation. So favorable has been the impression of this peaceable adjustment upon both employers and employes that frequent expression has been made to the effect that the services of the commission be invoked before allowing a strike to be inaugurated. Through the efforts of the commission 13,815 strikers have been put to work. Thus it is manifest that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been saved to capital and labor within our borders, the peace and dignity of the State preserved, serious conflicts between employers and employes averted, and safety to life and property secured. I believe the time has come when such differences should be adjudicated in a lawful court of arbitration. I believe the finding of such court should be mandatory. Provision should be made whereby the aggrieved party could immediately appeal to the Circuit Court, the decision of this court to be binding and duly enforced. It is a menace to the peace of the State and to life and property for corporations to be arming men to defend their plants, and for discarded labor to be arming for revenge upon the newly employed labor or the business that gives them work. To prevent this hostile attitude, the State should exercise its sovereign power and command these conflicting interests to come into court and settle their differences according to law and equity, thereby avoiding riot, bloodshed and the destruction of property.

The long-standing convention with reference to the boundary line dividing the States of Indiana and Kentucky at a point on the Ohio River, near Evansville, popularly known as Green River Island, has been effectually set at rest by an official survey and the placing of appropriate posts and markers, under the supervision of a board of commissioners acting under the directions of an order of the Supreme Court of the United States.

The act of 1885, providing for public printing, binding and stationery, should be amended so as to more explicitly state what departments should receive their printing and stationery out of the printing fund, and also the number of copies of each report that should be printed, exclusive of the Documentary Journal. In amending this law it would be well to reduce the number of Senate and House Journals to the demand for the same. There should be a law requiring better business methods in supplying the Legislature with stationery and supplies of different kinds. An examination of the requisitions made by the committee of former legislatures will emphasize the need for the law herein suggested.

Live Stock Sanitary Commission.

It is estimated that the loss of live stock from infectious and contagious diseases in this State amounts to from three to five millions of dollars annually. It is of great importance that heroic remedies be applied, and that the highest veterinary skill shall be employed to stop or minimize this great loss. Our present law is crude, expensive, and does not meet the demands of the live stock interests. Local health boards should co-operate with the State Veterinarian to prevent the spread of diseases, and that officer should have power to quarantine and condemn. The Governor should still have power, by proclamation, to quarantine the State against the importation of diseased animals.

The parole law and indeterminate sentence law, enacted two years ago, embody that which the Constitution of the State, since its organization, contemplated, that "The penal code shall be founded on the principle of reformation, and not vindictive justice." The wisdom of these laws finds ample justification in practical results, as shown by the reports of the penal institutions.

It will be your duty to provide additional accommodations for the unfortunate insane wards of the State. I would recommend additions to the present hospitals, instead of a new hospital located on a new site.

Good Roads.

Good roads are indispensable to progress and development. The highest attainments in rural life, socially, mentally or financially, cannot be attained when bad roads abound. Discontent with country life is the fruitage of the thralldom of mud roads. Two years ago I said to the General Assembly that, "while the road laws needed improving, their execution needed revolution." The same need exists to-day in an aggravated form. The law requiring the Road Supervisor to work all able-bodied men on the highways during the months of April, May and June, in many instances, is not faithfully enforced, and in some cases absolutely ignored.

The average road levy by the Township Trustee is about twenty cents on the one hundred dollars. This raises a vast revenue, which is not expended with judgment and fidelity. The railroads of the State are assessed, in round numbers, at $154,000,000. This would create a revenue of nearly $300,000. This is "farmed out" between the railroads and the Supervisor. A discount is made to the railroad, the "go-between" makes his thousands, some of the supervisors profit by the method, and the cause of good roads suffers. The farmer is allowed to work out his road tax often by a slipshod method, which, if pursued by a road contractor, would end in bankruptcy. The Supervisor should be held under bond to faithfully execute the duties of his office. He should be given power to compel every man owing service to the highways under the law to perform the same. All road tax should be paid in cash, reserving to the payer the right to work out the same, for which he should be paid in cash, provided he responds to the call of the Supervisor when given the opportunity to perform such work, and accepting the lawful price for such services.

The State has shown great liberality in the vast amount of money it has expended in the erection of a monument to her brave sons. An appropriation should be made for the completion of this work, with a specific provision that it shall be done within a stipulated time.

Primary Election Law.

The safety and perpetuity of a free government is in the keeping of the people. If corrupt men are selected to make laws, and if incompetent men are chosen to fill official positions, then evil results are certain to follow. The nomination of candidates for office should be as far removed as possible from the dominance of political leaders and ring politicians, giving to all voters an equal, free and untrammeled right to be heard in the selection of candidates. I therefore recommend the enactment of a strict primary election law.

Non-Partisan Management.

Never in the history of the benevolent institutions of the State has the management been more efficient or so free from scandal. The per capita cost of maintenance is less than ever before. The highest efficiency can only be maintained through the most competent and experienced management. Partisan control cannot assure either. Competency grows with experience. Partisan management of State institutions means a change in the government of the same with each transfer of political power in the State. If the management of these institutions is to be given as reward to politicians, then, as a logical sequence, the larger the salary the better the reward; the more places provided, the more workers rewarded. Extravagance and incompetency result, scandal follows, and the people at the polls rebuke the debasing system by defeating the party responsible for it.

Lobbyists.

The lobbyist who seeks to dominate legislation adversely to public weal is an enemy to public good. Hired lobbyists are a menace to free government. The time is rapidly approaching when the hired tools of corporate greed will be excluded from the halls of legislation. The just man that commends itself needs no scheming nor doubtful methods, to secure its enactment. Labor is the creative power of wealth. Working men from the farm, the mines and the shops cannot become lobbyists. They have not the means to this end. Business men and the common people have not the time. It becomes, therefore, the sacred duty of lawmakers to look after the interests of the people and to see to it that no inroads are made upon their rights.

Trusts.

The report of the Labor Commissioner of this State reveals that "no propositions, involving settlements of labor controversies, present as great obstacles as those in which trusts are parties to agreements. In every encounter with labor, the workingmen, however just their cause, emerge from the conflict the greater sufferers. The opportunities of trusts in regard to wage reductions are exceptional, and their desires are always equal to their opportunities. They are not trammeled by State laws, and they defy Federal authority." Not only is the trust potent in controlling wages, but in lobbying its interests in law-making bodies and in controlling the price of its products. I would urge upon this Legislature the need of a law drastic enough to prevent these conspiracies against fair competition and just wages.

For many years Indiana has been the dumping-ground for the dependent children of other States. Within a few years several thousands of these have been placed within our borders. Indiana children are certainly as desirable as those from elsewhere. We should provide for them.

State Soldiers' Home.

The report of the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Soldiers' Home has been printed and put upon your desks. I would recommend that the Legislature authorize the selling of fifty acres of ground belonging to, but not adjacent to the home. The disconnection with the Home makes the land of but little value to the same, except the small income from rent. The proceeds from such sale may be properly used in needed improvements of the grounds. The board deems this method of securing funds for needed improvements wiser than asking for an appropriation.

Common Schools.

If intelligence is a safeguard to liberty, then the State should seek to prevent illiteracy. Upon this logical reasoning is predicated the theory of compulsory education. I fear the weakness of our present law is the multiplicity of truant officers. Through the co-operation of the township trustees and the teachers, the provisions of the compulsory law can be enforced in the township and district schools. It seems to me that a broad and liberal spirit demands some change in the school management of the State. The United States Commissioner of Education does not confine educational statistics to State schools, but to private institutions as well. In many of the States the Superintendent of Public Instruction is required by law to gather all information, from whatever source, State or private schools. Such a report would reflect the true educational progress of the State. There are some serious objections to the present composition of the State Board of Education. One of these objections, founded upon justice, is that the counties have no representation on this board. It is in the township and district schools that the poorest school advantages are offered, and these have no champion or representative on the board. The three State institutions, numbering perhaps 3,000 students, have three representatives. The school enumeration of the State shows 734,945. Of this number, approximately 40 per cent. belong to city schools and have three representatives, while 60 per cent., or 435,135, belong to township and district schools, and have no representation on the State board.

Insurance Laws.

The fee and salary law of 1895 repealed the law allowing the Auditor of State 10 per cent. of all fees collected from insurance companies. During Mr. Daily's four years' incumbency of the office there has been collected, in the insurance department, $684,240.98. Under existing laws, prior to 1895, 10 per cent. of this amount, or $68,422.98, would have been a part of the Auditor's emoluments. Under laws now in force, it has only cost the State the salary of one insurance clerk, at $1,800 per year. Upon inquiry of the insurance department of Ohio, I have received a statement showing the cost to the State of the insurance commission to be $17,500 annually, and that the amount collected during the last fiscal year was $130,000. A statement, in answer to a similar inquiry directed to the Insurance Commissioner of Illinois, reveals that the cost in salaries of the insurance commission is $21,000 per year, the amount collected, being $175,323.99. In Indiana the amount collected last year, through the insurance department of the Auditor of State's office, was in excess of $208,000, at a cost to the State of only $1,800. It is clearly manifest, therefore, that Indiana does not need an insurance commission, with its multiplied expenses. I would, however, recommend that one additional clerk be furnished the insurance department of the State Auditor's office.

There was paid in premiums to foreign life insurance companies for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1898, $4,209,009.47, and there was received back to the State on policies $1,294,555.57, or a loss to the State of $2,914,453.90. Fire insurance companies should be held responsible for the actions of their agents. When an agent accepts and agrees upon a cash value of property and writes a policy based upon this value, and the insured pays premiums in good faith, then, in the event of total loss, the company should be compelled to abide by their agent's appraisement and pay the loss in full. There was paid last fiscal year in premiums to foreign fire insurance companies $3,606,842.40, and received back on losses $1,536,306.64, a net loss to the State of $2,070,535.76.

A Plea for Equity in Assessments and Taxation.

"Following a constitutional mandate, the General Assembly provided by Sec. 8410, R. S. 1894, that 'All property within the jurisdiction of this State, not expressly exempted, shall be subject to taxation.' And by Sec. 8412, R. S. 1894, the General Assembly exempted the classes of property designated in Sec. 1, Art. X., of the Constitution above. In pursuance to the constitutional and statutory authorities cited, and in the discharge of the duty imposed 'to see that all assessments of property in this State are made according to law,' and 'to see that all taxes due the State are collected,' this board in 1897 instructed the assessors of the State to list and assess at their true cash value for the purposes of taxation, all 'paid-up' life insurance policies.

"At the suit of certain holders of such insurance policies, this board, and the taxing officials of the State, were enjoined from listing and assessing such policies by the Marion Circuit Court, the action of which court was afterwards affirmed by the Supreme Court. 150 Ind. 216.

"Notwithstanding such action of the Supreme Court, aforesaid, in holding that such policies are not subject to taxation, that court unanimously held that such policies were property, that they were not expressly exempted by law from taxation, but that they were not subject to taxation for the reason that the General Assembly had made no provision or regulation for assessing or valuing such policies.

"In addition to this finding of the court, that they were property and not especially exempted, plaintiffs' counsel admitted the same facts, which, being true, clearly bring them within the intent and meaning of said Sec. 8410, R. S. 1894, above, and make them subject to taxation, but for the decision of the Supreme Court, aforesaid, which found all the facts necessary to warrant action of this board in seeking to list and assess such insurance policies, and avoided their liability to assessment, solely because the General Assembly had made no provision or regulation for assessing or valuing them.

"The same can be truly said with reference to many other articles of property found on the tax lists. It is a matter of general knowledge that vast sums of money are invested in such life insurance policies in this State, and in a large number of instances, as an investment pure and simple, and by this means large sums of money are annually diverted from other sources of investment, where they are taxed, and bear their just proportion of the burdens of government. In view of the decision of the Supreme Court that the power to tax such policies lies with the General Assembly, and that it is solely by reason of the non-action of former General Assemblies in regard to providing regulations for valuing such policies, this board respectfully calls attention to this matter and the questions involved, and recommends that such legislation be enacted as will provide methods for arriving at valuations of such insurance policies, as required by the decision of the Supreme Court aforesaid."

I desire to call the attention of the Legislature to the foregoing statement from the report of the State Tax Commissioners and to urge its careful consideration.

State Farmers' Institutes.

The farm institutes of the State, under the supervision of the faculty of Purdue University, and under the direct control of Prof. W. C. Latta, superintendent of the experimental farm at Purdue, have accomplished much good for agriculture and horticulture. The amount appropriated for this work is $5,000. I recommend that this amount be increased to at least $7,500.

County Institutions.

The scandals growing out of the deplorable conditions existing in many of the jails and poor farms of the counties of the State, call for legislation upon this question. I therefore recommend the enactment of a law authorizing the Circuit Judge to appoint for each county a non-partisan committee, to be composed of men and women, who shall visit at least once every three months all the charitable and penal institutions of the county and report to the State Board of Charities their condition; said committee to serve without compensation.

Appeals for Appropriations.

It is manifest that the appeals for appropriations for the erection of new buildings, etc., in connection with State penal, benevolent and educational institutions, will be for an unusually large amount. It is the duty of the General Assembly to give earnest attention to these requests and to scrupulously guard against anything in the nature of extravagance.

Indiana in the War.

In the course of this message proper I will not undertake to enter into a detailed recital of Indiana's part in the Spanish-American war, but, for the information of members of this assembly, and all others concerned, a review of this State's creditable participation in the stirring events of the period is submitted as an appendix. I direct attention especially to the reports of the paymaster general and the surgeon general, respectively, detailing the operations of those departments. The paymaster general corrects a popular misapprehension in stating that no deductions on clothing account were made, except in the case of officers, all of which is in strict compliance with law. Most of the uniforms furnished the Indiana national guardsmen, when they enlisted in the Federal service, were comparatively new. Some of the soldiers were furnished uniforms badly worn. The Government receipted to the quartermaster for these uniforms. Subsequently a board of survey was appointed to fix the value of these uniforms furnished by the quartermaster general of the State. Some of the volunteers desired the quartermaster to furnish this equipment without charge. This he could not do and render a proper accounting to the State.

I therefore call the attention of the Legislature to this matter, and, if it shall be shown that an injustice has been done, prompt and ample reparation should be made. The Indiana volunteers for the war with Spain have made an honorable record, and the patriotism and devotion to duty they have manifested on all occasions are deserving of the highest commendation.

JAMES A. MOUNT.

To Form New Party.

At Indianapolis, a meeting of the Populists and other reformers was held to discuss the formation of a new national party. The "fusion" wing of the Populist party believes the time has come when there should be co-operation between all reform forces—the Populists, free silver Republicans, Prohibitionists and Silver Democrats. Feb. 22 a State meeting will be held for the purpose of launching the new party under the name of the "union reform party." In March next there will be a meeting at Cincinnati to form a national union reform party.

POLITICS OF THE DAY

DAY'S BIG FEE.

Ex-Secretary of State Day and Whitelaw Reid will receive at least $100,000 each for assisting in the peace negotiations in Paris. James Bassett Moore, secretary of the peace commission, will receive $50,000 for his services in Paris. Senators Davis, Frye and Gray, under the law, cannot draw two salaries, and they will have only their expenses paid in addition to their senatorial salaries. This information was received by the politicians generally like a flood of light from a dark cabinet. It explained why Secretary Day and Assistant Secretary of State Moore resigned their permanent positions to take up duties certain to last not more than three months. There was no reason why Mr. Day, as Secretary of State, and Mr. Moore as Assistant Secretary of State, could not have acted as peace commissioners. Mr. Day had talked of resigning from the cabinet because of his poverty and the necessity he experienced of earning more than $8,000 a year. His friends conceived the idea of his temporarily stepping out of the United States service for the purpose of making a comfortable sum, after which he could easily afford to return to the Government at the slender compensation it gives its employes. The sum of $100,000 each for Messrs. Day and Reid is the minimum figure. It is payable without reference to Congress, out of the national defense fund of $50,000,000. The actual expenses of the entire commission, outside of these fees, will be a bagatelle when compared with a quarter of a million, which three distinguished gentlemen will receive. The commission will have consumed ninety-six days at the expense of the Government. The aggregate personal expenses of the five commissioners, at $25 a day each, will be $11,250. The expenses of the attaches will equal this sum, as they are all carried on their respective payrolls, and each is given $5 a day for his personal use. Had Day and Moore retained their State Department offices while serving on the peace commission, they would have been debarred, like Senators Davis, Frye and Gray, from any extra official compensation for their services. But now, owing to their financial acumen, they can take the initiative for compensation ad libitum, and Whitelaw Reid will be an incidental beneficiary of the President's generosity to his Ohio friend, and the latter's assistant. It is not the preliminary resignation of Messrs. Day and Moore with a view to coming in for handsome fees as peace commissioners that arouses the admiration of the political "grafters." It is not generally known that Mr. Brannigan, disbursing agent for the State Department, went to Paris with the commission, endowed with Monte Cristo powers to draw on the $50,000,000 fund. He is now on his way back. No one at the State Department could even estimate the sum Mr. Brannigan has expended, for, in addition to the personal expenses of the commissioners and the attaches, Mr. Brannigan paid for the official entertainment that the commissioners and attaches collectively and as individuals furnished to officialdom in Paris. It is not yet known whether the expenses of the families of the commissioners will appear as a charge against the national defense fund.

Republicans Converted to Free Trade.

When tariff reform met its Waterloo in 1896 there were not wanting keen political meteorologists who predicted that free trade would yet be enacted in America by the Republican party, as it was in England by the protectionist Tories. Events are rapidly justifying this forecast. The extension of our boundaries to take in a good part of the world, and the success of American manufacturers in competing with European manufacturers on their own ground, have disturbed the simple faith of the Republican masses in protection, and, what is more important, they have convinced many of the capitalists who make up the Republican campaign funds that there is more money to be made on a fair field than within a tariff fence. Read this extract from a faithful Republican organ, the Commercial-Advertiser, and transfer it in imagination, if you can, to the Presidential campaign of 1892:

> Time is coming when we shall copy the present navigation laws of Great Britain, as we shall copy her present tariff laws, as we are now using both tariff and navigation copied from those of the British before changed conditions caused them to be discarded for the present. British laws concerning trade were not changed from sentiment, but for practical gain. That which illumined her mediaeval darkness was enlightened self-interest. We are as keen to see this as the British, and when it shines on us in the same way we shall change our policy. We begin to see it as to the tariff and are becoming ready to discard protection as superfluous. Great Britain discarded it because the interests it helped were less important than that it hurt. It is not hurtful to us in any but the few cases where it increases cost of raw material of manufactures, since we do not import food; but it is rapidly becoming useless.

After the election of 1896 the country was jubilantly informed that the tariff question had been settled. It looks as if it had been, indeed. When the protectionist party is converted to free trade, what is left to fight for?

Work to Do at Home.

The confirmation of the man Wimberley as collector at New Orleans in payment of one of Mark Hanna's political debts incurred in Mr. McKinley's interest is another reminder that the President did not speak by the book in saying that we have "no home problems" requiring our attention. Before extending our public service to distant islands we ought to devise some plan for preventing its degradation at home. —New York World.

Menace of Trusts.

The extent to which "combinations in restraint of trade" have multiplied and grown under the fostering care of the Republican tariff may well cause alarm even for the stability of our institutions. It has come to be a serious menace to the system on which our Government rests. No people can stand the strain of a policy which enthrones combined capital as the despot of industry. This is one of the issues which the people will face in the next general election. It may be the most important issue. At the present rate of growth it will not take more than two years to bring every branch of industry under the absolute control of combinations in restraint of trade.—Boston Post.

Imperialism Expensive.

Alger wants an army that will cost the United States more each year than the average standing army of any first-class European power. This is one of the cheerful results of imperialism and of placing a narrow-minded incompetent in charge of the War Department.

There is no European power more given over to military show and expense than Germany, and yet Alger overtops Kaiser Wilhelm in the extravagance of his demands. A comparison of what Germany spent this year with what Alger would like to spend will be instructive.

For all military and naval purposes and for pensions, Germany's expenses this year are as follows:

ARMY.
Regular	$127,973,176
Extraordinary	24,077,369
NAVY.
Regular	15,687,724
Extraordinary	14,825,912
PENSIONS.
Army	14,273,338
Navy	778,258
Total	$197,615,736

That is a good round sum, and the German taxpayers groan over paying it, but let us look at the amount Alger wants.

In 1900, if Alger has his way, the people of the United States will be taxed to pay out money for military purposes as follows:

Army	$166,726,590 71
Navy	47,630,531 08
Pensions	145,233,830 00
Total	$359,590,960 79

This demonstrates the fact that Alger wants to make this nation a yearly expense nearly double that of Germany. The moral of this figurative story is apparent. Imperialism in America is expensive.—Chicago Democrat.

Ways and Means.

The Ways and Means Committee has met with pronounced success. The people regard the movement as democratic, in that it gives the people an opportunity to run their own politics. Heretofore, a few who in the end were benefited by class legislation, have put up the money to pay the expenses of party campaigns, and there is no doubt but that it resulted in politicians being placed under obligation to such class interests and the people failed to get legislation promised them. The plan of the Democratic party is to look to the people and free the party from any obligation to the privileged classes.

KANGAROO HIDES.

They Have Become Quite Popular in This Country for Shoe Leather.

Not many people have any idea how extensively kangaroo hides are utilized in this country, says a leading wholesale leather dealer. Last year there were over 400,000 such skins received in New York, and about 80 per cent. of these were tanned in one large establishment. The hides all come from Australia and New Zealand, where the kangaroos are killed some 350 miles back from the coast and shipped from Melbourne, Sidney and Newcastle, Australia, and from Masterson, in New Zealand.

Prior to 1859 kangaroos were killed and eaten in Australia and their hides were cut up and made mostly into shoestrings and belts. But an Englishman named Brown in that year made some experiments, which resulted in his discovering the remarkably tough character of the leather, and he brought several hundred hides to America as a speculation. He tried hard to sell the skins in various tanneries, but they were shy of the novelty, and he at last had to sell them at a sacrifice to a New York bookbinder. The latter merchant made triangular corner pieces for ledgers and commercial books out of the skins, and thus ascertained the good qualities of the leather. One of these books got into the hands of the proprietor of a large tannery near New York, and his attention was at once attracted by the peculiar appearance of the leather binding. He made some experiments with the skin and found that it possessed a remarkable tenaciousness and compactness of grain, which prevented it from absorbing water, while the acids in blacking met with an almost impervious substance.

A Mean Advantage.

It is told of a well-known actor, now dead, that he would never take any physic, and his medical adviser was often obliged to resort to some stratagem to impose a dose on him. There is a play in which the hero is sentenced in prison to drink a cup of poison. The actor was playing the part one night, and had given directions for the cup to be filled with port, but what was his horror when he came to drink it to find it contained a dose of salts. To throw it away was out of the question, as he had to turn the goblet upside down to show his persecutors he had drained every drop of it. He drank the medicine with the slowness of a poisoned martyr, but he never forgave his medical adviser, as was proved at his death, for he died without paying his doctor's bill.

The Three Ages of Man.

"When you're a youngster," observed the curbstone oracle, "your years drag along like the old-fashioned horse car. As you reach manhood they bump along faster, like a cable car. When you begin to get old they whiz by like a trolley car. And yet none of us, I reckon, wants to go back to his horse car days."

In character, in manners, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity.—Longfellow.

STATE LAW MAKERS.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION OPENS IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Senate and House Organize Without Friction—Republican Officers Are Chosen—Governor Mount's Message Read by Private Secretary Wilson.

The Indiana Legislature met at the State Capitol in Indianapolis on Thursday for a session of sixty-one days. Unusually large crowds attended the opening ceremonies in both houses. The first day's session was two hours long. During that time the two branches were organized without friction, and the officers nominated by the Republican caucuses the previous night were quickly elected. They were:

Speaker—Frank Littleton, Indianapolis.

Clerk of the House—Fred Kimbly, Orange County.

Assistant Clerk—C. A. Dehaven, Kokomo.

Doorkeeper—Samuel Gibson, Muncie.

Presiding Officer Senate pro tem.—Senator Newby, Henry County.

Doorkeeper—Clemmer Pelzer, Boonville.

Secretary—William Converse, Richmond.

Assistant Secretary—Frank Wayman, Newcastle.

At noon the two houses met in joint session to hear the biennial message of Gov. Mount. For the first time in the history of the State the message was not read by the Governor, but by his private secretary, Col. Wilson.

Crœsus and Solon.

In the fullness of his glory Croesus was visited by Solon, the wise man of Greece, who was taking a long vacation after his public labors in Athens. Croesus hoped to astonish Solon by his magnificence, and to make him acknowledge that no one on earth could be happier than the mighty Lydian king. But Solon would not agree to this, and insisted that every man must wait till the end of his life, and see what fortune would finally bring him, before deciding whether he could be called happy or not. The king was greatly offended, and from that time he never spoke of the stern philosopher until his own death seemed close at hand. After his defeat and capture by Cyrus the Persian, he was condemned to be burned alive, in the presence of the conqueror. Just as the sentence was about to be executed, Croesus called out the name of Solon three times; and Cyrus, wondering what he meant, had him brought forward to explain the exclamation. Croesus then described his interview with the sage, the wisdom of whose judgment was now proved by his own miserable end. Cyrus was deeply impressed by what he heard, and by the resignation of his captive. He released Croesus, and from that time protected and befriended him. The deposed sovereign of Lydia was a prominent figure at the Persian court not only as long as Cyrus lived, but during some years of the reign of Cambyses, the successor of Cyrus.

London Parishes.

No. 11 Queen Victoria street (Mansion House Chambers), in the city of London, is situated in no fewer than six parishes, arising from the curious way in which the city parishes run into one another. There are several instances of buildings standing in four or three parishes, and at least one house is half in the city and half beyond its borders. The Bank of England, Threadneedle street, is in three parishes—St. Bartholomew, St. Christopher-le-Stocks and St. Margaret. The city of London, though only one square mile in area, has sixty parishes, none of them of very great dimensions, but some of an almost inconceivably small size. The parish of St. Mary Mounthaw, for instance, which has only six houses in it, is the smallest parish in the city. This parish stands at the corner of Queen Victoria and Friday streets, and has not possessed a church since the great fire of London, in 1666, burned down the one it formerly had.

One Soldier's Death.

A simple story, yet a most touching one, is the Chicago Times-Herald's description of the last hours of Private Ben Jones of the First Illinois:

He had lain in a stupor all day. Fever had depleted his reserve force. Toward evening he opened his eyes and said to Nurse Mary:

"You say something."

"What?" she asked.

He drew his breath and answered, "You say, 'The Lord is——'"

He was too far gone to speak it all; but she understood.

She bent over him and repeated, "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will——"

"Yes," Private Jones interrupted, "the valley of the shadow."

He turned his face from her and fell asleep forever.

Expansion.

"There are some very sincere doubts," said the off-hand statesman, "about the desirability of the expansion, and the mixed population that it gives rise to."

"Yes," replied the friend, who was cornered and had to listen. "There's Aguinaldo. I understand he's very reluctant about taking in all these wild, bloodthirsty American Indians."

Children Suicides in Prussia.

In Prussia 413 school children under 15 years of age have committed suicide within the space of ten years. Three hundred and thirty-seven of them were boys and seventy-six girls.

Conditional Enjoyment.

Mrs. Hilfalutin—Did you enjoy the ball?

Mrs. Hauton—No; I couldn't find a single reporter to have him describe my gown.—Syracuse Herald.

Moved Five-Story Flats.

Four immense five-story brick flats in Harlem have been moved 105 feet to make way for a bridge, the operation requiring twenty-one days. There were 325 jackscrews under the buildings, and at each signal they were shifted three-sixteenths of an inch. The contractor received $10,000 for the work, which was entirely successful.

In a Bad Way.

"They say his conscience troubles him so he can't sleep nights."

"Nights, man? Why, he can't even sleep in church."—Detroit Journal.

Keep Coughing

We know of nothing better to tear the lining of your throat and lungs. It is better than wet feet to cause bronchitis and pneumonia. Only keep it up long enough and you will succeed in reducing your weight, losing your appetite, bringing on a slow fever and making everything exactly right for the germs of consumption.

Stop coughing and you will get well.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

cures coughs of every kind. An ordinary cough disappears in a single night. The racking coughs of bronchitis are soon completely mastered. And, if not too far along, the coughs of consumption are completely cured.

Ask your druggist for one of Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plaster.

It will aid the action of the Cherry Pectoral.

If you have any complaint whatever and desire the best medical advice you can possibly obtain, write us freely. You will receive a prompt reply that may be of great value to you. Address,
DR. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

GATES TOURS

MEXICO

JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1899

SIXTH ANNUAL TOURS BY SPECIAL TRAIN DE LUXE.

First tour leaves January 17th, Second tour leaves February 11th.

GATES TOURS OF MEXICO

Are made by special trains of Palace cars including Compartment sleepers, Ladies' Parlor and Observation Car and Dining Car serving all meals en route. If you are interested in these grand tours of thirty days through the strange, weird, and interesting

"LAND OF THE MONTEZUMAS."

Apply for books of the tours, rates covering all traveling expenses, assignments in sleeping cars, etc., etc., to R. G. Thompson, Special Representative for Mr. Gates, Wabash Ticket Office, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Wheat! Wheat! Wheat!

GO TO THE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

"Nothing but wheat as far as the eye could reach on either side—what you might call a sea of wheat"—was what a lecturer, speaking of Western Canada, said while referring to that country.

For particulars as to routes, railway fares, etc., apply to C. J. Broughton, 1223 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; M. V. McInnes, No. 1 Merrill Block, Detroit, Mich.; D. Caven, Bad Axe, Mich., or Jas. Grieve, Reed City, Mich., Agents for the Government of Canada.

In Spite of His Faults.

It is a grave error to expect too much of our friends; human nature is not ideal. Every one has something the matter with him. Love him in spite of his faults. Your best friend will do things sometimes that you cannot understand. You can write this in italics: You never will meet the exact counterpart of the creature of your imagination; you never will find, in this world, any person who will fully answer your desires—nor will you fully answer the desires of any person. Others have to put up with disagreeable traits and moods in you. You may often, consciously or unconsciously, offend; you may have annoying habits which you cannot help, or of which you are unaware, or there may be moments in which you do not feel like exerting yourself to be pleasant, or moments of surprise in which you give way to long resisted temptations—outbursts of irony or sarcasm. Bear in mind your own frailties and your own provocations, and let the recollection temper your judgment of others. Your neighbor's way of sinning may not be yours; but it is generally the case that you sin equally, though the method be different. Your virtues may not be his; but he has virtues—perhaps of a superior quality to your own. Find these, recognize them, and let his shortcomings go. As you desire charity for yourself, be charitable to others, never forgetting that perfection does not exist on earth

In Winter Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. During winter your feet feel uncomfortable, nervous, and often cold and damp. If you have perspiring, smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It warms and rests the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and is a certain cure for chilblains and frost bites. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Trial package mailed FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

Author of Sherburne Stories.

Amanda Minnie Douglas, who has endeared herself to the youth of two generations by her writings, occupies an exceptional place among American authors in that she has maintained an uninterrupted popularity for more than thirty years. Her first book, "In Trust," was published in 1867, and her last, "A Little Girl in Old Boston," a few weeks ago. In that time scarcely a year passed that she did not publish a book.

In 1893 she won a prize of $2,000 with the story of "Larry." She has lately applied herself to expanding the Sherburne Stories, at the request of her publisher, and to preparing a series of historical narratives, of which "A Little Girl in Old New York" and "A Little Girl in Old Boston" are the first. She has a charming personality, is intensely fond of children and their pursuits and pleasures, and is constantly engaged in doing something to brighten some one's life.—Saturday Evening Post.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

Fit the Case.

Seeker—I see that Shocks, the wife-beater, is to be taken before Judge Boozeman for trial to-morrow; don't seem to me that he's the proper man to try such a case.

Sageman—On the contrary, he's just the very man; there isn't a better judge of lick-her in the county.—Boston Courier.

First a Cold, Then Bronchitis. Check the first with Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar. Of Druggists Pike's Toothache Drops Cure in one Minute.

The average number of horses killed in Spanish bull fights every year exceeds 5,000, while from 1,000 to 1,200 bulls are sacrificed.

Mrs. Winslow's SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED.—Case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. Send 5 cents to Ripans Chemical Co., New York, for 10 samples and 1,000 testimonials.

Happiness is in the present; the future is the morrow which never is known.

Healthy, Happy Girls

often, from no apparent cause, become languid and despondent in the early days of their womanhood. They drag along always tired, never hungry, breathless and with a palpitating heart after slight exercise so that merely to walk up stairs is exhausting. Sometimes a short, dry cough leads to the fear that they are going into consumption.

They are anæmic, doctors tell them, which means that they have too little blood. Are you like that? Have you too little blood?

More anæmic people have been made strong, hungry, energetic men and women by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People than by any other means. They are the best tonic in the world.

Miss Lulu Stevens, of Gasport, Niagara Co., N. Y., had been a very healthy girl until about a year ago, when she grew weak and pale. She lost her appetite, was as tired in the morning as on retiring, and lost flesh until she became so emaciated that her friends hardly knew her. The doctors declared the disease anæmia, and gave her up to die. A physician who was visiting in Gasport prevailed upon her to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. She did so, and was benefited at once. She is now well and strong—the very picture of health.—Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier.

The genuine are sold only in packages, the wrapper always bearing the full name. For sale by all druggists or sent, postpaid, by the Dr Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., on receipt of price, fifty cents per box. Book of cures free on request.

"Forbid a Fool a Thing and That He Will Do."
Don't Use
SAPOLIO

HOOSIER HAPPENINGS

NEWS OF THE WEEK CONCISELY CONDENSED.

What Our Neighbors are Doing—Matters of General and Local Interest—Marriages and Deaths—Accidents and Crimes—Personal Pointers About Indianians.

Minor State Items.

Five hundred cases of grip in Richmond and but one death.

South Bend is discussing the wisdom of asking for a special charter.

Lewis Hinkle, aged 85 years, resident of Greensburg for forty years, is dead.

Rev. J. A. Moorman of Farmland, once a member of the Legislature, is dead.

George P. Kidd will begin a new opera house for Princeton in February, to cost $50,000.

A well drilled at Hagerstown for gas is producing both gas and oil in paying quantities.

Grant County Courthouse offices will hereafter keep open at noon to accommodate farmers.

Six young Canaanites were fined $35 and costs each for unlawfully resisting an officer at Madison.

C. P. Bennett, formerly of the Weddell House, Cleveland, Ohio, has assumed active management of the Hotel Grand, in Indianapolis.

Senator Lambert of Columbus, is preparing a bill to be introduced in the Legislature to permit seining of fish except in the spawning season.

Joseph Fluegel, the soldier who came to his home in Madison a month ago after thirty-two years' wandering, died recently. He was born in Cincinnati in 1842.

John B. Diegman is in jail at Washington, charged with defrauding the Coal Miners' Union at Montgomery out of $41.50. Diegman was Secretary of the union.

The 2-year-old son of Samuel Robinson of Shelbyville, got possession of a bottle of strong ammonia, drinking a quantity of it, from the effect of which he will die.

Joseph Kisner, aged 45 years, a carpenter of Noblesville, shot himself with suicidal intent, and will die. He has a large family. Despondency was the supposed cause.

At Evansville Edward Lourker's wife presented him with triplets, their aggregate weight being 24 pounds. A year ago her present was twins. Lourker is a foreman in a furniture factory.

Joseph Gilmore, a prominent farmer near Muncie, while racing his horse with a friend's, was thrown and trampled beneath the horses' feet. Before he was rescued an ear had been torn off and he was internally injured.

At Anderson, Berg Heinrich, celebrating New Years with a small brass cannon, lost both eyes by the gun bursting. One eye was knocked out and severed entirely and the other cannot be saved. He was seriously injured internally.

Gov. Mount has received a check from the Treasury Department calling for $107,102 55, part payment by the Government of funds advanced by the State on account of the Spanish war. The check will be cashed and turned over to the general fund.

Joseph Smith, a horse trader, voluntarily surrendered to the police of Indianapolis, saying he was wanted in Woodford County, Illinois, for the murder of John H. King on the 22d of last June. He stabbed King in the knee, gangrene developed and death resulted.

In the Circuit Court at Brazil Lewis Lambert, a prominent farmer, was found guilty of attempting to blackmail Richard Compton, a wealthy farmer. He accused Compton of being criminally intimate with his (Lambert's) wife, and threatened exposure unless he was given $500. Sentence has not yet been passed on him.

State Senator G. S. Goar of Hamilton County, is now engaged in the preparation of a bill bearing on marriages. The bill provides for the appointment by the court in each county of a board of three physicians, whose duty shall be to examine each person applying for a marriage license, and that the clerk shall grant the license only on a written recommendation from the board.

Samuel Musser, the oldest man in Morgan County, was found dead in bed at the home of his son, J. W. Musser, near Exchange, recently. He would have been 104 years of age had he lived until April 14. He was born in Virginia, and moved to Green Township, Morgan County, where he died, sixty years ago. Until the last few months he was able to walk to Waverly, five miles from his home, to attend church.

The Attorney General, by direction of the Governor, went to Scottsburg to attend the Coroner's inquiry into the lynching of Tyler as a preliminary step toward evoking the power of the State in punishing the lynchers. It is whispered at the State capital that more will come out of this lynching bee than was developed in the Ripley County affair, as Tyler has many friends in Scott County who would like to see his death avenged.

Mrs. Catherine Vannest, aged 86 years, died in Rice County, Kansas, recently, and the remains were brought to Clinton for burial. She was the widow of the late Samuel Vannest, who was the oldest child of the first white family that ever crossed the Wabash River into Vermillion County. Deceased was the daughter of the first white woman that crossed the Wabash north of Fort Harrison, her parents having moved to Ohio when she was two years old.

Miss Martha Skinner, night operator at the Central Union Telephone office in Anderson, resigned her position recently, and will marry James Gordon, a business man of Arcanum, Ohio. This is the culmination of an unusual incident. Some time ago Gordon called an Anderson firm, and while he was waiting for the connection to be made he entered into a conversation with the operator. This led to other interviews, and the "courting" period was passed thus and matrimonial overtures were made over the telephone.

The State Board of Health has come across a genuine case of a horse afflicted with diphtheria, the only case known on record. W. D. Steward of Whitestown, had a horse strangely afflicted and the veterinary diagnosed the ailment as diphtheria. Tests demonstrated that the diagnosis was correct.

W. A. Jackson, for years one of the best-known traveling salesmen in the country, committed suicide by hanging himself in his barn in Goshen. He leaves a wife and two children. Temporary insanity resulting from an illness from which he expected never to recover is supposed to have led to the act.

In the Superior Court at Kokomo Mrs. Blanche Shrader got judgment for $500 against her former husband, William Shrader, for kicking her out of bed. The defendant is a son of Fred Shrader, a prominent manufacturer. The woman, who previously obtained a divorce, claimed that the defendant kicked her out of bed every night.

It is announced that a large meeting of representatives of railroad organizations will be held in Indianapolis January 8. Among those who will attend are P. M. Arthur, of the Engineers, and Frank Sargent, of the Brotherhood of Firemen. The purpose of the meeting, it is understood, is to influence legislation against a 2-cent fare in Indiana.

Out of the Fire.

The newspapers of the large cities record, almost daily, some terrible conflagration. Often they record, also, the heroism of the firemen in their efforts to save the life and property. Harper's Round Table gives a graphic description of a fire in New York.

A great tenement-house was burning like tinderwood in one of the poorest quarters of the metropolis. The stairs had gone up in smoke before everybody had left the building, and even the fire-escape down the outside of the building was cut off by the flames.

A girl of 14 or 15 was frantically shrieking for help in one of the top windows, and a mother was wringing her hands in pitiful despair down in the street. The chief called for volunteers to save the girl, and three men came forward on the instant, without hesitation and without waiting to count their chances of success. This is the custom in such cases, for no one would take the responsibility of ordering a fireman to his probable death.

A strong young fellow, who had yet to win his spurs, was selected for the task, and he disappeared quickly through the doorway of the adjoining building. When next the crowd saw him he appeared at the window just under the roof, and grasping the tin cornice of the burning building next to him, he swung out into the air, and made his way, hand over hand, for thirty feet through the dense smoke that rose in black clouds from the lower windows to the sill where the girl had been seen.

She had fallen back into the room unconscious, and was overcome with smoke by the time he reached her. A thousand anxious faces in the street below were tortured with fear for the hero. A hundred muttered prayers went up for his safety as the fireman disappeared into the black cloud, and a thousand throats sent up a lusty shout of relief as he appeared again at the window a moment later with the limp form of the girl in his arms.

Dangerous Stations.

Common and perfectly equal as the danger in which all hands on board a modern man-of-war unquestionably stand during a fight, there are, of course, some stations that appear to be more dangerous for the men assigned to them than others. For example, there is probably not a sea soldier in the United States marine corps to-day who is not figuring on the insignificant show he will probably have for his life if, in the event of his ship's getting into action, he is detailed, with a picked few of his mates, to man the rapid-firing guns in the fighting-tops. At first glance the fighting-top of a modern ship of war appears to be quite the most dangerous spot on the ship, fore or aft, in case of action, because of its prominence.

There has never been any good opportunity to test this, for fighting-tops (rightly called military masts) are of comparatively recent development, and during the Chino-Japanese naval engagments no systematic attempt seems to have been made, on either side, to raze the fighting-tops to the decks, or into the sea. The proportion of the killed and wounded in the fighting-tops during those engagements was considerably less than on deck. In a sea fight between expert manipulators of ships, however, there can be no doubt that the vessels will go each at the other's military masts with enthusiasm at the very outset, for the purpose of silencing the deadly play of the rapid-firing guns, which are capable of making terrific havoc on an enemy's decks.

Spread of the English Tongue.

While there are 125,000,000 people at the present time whose everyday language is English, there are only 90,000,000 who speak Russian, 75,000,000 who speak German, 55,000,000 who speak French, 45,000,000 who speak Spanish and 35,000,000 who speak Italian. This marvelous growth of the English tongue is directly due to the rapid development of the United States, aided, of course, by the Anglo-Saxon's natural colonizing spirit. In this country there are less than 80,000,000 people, and greatly less than that number in the whole of the United Kingdom. This estimate indicates the spread of the language into all parts of the world.—St. Louis Republic.

English "Guinea Pigs."

The troubles of the English nobility did not stop with the Hooley exposures. The London Critic has gone on to compile a choice list of sixty-nine noblemen who are directors of 190 companies, with a capital of over $320,000,000, the greater number of which have never yielded a penny of dividend. Fortunately for the conservation of the peerage, however, the titled director continues to draw handsome fees, and it is calculated that one noble lord who is director in fourteen companies received more for the use of his name than the shareholders received for the use of $15,000,000.

The Sewing Machine He Wanted.

A young bachelor, who was beset by a sewing machine agent, told the latter that his machine would not answer the purpose. "Why," said the agent, with voluble praise, "it's the best on the market in every respect." "That may be," replied the supposed customer, "but the sewing machine I am looking for must have flaxen hair and blue eyes."

Truthfulness.

"A woman has to have some confidence in her husband," remarked Mrs. Meekton.

"I don't quite see why," replied the wife in a rather hard tone.

"Because she can't help herself. Now, when I went to the polls to deposit my ballot you had to rely on my honor to make me vote the way you told me to, Henrietta, you know you did."—Washington Star.

Stated with Precision.

"I suppose," said the admiring friend, "that you gave a great deal of thought to that big case you just won?"

"No," answered the lawyer, "I never gave a bit of thought to it. But," he added, reflectively, "I sold a lot."—Washington Star.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Sued Himself.

A Washington attorney is rather noted for the facility with which he forgets financial obligations, says the Star. He has owed a certain grocer $8 for a year or two. The other day the merchant concluded to try a new course with him. Meeting him in his store, he said:

"Judge, I have a customer who owes me a small bill and has owed it for a long time. He makes plenty of money, but won't pay. What would you do?"

"I'd sue him," said the lawyer emphatically.

"Well, I will put the account in your hands," and the merchant presented a statement of the account against himself.

"All right; I will attend to it," said the disciple of Blackstone.

A few days later the merchant received the following note from the lawyer:

"In case of ———, against ———, I took judgment for full amount of your claim. Execution was issued and returned 'no property found.' My fee for obtaining judgment is $10, for which amount please send check. Will be glad to serve you in any other matters in which you need an attorney."

Suly in North Greenland.

The fierce July sun, though but a little past the northern meridian, beat down upon me with oppressive warmth. Before me the warm, red-brown landscape wavered and trembled in the yellow light; behind me towered the blinding white slope of the ice. Beneath my feet the stones were bare even of lichens, and had a dry, gray look, as if they were the bones of a dead world. Yet I felt that with so much warmth and richness of coloring, there must be life, and, sure enough, hardly had I gone a hundred yards from the edge of the ice when a beautiful little black and white songster fluttered up from behind a rock, hovering singing almost within reach above my head, and then settled upon a bleak stone but a few feet distant to finish his merry song.

As I went on, numbers of these snow buntings flitted about me, and, hardly had I gone a mile before my heart beat quicker at the sight of traces of musk oxen. As I got further away from the ice and in the lee of the gigantic moraines and tumuli of glacial debris, flowers began to appear, purple and white and yellow, among them my ever-present brilliant yellow friend, the arctic poppy.

True Friendship.

Author—When you come to my new book I hope you will not be too severe on me.

Critic—I read it last week and my criticism was certainly not detrimental.

Author—Why, I didn't see any notice of it in your columns.

Critic—Of course not. We have always been friends and for that reason I refrained from printing my candid opinion of it.

A Double Crop of Apples.

On a Long Island farm is an apple tree which bore two crops of fruit the past year, and the farmers are taking unusual interest in this peculiarity of nature. Just as much interest is being shown in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which cures dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation and blood disorders when other remedies fail to benefit.

At a dinner party the coachman had come in to help to wait at table. Among the guests was a very deaf old lady. Coachman, in handing vegetables, comes to the deaf party. "Peas, mum?" says Jehu. No answer. "Peas, mum?" (louder). Still no answer from the D. P., but, placing her ear trumpet to her ear, lifts it interrogatively to the man, who, glancing down and seeing the tube, ejaculates: "Well, it's a rum way of taking them, but I suppose she likes it. Here goes!" And down went the peas into the ear trumpet.—Tit-Bits.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c. and 25c.

It is said that the full name of the Sultan of Ternati, who received the Order of the Lion of Nasran at Queen Wilhelmina's coronation, is Tadjul Mahsul Bindjatillahillhanan Siradjul Mulki Amiraddin Iskander Munauurnssadik Wahnwaminaladilin Sjah Patra Ajanhar Rasidhinktank Sudibja.

Coughs Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Sold in 25 and 50 cent bottles. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

A Pretty Safe Conclusion.

"Why do you think she is of vulgar origin?"

"Because she is always talking about her family 'belonging to the haut ton.'"

I believe Piso's Cure is the only medicine that will cure consumption.—Anna M. Ross, Williamsport, Pa., Nov. 12, '95.

Admiral Schley is one of thirteen children and has two uncles each the father of others 13. He is no believer in unlucky numbers.

Pains and Aches

Of Rheumatism Make Countless Thousands Suffer.

But this disease is cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, which neutralizes the acid in the blood. If you have any symptoms of rheumatism take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once and do not waste time and money on unknown preparations. The merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla is unquestioned and its record of cures unequalled.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine for Rheumatism.

Hood's Pills cure all Liver Ills. 25 cents.

BIG G. Trade Mark. CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. $1.00

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

PENSIONS Get Your Pension DOUBLE QUICK! Write Capt. O'FARRELL, Pension Agent, Washington, D.C.

NERVOUS DEPRESSION.

[A TALK WITH MRS. PINKHAM.]

A woman with the blues is a very uncomfortable person. She is illogical, unhappy and frequently hysterical.

The condition of the mind known as "the blues," nearly always, with women, results from diseased organs of generation.

It is a source of wonder that in this age of advanced medical science, any person should still believe that mere force of will and determination will overcome depressed spirits and nervousness in women. These troubles are indications of disease.

Every woman who doesn't understand her condition should write to Lynn, Mass., to Mrs. Pinkham for her advice. Her advice is thorough common sense, and is the counsel of a learned woman of great experience. Read the story of Mrs. F. S. BENNETT, Westphalia, Kansas, as told in the following letter:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have suffered for over two years with falling, enlargement and ulceration of the womb, and this spring, being in such a weakened condition, caused me to flow for nearly six months. Some time ago, urged by friends, I wrote to you for advice. After using the treatment which you advised for a short time, that terrible flow stopped.

"I am now gaining strength and flesh, and have better health than I have had for the past ten years. I wish to say to all distressed, suffering women, do not suffer longer, when there is one so kind and willing to aid you."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a woman's remedy for woman's ills. More than a million women have been benefited by it.

Eighteenth Century Saws.

Let me present you with a few eighteenth century saws. They may be older, but in that century I found them:

Fair hair is the prison of Cupid.

Women with blue lips are scolds.

When man lost free will, woman found it.

"My dear," said the girl to her lover, "I wish thee everything except a good understanding." "But why?" "Because then you would no longer love me."

For the complexion, eat bread and butter spread with powder of eyebright.

Lisping people are good-natured.

A cherry year a merry year.

A plum year a dumb year.

The cries of wild duck portend rain.

Keep till next Easter for luck and for fun.

It is bad luck to kill a swallow.

Break an eggshell to prevent witchcraft.

April the first is All Fools' day because Noah shut out the dove on that day.

To "talk like an apothecary" is to talk unintelligibly.—London Queen.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it, like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

Not a Freak of Lightning.

Smith—I was reading in the paper this morning about a Texas man who was struck by lightning while he was swearing. Remarkable occurrence, wasn't it?

Brown—Oh, I don't know. If lightning was to strike a Texas man when he wasn't wearing it would be much more remarkable.—Chicago Daily News.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

Why He Wasn't There.

The Rev. Dr. Fourthly—Mr. Wrappemeup, I didn't see you at church yesterday morning.

Grocer—No, doctor. So many of your congregation came to get supplies for their Sunday dinner that I couldn't get away in time.—Chicago Tribune.

STATE OF OHIO, CITY OF TOLEDO, } ss.
LUCAS COUNTY.

FRANK J. CHENEY makes oath that he is the senior partner of the firm of F. J. CHENEY & Co., doing business in the City of Toledo, County and State aforesaid, and that said firm will pay the sum of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for each and every case of Catarrh that cannot be cured by the use of HALL'S CATARRH CURE.
FRANK J. CHENEY.

Sworn to before me and subscribed in my presence, this 6th day of December, A. D. 1886.
{SEAL} A. W. GLEASON, Notary Public.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. Send for testimonials, free.
F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O.
Sold by Druggists, 75 cents.

At the Concert.

"I wonder why they have two pianos on the stage?"

"So that if the celebrated virtuoso should smash one all to pieces in playing that fantasie at which he is said to be so fine he will have the other to fall back on without stopping the performance."

Meekison of Ohio

Has Been Greatly Benefited by Pe-ru-na.

Congressman D. Meekison of Ohio, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

DEAR SIR:—I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and feel greatly benefited thereby. I have been afflicted

Hon. D. MEEKISON.

with catarrh of the head and feel encouraged to believe that continued use of Pe-ru-na will fully eradicate a disease of thirty years' standing.

Yours sincerely,
D. MEEKISON.

The continued receipt of endorsements like this for Dr. Hartman's great catarrh remedy, prove its value beyond question. Men of prominence everywhere are recognizing the merit of Pe-ru-na and are willing to give expression to their judgment because a certain, absolute cure for catarrh is a public good. All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

The Success of the Season.

The Ledger Monthly

A $1.00 MAGAZINE FOR 50 CENTS.

A Richly Illustrated and Beautiful Periodical, Covering the Whole Field of Popular Reading.

THE LEDGER MONTHLY is the marvel of the age for beauty and low price. With its Artistic Lithographic Colored Covers, Superb Pictorial Illustrations, Serial and Short Stories by Leading Writers of the World, and Special Departments of Decorative Art, Embroidery, Home Employment for Women, and, in fact, every Department of home improvement which adds to the economy and charm of home life, be it indoors or outdoors, THE LEDGER MONTHLY is beyond question, and, according to

COMMENTS OF THE PRESS OF THE WHOLE UNITED STATES,

the most wonderful production for its price. Simply to see a copy of THE LEDGER MONTHLY is to be firmly convinced that no such costly periodical has ever been offered to the public for so little money. Your sample copy will prove this to you.

Your Postmaster will show you a sample copy of THE LEDGER MONTHLY and also take your subscription for THE LEDGER MONTHLY for a whole year for only 50 cents.

Don't fail to ask your Postmaster to let you look at a sample copy, and you will be sure to give him your 50 cents for a year's subscription to THE LEDGER MONTHLY, the Great Family Magazine.

ROBERT BONNER'S SONS, Publishers,
156 Ledger Building, New York City.

25 Years of Cure,

Covering Tens of Thousands Cured, Millions of Bottles Sold.

St. Jacobs Oil continues its great beneficent work in the cure of

RHEUMATISM, NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, LUMBAGO, SPRAINS, BRUISES, SORENESS, STIFFNESS

And will always be

The Great Remedy for Pain.

Tell Your Printer to Use

Eagle Linen

WATERMARK.

When You Order

Letter Heads and Envelopes.

If you once use it you will have nothing else.
Be sure it has the Watermark as shown above.

25 CTS. PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

PATENT secured or money all returned. Search free. Callamer & Co., 3 F St. Washington, D.C.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

Tested and Tried

For 25 Years

Would you feel perfectly safe to put all your money in a new bank? One you have just heard of?

But how about an old bank? One that has done business for over a quarter of a century? One that has always kept its promises? One that never failed; never misled you in any way?

You could trust such a bank, couldn't you?

SCOTT'S EMULSION

of COD-LIVER OIL WITH HYPOPHOSPHITES is just like such a bank. It has never disappointed you, never will. It has never deceived you, never will.

Look out that someone does not try to make you invest your health in a new tonic, some new medicine you know nothing of.

50c. and $1.00; all druggists.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

ST. PAUL NOT A SAILOR.

A reviewer of "Phases of My life," in LITERATURE, published by HARPER & BROTHERS, quotes the following story of a seaman at school: "From time to time I met at dinner a great friend of Lord Gage's, Admiral Boyle. Invariably when we met, this admiral of the old school, who, among other things, hated ironclads, would come to me and say: 'Do you, sir, read the account of St. Paul's shipwreck?' 'Yes, it is the appointed lesson.' 'Well, all I can say, as an old sailor, is that if any captain in her Majesty's service handled his vessel as the captain of that ship did, he would have been court martialed next day and dismissed the service."

Honor to Auburn Boys.

A letter from Hon. C. M. Brown, refers to the action of the democratic members of the legislature at the regular preliminary caucus. It is at this meeting that nominations are made for the various places that are to be filled for the sessions, such as doorkeepers, clerks, secretaries and postmasters. He secured the nomination of Milo Husselman for principal clerk of the House of Representatives, but as the House is strongly republican, the result is merely a complimentary one. Should the next house, however, be democratic, it might pan out a good thing for Milo. He would make a much better official than some men we have seen in the place. Senator Nusbaum got a similar nomination for Harry D. Stone, of Albion, for assistant clerk of the Senate. And both received the vote of the democratic members, when the election took place.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Better Look Out.

—An exchange says that a divorce although it is entered on the docket as having been granted, is really not granted until all costs of the case are paid up. We remember at different times, in the past eighteen years since we have conducted the Courier, that a number of cases of divorce that we published notices for never paid the printer's fees, and we suppose cheated the clerk and others in the same way. If the law is as our exchange states it, then these people are not divorced, and nearly all of them married again, they have been guilty of bigamy and are subject to heavy punishment. If this item should catch the eye of ten or fifteen couples we know of, they will do well to look a little out. or, what is better, come up to the Courier office and pay the little bill they forgot in their haste to get new partners.

Flogged by Order of Court.

—Minor Garrett, Ed. Garner, Elijah Scott, Frank Curl and William Morris, boys ranging in age from ten to thirteen years, were given a public whipping in Police Court at Evansville for stealing some old wash boilers. Their parents were given the option by Judge Winifrey of whipping the boys or having them sent to the Reform School. The boys were led to the hall by the turnkey and given twenty-five lashes each. Their yells could be heard for two blocks away. One of the boys was so weak after the flogging that he could hardly walk from the police station.

Hickey the Gunner.

We have been shown a copy of Dr. Fork's Medical Journal, that contains a most mirth provoking picture of Jim Hickey, the gunner on the Olympia, who fired the shot that blew up the Spanish warship, Reina Christina at Manila. He is evidently tickled to pieces over that shot, and is laughing with all his might. He is a fat man, and his three chins are each joining in producing this laughable picture. It is said to be a correct one, and if so, is likely to become historical. It can be seen at Cook Ford's feed store, and will well pay a trip to see it, for the laugh it affords.

Washington Letter.

(From Our Regular Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, JAN. 2, '99.

—Mr. McKinley is so anxious for the Senate to promptly ratify the treaty the treaty of peace that he took occasion to broach the subject to a number of Senators who shook hands with him at the New Year reception, at the White House, to day. It is the antics of Aguinaldo, believed to have both Spanish and German inspiration, which are causing Mr. McKinley anxiety. He told the Senators that his hands were tied, outside of the territory already occupied by our troops, until the treaty was ratified. Democratic opposition to the treaty itself has almost entirely disappeared, but democratic opposition to our keeping the Philippines permanently appears to be increasing. Present indications are that whatever delay there may be in reaching a vote on the treaty, which will go to the Senate this week, will come from republican Senators, such as Hoar, Hale and Perkins. Nearly all the democrats say that the treaty should be promptly ratified because it does dot commit this country to keep the Philippines, and delay may result in serious trouble.

Colonel Denby, one of the democratic members of the War Investigating Commission, dropped a hint that indicates a surprise for somebody when the report of the commission is made which will be inside of four weeks, he thinks. He said: "When they make the report I think that all fair minded people will admit that they have performed their work conscientiously and that it is not so much of a whitewash commission as many persons have imagined."

The magnates of she beef trust have been trying to scare Gen. Miles ever since he told the investigating commission that the "embalmed" beef sent to Cuba and Porto Rico was utterly unfit for use and expressed the opinion, backed up by that of physicians, that the enforced eating of it had been responsible for much of the sickness, but they have not succeeded, and are not likely to. As a feeler, they threaten to sue Gen. Miles for heavy damages, but the threat was quickly dropped when Gen Miles said that a court of law was precisely where he would like to get the men who sold the "embalmed" beef to the War Department. Swift & Co, and Armour & Co., members of the beef trust, have sent long communications to the commission, telling how good the beef was that was condemed by Gen. Miles and other officers, and an ex-sergeant of volunteers, now in the employ of the commission, has overdone the thing by testifying that the beef sent to Cuba and eaten by his regiment was better than most of the men have had since they were mustered out. This same witness was made to admit that a lot of beef issed to his regiment was condemned by physicians, but tried to qualify the admission by saying that he didn't see anything the matter with the beef. A board of survey, composed of army officers, has been appointed to investigate the beef, both canned and refrigerated, furnished the army.

Senator Mason, of Illinois, is the latest republican Senator to declare against expansion. He said: "I am not an expansionist, but I think the treaty will be ratified at this session, the ratification of the treaty, however, will not commit this country to the expansion idea. The retention or disposition of the Philippines and other matters relating to expansion will have to be settled latter on. The subject is too big to be passed upon hastily. I admit that popular sentiment seems to be in favor of the expansion idea at present, but later I look for a change. The people apparently do not comprehend just what expansion means."

The announcement from New York that Mr. Croker had selected Representative Sulzer as a candidate for Speaker of the next House, and consequently the leader of the democrats in that body, was not received any too pleasantly by democrats in Washington. There is no personal objection to Mr. Sulzer, who is extremely well liked, considering the short time he has been in Congress, but resentment is expressed towards Mr. Croker for trying to meddle with this matter. There has been more or less talk among democrats about this or that man being selected to fill that place in the next Congress that Representative Bailey, of Texas, does in the present House, but, according to Mr. Bailey's friends, he will be the man. Representative Swanson, of Virginia, said: "Friends of Mr. Bailey have made a most careful and conservative canvass of the of the democrats elected to the next House. He has pledges and assurances from more than ninety and when the time comes will get more than 100 votes. Outside of about twenty five men he is the second choice of all those who will vote for other candidates on account of local considerations."

Pressure upon the administration was strong enough to cause the cabinet to instruct Secretary Hay to squelch the Pacific Cable Company, by announcing his right to disapprove the concession for a cable monopoly obtained by this company from the late Government of Hawaii, inside of six months from date of concession. The six months expired to-day. This is the company that wanted this Government to grant it a subsidy of $100,000 a year for twenty years—enough to build the cable—for the free use of the cable from California to Hawaii.

List of Patents

Granted to Indiana Inventors this week. Reported by C. A. Snow & Co. Patent Attorneys, Washington, D. C.—W. M. Baker, Fortville, Harrow. A. Bixby, Evansville, Thrill-couping. W. F. Bockhoff, Indianapolis, Cash-register. J. C. Gooding, Covington, Machine for grooving or threading speed sheet metal pipe-sections. G. J. Lœper, Indianapolis, Automatic highspeed governor. A. Luke, Elkhart, Belt placer and tightener: M. A. Martindale, Elkhart, Land-roller. C. Mittendorff, Broad Ripple, Washing-machine. E. M. Richardson, Huntington, Combined square and curve for cutting garments. H. Stewart, Fort Wayne, Window-cleaner. H. C. Williamson, Michigan City, Dumping-car. For copy of any of the above patents, send 10c in postage stamps with date of this paper to C. A. Snow & Co., Washington. D. C.

When Your Heart Flutters.

That is not heart disease. That is no terrible heart failure, that is Indigestion, the prime cause of all short breath and sudden jumping of the heart which so frequently follows an exertion of any kind. Go to the Drug Store. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No more need be said; for after you use it once, you will never fail to keep it in the house. Davenport the Druggist.

German-Speaking Negroes

(Laporte Republican)

There is a German negro colony in Pennsylvania who speak nothing but German. The place is in Lebanon county, and the negroes went there twenty, thirty and forty years ago and settled among the quiet Pennsylvania German farmers of the Blue mountain districts. The colored children grew up on the farms, where they worked and heard nothing but German spoken. They soon forgot nearly all the English they knew, and now they rarely speak anything but German. Their children go to English country schools in winter, but as quickly as they are out of sight of their teachers they begin to talk German dialect, and nothing else.

They Are Pioneers

John P. Widney and wife of Lakeside are here and will remain till spring any way, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Lewis. Their son Morris, and another daughter, Mrs. Lodewick also live here. They are getting along in years being among the first settlers "down on the river." It is related of Mr. Widney, that when they were coming up the river in their boats, the one he was in, was upset, and in helping to save passengers and cargo. he carried to the shore a little girl, who later, after the death of his then wife, became his second wife, the present Mrs. Widney with whom he is now traveling down the decline of life.

The Printing Bids.

Our county exchanges and some of our people are inquiring for the particulars of these bids. Until our attention was called to it, we were under the impression we had published it, but find we have not. The bids on the last letting were;

Dispatch	$997
Indianapolis Sentinel	982 50
W. B. Burford	973 50
Wilson, Humphreys & Co	950

The last named firm got it. At an early date, we shall take occasion to comment on this matter more fully.

Wanted to get Even.

Friends of a murdered man took a short cut to get even with the murderer, when an infernal machine exploded in Kansas City Tuesday in the station of the Memphis & Birmingham road. The machine was shipped to Jesse Swain, who is under indictment for killing a man, several months ago. Swain and four friends gathered around the box and opened it. There was an explosion, and the five men were hurled in all directions, and the depot was partially wrecked. There is no trace of the sender of the machine.

Gov. MacCorkle's Endorsement.

Hon. W. A. MacCorkle, Ex-Gov. of West Virginia, adds his name to the long list of Statesmen benefited by Pe-ru-na—He heartily recommends Pe-ru-na as a catarrh remedy and tonic.

HON. W. A. MACCORKLE,
Ex-Gov. of West Virginia.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 9, 1898.
Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

GENTLEMEN:—Your Pe-ru-na, as a tonic, is certainly unexcelled, and in a number of cases that have come under my observation where it has been used for catarrh, or any disease which has its origin in that malady, it has been of great benefit. Pe-ru-na has my hearty recommendation, both as a tonic and catarrh remedy.

W. A. MACCORKLE

Pe-ru-na is a permanent and scientific cure for catarrh. It is purely vegetable and works in harmony with nature. All druggists sell it.

Thursday's Daily.

—'Squire John Clark of Smithfield was here today on business.

—John Ashley returned to his home at New Haven this morning.

—Laporte fair is probably closed for good. They find it don't pay.

—Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

—F. A. Shull has gone to Hamilton where he has located in the restaurant business that he bought there a short time ago.

—Don't get scared when your heart tronbles you. Most likely you suffer from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It will cure every form of Dyspepsia. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Surveyer Krontz was out in Jackson township this forenoon to survey the Cool ditch. It was a pretty rough drive. He brought home an abundance of mud but left his tripod to Jackson township as an offset.

—The celebrated Featherbone factory at Three Oaks, Mich. may leave and locate at some other place. Warren, the owner and inventor, says he will move if a saloon is started there. Three Oaks would not be much if this factory were removed.

—The case of Kelley of Ashley against the Wabash road, a few years age in which he got $6,500 damages, went to the supreme court. It has just been confirmed and he will get his money and be able to give his attorney a good divide.

—A letter from Mrs. Cool at Peru, brings word that her mother, Mrs Ellen Stang is dead. She died Tuesday, and was buried this afternoon at 2:30, the services being at the house. Her death was caused by a severe case of pneumonia.

—A farmer's family in Wells county was recently poisoned by eating cakes made of buckwheat among which Jimson weed had grown. It is supposed the leaves had got mixed with the the buckwheat and ground up with it. They were pretty sick for a day or two, but none died.

—Geo. Henderson came home night before last from Chicago where he has been for the past month. He has been the most of the time on the Lake Shore limited train as typewriter. It appears that on these fast trains they have about everything one would find in a modern hotel including even the typewriter.

—The cutest advertising calendar we have seen is the little "paster" sent out by the Eckhart Carriage Company. It is a small affair, so small that it can be pasted in the hat for which purpose it is especially made. So you will never be at a loss for a calendar. Culbertson & Boland who are local agents for the Eckhart Company, have them.

—La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Sheperd, Publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "None will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for La Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Philip D. Ginder and his nephew Hiram Ginder were here callers today. They were to give bond as peace officers of Wilmington. The former is justice of the peace, his term beginning at once. He will have his office at home. Hiram Ginder is the constable of the same balliwick. We predict they will make good officers. 'Squire Ginder called to pay the subscription of Mrs. A. McDannels, who is his wife's mother. She has now joined the list of the 1900 class.

You tire easy?
Your heart flip flops, you tremble.
and think you are getting old,
and fear someone will know it.
You pretend you aren't tired.
You try to look pleasant, when in fact.
you are puffing like a steam engine;
and can't throw a brick across a cow path,
Without wheezing like a shingle-mill.
But you bet you are not getting old,
You are all right,
but you don't know it.
You have indigestion.
You have let it run too long.
You can cure it by using
Dr, Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
It's a sure shot, at 10c, 50c. or $1. bottle.
Get it of Davenport the Druggist.

FORT WAYNE AND JACKSON RAILROAD COMPANY.

The Annual meeting of the stockholders of The Fort Wayne and Jackson Railroad Company for the election of Directors and the consideration of such other business as may be brought before the meeting, will be held on the 25th day of January, 1899, 10 a. m, at the office of the Company, Jackson Michigan.

The transfer books will be closed from January 12th until January 26th, both inclusive,

EDWIN S. MARSTON, Sec'y.

Dreadful CROUP

Mothers, when your children are attacked by the dreadful croup, you need not despair; Dr. John W. Bull's Cough Syrup will relieve and cure this disease at once. You can always depend on this marvelous remedy; it never fails to cure. For whooping-cough and measle-cough it is the best remedy in the land. Children like it.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Will cure Croup without fail.
Doses are small and pleasant to take. Doctors recommend it. Price 25 cts. At all druggists.

Friday's Daily.

—Ex-Recorder Williams and his stepson Marion Ernest were here today.

—J. M. Hook is here from Logansport to attend to a case he has in court.

—Milo J. Thomas and L. A. Hartman of Corunna were here today on some matters at court.

—Mrs. Smith, Mrs. John Hablawetz and Mrs. Ginder of Butler are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Buckley.

Indiana soldiers at Havana are having a good deal of sickness, including some cases of measles and small pox, in the 161st.

—Misses Phebe and Agnes Fretz, daughters of John Fretz at Waterloo, were in town yesterday and to day, returning at noon.

Mr. Morehead, of this place, was for some time a newspaper man. He used to publish the American Federation Advocate at Morea, Illinois.

Madison county commissioners are suing Recorder Harmon, to test the fee and salary law. Harmon refused to file a schedule showing fees received.

Since Boston has learned that the Filipinos like beans they are sure they can be made to appreciate Browning, and, therefore, consent to annexation.

HEN KEEPERS will find it to their advantage to read the advertisement of the Leghoon Food Co., in another columns of this paper, it shows you how to produce more eggs.

An examination of the books of the Philippine government shows that during the past ten years about $50,000,000 are unaccounted for. Of course this is merely an error in bookkeeping.

—To insure a happy new year, keep the liver clear and the body vigorous by using De Witt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation and liver troubles. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Dr. Gatling's big cast steel cannon burst yesterday, on the tenth round. He had all along been told by experts that it would do so. No one was hurt as all were too afraid of it to stand within a long distance.

During the excitement of a fire alarm at Rochester, a few nights ago, Miss Lanata Waymack was seized in succession by two barley ruffians, and kissed. No one noticed the occurrence and the fellows escaped, though crowds were on the street.

Rev. Z. T. Sweeney, the man who spoke at St. Joe a few years ago, is being talked up as the next republican candidate for governor. He has been a consul abroad and is now state fish Commissioner. He is also a minister in the Christian church.

—Mr. and Mrs. Bert Keesler late of southwest Auburn rejoice in the arrival of a beautiful ten pound daughter yesterday morning. Mrs. Keesler is a daughter of Dr. A. J. Schutt near Spencerville, and her many friends will rejoice with her over this her only daughter. Mother and child are doing well. Dr. Casebeer was the attending physician.

—Mr. S. A. Fackler, Editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe, and its exhausting effects. Never fails. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—If our government should receive from some foreign power the sum of $150,000,000, and therefor grant the privilege of devasting a section of our country to the extent of $1,000,000,000, would you consider it a shrewd business transaction? That is what we are doing every year in relation to the liquor traffic. Poor financiering.

—Columbia City Post: The first Batalion consisting of the Columbia City, Wabash and Lafayette companies will move to Charleston today where they will move to Charleston today where they wil take the transport Saratoga for Cuba in a few days. Capt. Harrison writes that all are well except two or three of those belonging to the band.

It is now asserted, that the man, who at the Woodworth meeting deciared he had quit voting the democratic ticket, included also, the republican ticket, and was thankful he no longer voted that, but voted with the prohibitionists It is well enough for a newspaper to make its statements in full, accurate and plain. So we give place to this additional item.

—"Isn't it queer," says an exchange, "that when farmers wish to retire they move to town and when town people wish to rest from their labors they move to the country? A farmer has had poor health, so he moves to town to rest up and get where he will not be bothered with hard work. The merchant or banker, when his health fails, will go to the country with his tent and pitch it 'neath some shady tree where he can inhale the country air and rusticate in enjoyment of a perpetual picnic."

A big strapping fellow, aged 35 or 40 years came to Marshal Grund Tuesday and asked to be arrested for vagrancy. He said he would like to go to jail for about 12 days. The marshal told him he would not do that, but he would let him stay in the city cooler over night. The stranger accepted the offer and the marshal escorted him to the city bastile and told him to fire up and told him to enjoy all the luxuries the place offers. The fellow took in the surroundings and then broke into a great tirade and most emphatically declined to become a lodger in such measley quarters and his indignation knew no bounds. He said he would go to the country and lodge with some good farmer, and he proceeded to get out of town at once: Columbia City Post.

THE WONDERFUL REMEDY FOR TIKO Rheumatism

It is not a CURE-ALL, but it is a Specific for RHEUMATISM.

One hundred and forty-four bottles
Cured 100 cases of RHEUMATISM.

TIKO is a medicine taken INTERNALLY, the only method by which RHEUMATISM can be successfully treated. It cures the CAUSE, and therein lies its remarkable success. Its price is $1.00 per bottle, or three bottles for $2.50, and if your Druggist has not got it, it will be sent to you, by Express, ALL CHARGES PAID, on receipt of price.

Address, PURINTON MEDICINE COMPANY, Detroit, Mich.

Saturday's Daily.

—Henry Lochner advanced his subscription to day up to 1900.

—Geo. Quince is visiting his brother Dell Quince in Ft. Wayne over Sunnay.

—Every member of the supreme court of Indianapolis now, is a republican.

—S. H. Barton of Richland has joined the list of those who have paid into 1900.

—Norman Shaffer was a caller today and paid up his subscription on the Old Reliable.

—Supt. Coe went down to the Five Point school in Butler township to-day to hold an institute.

—J. P. Beaty is one of the latest new subscribers to the COURIER. And still there is room for more.

—Several parties were in town today, shipping off a lot of hogs and cattle. It looked like a cold job for the poor animals.

—Mrs. C. V. Hodge had a stroke of paralysis today noon, and her condition is considered serious. She is the mother of D. A. Hodge.

—Philip Holman, of Cedar, was in town yesterday. He was one of Company K boys, but is now teaching school at Butler Center.

—Robert S. Taylor and Henry J. Miller, both of Fort Wayne, will be appointed administrators of the late R. T. McDonald's estate.

—Miss Lillian Schau'elberger, Muncie, has been awarded a gold watch because she attended Sunday school ten years without missing a Sunday.

—John O'Leary, Shelby county, 60, died in a buggy while riding home from a butchering. His companion thought for a time that he had fallen asleep.

—Hobos in the Kokomo jail refuse to work on the stone pile, and the sheriff is starving them to it, by giving them only bread and water. They say they will die before they will break stone.

—Paul Perry, of Columbus, Ga., suffered agony for thirty years, and then cured his Piles by using De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals injuries and skin diseases like magic. Fischler & Son and H. B. Mc Cord.

—It is reported that there are over 400 cases of grip in Richmond, Ind., and over 180 in Elkhart. But perhaps the liar, who reported fifty cases of diphtheria in Auburn last fall has broken loose in those cities.

—Mrs. Barns has a nice letter from Mrs. Sam Pepple, formerly Miss Rose Blair, written Jan. 3, at her home at Smithville, Texas. She says it was that day so warm they did not need any fire in the house.

—Congressman Heatwole, of Minnesota is in town and will be a guest over Sunday of Dr. Nusbaum, who is a brother-in-law. He is one of those Indiana boys who has gone west and grown up with the country. He is quite prominent in Congress and in the politics and other affairs of his adopted state.

Foley's Honey and Tar.

Cough Syrup wherever introduced is considered the most pleasant and effective remedy for all throat and lung complaints. It is the only prominent cough medicine that contains no opiates, and that can safely be given to children.

SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Louisa L. Duncan is plaintiff and Martin L. Jackman, Sarah A. Jackman, Jacob Salander, Clara Bonebrake, Clayton Mallory are defendants rebuiring me to make the sum of five thousand six hundred and twenty dollars with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 P. M., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of following real estate, to wit:

Saturday, January 28, A. D. 1899

The southeast quarter of the Northwest quarter of section seven (7) in township thirtyfive (35) North of range fourteen (14) east containing forty (40) acres,

Also a part of the Southwest quarter of said Section being a tract of about one hundred acres and described as follows to wit:

Commencing at the southwest corner of said section, thence east on the section line to center of the highway running north and south through said quarter, thence northerly along the center of said highway about seventy (70) rods; thence west along the center of the highway about (15) rods, to a point immediately south of the center of a lane, thence north along the center of said lane to the north line of said quarter section, thence west to the northwest corner of said quarter, thence south to the place beginning; all in DeKalb County Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee imple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to dist charge said decree, interest an costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
BAXTER & BROWN,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

December 31, 1898.

SHERFF'S SALE

By virture of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Union National Savings and Loan Association is plaintiff and Frank M. Rush, Mary Rush, Michael Boland, James M. Osborn, Lewis A. Osborn, Abner Lewis, Grace Rush, Bessie Rush, Effie Rush, Zella Rush, and Ruth Rush are defendants requiring me, make the sum of one thousand two hundred and four dollars and seventy-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Saturday, Jauuary 21, A. D. 1899

The east one half (½) of lot number sixty-six in Western Addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY.
Sheriff of DeKalb County. Indiana
E. D HARTMAN.
Attorney for Plain tff.

December 27th 1898.

ADMINISTRATOR'S SALE

The undersigned administrator of the estate of James Brinkerhoff, deceased will sell the personal property of said estate on

Saturday, January 21, 1899

Beginning at 10 A. M, consisting of coal stove, bedsteads and bedding, 8-day clock, new commode, bureau book cases, and books consisting of law, medical and religious books, family refrigerator, dishes and tin ware, cook stove and utensils, round oak heating stove, tricycle, Belgian hare, lot of paving brick, and many other articles too numerous to mention.

TERMS OF SALE. All sums of $5 and under, cash; On sums over $5 a credit of three months, with interest if paid when due. If not paid when due 6 per cent from date. Note with approved security.

JACOB WALBORN,
Administrator

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

WE GIVE ANY LADY

or man, who will take orders for our Leghorn Hen Food, in their own town,

A SOLID GOLD WATCH, FREE

We make this offer for a short time, in order to get our Food into more general use. It increases yield of eggs, and keeps fowl in good health. Send us 50c. for a regular $1.00 size box, and begin to take orders at once.

Pamphlet, with more information about hens, sent on receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address
Leghorn Food Co. (311-M) Boston, Mass.

City Comforts for Country Homes

CHEAPER AND BETTER THAN ELECTRICITY CITY GAS OIL LAMPS
Will light the house, cook, broil, roast, bake, wash, iron, heat rooms, pump water supply, run gas engines etc.
Send for free Catalogue
LIGHT FOR EVENING HOURS.
DETROIT HEATING and LIGHTING CO.
DETROIT • • • MICH

IT BURNS GAS?

THE "SOLAR"
The New Acetylene Gas Bicycle Lamp.

No More SOOT, SMOKE, GREASE nor DANGER

It can't jar or blow out like an Oil Lamp.

ABSOLUTELY NON-EXPLOSIVE.

Light costs ⅓ of a cent an hour. Throws a clear, white light 100 feet ahead. Send for circular and learn about the . . . .

Greatest Bicycle Lamp of the Year

From your dealer or sent prepaid for $4.00.

BADGER BRASS MFG. CO.
KENOSHA, WIS.

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXIX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, January 19, 1899. | Number 3.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

T. G. Matheny, M.D. J. B. Casebeer, M.D.
Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
have again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE
Office..... No. 9
Matheny's residence..... " 88
Casebeer's " ..... " 175

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D
PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 15

S. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST.
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST.
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy building northeast corner of Square Western Phone 103
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physcian & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUG STORE
In the National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Calls Answered At All Hours,

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

I. O. BUCHTEL, HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.
pecial attention given to hronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works. Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended to promptly, day or night.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

At Home a Stranger.

Henry Eckhart, who owns the old Weaver farm about two miles west of town was somewhat surprised the other day, to see a stranger come up onto his porch and look about as if studying the situation. Finally he rapped at the door and asked if this was really the old Weaver place. He said his name was Struby, and that he lived in Lagrange county, having come over here with a man who wished to visit some of the people here. He said he was a relative of the Weavers and wanted to take a look at the premises so familiar to him, when a boy. But he found nothing that looked natural except the old barn, which is still in use. Mr. Eckhart has rebuilt, changed and improved all the rest.

Japanese Waterbags.

The Japanese make water-bags of rice paper, which are said to be more durable, as well as less expensive, than similar articles made of rubber. Between the layers of paper, which is soft and flexible, resin is used, and the outside is covered with lacquer.

CASTORIA
For Infants and Children.
The Kind You Have Always Bought
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

From Porto Rico.

(The Reading Hustler.)

YANCO, PUERTO RICO, Dec. 11, '98.

FRIEND ROGERS:—It has been some time since I have written, the principal reason being nothing of interest to write about. The same hinderance still exists, but I will do the best I can. Since my letter last August we have moved camp twice, teen into quarters at Ponce and lastly companies A, D and L came to Yanco to do provost duty and this is our present location. We are quartered in a stone hause 250x70 feet and each man has a cot, so we live much better than before.

Since being in Yance the officers have been called on several times to afford protection to the plantation owners. Details ranging from four to ten men are usually sent out under command of a non-commissioned officer. The cause of this trouble is the natives. This part of the poor class is tco lazy or lawless to work and organize into guerilla bands, scatter into the mountains, rob and kill, and at night swoop down on plantations and destroy them by fire The trip over the mountains is the principal point of interest on these occasions. There are wagon roads between nearly all the principal cities, but all roads to interior plantations and inland towns are nothing but narrow paths around the mountain side. The footing is either solid rock or the stickiest yellow clay that could be made and around some of the rocky sides one point hangs over points sometimes hundreds of feet lower. Native ponies are used for these trips; they seem entirely sure footed on the rocky places, but as they tire in the yellow clay, stumbling is quite common, horse and rider going down, and sometimes quite harshly.

I was on such a detail about a week. On the outward trip my pony fell down a ravine about eight feet deep. I got off, however, before he went, so did not experience the trip. On the return the sergeant in charge went down a stony side, horse and all, breaking his rifle badly and bruising himself considerably. The plantations near the coast are sugar, while in the interior nothing but coffee and tobacco are grown. One may ride for two days and see nothing but mountain sides and valleys covered with coffee, plantain (bread,) oranges and bananas.

The planters, especially those of the interior, are a very hospitable people and extremely kind to soldiers.

It is safe to say that two-thirds of the coffee growers are Frenchmen, while the majority of sugar planters are genuine Spaniards. The real Puerto Rican is what we find in the slums of a large city, being a stealing, robbing class although very cowardly. It is these people who cause all the trouble and for these, made it necessary to post so many soldiers here. Some of the soldiers are in receipt of letters from home stating it was reported in the States that American soldiers were maltreating the natives at Ponce, but this is entirely false. A week since at Ponce two soldiers of the 1st Ky. Vols. got into a dispute and were interferred with by a native policeman; they told him to "go to h - l," when he fired at them, the bullet going through the heads of both soldiers, killing them instantly. Their comrades swore revenge and said they would lynch the policeman before morning. They destroyed much of the fire department and set fire in several places. The entire seven companies of the 19th, stationed at Ponce, were called out to save the town. The Kentucky regiment were disarmed the following day; their arms were restored and the regiment boarded transports for home last Sunday, so no more trouble will come from them.

We have some little scrapes here. Last night one soldier got into trouble with a native and before he knew it there were a dozen knives flashed on him. He knocked two or three down and beat a retreat but not before he had several bad gashes, one across the left temple and another within an inch of his jugular vein; he will be all right however. At another time in Ponce a Puerto Rican drew a stiletto on a United States officer and would have transfixed him had not assistance arrived. So, whether the native is of the Philippines, of Cuba or Puerto Rico, he is a fit subject to keep a continual watch over and must necessarily be kept in bondage.

The climate is somewhat cooler than when we landed last August but it is still the warmest winter I have ever seen. The weather is just right for outing in the States. Garden truck of all kinds is grown the year round so we have plenty of fresh vegetables.

The soldiers left here are generally healthy, though the climate makes one languid. Of the original Co. L. of 116 men but 86 are left for duty, three being discharged and the rest dead or on a sick furlough.

I saw in the HUSTLER that I expected to stay in my full time—I don't doubt but that I might have said that, but I certainly won't stay after I have an opportunity to get out. About 90 per cent of the recruits will take their discharge when the Treaty of Peace is ratified.

Will close for this time Best wishes to all Ed. Yates.
Co. L. 19th U. S. A.

Our Clearance Sale proved to be a

Grand Success!

The volume of business being done far exceeding our fondest expectations. Thousands of yards of Dress Goods were sold during this sale and, as a result, we find where we had in many cases nearly full bolts, we now have but a few yards. We have therefore arranged one long table containing these running from 3 to 8 yards in the piece. They will be sold by the piece only; the price on each being Way Below Actual Cost. You can well afford to buy these and save them for another winter if you are not needing them now.

Ends

We have a few pairs of fine Woolen Blankets left which we have decided to close out at cost.

We have still in stock a fair assortment of CAPES and JACKETS which you can buy at our regular price.

1-2

We will make especially low prices on all heavy-weight Clothing. Don't buy anything in our line until you've seen us.

WE ARE SAVING YOU MONEY

Schaab & Bro

Auburn, Indiana.

P. S. We have a very nice lot of Ladies' Fur Collarettes sent to us on consignment. We are offering them at less than they cost to manufacture. S. & B.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and good appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at H. B. McCord's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

Poland Pigs For Sale

I have a number of fine Poland Chicago hogs for sale, boars and brood sows, at cheap prices for such good stock. Call on A. D. Moore at Moores, Ind.

A white Mark

Foley's Kidney Cure is a perfectly reliable preparation for all Kidney and Bladder diseases. The proprietors of this Great Medicine guarantee it or the money refunded. Do they not deserve a white mark?

GOOD ENOUGH

A little six-year-old girl in Sunday school was asked one morning recently what she remembered of the story about Sampson and the Philistines whereupon she replied: "He sailed into the bay by night and at daylight opened fire on them and sunk eleven of their warships with the jawbone of an ass. He then took some prisoners who never seen a razor, bombarded the town and took up five baskets of fragments. He then told them that he would set his bow on the bay so that whenever they saw it they could remembr the Maine-

Dr. Bull's COUGH SYRUP
Cures Hoarseness and Sore Throat.
It is the best remedy for stubborn colds. Small doses. Price 25 cts. at druggists.

Doc's Committees.

Senator Nusbaum has been assigned to six committees. They are, Corporations, Public Printing, County and Township Business, Public Health, Railroads and Building and Loan Associations. A pretty good list of committees.

Do You Know!

THAT WE have the only Set of Abstracts of Titles to Lands in this county?

THAT WE can sell your farm or town property, or buy for you in the desired locality such a farm or residence as you want?

THAT WE make long-time loans on the most favorable terms on either farm or town property. Money in bank with which to close farm loans on the day applied for if the title and securety is all right?

THAT WE are making exchanges of all kinds of property; have big farms for little ones; have farms for town property; have farms for stocks of goods and can fit you on almost any kind of trade?

THAT IF you want an Abstract of Title to your lot or land; want a loan; to buy a home or sell one; want a trade of any kind, it will be to your advantage to call on or write us about it?

SPROTT & KNAPP,
Office in Gandy Block, Ground Floor,
AUBURN, IND.

Campbell Prospering.

(Anderson News.)

Our esteemed contemporary, the Herald, is and will be right on the earth. Its proprietor and editor, Hon. W. B. Campbell, is a progressive newspaper man. He has one of the best plants in Indiana. To-day he bought a new and entirely modern Cox-Duplex Perfecting press. It has all the latest patents and improvements. The press is now nearly built. It is known as the Angle-Bar. It will be tet in his office in February. No Indiana printing office will have such an elegant and modern press. Mr. Campbell will then have a modern office in everything He has one of the best newspaper plants in Indiana. Under Mr. Campbell's able management the Herald has prosed financially. He is particularly the only man, who ever owned the Herald who has made it a first class newspaper, and an eminent financial success, The News congratulates him on his enterprise The new press will cost $7,000, and Mr. Campbell always pays one hundred cents on the dollar.

The Kidney Complexion.

The pale, sallow, sunken-cheeked, distressed-looking people you so often meet are afflicted with "Kidney Complexion."

Their kidneys are turning to a parsnip color. So is their complexion.

They may also have indigestion, or suffer from sleeplessness, rheumatism, neuralgia brain trouble, nervous exhaustion and sometimes the heart acts badly.

The cause is weak, unhealthy kidneys.

Usually the sufferer from kidney disease does not find out what the trouble is until it is almost too late, because the first symtoms are so like mild sickness that they do not think they need a medicine or a doctor until they find themselves sick in bed.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root will build up and strengthen their weak and diseased kidneys, purify their diseased, kidney-poisoned blood, clear their complexion and soon they will enjoy better health.

You can get the regular sizes at the drugstore, at fifty cents and one dollar, or you may first prove for yourself the wonderful virtues of this great discovery, Swamp-Root, by sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co, Binghamton, N. Y. or a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent absolutely free by mail. When writing kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in the AUBURN COURIER.

YOUNG MR. BEVERIDGE

A. J. Beveridge goes to the U. S. senate at about the age of 35, the constitution requiring that the senators be 30. Probably the youngest senator ever elected was Geo. E. Pugh, of Ohio who when his state assemby chose him was under 30. But he became 30 just before he took his seat. Jesse D. Bright of Indiana, was a few months over 30 when he went the first time. Andrew Jackson was made a senator when he was about five months over 30.

EMILIO AGUINALDO.

Aguinaldo was born on the 22nd day of March, 1869, at Cavite Viejo, and his education was such as the schools of the little country town were able to provide and his life was spent in business to his twenty-fifth year, when he was elected Mayor of Cavite. On the 20th of August, 1896, the Governor of the Province of Cavite reported to Manila that everything was quiet in Cavite, and no insurgents to be found anywhere. Aguinaldo, on his way home on the day after, the 21st of August, 1896, heard that a warrant had been issued for his own arrest on the charge of siding with the

EMILIO AGUINALDO
HARPER'S WEEKLY. Copyright, 1898, by Harper & Brothers.

insurrectionists. Instead of going home, according to Captain W. A. Harper, who writes of his interview with Aguinaldo in Harper's Weekly for December 3d, he gathered twenty of his friends around him and waited for the arrival of the warrant. On the 22d a captain of the civil guard and two sergeants appeared to arrest him, and were promptly killed. This started the revolution which has culminated in making him President of the Philippine Republic.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

George Zimmerman Dead.

George B. Zimmerman died suddenly this morning while sitting in his chair. Last evening and this morning he was apparently as well as usual, but about an hour before his death, began to feel worse, and his daughter, who kept house for him, saw something alarming in his countenance, and telephoned for Mrs. John Zimmerman, who then telephoned to the factory for the son, who works in the factory and for Frank Zimmerman. Both came and the doctor, also, but all was useless and he died about 9:15.

Mr. Zimmerman had long been a sufferer from consumption. He was born near Spencerville, Ind., June 15, 1853. In 1872, he went south for his health and remained two years at Sparta, Tenn., then returned to Auburn, and was a partner of his brother, Frank, for about two year. He then went south again, where he was married to Maggie McCluskey, August 25, 1879, and soon after moved to Tullahoma, where he was engaged as clerk in a store. Later, he came back to Auburn, and lived here a few years. But his poor health induced him again to go south, and they located at Sherman Heights near Chattanooga. There his wife died in October of 1897. In June 1898 he returned with his children to Auburn where he has since resided, He leaves, of his immediate family, two girls, Mary and Maxsie, and a son, Roy.

The funeral will be on Monday at 2 p. m. at the M. E. church and interment at Woodlawn.

Samples Free.

The great number of newspapers, magazines, etc., that are now being published have made it very hard for the readers to decide just what one they wish to subscribe for. The American Subscription Agency, of Indianapolis, Ind., have compiled a list of 100 papers that they offer to send a sample copy of each to any address upon receipt of 10 cents to pay for mailing. They do this so that you may see and read a copy of each paper before subscribing. If you decide to subscribe to any of their papers to the amount of $1 they offer to deduct the 10 cents sent from the subscribtion. Send 10 cents to the American Subscription Agency, 653 Arch St., Indianapolis, Ind., and you will receive one hundred papers. j23

Working Night and Day.

The busiest and mightiest little thing that ever was made is Dr. King's New Life Pills. Every pill is a sugar-coated globule of health, that changes weakness into strength, listlessness into energy, brain-fag into mental power. They're wonderful in building up the health. Only 25c per box. Sold by H. B. McCord's drugstore.

St. Joe Incorporates.

SPECIAL TO THE COURIER.

ST, JOE, IND., Jan. 11, 1899.

At the election today to decide as to incorporation, there were 65 votes in favor of it, and 40 against it, 15 not voting.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought Favors Investigation.

Hon. James M. Robinson is not in favor of doing things by halves. He is in favor of a thorough investigation by a competent board, into the abuses of the recent war. We clip the following from the Washington Times:

When questioned in regard to the beef scandal, Representative James M. Robinson of Indiana said he did not believe at the time of the appointment of the Alger Relief Commission that it would get to the bottom of many of the crying abuses and neglects from which the American soldiers suffered. He was from the start in favor of a thorough Congressional investigation that would be made by a set of men who would be at least measurably responsible to Congress, and have full authority to interrogate carefully, free from any administrative control. He has been much intersested in the discussion and investigation growing out of the vast amount of spoiled meat furnished to the troops in Porto Rico, and unless the matter is sifted to the bottom by either the present board of survey or the Agricultural Department, he favors a Congressional investigation on this subject. He believes unless this is done our export trade in canned and other meats will suffer great loss. He does not believe that the War Department should be protected in any of its transactions. He furthermore believes that an inferior and spoiled grade of meat was furnished to our troops, both in Cuba and Porto Rico. He believes the statement of General Miles, when he says that a second consignment of inferior and spoiled meat was sent from this country to Porto Rico over his protest, he having informed Secretary Alger that fresh meat could be bought at 6 cents per pound. He thinks that the war Department should be made to account for this.

Just at this time Mr. Robinson believes foreign countries are beginning to look on American meat with great favor, and a great many restrictions are being moved which have curtailed ed its importation. He thinks that because of mismanagement, neglect and incompetency of the War Department in furnishing spoiled meat for our soldiers our export trade should not be allowed to suffer. It will not do, he says, to have a suspicion rest upon this great and growing industry, and for one he is in favor of probing this matter to the bottom.

CASTORIA

The Kind You Have Always Bought, and which has been in use for over 30 years, has borne the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher and has been made under his personal supervision since its infancy. Allow no one to deceive you in this. All Counterfeits, Imitations and Substitutes are but Experiments that trifle with and endanger the health of Infants and Children—Experience against Experiment.

What is CASTORIA

Castoria is a substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is Harmless and Pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. It destroys Worms and allays Feverishness. It cures Diarrhœa and Wind Colic. It relieves Teething Troubles, cures Constipation and Flatulency. It assimilates the Food, regulates the Stomach and Bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Panacea—The Mother's Friend.

GENUINE CASTORIA ALWAYS
Bears the Signature of
Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought
In Use For Over 30 Years.
THE CENTAUR COMPANY, 77 MURRAY STREET, NEW YORK CITY.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNS, - - PUBLISHER.

1899. JANUARY. 1899.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31	•	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

L. Q. 4th. N. M. 11th. F. Q. 18th. F. M. 26th.

EVENTS OF INTEREST

THAT OCCURRED DURING THE PAST WEEK.

Tersely Told Telegraph Tales in Brief Paragraphs—Many Casualties—A Few Crimes—Some Fires—Political and Religious News.

Notable Banking Statement.

Charles G. Dawes, Comptroller of the Currency, in commenting on the abstract of the reports of the national banks under the call of December, 1898, said it was the most notable statement made in the history of the national banking system. The reports show a large increase over the reports of September, 1898, the date preceding the call. The total resources on September 20, 1898, was $4,003,511,044, which was the largest sum reached in the history of the system up to that time. The total resources shown by the reports of December, 1898, were $4,313,394,519, an increase in resources over the showing of September, 1898, of $309,883,474.

Reassuring Advices.

A telegram received from Gen. Otis Thursday, dated Manila, says: "Conditions apparently improving; citizens feel more secure; many natives returning. City quiet and business active." These reassuring advices from Gen. Otis afforded the War Department the greatest satisfaction. The fact that this is the first dispatch made public in a week shows how much more critical affairs have been than the authorities would admit. It is believed now that the insurgents, when they fully understand the President's policy, will heartily support it.

Censure for Egan.

The War Investigating Commission has passed a resolution of censure on Gen. Egan for the language he used when he appeared to answer the charges made against the commissary branch of the army by Maj. Gen. Miles, and returned to him the carefully prepared typewritten statement which he left with the commission after reading it to that body. With its return was sent a letter explaining the reasons for this action and a copy of the resolutions passed.

Germany Stops a Lie.

The Berlin correspondent of the Associated Press, after a thorough investigation, ascertains that the report that Germany is aiding the Filipinos and furnishing them with war material, is absolutely baseless. Baron Von Bulow, Imperial Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, personally authorizes the statement that the reports are justified by nothing that Germany has done, is doing or preparing to do.

Congressman Dingley Dead.

The Hon. Nelson Dingley of Maine, leader of the Republican side in the House of Representatives, and representing the Second Congressional District of Maine in that body, died at his home in Washington of heart failure, resulting from extreme weakness, due to double pneumonia.

Carnegie's Handsome Offer.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie has offered to give $250,000 to erect a building for a public library for Washington, D. C., provided Congress would furnish a site and provide suitable maintenance, not less than $10,000 per annum. Steps will be taken at once to secure the needed legislation.

Notorious Robber Caged.

Meridian (Miss.) special: The burglar who blew open and robbed the Postoffice at Enterprise, Miss., and was arrested, is said to be Thrasher Mead, the notorious train robber and desperado, who has committed robberies all over the country and who has broken out of twenty jails.

More Fighting in Arabia.

A dispatch from Constantinople, dated December 2, said there had been renewed fighting in Yemen, and the Turks suffered a serious defeat between Hodeida and Sana. Trouble between the Turks and Arabs in that part of Arabia has been in progress over four years.

Town Nearly Destroyed.

Halifax (N. S.) special: Fire has destroyed half of Bridgewater, a prosperous shipping and mill town on La Have River, entailing a loss of $250,000. Of fifty-eight stores on Main street only two remain.

Masonic Temple Attractions, Fort Wayne, Ind.

January 23—"Johnny on the Spot."
January 24—Richard Mansfield, in "Cyrano de Bergerac" (probably.)
January 25—Clay Clement.

Hundreds Drowned.

The recent freshets caused a cave-in of the banks of the River Han, at Hankow, China, and several hundred natives were drowned.

Ohio Steel Plant Burns.

The continuous mill department of the Aetna Standard Steel Plant at Mingo Junction, Ohio, burned. Loss, $50,000.

New Stamps for Cuba.

The Postoffice Department has decided to issue a new set of stamps for Cuba, and the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has been called on for designs. The denominations now contemplated are one, two, three, five and ten centavos.

Czar's Peace Project.

St. Petersburg special: It is stated that the Czar intends to promote the universal peace project by personal appeal to Kaiser Wilhelm and Emperor Francis Joseph. The Prince of Wales will be present in person also.

Freight Jumps the Track.

A Denver and Rio Grande freight train, loaded with ore and cattle, jumped the track near Mears Junction, Colo., and rolled down a steep embankment, smashing the cars to pieces. All the members of the train crew were more or less injured, but no one was killed.

Negro Murderer is Lynched.

Mrs. Nancy Welch, a widow with five children, near Harper's Cross Roads, N. C., was murdered by Henry Jones, a negro. Jones was found at his home near Richmond. He confessed his guilt, was carried back to the scene and hanged by a crowd of fifty men.

ALASKA'S GREAT NEED.

Governor Urges More Judicial Districts and Larger Appropriations.

Gov. Brady, of Alaska, has arrived in Washington to urge territorial matters. He is anxious for the enactment of the Carter bill, which has passed the Senate and is now in committee in the House, making three judicial districts in Alaska. He says even then the judicial provisions will be inadequate and that there should be greater appropriations also for administrative purposes, pointing out that the marshal is unable to make any arrests on any of the numerous islands for lack of transportation, funds or facilities, and that the Governor has no funds for going about the territory. He also wants the school appropriations this year raised to $60,000. The Governor says many of the people who rushed into the Klondike region are coming out, largely because of the high taxation. Many thousands of people, he says, already have started for the Atlau district.

ROCKEFELLER'S BIG PROJECT.

Standard Railroad Sixty-five Miles Long to Be Run by Electricity.

John D. Rockefeller's agents at Everett, Wash., are preparing to build one of the largest electric plants on the Pacific coast. Its purpose will be to furnish power to operate the Everett and Monte Cristo Railroad, sixty-five miles long, standard gauge, owned by Rockefeller, and chiefly carrying freight, together with the Everett street railway and half a dozen large Everett industries, which Rockefeller controls. These include nail works, the largest paper mill on the coast, a smelter and the city lighting plant, besides a big concentrator at Rockefeller's Monte Cristo mines. It is estimated that the saving in cost of power will pay for the electric plant in three years.

CREW KILLED BY CANNIBALS.

Tragic Fate of the Captain and Sailors of the Sea Ghost.

Mail advices from the south Pacific islands via Japan give details of the scuttling of the schooner Sea Ghost by Solomon island cannibals. The cannibals killed the crew of the schooner, with the exception of two, who had a remarkable escape. The Sea Ghost was owned by her master, Capt. Kohlsohn. He sailed from Queensland with a crew of ten men for Buka, an island of the German Solomon group. The natives got drunk on liquor found on the Sea Ghost and thus enabled the two sailors to escape.

Orders Refused by Overcrowded Works.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "The year begins with the kind of business demand that counts. For months there has been a rising demand for materials, but now the crowding demand for finished products begins to advance prices, in the iron and steel industry about 1 per cent, without quotable changes in pig, except at the East. Beams have advanced $2 a ton, angles $1, bars $1, and plates are strong, with an Australian order for 32,000 tons refused at Chicago because the works are already overcrowded. The woolen manufacture has a similar embarrassment. While the market is gradually yielding, because people appreciate the magnitude of stocks on hand, which the Boston Commercial Bulletin reports at 291,000,000 pounds, an increase in its account of 114,000,000 pounds for the year, yet prices are not low enough to encourage large buying or consumption by the manufacturers. The wheat movement has to sustain the largest foreign demand movement ever known for wheat and corn together, and Atlantic exports of 5,214,420 bushels, flour included, against 2,840,318 bushels last year, with Pacific exports of 614,833, against 872,446 last year, would give some reason to anticipate higher prices were not the Western receipts 4,101,532 bushels, against 2,876,072 bushels for the same week last year. Failures for the week have been 243 in the United States, against 322 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 32 last year."

Heavy Fire Loss in St. Louis.

Fire in the six-story brick building at St. Louis owned by the Ames estate and used by the Albert Acruman Mercantile Company as a wholesale department goods store, caused heavy loss. The fire originated in the fifth story and burned up through the roof and down into the second story, badly damaging the building. The contents of the sixth story were nearly destroyed and those in the stories below badly damaged.

Fair Will Be Held in St. Louis.

The delegates to the Louisiana purchase convention at St. Louis unanimously selected that city as the place of holding the fair in 1903. Delegates from nearly all the States and territories in the "Louisiana purchase" were assembled in response to an invitation of Gov. Stephens to decide upon the place and manner of celebrating the 100th anniversary of that important event.

Four Hurt in Train Wreck.

A Great Northern train struck a broken rail at Hatton, N. D., throwing three cars from the track, one catching fire. Conductor Walter O'Kane, Ole Bolster of Moorehead, J. M. Johnson of Northwood and Mrs. P. M. Penniser of Maryville were seriously hurt and two others slightly injured.

Dawson Asks Aid.

There is a strong movement on foot at Dawson to send a representative to Washington for the purpose of enlisting the United States Government in the cause of aiding in remedying the great distress which prevails among the miners of the Yukon.

Hangs Himself in His Cell.

Francis Brunner, who was arrested on a charge of embezzlement, committed suicide in a cell at Trenton, N. J., police station. Brunner hanged himself by tying a handkerchief around his neck and fastening it to the iron bars of the cell door.

Two Clergymen Assaulted.

At Akron, Ohio, Rev. N. J. Myers and Rev. W. H. Brightmire were assaulted and thrown into the snow while going home from church. They had led a crusade against Sunday saloons.

Sister Margaret Newman Killed.

Sister Margaret Newman, mother superior of the Ursuline convent in St. Louis, was killed by falling from a third-story window to a stone pavement, her skull being fractured.

Dies Cursing the Country.

O. H. Baker, the wife murderer, was hanged at Eminence, Mo., in the presence of 2,000 people. On the scaffold the condemned man cursed the country and the people until the drop fell.

St. Louis Nun Dies of Grip.

Sister Teresa of the order of St. Vincent de Paul died of pneumonia following grip at St. Vincent's seminary in St. Louis. She was a sister-in-law of the late Henry George.

Mataafa is Chosen King.

Mataafa has been elected King of Samoa to succeed Malietoa. Official information to this effect has been received at Washington. The election was held without trouble.

Did Not Hear the Whistle.

Four persons were run down the other morning and instantly killed by an express train near Larimer Station on the Pennsylvania Railroad, twenty-five miles east of Pittsburg. The list of dead is as follows: Mary Miller, Thomas Miller, Albert Wilson, Walter Brown. The train dashed into the group of unfortunates at full speed and the bodies were terribly mangled. After being gathered up, the remains were taken in charge by friends. On account of a freight wreck near Larimer it was necessary to switch the westbound passenger trains to the east-bound track. The express was running at full speed and the engineer blew the whistle, but the alarm was unheard, as the victims evidently thought the train would run on the west-bound track as usual. They were all residents of Larimer.

MURDERS HIS WIFE'S ESCORT.

Wealthy Montana Ranchman Is Killed by a Jealous Husband.

Robert Nelson, a wealthy Montana ranchman, killed Harry Bell on Pumpkin creek, sixty-five miles north of Miles City, Minn., the other afternoon. Bell and Mrs. Robert Nelson were riding on horseback along the creek, when they met Nelson, who, after riding past them a few rods, wheeled his horse and rode at a gallop back to the couple, firing at Bell as he came abreast. The ball pierced Bell's body near the heart, killing him instantly. Bell was a young man of considerable prominence in the neighborhood where he lived. Nelson had not lived with his wife for the past six months.

CHICAGO AND ALTON IS SOLD.

To Be Controlled by the Illinois Central and Three Other Roads.

One of Chicago's most prominent railroad men confirms the sale of the Chicago and Alton to a number of Western roads, to be used by all to secure an entrance to Chicago. According to this man, who refused to allow his name to be used, the roads which will use the Alton in common and control its destiny are the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, owned by the Rockefellers; the Missouri Pacific, controlled by the Goulds; the Union Pacific and the Illinois Central.

Five Whites Were Slain.

The Petit Bleu of Brussels announces that the Batelelas tribesman of the Congo Free State, who defeated a column of 200 of the State troops and captured Kalambari, in addition to killing two officers, one sergeant and 200 native troops, captured fourteen whites, two guns and ammunition and a quantity of baggage. Five whites were also killed at Kalambari, which is the chief town of the district. It was garrisoned by 800 men, who deserted.

New York Liquor House Burns.

Fire destroyed the three upper floors of a seven-story brick building at 144-150 Franklin street, New York City. The place was occupied by the Cook & Bernheimer Company, dealers in and manufacturers of liquors. It is estimated that the loss to the building and its contents will amount to about $100,000. Emile Vincenot was burned to death. It is believed the fire started from the ignition of a small tank of cordial on the fifth floor.

Lake Shore Fast Mail Wrecked.

The fast eastern express over the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railway collided with the rear end of an east-bound freight that failed to reach the siding at Whiting, Ind., in time. The engine of the fast train plowed through the caboose of the freight and wrecked a number of box cars ahead. The engineer and fireman remained at their posts and came out unscathed.

Bad Wreck at Belleville.

A disastrous freight wreck was caused on the Wabash at Belleville, Mich., by freight train No. 60 running into the rear end of an extra freight. Five cars, the caboose and a bean storehouse were burned, and the wrecked engine badly damaged by the fire. The loss is about $30,000.

Newspaper Correspondent Wounded.

George Clark Musgrave, a New York Journal correspondent, was shot and wounded when the Spaniards evacuated Matanzas. It is believed he was the victim of an attempted assassination at the hands of a Spanish official, whose atrocities he had exposed.

Meets with a Fatal Accident.

Alexander Zeese, of the firm of A. Zeese & Co., photo-process engravers, and one of the pioneer engravers of Chicago, met with almost instant death by falling from the iron stairway at the Northwestern station in that city.

Sharkey Wins from McCoy.

At the Lenox Athletic Club in New York "Kid" McCoy, legitimately a middleweight pugilist, was knocked out by Tom Sharkey, a heavyweight. Seven thousand spectators saw the fight.

Three Killed in a Fire.

A fire which broke out in the Hotel Richelieu at Pittsburg resulted in a property loss of only about $15,000, but three lives were sacrificed and five people were badly hurt.

Wire Combine Raises Prices.

As a result of the completion of the so-called "wire combine" an advance of $2 per ton for wire and wire nails was announced at Cleveland.

Five Men Buried in Debris.

At Visalia, Cal., a brick wall of a building collapsed and buried five men in the ruins. Harry Hughes was fatally injured.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 to $6.25; hogs, shipping grades, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, fair to choice, $2.50 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 2, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 55c; butter, choice creamery, 19c to 21c; eggs, fresh, 20c to 22c; potatoes, choice, 30c to 40c per bushel.

Indianapolis—Cattle, shipping, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, choice light, $2.75 to $4.00; sheep, common to choice, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2 red, 68c to 70c; corn, No. 2 white, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2 white, 30c to 31c.

St. Louis—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $3.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 72c to 74c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 34c to 36c; oats, No. 2, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 55c to 57c.

Cincinnati—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $3.00 to $4.00; sheep, $2.50 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 36c to 37c; oats, No. 2 mixed, 29c to 30c; rye, No. 2, 56c to 58c.

Detroit—Cattle, $2.50 to $5.50; hogs, $2.50 to $3.75; sheep, $3.00 to $4.25; wheat, No. 2, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2 yellow, 37c to 38c; oats, No. 2 white, 31c to 32c; rye, 56c to 58c.

Toledo—Wheat, No. 2 mixed, 70c to 72c; corn, No. 2 mixed, 35c to 37c; oats, No. 2 white, 27c to 29c; rye, No. 2, 54c to 56c; clover seed, $4.50 to $4.55.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 67c to 68c; corn, No. 3, 33c to 34c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 30c; rye, No. 1, 54c to 56c; barley, No. 2, 44c to 53c; pork, mess, $9.50 to $10.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, common to choice, $3.25 to $4.00; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.50; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, $3.00 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.50; wheat, No. 2 red, 80c to 81c; corn, No. 2, 43c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 35c to 36c; butter, creamery, 15c to 22c; eggs, Western, 22c to 23c.

BY COURT DECISION.

FEUDAL TOWN OF PULLMAN IS TO BE SOLD.

Model City to Become a Free Community—Dream of the Palace Car Magnate Shattered—Company Orders Houses, Halls and Churches Sold.

PULLMAN'S dream is shattered. The legal representatives of the great palace car company, one of the richest and most powerful corporations of the world, has, through its attorneys, accepted the recent decision of the Supreme Court of Illinois, and the feudal town of Pullman, owned by the company, will be sold to the people. The directors of the Pullman company ordered the closing of the suit, and the next step will be the appearance of the corporation's attorneys before some judge of the Circuit Court of Cook County with the request that a decree be made of record divorcing the palace car company from every line of business or ownership save that for which it was empowered by incorporation to transact.

Suit Begun in 1894.

The proceedings to compel the Pullman company to live within the law which created it were commenced in 1894 by Maurice T. Moloney, then Attorney General of the State. The first proceedings were quo warranto. The law thus compels the Pullman Palace Car Company to dispose of the following:

Plant of the Pullman Iron and Steel Company, plant of the Pullman Brick Company, plant of the Pullman Gas Company, the Arcade building, the Hotel Florence (named for Mrs. F. O. Lowden, who was Miss Florence Pullman), Pullman market buildings, two church buildings, the public school house, the water mains in the streets. In addition to this several hundred acres of land and 300 town lots.

It will be the policy to give the present occupants of houses the first opportunity to purchase the dwelling houses, which are of brick and are 2,000 in number.

The issue involved in The People vs. Pullman's Company was the right of the company to own property other than that necessary for the purpose of its incorporation. The company was incorporated by a special act of the Legislature Feb. 22, 1867. The incorporators were George M. Pullman, John Crerar and Norman Williams.

The quo warranto proceedings were brought on Sept. 17, 1894. It was placed on Judge Baker's calendar. The following February it was argued on the demurrer of the Attorney General to the pleas filed by Messrs. Runnels & Burry, attorneys for Pullman's company. The court took the issue under advisement Feb. 22. Two months later it gave its decision, overruling the demurrer and sustaining the pleas of the company. Judge Baker held that the building of the town was within the scope of the incorporation, inasmuch as the town was built for the employes of the company.

GEORGE M. PULLMAN.

Defeated in Supreme Court.

The following October the case was argued before the Supreme Court. Not until two years later—Oct. 24, 1897—did the court hand down its decision, reversing Judge Baker and sustaining the Attorney General's position.

Pullman is situated on the west bank of the Calumet lake. The town is built on land belonging to the originally distinct corporations known as the Pullman Land Association and Pullman's Palace Car Company. The first excavations were made on May 26, 1880. Within two months construction had begun and the foundations of the houses that were afterward to furnish homes for the employes of the "model town" were laid. Five hundred men were employed in the preliminary work. Within five months their number was increased to 2,000. Within two years the city was completed. The Hotel Florence was the last building of the many hundreds to be erected.

CAPTURES SPANISH ARMS.

Former Residents of Cuba Secrete Guns, Ammunition, and Machetes.

Gen. Ludlow has been successful in capturing the arms which Spanish sympathizers have been secreting in Havana. On the evening before the New Year's ceremonies Gen. Ludlow received information from various sources of guns and other implements of war being held by former Spanish volunteers and other Spanish citizens. Captain Breble went out with a detachment of soldiers and succeeded in capturing a great many of them.

TWO SIRES OF CYRANO.

Mr. Gross of Chicago Says the Child of His Brain Was Stolen.

S. E. Gross, a prominent real estate dealer of Chicago, has filed a bill in the United States Circuit Court asking for an injunction against A. M. Palmer, manager, and Richard Mansfield, actor, restraining them from producing the play, "Cyrano De Bergerac." Gross claims that the play is stolen from a play written by him twenty years ago under the title, "The Merchant Prince of Cornville." He declares that some years ago he sent a copy of his play to Messrs. Mansfield and Palmer, but never heard anything from them. Now, Gross asserts, they are producing a play founded upon his work. Mansfield denied all knowledge of Gross and his play. Palmer is in New York. In the last act of the play there are certain similarities to the same act in the play written by Rostand both in language and situations. Gross' play was filed for copyright in London in 1896.

RICH DANCE AND EAT.

Lavish Display of Wealth Attends Vanderbilts' Ball.

New York's society swells, accustomed as they are to scenes of surpassing brilliancy and lavish displays of wealth, are talking with wide-open eyes of the time they had and the things they saw at the Vanderbilt ball. Five hundred guests were present, and the jewels they wore would pay the national debt of Spain and leave a cash balance that would dishearten the Carlists.

As an excuse for the ball it was said to have been given in honor of the son, a beardless college youth, who is about to come into his $50,000,000 fortune. His prospective bride, Miss Elsie French, was not in attendance, as she missed connections on her way from Europe, but Miss Virginia Fair, who is to marry Willie K. Vanderbilt, a nephew of the house, was among the guests, and she was easily the "belle of the ball."

TELEGRAPH TOLLS LOWERED.

Kansas Legislature Enacts a Law Making Big Reductions.

Telegraph tolls in Kansas are reduced by a law which was enacted Thursday. A formidable lobby was on hand to resist the measure. It pleaded that Kansas telegraph wires had been operated at a loss during recent years. The advocates of the law replied that in thirty years every $1,000 in stock had yielded a profit of $185,000. The Senate passed a bill reducing the charge for messages from 25 to 20 cents. In the Houes a substitute bill was passed reducing the charge from 25 to 15 cents and other tolls in proportion. Day press rates are reduced from ½ to 1-3 cent per word, and night press rates from ¼ to 1-16 cent per word. The telegraph lines are placed under the same restrictions as are imposed by the court of visitation law on the railroads.

BOSTON'S NEW RAILWAY STATION—LARGEST IN THE WORLD.

PLOT TO RESIST AMERICANS.

Aguinaldo Is Spreading Trouble Among the Filipinos.

The existence of a plot to resist American authority, in which Aguinaldo is the moving spirit, has been made known to the Government in the dispatches to the War Department from Maj. Gen. Otis. Gen. Otis said that he had again located Aguinaldo. The whereabouts of the troublesome Filipino chieftain is not disclosed by the officials, but it appears to be certain that he is at Malolos, where the Filipino parliament met, working up sentiment in favor of resisting the assertion of American authority in the islands.

Gen. Otis, in his dispatches, has expressed the utmost confidence in being able to cope with Aguinaldo's army should a conflict occur. He said his force was large enough to meet any emergency.

His $40,000 Gun Burst.

Dr. R. J. Gatling's experimental steel eight-inch rifle, for the construction of which Congress appropriated $40,000, burst at the Sandy Hook proving ground. The gun went to pieces under a normal firing pressure of 36,500 pounds. Although the air was filled with flying fragments of steel, no one was hurt, as the officers who conducted the test took refuge behind a sand hill before each firing.

Woman Burned at Stake.

Advices from Madagascar state that an insurrection among the natives is still fermenting. There have been numerous outrages on colonists, many of whom have been tortured and thrown into the rivers to be eaten by crocodiles. It is reported that a woman taken by the natives was bound to a stake, drenched with oil and burned to death.

Many Deaths from Grip.

The grip is still raging in Washington. Twenty deaths resulted from the malady during the week, and twenty-five from pneumonia. Most of the latter were caused by the prevailing epidemic. Hundreds of Government clerks are absent from their desks on sick leave, and there are scores of vacant seats in both houses of Congress.

Esterhazy Will Testify.

Major Esterhazy will give testimony in the Dreyfus case to the court of cassation. It is not yet decided whether he will appear in person or his testimony be taken by telegraph. If he appears before the court, it is understood he will be free from arrest, both coming and going.

Zola Is Safe.

At the Bow street police court in London it is denied that a warrant has been issued for the arrest of M. Zola. And if such a warrant were issued, it is claimed that the legal presumption is entirely against the possibility of his being extradited.

Whistles Ninety-five Hours.

Charles Munberger, who was found lying by the New York Central tracks with his skull fractured, is dead. For ninety-five hours previous to his death, although wholly unconscious, the injured man whistled all sorts of tunes without cessation.

Russia's Big Debt Payment.

The Russian Government has decreed that 75,000,000 rubles shall be paid from the cash reserve upon the state debt held by the Imperial Bank.

On Saturday the House, in committee of the whole, resumed consideration of the bill making appropriation for the legislative, executive and judicial expenses of the Government for the year ending June 30, 1900. On a point of order made by Mr. Dockery (Dem., Mo.) a paragraph appropriating $12,000 for making a series of charts of the coasts and harbors of the Philippines was stricken from the bill. In the Senate the District of Columbia appropriation bill was taken up. As passed by the House, the bill appropriated $6,360,000, as against estimates of $9,230,000. As reported by the Senate Committee on Appropriations, it appropriates $7,251,905. The appropriation for the current fiscal year was $6,426,880. The House bill granting extra pay upon muster-out to officers and enlisted men of the United States volunteers was taken up and passed without amendment. The Senate then went into executive session, and afterward adjourned.

In the Senate on Monday Mr. Hoar of Massachusetts made a strong speech against territorial expansion. Mr. Platt of New York replied. The Nicaragua Canal bill was then taken up and Mr. Caffery continued his speech in opposition to it. Messrs. Bacon, Money and Chilton engaged in a general discussion of the binding power of treaties in general. The House reversed the decision of the committee of the whole last Friday, when the appropriation for the support of the civil service commission was stricken out of the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. The House by special order decided to proceed with the consideration of the naval personnel bill as soon as the bill for the codification of the laws of Alaska was out of the way. About seventy additional pages of the latter bill were covered.

Senator Mason of Illinois occupied the attention of the Senate for nearly an hour and a half on Tuesday with a speech in support of his resolution declaring that the United States will never attempt to govern the people of any country without their consent. Mr. Turley was then recognized to speak on the Nicaragua canal bill. He announced himself as an advocate of the canal, but said he was opposed to the pending bill. At the conclusion of Mr. Turley's speech a bill was passed directing the President to appoint Paymaster General T. H. Stanton a major general and retire him at that grade. The House devoted its undivided attention to the bill for the codification of the criminal laws of Alaska, and when adjournment was had all but ten pages of the bill had been disposed of.

In the Senate on Wednesday a sharp debate was precipitated by Mr. Allen (Neb.) by some remarks he made upon a resolution he had introduced. Mr. Hoar (Mass.) and Mr. Gray (Del.) were drawn into it. The resolution stated that any aggressive action by army or navy on the part of the United States against the Philippines would be an act of war unwarranted on the part of the President and the exercise of constitutional powers vested exclusively in Congress. Mr. Foraker of Ohio was recognized after a short debate and proceeded to deliver his set speech on the general question of the power to extend our territory. At 3:10 p. m. the Senate, on motion of Mr. Davis, the chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee and in charge of the treaty of peace, went into executive session. Senator Davis reported the peace treaty and moved that the treaty and the proceedings of the peace commission be made public. This motion led to debate. The discussion was brief, however, and the motion to remove the injunction of secrecy prevailed without division. The House completed and passed the bill for the codification of the criminal laws of Alaska.

The supporters and opponents of the peace treaty in the Senate had their first contest over that document on Thursday in executive session. The debate was upon a motion by Senator Berry to consider the resolution of ratification in open session. The discussion continued from a few minutes past 1 o'clock until about 5, when the Senate adjourned for the day, without reaching a vote. There were no set speeches in the usual acceptance of that phrase. It was a running debate, in which Senators Berry, White, Hale, Hoar, Vest and others in opposition to the treaty met Senators Davis, Frye, Teller, Gray and others in advocacy of it. The House passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill without amendment. During the general debate two set speeches were made against imperialism by Messrs. Carmack and Gaines of Tennessee. The diplomatic and consular is the sixth of the regular appropriation bills to pass the House. The bill as passed carries $1,705,533. A bill was passed authorizing the Little River Railroad Company to construct a railroad through the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian reservations.

Report Fails to Censure.

The report of the proceedings and findings of the court of inquiry to determine the cause and fix the responsibility of the grounding of the battleship Massachusetts off Governor's Island, has been received at the Navy Department. The court finds that the accident might have been avoided if Captain Ludlow and the pilot of the Massachusetts had provided themselves with the latest charts of New York harbor. Beyond this no blame is attached to anybody.

Lives with a Broken Neck.

Physicians at Columbus, Ohio, state that the bones of Corporal Tracy's broken neck are uniting again and that it is possible that he will recover without an operation. Tracy is a member of the Seventeenth regular infantry and broke his neck two weeks ago in a fall from a horizontal bar.

News of Minor Note.

Driver Hughes of the fire department of New York City saved ten lives at a recent tenement house fire.

In 1900 Iceland will celebrate the 900th anniversary of the introduction of Christianity into the island.

There are forty-five colleges and seventeen State Christian associations among the colored people of North Carolina.

Besides the rinderpest, South Africa's worst plague consists of the myriads of grasshoppers, which are sometimes so dense that they stop railway trains.

The United States authorities have formally taken possession of Cienfuegos, Cuba. A Cuban has been appointed Mayor, and the Spanish civil guard are acting as police.

During the recent Fashoda incident Queen Victoria is reported to have said to ex-Empress Eugenie: "If war should break out between France and England I will pray God to allow me to die before it occurs."

Steps have been taken for a still greater Chicago. Legislation will be asked for the consolidation of the city and county governments of Cook County and the abolishment of township organizations within the limits of Chicago proper.

STATE LAW MAKERS.

When the Legislature convened on Monday among the bills introduced was one relating to street car corporations, which seeks to give cities greater control of such corporations. The bill, like the 3-cent fare bill of two years ago, was introduced by Senator Hugg of Indianapolis. It provides for regulating and fixing the fares on street railroad companies, for the issue and use of transfer tickets or passes on such railways, for the paving between the tracks and for eighteen inches on the outside of the outside rail of tracks, under the supervision of the Board of Public Works of such cities, and for the payment for such work by the street railway companies. The bill provides for the purchase of eight tickets, each good for one trip, for 25 cents. Another bill introduced on Monday prohibits prize fighting. It provides that any principal in any prize fight or any person who attends any such fight as backer, trainer, second, referee or assistant shall be guilty of a felony and fined not less than $50 nor more than $1,000 and imprisoned not less than two years nor more than ten years.

Albert J. Beveridge was nominated for United States Senator by the Republican caucus Tuesday night on the eleventh ballot. The "field" combined on him, and he received 48 of the 80 votes. J. Frank Hanly received 35 and Frank B. Posey 6. Roberts, Taylor and George W. Steele threw all their support to Beveridge.

In order to expedite business the House and Senate on Tuesday determined to hold only half-day sessions for the next fourteen days. The members are thus enabled to dispose of bills in committee more rapidly, and it is believed that all work will be advanced.

The controversy between the State and non-State schools was brought to the fore in a bill introduced on Tuesday for the reorganization of the State Board of Education. It provides that there shall be nine members, no more than four of whom shall be of one political party, the Governor and the superintendent of public instruction being ex-officio members.

Representative Kirkpatrick offered a bill which is designed still further to limit the liquor traffic. Section 1 makes it unlawful for county commissioners to grant licenses to sell liquor in the residence districts of any city or town. To make this binding it is provided that any license so granted shall be void. It is also provided that county commissioners who violate the provisions of the act shall each be fined in any sum not exceeding $100, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days. The bill went to the Committee on Temperance.

At Wednesday's session of the Legislature many bills were introduced. Representative Kerwood offered a bill making an appropriation of $100 a month as a pension to Lucinda M. Morton, widow of Oliver P. Morton. The bill prepared by Gov. Mount, the State superintendent of public instruction and the State statistician providing for the study of agriculture in the common schools was introduced by Representative Barlow. In the Senate Mr. Nausbaum introduced a bill making it the duty of the Attorney General to visit every county in the State either personally or by deputy once each quarter and make an examination of the county books. It has been decided by the Republican majority that the State shall not be redistricted for congressional or legislative purposes at this session.

In order that some remedial legislation may be accomplished on county and township expenditures, Representative Roots introduced a bill on Thursday which is less extreme in its provisions than the measures framed by the State commission. The bill provides for a purchasing board in each county, composed of township trustees and the county superintendent, whose duty it will be to meet once each year and pass upon all proposed expenses for the term of twelve months. All expenditures not so passed upon are made illegal and uncollectable. All warrants must be signed by the president of the board, and another officer purchasing supplies outside of the authority of the board is subject to removal.

What He Lived For.

The lowliest of lives, in the plainest of surroundings, may sometimes show that the highest wisdom is the absorption of the greatest truths in the simplest way. A writer in the Church Union gives this instance:

The writer's grandfather had an old colored workman, who had been a slave, and was used to the severest kind of labor. No need of a slave-driver for him, however, as his tasks were always conscientiously performed.

Corporal, as the old slave was called, was of a religious turn, and believed with an unalterable firmness in the truths brought to him. In his own simple way he was a good deal of a philosopher, and did not a little good by the every-day showing of his quiet faith. Finally the time came for Corporal to leave this world. The doctor said to him:

"Corporal, it is only right to tell you that you must die."

"Bless you, doctor; don't let that bother you. That's what I've been living for," said Corporal, with the happiest of smiles.

Edison's Plan for Removing Snow.

Edison's latest suggestion is that snow can be removed from city streets not by melting machines, but by portable steam power compressors, which will scoop up the snow in steel scoop buckets and squeeze it into cakes 12x12x12 inches in volume, which will be practically solid ice. Carts and men following the compressor can take up the cakes with tongs as they drop to the street, says Edison, and a market can be found for enough snow cubes to pay the interest on the cost of the machinery.

Women Galore in India.

There are more women in British India (124,000,000) than there are men, women and children in Great Britain, France and Germany put together, with the populations of several minor European states cast in as well.

An Island Disappearing.

A once inhabited island in the North Atlantic is fast disappearing. Some years ago is was 40 miles long by 2½ wide, but it has shrunk to 19½ miles in length and less than one in width.

Lake Dried Up.

Lake Rikwa, or Leopold, between Lakes Tanganyika and Nyassa, in Central Africa, which, when first discovered, forty years ago, was 180 miles long by 30 broad, is reported by recent travelers to have closed up completely. The bed of the lake is now a plain covered with thick woods.

Make Great Pits.

It is said that in the sandy deserts of Arabia whirling winds sometimes excavate pits 200 feet in depth and extending down to the harder stratum on which the great bed of sand rests.

JONATHAN AND JOHN.

Should Jonathan and John fall out
The world would stagger from that bout;
With John and Jonathan as one
The world's great peace will have begun.

With Jonathan and John at war
The hour that havoc hungers for
Will strike, in ruin of blood and tears,
The world set back a thousand years.

With John and Jonathan sworn to stand
Shoulder to shoulder, hand in hand,
Justice and peace shall build their throne
From tropic sea to frozen zone.

When Jonathan and John forget
The scar of an ancient wound to fret,
And smile to think of an ancient feud
Which the God of the nations turned to good.

When the bond of a common creed and speech
And kindred binds them each to each,
And each in the other's victories
The pride of his own achievement sees,—

How paltry a thing they both will know
That grudge of a hundred years ago,—
How small that blemish of wrath and blame
In the blazonry of their common fame!
—Charles G. D. Roberts, in the Century.

IN THE STILLY NIGHT.

BY PAUL CARSON.

I had tried hours to get to sleep and had failed. The steady dripping of rain from a leaking waterspout and the slamming of a blind proved too much for my nerves, and at length with an impatient exclamation I got up, lit the gas, and sat down to read until sleep or morning came, it did not matter which. Of course I was nervous, and without reason, so far as I knew, being a temperate man with a clear conscience. The aggravating blind still banged at intervals, and at length I threw down my book, saying.—

"I'll stop that noise anyhow."

I opened my bed room door, which led into the upper hall, and was met by a rush of cool air. I stopped. I was alone in the house; my family were in the mountains and the servants taking a vacation. I only staid there at night. The draught came from an open window at the end of the hall, and I had sense enough to know that there was a burglar and very likely several of them on the premises. I turned back, secured a revolver and put out the light not caring to be too plain a target for other persons' bullets. Then I softly stepped into the hall.

There was no sound in the great house, and the darkness was positively uncanny. I hesitated as to which way to turn, but decided to visit the lower floor first. Quietly I made my way down to the dining-room; darkness and silence. I crossed the hall to the parlor—nothing there. I turned to the library at the end of the hall, the door of which stood open; there had been fire in the grate earlier in the evening, the night being unseasonably chilly, and the coals were still glowing. My big armchair stood beside the hearth, and in the dim I could see that it was occupied by a woman.

Dumb with surprise, and with ghost stories flittering through my mind, I hastily struck a match and turned on the chandelier above my head that I might see of what material my visitor was made. She made no movement when the room was flooded with light, nor yet when I faced her. She was rather young, very handsome, clad in a loose wrapper-like arrangement, a night robe possibly, and her big brown eyes looking straight into mine. But those eyes saw nothing; the lady was sound asleep. Here was a situation! My guest was a sonambulist, of course, and had come from some house in the neighborhood by a road known only to cats and sleep-walkers. She had raised the hall window which opened upon a little balcony, made her way to the library, perhaps unconsciously attracted by the fire, and there she sat. The rain drove against the windows and I wondered that her clothing was not wet but concluded that her home was not far distant and that she had been sitting by the fire long enough to become dry.

"I'll have to waken her," I said aloud, "but I'll wait a little and see if she doesn't take the job off my hands."

I thought my voice would have the desired eect, but it did not, and crossing the room I sat down at my desk, still facing the sleeper. To tell the truth, I sat down suddenly upon reaching the desk because I had not strength to stand, so abruptly was I made aware of the peril which menaced me. On the opposite side of the library, behind the woman's chair was a curtained alcove, with one window opening upon the street. My safe stood in this alcove, the curtains were drawn, and between them gleamed the barrel of a revolver.

I had read of Maggie Bragg and her husband, two of the most daring burglars in the country. They always worked together and never had any partners, and my house was their latest point of attack. The lady was not asleep; she wasn't even sleepy. I had come upon them so noiselessly and turned on the light so quickly that she had time only to take a sonambulist's pose while the man in the alcove dropped the curtains and waited developments. I remembered a hissing sound that had swept through the room as I crossed the threshold, which I had taken to be some freak of wind and rain. It was Maggie giving the danger signal.

I felt the revolver in my pocket, but the light played along that bit of steel between the curtains, and I was well aware that the other man had the "drop" upon me. I heartily wished I had stayed in my room with the door locked, not being fond of figuring in a murder case, and then I would have had a chance for my life. Jim Bragg thought the safe held five thousand dollars which, in some way, he had learned that I had drawn from the bank the previous afternoon in order to meet a note which should have been presented but which had been delayed in the mail. He was mistaken, however, the money, along with the rest of our valuables, was in the bank. I met the cashier on the street early in the evening and induced him to go to the bank with me and let me place the money in my safe deposit box.

My lady moved slightly, I bent forward eagerly. Presently she lifted her head as if partly dazed, then her arms were thrown up and a wailing cry broke the silence.

"Where, oh, where am I?"

She would have made a capital actress if she had not chosen to be a burglaress. I advanced at once, I knew that revolver still covered me, but I also had a part to play.

"Do not be alarmed, madam; I see you are a sleep-walker. Your home must be near here. I have been waiting for you to waken, fearing to arouse you too suddenly."

Rising gracefully, with an embarassed laugh she said,—

"What an awkward situation! I have walked in my sleep all my life, but never did any thing like this before. I fear I must trouble some of the ladies of your family for a cloak or something suitable for street wear, and if one of your servants would see me home I would be greatful."

"Where do you live?" I said.

"At seven fifteen Spruce street."

"That is three blocks from here; how did you ever come so far without waking?" Or getting wet, I could have added, but thought it unwise.

"That is a mystery known only to sonambulists," she replied. "But," a trifle impatiently, "I am detaining you."

This was a hint to go after the suitable street dress of which she had spoken and incidentally give her a chance to get away.

"I regret to say," I rejoined, "that we are entirely alone in the house; my family is away for the summer, and as my wife has her keys with her, there is nothing I can offer you in the way of clothing; you must let me go to your residence and bring wraps."

I had reflected that I might just as well admit that we were alone, for my visitors were perfectly aware of the fact before they entered the house. She sat down again.

"How unfortunate! I do so dislike to trouble you, but there seems to be no other way. I shall be under a thousand obligations; you will find my brother at home; please have him come after me."

She was certainly a most artistic liar. My eyes carelessly swept the alcove curtains; I could no longer see the revolver, and felt sure that the man in the case, confident that the woman would be more than a match for me, had dropped out of the window and gone, which afterwards proved to be true. I did not want to lose both burglars, but dared make no hostile movements, not being certain that my diagnosis of the situation in the alcove was correct. I lingered, however, for if the alarm was working help was nearly due.

"How can you go out in such a storm?" I said. "You and your brother would better remain my guests till morning; it won't be many hours."

"Oh, I don't mind rain if I have a mackintosh; it is lucky," glancing down at her robe, which was a little damp around the bottom, "that it was not raining when I left home."

Again I thought it unwise to call attention to the fact that when I left the library at eleven it was raining pitchforks. Unable to find excuse for further delay, I passed out, turning as I opened the door, to find that she had again risen to her feet and was watching me.

"You are not afraid to be left alone?" I asked.

"Afraid!" And the brown eyes shot me a glance that made me wince; then, recollecting herself, "That is—I won't be afraid if you will hurry."

The front door was unlocked. Jim had evidently climbed in at the window and let his wife in at the door. Two policemen were coming up the steps, and two more stood under the alcove window.

"You've lost Jim Bragg,' I said, "but his wife is in the library.'

She wasn't though. We rushed to the open window, into which the rain was beating, and then remembered that she could not have escaped that way because the policemen would have seen her; she could not have left by the library door because I had not taken my eyes off it, and must therefore be concealed in the room. We searched carefully—I remember looking in a big vase that would have sheltered a cat with a little crowding—but we found nothing.

Two years later the enterprising couple were caught in an attempt to rob the same bank that held my valuables that wet night. It was a brazen day light affair. The woman engaged the cashier's attention while Jim deftly cut the screen between himself and several piles of bank notes, grabbed what he could reach and ran. Fortunately the cashier was up to the times, and a well aimed shot from his revolver brought the fleeing robber to the ground. Citizens came to the cashier's aid, and Maggie, who had promptly taken a part in the general fusilade, was disarmed before doing any damage.

I was curious to know how Maggie escaped us that night, and in company with one of the policemen who figured in the affair, I went down to the jail to see if she would tell me. The lady was not as handsome as when she sat in my library in the role of a sonambulist, but she was just as full of grit. They had had "reverses," she explained. In other words the police were after them so closely that they had been obliged to keep away from the city and had made no rich hauls.

"I believe you hoodooed us," she said bitterly; "we haven't had a bit of luck since that night and we didn't get anything then."

"Did you always dress in that costume when you were out on business?" I inquired.

She laughed.

"Often. The sonambulist act had to be carried out en costume you know. I have played it repeatedly in Europe but that was the first time here."

"How on earth did you keep from getting wet in that storm?"

"Big pocket under my dress, mackintosh in it and all that, you know."

"But how did you get away?"

"Let's see; will I need that t ick again? No, I guess not. I'll tell you. I couldn't have hidden from a school boy that way, but policemen are different. When you swung the library door open, I flattened against the wall behind it, thinking that you would all make for the window, as you did. Before you turned around I was out the door flying down the back stairway. I ran out the kitchen door, Jim was waiting for me in the alley, and we were miles away by daylight. It was dead easy."

They are both in the penitentiary now, and Jim doesn't know that my courtesy to his wife that night was entirely due to a revolver between the alcove curtains.

HOW CUSTER FELL.

"Buffalo Bill" Tells the Story Anew in His Recent Book.

Few events in our history have so touched the hearts of the American people as the destruction of General Custer and his men in their battle with Sioux and Cheyennes at the Little Big Horn in the summer of 1876.

Colonel William F. Cody ("Buffalo Bill") in his new book, "The Great Salt Lake Trail," tells the story anew. Custer's forces were divided into three parts, one led by himself, the others by Majors Reno and Benteen. The two latter were first to be engaged with the enemy, and were repulsed before reaching the Indian encampment. Custer, with his division, dashed on, and sent back to Reno and Benteen the order: "Big village; be quick; send on the packs." Reno and Benteen were not, or thought they were not (Cody severely blames them), in a position to send relief, and Custer was left unsupported:

"Down from the hillside, up through the valleys, that dreadful torrent of Indian cruelty and massacre poured around the little squad, to swallow it up with one grand swoop of fire. But Custer was there at the head, like Spartacus fighting the legions about him, tall, graceful, brave as a lion at bay, and with thunderbolts in his hands. His brave followers formed a hollow square, and met the rush and roar and fury of the demons. Bravely they breasted that battle shock, bravely stood up and faced the leaden hail, nor quailed, when looking into the blazing muzzles of five thousand deadly rifles.

"Brushing away the powder grime that had settled on his face, Custer looked over the boiling sea of fury around him, peering through the smoke for some sign of Reno and Benteen, but seeing none. Still thinking of the aid which must soon come, with cheering words to his men he renewed the battle, fighting still like a Hercules, and piling heaps of victims around his very feet. . . . .

"The fight continued with unabated fury until late in the afternoon; men had sunk down beside their gallant leader until there was but a handful left—only a dozen, bleeding from many wounds, and hot carbines in their stiffening hands. The day is almost done, when look! Heaven now defend him! The charm of his life is broken for Custer has fallen; a bullet cleaves a pathway through his side, and as he falters another strikes his noble breast. Like a strong oak stricken by the lightning's bolt, shivering the mighty trunk, and bending its withering branches down close to the earth, so fell Custer; but like the reacting branches, he rises partly up again, and striking out like a fatally wounded giant, he lays three more Indians dead and breaks his mighty sword on the musket of a fourth; then, with useless blade and empty pistol, falls back, the victim of a dozen wounds.

Two Guns.

Not a few of the returning campaigners at Camp Wikoff were burdened by the weight of two equipments, although they had scarce strength enough to carry one. Why some of them were so laden is indicated by a case related by the New York Commercial Advertiser.

A man of the Thirty-third Michigan was loaded down with baggage, and over his shoulder he carried two guns, tied together with twine. He was smoking a cigar, and kept up a constant stream of bantering remarks in a reckless way.

"There's our train, boys," he said, as his company crossed the platform and clambered down the sandy slope toward the siding. "Don't you see the sign? 'Improved Stable Cars.' Well, thank goodness, we're going the other way this time."

When the men halted beside the cars, a bystander said affably to this man, "You've got more than your share of baggage."

"I don't know about that," answered the Michigan soldier, soberly.

"Where did you get the extra gun?"

"It's a dead man's gun. It belonged to a man who was killed down in Cuba."

"And you are taking it home, are you?"

"Yes, I'm taking it to his folks."

The stranger seemed inclined to get more of the story, but the soldier turned his head well away, so that no one could see into his face.

"It belonged to my brother," he said.

Some Industrious Indians.

"The Crows," says Major E. H. Becker, Indian Agent, of Montana, "are still 'blanket Indians,' but they come nearer being self-supporting than any other of the Western tribes. They raised 60,000 bushels of grain in 1898, and they have 40,000 head of horses. They also have a great many cattle, from which they get their own beef supply. The problem of the young generation of Indians is a hard one. Those of them who come east and acquire a higher education than their fellows, after returning to the reservation find little or no use for the learning they have acquired. There is nothing for them to do but drift back into the old camp life, which, of course, brings about retrogression."

THE MAKING OF A SHOE.

Inventive Genius Has Made Wonderful Improvements in the Operation.

It is a far cry from the cobbler of fifty years ago, sitting on his little bench pegging away at the pair of shoes for his neighbor, which must be done on the morrow, to the modern methods and machines for shoe manufacture. Notwithstanding the fact that science has made tremendous advances and invention has done mighty things in almost every branch of industrial life, somehow or other, most people still keep in their minds the vision of the shoemaker of old, bending over his task and patiently boring and stitching, now and then stopping to wax over his thread. But far different is it now. Machines, with the most astonishing accomplishments, pound and hammer and stitch in place of the human hands which lent themselves to this work in the former time. And yet it seems to one watching the processes, as if human hands were somewhere concealed in these cases of iron, so deft and wonderful are the parts. Fancy a machine which can cut and sew 3,500 button holes a day and then revolve in your mind the long and weary toiling of the tired fingers which might have the same amount of work to do. In some cases a pair of shoes goes through 130 distinct processes in the course of its manufacture. A pair of shoes has been turned out in twenty-eight minutes, but that is exceptional, and the manufacturers like better to take time for the goods to rest a bit after some of the processes. A trip by a Free Press was made through one of Detroit's big factories the other day, and some interesting things were noted. The factory has a capacity of 4,000 pairs a day, although this limit has never been reached, and 3,000 a day, or six pairs a minute, is keeping the hands pretty busy.

The hides and skins come in with ragged edges, some with holes here and there, others with unbroken surfaces. It is necessary in some way to get at the quantity of leather in these pieces, a puzzling job. But brains have solved the problem, and there stands a machine for doing the entire work. The skin is put into the machine as into a planer and the number of square feet and inches in its surface is indicated on a dial. The amount of labor saved on account of the irregular edges of the leather can be imagined.

Making the Patterns.

It seems as if the theoretical side of the manufacture of a pair of shoes should begin with the making of the patterns, at which one to five men are kept constantly working. These are cut out of stiff pasteboard, and are smoothly edged with tin. Each part of the shoe must have its pattern. Some of these seem to have very little resemblance to anything an ordinary observer might see in a pair of shoes. For instance, the pattern for the upper looks like a large horse-shoe magnet in shape. With these patterns in hand, the real manufacturer of the shoe is about to begin. From skins of the proper kind and patterns of the proper shape the cutters start the work. Laying the patterns down on the skins they quickly cut the skins the shape of the outlines of the patterns, their knives being razor-edged. The cutters, as well as all the other workers throughout the factory, are guided in their labors by a system of cards issued from the office. When an order comes into the house one of these cards is made out for each kind of shoe wanted, showing the number, kind, the size, the last, the finish, and so on, giving every detail about the shoe which is to be turned out. This card follows that lot of shoes wherever it goes in its wanderings through the factory. So that the cutter knows just what patterns they are to use. When all the necessary parts of the upper portion of the shoe have been cut, including the linings and the fancy tips and tidbits, the lot is sent on to the bottoming department. Here are cut the heels, in-soles and out-soles and various other strange operations are gone through with. The heels and soles are cut by hand with dies. Before each worker is an immense section of a tree trunk, on the top of which the hide is laid. The sharp edged die is placed on the hide and the worker with a fell swoop of his hammer throws out what is to be ere long the sole or the heel of a shoe. The process is exactly like that which mother used in making cookies, with the addition of the extra strength necessary. In an ordinary heel there are six pieces instead of the one which is apparent to the person who examines a finished pair of shoes. These pieces are put together in a machine, nail holes are bored and enough nails are put in to hold the heel together, all with a single motion of the machine. Another machines cut the rough piece which has been hewn out of the sole into the exact shape, and size needed for the shoe desired. This is done by a pattern of the sole in question governing the cutter of the machine. Another machine cuts what is known as a "channel" in the top of the in-sole and around the edge and it is this channel to which the upper is to be sewed. Other machines cut out the pieces of the sole between the heel and the ball of the foot.

Wonderful Machines.

In the next department most of the lighter sewing is done, as well as the pasting together of the linings and the uppers. Scores of girls are busy at the sewing machines, fastening the different parts of the upper together. Here, too, are the button-hole machines which do their work with lightning rapidity. Another sort of machine, with a din and hubbub, cuts the holes for the eyelets and the hooks of laced shoes, and stamps them in securely with marvelous quickness, and the sound of a Gatling gun. Still another sort sews on the buttons, fastening the buttons on as many as 1,600 pairs a day. Beside these is the newest invention, a machine for riveting the buttons on. Seventy-five pairs an hour can be finished on this machine.

Thus, far, the uppers and the heels and soles have been making their way separately through the processes, but they are soon to come together. And now the "last" is to come into play. This is put inside the upper, with the in-sole; the edges of the upper are turned over the edges and tacked down on the sole. Then the out-sole is tacked on by machinery with a few nails, the noise resembling the report of musketry in the distance. Each of the nails in this machine as well as in all the others is made from wire as it is needed, the nails being made and driven at the same instant. But there are still more wonderful machines to be seen. Here, for instance, is one which sews the in-sole onto the upper. This is the welt machine and does 400 pairs a day, whereas a man's work was formerly twelve pairs. Not less wonderful is the stitching machine which punctures the heavy out-soles and sews them at the same time to the upper and in-sole, tying a knot in the most human fashion at every stitch. The awl which makes the punctures, and the needle which does the sewing are curved, and together form almost a semi-circle, the hole being made with one stroke and the thread inserted with the next. The heel is still to be fastened to the sole, and this is done by a ponderous looking machine which drives all the nails in at one time.

BUSY SCENES IN A MODERN SHOE MANUFACTORY.

Other Processes.

There are still dozens of processes to be gone through—the trimming down of the heels, which is done by a machine driving a curved cutter, trimming the edges of the sole, sand-papering the heels and soles, burnishing and coloring the edges, and so on. No detailed description of the processes could be attempted. Suffice it to say that the workings of iron and steel in a shoe factory would astonish the wisest man who has not seen them every day. Improvements are constantly being made and machines which last week were considered marvels are next week thrown out for old iron, as useless in comparison with the new invention. A Detroit man has just invented a jointed last which is said to excel anything else for the ease with which it can be inserted and taken out of a shoe. When once inside the shoe, it can be straightened out and thus made much larger than before. Throughout the many processes, men's and women's shoes are kept separate and different workers make them, so that in one respect shoemakers are not unlike the Quakers. Of course there is an inspector who looks over the finished product thoroughly and throws out any that may be imperfect. Then there is a complete box factory where paste-board shoe-boxes are turned out in large quantities.

Great Japanese Bridge.

Japanese ambition contemplates the erection across the straits of Shimonoseki of a bridge to connect the Kingsui railway with that of the Samyo railway, from Shimonoseki to Hiogo, thus enabling passengers to proceed uninterrupted from the southern extremity of Kinsui to the extreme north of the mainland. As the straits are a mile wide, with a current often running eight miles an hour, and, as the bridge must allow the passage of the largest steamships beneath it, the colossal structure will, if successfully completed, enable the Japanese to boast of an engineering feat so far unequaled in the world.—Philadelphia Leader.

COALING STATION FOR THE UNITED STATES IN THE FAR EAST.

PAGO-PAGO HARBOR, SAMOA, WHERE THE GOVERNMENT WILL BUILD A COALING STATION.

SENOR MATIAS ROMERO.

A Gifted Mexican and Diplomat Who Recently Passed Away.

Don Matias Romero, who died in Washington not long since, was one of the best known foreign diplomats in this country, not only on account of his long occupancy of the Mexican legation, but also through his numerous contributions to American periodical literature, which rendered his name familiar to the reading public. He was very popular in Washington, and earned the regard of many prominent Americans, notably of Grant and Lincoln. He was a man of large heart and generous impulses, as was demonstrated at the time of the failure in 1884 of the banking firm of Grant & Ward, of which Gen. Grant was a partner, when Senor Romero went on from Washington and offered his entire fortune to the general in order to enable him to tide over his personal pecuniary difficulties—an offer that was gratefully declined, and was said to have moved the general to tears.

MATIAS ROMERO.

Senor Romero was 62 years old. He was born in the City of Oaxaca, Mexico, and was given such education as the competent colleges of the City of Mexico had to offer the youth of the nation at that time. He was graduated as a lawyer and began his political and diplomatic career in 1855, when he was entered in the foreign office.

In 1859 he came first to Washington as secretary of legation, and for a time was charge d'affaires. He returned to Mexico in 1863 to fight for his country against the French invaders. After the President had given him a colonel's commission he was selected by Gen. Porfirio Diaz as his chief of staff. President Juarez, after the war, made him minister to the United States, and he remained in that capacity for five years.

From 1868 to 1872 Senor Romero was secretary of the Mxican treasury. His health failing in the latter year he gave up his public life to retire into the country and devote himself to agriculture. He returned to the capital in 1877 and served again as secretary of the treasury and later as postmaster general. In 1882 he returned to the friendships he had made in America, envoy extraordinary from his government. This post he held without a break, and even without absence, save for a short time, until his death.

Senor Romero was a prolific writer and published upward of fifty volumes. A short time before his death Senor Romero was promoted to be ambassador and would soon have presented his credentials as such.

A soft answer turneth away divorce.

A woman's logic is far above a man's morals.

With most women belief is better than proof.

The longest way home is the shortest way to trouble.

A husband doesn't know a good thing when he hasn't got it.

Husbands are necessary only once a month—when the bills come in.

It makes a woman shudder to think how happy she could have made you.

The devil shows you the worst side first. The rest makes it seem better.

If women's good intentions were jewels they wouldn't wear anything else.

Love is divided into quarters—one-quarter vanity, three-quarters jealousy.

Eve wanted to put on clothes merely to be able to have a hat to go with them.

When a woman is convicted she acquits herself by saying she has been misjudged.

Goodness wouldn't seem half so uninteresting to women if it didn't wear such plain clothes.

When a woman likes a man her idea of having him happy is not having him belong to some other woman.

Every married woman would like to see you happy with some other woman, and they'd scratch out her eyes if you were.

Any woman who thinks about it will admit that Adam deserved to fall because he did not increase Eve's allowance for pin money.

Poets often affect carelessness in their garments for the same reason that tramps travel in freight cars.

NO RIGHT TO CONQUER.

Senator Hoar Argues Power of Government Is Limited.

Senator Hoar's long-expected and much-advertised speech against expansion, or imperialism, as he is pleased to call the sentiment in favor of keeping the Philippines, was delivered in the Senate Monday, and for two hours the venerable Massachusetts Senator held the close attention of his associates. It was a remarkable speech in many ways and was filled with lofty sentiments and constitutional argument. Much withering sarcasm was leveled at Senator Platt of Connecticut and some at the President.

Mr. Hoar confined himself pretty closely to the constitutional aspects of the question, disclaiming at the outset an intention to discuss except in an incidental way the policy proposed by the administration of entering upon an expansion of its territory, but making a clear enough statement of his personal position on the subject. He based his argument principally on the declaration of independence and on the national constitution, saying that if the doctrines of the fathers were to be preserved, no right exists whereby we could govern subject peoples. He declared that labor would suffer, that the national debt would be materially augmented, and that the necessary increase in the army and navy would be a menace. The Senator added that if Congress should vote for annexation it would be in palpable violation of its declaration a few months ago that "the people of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent." Mr. Platt of Connecticut made a terse reply, saying the Massachusetts Senator had been building up a man of straw, and that he stood in fear of a mere specter.

SENATOR MASON SPEAKS.

Illinois Man Tries to Arouse Feeling for Filipinos.

Senator William E. Mason of Chicago was the star attraction in the Senate Tuesday, and the galleries were filled to hear his speech against expansion. Senator Mason was just as earnest and enthusiastic in his appeal for the Filipinos as he was for the Cubans last spring, when he declared himself for war and for the independence of Cuba.. He spoke for an hour and a half.

The keynote of the Senator's speech was the belief that in considering the welfare of the natives of the Philippines we should be in reality studying our own best interests. In the course of his speech he said:

"It is easy to drift with the tide, but it is not always safe. The simple resolution I have introduced has nothing necessarily to do with any treaty nor do I intend to speak of any proposed treaty. The resolution does not involve a question of law, but is a question as to the future policy of this republic. I am willing to trust the people and I want the people to hear both sides of the case before the verdict is rendered. In speaking of the Philippines I am speaking one word for them and two for ourselves. A black man said to a Senator the other day: 'I thank you for speaking for my race,' and the Senator replied: 'I am speaking one word for your race and two for my own; nothing ever dwarfed the white race so much as stooping for 100 years to keep the black man down.' I may appear to speak one word for the Philippines, but two for my own people, when I plead for the broad manhood of the man who wrote: 'All just powers of government are derived from the consent of the governed.' You cannot govern the Philippines without taxing them. You have not yet their consent and the proposition of taxation without representation is made again. Look out for tea parties; those little semi-social functions are likely to break out even there, for 'Hail, Columbia!' and 'Yankee Doodle' have been heard in the archipelago."

TRUST TO CONTROL ICE.

Apparently Limitless Resources of Elkins-Widener Syndicate.

One of the most remarkable ventures into which the apparently limitless capital of the Elkins-Widener-Ryan-Whitney syndicate has embarked is the new ice manufacturing concern incorporated several days ago at Trenton, N. J., with a capital of $1,000,000, which may be increased to $5,000,000.

The syndicate has bought 125 acres, with 1,200 feet of water front, at Annandale, Staten Island, and will begin immediately the erection of an ice manufacturing plant which will be five times larger than any in the world.

The capacity will be 1,000 tons a day. The contract for the machinery has been let. R. B. Ayres of the incorporators is authority for the statement that $1,000,000 already has been paid in, and a proposition made to increase the capitalization to $5,000,000. Architects have completed plans for four immense buildings. Engineers are at work staking off sites for several hundred artesian wells, from which the water to make ice will be drawn. The company will erect immense docks, and a fleet of nine modern steel steamers will carry the product to ice depots in the boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx and Queens. The powers given this remarkable enterprise by its Jersey charter are even more broad and comprehensive than were those awarded by the State of Pennsylvania to the Credit Mobilier.

GOV. M'LAURIN ON LYNCHING.

His Message Deals with Necessity of Stopping Outrages.

In his message to the Legislature Gov. McLaurin of South Carolina deals with lynching in a most emphatic manner. He says:

"The remedy suggests itself. See to it that laws are so enacted and so administered that conviction and punishment shall follow crime. It is necessary in mere protection of society and vindication of justice that a stop be put to dilatoriness in the administration of justice, which tends not so much to the protection of individual rights as to the subversion of the rights of society. It should become of itself a high crime and misdemeanor for a sheriff or constable to allow a prisoner to be taken by violence from his hands, even though his own blood should have to be shed to protect the criminal. I recommend that any county in which the crime of lynching is committed shall be liable to the heirs of the victim of the lynchers in the sum of $5,000, and that men who shall be convicted of participating in lynchings shall be deprived of the right to vote or to hold office in this State."

FILIPINOS SUE WILDMAN.

Declare U. S. Consul Holds Independence Fund of $47,000.

The Filipino committee at Hong Kong has broken off all relations with United States Consul Wildman. The committee has issued a writ in the Supreme Court to recover the sum of $47,000, which the Filipinos claim to have deposited with Mr. Wildman as treasurer of the Filipino independence fund in June last.

The members of the committee further allege that sensational disclosures are probable, showing, they add, that the American Government recognized the Filipinos as belligerents by affording them assistance in arms and moral influence to co-operate against Spain, "thus indorsing the agreement made with Aguinaldo at Singapore in April."

AUBURN WEEKLY COURIER.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF DeKALB COUNTY

JAMES A. BARNS, Editor.

Registered at the Auburn, Indiana, postoffice as second-class matter.

THURSDAY.....JANUARY 19, 1899

THE LEGISLATURE.

Indiana Solons at Work on New Laws.

A brief statement of what is being done in the legislature at Indianapolis, is expected by readers of the COURIER. Although readers of the Daily get the full reports in the Sentinel, some have not time to read all.

BILLS.

1. To prohibit prize fighting and making it a felony, and fixing the fine at $50 to $1,000, with imprisonment for two to ten years

2. To reorganize the State Board of Education, making it consist of nine members, no more than four of the same political party. The governor and state superintendent are as now, ex-officio members of the board, the latter being the presiding officer. The object of this law is probably to keep the heads of the state schools off this board, as the non-state schools, like DePauw, Butler University, and others are complaining of such preference as working against their interests and giving all the influence to the state schools, Bloomington, Terre Haute and Purdue.

3. To amend the liquor law, making it unlawful for county commissioners to grant licenses to sell liquor in the residence districts of any city or town. It is also provided that county commissioners who shall violate the provisions of the act shall each be fined not exceeding $100, to which may be added imprisonment in the county jail not exceeding thirty days.

4. To give a state pension—a very unusual thing. This is for the widow of Oliver P. Morton, and the bill, if passed, will give her $100 a month.

5. A bill providing for the regular study of agriculture in our district and all public schools, at leat one hour each week.

6. The bill of Senator Nusbaum, to have the state attorney-general send a man every three months into each county and examine the books of all officers.

7. A bill to reduce street car fare from five cents to three cents.

8. The republican majority has decided not to re-district the state for congressional or legislative purposes, this session. (They could not change the legislative districts this session, but could change the congressional districts.)

9. For a week or two at first, both houses will hold only half day sessions, a very wise plan, as it will give more time for committee work, which in the first part of the term is more important than the regular sessions. Then later on the regular sessions will have more work to vote on the bills prepared in the committee rooms.

The Wood Was Easy.

I. M. Zent is never tired of getting jokes on anyone. If other victims are lacking, his wife will do as well. The other day after hearing the misfortune of John Robbins, who let a stick of wood fall on his foot, while carrying it in—a job Zent claims he should have delegated to Mrs. Robbins, Zent fell to thinking about it. Just then a man came who wanted to sell him a load of wood. "Does it split easy?" said Zent, "for my wife does the work and I want to make it as easy for her as possible." He was assurred the wood split easily. So he bought it, and sent it to the house. As soon as it was unloaded, Mrs. Zent, who had got hold of the nature of the bargain, hunted up two men, had them split and pile the wood, and then sent them to Zent for the pay Here the COURIER'S knowledge of the transaction ends.

The Deadly Grip

Is again abroad in the land. The air you breathe may be full of its fatal germs! Don't neglect the "Grip" or you will open the door to Pneumonia and Consumption and invite death. Its sure signs are chills with fever, headache heavy pains, mucous discharges from the nose, sore throat, and never-let-go cough. Don't waste precious time in treating this cough with troches, tablets or poor, cheap syrups. Cure it at once with D. King's New Discovery, the infallible remedy for bronchial troubles. It kills the disease germs, heals the lungs and prevents the dreaded after effects from the malady. Price 50 cents and $1:00. Money back if not cured. A trial bottle free at H. B. McCord's Drug Store.

Look at This.

Will offer another tile slaughter during the month of January, at the following cash prices.

3 inch tile per 1000			$7 00
4	"	"	10 00
5	"	"	14 00
6	"	"	18 00
7	"	"	23 00
8	"	"	30 00
10	"	"	50 00
12	"	"	70 00
Hollow building blocks			27 00

15 inch tile made to order.

Three miles south-east of Auburn.

W. D. MILLER, Mfg.

BURGLAR ABOUT.

The High Priced Eggs and an Empty Stomach Tempts Him to Crime.

When Mrs, W. H. McIntosh went down cellar Sunday morning about eight o'clock in her work of preparing breakfast, she discovered a good share of the eggs she knew to be in a large dish, were gone. Some cans of fruit, that were setting near the eggs, were also missing. Just then she felt a draft of cool air, and looking up, saw the cellar window near her was open the window being removed. She called the attention of Mr. McIntosh, and they examined the premises. The wood house door had been unfastened from inside and tracks in the white frost on the board walk showed some one had been to the north kitchen window They went to the south cellar window that was open, and saw that some one had pulled away the hay and some pieces of carpet used to keep out the cold there, as this is the point where the waste pipe from the kitchen sink goes out under the window sill, while nearby are the pipes of the cistern pump and the pipe of the well that is driven down through and below the cellar. The thief, after removing the hay, found a strong screen which was nailed in. This he pried out in some way, laid it aside, and then pried loose the window itself which was fastened inside by being well nailed. And in some way, he managed to pull this outside also. Then he must have slid into the cellar feet first, for the window is small and a half of it was not available owing to the lead pipe from the sink above, coming down about the middle and next to that, the pipe of the well. He must have been a pretty small man. He had to drop into the cellar among a lot of potted plants that had been put in there in the fall. But he did not seem to have hurt these. Near by was setting the large dish containing about four dozen of eggs packed in salt. He took about three dozen of these and the fruit and evidently unhooked the door to the stairway leading up into the room used as a wood house, which adjoins the kitchen. The door into the kitchen was securely bolted on the inside. So the thief unbolted the outside door, went out and as noted, probably went around the house. After going out the yard walk to the south, the tracks went west on the board sidewalk to the cement walks on the street, where the tracks did not show. How the fellow carried out his eggs and cans of fruit is a mystery, unless he put them out at the window where he got in, and then took them again after he got around on the outside again. He ran a great risk for Mrs. McIntosh has to be up every little while to care for her father, who is helpless, and both she and her husband are light sleepers. The next hungry thief that invades their store room of provisions is liable to get a "wing shot" from a revolver.

State or Non-State.

Hon. C. M. Brown is on a number of important committees, one being the judiciary committee, the most difficult and important in either house. He is also selected by its originators, including Dr. Burrows of Wabash University, to take charge in the House of the bill designed to separate the state schools from the state Board of Education. This is an important movement, and one that should have been inaugurated long ago. We have the highest regard for our state schools. They are doing and have always done, excellent work. But their influence on the State Board of Education, has in a general way, been of advantage to neither the state school nor the common schools. Our idea is to separate the State Board of Education from both state and non-state schools. Then, neither will have cause to complain of the undue influence of the other, in shaping our common school work, Let the State Board of Education have no strings attached to prevent its giving its entire attention to the common schools, the work for which it was created.

All the News.

The Weekly and the Daily subscription lists have received good additions this week, for which we are always grateful. People have learned that we give the full news, not a mere line or two of a hint. The court news we have in full, and no other paper can get's them. We ask our readers of either the daily or weekly, if they find anything like it in other papers. We challenge comparison, as to the value and interest of the matter we publish. When you are done with the COURIER hand it to your neighbor, so he ever see we are right. And as to quantity we are equal to the best. And in the daily, sending as we do, two papers for the price of one. we average over 50 columns of reading each day, and the Despatch does not average over 20, at the same price. That is the reason people are now coming on the COURIER list and they are people who want to get all the news. They know a good thing when they see it.

A Queer Custom.

In Peru it was once the custom for domestic servants to have two of their upper front teeth extracted. Their absence indicated their servitude.

Killed in Spanish Bull-Fights.

The average number of horses killed in Spanish bull fights every year exceeds 5,000, while from 1,000 to 1,200 bulls are sacrificed.

If You Want A Man's Shoe

To meet the emergency of January to June weather; a shoe every man ought to have, a shoe most men want, no matter how finicky or discriminating he maybe,

Get Our Box Calf!

They're emergency meeters from the word go. We have them in all lasts, and as yet, unbroken sizes. They have heavy double soles, are Goodyear welt have French backstay and covered hooks. We put them on sale today at $2.98

They have been and are worth 3.50. Get a pair at once if you want the Best Shoe you ever had at this price. They are displayed in our West Window.

Bishop AND Reidler

YOUR SHOEMAKERS.

OBITUARY.

Cyrus Batdorf was born in Berks Co. Pennsylvania, Jan. 30th, 1853, and died at Ashley Ind., Jan. 11th, 1899. aged 45 yrs, 11 mo. and 11 days. He was a good man, an earnest Christian and member of Ashley Methodist Episcopal Church where he filled positions of honor and trust to the satisfaction of all. He was universally respected, was willing and ready to die and passed peacefully away to his reward. He leaves a wife and two sons. His funeral was preached by his pastor at the church, Ashley Jan. 13th, and his body was laid to rest by the side of his son Charles in the Waterloo Cemetery.

L. E. KNOX.

Ramie Fiber Clothing.

W. H. Packer of Cleveland has invented a machine to separate the fiber of the Ramie plant, which is said to be a success in every particular and it is believed, revolutionize the manufacture of fabrics. The machine can be operated by a boy and has a capacity of 400 pounds a day, against two a day, which is the output of a man in China. The capacity of the machine can be increased according to requirements.

Ramie, which is grown very largely en South America and the southern states, is a possible substitute for cotton, flax and silk. The fiber produced from it is the strongest in the world.

NOTICE

For convenience of Electric Light Plant Patrons, lamps will be on sale at Davis' Hardware for CASH only. All grievances will be adjusted by me. Until further notice I will be in the office at Fire Engine House evenings.

JAS. L. LEWIS.

BANK STATEMENT!

REPORT
OF THE CONDITION OF THE

FARMERS BANK OF AUBURN,

At the Close of Business Jan'y 12, 1899, made to Auditor of State as Required by Law.

RESOURCES.

Loans and Discounts	$138,697 16
Overdrafts	4,050 86
U. S. Bonds and Securities on hand	5,000 00
Other Stocks, Bonds and Mortgages	1,700 00
Due from Banks & Bankers	81,465 71
Banking House	13,000 00
Other Real Estate	628 41
Furniture and Fixtures	1,501 61
Current Expenses	29 39
Revenue Stamps	66 60
Currency	5,446 00
Specie	8,730 08
Cash Items	2,045 01
Total	$262 360 83

LIABILITIES.

Capital Stock paid in	$ 45,000 00
Surplus Fund	5,000 00
Undivided Profits	5,006 87
Discount, Exchange and Interest	1,011 81
Rent	10 00
Individual Deposits on Demand	53,572 34
Certificates of Deposits on Demand	136,507 65
Bank Deposits	16,252 16
Total	$262 360 83

STATE OF INDIANA, } SS.
DEKALB CO., }

I, A. C. Robbins, Cashier of the Farmers Bank of Auburn, do solemnly swear that the above statement is true to the best of my knowledge.

A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

Subscribed and sworn to before me this 14th day of January, 1899.

J. H. ROSE, Notary Public.

CLUBS AND SPADES.

Auburn Citizens Know how to Handle Them. Same as to Pitchforks.

Last evening about dark, Dr. Baxter had a call to go to the Junction, and on returning about seven o'clock. went to the barn for coal, and while there noticed there was a rustling in the hay overhead. Satisfied there was someone up there, he went over to Cook Ford's and the latter went for the Marshal. In a little while Charles Borst came along and went on guard outside. Soon Mr. Ford, Marshal Potter and Al. Zerwes came, and a charge on the enemy's work was planned. The Marshal took his official club in hand and Dr. Baxter with a pitchfork climebd up aloft, while Cook with a pitchfork and Al. with a spade, stood guard below. In the loft, was found only the nest, a nice warm one. The birds had flown, probably after Dr. Baxter left, and before Charlie Borst got there, for no doubt they had seen the Dr. looking up from the stairway. As the Marshal had just arrested two tramps, when Mr. Ford found him and got him to come up to Baxter's, it is likely the two men in the barn, had fallen into the marshal's hands immediately after leaving the barn. Now the cruel war is over, and the shovels and pitchforks lately so nearly imbrued in the blood of tramps, will be turned into pruning hooks. and Cook and Al. and Doc will learn the art of war no more. And hereafter, when the Doctor goes to the barn after dark for coal, he will keep one ear turned up toward the hay mow.

Steel Country Roads.

(St. Louis Sentinel.)

The steel country roads, with which the United States department of agriculture is experimenting, will practically be constructed as follows: The present design calls for an inverted trough-shaped steel rail, with a slightly raised head on the inside, and an eight-inch tread and 7-16-inch thick, These rails would be bedded in gravel laid in well-drained trenches, and the rails would be tied together at the ends and at the middle. On grades the rails would be indented slightly to prevent the horses slipping on the rails; the joints will be made stronger than the rail to prevent "low joints," and to prevent the formation of rust alongside the rails each joint would form a "remount" for the wheels. The advantage claimed for these steel roads is the reduction in traction from 40 pounds per ion on macadam to eight pounds on the steel rails. The materials for the heavier class of the steel roads of this design will cost about $3,500 per mile in smal quantities The amount of material required is less than 100 tons per mile, and long lines could probably be built for $2,000 per mile The lighter type of road only requires 50 tons per mile and would cost about $1,000 per mile. These prices are exclusive of grading and track-laying.

The Electric Railway.

J. F. Shuman informs us that the electric railway company in which he is interested, received their charter Saturday. They have a charter that gives them a line from the state line of Michigan, down to Orland, thence to Angola, then to Ashley, Waterloo, Auburn, Garrett and Fort Wayne if needed. They will begin work on the line from Orland to Angola as soon as the ground is fit in the spring and complete it at once, so as to be ready for the patronage to the summer resorts this season. The extensions this way, will be made as soon as practicable, or needed. The incorporators, are J. F. Shuman and Judge Powers of Angola; Judge Roby, D. A. Garwood and M. E Griswold of Auburn, and Nicholas Ensley of Indianapolis. They are the kind of men who will make it a success.

Reduced Rates to Hot Springs, Arkansas.

The Wabash Line has on sale ninety-day round trip excursion tickets, to the famous Hot Springs of Arkansas at very low rates. Through Sleeping Cars to Hot Springs with but one change of cars (in St Louis Union Station.)

Hot Springs is the only health resort endorsed and conducted by the United States Government. Climate, like Italy. This is the season to go. Over 300 hotels, and boarding rates to suit all visitors.

Illustrated pamphlets and full information furnished by any Ticket Agent of the Wabash Railroad or C. S. Crane Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent, St. Louis.

Insulating the Mind.

There is a story told of a traveler in the tropical forest who, thinking to drink water from some tree or vine, tapped instead, unwittingly, a rubber-bearing plant. Mixing a little rum with the liquid he quenched his thirst, only to die a few hours later, with rubber bands clogging every turn of his intestines. The insulated victim of this traveler's tale finds his counterpart in actual life in a New Jersey man, who went around lately with a bottle of rubber pellets, which he ate to prevent another man from hypnotizing him with electricity. His idea was, he said, that he would thus "insulate his mind" successfully.—Electrical Engineer.

Value of Columbus' Autograph.

A French autograph collector says that the signature of Christopher Columbus can always find a buyer at £500.

COURT NEWS.

Friday's Daily.

As soon as the case against Shanks was over by a decision in favor of Shanks, the case against Will Ryan came up. It was similar to the case against Sommers, it being charged that Ryan kept his saloon open after 11:00 p. m. the hour when the law requires the saloons to close. As in the Sommers case. It was claimed to have occurred during the Carnival last September, Prosecutor Rhoads and Deputy prosecutor Pomeroy, were for the state, and for the defense were D. O. Moody and P. V. Hoffman. The state had witnesses to show that the saloon was kept open after 11:00. Among them were Charles Eckhart and Simpson Duck, and possibly others that we did not hear. They testified that on passing the saloon that night, they saw that it was running and on looking at their watches saw the time was after 11:00 a few minutes. Ryan, however introduced witnesses, who swore that it was a few minutes before 11:00 when he closed that night. Among those who testified to this, were Ed. Freygang, Chris Fell, Al. Umber, Al Treesh and Marshal Potter. The last named was not so sure as to the exact time Ryan closed that night, but was there himself about that time. The defense also put on number of people in other lines of business, to show that slow time, that is Standard time, is usually the time the business men of Auburn keep. The men put on for this purpose, were: Rev. T. M. Guild, to prove that the churches go by standard time. I. M. Zent for the railroads and a number of men from the various factories, whose names we did not get. There were often, some sharp contests between the attorneys as well as the witnesses. At six p. m. the court adjourned to 8:30 this morning, when attorneys made their arguments, and then the case went to the jury.

Saturday's Daily.

The jury in the case against Ryan, did not go out until about 3:00 p. m. yesterday and wrestled with the case till five this morning. From the first they stood 7 for Ryan and 5 against, till the last ballot, when the five gave in, and he was acquitted.

Monday's Daily.

The Steuben case against Shanks on charge of burning his house, was given last week. The prosecution finding they had no case, withdrew it and stopped. Since then, we learn that the insurance company has offered Shanks $135 on his policy and pay the costs of the suit. This will be no more than fair. At the first trial in Angola, the jury had failed to agree.

Among items acted on the last week, we find:

Ellen Heckathorn had a case for surety of the peace against her former husband, David Heckathorn. He gave $500 bond to "keep the peace with all inhabitants of the state and especially to Ellen Heckathorn," that being the legal form in which a matter of this kind is worded.

B. F. Kennedy sued Geo Stamets and H. P. Stroh on a note, and got judgment $120 50.

The case of Osborn vs Hartman for account, a Corunna case, is put over to next term.

In the divorce case of Laura Gets, a motion was made that he be compelled to pay $25 for her costs in the case It was so ordered, the money to be paid over to Clerk Long by Jan. 26.

The case of Mortorff vs Ling, on note is dismissed,

J. D. Leighty administrator James Draggoo estate, vs G. H. Oberholtzer, on note is settled and case dismissed.

Frank Devinney has been fined $10 and costs on a plea of guilty for selling liquor to a drunk man.

Dan Hook has been fined $20 and costs for selling liquor to minors, He plead guilty.

The case between J. M. Hook and G. H. Dunn, about the sheep was called up again Saturday and argued, and the Judge took it under advisement.

On Saturday, the case between Dunn and Gardner, was to come off, and D. R. Best, of Angola was here to try it. But the jury were out on the Ryan case, and it could not be tried. Mr. Best came down this forenoon, and the case will go on, while Judge Hartman tries other cases in another room. Judge Hartman had been attorney in this case, and so had to get another man to act as judge.

The case of Brown vs Mulholland and of Bradley vs Mulholland came up before Judge Hartman.

The Gardner case is up this afternoon before Judge D. R Best.

Among the attorneys from abroad are Judge Lowry and Mr. Harris of Fort Wayne, Judge Powers, F. M. Powers, J. F. Shuman and Sol Wood of Angola, W. H. Leas of Waterloo and T, R. Marshall of Columbia City.

Tuesday's Daily.

As noted yesterday, the Dunn-Gardner case was started, with Judge D. R. Best of Angola, on the bench. It took some time in the afternoon to get a jury, and then the case was begun. J. F. Shuman, Judge Roby and Attorney Harris of Ft. Wayne, were Dunn's attorneys; for the Gardner estate were. Leas. J. H. Rose, J. W. Baxter and T. R. Marshall. It is a long and complicated affair, but we give it in brief. It appears that Dunn was brought up by the Gardners, who were relatives, but had a small farm of his own. He lived with them, and after his marriage thought of going west. An arrangement was, however, made, by which he was to stay, have the use of the farms and support the old people. Dunn claims he was to have the property at their death. The estate however, denies this, and says he had all he raised and gave nothing of the crops etc, to the old folks, except their living, and they think he had a good enough thing without claiming the property. Later on, they say, he helped Gardner to place a mortgage on his property, and did not say anything about his own claims. It appears that some of the land was sold at sheriff's sale, to satisfy this loan. Dunn also claims, that besides the labor he gave on the farm, he helped to build the house and other building, and to tile the land and make many valuable and expensive improvements for which he got nothing. It will be a tedious case, as much time is used in reading depositions.

Judge Hartman kept court in the witness room a part of yesterday and so far to-day. Yesterday he allowed the town of Auburn a judgment of $20.35 against Robbins and others for building a sidewalk. To day he is hearing evidence in the Shull vs Gaff case, from Stafford township, to see if the latter shall be declared of unsound mind. A good deal of interest is shown in this case, owing to the prominence of the parties, and many witnesses are present

Wednesday's Daily.

Guy Gnagy of Franklin, the young man who stole a lot of clover seed of Martin Hook, was brought up before Judge Hartman Monday and given a sentence of one year at the Reformatory at Jeffersonville.

The Gardner case is still going on A struck jury is selected today, to try the case against the Fort Wayne Consolidated Ry. Co., which comes on next.

He Was Chief

Yesterday morning they had some fun with the two tramps held in the calaboose over night. Marshal Potter routed them out early and as they sat warming by the stove he told them he would call up the chief, which he did by calling in Mr. Quinlan of the Zimmerman factory. Quinlan enjoys a joke and entered readily into the spirit of the fun. Mr. Potter introduced him as the "Chief" and both tramps took off their hats to him and remained uncovered in the presence of the great police department of Auburn. Quinlan put them through a long examination as to their trade, where from, where going etc, etc. Then he and the marshal fell to talking about some orders from the Judge of the Court requiring that all tramps be arrested, locked up and made to work the streets. Here Quinlan's heart seemed to soften. He said it was a pity to be severe with men who were merely unfortunate, and as far as he was concerned, he thought it more humane to give them a chance to leave town and go on their way. The tramps caught at this eagerly and promised if allowed to go, ten minutes would be enough. The chief opened the door. That was all the hint needed. They slapped on their hats, bid the officers good by, slipped out of the door, one hurrying north and the other south, and were soon out of sight.

A FAIR EXCHANGE!

No Robbery!

So runs the old adage. We have a complete line of.....

Hardware, Stoves,
Furnaces,
Wilson's Heating Machines
Turnbull Wagons,
Eckhart Buggies

A Clean Line of Bright, New Goods. You have dollars which we could utilize in paying our bills.

Why Not Exchange?

We will give you the big end of the bargain—give you more for your money than you have ever received before.

Compare our stock and prices with the prices of others and see where we stand, Dollar for dollar and no favors.

We Lead!

Anything and Everything in HARDWARE and FARM MACHINERY.

Give us a chance to show you goods and make you prices.

Culbertson & Boland,

Auburn, Ind.

EDITOR SUED

A Butler Politician Wants Editor Higley's Cash and Subscription Accounts.

A man over at Butler is named J. C. Vernier. For what reason he was assigned this name, deponent saith not. It is the same ridiculous name given to a little measuring stick used to measure very small things. And one is led to believe that just such a scale is needed to estimate Vernier's value. Still he values himself at quite a figure And here is where the trouble comes in. He is a politician, and as usual with that class, wants an office. And he wants it bad. He claims to be a republican, but is accused of voting for the other side, when he fails to get on his own ticket. Last spring he wanted the nomination for representative. He wanted to have some fun with Charley Brown, and later on tread the marble corridors of the Hoosier state house, and yell "Mr. Speaker" for 61 days. But Editor Higley of the Record, wrote an article and published it, saying Vernier was not straight goods politically, and roasted him so that in the convention he was beaten out of his boots by Dr. Darby. Now, he claims in his complaint that had it not been for that Record article he would have been nominated. And he puts his damage at $5000. He wants Higley to take $2500 out of one pocket, and $2500 out of the other, and hand it over. Higley refuses for some reason or other. As Dr. Darby was a much stronger man than Vernier, and as Brown beat him by a big vote, it is plain that Brown would have beaten Vernier by about 1000. Now, we would like to ask any man of sense how much Vernier lost by not being in a position to be defeated for that office. His claim is silly. He ought to give Higley $500 for saving him from the consequences of running against Mr. Brown.

Red Hot From the Gun

Was the ball that hit G. B. Steadman of Newark, Mich., in the Civil War. It caused horrible Ulcers that no treatment helped for 20 years. Then Bucklen's Arnica Salve cured him. Cures Cuts, Bruises, Burns, Boils, Felons, Corns, Skin Eruptions. Best Pile cure on earth. 25 cents a box. Cure guaranteed. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist.

NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENTS

STATE OF INDIANA, } SS:
DEKALB COUNTY,

In the DeKalb Circuit Court, December term, 1898, Anderson F. Small is hereby notified that an action has been commenced against him in said Court, on note and in attachment by Catharine Pfefferl and that the same will be heard and determined on the 6th day of March 1899, being the 1st juridical day of the next term of said Court, which commences March 6th, 1899.

Witness, The Clerk of said Court, this 11th day of January, 1899.

MICHAEL F. LONG, Clerk.

Geo. W. Lackey

Successor To

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

Having just completed our annual inventory we are now in shape for the new year. Heavy purchases for spring, which are already beginning to arrive, demand all the room possible. Consequently we have marked all Winter Goods, Remnants, Short Lengths and Broken Lots at prices that will move them rapidly, This week we are showing extra values in.....

EMBROIDERIES
LACES
MUSLIN
UNDERWEAR
LINENS
WHITE GOODS
SHEETINGS
WHITE QUILTS
CRASHES
LADIES' JACKETS
and CAPES
UNDERWEAR
HOSIERY, &c

The inducement is a saving of dollars and cents which will send a current of enthusiasm through the mind of every shopper that attends this sale,

Geo. W. Lackey

Suceessor To

The Bishop & Lackey Co.

IDEAL MUSIC,

"Sweet as the angel Israfil's,
When every leaf on Eden's tree
Was trembling to his minstrelsy."

can be produced from an EBERSOLE PIANO. The Ebersole possesses a tone that no other maker has been able to imitate—being full and deep, yet with that clear singing quality which stamps it the peer of all upright pianos for homes of culture and refinement.

Frank B. Long,

119 Calhoun-St. cor Washington,

Fort Wayne, Ind.

AUDITOR'S SALE

STATE OF INDIANA, } ss.
DEKALB COUNTY,

Notice is hereby given that, whereas, on the 28th day of March 1898, the County Auditor of said county and state offered for sale at the Court House door in the town of Auburn in said county and state the following described real estate, to-wit: The north three-fourths (¾) of the east one half (½) of the northeast quarter of section twenty-one (21) township thirty-four (34) north, of range fourteen (14) east, containing sixty (60) acres of land to satisfy a mortgage made by Charles W. Woods and Eva Woods his wife to the State of Indiana for the use of the common school, fund dated the 22nd day of August 1889, for one thousand [1000] dollars with interest at six [6] per cent per annum payable annually in advance according to the conditions of a note accompanying said mortgage made by Charles W. Woods whereby he promises to pay to the State of Indiana the sum of one thousand [1000] dollars with interest at the rate of six [6] per cent per annum; and the Auditor receiving no offer for the above described real estate, the Auditor in compliance with the law, bid in the said real estate on account of the said fund.

Now, Therefore, I, Frank P. Seiler, Auditor in and for said county and state hereby give notice that on the 4th day of February 1899, I will offer for sale, between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M., and 4 o'clock, P. M., at the court house door in the town of Auburn in said county and state, the premises herein described on the following terms, viz: One-third cash in hand, and the balance in four equal payments due in one, two, three and four years respectively from the day of sale, bearing interest at six (6) per cent per annum payable annually in advance, said land will be sold to the highest bidder but no bid will be entertained for less than the appraised value.

SEAL

Witness my hand and seal of the Board of County Commissioners this this 12th day of January 1899.

FRANK P. SEILER,
Auditor.

2-4

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM

Cleanses and beautifies the hair. Promotes a luxuriant growth. Never Fails to Restore Gray Hair to its Youthful Color. Prevents Dandruff and hair falling. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

A Visit By Photograph!

Have you not many friends whom you would like to visit, but cannot, because distance prevents?

Why Not Visit By Photograph

?

Surprise and delight them with a good likeness of your self. The cost is small campared with the pleasure it will give. Particulars with pleasure.

Lybarger,

NORTH MAIN-ST.

After the Farmers.

Kansas City grain merchants have made many complaints of late about shortages in the shipments of wheat to that city, and a committee of the Kansas City Grain Dealers' Association was appointed to investigate the matter. It has been found that 26½ per cent of the cars in use for the shipment of cereals are unfit for that purpose, some of them having leaks through which many bushels of grain are lost between the initial point of shipment and the Kansas City elevators. Many cars had also been bored into by thieves in the freight yards and tapped.

The Inducement.

Farmer Hayrick—"I'm goin' ter give Abe as good an eddication as money kin buy." Farmer Corntassel—"Whot college he yer got in mind?" Farmer Hayrick—"Well, Mandy an' me hev pitched on Eton, cuz the name sounds like he'd git plenty of grub."

HUMPHREYS' ANIMAL SPECIFICS.

A. A. CURES	FEVERS, Lung Fever, Milk Fever.
B. B. CURES	SPRAINS, Lameness, Rheumatism
C. C. CURES	EPIZOOTIC, Distemper.
D. D. CURES	WORMS, Bots, Grubs.
E. E. CURES	COUGHS, Colds, Influenza.
F. F. CURES	COLIC, Bellyache, Diarrhea.
G. G.	Prevents MISCARRIAGE.
H. H. CURES	KIDNEY & BLADDER DISORDERS.
I. I. CURES	MANGE, Skin Diseases.
J. K. CURES	BAD CONDITION, Staring Coat.

50c. each; Stable Case, Ten Specifics, Book, &c., $7. At druggists or sent prepaid on receipt of price. Humphreys' Medicine Co., Cor. William & John Sts., New York. VETERINARY MANUAL SENT FREE.

NERVOUS DEBILITY,

VITAL WEAKNESS

and Prostration from Overwork or other causes.

Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 28, in use over 40 years, the only successful remedy.

$1 per vial, or 5 vials and large vial powder, for $5 Sold by Druggists, or sent post paid on receipt of price. HUMPHREYS' MED. CO., Cor. William & John Sts., New York

Monday's Daily.

—Herman Brown was home from Wolcottville over Sunday.

—Wm Seeley and his son-in-law Mr. May, of Newville are in town.

—Ask any druggist for a free Pe-ru-na Almanac for the year 1899.

—Senator Nusbaum and Hon. C M. Brown went back to Indianapolis last evening.

—A dispatch from Havana says that all the Spanish soldiers have now left the island.

The administration will soon make appointments of Cubans to important offices in Havana.

Levi Kessler, of Fairfield township, was here today and made a business call on the COURIER

Mrs. Ellen McClellan was taken sick Saturday evening and is quite ill with something like grip.

—U. S. Senator Wellington of Maryland has come out emphatically against the peace treaty as it now stands.

—W. H. McQuiston, of Logansport is here. He says I. N. Cool is getting ready to move to Paxton, Ill., next week.

—I. B. Brandon paid th 1900 on Saturday, coming in a day ahead of time And he can sleep sound now for a year to come.

—WOOD WANTED:—At this office. All who were to pay us in wood are requested to bring it as soon as they can, as we need it.

Cuban soldiers are occupying the towns of the provinces of Matanzas and Santa Clara as fast as the Spanish evacute them.

—Within two weeks it is expected that congress will order an examination of the wreck of the Maine, lying in Havana harbor.

—E S. Loutzenheiser of Keyser is the first fortunate man to enroll his name as a new subscriber this week. We welcome all such to our list.

—Ninety men were taken from the receiving ship Vermont at the New York navy yard to go to Manila as reinforcements for Admiral Dewey.

—We give a correct picture today of Aguinaldo, the so-called president of the Philippine Islands about whom everybody is talking. The picture is from a photograph.

—A large hill of gold bearing rocks has been found not far from Skagway, Alaska, where Collie Andrews was when he wrote the letter we published the other day. It goes $2000 to $3000 to the ton.

—Horrib'e agony is caused by Piles, Burns and Skin Diseases. These are immediately relieved and quickly cured by De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. Beware of worthless imitations. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—"Gold Lake" in Alaska has been drained as it was known to contain a vast amount of rock rich with gold. The gravel at the bottom runs $2. to $20 a ton, and with what is in sight in the rocks, will yield many millions.

—The contest for a new U. S. Senator in Mississippi is a strange one. No republican is asking even a complimentary vote, for the excellent reason, that neither house has a republican member. The fight is all among democrats.

—Deputy Prosecutor Pomeroy had Lung of the Junction up before 'Squire Walter this morning for running a slot machine in his saloon, and allowing minors to gamble with it. It cost Lung $35.60 to get right well acquainted with the slot business.

—H. E. Trout was suffering severely with neuralgia Saturday and was using chloroform to relieve the pain, and took a little too much. They found him in his room helpless, and had to send for Dr. Swarts to get him right again. It might have proved a serious affair.

—WANTED;—Local or traveling salesmen to sell our Oils, Greases and Petrolatum on commission exclusively, or as a side line. Goods guaranteed and prices low. 3-4
PENN PETROLATUM CO., Oil Refiners, Coraopolis, Pa.

—Mataafa has been elected King of Samoa, to succeed Malietoa. The election was held without trouble. He had been King once before, but was set aside by the powers in order to stop a quarrel between him and Malietoa. Now the the latter is dead. Hence the change.

—John McManus, the tax agent of the Wabash Railway Co., was at the Auditor's office to-day to find the valuation of the Wabash on our assessment books, so as to enable him to know about what their tax will be. The railroads pay handsome sums into our treasury each year in taxes.

—Food does more harm than good when not digested. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It prevents wasting diseases and cures stomach troubles. It cures indigestion, sour stomach and belching, and allows a wornout stomach rest. It acts instantly. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—The Kendallville Sun, says that "Dekalb county people are discussing the propriety of building a new court house." Go away from home to hear the news. We are going to pay off the rest of our debt first and will not build for many years. Our court house does very well—is as good as it ever was.

—Why? Do you complain of Indigestion, Constipation and Liver Ills, when BEGGS' LITTLE GIANT PILLS are within such easy reach. They are today without a superior, do not grip or gripe, and can be relied upon to effect a speedy cure when all others are without the least avail. Be sure and ask for "Beggs." Take no substitute. For sale by Howard B. McCord.

Tuesday's Daily.

—Miss Lena Schiffli is visiting her parents near Summit.

—Isaac Barker was a caller Saturday He is teaching at Summit, having been the teacher in that district for several years.

—The smallest things may exert the greatest influence. De Witt's Little Early Risers are unequalled for overcoming constipation and liver troubles. Small pill, best pill, safe pill. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Bishop of St. Joe, returned to their home today. Mrs Peter Bishop and Mrs. Z. Kagay of the same place will remain here till tomorrow. All had been here attending the funeral of George B. Zimmerman.

—The daughter of Mayor Taggart of Indianapolis was among the passengers of the steam launch Paul Jones, that is believed to have sunk in a storm on the Gulf of Mexico with all on board. Mr. Taggart has gone south to see if he can get any news.

—Unclaimed letters remaining in the postoffice, week ending Jan. 17th, 1899 Mrs. S. L Wyman, Mrs. Chas. Gock Mrs. Reana Boaker, Miss Eliza Gardner. Mr. Fread Steaveson, Mr. Chas. Hecker, Mr. Thomas Ellison and Mr. A. Nicholson. Claimants will please call for letters in advertised list.

G H FORKNER, Postmaster

—J. H. Gregg, of Dundee, Kas. writes: "My little daughter who has been troubled with croup ever since she was three months old, I never found anything to relieve her until I tried BEGGS' CHERRY COUGH SYRUP, and has cured her entirely. I think it is the best cough Syrup on the market. Howard B. McCord.

—J. R. Cosper lies quite helpless, at the home of his daughter, W. H. McIntosh. He is simply wasting away of old age, he being now 87. He does not seem to suffer, but is helpless, and almost speechless. He has to be fed and helped like a child. But he has all the comforts and care and loving attention that a child could have. He only waiting as he whispers it, for the change, and says he is ready at any moment.

BUTLER.

Isaac Stiefel has so far improved as to be able to set up and go about the house.

Butler is to have a new telephone service, to be known as "The Butler Telephone Co." A very large number of subscribers has been secured.

The M. E. quarterly meeting occurs next Sabbath.

Vernier's libel suit against the Butler Record is creating quite a breeze among the one horse politicians.

A fortune is hardly in sight, for the plaintiff George Draw has bought the Bowman saw mill and will perhaps move it to some point where there is more timber than there is around Butler.

Word from John T. Champion and wife who are staying with their daughter Minnie in Chicago, is that they are improving in health.

John Crouse, sr., and wife remain in feeble health.

Charles W Campbell will return to Chicago this week.

There is some sickness about town, but very light compared to reports from many other places.

The liquor cases against Dan Hook and Will Oberlin were compromised at a fine of $20 and costs.

Mrs. Jerome Brown seems to be making a favorable start as superintendent of the M. E. Sunday School. The attendance last Sunday was about 150.

WILMINGTON.

Mr. Tom Weicht has added twenty acres to his farm having purchased the same from William Pifer, of Butler.

Hiram Wallace who has been sick for the past month is slowly recovering.

P. D. Ginder's family is having a serious time with the grip. His aged mother who is making her home with him is in a critcal condition.

Wm. Moudy and wife are spending a few days in Jackson township, their former home.

Mann Culler and wife spent Sunday with Charley Keller.

Meeting has begun at the U. B church at Moores under the charge of Rev. Wagoner.

Words of Truth.

We the undersigned druggists of the Upper Peninsula of Michigan unite in saying that Warner's White Wine of Tar Syrup has no superior as a throat and lung remedy. It has given entire satisfaction in this part of the country and is one of our very best sellers.

STAFFORD DRUG CO., Marquette, Mich.
H. J. ATKINSON, Harbor Springs, Mich.
J. M. PERKINS & CO., Negaunee, Mich.
H. M. POWERS, Ontonagon, Mich.
D. T. MACDONALD, Calumet, Mich.
F. P. TILLSON, Ishpeming, Mich.
A. J. SCOTT, Hancock, Mich.
RUDELL & CONWAY,
Sault St. Marie, Mich.

Davenport the druggist.

—THE PENNY MAGAZINE, New York, which is the lowest-priced magazine in America (20 cents a year), and which is owned by Chauncey M. Depew, the eminent American orator, wants a representative in this vicinity. It is a good opportunity for one of our ambitious young men or young women. Applications should be addressed to the SUBSCRIPTION DEPARTMENT, The PENNY MAGAZINE, Temple Court, New York City.

Wednesday's Daily.

—J. A. Campbell of Butler was in the city yesterday.

—S. E. Williams put his name to the 1900 list yesterday.

—Dr. Hines' mother who has been sick, is reported better.

—Alvin Baker is able to be out again after quite a long pull of sickness

—Mrs. Silver went over to Butler to day to visit her daughter, Mrs. Jeff Boyle.

—Gen. Blair was over from Waterloo yesterday. He has been having a siege of grip.

ROOMS to RENT. Suitable for family, on the second floor of the M. Kline property. Call on him.

—The little daughter, of Chas Kinsey went to Fort Wayne today, to join her mother who is there.

—Mrs. Edward Freeman, near Collingwood is very low today and her death may happen any hour.

—Parties having accounts with Cowan Sisters are reqested to call and settle. MRS. A. C. LEAS.

—Wm. Ensley brought us a load of as fine wood yesterday as we ever saw. But wood like this is really getting scarce.

—A profusion of beautiful carnations at the TenEyck Green House. on 2nd st., two doors south of Van Buren st. Call and see them.

—WANTED:—Black Walnut logs for timber. Highest cash prices paid for same. Address, The Sanders & Egbert Co., Goshen, Ind. 8

—Mrs. Woodworth's meetings will close Friday evening. Then, after a short rest, she expects to go to Roann to hold a similar protracted meeting.

—On account of the growing demand for our $1.50 cabinets we have decided to continue making them, for a short time only. LYBARGER

—Mrs. Peter Bishop of Spencerville, and Mrs. Z. T. Kagey of St. Joe, who have been here since Monday, visiting relatives returned home this morning.

—Mrs. J. B. Baxter has a letter from her step-daughter Annie Baxter, who is now with W. T. Bope's family at Badaxe, Mich. She is well and contented.

—The different committees of the Band Fair, met last evening at D. A. Hodge's store, and made arrangements for the fair, which will be held the last of this month.

—G. C. Ralston has been at Logansport a week or so, helping I. N. Cool in the moving of his factory to Paxton Ill. The force of Mr. Cool, was greatly reduced by the sickess so prevalent everwhere now.

—WANTED:—Fifty new subscribers who wish to pay for the COURIER in wood. Tell your neighbor about it, and if he wants the best paper in the county, and pay in trade, tell him we are ready for him.

—Geo. McIntosh, brother of W. H. McIntosh, is lying hopelessly sick at San Monica, Calif., his disease being consumption. Many of our people will remember him, as he has visited Auburn at different times.

—The Union Pacific has reorganized with its capital stock at 136 millions. The fees paid to the state of Colorado, for the incorporation under the state laws, was $20,402.50, the largest incorporation fee ever paid.

—Brandnew blood is what conquered Spain, and what you can have to conquer the world by using BEGG'S BLOOD PURIFIER AND BLOOD MAKER. There is no substitute. We keep it. Howard B. McCord.

—Mr. McQuiston says that his brother Capt. McQueston did not accompany his regiment, the 4th regulars when they went east through Fort Wayne, the other day. He is detailed to remain at home on recruiting duty.

—Scalds, Burns, Old Sores, Tumors, Piles, are all relieved at once, and in time effectually cured by the use of that perfect ointment, BEGGS' GERMAN SALVE. Ask your druggist for sample and take no other. Howard B. McCord.

—Gov. Mount will ask the legislature to provide a place to keep the relics of the Spanish war, brought back by the Battleship Indiana. Relic hunters are after them and are liable to carry off any small thing they can get hold of.

—FOR SALE CHEAP:—A Lady's "1897 Model" Bicycle, in First-class condition, Green Enameled frame, highly ornamented nickel-plated, with Bell, good Lamp and Cyclometer. Will sell very cheap for cash. For information call at this office.

—The emperor of Russia has been making a great blow about reducing his army and navy, and wants other nations to do the same. But all the time he is hurrying up new ships and enlisting more men in both army and navy. He is evidently playing a sly game.

—The Swineford House has been having a siege of the grip. First George was laid low then his wife was taken quite sick with the prevailing epidemic. At the same time, Mrs. S. C. Swineford was sick in bed for several days. We are glad to state however, that they are all much better, and able to be about.

—We have received from Col. I. B. McDonald, one of the trustees of the State Soldier's Home at Lafayette, annual report of the Board of of Trustees showing the present condition, the work of last year, and so on. As far as we, are able to judge, the report is satisfactory. We visited the home last summer, and feel assured its interests are in good hands, and the old vets carefully and even tenderly cared for.

The Greatest Sale Yet

For Shoe Buyers

In order to clean up our stock and make room for our spring goods. we have cut the prices of every pair of winter and fall shoes in stock. We are not offering old styles and out-of-date shoes. but straight, honest-made and up-to-date goods.

Just Look at These Prices:

Women's Satin Calf and Grain Shoes, worth $1.50 and $1.25—mostly small sizes—for.....	75c
Women's Evening Calf Shoes, worth $2.50, for....	$1 75
Women's Box Calf, Goodyear Welt, worth $3.50 $3.00 for.....	$2 25
Misses' Kangaroo Calf and Oil Grain, Heel and Spring Heel Shoes, worth $1.50, for.....	$1 00

One Lot In Women's:

Fine Vici Kid Shoes, worth from $2.50 to $3, for	$1 50
One Lot Extra Fine Vici Kid in Turn and Welt—the finest goods we goods we keep—worth from $3 50 to $4, for	$3 00

A few broken lots of men's and boys shoes at correspondingly low prices.

Don't miss this sale if you want good shoes for a little money. These are the greatest values ever offered. Thanking you for past favors.

We Remain Respectfully Yours,

R. SHULL,

Auburn, Ind.

New Laws.

Bills have been introduced in the legislature this week, as follows: in the Senate:

Nusbaum—Limiting the special sessions of county commissioners to business provided for in the call by the county auditor.

For the protection of fish.

Providing penalties for stealing dogs.

Licensing cigarette dealers, $50 for wholesalers and $200 for retailers.

Compelling justices of the peace to use seals.

Appropriating $1,000 for expenses of the state board of education to advertise for books.

For the reorganization of the state board of education

Protecting dogs on which taxes have been paid.

Licensing dentists and providing for a board of dental examiners.

Authorizing building and loan associations to go into liquidation at any time.

Authorizing courts to hire stnographers.

Providing for the maintenance of libraries in townships.

To permit farmers to organize mutual cyclone insurance companies.

For licensing firemen.

Establishing an additional institution for the deaf and dumb at Evansville.

Repealing the truancy clause of the compulsory education law and placing the duties upon the teachers and trustees.

IN THE HOUSE

Concerning county business. The commission bill. County and township business.

For the relief of Stewart Porter of Daviess county.

Relating to an increase of the members in state board of education.

Relating to the incorporation of citie.

Concerning taxation of real estate.

Concerning the appointment of court stenographers.

Regulating the administration of relief to the poor.

Concerning work on roads.

C. M. Brown—Insurance companies cannot forfeit policies without giving sixty days' notice.

To provide boards of county charities and corrections.

Regulating sale of intoxicating liquors.

Regulating the importation of dependent children.

Concerning construction of county line roads.

There is a bill to provide a good suit of clothes to each prisoner when he comes out of the pen and to pay his fare home.

Also a bill making it discretionary with the judge to grant a change of venue. Now he has to do this on a proper affidavit.

CASTORIA.

Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

An Oregon Minister.

I received the bottle of White Wine of Tar Syrup. One of my children was very sick with croup, and as your medicine was pleasant to take I gave it, and it gave almost immediate relief. I would not be without it, and I also recommend it as a medicine that should be at all times in every family. West Union Oregon. REV. H. STAUP.

Davenport the Druggist.

For Sale

At a bargain, the H. E. Braun brick building south of the jail, formerly south of the jail, formerly owned by Mrs. I. E. Rader, consisting of a business room on first floor and dwelling rooms on second noor. Apply to

WM. XX MCDONALD,
Waterloo, Ind.

Annual Meeting.

The Annual meeting of the Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance Co., will be held at Auburn, Saturday, Jan. 28th 1899, at 10:00 o'clock, a. m. in Opera House basement.

W. F. C. Francis Secy.
R. S. S. Reed Pres.

Unlettered Women of India.

It is said that out of 150,000,000 women in India not more than 1,000,000 can read.

City Comforts for Country Homes

CHEAPER AND BETTER THAN ELECTRICITY CITY GAS OIL LAMPS

Will light the house, cook, broil, roast, bake, wash, iron, heat rooms, pump water supply, run gas engines etc.

Send for Free Catalogue

LIGHT FOR EVENING HOURS.

DETROIT HEATING and LIGHTING CO

DETROIT • • • MICH

WE GIVE ANY LADY

or man, who will take orders for our Leghorn Hen Food, in their own town,

A SOLID GOLD WATCH, FREE

We make this offer for a short time, in order to get our Food into more general use. It increases yield of eggs, and keeps fowl in good health. Send us 50c. for a regular $1.00 size box, and begin to take orders at once.

Pamphlet, with more information about hens, sent on receipt of self-addressed, stamped envelope. Address

Leghorn Food Co. (311-M) Boston, Mass.

ANECDOTE AND INCIDENT

Noise is not usually a passport to popularity, but the new archbishop of Canterbury, by his powerful voice, won the affections many years ago of a Devonshire farmer, who, sitting near the bottom of the church, where the then bishop of Exeter was preaching, was overheard to say, admiringly: "I do love the Bishop, 'cos he hollers proper."

A good story is told of a dog that one day discovered an organ-grinder's monkey seated upon a bank within his master's grounds and at once made a rush for it. The monkey, which was attired in jacket and hat, awaited the onset in tranquility so undisturbed that the dog halted within a few feet of it to reconnoiter. The animals took a long stare at each other, but the dog was evidently recovering from his surprise and was about to make a spring for the intruder, when the monkey raised his paw and saluted by lifting his hat. The effect was magical. The dog's head and tail dropped and he sneaked off to the house, refusing to leave it until his polite but mysterious visitor had departed.

When the Franco-Prussian war was declared it is said that Von Moltke was awakened at midnight and told of the fact. He said coolly to the official who aroused him: "Go to pigeon-hole No. — in my safe, take a paper from it and telegraph as there directed to the different troops of the empire." He then turned over and went to sleep and awoke at his accustomed hour in the morning. Every one else in Berlin was much excited, but Von Moltke took his morning walk as usual, and a friend who met him said: "General, you seem to be taking it very easy. Aren't you afraid of the situation? I should think you would be very busy." "Ah," replied Von Moltke, "all my work for this time has been done long beforehand and everything that can be done now has been done."

R. H. Russell, the publisher of C. Dana Gibson's art books, was invited to a tea in Richard H. Davis' apartments some time ago (says the Sun). He managed to drop in before the throng, and as he was gazing on the various curiosities scattered in profusion about the room his eye fell upon a calendar, conspicuously displayed, which was crowded with an obtrusive array of memoranda of teas, receptions, dinners, etc. On one evening there was this modest entry: "To dine with Russell." To say that Russell was surprised is to put it mildly. He recognized in this entry a little device of Davis to fill up his calendar for himself if others would not do it for him. He kept his own counsel, however, and when Davis disappeared from the room for a moment he quietly turned the pages of the calendar and against one of the evenings of the following week he placed this entry: "Invited Russell to dinner. Russell accepts."

In the early days of W. S. Gilbert's success a young woman who was a member of one of the "Pinafore" companies, wrote to him of her approaching marriage with a young man of good position and family. Gilbert congratulated the young woman, and expressed the hope that her future might be prosperous and happy. A little more than a month passed, and another letter from the same girl reached him, in which she stated that her engagement with the young man had been broken, and that she had accepted another suitor. He replied that he had every confidence in her judgment, and again expressed his hearty wishes for her welfare. Almost two months after that, Gilbert received a third letter from the same girl, who informed him that young Lord —— had proposed and that she had accepted him, after breaking her engagement with No. 2. Gilbert then wrote: "I desire to congratulate you on your approaching marriage with ——." Here he placed an asterisk, and in a foot-note added: "Here insert the name of the happy man."

A good example of Gladstone's authority over his hearers is given by George W. Smalley in his paper on Mr. Gladstone in Harper's. Mr. Smalley drove down from London to Woolwich with the late Ashton Dilke, a man of much force of character, to hear Mr. Gladstone speak to his constituents. As they left the hall, Mr. Smalley asked Mr. Dilke what he thought of the speech. "You know," he answered, "that I am no friend of Mr. Gladstone, and am out of all political sympathy with him. But so long as he spoke I was his disciple. If he had told us to go out and set fire to the town, I should have gone." Another anecdote of a different nature took place in the anteroom of Schaw Lindsay's office, when Mr. Gladstone, who had just become chancellor of the exchequer, was waiting till the ship-owner was at liberty. Seizing some paper, he became absorbed in the preparation of a public document, unconscious that he was being closely watched by another person in the room. This other person was a rough Northumberland shipowner. Suddenly he addressed Mr. Gladstone, in the rude Doric of the north: "Young man, are you in want of employment? If you are, I could just do with the likes of you in my office at North Shields. I have been watching you this half-hour, and I never saw a man get through so much work in the same time before. Come to me, and you shall have a place in my office."

EXPERT TOBACCO TESTING.

Cuban Buyers and Their Highly Developed Sense of Smell.

The greater part, in fact, practically all, of the tobacco leaf raised in Cuba and not used by the Cuban cigar-makers is shipped to the United States. At certain seasons of the year the Havana hotels are filled with tobacco buyers from the States. Some of them deal through the broker in Havana, but some who know the country and the language go out into the tobacco district and deal directly with the planters, often buying a promising crop before it is picked. The tobacco buyer has necessarily to be a good judge of tobacco. He goes down into the very center of the bale of tobacco he is examining, extracts some samples and tests them in different ways.

The first test is that of smell. The Cuban tobacco has a strong and peculiar odor. A little variation one way or the other makes the tobacco good or bad. After smelling it the buyer is likely to roll a rudely constructed cigar out of the leaf and smoke it. He will inhale the smoke and endeavor to determine exactly the flavor. He will also examine the ash carefully and test also the combustion of the tobacco—that is, try to find out how long it will hold fire. It is a great annoyance to a smoker who is talking or writing or otherwise engaged to put his cigar into his mouth and find that it has gone out. No cigar ever tastes so good after it has once gone out, and a fine Havana cigar is positively rank when it has met such a catastrophe. So one quality sought for is that of holding fire. If a sample smoked by the buyer will keep lighted four minutes it is considered very good. Some will burn for five minutes and even longer without being puffed.—Ohio State Journal.

BURIED WEALTH IN FLORIDA.

Booty of Old-Time Pirates Being Hunted for in St. Augustine.

Some negroes engaged recently in removing the coquina walls of an old Spanish casa in St. Augustine that had been demolished to make room for a modern structure found a few Spanish doubloons in a little niche that had been cut into the wall. The date on one of the coins showed it to be 160 years old. It is supposed that the coins were placed in the hole in the wall during the Seminole Indian war of half a century ago. Every man was his own banker in those days, and they hid their gold in the walls, chimneys, under the houses, and those who believed that ghosts would keep bad people away hid their gold in the graveyard. Periodically there is a revival of gold hunting, many of the early settlers believing that the old town is rich in gold deposits, and whenever an old building is to be torn down, many volunteer to work for "just what they can find." Within the last few years several sums of gold have been dug up on American islands, opposite St. Augustine, by fishermen. This led to organized parties, whose prospecting was guided by visions from clairvoyants, who can discover fortunes for others, but not for themselves.

That there is a great deal of hidden treasure in Florida there can be little doubt, but the secret of the hiding places died with the Spaniards who were killed by the ferocious Seminoles and the pirates who infested the coast in early times. Anastasia island was frequently visited by Lafitte, the pirate of the Gulf coast, whose voyages extended to Galveston, Texas, and he left buried gold at many points on the coast. "Black Caesar," a negro, also scourged the coast, and, it is believed, buried some of his stolen treasure on Anastasia island.

The crews of wrecked vessels also buried their money along the coast and were either killed by the hostile Indians or fled for their lives. In either event, the treasure remained buried and its location forgotten or the sailors never returned.

The stories of hidden treasure on the coast of Florida and St. Augustine are not myths, based upon stories of early Spanish residents, as many lucky finds will testify. An exploring party, under the guise of tourists, recently took a trip down the coast, touching at the various islands and putting in at the inlets, ostensibly fishing and hunting. While this is part of the program, they are out more for profit than for pleasure.

Small sums of money are occasionally found in the houses, along the old landing places, and even in some of the old graveyards.

ARCHDUKE AT POSTOFFICE.

Lordly Officials Compelled to Exhibit Courtesy to a Peasant.

An amusing incident has occurred at Trieste. A peasant presented a parcel for dispatch to an official in the central postoffice of that town, and was roughly told it could not be received, as it was improperly done up. The peasant inquired how it ought to be done up, and the official sharply replied that it was not his business to tell him. Here a gentleman intervened on the peasant's behalf, but was told by the official that if he had any fault to find he had better complain to the superintendent. The gentleman did so, but was told that postal officials could not be expected to teach the public, and that if he was not satisfied he had better complain to the director. The gentleman hereupon pulled out a card, and said:

"I have no time to go to the director. I request you to go to him yourself and tell him that I order him to come here intantly and himself instruct this man how to make up this parcel."

The superintendent looked at the card and trembled when he read the name of the Archduke Louis Salvator. The director lost no time in coming. He stormed at the superintendent, who in turn stormed at the official, and all three nearly fell over each other in their zeal to show the peasant how to do up his parcel. A more carefully made up package probably never passed through the Austrian postoffice. The incident, however, has excited a grave question. All the newspapers approve of the Archduke's intervention, but some pertinently ask whether he had any right to "order" the director to do anything. The champions of the constitution are exercised, but after all the important thing is that the peasant got his parcel off.—London Daily News.

Changing the Odor of Flowers.

Artificial flowers now imitate the natural ones so truthfully that they are much used in room decoration, and the practice has become much more widespread since manufacturers have succeeded in giving them a lasting perfume. But a still more remarkable fact is that Dutch horticulturists have produced delicately fragrant varieties of flowers among those species which usually have a disagreeable odor. Thus sunflowers exchange their pungent smell for the scent of the rose, camellas are made to smell like violets, the faint perfume of primroses is intensified and the large cyclamens acquire the exquisite aroma of the Alpine violets. The process is still a secret, but it is said that horticultural science will soon be prepared to disclose it.

It is useless to extract a promise by force unless you are prepared to continue the pressure of compulsion indefinitely.

TAKEN FOR A LEPER.

MAN KEPT IN CONFINEMENT FOR SEVEN YEARS.

John Anderson Taken from His Home and Imprisoned Alone on the Belief that He Had Leprosy—Story of His Unique Case.

After being buried for seven years from the eyes of the world, consigned to a hovel in solitary confinement, fed from a trough into which his meals were dumped, and seldom spoken to by a human being, John Anderson, the leper of Lima, Pa., has at last been given his freedom. It has taken seven years to discover that the so-called leper was not a sufferer from that dread scourge, and the grand jury, after investigating the case, recommended that Anderson be sent back to his home in Sweden.

ANDERSON.

While the hearts of all Americans have been wrung with sympathy for the barbarous treatment of Dreyfus and his isolation on Devil's Island, there has been within a few miles of Philadelphia a human being deprived of his liberty, of association with his fellow men, treated like a wild beast, and buried in a living tomb.

In all these years he has not touched the hand of a human being nor heard a voice save the occasional shout of the person passing his prison. As a consequence of his isolation, he has grown to be more of a savage than a human being.

Anderson, who is about 40 years of age, is a mechanic. For years he was employed in Roach's shipyard, at Chester. About seven years ago he was taken ill in his boarding house with a peculiar malady, which the attendant physician was at a loss to diagnose. Another physician was called in, who, in turn, summoned others, and after a consultation pronounced Anderson a leper. The authorities were notified and immediate steps taken to place him in solitary confinement. He was taken to Media, consigned to the care of the authorities of the poor-house, and a house was erected for his safe keeping. Situated in the center of a fenced-in field, the nearest building to it being the barn of the poorhouse, a half mile away, with a big bare room, the furniture of which consists of a rude couch, an old stove, and a trough into which his meals are dumped. Anderson for seven long years has lived alone.

HOUSE IN WHICH HE HAS LIVED.

Fed from a Trough.

Since the day Anderson took up his abode in this house no other human being has crossed its threshold. Even the pathway that formerly ran by the door has disappeared from lack of use, and no one has gone inside the fence, save the keepers, who carry the pail of food and dumped it into the trough. The house is desolation itself, the grass around it grows high and the small tree at the foot of the steps leading to the main door spread out its branches as if in token of warning to keep away. The front door was never open. Whenever the alleged leper had occasion to seek the fresh air he went out by the rear door, which is reached by nine high steps, at the top of which is a small porch, the favorite spot of Anderson.

So fearful have the authorities and attendants been of the dreaded disease that the ashes from the stove created by the fuel burned by Anderson have never been moved from alongside the house in the seven years he has been under their charge, and to-day form a mound many feet high. Neither the house nor the porch nor the steps have been swept or cleaned in all this length of time.

Afraid of a Human Voice.

The other day a reporter called upon Anderson to tell him that he was to be released. As he opened the door he was greeted with a gust of air which for foulness beggars description. Entering the room, which was in semi-darkness, he opened a shutter to admit the light, and the scene that met his gaze was more revolting than the air that met his nostrils. The room was unoccupied. The floor was greasy, covered with dirt and filth. In one corner of the room an old comfortable stuffed with cotton, almost torn into shreds, marked the place where the alleged leper spent his nights. The crude wooden table, on which were some rust-covered tin dishes; an old chair, and an old iron barrel stove completed the furnishing of the room. The visitor entered another room and as the sound of his footsteps broke the silence he heard a startled movement in the far end, and the next minute a voice exclaimed: "Go away! Go away, in God's name. What do you want with me? Leave me alone to die." Assured that no harm was to come to him, Anderson was persuaded to come into the next room.

INTERIOR OF THE HOUSE.

Aside from a pallor acquired by long confinement there is no unusual discoloring of the skin. There are no botches or scales, which are the pronounced symptoms of leprosy, on his hands, face or neck, nor are the finger nails discolored or decayed. When informed that the grand jury had decided that he was not a victim of leprosy and that the State contemplated sending him back to Sweden, Anderson said: "I have no desire to go anywhere. For years I have been hounded and persecuted like a wild beast. I was taken forcibly from my home, brought here, chained to the floor. I became convinced there was no hope, no future—nothing but death before me. For seven years I have lived here alone until the sight of man, the sound of the human voice and the customs of the people with whom I was formerly associated are so entirely unfamiliar to me now that it would be like beginning life anew. I have been branded as a leper, whom all my fellow beings have been warned to shun. My name has become a byword, my alleged affliction so well know that it would be impossible to cultivate acquaintances anew. If I were given my liberty I would be without home, without friends and unable to secure employment. It is best that I stay where I am until my end comes."

ENGLAND'S NEXT QUEEN.

Stories Bearing on the Personality of the Princess of Wales.

Queen Victoria recently admitted that of all the members of her royal family, excepting only her youngest daughter, the Princess Beatrix, she has most love for her probable successor, the beautiful Princess of Wales.

Alexandra, the next Queen of England, will enjoy in a way all the power wielded by her husband and will have the full social prestige now belonging to her mother-in-law. For this reason and perhaps because she likes to keep herself young enough to enjoy this the Princess of Wales devotes a portion of her time to athletics. She exercises constantly, and one room at Marlborough House is filled with automatic side saddles, stationary bicycles and all sorts of athletic aids. She rides horseback—indoors and outdoors

THE PRINCESS OF WALES.

—two hours every day, and weighs herself frequently to be sure that she is not gaining.

The Princess of Wales has never concerned herself with state matters, although she must know what is going on. She has always been absolutely indifferent to such things, unless swerved to one side or the other by personal favoritism. The Queen, who knows every line of the possibilities of her statesmen, has ever been a politician, looking for improved service, civil and military, but Alexandra has never worked along political lines, and never will; she is not that kind of a woman.

Alexandra has her little weaknesses—all womanly ones. She is fond of novels, a thing the Queen despises, unless of the classic sort. She dislikes famous people, such as authors and artists, for she is timid in the face of genius, while the Queen will have nothing to do with any other. Alexandra loves fancy work and can outline a worsted dog to perfection, while the Queen never takes a stitch. Alexandra notes the hang of the skirt and the cut of the sleeve. Victoria is calmly oblivious to everything except court dress.

Britishers will have something to do to get used to their new Queen, for they will have to reconstruct all their ideas of royalty. Court dresses and jewels will shine in the dull old rooms and music and laughter will be heard where now only the echoes startle the shadowy figures of former gaiety. Alexandra has been preserving herself to have her royal "fling," and she is woman enough to insist upon it.

Every one who gets up an amateur entertainment says that he will never get up another. He has a harder time than the man who gets up a picnic that is rained on.

To every woman there comes the time when she tries to prove her love for her husband by watching the gas meter to catch it at wrong-doing.

It's pretty hard to make a schoolboy believe in an all-wise Providence when it rains on a holiday.

A NEW OIL CRAZE.

SUDDEN FORTUNE BROUGHT TO MANY POOR WEST VIRGINIA FARMERS.

The Greater Part of the Development Has Been on Land That Was Almost Worthless—Streaks of Luck—Eccentricities of Oil and Gas.

West Virginia is passing through an oil craze at present, writes a Sun correspondent from Parkersburg. A stranger at one of the hotels anywhere hereabouts will hear nine men out of ten talking about the clinal and anti-clinal, salt sand and Berea grit, pressure and leases, 45-degree line and royalties and a thousand and one other things which are more or less meaningless to him. What he does understand all relates to oil. Some men and women are growing rich, while others are losing everything in the rush for oil.

Nature, in this instance, has been most charitable, as the greater part of the development thus far has been on land so poor that the owners were put to it to make a living. Rough and rocky hills and soilless creek bottoms, almost worthless for farms, produce nine-tenths of the oil in West Virginia, and hundreds of poor farmers who a few months ago found it difficult to raise the commonest kind of food and pay for the cheapest of clothing are to-day monthly depositors in the banks of this city. Royalties and rentals are being paid in sums ranging from a few dollars up to thousands every month to farmers clad in rusty butternut and ragged clothing. Drake farm was rented six months ago for $250. The man who leased the place lost confidence in the territory before any development was made, and offered it to an oil land speculator for $140. His offer was refused by the speculator but was taken by another. A few days ago the lease sold for $20,000. A year ago a farmer living near this city was head over heels in debt and was at last compelled to move to a farm owned by his mother, fourteen miles north in order to make a livelihood. He leased the land for oil purposes a few months ago and in less than 60 days three paying wells were struck on the place. They were all good wells and the royalties amounted to almost an independent fortune.

The farmer paid his debts and put some money into a bank and was about to start back yesterday when he received the intelligence that another well—a gusher this time—had been struck on his farm. The last well is considered the best shallow, salt sand well in West Virginia and is reported to be flowing 100 barrels an hour. In a law office here there is a notary public who seldom had a dollar to spare. The lawyer received several months ago, in return for legal advice, a twenty acre lease of a farm twelve miles away. As a reward to the notary for little acts of kindness the attorney gave him a fourth interest. Last Tuesday a well was struck on the lease, and it is now quoted as a twenty-barrel-an-hour well.

Oil scouts are traveling all over this region hunting for desirable properties. The scout keeps tab on all the wells, producing or dry, for miles around. He thereby secures a knowledge through which his employers, some wealthy firm or corporation, are enabled to get the best-paying territory or to buy out good producing wells. Nearly every large oil company has in its employ a number of scouts. Following the scout comes the leaser of lands. His business is to select what is considered valuable territory for prospecting and to secure leases, binding himself to sink or begin a certain number of wells in a certain number of days and to pay a certain monthly rental. These leases are all plotted and offered for sale to the speculator or prospector. Sometimes it occurs that a lease is refused as valuless and is given up when, perhaps, within sixty days' development in its vicinity brings it within the production boundary, and there is a rush for its possession. One prospector may offer $100 for it, and in less than twenty-four hours another may increase the bid to $1,000 or even $5,000, with a royalty of one-eighth or one-fourth of the oil.

All these things add to the excitement of the pursuit, which is not, however, confined to the search for oil. Natural gas, which some years ago was allowed to go to waste as useless, is now as eagerly sought. Good gas wells are in many localities much more valuable even than good oil wells. One gas well may produce enough gas to run a whole pool or section of oil wells, while others are sold to the big gas companies, and the product is piped to distant towns. The city of Parkersburg is an instance. Natural gas is used in nearly every house and factory in the town, and it is much cleaner and cheaper than coal.

Oil men often say there is no telling what a well may do. It may go on from day to day, year to year, producing oil or gas with as much regularity as the swinging of a pendulum or it may break loose in a minute and make trouble for everything in its vicinity. When the Big Moses well was struck it flowed as all self-respecting wells should, filling the tanks with oil day after day, until one unfortunate afternoon something broke loose. Then gas, sand, salt water and other things lying 2,000 feet below began to come to the surface. The owner tried to plug the orifice, but Big Moses wouldn't have it. Every plug inserted was blown out, and a great column of gas shot up into the air. The owner finally had an immense casting made which weighed several tons. This casting was placed over the mouth of Big Moses after a great deal of trouble, and the proprietors turned away with a sigh of relief, satisfied that at last they had secured control of the terror. A few days later they found that the pressure had opened a new outlet, and the well was again pouring out gravel, sand and all sorts of rubbish. Not only was this the case, but the forces which had been confined had cracked the earth for long distances around, and gas in great jets was bursting through. Before a stop could be put to its capers the gas caught fire, and the fire spread through the woods. The well was ruined.

For a wonder no one was injured in this case. There are many instances, however, in which lives have been destroyed by igniting gas, notably that of a well on Whiskey Run. This well, situated in a natural amphitheatre, surrounded by hills, filled the little valley full of gas one morning. The gas caught fire from a pumping well and did great damage. Among other things, a boarding house was burned and four lives were lost.

There is another well ten miles above this city which has a remarkable feature. It flows once a day and produces salt water and oil. At 11.45 the well begins to rumble, and a minute or two later a great column of water and oil rushes forth, spreading over the top of the derrick and falling in a shower on the ground. The rush continues for something like half an hour, when it ceases entirely, to reappear twenty-four hours later.

A well is sometimes sunk to its required depth, found to be as dry as the proverbial bone, and is plugged, only to burst forth unexpectedly and cover the surrounding land with oil. On the other hand, a good producer will sometimes quit in a second and refuse ever after to respond to either pump or dynamite, all of which goes to show that the eccentricities of an oil well are past finding out.

WHY WE WON.

How the Man Behind the Gun Was Trained in Our Navy.

From the time of the destruction of the Maine in the harbor of Havana, on February 15, our naval force in southern waters had been placed partially upon a war footing. It was not by any means that war was considered inevitable. On the contrary it was thought that even should the court of inquiry decide that the Maine had been treacherously destroyed, Spain would meet all reasonable demands; but the state of preparation was a state of security demanded by military prudence, and also was valuable to men and officers as a discipline and exercise. The men had already been well trained at the guns—well instructed in their mechanism and manuals—the principal business of the cruising man of war in time of peace; but to this training was added constant daily target practice with sub-calibre fire—a form of exercise which is much approved, and for which all batteries are now fitted. It consists in firing a small projectile from a large gun, employing the pointing and aiming mechanism of the latter. To effect this the small gun is placed inside the breech of the large gun and precisely in its center, and is held there by a special fitting. So adjusted, its axis coincides with that of the larger piece, and, except for the shock and recoil, the normal firing conditions with full charge are imitated. One-pounders are ordinarily employed for the sub-calibre of the heavy turret guns, and musket barrels for those of the secondary batteries. During those waiting days at Tortugas and Key West, fluttering flags a few hundred yards from each ship showed the targets, and for hours each day the splash of bullets followed the rifle reports with monotonous regularity. After each shot the gun was swung off the target, brought back, and aimed anew for the next, thus making it an independent exercise. It was not inspiring or dramatic, this steady burning of powder in small quantities during the sultry afternoons, but it was the sort of work which makes war deadly, and it bore its fruit in the swift and terrible destruction of Cervera's fleet.—From "The Naval Campaign of 1898 in the West Indies," by Lieutenant S. A. Staunton in Harper's Magazine.

White Deer.

I have heard of not less than three white deer being killed in Wisconsin alone this fall. One was taken into Ashland by F. C. Klady, H. Palmquist and Eric Scheideen, who shot it November 19. Another was killed by Ole Catfish, a Flambeau Indian, on November 10, on the Lac du Flambeau reservation. It weighed 254 pounds and had good antlers. It was bought by the Indian agent and sent to Chicago for mounting. A third albino deer was killed by A. Vine, son of the school superintendent, on this same Flambeau reservation. It weighed 225 pounds, and also had a good set of antlers. This specimen had a few small dark spots on the legs, but was otherwise white. In the case of Ole Catfish, the Indian, it would appear that he is forgetting a good many of the sacred traditions of his people, one of which says that the Indian who shoots a white deer is forever accursed and followed by ill fortune. Perhaps Ole Catfish is willing to take a few chances in that line for the sake of the additional price that a white deer brings in valid coin of the realm. Superstition and commerce sometimes blend rather strangely.

Dr. John Hall's Modesty.

Several years ago, when the famous Scotch-Irish Congress met in Springfield, Ohio, the late lamented Dr. John Hall was one of the delegates. Though many distinguished men were in attendance, he was the star of greatest magnitude, and all were anxious to see and hear him.

At a reception tendered by the citizens to the delegates in the parlors of the hotel at which he was stopping, he won the admiration of every one by his hearty cordiality, and was fast monopolizing the honors of the evening. By and by, when he realized this he began skillfully to divert the attention away from himself, guiding it into the proper channel.

"I am forgetting myself," he would say to those who lingered round him, fascinated by his brilliant conversation; 'you will not wish to give me all your time. Have you met the officers of the association? No? Then let me present you to them," and immediately he led the way to the receiving line in so gracious a manner that none could be offended

A Scotch Custom.

In the Scotch Highlands there used to prevail a custom of bleeding cows for human food. One writer says that "this immoderate bleeding reduces the cattle to so low a plight that in the morning they cannot rise from the ground, and several of the inhabitants join together to help each other's cows."

JOSEPH CHOATE NOMINATED.

President Names Him as Ambassador to Great Britain.

The President on Wednesday sent to the Senate the nomination of Joseph H. Choate to be ambassador to Great Britain.

Joseph H. Choate stands at the head of the legal profession in this country as a practicing attorney. He has no peer as an after-dinner talker. Mr. Choate is a New Englander by birth and by reason of a long line of ancestors. He was born in 1832 and early in life started out to win a name independently of any virtue or renown which his father, the learned Dr. Choate, had won. He graduated at

JOSEPH H. CHOATE.

Harvard with high honors and immediately began the practice of law. Senator Evarts heard his first pleading and was so amazed by it that he prevailed upon the young barrister to form a partnership with him. Not many years after this partnership was formed Choate could sign his check for $1,000,000 and still leave enough in the bank to make the ordinary lawyer rich the balance of his life.

Choate has appeared in many of the greatest cases of the past twenty years. He was instrumental in breaking up the Tweed ring, made the argument for Fitz-John Porter, defended Gen. Cesnola in the famous criminal libel suit brought by Gaston Feuerdent, argued the Stokes will case, and his opinion was sought in the Behring sea controversy.

BEVERIDGE FOR SENATOR.

Indiana Republican Solons Nominate Him in Caucus.

The Indiana Republican caucus nominated Albert J. Beveridge of Indianapolis for United States Senator on the twelfth ballot.

Albert J. Beveridge was born on a farm in Highland County, Ohio, in 1863. He is a self-made man, having worked his way up. Great privations enabled him to attend Depauw University, from which he was graduated with distinction. On locating in Indianapolis Beveridge entered the law office of Senator McDonald.

ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE.

Beveridge's career as a political speaker began during the Blaine campaign and he has since then stumped several States successfully. Since that time Beveridge has won national distinction, beginning with his address before the Union League Club of Chicago in 1895. He closed the Republican national campaign in 1896 in Chicago at the Auditorium.

TURNS IN BRIBE MONEY.

Montana Senator Gives Investigating Committee $30,000.

The managers of United States Senator Clark's campaign deny emphatically the charges made that they attempted to bribe members of the Montana State Legislature in the interest of their senatorial candidate.

The Senate and House met in joint session in Helena to hear a report of the committee appointed to investigate alleged attempts at bribing members. The committee produced and exhibited $30,000 in $1,000 bills, which Senator Whiteside of Flathead County claimed had been paid him and three colleagues to vote for W. A. Clark of Butte for United States Senator. The money was ordered deposited with the State treasurer, subject to the order of the Legislature.

Whiteside testified that he had induced Senator W. A. Clark of Madison County, Senator H. L. Myers of Navalii County and Representative Garr of Flathead County to see the Clark managers. According to the testimony, they had done so, and Clark received $10,000, Myers $10,000 and Garr $5,000. They had given the money to Whiteside and he had turned the whole amount over to the investigating committee.

CALLS MILES A LIAR.

Commissary General Bitterly Attacks Chief of the Army.

Most vigorous and sensational testimony was given before the war investigating commission Thursday by Commissary General Eagan, who, appearing unexpectedly to meet the allegations against the beef issued during the war, vigorously arraigned Maj. Gen. Miles, commanding the army. He denied numerous statements of Gen. Miles and said whoever called the beef furnished "embalmed beef" was a "liar." Later on in his testimony Gen. Eagan called Maj. Gen. Miles a "liar, who lied in his throat, lied in his heart, lied in every part of his body," who perpetuated a gross scandal, and who should be drummed out of the service and imprisoned, "and should be avoided by every honest man and barred by every club." He characterized Gen. Miles' interviews as "filth."

Miners' Cases Are Settled.

The seventy cases of Pana miners and citizens charged with participating in the riots of Sept. 1 and 28 last, were disposed of in the Circuit Court at Pana the other morning. State's Attorney Humphreys nolled fifty-nine of the cases, while eleven pleaded guilty and were given sentences.

Old Iron Mills Destroyed.

Old-style iron mills that cannot compete with modern concerns are rapidly being transformed into old junk in eastern Pennsylvania. This is notably the case at the once busy iron town of Catasauqua. From 1873 to 1890 were the golden years of prosperity for that valley.

Sure Cure for Colds

When the children get their feet wet and take cold give them a hot foot bath, a bowl of hot drink, a dose of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and put them to bed. The chances are they will be all right in the morning. Continue the Cherry Pectoral a few days, until all cough has disappeared.

Old coughs are also cured; we mean the coughs of bronchitis, weak throats and irritable lungs. Even the hard coughs of consumption are always made easy and frequently cured by the continued use of

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Every doctor knows that wild cherry bark is the best remedy known to medical science for soothing and healing inflamed throats and lungs.

Put one of

Dr. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral Plasters

over your lungs

The Best Medical Advice Free!

We now have some of the most eminent physicians in the United States. Unusual opportunities and long experience eminently fit them for giving you medical advice. Write freely all the particulars in your case.

Address, Dr. J. C. AYER, Lowell, Mass.

As Black as Your Hat — DYE Your Whiskers

A Natural Black with Buckingham's Dye.

50 cts. of druggists or R. P. Hall & Co., Nashua, N. H.

DO YOU COUGH DON'T DELAY TAKE KEMP'S BALSAM THE BEST COUGH CURE

It Cures Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Croup, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis and Asthma. A certain cure for Consumption in first stages, and a sure relief in advanced stages. Use at once. You will see the excellent effect after taking the first dose. Sold by dealers everywhere. Large bottles 25 cents and 50 cents.

Biliousness

"I have used your valuable CASCARETS and find them perfect. Couldn't do without them. I have used them for some time for indigestion and biliousness and am now completely cured. Recommend them, to every one. Once tried, you will never be without them in the family." EDW. A. MARX, Albany, N. Y.

CANDY CATHARTIC Cascarets TRADE MARK REGISTERED REGULATE THE LIVER

Pleasant. Palatable. Potent. Taste Good. Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken, or Gripe. 10c. 25c. 50c.

... CURE CONSTIPATION. ...

Sterling Remedy Company, Chicago, Montreal, New York. 321

NO-TO-BAC Sold and guaranteed by all druggists to CURE Tobacco Habit.

Wheat! Wheat! Wheat!

FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

"Nothing but wheat as far as the eye could reach on either side—what you might call a sea of wheat"—was what a lecturer, speaking of Western Canada, said while referring to that country.

For particulars as to routes, railway fares, etc., apply to C. J. Broughton, 1223 Monadnock Bldg., Chicago, Ill.; M. V. McInnes, No. 1 Merrill Block, Detroit, Mich.; D. Caven, Bad Axe, Mich., or Jas. Grieve, Reed City, Mich.; Agents for the Government of Canada.

GATES TOURS

MEXICO

JANUARY-FEBRUARY, 1899

SIXTH ANNUAL TOURS BY SPECIAL TRAIN DE LUXE.

First tour leaves January 17th, Second tour leaves February 11th.

GATES TOURS OF MEXICO

Are made by special trains of Palace cars including Compartment sleepers, Ladies' Parlor and Observation Car and Dining Car serving all meals en route. If you are interested in these grand tours of thirty days through the strange, weird, and interesting

"LAND OF THE MONTEZUMAS,"

Apply for books of the tours, rates covering all traveling expenses, assignments in sleeping cars, etc., etc., to R. G. Thompson, Special Representative for Mr. Gates, Wabash Ticket Office, Fort Wayne, Ind.

SORE EYES Dr. ISAAC THOMPSON'S EYE WATER

PATENT secured or money all returned. Search free. Collamer & Co., 3 F St. Washington, D.C.

FURS IN RUSSIA.

The Sealskin So Much Prized at Home Is Useless There.

It seems a contradiction to speak of a "cold fur," but that is what the Russians style some of the wraps that we in the United States ignorantly consider warm enough for the coldest climate.

One of the first things an American woman has to do when she reaches Russia is to reconstruct her ideas on the subject of furs. Her beloved sealskin goes far down on the list. It is one of the "cold furs" that no Russian lady would care to wear as a lining—and it is as linings that all furs are worn—because it is too tender. The only thing it is good for is a short jacket to be worn between the seasons, and then it must be used entirely for walking. A woman who sets out on foot in that garb must surely return on foot, for if she took a carriage or sledge she would be running a serious risk of catching cold.

The pretty squirrel skin is reckoned among the "cold" cheap furs, and is given up to the unfashionable world, while the mink, also a "cold" fur, though expensive enough, is used by men only, just as is the pretty mottled skin obtained by piecing sable paws together. The proper furs for the climate are the "downy" furs that, beginning at the brown goat, go all the way up to that climate of beauty and luxury, the black fox or the silver fox, soft and delicate as feathers, and warm as a July day. The kuni is a fur that was used by royalty in the olden time, and was the unit of currency. It is costly when dark, and has a tough, light-weight skin, which is an essential in all furs that are to be used for large cloaks. Sables, rich and dark, are worn like the kuni, by any one who can afford them—court dames, cavaliers, Archbishops, and merchants, with their wives and daughters. Cloth or velvet is the proper covering for all furs, and the colors worn for driving are often light and gay.

Clothed in these furs the Russian seldom takes cold. Few Russians wear flannels. The houses are kept delightfully warm, and at places of entertainment no extra clothing could be borne. No Russian enters a room, theater or public hall at any season of the year without removing his cloak and overshoes, and no well-trained servant would allow an ignorant foreigner to trifle with his health by so doing.

The foreign churches are provided with cloakrooms and attendants. In the Russian churches this would not be practicable, as so many are coming and going, but even here some of the richer people keep a servant to hold their cloaks, just inside the entrance.

Germany and Asia Minor.

It is inevitable that Asia Minor shall eventually pass from Mohammedanism, and whether Germany accomplishes the task or not, the Sultan must yield to a Christian nation. It is just as inevitable that diseases of the digestive organs must yield to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, which are usually called dyspepsia, constipation and biliousness.

Fashoda's Big Game.

Big game is said to be extraordinarily plentiful in the region of Fashoda. The river swarms with crocodiles and hippopotami, while great herds of antelopes of various kinds and giraffes are frequently met with. The latter fact is particularly interesting, as most of the zoological gardens in the world are in want of a specimen of the North African giraffe, which they have been unable to obtain, owing to the closing of the Central Soudan for so many years.

A Remedy for the Grippe.

A remedy recommended for patients afflicted with the grippe is Kemp's Balsam, which is especially adapted to diseases of the throat and lungs. Do not wait for the first symptoms of the disease, but get a bottle to-day and keep it on hand for use the moment it is needed. If neglected the grippe has a tendency to bring on pneumonia. The Balsam prevents this by keeping the cough loose. All druggists sell the Balsam.

A Discontented Hangman.

One of Australia's ablest hangmen went on strike for increased salary a couple of weeks ago. He had somewhere picked up the rates of pay which man-butchers get in other countries (in France the executioner gets £300 a year) and he protested against playing the blackleg any longer. He was persuasively talked over, however, and the strike is off.—Sidney Bulletin.

Write It Down.

Write it down in a book, so you can see it every day, that St. Jacobs Oil is as sure to cure Lame Back or Lumbago as you write it down. It does its best with it and leaves behind a cure that stays.

A Strong Plea.

The Court—I have a good mind to make an example of you.

The Prisoner—Don't do it, judge; don't do it. Fer the sake of our fellowmen, don't do it. It was examples that druv me to drink. My wife was always holdin' some chap up as an example. Don't make me one fer other women to point at. Have pity on their husbands.

Asheville.

Only Through Car Line is via Queen and Crescent Route and Southern Railway from Cincinnati.

Don't scold your wife in the presence of others; they may think you are afraid to do it when alone with her.

Light is the task where many share the toll.—Homer.

Warm Blood

Coursing through the veins feeds, nourishes and sustains all the organs, nerves, muscles and tissues of the body. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes warm, rich, pure blood. It is the best medicine you can take in winter. It tones, invigorates, strengthens and fortifies the whole body, preventing colds, fevers, pneumonia, grip.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is America's Greatest Medicine. Price $1. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Hood's Pills cure sick headache. 25 cents.

ASTHMA

POPHAM'S ASTHMA SPECIFIC

Gives relief in FIVE minutes. Send for a FREE trial package. Sold by Druggists. One Box sent postpaid on receipt of $1.00. Six boxes $5.00. Address THOS. POPHAM, PHILA., PA.

GEN. MERRITT'S RISE.

Was a Cadet at 22 and a Major General Five Years Later.

Seven brevets and promotions, all for "gallant and meritorious service" in the field, all won in the space of two years, is the unique record established by Major General Wesley Merritt, soon to be, in all probability, the United States military governor in the Philippines. Six times he was rewarded thus for bravery in particular engagements, and once for his service during the entire campaign. In 1860, at the age of 22, he graduate from West Point. He emerged from the war a major general at 27.

It was in the battle of Beverley Ford that Merritt made his mark. The engagement, known as the battle of Beverly Ford, is recognized by military writers as the most conspicuous cavalry engagement of the war. The numbers on each side were nearly equal, the ground was favorable for mounted operations, and the fighting lasted all day, from 5 in the morning until nearly 7 at night. There were two young officers on the Union side who won great glory that day. They were Merritt and Custer, both of whom were immediately afterwards made brigadier generals.

At the battle of Gettysburg, his next big fight, Merritt performed service which was not fully appreciated until later. His command got into the fight on the third day, the day after Pickett's charge and engaged the extreme Confederate left near Round Top. He was facing a superior force, but he kept it so busy that when Lee sent word to Longstreet to move forward and back up Pickett Longstreet replied that the Yankee cavalry was giving him all that he could attend to, and that he was unable to help Pickett. Considering the mighty results that hung on small chances that day, it is difficult to say how great Merritt's service to the country really was. It did not go unrewarded, for Merritt was breveted major from July 1, 1863, "for galant and meritorious conduct."

On the 11th of May, 1864, Sheridan was only six miles from Richmond, when he was opposed by Stuart's cavalry. The later believed that the safety of their capital was at stake and fought like demons. Sheridan usually knew how his battles were coming out, but he was anxious on that day, and for a time the issue hung in the balance. Then a great cheer rose on the left of the Union line, and Merritt's and Wilson's divisions dashed forward in a sabre charge that swept the Confederates off the field and carried the day for Little Phil. That action made Merritt a brevet lieutenant colonel.

GEN. WESLEY MERRITT.

Merritt's fourth distinguished reward was won in the battle of Howes' Shop, seventeen days later. Gregg's division and the brigades of Torbert and Merritt were opposed by the enemy from a strongly entrenched position. Mounted troops could not dislodge them, but the cavalrymen held their own in the face of a galling fire until Custer's men, who had been hastily dismounted, came up with band playing and colors flying.

"The music and the yell which always identified Custer's men was like an electric shock to us," says one of Merritt's officers, "and we went forward over the Confederate works as though carried on a wave. The General was in front among the Johnnies, yelling with the best of us. We were all delighted when he was breveted colonel for his work on that day."

When the battle of Winchester was begun Merritt was six miles away facing Breckenridge's column. He followed Breckenridge into the fight, although he knew nothing of the state of the battle or whether he might not have to face the whole Confederate force. He fell upon the line with a rush, breaking it, driving the cavalry back through the infantry lines, and, in the words of Sheridan's report, "sent the enemy whirling through Winchester." For his service in this battle and at Fisher's Hill, one month later, Merritt became a brevet major general of volunteers from Oct. 19, 1864.

In the following spring occurred the battle of Five Forks, in which Merritt and Fitzhugh Lee fought on opposing sides. Some of the fiercest fighting of the whole war occurred here, and Gen. Merritt was in the thick of it. His cavalry command distinguished itself by its gallant work on ground as unsuitable for the operations of mounted troops as any that could well be selected. It charged through woods and earthworks, captured a battery of artillery and carried everything before it. Merritt's bravery was again rewarded, this time by a brigadier generalship in the United States army, dating from March 13, 1865.

In the days succeeding this conflict, Merritt's command was in almost daily collision with the forces of the enemy down to April 19, when Lee surrendered the remnant of his defeated army. Gen. Merritt was one of those present at that memorable conference in McLean's house which marked the practical end of the attempt to disrupt the Union. He received the exceptional honor of a brevet major generalship, United States army, "for gallant and meritorious service during the campaign ending with the surrender of the Army of Northern Virginia." This was one of the rare instances in which a division commander was rewarded for services during an entire campaign. At the same time he was appointed to a major generalship of volunteers, with rank from April 1, 1865.

No negro revivalist was ever so strong that he could keep sinners away from a minstrel show.

FLASHES OF FUN.

Rose—"Was he on his knees when he proposed?" Mary—"No; but I was."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"It's very astonishing!" exclaimed the campaign figurer. "What's astonishing?" "The singularity of this plurality."—Washington Star.

"Wonders will never cease. I just saw a stone walk." "Pooh! That's nothing. I have often seen a brick building."—Philadelphia Times.

Miss Totling—"Miss Sincoe was born with a silver spoon in her mouth." Miss Dimling (after a glance at the mouth)—"Tablespoon?"—Harlem Life.

First doctor—I've got to make a trip out of town to-morrow. Second doctor—Business or pleasure? First doctor—Both. I'm going to operate on a wealthy patient.—Life.

"This," said Mr. Flitter, "is a picture of the only girl I ever loved." "How cleverly," said Miss Wyse, as she looked at the portrait, "they do get up these composite photographs!"

Stranger—Is your society here very select? Arizona Al—See them graves over thar? They was all filled by fellers who came to our dances without invitashuns.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"You look dreadfully battered; how is that?" "Wife has been pelting me with flowers." "Why, that wouldn't mark you in that fashion." "Oh, they were in the pots."—London Judy.

"What became of Hyflier, who made so much money manipulating stocks last year?" "He's still manipulating stock. He's currying horses in a West Side barn."—Chicago Tribune.

Mistress (angrily)—"See, Bridget, I can write my name in the dust on this mantel-piece." Bridget (admiringly)—"There's nothin' like eddication, after all, is there, mum?"—Roxbury Gazette.

Mistress—"Sarah, how was it that I saw you entertaining friends in the kitchen again last night?" Sarah—"I'm sure I don't know, unless you looked through the keyhole."—The Windsor Magazine.

Mills—I have great admiration for the colors in the Spanish flag. Brills—Why so? Mills—Because they are the only things in the Spanish army that didn't run when our boys soaked 'em.—New York Journal.

Jill—You puckered up your lips so then that I thought you were going to kiss me. Jack—No; I got some sand in my mouth. Jill—Well, for heaven's sake, swallow it! You need it in your system.—Troy Times.

"Your mother seemed very much amused at the little story I told last night," he said, self-approvingly. "Yes," she replied, "ever since I can remember, mother has laughed whenever she has heard that story."

"Did you find the snakes pretty thick down there?" "Not very thick, but some of them were pretty long." "Oh, you know what I mean! Were there many round?" "'Cylindrical' would be a better word."—Boston Transcript.

First swell (pretending to mistake for a waiter a rival whom he sees standing in dress clothes at the cloak-room of the theater)—Ah! have you a program? Second swell (up to snuff)—Thanks, my man; I got one from the other fellow.—Tit-Bits.

Cumso—Well, Cawker, did you name your new baby George Dewey? Cawker—No. Cumso—You told me that was your intention. Cawker—Yes. Cumso—Then why didn't you? Cawker—We decided, upon second thoughts, to name her Elizabeth.—Bazar.

Customer (severely)—"Do you sell diseased meat here?" Butcher (blandly)—"Worse than that." Customer (excitedly)—"Mercy on us! How can that be possible?" Butcher (confidentially)—"The meat I sell is dead—absolutely dead, sir." Customer (sheepishly)—"Oh!"—Tid-Bits.

"Plugger's dramatic school is making a winning, I hear." "I should rather guess. It is the most complete plant for the manufacture of actors ever installed. Why, he even has a hundred feet of genuine railroad tracks to teach them the true dramatic stride."—Indianapolis Journal.

"Say, pa," queried Willie, the other morning while preparing his geography lesson, "how many motions has the earth?" "I don't know, Willie," replied the fond parent, as he bound a towel soaked in icewater about his throbbing brow; "but they're numerous, quite numerous."—Chicago News.

"Say," said the bookkeeper, addressing the cashier, and winking knowingly at the office boy, "do you know anything about this new stamp-tax?" "Sure," replied the cashier; "what do you want to know?" "Suppose," continued the bookkeeper, "that I wanted to express my opinion, would I have to stamp the express receipt?" "Undoubtedly," answered the cashier; "but if you will allow me, I would suggest that you forward your opinions by mail." "And why by mail?" asked the autocrat of the ledger. "Because," replied the cashier, "as they have no weight, it would be much cheaper."—Chicago News.

"This is Mr. Pneer, is it not?" "Yes, sir." "You have rented a house fronting on Mulberry square, I believe?" "I have." "Well, my name is Ferguson. I have rented the house next to yours, and by a queer mistake the man I sent to clean it up so I could move into it went to the wrong place and cleaned up yours. His bill, which I settled, is quite moderate—only $1.50—and I thought that if the work proved satisfactory on inspection perhaps you would not object to assuming the payment of that amount." "Not at all, sir, but I shall charge you $1.50 for one day's occupancy of my house. That, I think, makes us even, sir."—Chicago Tribune.

Golden Silence.

A man who once met Ralph Waldo Emerson at the house of a friend tells of the characteristic way in which the Concord philosopher blunted the edge of a compliment.

"Oh, Mr. Emerson," said a young woman of the party, "it must be so delightful to know that people all over the country are grateful for the things you have said!"

"Thank you," said Emerson, slowly; "but it is for some of the things I have not said that I feel most grateful."

Catarrh Can't Be Cured

With LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a blood or constitutional disease, and in order to cure it you have to take internal remedies. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces. Hall's Catarrh Cure is no quack medicine. It was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years, and is a regular prescription. It is composed of the best tonics known, combined with the best blood purifiers, acting directly on the mucous surfaces. The perfect combination of the two ingredients is what produces such wonderful results in curing catarrh. Send for testimonials, free.

F. J. CHENEY & CO., Props., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by druggists, price 75c.

Prefer Convict Life.

There are at present several old convicts in Fremantle (Westralia) jail who, though their time has long expired, live on there. They give as their reason that all the people they knew in the old country must be long since dead; so they prefer to remain where so much of their life has been spent. The old fellows are allowed to go into town, but must be back in time for lockup.

In Winter Use Allen's Foot-Ease.

A powder to be shaken into the shoes. During winter your feet feel uncomfortable, nervous, and often cold and damp. If you have perspiring, smarting feet or tight shoes, try Allen's Foot-Ease. It warms and rests the feet and makes walking easy. Cures swollen and sweating feet, blisters and callous spots. Relieves corns and bunions of all pain and is a certain cure for chilblains and frost bites. Try it to-day. Sold by all druggists and shoe stores for 25c. Trial package mailed FREE. Address Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

His Ability Proved.

"What does he know about finances? I don't see why we should accept him as our candidate. He's never had any practical experience in business affairs."

"Perhaps he doesn't know anything about business, but he's an able financier all the same. He spent $5,000 getting elected to a $1,500-a-year office once and came out a rich man."

St. Jacobs Oil cures Rheumatism.
St. Jacobs Oil " Neuralgia.
St. Jacobs Oil " Lumbago.
St. Jacobs Oil " Sciatica.
St. Jacobs Oil " Sprains.
St. Jacobs Oil " Bruises.
St. Jacobs Oil " Soreness.
St. Jacobs Oil " Stiffness.
St. Jacobs Oil " Backache.
St. Jacobs Oil " Muscular Aches.

There are 400,000,000 people in the British empire, and the Queen would have to live another seventy years to enable her to see all of them pass before her, night and day, for all that time.

Try Grain-O! Try Grain-O!

Ask your Grocer to-day to show you a package of GRAIN-O, the new food drink that takes the place of coffee. The children may drink it without injury as well as the adult. All who try it like it. GRAIN-O has that rich seal brown of Mocha or Java, but it is made from pure grains, and the most delicate stomach receives it without distress. ¼ the price of coffee. 15c. and 25 cts. per package. Sold by all grocers.

The Chief Hero.

Little Edgar—Papa, who was the greatest hero of the war?

Papa—Capt. Bibbleson, I guess. His magazine story is three pages longer than any of the rest of them has written.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take Laxative Bromo Quinine Tablets. All druggists refund the money if it fails to cure. 25c. The genuine has L. B. Q. on each tablet.

Easily Answered.

Pryer—According to your observation of popular taste, what poets do you consider in the swim just now?

Meyers—Divers poets, of course.—Boston Courier.

Coughs Leads to Consumption.

Kemp's Balsam will stop the cough at once. Go to your druggist to-day and get a sample bottle free. Sold in 25 and 50 cent bottles. Go at once; delays are dangerous.

On the Day of Cheer.

"Kitty, how did you happen to give me this pretty card table?"

"Why, Jack, I needed one more for my euchre club."

I shall recommend Piso's Cure for Consumption far and wide.—Mrs. Mulligan, Plumstead, Kent, England, Nov. 8, 1895.

High Pressure Water.

So penetrating is water at high pressure that only special qualities of cast iron will withstand it.

Queen and Crescent

Route and Southern Railway. 100 miles shortest line to Florida and the West Indies.

INCURABLE DISEASES

Many diseases considered incurable are catarrh under other names.

Simple catarrh in the head is called incurable. Consumption is catarrh of the lungs, and its victim is, no doubt, past help in the more advanced stages; but great numbers of people die of consumption needlessly. It is certain that every phase of catarrh, including many cases of consumption, are cured by the right treatment. Pe-ru-na, Dr. Hartman's great prescription, attacks catarrhal diseases scientifically and cures them. Dr. Hartman explains it fully in his books which are mailed on application. Here is a letter from Mrs. Harmening, Mazo Manic, Wis., who is one of many cured of consumption by Pe-ru-na. She says:

Pe-ru-na Medicine Co., Columbus, O.

DEAR SIRS:—"I cannot praise your remedy too highly. Last winter I had la grippe and hemorrhage of the lungs followed. All the doctors around here told me I had to die of consumption. Then I thought I would ask Dr. Hartman for advice, which I did. He prescribed Pe-ru-na for me, and I took it according to his directions and was cured. I advise everybody that is troubled with lung disease to take Dr. Hartman's treatment. I am sure they will not regret it if they do. I am now enjoying good health, and can thank Pe-ru-na for it."

PENSIONS, PATENTS, CLAIMS. JOHN W. MORRIS, WASHINGTON, D. C. Late Principal Examiner U. S. Pension Bureau. 3 yrs. in last war, 15 adjudicating claims, atty. since.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more Grain-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. Grain-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about ¼ as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

A great mind will neither give an affront nor bear it.—Horne.

Lane's Family Medicine

Moves the bowels each day. In order to be healthy this is necessary. Acts gently on the liver and kidneys. Cures sick headache. Price 25 and 50c.

A man loves to live, but a woman lives to love.

Easy Chances.

A slip may sprain, a thump may bruise; easy chances for pain and trouble. An easy way to cure right off is to use St. Jacobs Oil. It takes no chances and knows what it can do.

A docile disposition will, with application, surmount every difficulty.—Manlius.

Cafe and Observation cars. Excellent service on superb through trains. Queen and Crescent Route from Cincinnati south.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for Children teething; softens the gums, reduces inflammation, allays pain, cures wind colic. 25 cents a bottle.

WANTED.—Case of bad health that R·I·P·A·N·S will not benefit. Send 5 cents to Ripans Chemical Co., New York, for 10 samples and 1,000 testimonials.

THANKFUL TO MRS. PINKHAM.

Earnest Words From Women Who Have Been Relieved of Backache—Mrs. Pinkham Warns Against Neglect.

DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I have been thankful a thousand times, since I wrote you, for what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. I followed your advice carefully, and now I feel like a different person. My troubles were backache, headache, nervous tired feeling, painful menstruation and leucorrhœa.

I took four bottles of Vegetable Compound, one box of Liver Pills, and used one package of Sanative Wash, and am now well. I thank you again for the good you have done for me.—ELLA E. BRENNER, East Rochester, Ohio.

Great numbers of such letters as the above are constantly being received by Mrs. Pinkham from women who owe their health and happiness to her advice and medicine.

Mrs. Pinkham's address is Lynn, Mass. Her advice is offered free to all suffering women who are puzzled about themselves.

If you have backache don't neglect it or try heroically to "work it down," you must reach the root of the trouble, and nothing will do this so safely and surely as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Backache is accompanied by a lot of other aches and wearying sensations, but they nearly always come from the same source. Remove the cause of these distressing things, and you become well and strong. Mrs. S. J. SWANSON, of Gibson City, Ill., tells her experience in the following letter:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Before using your medicine I was troubled with headache and my back ached so that I could not rest. Your medicine is the best I have ever used; it has relieved me of my troubles, and I feel like myself again. Thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham.

"I would advise any one troubled with female weakness to take your medicine. I shall also recommend it wherever I can as a great reliever of pain."

A Million Women Have Been Benefited by Mrs. Pinkham's Advice and Medicine

"Thoughtless Folks Have the Hardest Work, but Quick Witted People Use

SAPOLIO

Tell Your Printer to Use

Eagle Linen

WATERMARK.

When You Order

Letter Heads and Envelopes.

If you once use it you will have nothing else.

Be sure it has the Watermark as shown above.

Advice to Young Men.

In a valedictory address, Bulwer Lytton, offered the following excellent maxims to the students:

"Never affect (he said) to be other than what you are, either richer or wiser. Never be ashamed to say, 'I do not know.' Men will then believe you when you say 'I do know.' Never be ashamed to say, whether applied to time or money, 'I cannot afford it; I cannot afford to waste an hour in the idleness to which you invite me. I cannot afford the guinea you ask me to throw away.'

"Once establish yourself and your mode of life as what they really are, and your foot is on solid ground, whether for the gradual step onward or for the sudden spring over the precipice. From these maxims let me deduce another:

"Learn to say 'No' with decision, 'Yes' with caution. 'No' with decision whenever it meets a temptation; 'Yes' with caution whenever it implies a promise. A promise given is a bond inviolable. A man is already of consequence in the world when it is known that we can implicity rely on him. I have frequently seen such a man preferred to a long list of applicants for some important charge; he has been lifted at once into station and fortune, merely because he has this reputation—that when he knows a thing, he knows; and when he says he will do a thing, he will do it.

To Florida.

Queen and Crescent Two Fast Vestibuled trains daily Cincinnati to Jacksonville.

A Sure Way.

Mrs. Chaffie—I don't know how I can get Johnnie to take his medicine. If I tell him what it is he won't take it, and if I don't tell him what it is he won't take it.

Mr. Chaffie—I'll tell you what to do. Just put it on the table and forbid him to touch it, and then he will take it sure.

24 Hours

To New Orleans or to Jacksonville via the Queen and Crescent Limited trains from Cincinnati, 54 hours through to Havana.

He Knew.

Missionary Uncle—Has mamma ever told you where you will go if you are a good boy?

Willie—Sure! she's goin' to take me to see Dewey—when he comes home.—Judge.

SYRUP OF FIGS

NEVER IMITATED BUT QUALITY.

THE EXCELLENCE OF SYRUP OF FIGS

is due not only to the originality and simplicity of the combination, but also to the care and skill with which it is manufactured, by scientific processes known to the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, and we wish to impress upon all the importance of purchasing the true and original remedy. As the genuine Syrup of Figs is manufactured by the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. only, a knowledge of that fact will assist one in avoiding the worthless imitations manufactured by other parties. The high standing of the CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO. with the medical profession, and the satisfaction which the genuine Syrup of Figs has given to millions of families, makes the name of the Company a guaranty of the excellence of its remedy. It is far in advance of all other laxatives, as it acts on the kidneys, liver and bowels without irritating or weakening them, and it does not gripe nor nauseate. In order to get its beneficial effects, please remember the name of the Company—

CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

LOUISVILLE, KY. NEW YORK, N. Y.

BIG G CURES in 1 to 5 days. Guaranteed not to stricture. Prevents contagion. THE EVANS CHEMICAL CO. CINCINNATI, O. U. S. A. $1.00

CURE YOURSELF! Use Big G for unnatural discharges, inflammations, irritations or ulcerations of mucous membranes. Painless, and not astringent or poisonous. Sold by Druggists, or sent in plain wrapper, by express, prepaid, for $1.00, or 3 bottles, $2.75. Circular sent on request.

F. W. N. U. - - No. 3—'99.

When Writing to Advertisers please say you saw the Advertisement in this paper.

PISO'S CURE FOR CURES WHERE ALL ELSE FAILS. Best Cough Syrup. Tastes Good. Use in time. Sold by druggists. CONSUMPTION 25 CTS.

Delinquent Tax Sale

LANDS AND TOWN LOTS returned delinquent for non-payment of taxes for the year 1897, by the County Treasurer of DeKalb County, Indiana, including interest and penalty thereon, and also the taxes for the year 1898.

NAMES OF OWNERS.	DESCRIPTION.	Section.	Township.	Range.	Acres.	Hundredths.	Am'nt of Sale $	Am'nt of Sale cts
	BUTLER TOWNSHIP.
Adams, Kate	sw¼ se qr	25	33	12	40		22	19
Holbrook, Margaret E	s½ nw qr	32	33	12	80		135	61
do	se¼ ne qr	31	33	12	40
do	in nw cor ne¼ se qr	31	33	12	4
do	nw¼ nw qr	29	33	12	40
Lockwood, Bertie	s½ se qr	13	33	12	80		60	26
Lockwood, Ora	n½ se qr	13	33	12	80		58	45
Lockwood, P J	w½ se qr	35	33	12	80		59	02
Probst, C B and B C	e side sw qr	13	33	12	60		38	38
Shutt, Marion F	s½ s½ ne qr	36	33	12	40		20	67
	JACKSON TOWNSHIP.
Andress, L J	in nw cor sw¼ nw qr	9	33	13	1		6	79
Boren, Morris	nw¼ sw qr	4	33	13	40		32	80
Cool, Thomas J	in n side nw qr	20	33	13	1		4	22
George, James	ne pt nw qr	12	33	13	31		33	69
Lutz, John	ne¼ se qr	1	33	13	40		23	54
Lockwood, Gracy	s½ sw fr qr	18	33	13	70		98	05
Lockwood, Nettie	n½ sw fr qr	18	33	13	70		80	97
Lockwood, Lyman	w fr ½ nw qr	19	33	13	63		75	50
do	sw qr	19	33	13	143		108	70
McClellan, Viola E	w¾ sw¼ nw qr	2	33	13	30		20	86
Robbins, L D and V	s side se qr	5	33	13	110		142	43
Werntz, Eliza	in sw cor nw qr	6	33	13	12		19	00
Watson, Benj	und 5-6 n½ sw qr	25	33	13	66	67	93	49
do	und w½ sw¼ nw qr	25	33	13	16	67
	CONCORD TOWNSHIP.
Cole, Lewis	und ½ n½ se qr	1	33	14	40		27	93
Gratz, Jacob	w½ nw qr	31	33	14	80		70	47
Kile, Isaac	in nw cor sw qr	34	33	14	4	40	7	67
Wineland, Simon	in sw qr	15	33	14	2		31	16
Wasson, B F	pt nw¼ sw qr	29	33	14	7	75	27	05
Dore, David H	Spencerville pt lot 26 N add						8	79
Tindall, Wm C	Spencerville lot 15 N add						4	99
Baker, Mahlon	St Joe lot 2 block 9 L 1st add						15	04
Foote, Alexander	St Joe lot 6 block 1 O P add						14	87
Hendricks, Emanuel	St Joe lot 15 L A add						14	65
Walters, C C "trustee"	St Joe lot e½2 block 4 O P add						38	16
	NEWVILLE TOWNSHIP.
Chapman, Andrew	w½ w½ se qr	29	33	15	40		72	65
	WILMINGTON TOWNRHIP.
Bensinger, Eli	se¼ sw qr	8	34	14	40		18	70
Boyle, Jeff N	w½ se qr	20	34	14	80		32	56
Bowen, B T	s and w pt sw qr	34	34	14	60		43	78
Johnson, J W and C	s¾ sw¼ se qr	24	34	14	30		15	52
Lanning, Margaret	mid pt w½ ne qr	19	34	14	12		67	80
do	pt w½ ne qr	19	34	14		45
Palmerton, P H	s end w½ sw qr	3	34	14	50		73	96
Stokes, Ida E	in s pt	12	34	14	13		10	56
do	pt sw qr	12	34	14	149	50	147	89
Shull, Joannah	mid pt n½ ne qr	20	34	14	36	34	36	55
Sawyer, Brice et al	s½ se¼ nw qr	35	34	14	20		12	19
Thomas, B F	pt w½ sw qr	33	34	14	79	72	103	89
	UNION TOWNSHIP.
Hill, Wm	in se cor sw¼ sw qr	28	34	13	5		14	71
Raub, Margaret	nw¼ nw qr	20	34	13	40		82	93
	KEYSER TOWNSHIP.
De Pew, Wm H	pt n½ se qr	31	34	12	20		15	48
Lung, J E and M E	in s end e½ sw qr	8	33	12	12		12	85
Mason, Thomas	e½ e½ nw qr	27	34	12	40		15	14
Noel, Samuel M	pt ne¼ nw qr	9	33	12	39		40	50
Real Estate & Impvmt Co.	in se pt sw qr	33	33	12		20	8	53
	GARRETT.
Gard, Thomas L	lot 16 L add						9	57
do	lot 13 G add							79
do	lot 14 G add							79
do	lot 15 G add							79
do	lot 16 G add							79
do	lot 17 G add							79
do	lot 21 G add							79
do	lot 22 G add							79
do	und ¾ lot 11 R add						8	43
Hunt, Jas A et al	lot 1 D add						1	37
Mixer, Dudley	lot 2 D add						5	77
do	lot 3 D add						1	37
do	lot 12 D 2nd add						7	28
do	lot 35 R add						12	71
Sither, H and Ella	RICHLAND TOWNSHIP.
Bishop, M and J Rastler	in nw cor s½ se qr	10	34	12	8		4	89
Bishop, Michael et al	pt s½ se qr	10	34	12	72		52	61
Harding, Demick	in w end s½ ne qr	4	34	12		50	8	55
Likens, G W and J W	nw¼ se qr	13	34	12	40		11	78
Miser, John	n side nw¼ ne qr	13	34	12	31	50	23	88
Stroh, Arthur E	nw pt nw qr	13	34	12	18	29	11	63
	FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP.
Beight, Arvilla	off s end w½ se qr	30	35	12	50		35	26
do	off w side se¼ se qr	30	35	12	35		19	99
Emerick, Mary	n end w½ ne qr	30	35	12	10		19	07
	FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP.
Boyer, C C	se¼ nw qr	20	35	14	40		46	96
	TROY TOWNSHIP.
Heller, Geo sr	in sw cor nw¼ nw qr	29	35	15	1	25	21	31
Whitman, Wm	pt nw qr	16	35	15	40		51	96
	AUBURN.
Baker, Harley G	lot 10 McI add						32	06
Broderick, Thos and Mary	lot 36 K 1st add						35	81
Bumpus, Letitia	lot 107 N G add						25	08
Broderick, Thos and M D	lot 1 Brandon's add						2	14
do	lot 6 do						2	14
do	lot 7 do						2	14
do	lot 12 do						5	56
do	lot 49 K add						6	80
do	lot 50 do						2	40
do	lot 51 do						2	14
do	lot 52 do						68	41
do	lot 53 do						2	14
Caruth, Cornelia	lot 1 G and D add						87	21
Gordon, G W	11 feet e end lot 93 O P
do	11 feet e end lot 94 O P						140	60
do	7 feet 10 in w end lot 139 O P
do	7 feet 10 in w end lot 140 O P
do	lot 21 E 2nd add						9	42
do	lot 31 do						8	73
do	lot 32 do						8	72
do	lot 54 do						3	72
do	lot 55 do						5	46
do	lot 56 do						3	39
do	lot 57 do						2	84
do	lot 58 do						4	31
do	lot 59 do						5	46
do	lot 83 do						2	84
do	lot 85 do						3	42
do	lot 86 do						3	41
do	lot 87 do						2	84
do	lot 52 do						4	53
Griffin, E A	lot 12 McI add						27	07
Grosh, Leonard	lot 2 E 3rd add						53	26
Gordon, Mary C	lot 138 W add						98	38
Gordon, G W and M C	lot 137 do						14	58
Hartman, W C	lot 185 O P						20	93
Lawrence, D E and A R	n½ lot 26 K add						36	51
McClellan, J W et al	e pt lot 6 K 2nd add						14	58
Platter, J E	lot 27 N G add						33	97
Pilgrim, Sarah A	lot 38 do						39	48
Rose, Elizabeth	lot 6 R and S add						45	43
Stutz, Alice	lot 51 N G add						32	41
Stamets, W O and L A	lot 3 E 3rd add						39	32
Webb, Edgar E	60x66 ft se cor lot 1 K 2n d add						21	13
	WATERLOO.
Blair, L J and E	in ne¼ se qr	4	34	13	1	85	68	85
Fee, Alice	lot 30 L 2nd add						5	18
Jarvis and Crane	s pt lot 48 O P						2	20
Leas, E R and R	lot 112 Hor add						15	03
McBride, J N	lot 3 L 3rd add						17	73
Marsh T, and A C	lot 42 J F and C add						22	16
Sewell, Wm S	lot 29 do						14	74
Till, Saml	26 ft e end lot 46 O P						6	54
Zerwis, Salona	lot 64 H 1st add						16	73
	BUTLER.
Beck, Susannah	lot 127 O P						48	74
Bennett, J B	lot 233 E add						51	57
Caruth, Cornelia	lot 21 S add						25	46
Crider, Lillian A	lot 106 O P						21	24
Campbell, John A	lot 21 D add						4	30
do	n½ lot 260 E 3rd add						6	31
Clark, Wm T	in ne¼ nw qr	12	34	14	1		14	03
Crowl, Martin	lot 30 S add						2	95
Deitz, Frank	lot 140 O P						23	72
Engle, Wm F	e½ lot 180 O P						19	71
do	e½ lot 181 O P
Foudick, E W	lot 199 O P						2	46
do	lot 27 O P						13	37
Garrison, M J	lot 68 O P						22	31
do	lot 69 O P
Grof, S and Marr	lot 148 E add						38	53
Hemple, Chas	lot 177 O P						25	79
Metz, Sarah I	e½ lot 136 E 2nd add						27	41
Metz, Sarah I	lot 137 E 2nd add						20	70
Oberlin, Phillip	lot 74 E add						11	61
Prosser, Wm S	lot 160 E add						20	94
Swinehart, Margaret	lot 9 L add
	GARRETT.
Beeber, Simon	lot 1 block 4½ Oz 1st add						38	99
do	30 ft n side lot 2 blk 4½ Oz 1st ad						20	03
Boston, Wm	lot 11 block 11 O P						57	06
Berritt, J R	lot 8 block 2 Oz 1st add						28	63
Balt Land & Imp Co	lot 16 block 15 O P						4	84
do	lot 17 block 15 O P						4	84
do	lot 18 block 12 O P						3	81
Chew, Geo P	75 ft e end lot 20 block 33 O P
do	do 21 do
do	do 22 do
do	do 23 do
do	do 24 do
Emmet, John J	lot 15 block 27 O P						70	51
do	lot 16 do
Fralick, Geo W	lot 18 block 53 C add						57	82
do	s½ lot 19 do
Fulmer, G S	lot 9 block 46 C add						33	03
Gage, Geo E	lot 24 block 32 O P						77	74
Gard, Harry A	lot 7 block 2 Oz 1st add						56	68
Haynes, Edward	lot 3 block 58 C add						35	59
do	n½ lot 4 do						43	45
Ind Farmers Saving Assn.	lot 12 Thos E add						14	58
Johnson, John K	lot 23 block 21 O P						41	07
do	lot 24 do
Kingsbury, H A and L M	s½ lot 3 block 60 K add						28	48
Mountz, L E and F	lot 21 block 32 O P						82	68
do	lot 22 do
Miley, H R	lot 9 block 36 C add						30	10
Mager, Leo D	lot 3 block 54 do						24	94
National Loan & Imp Co	lot 20 block 58 do						23	40
do	lot 22 block 22 O P						17	31
do	lot 10 block 4 Thos S add						63	03
Paul, John	lot 20 block 28 O P						25	02
do	lot 23 block 19 O P						9	35
do	lot 24 do						79	65
do	lot 3 do						35	00
do	lot 5 block 20 O P						30	08
Ray, Geo M	lot 16 block 37 C add						41	18
do	lot 17 do
Rowe, Nicholas B	lot 8 block 23 O P						22	79
Stansbury, Lucy	lot 20 block 78 K add						21	31
Stinson, M A	lot 19 block 28 O P						24	88
Smith, John H	lot 11 block 78 K add						28	73
Tingle H F and C A	lot 9 block 10 O P						34	99
do	lot 10 do
Thomson, Sallie W	lot 9 block 18 O P						43	39
Van Lear, Henry M	lot 12 block 11 O P						58	21
Wood, Kate	lot 7 block 19 O P						71	98
	ASHLEY.
Bowles, W T	lot 6 block 28						41	60
Dice, J W et al	lot 3 block 25						18	67
Gary, Theodore	lot 8 block 27						6	60
Ind Imp Co, The	w½ lot 10 block 18						2	67
do	lot 11 block 18						5	15
do	lot 16 block 18						5	15
do	lot 10 block 19						12	71
do	lot 14 block 24						3	57
do	lot 6 block 31						6	96
do	lot 7 do						5	64
do	lot 8 do						5	64
Keyes, Perry	lot 1 block 27						24	55
Stoner, G F and R	lot 5 block 31						28	74
Strayer, Barbara	lot 29 block 22						44	20
Trumbull, Flor	lot 5 block 40						16	97

I, Frank P. Seiler, Auditor in and for said County of DeKalb, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and complete list of all the lands and town lots in said county returned delinquent for the taxes for the year 1897, with the delinquent penalty and interest, and also the tax for the year 1898, to the best of my knowledge and belief.

Notice is therefore hereby given that so much of the foregoing lands and town lots as may be necessary to discharge the taxes, interest and penalty, and charges due thereon or due from the owner thereof at the time of the sale, will be sold at public auction, at the Court House door, in the town of Auburn, in said county, on the second Monday in February, A. D. 1899, (the same being the 13th day of said month) unless such taxes, penalty, interest and charges are previously paid. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock A. M., on said day and continue until all have been offered for sale.

FRANK P. SEILER, Auditor.

December 31st, 1898.

A Fleshy Consumptive

Did you ever see one? Did you ever hear of one?

Most certainly not. Consumption is a disease that invariably causes loss of flesh.

If you are light in weight, even if your cough is only a slight one, you should certainly take of cod liver oil with hypophosphites. No remedy is such a perfect preventive to consumption. Just the moment your throat begins to weaken and you find you are losing flesh, you should begin to take it.

Scott's Emulsion

And no other remedy has cured so many cases of consumption. Unless you are far advanced with this disease, Scott's Emulsion will hold every inducement to you for a perfect cure.

All Druggists, 50c. and $1.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, N. Y.

From Pugets Sound.

JUNCTION CITY, WASHINGTON.

EDITOR COURIER:—I write this from Jefferson county, Wash., popularly known as "Darkest America."

In this article, I propose to give the readers of the COURIER a description of what in many respects, is the most wonderful county in the U. S. Jefferson county, Washington, in which we live, is more than a hundred miles long; streaching in a broad land from the placid waters of Puget Sound, to the storm swept cliffs of the great Pacifi. This, (Jefferson) county, contains one thousand square miles of land, that has never been trod by the foot of man, either wild or civilized. It is the Terra Incognita of the far West. It is the least known and most talked of, of any county in the state of Washington. It is a land of great forests of giant firs, cedars and spruce. Impenetrable, gloomy, awe inspiring, a land of foaming cascades and rippling brooks. This county has many mountain peaks on which the snow never melts; and many lovely valleys in which snow is seldom seen; where wild flowers bloom every month of the year. It has canyons so deep and precipitous, that no ray of sunshine has ever penetrated its gloomy depth. Where all the rocks are thickly encased with green and grey moss, and dashing along its bed, an ice cold stream. It has many wild gorges never yet seen by mortal eyes, wrapped in the silence of desolation, where even the voice of birds are never heard, and even the fierce panther shuns for the lack of life on which he preys. The western end of this county is so far distant and so difficult of access, that election returns were almost a month in reaching its capital, (Port Townsend.) The few hardy pioneers who dwell in that wild region, met and decided to divide their votes equally between the two parties. They are neighborly and have no politics. The western end of this county has the greatest rainfall of any spot in the United States which was last year 136 inches, while at the county seat, (Port Townsend,) the average precipitation is only 17 inches, which is too dry for general agriculture. But at our place which is only 14 miles from Port Townsend, the rainfall is at least 30 inches. So the emigrant can select any sort of climate he may prefer. The impenetrable nature of the country, is caused by the fallen timber and underbrush. These logs lay for centuries without decaying, and in many places are piled crosswise, four or five logs deep. And between the logs, the evergreen brush has grown up so thick that one cannot see ten feet. Every old log is covered with a thick coating of green moss. Therefore, it is impossible to travel either on on foot or otherwise, except by balloon, unless a road is constructed which can only be done at great expense. The only practicable route is right in the bed of the rushing torrents, here called creeks.

I always had a desire to explore the great unknown, that lay so near, yet when we consider that to travel one mile per day, is considered good progress in this wilderness. But there is near our place, a foaming, dashing brook that comes tumbling over a thousand cascades in its eager dight to reach the sea. It occurred to me that up the bed of the creek we might reach the unknown interior. So in company with my brother, we made an early start on a balmy morning in June. Right up the middle of the ice cold stream we travel, now in the water up to our middle, crawling over moss grown rocks, scaling dangerous precipices, over which the water leaps, high above our heads plunging with a roar to the abyss beneath. While on either side of the narrow channel cut by the water, arose stupenduous mountain wall almost perpendicular two thousand feet toward the narrow strip of sky visible over our heads. Like the righteous, our road was hard to travel, and many a fall and bruise did we get before we had concluded we had better turn our faces homeward. We were drenched to the skin by the ice cold water. Tired and sore, and our lunch which we carried in our coat pockets, was totally dissolved and unfit for food. We cut our names and date on some soft rocks and made haste to return, for should darkness find us in this dreadful place, sad would be our condition indeed. Tired and hungry, wet miserable, we arrived at our domicile late in the evening convinced that the creek route was not a practicable route to the land of summer snow which is so near and yet so very far.

Yours sincerely,

JOSEPH A. SHADE.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Thursday's Daily.

—Henry S. Smith has thanks for recent favors.

—Ask any druggist for a free Pe ru na Almanac for the year 1899.

—Mrs. Clark went to Argos, to visit her daughter, Mrs. John Lochner.

—Peter Miser, one of the COURIER'S first subscribers, paid his subscription today up to 1901.

—Ed Beaty is one of the latest new subscribers to the Weekly COURIER. And still there is room.

—Lots of baled hay is coming to town to day, as the roads are getting smoothed down pretty well.

—T. C. Ford is having quite a sale on whole wheat flour. Those desiring to try it, call on him at feed store.

—Henry Eckhart west of town is the latest new subscriber to the COURIER. We are glad to welcome all such names to our list.

HEN KEEPERS will find it to their advantage to read the advertisement of the Leghoon Food Co., in another columns of this paper, it shows you how to produce more eggs.

—Wm. Buss of Fairfield is worse again. A phone message came to Mrs. Richards today, that he was at the point of death, and she and Mrs. H. E. Trout went up there this afternoon.

—Mrs. Ellen McClellan is also on the list of paid to 1900. She is a hard working woman and earned her money by her own exertions, and her example would be valuable to many that we know of.

—Don't get scared when your heart tronbles you. Most likely you suffer from indigestion. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. It will cure every form of Dyspepsia. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Charles Schaab has purchased an Ebersole piano from the Frank B Long Piano House at Fort Wayne. It is beginning to be known that these pianos are now leading the whole market, their superior qualities having, put them into the front rank.

—Editor Higley of the Butler Record was here to-day to see something about his suit in court. He is in the throes of a damage suit something like those threatened against the COURIER "after election." Our own cases have not materialized, and the case against Higley will not amount to anything.

—Frank Daum had the misfortune to cut off a finger last Friday. And it was done in a queer way. He was walking along carrying a sharp ax, when his foot slipped and he fell, the ax coming down in such a way as to cut it off. He was in town again yesterday to have Dr. Swarts dress it.

—La Grippe is again epidemic. Every precaution should be taken to avoid it. Its specific cure is One Minute Cough Cure. A. J. Sheperd, Publisher Agricultural Journal and Advertiser, Elden, Mo., says: "None will be disappointed in using One Minute Cough Cure for Ea Grippe." Pleasant to take, quick to act. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

Friday's Daily.

—Jesse Myers of Fairfield was a caller today.

—A bad ice bridge has formed just below the Falls at Niagara.

—Miss McTighe has word from Little Rock, that Mrs. Henry McIntyre and the children are all well.

—It is again claimed that Dewey is a republican. though he has not voted since 1854, the year the republican party was organized.

—MARRIED:—Yesterday at the Lutheran parsonage at 3:00 p. m. by J. D Brosy, Samuel Balentine and Bertha Probst. They will settle on a farm south of Auburn.

—Mrs. W. B. Brown has returned home from a two weeks visit with her her friend, Mrs. H. A, Stevens at Paxton, Ill. She had a splendid visit and left the family of Mr. Stevens well.

—To insure a happy new year, keep the liver clear and the body vigorous by using De Witt's Little Early Risers, the famous little pills for constipation and liver troubles. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

—Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Trout report their father, Wm. Buss very low. He is not expected to live more than a few days at most and suffers greatly. He is 89 years old, and being so old cannot last long.

—Miss McTighe received a letter yesterday from Henry McIntyre, who was then at Tampa, getting ready to go to Cuba. He was to start the next day, Wednesday, so that by this time, he is no doubt on the Island.

—W. A. Clark, of Butte, Montana, is accused of bribing members to vote for him for U. S. Senator. One legislature has turned in $30,000 which he says came from Clark's friends. Clark denies it, and there is to be an investigation.

—Many persons acquire a habit of drinking during their meals it would be more conductive to digestion if they would drink only after having finished a meal. This would be much better to secure a healthy condition of the stomach.

—When Mr. Bowers was at Ft. Wayne a short time ago, he was told that Sam Lauferty was quite sick, in fact seriously so. Our people will be sorry to learn this, for with all his odd ways, he was genial and always popular when he lived in Auburn.

—Mr. S. A. Fackler, Editor of the Micanopy (Fla.) Hustler, with his wife and children, suffered terribly from La Grippe. One Minute Cough Cure was the only remedy that helped them. It acted quickly. Thousands of others use this remedy as a specific for La Grippe, and its exhausting effects. Never fails. Fischler & Son and H. B. McCord.

Saturday's Daily.

—J. W. Metcalf has thanks for favors yesterday on his subscription to the COURIER.

—Wm. Poorman remembered the printer nicely this week, and has thanks for it.

—C. H. Bartels was here yesterday and paid up into 1900. The list is growing nicely.

—Paul Perry, of Columbus, Ga., suffered agony for thirty years, and then cured his Piles by using De Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. It heals injuries and skin diseases like magic. Fischler & Son and H. B. Mc-Cord.

—John Downs went north on the noon train to Waterloo where he has friends and relatives. From there he visits the old neighborhood in northwest Fairfield, and then goes to his home in Clay Center, Kansas.

—Mrs. Wm. Stafford was in town yesterday and paid up a year ahead, the COURIER for her son, Harry, who is now at Galatea, Ohio. He is operator at the railroad station where the roads cross there, and has a responsible position.

—A big railroad bridge is to be built across the river at Detroit, to cost three millions. Four roads will build and own it, the Michigan Central, the Grand Trunk, the Wabash and the Canadia Pacific. It will stop the delay of trains in getting across the river on the ferry.

John Lochner who has been down in the country a few days, returned to Argos today. A lady came with him, to treat Mrs. John Huston in Jackson township. She has been a sufferer for about three months, and the new treatment has been of such benefit to other sufferers it was decided to try it. At last accounts, she was improving.

—Friends of the COURIER family will be pained to learn the death of Hannibal Knowles, a relative of Mrs. Barns, who died at Ottawa, Ohio, Dec. 16th, '98, as the result of a fall. His age was 75, and he was among the most widely known attorneys in that part of his state, his business taking him far and near. He had been in Auburn a time or two as well as in other near-by towns. He was an old neighbor fo the Rollins family who recently lived here.

—We were agreeably surprised at seeing step into our office yesterday a young man whose familiar face had not been seen for eleven years. It was John Downs, of Clay Center Kansas His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Downs used to live in Fairfield, where they still own a fine farm. They have been west seventeen years, and are doing well. John had been visiting relatives in various parts of Ohio. He goes from here to Fairfield before returning home.

You tire easy?
Your heart flip flops, you tremble.
and think you are getting old,
and fear someone will know it.
You pretend you aren't tired.
You try to look pleasant, when in fact.
you are puffing like a steam engine;
and can't throw a brick across a cow path,
Without wheezing like a shingle-mill.
But you bet you are not getting old,
You are all right,
but you don't know it.
You have indigestion.
You have let it run too long.
You can cure it by using
Dr, Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.
It's a sure shot, at 10c, 50c. or $1. bottle.
Get it of Davenport the Druggist.

Her 87th Birthday

On Tuesday, Jan, 10, we celebrated Grandma Sherlock 87th birthday at the home of her son, R. H. Sherlock where a social gathering took place. Quite a number of presents were given her and also a splendid dinner was served Those that were present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm Sherlock, Mr. and Mrs. I. O. Reincehl, Mr. and Mrs. S. Reincehl. Mr. and Mrs. Wm Stomm, Mrs. Martha Dellenbach and daughter, Effie and Albert Sherlock, W. S

Meekison of Ohio

Has Been Greatly Benefited by Pe-ru-na.

Congressman D. Meekison of Ohio, writes the following letter to Dr. Hartman.

Dr. S. B. Hartman, Columbus, O.

DEAR SIR:—I have used several bottles of Pe-ru-na and feel greatly benefited thereby. I have been afflicted

Hon. D. MEEKISON.

with catarrh of the head and feel encouraged to believe that continued use of Pe-ru-na will fully eradicate a disease of thirty years' standing.

Yours sincerely,

D. MEEKISON.

The continued receipt of endorsements like this for Dr. Hartman's great catarrh remedy, prove its value beyond question. Men of prominence everywhere are recognizing the merit of Pe-ru-na and are willing to give expression to their judgment because a certain, absolute cure for catarrh is a public good. All druggists sell Pe-ru-na.

Pleurisy

Pleurisy and pneumonia are frequently developed, in a very short space of time, from a common cold; and, if such an acute inflammation of the lungs is not promptly allayed, the worst may happen. With the aid of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, however, you need not have any fear; for this great remedy speedily subdues the inflammation, eases the pain in breathing and always effects a cure in a wonderfully short time.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup

Cures Pleurisy and Pneumonia.

Doses are small and pleasant to take. Doctors recommend it. Price 25 cts. At all druggists.

OBITUARY

Ellen L Nickerson was born in Hillsdale county, Mich., on the 8th day of October, 1850, and died in Peru, Ind., on the 3rd day of January, 1899, age forty-eight years, two months and twenty-five days. On the 16th day of February, 1870, she was united in marriage with Enoch Strange and to this union was born one daughter.

The departed leaves behind to mourn her absence a husband, daughter, father, mother, three sister and two grandchildren, together with many other relatives and friends.

The deceased leaves here the remembrance of her high qualities, among which it can be justly said that she was a good wife, a faithful mother and an indulgent grandmother.

Naturally in the family circle and among her friends she will be greatly missed.

When Your Heart Flutters.

That is not heart disease That is no terrible heart failure, that is Indigestion, the prime cause of all short breath and sudden jumping of the heart which so frequently follows an exertion of any kind. Go to the Drug Store. Get a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. No more need be said; for after you use it once, you will never fail to keep it in the house. Davenport the Druggist.

Foley's Honey and Tar.

Cough Syrup wherever introduced is considered the most pleasant and effective remedy for all throat and lung complaints. It is the only prominent cough medicine that contains no opiates, and that can safely be given to children.

SHERFF'S SALE

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the Clerk of the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Union National Savings and Loan Association is plaintiff and Frank M. Rush, Mary Rush, Michael Boland, James M. Osborn, Lewis A. Osborn, Abner Lewis, Grace Rush, Bessie Rush, Effie Rush, Zella Rush, and Ruth Rush are defendants requiring me make the sum of one thousand two hundred and four dollars and seventy-seven cents, with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 o'clock P. M., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years, of the following real estate, to-wit:

Saturday, Jauuary 21, A. D. 1899

The east one half (½) of lot number sixty-six in Western Addition to the town of Auburn, DeKalb County, State of Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for a sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY.
Sheriff of DeKalb County. Indiana
E. D HARTMAN.
Attorney for Plaintiff.

December 27th 1898.

SHERIFF'S SALE

By virtue of a certified copy of a Decree to me directed from the DeKalb Circuit Court, in a cause wherein Louisa L. Duncan is plaintiff and Martin L. Jackman, Sarah A. Jackman, Jacob Salander, Clara Bonebrake, Clayton Mallory are defendants rebuiring me to make the sum of five thousand six hundred and twenty dollars with interest on said decree and costs, I will expose at Public Sale, to the highest bidder, on

Saturday, January 28, A. D. 1899

between the hours of 10 o'clock A. M. and 4 P. M., of said day, at the door of the Court House in Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana the rents and profits for a term not exceeding seven years of following real estate, to wit:

The southeast quarter of the Northwest quarter of section seven (7) in township thirty-five (35) North of range fourteen (14) east containing forty (40) acres.

Also a part of the Southwest quarter of said Section being a tract of about one hundred acres and described as follows to wit:

Commencing at the southwest corner of said section, thence east on the section line to center of the highway running north and south through said quarter, thence northerly along the center of said highway about seventy (70) rods; thenre west along the center of the highway about (15) rods, to a point immediately south of the center of a lane, thence north along the center of said lane to the north line of said quarter section, thence west to the northwest corner of said quarter, thence south to the place beginning; all in DeKalb County Indiana.

If such rents and profits will not sell for sufficient sum to satisfy said decree, interest and costs, I will at the same time and place expose to public sale the fee simple of said real estate, or so much thereof as may be sufficient to discharge said decree, interest and costs. Said sale will be made without any relief whatever from valuation or appraisement laws.

JOHN H. HATHAWAY,
Sheriff of DeKalb County, Indiana.
BAXTER & BROWN,
Attorne

THE AUBURN COURIER.

Volume XXIX | Auburn, DeKalb County, Indiana, Thursday, January 26, 1899. | Number 4.

WABASH

GOING EAST.

No. 2	6:25 am—Daily
No. 10	8:46 am—ex Su
No. 6	4:40 pm—ex Su
No. 4	4:59 pm—Daily
No. 70 (local freight)	3.20 pm—ex Su

GOING WEST.

No. 1	10:14 am—Daily
No. 7	10:51 am—ex Su
No. 9	6:17 pm—ex Su
No. 3	7:18 pm—Daily
No. 71, (local freight)	11 05 am—ex Su

All these trains stop for passengers.
For rates, tickets, time tables, etc. apply to
I. M. ZENT, Agent, Auburn, Ind
Chas M. Hays, V. Pres. and Gen't Manager.
C. S. Crane, Gen'l Pass'r and Ticket Agent

L. S. & M. S. R. R.

TIME TABLE—in Effect Nov. 13, 1898.

TRAINS GOING NORTH.

Stations	Mail	Exp'ss	Fre'gt
Fort Wayne	11 45 am	4 50 pm	5 55 am
New Era	12 12 pm	5 17	6 40
Auburn Junction	12 26	5 28	7 10
Auburn	12 29	5 32	7 35
Waterloo	12 41	5 43	8 15
Summit	12 52	5 53	8 35
Steubenville	12 56	5 56
Pleasant Lake	1 03	6 03	8 56
Angola	1 13	6 14	9 35
Jackson	3 25	8 35	2 40

TRAINS GOING SOUTH.

Stations	Fre'gt	Exp'ss	Mail
Jackson dp	5 55 am	11 30 am	7 15 am
Angola	11 00	2 19 pm	9 35
Pleasant Lake	11 35	2 29	9 45
Steubenville	.....	2 36	9 51
Summit	11 50	2 39	9 56
Waterloo	12 41 pm	2 55	10 10
Auburn	1 20	3 05	10 20
Auburn Junction	1 35	3 08	10 22
New Era	1 54	3 18	10 32
Fort Wayne	2 50	3 50	11 05

For rates on tickets or freight to all points call on or address E. T. DeLAPP, Agent Auburn.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK.
AUBURN, INDIANA.
Capital and Surplus $60,000
Certificates of deposits issued, drawing interest, if left six months. County and town orders bought and sold. Money to loan.
CHARLES McCLELLAN, President
D. A. GARWOOD, Cashier.

ALBERT ROBBINS, PRES. C. HENRY, V. P
FARMERS BANK.
—INCORPORATED—
AND UNDER STATE CONTROL.
Capital and Surplus $50,000
Transacts a General Banking Business and pays Interest on time Deposits.
A. C. ROBBINS, Cashier.

T. G. Matheny, M.D. J. B. Casebeer, M.D.
Drs. Matheny & Casebeer
have again associated themselves in the practice of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics.
OFFICE ON 9th STREET,
opposite the Swineford House.
WESTERN TELEPHONE
Office ..... No. 9
Matheny's residence ..... " 88
Casebeer's " ..... " 175

D. J. Swarts, M. D. Vesta W. Swarts, M D
PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS
Office at Auburn Sanitary Baths, Corner Main and Sixth Streets.
Professional Calls Promptly Answered.
Telephones: Western, 19; Central Union, 5

S. B. JOHNSTON
DENTIST
Auburn - Indiana
OFFICE OVER PIONEER HARDWARE STORE.
Western 'Phone 27 at Residence.

F. W. HOFFMAN,
DENTIST,
AUBURN, - - - - - - INDIANA
Office in Gandy buildin northeast corner of Square Western Phone 103
CROWN AND BRIDGE WORK A SPECIALTY

DR. Z. H. STAMETS,
Physcian & Surgon.
OFFICE OVER FISCHLER & SON'S DRUGSTORE
In the National Bank Block, across the hall south from the office so long occupied by Casebeer & Matheny.
Calls Answered At All Hours.

P. V. HOFFMAN,
LAWYER,
Auburn, Indiana
OFFICE over Hebel's Grocery.

I. O. BUCHTEL,
HOMEOPATHIC
Physician and Surgeon.
Special attention given to chronic and Obscure cases and catarrhal diseases of the nose, throat and lungs; also to diseases peculiar to women and children.
Office and residence over Madden Bros Marble Works. Auburn, Ind. Office apart from residence and private. All calls attended promptly, day or night.

Sprott & Knapp,
Abstracters of Deeds & Titles,
AUBURN, IND.
Office in Gandy Block, North of Court House.

COURT NEWS.

Sandwiched in among trials of all sorts, a good deal of probate work has been done all through the term. Where anything definite has been done we note it:

W. T. Bope of Badaxe, Huron Co., Mich., has been appointed guardian of Nellie R. Baxter, daughter of the late James B. Baxter. Our people know her better as Annie Baxter. She is now at Badaxe.

Mahlon Boren was made guardian of Sarah A. Boren.

Final reports were made by G. W. Maxwell in the Mary Chaffee estate; by Lucy Carnahan, guardian of Chas. M. Carnahan; by Almira Teutsch, admr. of Hannah Parkinson; Mary Hoffelder in the Fred Gfeller estate; Baliss Boyer in the Adam Boyer estate; Sol and Frank Barney in the Geo. Barney estate; Albert Thrush admr. of Sarah Fair will, and they were discharged.

John Kraus was appointed guardian of Curtis Fell.

Henry Stomm guardian of the Elizabeth Gettz heirs, was discharged as to Cora and Nora, but retained as to the others.

S. W. Guthrie was appointed guardian of Austice Leon Guthrie, leatee of J. G. Raub.

The following made reports and were continued 2 years; Geo. W. Probst guardian of L. M. Probst; Orlando Seery guardian of Charles C. and Frank C. Seery; F. M. Hines for Sarah A. Smith; Emillius Case for the estate of Jonas Emanuel; Emillius Case of Andrew Horn will; Sol. Reinœhl for Elizabeth Reinœhl; Libbie Raub guardian of Bernice Raub.

Henry Hood resigned as guardian to Nick Spindler, but was directed to hold his trust till a successor is appointed.

Eli Weaver files application to have his guardian, G. W. Crooks turn the money over to him, Weaver. Not yet decided.

Ida Blackwell Stokes was continued one year as administrater of the Warren Blackwell estate.

J. A. Denison, administrater in Daniel Stroh estate is directed to pay one-third to Sarah Stroh and the rest divide equally with the other heirs. When this is done, he will be discharged.

John A. Moore, administrator estate of Mathew Clark, reports no property, and is discharged.

Wm. E. Rose, confirmed as executor of the will of Mary J. Berry.

D. A. Garwood makes final report in the Jane Tefft, estate and is directed to pay over the money as shown is his report, except, $25, belonging to the share of Inez McDowell Eby, which sum is to be paid to W. W. Sharpless, on her written order. Administratior is discharged.

P. D. West has been appointed administrator of the Henrietta Shutt estate; Jacob Walborn, of the James Brinkerhoff estate; D. D. Diehl of the Sarah Warner estate; Edward May for the Geo. May will; Geo. W. Clark of Mary A. Clark will.

John A. Moore, in the estate of Thomas Gard, asks to settle it as an insolvent estate, and is directed to do so.

In the Joe Pfefferl estate, it is found that the property is less than $500, and so the court directs this all to be turned over to the widow as required by law.

Marion Kinney of Butler was arrested and brought over here yesterday by Sheriff Hathaway and is now in jail. He is charged with stealing coal from the Wabash railroad docks. He will probably be called before Judge Hartman this afternoon, and given a chance to furnish bail so his case can be tried later on.

The other case of coal stealing is found in another article.

The case of Barber vs Mulholland will come up tomorrow, but in the meantime Judge Hartman will attend to such work as comes.

The jury went out yesterday afternoon in the Dunn-Gardner case about four o'clock and wrestled with the question all night, and were still at it this forenoon, evidently unable to agree.

At 3 p. m. today after a struggle of 24 hours the jury came in with their verdict, which was in the form of answers to a multitude of interrogatories. These were read to them by Judge Best together with their answers to each. At the close, the opposing attorneys, Judge Roby and John Baxter spoke of the 68th interrogatory in which they said Dunn had furnished money, etc., for buildings for Mrs. Gardner, but had not said when she was to pay it back. So they were sent back to their room to answer that. They soon came back and made answer that she was to repay him at her death. This ended the long trial and is equivalend to giving Dunn $800 and he may get more. The jury were thanked for their faithfulness to their work, and discharged for the term. There will be but one more jury case, and that is the struck jury next Monday in the Fort Wayne case.

CASTORIA.
Bears the Signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Our Clearance Sale proved to be a

Grand Success!

The volume of business being done far exceeding our fondest expectations. Thousands of yards of Dress Goods were sold during this sale and, as a result, we find where we had in many cases nearly full bolts, we now have but a few yards. We have therefore arranged one long table containing these running from 3 to 8 yards in the piece. They will be sold by the piece only; the price on each being Way Below Actual Cost. You can well afford to buy these and save them for another winter if you are not needing them now.

Ends

We have a few pairs of fine Woolen Blankets left which we have decided to close out at cost.

We have still in stock a fair assortment of CAPES and JACKETS which you can buy at our regular price.

1-2

We will make especially low prices on all heavy-weight Clothing. Don't buy anything in our line until you've seen us.

WE ARE SAVING YOU MONEY

Schaab & Bro

Auburn, Indiana.

P. S. We have a very nice lot of Ladies' Fur Collarettes sent to us on consignment. We are offering them at less than they cost to manufacture. S. & B.

Cracow's Salt Mines.

The salt mines of Wieliezka, near Cracow, Poland, were mentioned in 1044, and have been worked since 1240. The first map of the mines was made in 1638 by Martin German, a Swedish mine surveyor. The eight shafts now in existence are from 207 to 985 feet deep, and the length of the levels now open is 345,000 feet, with 115,500 feet of underground tram lines. Between 1772 and 1892 about 3,000,000 cubic yards have been excavated for the extraction of salt. Machine drills are now used and compressed powder is employed in blasting; about 1,187 pounds of powder are used per ton of salt produced. The present levels are 7¼ feet high by 6¼ feet wide.

A white Mark

Foley's Kidney Cure is a perfectly reliable preparation for all Kidney and Bladder diseases. The proprietors of this Great Medicine guarantee it or the money refunded. Do they not deserve a white mark?

Poland Pigs For Sale

I have a number of fine Poland Chicago hogs for sale, boars and brood sows, at cheap prices for such good stock. Call on A. D. Moore at Moores, Ind.

The Deepest Shaft.

The deepest shaft in Colorado is that of the Geyser mine, at Silver Cliff, which penetrates the rock to a depth of 2,400 feet. But even that is a shallow puncture beside the one which goes down into the depths of the Comstock Lode, again active and productive. In that wonderful treasure house from which more than five hundred millions in value have been taken out, the new explorations are expected to reach a depth of 6,000 feet.

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup.
Cures pleurisy and pneumonia in a wonderfully short time. It promptly allays inflammation of the lungs. For sore lungs it is invaluable. Small doses. Price 25c.

Her Husband.

"What do you think of your new neighbor?" asked the hostess of the "sweet" old lady who was calling. "You know that I never speak unkindly of anyone. I have nothing to say of her; but I will say of her husband that I feel very, very sorry for him."—Detroit Free Press.

Unlettered Women of India.

It is said that out of 150,000,000 women in India not more than 1,000,000 can read.

Do You Know!

THAT WE have the only Set of Abstracts of Titles to Lands in this county?

THAT WE can sell your farm or town property, or buy for you in the desired locality such a farm or residence as you want?

THAT WE make long-time loans on the most favorable terms on either farm or town property. Money in bank with which to close farm loans on the day applied for if the title and securety is all right?

THAT WE are making exchanges of all kinds of property; have big farms for little ones; have farms for town property; have farms for stocks of goods and can fit you on almost any kind of trade?

THAT IF you want an Abstract of Title to your lot or land; want a loan; to buy a home or sell one; want a trade of any kind, it will be to your advantage to call on or write us about it?

SPROTT & KNAPP,

Office in Gandy Block, Ground Floor,

AUBURN, IND.

House Bill No. 21.

The following bill to regulate the sale of patent rights, was introduced by Hon. C. M. Brown early in the session. It was reffered to the Judiciary committee and on Tuesday of this week reported favorably and passed the House without a vote against it.

SECTION 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or barter, or offer to sell or barter, any patent right, the whole or any part thereof, or any right which such person shall allege to be a patent right, or sell, barter, grant or license, or offer to sell, barter, grant or license, the right to manufacture, to use or sell the patented article whether either of said rights be exclusive or nonexclusive, in any county within the State, without first filing with the clerk of the court of such county copies of the letters patent, duly authenticated, and, at the same time, swearing to an affidavit before such clerk that such letters patent are genuine, and have not been revoked or annulled, and that he has full authority to sell or barter. grant or license the right so patented, or any part thereof, and the right to manufacture, use and sell the patented article, which affidavit shall set forth his name, age, occupation and residence, and if any agent, the name, occupation and residence of his principal. A copy of this affidavit shall be filed in the office of said clerk, and the clerk shall give a copy to the applicant, who shall exhibit the same to any person on demand.

SECTION 2. That section two (2) of said act, the same being section 6 055 of Revised Statutes of 1881, be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 2. Any person who may take any obligation, in writing, for which any patent right, or right claimed by him or her to be a patent right, or the right to manufacture, use or sell the article so patented, whether the said right or either of them be by sale, grant or license, exclusive or nonexclusive shall form a whole or any part of the consideration, shall, before it is signed by the maker or makers, insert in the body of said written obligation above the signature of said maker or makers, in legible writing or print, the words, "Given for a patent right," or "Given for the right to manufacture a patented article," or words which clearly state the consideration for which the note was given.

SECTION 3. That section (3) of said act, the same being section 6,056 of Revised Statutes of 1881,, be amended to read as follows:

SECTION 3 Penalty for Disobeying Act. Any person who shall sell or barter, or offer to sell or barter, within this State, a patent right or any right claimed by him or her to be a patent right, or any part thereof, or shall sell, or barter, grant or license, or offer to sell, barter, grant or license the right to manufacture, use or sell the patent article, whether said right be exclusive or non-exclusive, or shall take any obligation, or promise in writing, for a patent right' or for what he may call a patent right, or for the right to manufacture, use or sell the patented article, whether either of said rights be exclusive or non-exclusive, without complying with this act, or shall refuse to exhibit the certificate when demanded, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof before any court of competent jurisdiction shall be fined in any sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, at the discretion of the court trying the same, and shall be liable to the party injured in a civil action for any damage sustained.

SECTION 4. All laws and parts of laws in conflict herewith and hereby repealed.

SECTION 5. An emergency is hereby declared for the immediate taking effect of this act, and the same shall be in force from and after this passage.

family in the evening and after the meal came down town, going either to the Grant House or to one of the saloons. He did not drink, but took a seat and talked with his friends and neighbors.

Water Cress in Germany.

An interesting translation of an article on water cress from the German "Practical Gardener" by Mrs. Wilhelmine Seliger, appears in the Hartford "Daily Times." Erfurt is not only famous for seed growing the world over, but has a territory in which market gardening is permanent. It is known as the "Dreinbrunnen" districts. Deep ditches or canals are carried over the territory through which cool water flows—and the narrow beds between the ditches are where the vegetables grow. The streams grow the water cresses. Fifty thousand bunches have been sold from this one tract in one season, bringing in $2,600 of our money—a little fortune in Germany. The water cress busisness was started in 1665 by one Hans Hartzau, who [illegible] ground for a small sum.

The Appetite of a Goat

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose Stomach and Liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful Stomach and Liver Remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25 cents at any drugstore.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER
ABSOLUTELY PURE
Makes the food more delicious and wholesome
ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., NEW YORK.

Queer Coal Stealing.

Sheriff Hathaway went over to Butler yesterday and arrested two boys, on a charge of stealing coal from the Wabash road. Their names are Martin E. Dunn and George L. Horner. one being 13 and the other 15 years old. They were called up before Judge Hartman and plead guilty and their story is a strange one, but without doubt is true. They say they did not steal the coal for themselves, but to supply a disreputable crowd in the establishment of a woman named Bills who has been heard of up this way befor. It seems she had half a dozen or so with her, and they struck a plan to get their coal cheap. They made an arrangement with these two boys, to bring them coal from the railroad docks, for which they were to pay the lads 10 cents a bushel, less than half what they would have to pay a dealer. The boys admit they did this, and also that they had some difficulty in collecting the last amounts due, and say the women still owe them 10 cents. In view of all the circumstances, and their evident sincerity and repentant state, the Judge gave them a sentence and suspended it during good behavior. Their case elicited a good deal of sympathy and it is hoped they will be wiser and better boys hereafter. If they do not keep straight they can be taken up and punished at any time. The woman. Bills is also under arrest, but was not brought over, as she had a cetificate from Dr. Fanning that she was too ill to come. She will be brought into court as soon as she is in a condition to come.

Spanish Lies.

Spaniards have been lying about us. Here is what one of their papers said the other day. It is copied into Harper's Weekly.

"From travelers arriving yesterday from Manila we have heard of the conduct of the Yankees in that town toward the natives.

Fire-arms are used regularly for the most insignificant cause, because for this there is a lack of justice. In direc disregard of orders, they point carbines at the face, and fire shots at the wisest and most able.

They laugh at the nobility of the Spaniards, and say that the measures which we employ are big—and of little utillity. Any Yankee soldier has the right to take the life of those disgraced ones.

Various shooting affrays carried to a head in the open street have been referred to us, and without their commission having other result than the sentence of the soldier immediately responsible.

As is natural, this conduct, so little in harmony with Spanish sentiments, is here vigorously censured, notwithstanding that all know that it is the method employed with the unhappy natives of America, whose race is on the verge of disappearance.

One of the Yankee personages of the most knowledge in Manila, according to a person who has means of knowing tells us, said not many days ago that to exterminate the Tagal race would require fifteen years. Already it has entered into their calculations to employ in Luzon the method followed in America. What deception more horrible has been practiced till now than that which the Yankees have assisted in against these islands?

To this date they will not call its best people allies. Of their future hap the Fillipinos cannot complain. They have fashioned their own disgrace."

W[illegible]ded Women.

Dr. E. [illegible]ka, the alienist, declares [illegible]f in the existence of any [illegible] kleptomania, which causes [illegible] to indulge in the form of theft known as shoplifting which just now appears to be epidemic in New York. He does admit, however, that the tempting displays of the shops appeal strongly to women of weak minds, and that one in one hundred shoplifters may be insane.

German Army Dogs.

The German army dogs are so trained that when they find a dead body they set up a prolonged howling. If no one comes, they take the dead man's cap or some small article, and with this in their teeth go on a hunt for their trainer, whom they lead to the spot. If the man is wounded he gives his cap to the dog, and the same object is accomplished.

The Inducement.

Farmer Hayrick—"I'm goin' ter give Abe as good an eddication as money kin buy." Farmer Corntassel—"Whot college be yer got in mind?" Farmer Hayrick—"Well, Mandy an' me hev pitched on Eton, cuz the name sounds like he'd git plenty of grub."

HIS 80th BIRTHDAY

Yesterday marked an important date in the life of one of Auburn's most worthy old pioneers. It was the 80th birthday of James Griswold, and some kind angel put it into his head to ask in a few of the older neighbors, men and women who had known him for years. They responded gladly and to the number of 48 gathered in his comfortable home on West 7th-st, at from four to six p. m. They received a hearty, old-fashioned welcome from him and his worthy wife, and all passed a few hours pleasantly. It was a regular old-fashioned visit, added to which was a splendid supper, that all greatly enjoyed, and for which especial thanks are due to Mrs. Griswold and Mrs. James McDowell the youngest daughter. The guests remembered Mr. Griswold by the gift of a nice rocker, which they trust he may live many years to enjoy. He is still in fair health for one of his ripe age and enjoys life well. He says he lays at least a part of his comfortable old age, to his habits of temperance and a life, temperate in all things. All present united in wishing him and his admirable helpmate, many more years of happy life.

A brief sketch of his life is not amiss here. He is of pure New England stock, having been born at Colebrook, Conn., Jan. 20, 1819. He came to Auburn 44 years ago the 15th of last July. He was married the first time to Lucy Ann Brown July 1, 1841, who died four years later. His second marriage was in New York State, to Catherine Lane, July 4, 1848; she died in Auburn, August 6, 1865. He was united to his present wife, Mrs. C. M. Reed, at Waterloo, June 13, 1868. Seven children are living but are widely separated, from Connecticut to the Rocky Mountains.

Regardless Of Age.

The kidneys are responsible for more sickness, suffering, and deaths than any other organ of the body.

A majority of the ills afflicting people today is traceable to kidney trouble. It prevades all classes of society, in all climates, regardless of age, sex or condition.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are unmistakable, such as rheumatism, neuralgia, sleeplessness, pain or dull ache in the back, a desire to urinate often day or night, profuse or scanty supply.

Uric acid, or brick-dust deposit in urine are signs of clogged kidneys, causing poisoned and germ-filled blood. Sometimes the heart acts badly, and tube casts (wasting of the kidneys) are found in the urine, which if neglected will result in Bright's Disease, the most dangerous form of kidney trouble.

All these symptoms and conditions are promptly removed under the influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root. It has a world-wide reputation for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

No one need be long without it as it is so easy to get at any drug store at fifty cents or one dollar. You can have a sample bottle of this wonderful discovery, Swamp-Root, and a book telling all about it, both sent you absolutely free by mail. Send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. and kindly mention that you read this liberal offer in The Auburn Courier, Auburn, Ind.

The Paul Jones Lost.

It is now certain that the naptha launch, Paul Jones, was lost in the Gulf of Mexico, and probably all on board perished. It was not lost in the storm as at first supposed, but the naptha tank exploded, as is indicated by the torn condition of wreckage found at sea. The steamer Pansy, sent out to find the Paul Jones, picked up several pieces of the wreck, and one of its small boats badly torn. This is the vessel on which Mayor Taggart's daughter and other friends were taking a pleasure trip. They had started from Louisville, Ky., Dec. 8, and gone down the Ohio, into the Mississipoi, and were sailing along in the Gulf, when the accident occurred. The chances are, the boat was so badly torn, that all went down. Yet there are faint hopes that some may have reached the shore in some remote place where no news can be had of them for some days.

He Fooled The Surgeons.

All doctors told Renic Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on Earth, and the best Salve in the World 25 cents a box. Sold by H. B. McCord, druggist.

Auburn Courier.

AUBURN, INDIANA.

JAMES A. BARNE, - - PUBLISHER.

1899. JANUARY. 1899.

Su	Mo	Tu	We	Th	Fr	Sa
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
8	9	10	11	12	13	14
15	16	17	18	19	20	21
22	23	24	25	26	27	28
29	30	31	•	•	•	•
•	•	•	•	•	•	•

L. Q. 4th. N. M. 11th. F. Q. 18th. F. M. 26th.

HISTORY OF A WEEK.

PEOPLE, PLACES AND THINGS OF THE WORLD.

News of Crimes and Criminals, Accidents, Fires, Etc., from North, South, East and West, Sanwiched with Minor Affairs.

All Hope Abandoned.

New Orleans special: It is almost certain that the launch Paul Jones has been lost, with all on board, somewhere on Breton or Bird Island. A quantity of wreckage has been washed ashore at the mouth of the river which there is little reason to doubt is of the lost vessel.

A telegram from Scranton, Miss., states that Lawrence Jones and Mayor T. J. Taggart of Indianapolis, have given up all hope. They left Scranton for Giant's Pass, where they will board the boat Maud, put at their disposal by the United States Government, and will make a further search of the islands at the mouth of the Mississippi, although they have little or no hope of finding either crew or passengers, consisting of eight, all told, alive.

Eagan's Successor.

A dispatch from Washington says: Whatever may be the outcome of the Eagan court-martial, it may be confidently stated that Eagan's career as Commissary General of the army is ended. His successor, Col. John F. Weston, has already been selected. Orders have been telegraphed him at New York directing him to report for duty at once to the Secretary of War. This means that he is ultimately to take charge of the Commissary General's department. He cannot be nominated to the Senate to succeed Gen. Eagan until the latter has been dismissed or relegated to the retired list.

Esterhazy Will Testify.

A dispatch from Paris confirms the report that safe conduct has been granted to ex-Mayor Esterhazy to testify before the Court of Cassation in the Dreyfus inquiry.

General Mercier, Minister of War at the time of Dreyfus' condemnation, denies all knowledge of Esterhazy's relations with foreign representatives, which Esterhazy declares were maintained in accordance with the orders of his superiors. General Mercier reiterates his declaration that Dreyfus was a traitor, and says that he preserves his esteem for Colonel Henry.

Eight Hours for Miners.

Eight hours work for one day shall be the rule in the coal mines of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois during the next year, beginning April 1, 1899. This was agreed to by the sub-scale committee of operators and miners, who are to dispose of the wage question for next year. This conclusion was arrived at after the members of the committee had receded from their position of demanding a reduction of 10 cents in the rate for mining.

Bill to Reimburse Soldiers.

Representative McCleary has introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to reimburse the officers and men of the army and navy who served in the war between the United States and Spain, for necessary and reasonable expenses incurred while on leave or furlough for medical attendance, nursing and medical supplies necessitated by disabilities incurred through military or naval services in said war.

London Sensation.

London special: The scandal surrounding the disappeaance of Rev. Robert Eyton, canon of Westminster, indicates that practices supposed to have been checked with the conviction of Oscar Wilde, have spread even to England's highest sanctuary. The affair has caused unspeakable alarm and shame in church circles. Eyton is the author of "The True Life" and "The Search for God" and other religious works.

Fatal Railroad Wreck.

The Sunset limited, one of the finest and fastest trains in America, was wrecked near Lacoste Station, twenty-five miles west of San Antonio, Texas. Railroad officials are reticent, but it is reported that the engineer and several others were killed. Twenty passengers were injured.

To Replace the Philadelphia.

Orders have been sent to have the cruiser Newark to start with dispatches for the Pacific Ocean via the Straits of Magellan, to take the place of the Philadelphia at the station, the Philadelphia going to Samoa. The latter vessel is now at Sandiego, Cal., and will start at once for Samoa.

Admiral Schley Honored.

Admiral Schley was presented with a jeweled sword by his brother members of the Roval Arcanum, at Carnegie Music Hall, New York, in the presence of 4,000 persons.

Miners Select Indianapolis.

The national convention of the United Mine Workers of America, in session at Pittsburgh, has selected Indianapolis as the meeting place next year.

Four Lives Lost.

At least four lives were lost by the burning of the steamer Ouachita at Memphis, Tenn. Four bodies have been recovered. Three are thought to be Mr. and Mrs. Keck of Vicksburg, Miss., and Dr. Murphy of Columbus, Ohio.

Shot an Officer.

At Somerville, N. J., three burglars dynamited the Somerville Beef Company's safe. Chief of Police Grow appeared on the scene and they shot and fatally wounded him. The burglars escaped, but got no plunder.

Mormons Pursued by a Mob.

Two Mormon elders, who had been preaching in Clay County, Ky., were taken out of bed and driven by a mob of citizens to a secluded spot in the woods, where they were given a coat of tar and feathers, and ordered to leave the settlement at once. They obeyed the order.

Prisoners Regain Their Liberty.

Four prisoners escaped from the Starke County workhouse at Canton, Ohio. They removed twenty bricks from the wall, making an opening about two feet square. After removing the bricks a sheet was tied to the heating pipes and the prisoners dropped to the ground.

SOLDIER VICTIM OF REVENGE.

Rich Filipino Tries to Afflict Him with a Loathsome Disease.

William Lapeer of the South Dakota volunteers may die a victim of leprosy, the germs of which, it is feared, were injected into him by a rich native of Manila whom he offended while with his regiment in the Philippines. Soon after his arrival in Manila Lapeer met the native in question in a drinking resort. A quarrel between them resulted disastrously for the American. By some trick the Filipino separated young Lapeer from his friends, drugged him and injected blood from a leper into the veins of the Yankee soldier's arm. On learning what had happened Lapeer almost died of shock. He fell into a heavy fever and was sent home. Physicians say that they do not know whether leprosy can be conveyed in this way, but that several months must elapse before anything definite can be known. Lapeer is now utterly prostrated. He is at the home of his father in Union County, S. D.

NEW YORK FINANCES LONDON.

United States Is Loaning Europe Many Millions of Money.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: "Throughout, the country was never as strong financially, as even governors of London banks admit, one stating that as London had financed America heretofore, now for the first time New York is financing Europe. Wheat and cotton still go out largely. Europe is buying because it has needs, and New York is lending to Europe nobody knows how many millions because there is for the present no need to call loans. The receipt of $2,500,000 gold from Australia is announced at San Francisco. Americans are in the humor to invest in their own country, and have a great amount of money to put out without recalling any of their loans to Europe, so that the heaviest transactions ever known on the stock exchange have occurred during the week. Failures for the week have been 318 in the United States, against 349 last year, and 24 in Canada, against 45 last year."

I. C. IS TO QUIT NEW ORLEANS.

Railroad Will Have Its Docks and Wharves Twelve Miles Away.

It has become known that the Illinois Central Railroad Company, through its chief engineer, has asked one of the largest contracting firms operating in the South to make a bid on the cost of moving the Stuyvesant docks, wharves and terminals at New Orleans, including the $1,000,000 elevator, to Avondale, twelve miles up the Mississippi river, and above the city limits. This action is the result of the freeze-out policy of the Orleans levee board and the City Council in refusing the Illinois Central adequate facilities for reaching its present terminals. The report has it that a $5,000,000 terminal will be established at Avondale.

KILL A MINISTER'S SON.

Two Men Assault Him When He Leaves His Father's Church.

Robert Baldwin, aged 26, the son of the Rev. Jarnéy Baldwin, pastor of the Baptist Church at Kitts Hill, Ohio, was shot and killed by Salmon Ferrel on a recent night. Baldwin had trouble with Charles Webb, who had been reprimanded by the Rev. Mr. Baldwin for disturbing a meeting. Webb and Farrel waited at the church door until young Baldwin came out, when they assaulted him and Farrel shot him through the heart. In the excitement Farrel and Webb escaped.

Moral Cleansing of Cuba's Capital.

The police authorities have begun the moral sanitation of Havana. Vans have been provided and the other night, after midnight, they made the rounds of the city, picking up vagrants and homeless persons. Since the time of the reconcentration the parks and porticos have been filled nightly with these unfortunates, few of whom were criminals. Persons picked up in the streets are provided with lodging and food. If they are able to labor they are turned over to the municipal public works and are put to work sweeping the streets. For this they are paid 90 cents a day. Those unable to work, who are the larger class, are provided for at San Isidro and in the hospitals. Jose Miro, a former inspector of police and later a captain of the Spanish guerrillas, has written a letter to the insurgent colonel, Alfredo Arango, in which he gives particulars of police practices. He says that under Spanish officials documents were regularly forged to convict Cubans and that for this purpose a special stamp was made and special paper prepared for forging the documents. He gives the names of the chief of police and inspectors by whose connivance this was done. Among them are Cubans as well as Spaniards.

Big Robbery Scheme Stopped.

Clever detective work and prompt and decisive action on the part of officials of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway nipped in the bud a gigantic wheat steal. Twenty-one cars of wheat, mostly the property of the S. Y. Hyde Elevator Company and the W. W. Cargill Company of La Crosse, Wis., had been stolen from various points on the Southern Minnesota division of the Milwaukee road and diverted from its intended destination, and the gang which engineered the deal had realized $15,000 in drafts and fled. This was done through the substitution of bogus waybills and might have worked successfully had not the man who purported to make the shipments lost nerve. When the drafts were mailed to him by Milwaukee and Minneapolis commission men he failed to call for them. In the meantime the Milwaukee road officials had discovered the fraudulent work and stopped the payment of the drafts. The work was evidently done by some person or persons quite familiar with railroad work. The fraudulent waybills were made out on the regular blanks and had been copied, and there was the peculiar style of penmanship that characterizes railroad office work.

One Cent and a Big Disgust.

Walter Place has served two terms in the New Mexico penitentiary for burglary, but in his long career he never met with just such experience as awaited him recently at Mrs. Little's millinery store in Colorado Springs. He found 1 cent in the money drawer. He was so disgusted that he reported at police headquarters next day and confessed.

Kansas Miners on a Strike.

At Leavenworth, Kan., three hundred miners in the Leavenworth Coal Company's shaft went on a strike. They demand a reduction of the amount of waste deducted, which has been twenty pounds to the 100. The operators refuse to accede to the demand.

British Bark Sinks at Tacoma.

The British bark Andelina, 2,395 tons, of Nova Scotia, sank in twenty-two fathoms of water in front of the St. Paul mill wharf at Tacoma, and the captain, mate and seventeen of the crew were drowned. No one witnessed the accident.

Killed in a Kentucky Brawl.

Charles Williamson, a race horse man and proprietor of a saloon in Louisville, Ky., was shot five times by Ike D. Smith, a gambler. Three bullets passed through his body and he died without regaining consciousness.

Fatal Fire in Cleveland.

While seeking safety from the flames, which were destroying their home in Cleveland, Mrs. Fred W. Tisdel was instantly killed and her husband severely injured. Mr. Tisdel is chief clerk in the auditing department of the Lake Shore Railroad. The couple were sleeping on the second floor and when aroused it was too late for them to get out by way of the stairs. They were forced to make their way to a scaffolding on a new house which was being erected next door. The scaffolding gave way and both were precipitated to the ground. Mrs. Tisdel was instantly killed, and her husband was picked up unconscious and badly bruised. His condition is very serious. The fire was caused by a defective furnace flue.

SHOOTS A SUCCESSFUL RIVAL.

Cleveland Girl Attacks Woman Who Married Her Former Lover.

There was a sensational shooting affair at the Ellington, a fashionable Cleveland apartment house. A stylishly dressed and handsome young woman, said to be Miss Edna Raymond, entered the rooms occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John A. Hanna during the absence of the husband and opened fire on Mrs. Hanna with a revolver. Four shots were fired in rapid succession, only one of which took effect, causing a painful wound. Miss Raymond, having apparently emptied her revolver, then made her escape. Mr. and Mrs. Hanna were married at Christmas. Up to a short time previous Hanna had kept company, it is said, with Miss Raymond. Jealousy undoubtedly led to the shooting.

CHEATS THE GALLOWS.

Pittsburg Wife Murderer Strangles Himself in His Cell.

Michael Rulinski, known as the "Polish dude," who strangled his wife to death and then set fire to the body and house to cover the crime, committed suicide by strangling himself with a bed cord taken from his bed in the county jail at Pittsburg. Rulinski was under sentence of death for the murder of his wife, but the date of execution had not been fixed. Since his conviction he frequently asserted that he would never hang. Previous to his wife's death his baby died under suspicious circumstances, and he was accused of killing it, but the authorities were unable to fasten the crime upon him.

ROBBED OF JEWELS ON A CAR.

Presence of a Police Officer Does Not Deter St. Louis Thieves.

In a crowded St. Louis street car, on board of which was a policeman, three men robbed W. H. Snider, resident manager of the National Fire Insurance Company, of a jewel case containing between $3,000 and $4,000 worth of jewelry. Despite the presence of the policeman the robbers escaped with their booty. Mr. Snider was jostled by three men and the jewel case, containing diamonds and other jewelry belonging to himself and wife, was taken from his pocket. Mr. Snider got a good look at two of the men as they jumped from the car and can identify them.

Nicaragua Plans Boycott.

The Government of Nicaragua, it is alleged, "in resentment of some recent acts of the United States," has arranged to hereafter purchase the supplies it needs for its machine repairing shops, railroads, steamboats and electric light, telephone and telegraph establishments in Europe. A large percentage of these materials has for several years past been purchased through Nicaragua's commercial agent in New York City.

Brooke Names a Cabinet.

Governor General Brooke at Havana has announced the following cabinet appointments: Department of government, Domingo Mendez Capote; department of finance, Pablo Desvernine; department of justice and public instruction, Jose Antonio Gonzales Lanuza; department of agriculture, industry, commerce and public works, Adolfo Saenz Yaenz.

Telephones of the World.

There are 1,288,163 telephones in use in the world, the service covering 1,509,499 miles. The number of instruments in the United States is placed at 772,627, while Germany has only 151,101; Great Britain and Ireland, 69,645; Sweden, 56,500; Canada, 33,500; Switzerland, 28,846; France, 27,736; Norway, 20,678.

Robbers Attempt Murder.

Frederick Milliken, employed at the National stock yards, East St. Louis, was knocked insensible by highwaymen, robbed of money, watch and valuables, and his body dragged across the railroad track in front of the fast-approaching passenger train. He was struck by the engine and hurled into a ditch.

Demand for Philippine Independence.

Agoncillo, the agent of the Filipinos, has filed at the State Department an official memorandum demanding independence and asking recognition of the United States.

Flood at Cleveland.

A dam retaining an immense body of water gave way at Cleveland, causing a flood that resulted in great damage to property, but small loss of life.

Formal Call to Dr. N. D. Hillis.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis of Central Church, Chicago, has been formally called to the pulpit of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn.

Earthquake Shock in Spain.

A strong earthquake shock threw the inhabitants of Santander, Spain, into a panic. Many windows were broken.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago—Cattle, common to prime, $3.00 [illegible] $3.
ing to my opinion, I should say to e animal now being brought to co would weigh in life about 60 to hat he had a neck 30 feet in ch and a tail perhaps 60 feet in 18
His ribs are about 9 feet in pe and the cavity of his body, $5
ungs and entrails out, would sh hall 34 feet in length, 16 feet in wh and, arched over, probably 12 wh height. Such a space, if proper- to nged, would seat at least 40 peo-round steak taken from a ham $3
nimal would have been at least wh in diameter, or more than 35 ye circumference, and would have ry bone in the middle, 12x14 inch- c h no hollow for marrow. A set $3 s in cavalry could easily have wh abreast between his front and mi gs, provided he had not object- to ery time he put his foot down ed more than a square yard of $2 and must have fairly shaken wh
th. The smallness of the head yel animal is a peculiar thing. I to ay that the head of this mighty
r was probably not larger than 73c
llon keg. He must have been No
[illegible] to $2.00.

Milwaukee—Wheat, No. 2 spring, 67c to 69c; corn, No. 3, 33c to 35c; oats, No. 2 white, 28c to 31c; rye, No. 1, 56c to 58c; barley, No. 2, 44c to 53c; pork, mess, $9.50 to $10.00.

Buffalo—Cattle, good shipping steers, $3.00 to $5.75; hogs, common to choice, $3.25 to $4.00; sheep, fair to choice wethers, $3.50 to $4.50; lambs, common to extra, $5.00 to $5.50.

New York—Cattle, $3.00 to $6.00; hogs, $3.00 to $4.25; sheep, $3.00 to $4.75; wheat, No. 2 red, 80c to 82c; corn, No. 2, 43c to 45c; oats, No. 2 white, 35c to 36c; butter, creamery, 15c to 22c; eggs, Western, 20c to 22c.

WILL CENSURE ALL.

ARMY CHIEFS BLAMED BY WAR INVESTIGATORS.

Commission's Report Takes a Rap at Everybody Concerned—Even Rebukes Congress for Failing to Provide Smokeless Powder—Beef Charges.

The New York Herald, in its Washington dispatches, outlines what it declares will be the findings of the commission to investigate the war. It will show that the primary trouble was due to lack of proper military organization and then proceed to distribute this blame upon Secretary Alger, Gens. Miles, Shafter, Brooke and Breckinridge, and upon Congress itself, the censure in the latter case being for its failure to make appropriations for smokeless powder. The Manila campaign alone, apparently, will escape criticism—a fact foreseen from the first.

Secretary Alger will be censured, it is said, for weakness, especially with Gen. Miles, while the commanding general will be blamed for several matters in his conduct "before, during and after the war, for his selection of certain army camps, for telling Secretary Alger he was in the habit of making out his own orders, and for bringing unfounded charges that bad beef was supplied to the troops in Porto Rico." Gen. Shafter, it is said, will be censured on points he admitted in his testimony and Gen. Breckinridge for leaving his department to take part in the Santiago campaign, while Gen. Brooke will be blamed for conditions at Camp Thomas, for lack of inspections and failure to carry out sanitary regulations. The blame, in short, will be pretty evenly distributed along the line.

Beef Charges Unfounded.

Coming down to the beef controversy, the commission will find that Gen. Miles' charges were unfounded, that the thirteen officers whose reports Gen. Miles submitted as showing the beef supplied for the Porto Rico army was unfit for use never served in Porto Rico, and that there was absolutely no criminality in any of the contracts made for supplies for the service.

So far as the Santiago campaign is concerned, the commission will report that Gen. Shafter conducted that movement as efficiently as could have been expected under the circumstances. No fault will be found with Gen. Shafter except as to the points which he in his testimony admitted.

The report will also show that Congress was responsible for the equipment of the soldiers with black powder, as the ordnance department did not get in time the necessary appropriations for smokeless powder. It has been found by the commission that a war has never been operated with such a small loss of life. Only 1 per cent of the army died from illness and in battle. Faults which existed at Santiago also existed in Porto Rico, there being a great deal of illness at that place. The Manila campaign was thoroughly satisfactory.

With respect to Montauk Point, the commission will find that it was the best point that could have been selected for bringing the troops home from Cuba; that it would have been better had the several thousand men and several thousand animals not been sent to that point from the South; but that there was no foundation for many of the complaints which were filed.

STONE THE SPANISH FLAG.

Havana Hotel-Keeper Makes Mistake in Running It Up.

In Havana, a company of the Tenth infantry was called out Sunday evening to quell an outbreak occasioned by a hotel keeper on the Calzada del Monte running up a Spanish flag. A crowd of Cubans gathered and stoned the flag and threatened the proprietor with violence. The officer in command of the soldiers explained to the proprietor that the flag ought to be lowered, because it was likely to produce further disorder. The proprietor, in reply, assured the officer that no offense had been intended, and that, having seen the English and German flags flying, he thought he would be at liberty to raise the flag of Spain. Two members of the company lowered the flag.

At Cienfuegos the Spanish troops, who are thickly quartered in the warehouses and along the wharves, swarm through the city day and night. Their officers crowd the hotels. The soldiers are poorly fed and have had no pay for months. They are quiet enough, but their presence makes impossible a proper cleaning of the town and prevents activity on the part of the American administration.

The plantations of the district are resuming grinding. The public buildings in Cienfuegos are still in possession of the Spaniards, and Gen. Bates and his staff are crowded into inadequate quarters.

FOURTH ON ITS WAY.

Chicago Regiment Begins Its Trip to the Philippines.

Bound for a trip more than half around the world to the east, officers and men of the Fourth United States infantry left Fort Sheridan Sunday morning. With few halts they are to hasten to the Philippines, where service in the tropics will claim them for indefinite months or years. The stops on the long journey of nearly 15,000 miles will be New York, Gibraltar, [illegible]rt Said, Aden, Colombo and Singapore, except one of which are practically [illegible]itish ports. Three days are to be spent [illegible]each halting place, but the troops are [illegible] to be debarked from the transport [illegible]hawk.

[illegible]or seven or eight weeks they will be [illegible]ped up in the ship, sometimes in the [illegible]nace-like heat of the Red Sea, where [illegible]ht brings no relief from the sizzle and [illegible]n tell of boats that have to turn about [illegible]order to get a little breeze for stifling [illegible]ssengers. But the men reck naught of [illegible]se things. The ceremonies of depar- [illegible]e from the fort were not elaborate. [illegible]e regiment went to New York in three [illegible]tions over the Pennsylvania road and [illegible]bered over 1,200 men.

Ma[illegible] is a fir[illegible]
ents an[illegible]
a woma[illegible]
dresses[illegible]
She we[illegible]
markal[illegible]
six lit[illegible]
daughte[illegible]
who wa[illegible]
Boston.[illegible] devoted[illegible]
ever sh[illegible]

HOG-KILLING STATISTICS.

Increase of 26 Per Cent at the Points Reporting.

[illegible]nce Nov. 1, the beginning of the winter packing season, the total number of [illegible] killed at all points reporting was [illegible]0,000, against 4,540,000 a year ago, [illegible]increase of 1,700,000, or nearly 26 per [illegible], as follows:

[illegible]ov. 1 to Jan. 4—	1898-'99.	1897-'98.
[illegible]cago	2,020,000	1,515,000
[illegible]nsas City	700,000	640,000
Omaha	480,000	290,000
St. Louis	435,000	285,000
Indianapolis	283,000	257,000
Milwaukee, Wis.	95,000	339,000
Cudahy, Wis.	166,000	155,000
Cincinnati	193,000	165,000
St. Joseph, Mo.	256,000	92,000
Ottumwa, Iowa	169,200	134,660
Cedar Rapids, Iowa	114,600	96,600
Sioux City, Iowa	98,000	75,000
Cleveland, Ohio	98,000	98,000
Louisville, Ky.	117,000	102,000
St. Paul, Minn.	66,000	66,000
Wichita, Kan.	33,000	31,000
Marshalltown, Iowa	28,700	34,000
Bloomington, Ill.	25,300	13,700
Clinton, Iowa	12,000	.....
Above and all other	5,710,000	4,540,000

WEARY OF WRANGLES.

President Resolved to Stop the Bickerings in the Army.

A Washington correspondent asserts that the President is profoundly displeased with the scandalous wranglings of army officers, which have been so conspicuous in the past few months. While he is most anxious to act as a peacemaker, he will stop these useless bickerings in the army and put an end to the possibilities of further scandal, even if he has to order several more courts martial to accomplish his purpose. The strained relations between the general in command of the army and the War Department proper will not be eased by the punishment of Commissary General Eagan. It is the general belief that Miles has been deliberately seeking trouble.

Considering the directness of the evidence which will support the charges and specifications, it can make little difference to Gen. Eagan who tries him. He will be convicted of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman and conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline. The sentence of the court will be dismissal from the service of the United States, and it will remain with the President to approve or mitigate the finding. It has been the President's desire to censure Gen. Eagan for his extraordinary language, and he would have done so without a court if the precedents would have permitted.

The President Tuesday announced at the cabinet meeting that he had decided to order a court martial to try Commissary General Eagan for the abusive and violent language he used respecting Gen. Miles before the war investigating commission. Prior to the cabinet session the President held a conference with the Secretary of War and Adjutant General Corbin. It was brief, but the action to follow Eagan's utterances was decided and when the cabinet met the President announced he had reached a decision in the matter. He said he had determined there was only one course to adopt and that was to order a court martial convened to try Eagan. The decision met the approval of the members of the cabinet. There was some discussion following the President's announcement, in which the case was threshed over to some extent, though the President himself took little part in the discussion. The details of the action were left to the Secretary of War.

CIVIL WAR RAGES IN SAMOA.

Followers of the Rival Chiefs Engage in Conflict.

Civil war is again raging in Samoa. Advices say that the controversy between the rival candidates for the throne in succession to the late King Malietoa has resulted in armed conflicts. Chief Justice Chambers decided that Malietoa Tanu was elected to the throne. Mataafa and his followers refused to accept this decision and took up arms.

Much property has been destroyed and many persons killed or wounded. The German cruiser Falke and the British cruiser Porpoise were endeavoring to suppress the uprising. Several thousand of Mataafa's followers defeated 2,000 of the followers of Malietoa Tanu, ambushing them and killing and wounding many. The rebels burned 400 houses and destroyed the town of Upolu. They have cut down many fruit trees. No foreigners were injured.

TO STUDY PORTO RICO.

President Will Send Commission to That Colony.

President McKinley is arranging for the appointment of a colonial commission for Porto Rico somewhat similar in scope to that appointed to go to the Philippines. The commission will exercise the functions of an advisory body, and will probably include as ex-officio members Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry, commanding the military department of Porto Rico, and Commander A. S. Snow, in charge of naval affairs there. The commission will advise the President as to the proper method of dealing with Porto Rican questions. Its report will be transmitted to Congress when it is desired to establish a permanent form of government in Porto Rico.

Bandits Raid a Town.

Four bandits rode into the town of Vian, I. T., on the K. & A. V. Railroad, and while three of them stood guard, the fourth broke into Allen Bros.' general store, dynamited the safe and secured $150 and a number of checks. The Vian Trading Company's store was next visited. Here the safe was also blown open and $200 taken. Citizens appeared in the streets, but were driven back by the fire from the bandits' revolvers. The robbers then rode off.

Mob Lynches Negroes.

Two negroes, George Call, alias Toney, and John Shaw, alias Piglit, met death at the hands of a mob in Lynchburg, Tenn. There is no clew to the identity of the lynchers. The negroes were about 18 years old. Ropes were around their necks and it was the intention to hang them, but the negroes showed fight and were shot to death. The negroes were whipped by White Caps a year ago and run out of town, but returned.

Sleeping Girl Awakened!

Eva Roch, the "sleeping girl" of Montreal, who has been in a state of catalepsy for twenty-eight days, has been awakened from her long slumber. The doctors in attendance on the young woman succeeded in bringing her to by sticking red hot needles in her spine.

Leprosy in Kentucky.

Dr. William Current of Paris, Ky., who has returned from a trip through the State, says that near Stringtown, Grant County, he encountered three cases of genuine Asiatic leprosy in a family of five persons. The afflicted ones had not been isolated.

Soldier Sentenced to Death.

Private Buckley of the Second Louisiana regiment at Havana, who was tried by court martial for the murder of a fellow soldier, has been found guilty and sentenced to death.

Told in a Few Lines.

Order is being preserved in Havana by a patrol of the streets by American troops.

Deaths in Santa Clara, Cuba, during the past three years have equaled 80 per cent of the population.

Late news from Samoa is that no king has been elected and that war is probable between rival claimants.

Mr. and Mrs. William Simms of West Louisville, Ky., celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding.

Ten Spanish priests, who fled from the Philippines to escape Aguinaldo's wrath, have arrived in San Francisco.

The work of reducing the military forces of the United States to a peace footing is progressing slowly, but steadily.

It is said that the coming river and harbor bill will provide for more promptness in relieving harbors of wrecks and derelicts.

Prof. J. B. Hatcher of Princeton, N. J., has gone back to Patagonia to continue his search for rare fossils, and to explore the interior of the country.

The Postoffice Department has decided to issue a new set of stamps for Cuba, and the bureau of engraving and printing has been called on for designs.

The supporters and opponents of the peace treaty in the Senate had their first contest over that document on Thursday in executive session. The debate was upon a motion by Senator Berry to consider the resolution of ratification in open session. The discussion continued from a few minutes past 1 o'clock until about 5, when the Senate adjourned for the day, without reaching a vote. There were no set speeches in the usual acceptance of that phrase. It was a running debate, in which Senators Berry, White, Hale, Hoar, Vest and others in opposition to the treaty met Senators Davis, Frye, Teller, Gray and others in advocacy of it. The House passed the diplomatic and consular appropriation bill without amendment. During the general debate two set speeches were made against imperialism by Messrs. Carmack and Gaines of Tennessee. The diplomatic and consular is the sixth of the regular appropriation bills to pass the House. The bill as passed carries $1,705,533. A bill was passed authorizing the Little River Railroad Company to construct a railroad through the Choctaw and Chickasaw Indian reservations.

In the Senate on Friday Mr. McLaurin (Dem.) of South Carolina made a strong appeal in a carefully prepared speech against a policy of expansion by this nation. Mr. Sullivan (Dem.) of Mississippi and Mr. Pasco (Dem.) of Florida discussed the pending Nicaragua canal bill, the former supporting it and the latter opposing it. The Indian appropriation bill was taken up, but its consideration was not concluded before the hour of adjournment. The House entered upon the consideration of the naval personnel bill. The speeches on the bill were filled with glowing allusions to the glories of naval victories in the late war. The bill was supported by Messrs. Foss (Rep.) of Illinois, Dayton (Rep.) of West Virginia, Berry (Dem.) of Kentucky, Driggs (Dem.) of New York and Dinsmore (Dem.) of Arkansas, and was opposed by Messrs. Lowe (Rep.) of New York and Simpson (Pop.) of Kansas.

A state funeral almost majestic in its impressiveness was given the late Representative Nelson Dingley at noon Monday in the House of Representatives. Speaker Reed called the House to order and immediately thereafter the Vice-President and the Senate entered the chamber in a body and were followed by the diplomatic corps, with whom came the members of the Anglo-American commission, of which Mr. Dingley had been a member. Then followed the chief justice and associate justices of the Supreme Court in their somber robes, and they in turn were followed by the President with his cabinet. The services were conducted by the Rev. S. M. Newman of the First Congregational Church of Washington, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Couden, chaplain of the House. As soon as the services were over the House adjourned. The Senate held no session for the transaction of business on Monday.

The House on Tuesday passed the naval personnel bill without division on the final passage, thus accomplishing what the officers of the navy have striven for during more than a decade. By its provisions the line and the engineer corps are welded into an amalgamated line, staff officers are given positive rank, but their command is limited to their own corps, and a system of voluntary and compulsory retirement on three-quarters pay, as of the next higher rank of forty officers a year, is established, which is designed to remove the congestion in the lower rank at forty-five. The bill also practically equalizes their pay with that of army officers. The most important change in the bill as reported was the adoption, after a hard fight, of a substitute for the organization of the marine corps, by which the corps is to consist of 6,000 enlisted men and petty officers, with general officers and staff. This will increase the marine corps by 1,300 men and increase the cost of its maintenance $1,500,000. Several unimportant bills were passed by unanimous consent before the personnel bill was taken up. Almost the entire session of the Senate was devoted to consideration of the pending Nicaragua canal bill. Speeches were made in support of the measure by Mr. Chilton (Tex.) and Mr. Turner (Wash.) and in opposition to it by Mr. Spooner (Wis.). At 3 o'clock consideration of the bill under the fifteen-minute rule was begun and was continued to the close of the session.

The Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce had the right of way in the House on Wednesday and succeeded in passing quite a number of bills of minor importance, most of which authorized the construction of lighthouses, fog signals, etc. Then the bill to grant the Pacific Cable Company a subsidy of $100,000 a year for twenty years for the construction and operation of a cable was called up and a very spirited debate, which consumed the remainder of the day, followed. The opposition was headed by Mr. Corliss (Rep., Mich.), who advocated the construction of a Government cable. No conclusion was reached at the hour of adjournment, and as the special order under which the House was operating expired with the adjournment, and as objection was made to fixing another day for its consideration, it goes over indefinitely. The feature of the session of the Senate was a speech delivered by Mr. Bacon (Dem., Ga.) in support of his resolutions declaring that the United States would not assume sovereignty over the Philippine Islands. Following Mr. Bacon's speech the Nicaragua canal bill was taken up and remained under discussion until 6 o'clock.

Notes of Current Events.

In the United States 1898 was the warmest year on record.

France is reported to be willing at last to sell her Newfoundland shore rights to England.

Several fine steamers have been caught in the ice in the Yukon river, and it is feared that they will be lost.

Gen. Jose Gomez, who has returned to Washington from Havana, says the people of Cuba are beginning to realize that American rule is necessary for the present.

The 101 fire insurance companies doing business in Kentucky, which were indicted last fall by the grand jury for combining to keep up rates, have again been indicted for the same offense.

Secretary Hay has formally disapproved the concession made in July by the Hawaiian Government to the Pacific Cable Company for the exclusive right to lay a cable from the United States to Hawaii and Japan.

Near Arkansas City, Kan., a few days ago, Chief Wauhoo of the Kaws was buried in Indian fashion. His horse was shot and placed on his grave, and over that was erected a new tent, purchased for the occasion.

STATE LAW MAKERS.

In order that some remedial legislation may be accomplished on county and township expenditures, Representative Roots introduced a bill on Thursday which is less extreme in its provisions than the measures framed by the State commission. The bill provides for a purchasing board in each county, composed of township trustees and the county superintendent, whose duty it will be to meet once each year and pass upon all proposed expenses for the term of twelve months. All expenditures not so passed upon are made illegal and uncollectable. All warrants must be signed by the president of the board, and another officer purchasing supplies outside of the authority of the board is subject to removal.

The promised campaign of the equal suffragists of the State took definite shape Friday in the form of resolutions introduced both in the House and the Senate asking for an amendment to the State constitution giving women the right of suffrage. The proposed amendment is to section 2 of article 2 of the organic law. The resolutions provide that there shall be no distinction as to sex in conferring the right to vote. Representative Furness of Porter County introduced a bill which provides that the State shall pay a bounty of 1 cent per pound on all beet sugar produced in the State. A committee representing the non-State colleges began an earnest canvass of the members of the Legislature in the interest of the bill for the reorganization of the State Board of Education. Both houses adjourned to Monday.

The first contest in the House came Monday afternoon over a bill that is designed to enable the executive to deal with the Roby racing people. The bill provides that in cases of repeated violation of the State statutes, places in which the violations occur may be declared a nuisance, and also that injunctions may be secured against them without giving bond. Representative Knotts of Lake County opposed the bill, but was beaten at all points, and it went to engrossment. While the bill is aimed directly at Roby, it is also designed to cover violations of the natural gas laws. Another temperance measure was introduced in a bill declaring that the possession of a Government license to sell liquor shall be prima facie evidence of such sales, and where the person holding it has not taken out local licenses his place may be declared a nuisance and abated as such. Bills for the appointment of a State boiler inspector, a State etymologist and a commission to prepare a general plan for redistricting the State for judicial purposes were introduced.

Albert J. Beveridge, the nominee of the Republican caucus, was elected United States Senator on Tuesday to succeed David Turpie, Democrat, whose term will expire March 4 next. The two branches of the Legislature voted separately. The vote in the Senate was as follows: Albert J. Beveridge, 28; David Turpie, 19; Alonzo G. Burkhart, Populist, 1. The House voted thus: Beveridge, 59; Turpie, 37.

Two thousand persons crowded the hall of the House of Representatives on Wednesday, when the two branches of the Legislature met in joint convention to canvass the vote taken the previous day and formally announce the election of Albert J. Beveridge to be United States Senator. The 36-year-old Senator, looking like a man of not more than 25, was brought in and was welcomed with a demonstration lasting several minutes. He made an extended speech.

Health in the Philippines.

It is unfortunately true that the climate of the Philippines is especially severe in its effect on white women and children. It is very doubtful, in my judgment, if many successive generations of European or American children could be reared there. We must then, I think, necessarily admit that we have here a serious, though not necessarily insurmountable, obstacle to the development of the great resources of this remarkable country.

Malaria and digestive troubles aside, the health of the colony is fairly good, and the danger from epidemic disease is comparatively slight. Smallpox is always present, but seldom spreads rapidly, as a large percentage of the natives have it during childhood, so that there is hardly material for an epidemic. Cholera is infrequent, but when it once starts cannot be controlled. The natives believe that a black dog runs down the street, and the disease breaks out behind him. They declare that it is the will of God, and refuse to take the simplest precautions.

Leprosy occurs, but is not common. There is a great deal of biri-biri in Balabac, and I have seen it in Mindoro. The bubonic plague has, fortunately, never gained a hold in the Philippines.

American Books.

Just so long as reprinted editions of foreign books are cheaper than copyrighted American books, the readers among us will be more familiar with the works of foreign writers than they are with those produced at home. People whose means are limited cannot afford to pay a dollar or a dollar and a half or probably two dollars for a novel even by our best writers when they can get literature of the same

WINTER'S NE'ER SO WEARY.

WINTER'S NE'ER SO WEARY.

The winter's ne'er so weary
But the sweet thought of my dearie
Can make the winter blossom as the spring;
For the thought of her is sweeter
Than a song in sweetest meter,—
For the smile of her has taught my heart to sing!

The winter's ne'er so dreary
But the sweet thought of my dearie
Can make the roses redden o'er the snow;
For the thought of her is filling
All the world, and thrilling—thrilling
The gardens where the fairest roses grow!

O golden bees! bring honey
From the fragrant fields and sunny!
O birds! be not a-weary on the wing
Till earth grows glad to greet her—
Till Love kneels low to meet her,—
For the love of her has taught my heart to sing!

—Frank L. Stanton in Atlanta Constitution.

A LOST LOVER.

"It's too bad!" said Alexia Vane. "Half a dozen pairs of gloves—fifteen dollars at the very least—and all my pocket money gone, and papa as cross as a bear because of Madame Hilaire's bill! I'm sure I don't know what I'm going to do!"

"It serves you right," said Editha, her younger sister. "Papa always said it was an unladylike thing to bet!"

"Pshaw!" said Alexia, disdainfully. "Everyone does it—at the races. And I made sure that Lightning Rod would beat. And I should have had such a delightful outfit of summer gloves, if he only had reached the winning-post first."

"Well," said Editha, with a toss of her frizzes, "I shouldn't pay the bet if I were you. Gentlemen never expect it!"

"He will, though," said Alexia. "And I don't want to make an unfavorable impression, just as he's getting interested. Oh, the gloves must be got, somehow. If you could lend me ten dollars, Editha, just until next week?"

And Editha Vane lent it, unwillingly enough.

"Mind I must have it back again on Tuesday, for my new bonnet," said she.

Alexia Vane was one of those tall, dashing beauties, that startle society like a meteor—a dark-eyed, ebon-tressed girl, with rich, rose-red cheeks, a ripe, scarlet mouth, and a complexion like a calla-lily leaf.

But, in spite of all her attractions, she had reached the age of five and twenty without an eligible offer. Penniless young officers there were in plenty, briefless lawyers, and interesting artists, but Alexia Vane had not the slightest idea of becoming a poor man's wife.

"I'll marry money, or I won't marry at all," said she, with a meaning compression of her cherry lips.

And Major Creswell had money, as well as good looks and engaging manners, and Major Creswell had driven her to the Jerome Park races with his own four-in-hand, and they had bet together on the respective prowess of Corsair and Lightning Rod, and Alexia had lost half a dozen pairs of gloves because the latter steed turned up third instead of first best.

And under the circumstances she felt that it was best promptly to meet her engagements.

"Gloves, if you please!" said Miss Vane to the dove-eyed, pale-faced shop-girl at Soames & Hopgood's. "Number eight-and-a-half, gentleman's size."

And Miss Vane thought, with a sort of languid interest, how very pretty the dove-eyed girl was, and wondered why she had no more color in her cheeks, and if the wavy ripple in her hair was the result of art, or a natural gift.

'How much are they?" said Miss Vane, carelessly turning over the various packages that Alice Lee laid out on the counter for her inspection. "Three dollars a pair? Oh, dear me, that's an absurd amount to ask! Have you nothing for a less price?'

Alice did not know; she would ask Mr. Hopgood.

As she turned away, one of the packages, piled carelessly on top of the others, slipped, and fell directly into Miss Vane's lap.

Half a dozen pairs, evening colors, just the right size, exactly what Alexia wanted.

She saw them fall, and did not put them back; on the contrary, she slipper them hurriedly into the deep pocket of her mantel.

"Soames & Hopgood will overcharge me enough on the next silk dress I buy here to make it up," thought Alexia. "And my stock of pocket-money is so awfully short just now! I declare it was quite providential, that package falling right into my pocket, as it were!"

She rose hurriedly, with a deep color on her cheek.

"Never mind now!" called she to Alice Lee. "I don't care about getting them to-day. I'll call in some other time."

She swept out of the store, with the half-dozen pairs of gloves in her pockets, while Alice Lee stood struck dumb with amazement and dismay; for, in the mirrored panel opposite, she had seen the whole transaction.

Should she call out to the richly dressed beauty to stop? Should she dare to denounce the richly dressed young lady as a thief? Or should she summon one of the partners of the firm, and ask his advice? But while she troubled over the possibilities in her mind, Miss Vane had vanished.

"Mr. Hopgood," said Alice hurriedly, to a stout, short, bullet-headed man, who was walking up and down the store, "there is a package of these gloves missing."

"Missing?" barked out Mr. Hiram Hopgood, stopping short, and beginning to count up the packages—"missing? And don't you know Miss Lee that you are responsible for them?"

"Yes, sir," faltered Alice; "but—but Miss Vane took them. A package slipped down, and she put it in her pocket."

"Nonsense!" said Mr. Hopgood, tartly. "Miss Vane, one of our best charge-customers! Why, you must be crazy, Miss Lee!"

"I saw it myself, in yonder mirror," protested Alice, in a faint voice.

"And why didn't you speak," demanded Mr. Hopgood contemptuously. "A likely story that! You must take me for a fool, Miss Lee. Now, look here—if this package of gloves don't turn up, somewhere and somehow, between now and Saturday night, you pay its value, or you leave the establishment. That's the rule of the store. Miss Lee—the rule of the store! And whatever you do don't let me hear any more nonsense about Miss Vane. I wouldn't have such a thing get to her ears for the world!"

II.

Major Clarence Creswell was at the "Labor Bureau," engaging a new coachman. Lawrence O'Grady, the last incumbent, was growing altogether too fond of the flowing bowl, and the major found it imperatively necessary to make a change. He was standing waiting for a candidate to be sent in, when a slight, soft-voiced girl entered the room.

"Alice!" he cried out. "Surely it is Miss Lee?'

"Major Creswell!"

For Alice Lee was the daughter of the old housekeeper at Creswell Manor, and it was old Madam Creswell herself who had obtained her the position at Soames & Hopgood's.

"Alice," he said, with the gentle, authoritative tones of an elder brother, "how is it that you are in a place like this?"

"I am looking for a situation," she answered, in an almost inaudible tone.

"I thought you were well placed at Soames's dry goods house?"

"I—I have lost the place!"

He took her hand gently.

"Tell me how, Alice," he said.

And she told him all.

"It was no fault of mine," said she. "I saw the lady slip it into her pocket—a rich, elegantly dressed lady, whom one would never suspect of such a thing."

Major Creswell's dark brows met.

'Do you know who it was?' said he.

"Oh, perfectly well," said Alice. "It was Miss Alexia Vane—one of our regular customers."

Major Creswell started.

"Child, are you certain?" he asked.

"I saw her myself," Alice replied.

Major Creswell thought of the six pairs of elegant gloves which had come to him the week before, bearing Messrs. Soames & Hopgood's stamp, with Miss Vane's perfumed card attached.

"It is very strange," muttered he, between his set teeth. "It is well-nigh impossible; and yet, Alice, child, look here. I will pay your fare to Creswell Manor. Go to my mother. She will keep you there as maid, or companion, or something, until you suit yourself better. This intelligence office is no place for you."

And Alice Lee's timid look of gratitude showed how well-timed was the generous offer.

Major Creswelll went straight to Soames & Hopgood's establishment.

"What day did Miss Vane buy half a dozen pairs of gloves here?" asked he.

The polite clerk turned to his books, and, after a brief search, responded, courteously:

"Miss Vane has bought no kid gloves here within the month," said he. "Miss Vane generally patronizes us, but it so happens that she has not made any purchases lately in the glove line."

"But you have missed a package lately," said the major.

"Quite true," answered the clerk, with some surprise. "And one of the shop-girls—Miss Lee—has been discharged on suspicion."

Major Creswell brought out the half-dozen pairs of gloves, still wrapped in silver paper.

"Is this the package?" he inquired.

Mr. Hopgood was summoned and at once pronounced that it was the very same.

"Might I ask—"

"No!"

Major Creswell turned abruptly away. He wished to ask or answer no more questions. He had succeeded in discovering that Alexia Vane was mean, false and treacherous.

"It's very strange that Major Creswell has never called since I sent him those gloves," said Miss Vane. "Three weeks ago yesterday!"

"Didn't you know?" said old Judge Vane, lifting his blue spectacles above the edge of his newspaper. "He has gone to Paris, and he's going up the Nile with a party of English friends afterward."

"And never bade us good-bye!"

"It seems not."

Alexia's heart sank within her.

"It's very strange," said she.

But it was not so strange, after all, if only Miss Vance knew everything.—

When the Alarms Sounded.

This is the story; is sounds apocryphal but the explanation is delightful: A professor delivered a lecture to his first class in the morning on the evils of oversleeping and coming in late into the recitation room. He advised them all to get alarm clocks, one of the most useful inventions ever made, he said. The next day the class assembled promptly, each man with an alarm clock in his pocket, and the lot so arranged that one would go off every minute during the hour. The professor beamed [illegible] one minute, till [illegible] fight over it for fear [illegible] off. He [illegible] include ex-rebels. It was other [illegible] learned that the author of the well, an W. Kern, did not intend to before rebels, and quiet was restored. fessor was [illegible] Dayton Herald wants the missec[illegible]onstitution changed to provide plain[illegible]very member of the general as[illegible]brouly who introduces or votes for a beca[illegible]which is afterwards declared unmos[illegible]titutional shall be fined $300 for cial[illegible] first offense and imprisoned for the [illegible]nd. That is in the line of reform, [illegible] we mention in the hope that the me[illegible]ana law-takers will accept the Le[illegible]o suggestion.

TRIBAL CHART OF THE PHILIPPINES.

The area of the Philippines, 114,360 square miles, is equal to New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, with a total population less than that of New York—9,500,000. The survey of the islands, made in 1882, shows fifty-one different native tribes, speaking over thirty languages. These are divided into the aboriginal population, mixed with Malays; the pure agricultural Malays, and the piratical Malays. The blank spaces in the map are the regions still occupied by the various aboriginal and semi-aboriginal tribes. In Central Mindanao these tribes are still naked heathen. In North Luzon, with the Aroyoas and Igorrotes, these tribes have passed out of the savage state. The various tribes occupying the bare places, from thirty to forty in number, are all individually small. The Tagales in South Luzon, the Vicols on the east, and the Visayas in the central and southern islands are made up of peaceful and partially Christianized Malays. The piratical Malays in the Sooloo archipelago and the edges of the adjacent islands, are a savage and bloodthirsty race, carrying fire, sword and rapine to all the surrounding islands.

A MONSTER FOSSIL.

Discovery in Wyoming of Dinosaur that Was 130 Feet Long.

Wyoming is writing a strange chapter in the world's geological history. The big sagebrush Commonwealth is scoring a record-breaker in fossil formations by unearthing the petrified bones of the most colossal animal ever taken from the earth's strata. This stone monster was a dweller in the Jurassic age—a dinosaur, measuring nearly 130 feet in length and being perhaps 35 feet in height at the hips and 25 feet at the shoulders—an animal so terrible in size that its petrified skeleton alone is believed to weigh more than 40,000 pounds.

Assistant Professor W. H. Reed, of the department of geology in Wyoming State University, is its discoverer. He made the great find while prospecting for fossils ninety miles northwest of Laramie last August; and since that time the geological department of the university has been secretly at work in its restoration. So vast is the skeleton of the animal that its smallest bone yet found is more than a man can lift, and, with men in the field constantly at work, it is believed that many months may be required before the monster can be placed on the campus at Laramie.

A DINOSAUR OF ANCIENT TIMES.

Conjecturing as to the probable appearance in life of the creature, Prof. Reed says:

"An accurate idea of a living dinosaur is practically out of the question. According to my opinion, I should say that the animal now being brought to light would weigh in life about 60 tons, that he had a neck 30 feet in length, and a tail perhaps 60 feet in length. His ribs are about 9 feet in length, and the cavity of his body, with lungs and entrails out, would make a hall 34 feet in length, 16 feet in width, and, arched over, probably 12 feet in height. Such a space, if properly arranged, would seat at least 40 people. A round steak taken from a ham of the animal would have been at least 12 feet in diameter, or more than 35 feet in circumference, and would have a solid bone in the middle, 12x14 inches, with no hollow for marrow. A set of fours in cavalry could easily have ridden abreast between his front and hind legs, provided he had not objected. Every time he put his foot down it covered more than a square yard of ground, and must have fairly shaken the earth. The smallness of the head of this animal is a peculiar thing. I should say that the head of this mighty dinosaur was probably not larger than [illegible]ven-gallon keg. He must have been [illegible]ery sluggish creature, as the brain well [illegible]ty would certainly not warrant the [illegible]f that his brain weighed to exceed as we [illegible] or five pounds."

comed

Americ Knew His Nickname.

the Man[illegible]s said of the late Prof. Lincoln, tion and[illegible]wn University, that nothing Jan. 27, [illegible] greater impression on those interest[illegible] new him than his tremendous the myst[illegible]ness. One of his former pupils under th[illegible]t no other professor of his day [illegible]so little in the class-room, and clever c[illegible] secured such perfect order and Seats wh[illegible] presence the most volatile be[illegible]emporarily sedate. Work began [illegible] first moment of the recitation hour, and lasted to the closing one. But nobody fancied that Prof. Lincoln, with all his gravity, was devoid of a sense of humor.

"M. Tull Cicero," began a student to translate one day.

"M. Tull! M. Tull!" exclaimed the professor. "Why not give the gentleman the whole of his name?" And without moving a muscle of his face, he demanded, "How should I like to be called Linc.?"

This was a little too much for even the hushed atmosphere of the Latin room, and brought down the house. Nine out of ten of the boys never called him anything else but Linc., and he knew it, too, and no doubt did not dislike it, for it was a term of positive endearment.

But for the student who habitually neglected his work Prof. Lincoln had no mercy; such a student might expect to be metaphorically annihilated by a few clearly cut sentences.—Youth's Companion.

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Personality of the Wife of the New Governor of New York.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt will not consent to be interviewed, neither will she give her photograph to the newspapers for publication. She is not haughty, nor excessively modest, but she dislikes this form of publicity, and Mrs. Roosevelt is very much like her husband in one respect—firm when her mind is made up. However, the snap shot fiend has caught her unawares, and the newspapers are publishing the result. It does not do her justice, though the likeness is almost perfect. It is just how Mrs. Rosevelt looks on the street in winter dress.

The mistress of the executive mansion at Albany was a Miss Carow when she married Roosevelt ten years ago. She was an intimate friend of the first Mrs. Roosevelt. She is in the early 30s, of medium height, with fair complexion, dark eyes and hair, and possesses a remarkable charm of manner. The Governor has no more fervent champion than his accomplished wife, who is a firm believer in her husband's talents and unlimited ability. In no sense a woman of fashion, Mrs. Roosevelt dresses simply, always in perfect taste. She wears a few jewels, and these remarkably handsome ones. There are six little Roosevelts—the eldest a daughter by Mr. Roosevelt's first wife, who was formerly Miss Alice Lee, of Boston. Mrs. Roosevelt's existence is devoted to husband and children. Whatever she believes is required of a Governor's wife she will do and do well.

MRS. THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Music Everywhere.

One of the most original music rooms in the country is in Yonkers, New York. The square hall is open to the roof; behind the staircase is the keyboard of an organ, the pipes of which are concealed in nooks all over the house, so that when the organ is played there is indeed music in the air.

Electricity the Cheapest.

It is estimated that to run street cars by horse power costs 19 cents a mile; by cable, 16 cents, and by electricity but 10 cents. Sixty per cent of the whole is the cost of driver and conductor.

A SLEEPLESS MAGNATE.

PECULIAR MALADY OF A FAMOUS WISCONSIN MILLIONAIRE.

Elaborate Daily Routine Which Fostered Edward Bain's Insomnia—Never Occupied or Wooed Sleep in a Reclining Position.

For fifteen years Edward Bain, the millionaire wagon manufacturer of Kenosha, Wis., who died recently at Pasadena, Cal., never occupied a bed or wooed sleep by assuming a reclining posture. Sitting bolt upright in a high-backed arm chair, or lying back in a chair which tilted at a slight angle, he let his head fall upon his breast and dozed away for the few minutes of half slumber which it seemed his body was generally content with having.

Sometimes he did not sleep more than thirty minutes in the course of a night, dividing this into snatches of five, seven or ten minutes, and rising in the frequent intervals to take long walks about Kenosha. There was, however, nights when he secured nearly the average quota of sleep, possibly an hour at a time, rising at the end of that time for relaxation before returning to the laborious endeavor to entice forgetfulness.

Four times a millionaire, by the estimate of his friends, he did not use his coffers to help him in the contest he waged against the hour-glass. He did not seek variety; instead he assigned to every part of the day a particular routine, a schedule which he never broke. It was this peculiarity of method, the result of a merciless self-discipline, that brought on in the first instance, says his physician, Dr. G. H. Ripley, the malady which was destined to be his constant companion. By method, also, he in all probability fostered the disease. Always a nervous man, he found after sixty years of hard labor that he could not sleep. Previous to that time he had never tried to sleep.

Then suddenly he found himself a man of leisure. The Bain Wagon Company became in 1882 a corporation and he its president. As Edward Bain, the proprietor, there had been never-ending employment for him; as Edward Bain, President, he had nothing to do but attend an occasional meeting of the Board of Directors and draw his dividends.

Dr. Ripley asserts that insomnia was not the result of any discernible physical ill. The mechanism of the man's brain appears simply to have undergone a subtle change that made it an example of continuous motion.

Mr. Bain constituted himself his own doctor, and seems to have reasoned that system might again restore him to a normal state. He did not care to return to work, but he set about elaborating a daily time card. For six months of the year, the period he spent at Kenosha, there was no shifting of the programme for any cause whatever.

Awaking from his nap with the appearance of the first light in the east, he was hurried by his attendant to a bath, then rubbed vigorously, and dressed in fresh garments. In matters of attire he was scrupulous to the last detail. After a light breakfast he walked from the house a short distance to a horse block, where his buggy awaited him.

On the outskirts of Kenosha, Mr. Bain owned large tracts of land, fenced into farms, and for the most part cultivated. The gates opening from one field to another were of the sort a man in a carriage or wagon can open without alighting. For nearly four hours Mr. Bain drove from farm to farm, looking at every object, but never speaking to his tenants.

At 10 o'clock every morning he was set down on the platform at the Chicago and Northwestern depot. An employee took the rig home and Mr. Bain and the attendant came into Chicago. From 11.30 o'clock, the time of the train's arrival at the Wells street station, until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, he was on board a street car. He rode for one hour and forty-five minutes in one direction, timing himself, and then returning by the same route to the depot to step upon the train which bore him back to Kenosha.

During the street car rides, Mr. Bain sat always on the right side of the car. At the half-way point he secured his lunch, a glass of some mild beverage and a sandwich. When he reached Lenosha at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon the buggy was awaiting him at the platform. He climbed into it and made the same round of the farms he had made in the morning. He took dinner with his family in the evening and after the meal came down town, going either to the Grant House or to one of the saloons. He did not drink, but took a seat and talked with his friends and neighbors.

Water Cress in Germany.

An interesting translation of an article on water cress from the German "Practical Gardener" by Mrs. Wilhelmine Seliger, appears in the Hartford "Daily Times." Erfurt is not only famous for seed growing the world over, but has a territory in which market gardening is permanent. It is known as the "Dreinbrunnen" districts. Deep ditches or canals are carried over the territory through which cool water flows—and the narrow beds between the ditches are where the vegetables grow. The streams grow the water cresses. Fifty thousand bunches have been sold from this one tract in one season, bringing in $2,600 of our money—a little fortune in Germany. The water cress busisness was started in 1665 by one Hans Hartzau, who rented the ground for a small sum. Two brothers, named Matthew and Simon Engelhardt, took up the start made, and in 1687 ran the net-work of ditches over the land.

Old plants produce too hot and toothless an article, as all know who have had water cress in an American restaurant. In these Erfurt streams, the plants are torn out twice a year, and new plantations made from the young tips. The bottom of the shallow streams are heavily manured, the tips planted, and the plants kept down by boards until the roots have taken hold. Of course, provision for keeping down the boards has to be made. This boarding process is one of the essentials of culture. The crisp, juicy product would not be secured without it. It bears the same relation to good water cress as blanching does to good celery. With the tough, peppery stuff on American tables, it is no wonder water cress is not popular.—Meehan's Monthly.

A MAID AND A LOCOMOTIVE.

Investigated, and the Train Had to Back Up for the Lost Engineer.

It comes in the letter of a Detroit girl to her family. She is engaged in making a stage career, and tells this among the variegated experiences encountered in traveling about the country:

"I had grown tired of sitting among the sleepy people in our car, and when we stopped at a little way-station I persuaded the engineer to let me ride on the locomotive. The monster rocked like a cradle, for it was a cheap branch road, running up into the wilds of North Dakota, but I soon became accustomed to the pitching and tossing. When the big engineer laughingly told me to 'stoke up' I sprang down, threw open the furnace door and obeyed orders. It was great sport, and I kept stoking, getting black enough for a pickaninny act and ruining a splendid pair of kids. At the next station we stopped for dinner, and I had behaved so well that the engineer said I might ride ten miles further with him. As I only wanted a cup of coffee, I was soon back in the cab.

"Desiring to improve my mind I examined the mechanism of the thing, and, wishing to know the use of a certain lever I gave it a pull just as I had seen the engineer do. Gracious! There was an awful puffing, and wheezing and snorting, and by the time I could gather my wits, we were going across the prairie lickety split. I didn't know what to do, but the one order to me had been to stoke up, and stoke up I did, frantically and with heroic strength.

"Suddenly I was seized from behind and thrown right into the coal bin, and the conductor who had crawled in over the tender without warning me, talked horribly. While we were backing up to get the engineer and fireman I told that conductor what I thought of him, and he apologized. I have also written to the superintendent of the road formally demanding a new pair of gloves and if they are not forthcoming I'm going to make trouble.

How Sound Is Carried.

From a high ridge in Berkshire there is occasionally to be heard the sound of the firing of guns at Aldershot, thirty miles to the eastward. These guns are chiefly noticed in the summer time, when there is very rarely an east wind to help the sound. Occasionally the reports are mistaken for distant thunder, and thus cause alarm at a time when hay harvest is in progress. There is, however, a saying in the district that the "guns are worse than thunder," and this because they forecast, not a passing or local storm, but rather the approach of generally unsettled weather. It is easy to prove that it is a continuity of a uniform moisture-laden air stretching across that part of the country that is the cause of the phenomenon. The testimony of seamen and other trained observers goes to show that homogeneous moist air or mist is the readiest vehicle of sound; that dry air seldom or never conveys sound so readily, while an atmosphere of varying density renders all sounds capricious.

From a sheltered, quiet lawn the Aldershot guns had not been noted all through the late summer until far on in one afternoon in the middle of August, when their sound rolled out with great distinctness, the weather, to all appearance, remaining unchanged and the barometer standing firm and high. In the night, however, thunder was heard for some two hours, the first time for many weeks, and in the morning the guns were heard again more distinctly than before. In this case sound had been the clearest, and indeed the only telltale of a humid layer of the atmosphere brooding over the country side.—Contemporary Review.

Captured a Wild Man.

In a forest of Galicia, near the town of Bialak, Austria, the peasants have just captured a wild man who for years has been the terror of the district. Travelers in numerous instances had been attacked by him, and he was accustomed to plunder the cottages of the peasantry for food. By those who to their sorrow had seen the man he was described as a monster, unkempt, innocent of clothing and covered with hair from head to foot. Finally a hunting party was organized and the wild man was captured after a desperate resistance. His appearance quite bore out the worst of the descriptions. After he had been washed, shaved and clothed, he was identified, to the surprise of his captors, as John Herman, formerly secretary to the district council in Wodnian, Austria. Several years ago Herman belonged to the fashionable circle in Wodnian and went an exceedingly rapid gait. He embezzled quite a sum of money, fled to escape pursuit, and could not be traced. He seems to have taken refuge in the forest, which he dared not leave, and it was the life he was forced to lead there that transformed him from a sybarite into a savage.—Chicago Record.

Taxes on Hearths and Windows.

Among the most curious of the taxes which have from time to time been imposed are those upon chimneys and upon windows. The former tax was first enforced in 1662, and was at the rate of two shillings upon every hearth or chimney. This was an obnoxious tax, and William III, immediately on his accession to the throne obtained some popularity by sending a message to Parliament desiring that the imposition should be taken off, (March 1, 1689,) and his Majesty's faithful Commons complied with their sovereign's request. The window tax, of which our fathers and grandfathers still talk, was not repealed until 1851.—The Cornhill.

Prussia has nearly 400 orphan asylums, with 20,000 inmates.

RICHES OF THE NORTH.

Newly Found Ore Fields in Sweden Prove Valuable.

There may be a future for Canada's northland that we little dream of now. The close of the century discloses for the first time in the world's history a practical purpose to develop the resources of the arctic circle. The discovery of gold in the Klondike has sent a flood of immigrants into a territory which was supposed to be almost uninhabitable.

And now scientists of Great Britain are making a careful investigation of enormous deposits of iron and ore some distance from Stockholm, Sweden, within the area included in the arctic circle. These new ore fields are apparently limitless in extent and of the greatest possible value to the iron industry of Great Britain, which is rapidly finding itself unable to compete with the cheap products of American ore. These Swedish deposits are said to be among the most valuable ever discovered on either continent.

Following the discovery of gold in Alaska, this may be taken as an indication that the mineral wealth of the arctic regions may ultimately lead to the establishment of a large population in those parts of the world nearest the north pole, which have hitherto been little explored because of their inhospitable climate.

An ingenious philosopher has outlined the theory that the precious metals of the world will be found in greatest abundance in the arctic regions, because when the world was a molten mass revolving on its axis the tendency of all metals was naturally toward the axis, or the poles, and that when the plastic mass solidified the gold and silver were concentrated near the poles. Should this theory be confirmed, the finest deposits of precious metals will be found the further we get to the north and south, and arctic explorers will have something else to seek in future besides glory. Nature evidently intended to lock up its treasures in an inaccessible storehouse. But in these days man aspires to be the master of nature herself.—Montreal Herald.

A MAINE MEMORIAL.

The New Chapel at Annapolis Will Commemorate the Havana Tragedy.

The destruction of the battleship Maine and the death of so many of her brave crew will be fittingly commemorated at Annapolis. Among the new buildings to be erected on the academy grounds in the near future is a chapel.

THE MAINE MEMORIAL.

This building will be dedicated to the murdered seamen who lost their lives in Havana harbor, and will be a lasting memorial to the victims of Spanish inhumanity and treachery.

NAPOLEON AT SCHOOL.

Bribed to Learn French by the Present of a Small Cannon.

It is related that when the youthful Napoleon was sent to college he had to be bribed to learn French by the present of a small cannon.

The first few months at school are certainly not the least unhappy of a great life. Papa Charles leaves his sons at Autun—the preparatory school for Brienne—two little waifs in a hostile world. All the other boys are French—enemies and conquerors—and these two, Corsicans and vanquished.

"What's your name?" says a little Frenchman to one of them, and according to that time-honored formula of schoolboys.

"Nabullone de Bonaparte," he replies, in his Ajaccian.

And there is a roar of laughter. They laugh at everything from the first—at his accent, his country, his Paoli, his poverty. One does not like to think of the passion of rage, scorn and hatred that surges into the childish heart. Little Joseph is a great deal more equable, and soon takes the teasing pretty well for what it is worth. But Napoleon can't. He remembers now with a torment of regrets the place where he was happy—Mammucia, easy-going Papa, Mamma Letizia. He walks about the playground alone—angry, surly, wretched. He begins to learn French "with frenzy." To laugh at him—no one shall laugh at him. "You Corsicans are des laches!" cries some little demon of a schoolfellow. The boy is white with passion, with his eyes blazing. "It is you French who are des laches, with your twenty to one," says he. And he fisticuffs the little Gaul in a fury.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Charlemagne's Love of Learning.

More than to any other monarch we owe to Charlemange (768-814) the fact that the precious literary inheritance of Greece and Rome was not lost. Himself imperfectly educated, he valued education in others and furthered it with all his might. The impulse he gave to classical studies resulted in some of the best manuscripts; in his reign, too, the clear "minuscule" of the Irish scribes was substituted for the uncouth Langobardic characters. He also paid special attention to the careful editing of the prayer books. His establishment of an academy in his palace is well known; what is not so well known is the fact that this followed by schools under his patronage at Wurzburg, Fulda, Utrecht, Tours, and elsewhere. He also began to compose a grammar of his native speech.

